LOCAL ITEMS.

JOHN BELL and Warren C. Kain came in this morning from New Orleans.

REV. C. G. ANDREWS left for a visit to Louisville by last night's train.

MRS. S. E. LACEY, of Mounds, passed through the city this morning en route home.

GEN. W. F. FITZGERALD came in from Jackson on the accommodation train.

MR. HENRY EHRMAN came in this morning from Cooper's Well, where he spent several days.

MRS. JOHN WALSH, who has been quite sick for some days, is, we are glad to learn, improving.

HON. J. B. YELLOWLY, of Madison county, is in the city, and registered at the Pacific House.

FIFTY men are wanted on the Government work at Wilson's Point. Laborers will be furnished free transportation by the steamer Issaquena.

MR. GEO. REEVES, the clever young gentleman with Geo. S. Irving, will be home to-night, having stopped off at Clinton on his way from Louisville.

MR. D. J. O'REEZ, of the enterprising firm of Switzer, Newwitter & Co., arrived home this morning from New York, where he has been on a business trip.

We leave free passages by this afternoon's train that Mr. Maurice Bloom will be pleased to see his friends at the OYSTERS! OYSTERS! OYSTERS!

some time past, left by rail last night for New York.

MR. LEE RICHARDSON and wife returned home this morning from a Northern trip. While absent Mr. Richardson ordered a large stock of goods in his line.

MR. J. B. CLARKE, accompanied by Miss Emma Clarke, arrived home by this morning's train. Miss Clarke has been on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Williams.

MR. W. P. RICHARDSON was among the passengers leaving by last night's train, en route to Allegheny Springs, Va., where his family is spending the Summer.

MISS MINERVA WITHERSPOON, one of the reigning belles of Yazoo City, arrived last night by the E. C. Carroll and will spend several weeks with Miss Clara Buckingham of this city.

M. FITZGERALD has been arrested on a charge of unlawful retailing, in selling liquor on Sunday, and will have a hearing before Squire L. M. Lowenberg at 2 o'clock to-day. The case will be tried by a jury.

MR. JOHN BELL, purchasing agent of the P. Line of steamers, commences the repairs that are to be made on the steamer City of Yazoo to-day. The work will be done by Mr. Harry Rook, of this city.

THE price of cotton seed has taken a tumble. The New Orleans Cotton Seed Association now pay $8 per ton for seed delivered on the bank of the river and $11 per ton delivered in New Orleans. So says the Honorable Warren C. Kain.

THE trains over the L., N. O. & T. R. R. between here and Port Gibson, will leave Vicksburg at 3 p.m. and Port Gibson at 7:15 a.m. About one hour and a half will be consumed in making the trip between the two cities. This schedule goes into effect Monday morning, when the first train will leave Port Gibson for Vicksburg.

CAPT. COWAN, has been drilling squads of the Vicksburg Rifles every day and night for several weeks, in order to get the rust off of the men, that has accumulated during the short period of theire inaction. The full company will meet at the armory Monday night for drill, after which regular drill nights will be decided on.

LEVEE STREET presents a very different appearance to-day to what it did before the L., N. O. & T. railroad took hold of it. The large gang of men employed have graded down the east side of the street to the level given by the engineer employed by the city for the purpose, and will level it off this evening. It is our opinion that Levee street will be improved by the advent of the new road.

"NEW lamps for old ones" was the proposition of the old magician in the story of Alladdin. There is a man in our town who proposes to enable the people to get new goods for old ones; he will sell the old goods at auction, poor people will get the benefit of great bargains; the merchants will sell new articles, John McRae will do a rushing business, and the town will be benefited generally.

NOW IS THE TIME!

Send your Second-hand Furniture, Stoves, Carpets, Window Shades, Damaged Dry Goods, Iron Safes, and everything else you want to sell, to J. R. McRAE. I can sell them for you; then go and buy new ones. au31

The First Train.

The first freight and passenger train over the L., N. O. & T. R. R., between Vicksburg and Port Gibson, will leave the foot of Depot street next Monday at 3:00 p.m.; returning leave Port Gibson at about 7 a.m., arriving here about 9 o'clock. The regular schedule has not been fixed yet, but will be arranged today. The ticket-office of the road will be located at the Prentiss house for the present.

For Eagle Bend.

The steamer Tributary will leave from the Lower Landing, Saturday, Sept. 1st, at 10 o'clock a.m. au31-1t J. L. PLUMMER, Master.

The Kleinston Road.

As mentioned in the POST some time since, several gentlemen representing the various interests of the city, were discussing the building of a gravel road to the lower landing. At a meeting of the gentlemen interested, held yesterday, it was decided to commence work immediately, and as soon as the road and streets are determined on, work will be commenced and the road finished as soon as possible. The work will be done by private subscription. The Citizens Wharf-boat, Elevator Company, Planter's Compress, J. J. Power's Oil Mill, P. Line and others agreeing to pay the cost. As there is no doubt of the landing remaining at Kleinston this Winter, at least, we are glad to know that the troubles of last winter, in the way of roads that are impassable during wet weather, will be obviated.

VICKSBURG'S FUTURE.

OPENING OF THE BUSINESS SEASON.

What has been Accomplished—Increased Business—Our Natural Advantages—Hopeful Outlook.

We are on the eve of a most prosperous year, and if signs foretell anything they indicate the future rapid growth of our city. Every class of industry has been actively at work the past year, and a glance at the many improvements and increasing business manifests the onward course of Vicksburg. All that is necessary to push us forward and develop our natural advantages, is the unanimity of our people and an earnest determination in all classes to work eagerly and effectively for the progress of our city. Let us put politics and dissensions in the rear, and encourage and promote every and all enterprises tending to develop our city. Let us shake off our lethargic disposition and old fogy ideas and stop our grumblings, and look on the bright side of the picture.

We have the most central point of the cotton belt, and best located city in the South, and we are now getting the facilities to develop our undoubted natural resources. Our railroad and water facilities are abundant and plentiful. We have the Vicksburg & Meridian Railroad traversing our eastern country; the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad opening up the rich lands of Louisiana, and we will soon have the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad developing the Deer Creek country, the finest and richest land in the South. We have the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Sunflower river and Bends packets bringing us the rich products of the country tributary, and replenishing those sections with merchandise from our city. We have a large and fine manufacturing interest in our midst, and the future bids fair to invite others. We have two of the finest cotton compresses in the South to handle our cotton and to offer superior inducements in that line. Our two banks, the Mississippi Valley and the Vicksburg, are liberal and generous in supplying the wants of our business men. We have a large number of energetic and reliable cotton factors and buyers, and it is undoubted fact that they handle the staple to better advantage and secure better prices for the planter than any market in the South. Our Cotton Exchange, with its efficient officers and energetic members, contributes largely to increase our cotton trade and promote our business. Our Board of Trade has been instrumental in protecting and enlarging the business of our merchants. Francis Smith & Co., who represent Eastern and English capitalists, are doing much good in loaning money in any sums and on long time to our planters, and have loaned nearly a half million dollars since their locating here.

Our large wholesale grocery firms and dry goods houses and hardware men will compare favorably with any houses in the South, both in prices and stocks.

The business in each of these branches has been fully 25 per cent. better this year than heretofore on account of the railroad, levee and Government work now in progress. The amount of work paid to contractors for these different works approximates a quarter of a million dollars a month, and most of that money is controlled by our merchants. These improvements have been a God-send to our people, and if they will only act with discretion and liberality, and show our railroad companies and investors that they have the good will of our city, many advantages will accrue to us. It is quite likely the L., N. O. & T. Railroad Company will locate their immense machine-shops here, which will prove of much benefit to us in increasing our population and business.

We now have more buildings being erected and improvements going up than there has been in the last ten years.

Everything for the future looks bright, and if our people will co-operate together success is bound to come, and our city is sure to advance in prosperity.

RAILROAD LITIGATION.

Sundry citizens of Adams and Jefferson counties, being all the survivors of the disaster which occurred at Mammoth Bayou, on the line of the N., J. & C. R. R., between Fayette and Natchez, on the 9th of July last, have brought suit against that corporation for damages sustained by them by reason of injury to their persons respectively. The parties suing are Wm. S. Cannon & wife, and their little daughter, Ethel May Cannon; Miss Susan Hall and Miss Virginia Hall, all of Jefferson county; Messrs. Ferdinand D. Monacci and James A. Grillo, both of Natchez. The injuries consist of broken limbs, crushed hands, and other various wounds, some of which, it is alleged, have produced permanent injuries—and the amount sued for respectively ranges from five to twenty thousand dollars, aggregating $105,000. It is stated that before suits were brought, efforts were made by plaintiffs to obtain an amicable settlement, which was refused by the Railroad company who claim that the injuries resulted from unavoidable accident. Plaintiffs, however, claim that the disaster resulted from a defective track and bridge through which the train fell, and was caused by the gross and culpable negligence of the company, its officials, agents and employees.

The plaintiffs have retained Judge Josh Morris, one of Vicksburg's ablest lawyers, as their counsel, and suit has been brought to the November term of Jefferson County Circuit Court at Fayette.

Death of Col. Porter.

Col. George C. Porter, one of the oldest citizens of Hinds county, is dead! After a long and useful life, the greater part of which was spent in Hinds county, this genial and conspicuous gentleman has passed away. For a number of years Col. Porter has had charge of the renowned Cooper's Well, and has regaled the visitors to the Wells with anecdotes and reminiscences of days gone by that earned for him a reputation as a conversationalist that was exceeded by few men of his county. Col. Porter was married to a lady of refined, whole-souled Southern gentleman, who compelled everyone to love and admire him for his open-heartedness and unbounded generosity. He was the father of Mr. D. P. Porter of Jackson, who is now Assistant Secretary of State, and of Judge Wm. Porter of San Francisco. His death occurred at Cooper's Well yesterday morning, after a long illness.

Postal Matters.

On next Monday, September 3d, the Post-offices throughout the country will commence issuing the new postal notes. These notes do not, as many suppose, supercede the money orders, but are an addition to the present money order system for the convenience of parties wishing to send small amounts through the mail. This new mode, though more convenient than the money order, is not so safe, as the notes are made payable to anyone presenting them. If lost, the Government does not hold itself responsible, and the amount cannot be recovered. But if money orders are lost, duplicates can be obtained at any time, and they are good until cashed, while the postal note must be presented within three months from the time it is issued. It will, therefore, be well to remember these facts when sending money through the mail.

Capt. J. D. Tinney, our Postmaster, says he is now prepared to receive orders for special request envelopes from date, but they cannot be delivered until October 1st, when the reduction in postage goes into effect.

The complaint of Mr. Halpin and other Aldermen of Vicksburg, against the police force of that city, will, it is to be hoped, cause a reform. Vicksburg seems to have more policemen and more crime to the square inch than any other town in the State.—Yazoo Sentinel.

We must plead guilty to the last part of the above paragraph. The Sentinel's hope of a reform is beginning to dawn on the citizens of Vicksburg, and the City Government is making a commendable effort to improve the police force to it.

Graveling Our Streets.

The city of Vicksburg, seeing the necessity of good streets, decided at the commencement of last Fall to gravel the streets, and within the past twelve months fourteen squares have been covered with gravel to the average depth of 12 to 14 inches, which has added much to the streets of the city. The work done in detail is as follows:

1882—Levee street from Depot to Henry, two squares.

1882—Crawford street from Washington to Levee, two squares.

1882—Washington street from Veto to Depot, two squares.

1883—Clay street from Washington to Levee, two squares.

Work will be commenced Monday graveling Clay street from Washington to Walnut, which will be completed in a week. The property-holders on Cherry street, from Crawford street to the railroad, have raised money enough to gravel that street and work will be commenced at an early date.

Let this good work go on until all the streets in the city are thus provided, and the Board may rest assured of having the hearty support of all classes.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

FROM PORT GIBSON.

Progress of Railroad Work—Completion of Telephone Line—Beat Convention.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., Sept. 1.—Track laying commenced here this morning on the Railroad to Baton Rouge, Capt. Gloster's division.

Railroad work is to be pushed.

Captain Shinkle's Liabilities.

CINCINNATI, August 31.—The assignees of Captain Vincent Shinkle will report to the next meeting of the creditors that the total liabilities are $160,000. The principal creditors are Henry A. Jones, $54,700; Champion Coal and Toy Company, $36,300; German City National Bank, $8000. The total assets are now stated to be $137,000.

Coal Prices.

NEW YORK, August 31.—The Delaware and Hudson Canal Company announce the price of Lackawanna coal for September per ton of 22,000 pounds, furnace lump, stove lump and grate, each $3.90; egg, $3.40. Above, $2.40.

Cotton Classification.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—On Monday next a number of experts who have been appointed by several cotton exchanges throughout the country will assemble at the cotton exchange in this city for the purpose of selecting the standard samples as guide to classification.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon Abraham Allen, Jr., was appointed expert for New York cotton exchange and Thomas as Fenner substitute.

Sensational Murder and Suicide at Elgin, Ill.

ELGIN, ILL., Aug. 31.—A horrible murder and suicide occurred here at 2:45 o'clock yesterday morning at the Nolting House. Edward F. Joslyn, a widower, and the son of Col. E. S. Joslyn, an honored citizen, shot and killed Etta Buckingham, a lady of pleasing address, but whose reputation was not of the best. Joslyn's wife died about five years ago, and for the past year he has paid considerable attention to Miss Buckingham.

Of late he became exceedingly jealous of her, and has treated her badly. At the hour mentioned Joslyn made his way to the girl's room in the hotel, taking off his boots, the better to make his way silently along the halls.

He was denied admission to her room, when he quickly forced the door in. A scuffle ensued and he drew his revolver and shot her twice, the second ball piercing her heart, and she fell dead.

He stooped for a minute over her prostrate form, and then, evidently realizing the work he had done, placed the revolver to his own head and sent a ball through his brain, falling dead beside his victim.

THE EMPIRE STATE.

A Case in Which Tilden May be a Candidate for President.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Gath says: The election here this Fall is not for any, such conspicuous officer as Governor. Hence, there will not be so much excitement expression of disgust such as made Cleveland Governor by Republican votes. There may be Republican apathy and the State may go Democratic by a reduced vote. There may be also a moderate Republican revival and the State become doubtful again for the Presidential year. In that case Tilden, unless checked by death, may come forward again, and then reposing on the bosom of Tammany hall. Cleveland concedes more Republican confidence in New York. I think that Tilden does. As long as Tilden was opposed by the politicians he had the popular sympathy. He might carry the country again on the record of his battle with the Tammany ring and the canal ring, both of which eventuated in substantial advantage to the public—in the one case giving an honest city to the whole and in the other free canals to the masses. Tilden's one great weakness that Judge Hoadly is charged with in Ohio; a wistful indecision, more fortitude in the office and closer than in the public tumult, and overestimating of the consequences of either defeat or victory.

Bay State Republicans.

BOSTON, MASS., Aug. 31.—The Republican State Committee will issue an address to the people, marking the opening of the campaign in this State. It says: "No one can overlook the significance of the result in Massachusetts this Autumn, upon the next Presidential election. At the same time, it would be worse than idle to disguise the fact that the coming election is essentially a State campaign. To the people of Massachusetts, State issues of almost unprecedented gravity justly outweigh, at this time, all other considerations. Massachusetts has been foully slandered, for political and party reasons, by her successful Executive Magistrate." It says in following:

"Under the same auspices an administrative policy of spoils in the State, and spoils and plunder in the city of Boston has been set on foot, which is utterly at variance with all the habits and traditions of Massachusetts. The overthrow of the power responsible for such principles is strongly urged.

Possible Outgrowth of the Labor Inquiry in New York.

[Special Dispatch to The Boston Journal.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A gentleman who talked yesterday with members of the Senate Labor Committee in New York says that the opinion prevails that the present inquiry will continue until near the time for Congress, and that a great deal of valuable information will be secured. One of the Southern members, said that to his mind the telegraph strike had given an impetus to a system of Government telegraphy which might result in some practical legislation, and that he himself would be disposed to favor a bill creating a Government telegraph in opposition to existing lines if it could be made clear that the Government could engage in telegraph business without increasing the patronage of the dominant party by the addition of twenty thousand to the army of office-holders. He was not clear that the Civil Service law or any statute which could be devised would prevent the use of these officers for political purposes. He thought with the rapid extension of telegraph colleges and of other facilities for learning the art it cannot longer be said that a knowledge of telegraphy is restricted to a comparatively small number of experts. On the general question of the relation of labor to capital, as illustrated by the evidence taken before this committee, this Southern Democratic member, who has given evidence of leaning toward the labor side, said that the problem seemed to him more complex and difficult than ever, and that he confessed his inability, from any light which he had, to satisfactorily solve it; and he added that if there was to be another war in this county it would be a war between labor and capital, and that it such a contest should come it would be found that capital would be at a great disadvantage.

No Colored Men Need Apply.

WASHINGTON, Aug 31.—Campbell Carrington, the counsel for Bell, the restaurant keeper who is defendant in a suit brought against him by Rev. Geo. Smith of Norwich, Conn., colored, on the ground of refusal to serve him because he was a colored man, expresses confidence that his client will be acquitted before a jury. He calls attention to the fact that colored men themselves discriminate against their own race. He entered the principal barber shop kept by a colored man in this city and suggested that he should bring Rev. Dr. Smith there to be shaved, whereupon the colored barber protected that such an act would ruin his business, as they declined to shave all colored men.

Small Bail for a Great Crime.

The habeas corpus case of Dan Sullivan, charged with murder, in the effort to secure release under bail, was tried last Friday and Saturday before Chancellor McLaurin, Maj. Sessions and Capt. Whitney appeared for the prisoner, while A. C. McNair, J. S. Hicks and E. R. Jones represented the prosecution. A large number of witnesses were examined, and the counsel argued the case. Judge McLaurin decided that Sullivan was entitled to bail, and fixed the bond amount at $1,250. Sullivan has been given one week in which to give bond, and he has about succeeded in making up the required amount.—Fayette Chronicle.

Work on the Wilson Road.

Another large caravan of wagons, mules and hands, passed through, Fayette last Monday, en route for the Wilson road, and will locate on the Homochitto river. Fayette is constantly being visited by wagons of late, all bound for this road in search of employment.—Fayette Chronicle.

Crops in Monroe County.

Cotton picking is progressing at a lively rate all over the county, and the hands are as a general thing getting good weights.

Immense Yield of Corn.

Mr. A. C. Watson, on his place near the River, tried an experiment this year on a little less than an acre of land. He first manured it heavily, then planted it in corn, never thinning it out. From this small piece of land he gathered one hundred and twenty barrels of good corn.—Fayette Chronicle.

WHEN it is all summed up the output of the solid South this year will afford a good deal of substance of one kind and another. It includes cotton, corn and meat with no small value in manufactured products. There is no scarcity of anything except politics and but few grieve over the absence of the proselyting office-seeker.

The Meridian Asylum.

The contractor for the erection of the New Asylum in Meridian, Mr. George Covert, told a Mercury reporter yesterday that the building was supplied with heating apparatus it would be ready for occupants by the 15th of October. Mr. Covert is laying the pipes for the steam and is putting in the gas fixtures as he goes. There will have to be an engine bought to supply the steam to be used in heating the building.—Mercury.

THE N. O. & N. E. ROAD.—It having never been positively stated when the N. O. & N. E. would run trains into New Orleans, a reporter of the Mercury interviewed Superintendent Carroll upon the subject while passing through the city a few days ago. He is of the opinion that the track laying will be completed by the 15th of October, and by the first of November the road will be in running order.

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Call of President Trowbridge, of the Executive Committee, to the District and Ward Clubs.

ROOMS DEMOCRATIC EX. COM. WARREN CO.,
VICKSBURG, MISS., Aug. 29, 1883.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party of Warren County, held August 25, 1883, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a Convention of the Democratic party of Warren county, Mississippi, be, and the same is hereby called, to be held at the Court-house, in said county, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, 1883, at the hour of 12 o'clock, for the purpose of determining upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign and to make nominations for the different offices, should such Convention; when assembled, deem the same advisable.

Resolved, That said Convention shall be composed of ten delegates from each Democratic Club in the county and each Ward in the city of Vicksburg, to be selected by the different Clubs at times and places to be fixed by the Presidents thereof, preceding the time fixed for the holding of said Convention.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the above resolution, the different Ward and District Clubs of the city of Vicksburg and county of Warren are hereby called to meet at such time and place as they may select, and proceed to select ten delegates to attend a Convention of the Democratic party to be held at the Court-house in the city of Vicksburg, on the 15th day of September next, at 12 o'clock m., to determine upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign, and to make nominations for the different offices should said Convention when assembled deem the same advisable.

As the Convention to assemble on the 15th of September will determine the course to be pursued by the Democrats of the county in the approaching campaign, it is respectfully urged that the different Ward and District Clubs select the very best men in their respective Wards and Districts to represent them in the Convention. Let it be generally understood by them that when they act in said Convention they act for and truly represent the wishes of the majority of their constituents, so that any action the Convention may take will mean that it is the action and sentiments of the Democrats of Warren county. Let there be no grumbling after the Convention adjourns, but that every Democrat in the county will feel bound to stand by its decision. Canvass your Wards and Districts thoroughly before you select your delegates, that we all may know when a delegation speaks that it reflects the true sentiments of the Democrats of their respective sections. If we expect to accomplish anything we must go to work, and in earnest, resolving that there shall be no dissensions in our ranks.

Respectfully, W. L. TROWBRIDGE,
Chairman Democratic Ex. Com.
Attest: H. DENIO, Secretary.

Don't forget to stop in at JOHN BARRY'S at the Iron bridge on the Cemetery road, and take a cooling draught.

Fine Grape Vines.

Dr. R. A. Minnis, of this county, has a Suppernong grape vine on his plantation that covers an area of about 180 feet in diameter and never fails to yield a heavy crop of grapes. This is the most extensive vine we know of in the county, but there are many that would be considered enormous elsewhere. Mrs. Wm. H. Clopton has one on her place just beyond the city limits, that covers a large area.—Aberdeen Examiner.

HAVING been elected to Congress Mr. Barksdale has resigned the editorship of the Jackson Clarion. The Avalanche regrets its inability to congratulate Mr. Barksdale. It is a change not promotion. A seat in the editor's chair of an influential newspaper is a good deal higher one in every respect than a seat in Congress.—Memphis Avalanche.

Not Much of a Swimmer.

We have been informed that Mr. Jno. Baker, who lives in the Beat, attempted last week, for a wager of $25, to swim the Mississippi river at Gum Ridge, but came nearer being drowned than succeeding in his attempt. As soon as he struck the current he succumbed to its strength, and was taken out of the water by an accompanying boat in an exhausted condition.—Fayette Chronicle.

Murder Will Out.

It will be remembered by our readers that a negro named John Nelson brutally murdered his wife on Col. Troup's plantation in this county in 1879, and managed to elude the most active pursuit. Nelson was arrested in Yuka on Tuesday, by Sheriff Woodall of Tishomingo county, and brought to this county on Wednesday under the charge of murder. The negro was given a preliminary trial at Aberdeen, on the 20th inst., before Justice Jno. Lee, and bound over to the Circuit Court in the sum of $1,000.—Aberdeen Examiner.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

VICKSBURG, MISS., July 20, 1883.

THE FOLLOWING ORDER HAS BEEN issued by the Mississippi State Board of Health, for the government of all craft wishing to land within the limits of the State from points below Fort Adams on the Mississippi river:

OFFICE OF
MISSISSIPPI STATE BOARD OF HEALTH,
JACKSON, MISS., July 11, 1883.

It is hereby ordered that on and after this date, and until further orders, all boats on the Mississippi river coming from points South of this State will be required to land at the Inspection Station at Fort Adams and be inspected before they will be allowed to land at any point in this State.

Certificates of inspection in New Orleans by the Inspectors of the Sanitary Council of the Mississippi Valley will be recognized at the Station, and it is suggested that all boats from that place provide themselves with such certificates, so as to avoid delay.

ROBERT KELLS,
WIRT JOHNSTON,
C. A. RICE,
Executive Committee.

[Approved] ROBERT LOWRY, Governor.

At a meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen held July 19, 1883, the following ordinance was passed:

FRANK HEARD, of Ohio, says Carlisle will get the Speakership, but he is a little doubtful about Hoadley's success in the Gubernatorial race.

AN Avalanche special, reviewing the Chicago markets, says the screws have been turned on the short side in oats, the Canada wheat crop is a pronounced failure, and the corn market is sustained by fears of frost.

A CORRESPONDENT of the State Ledger suggests Mr. James Shelton, of Jackson, as candidate for the State Senate, from Hinds County. With Jones Hamilton, Marye Dabney, and James Shelton to choose from, the Democrats are certain to get a good man.

EX-GOVERNOR PEASE, of Texas, died at Lampasas last Sunday evening. The Galveston Print says his death will be generally regretted by people of all parties in the State. He was not a great man, but he had the reputation of being a good man.

SOME one in this vicinity recently propounded the question as to who was the largest slave-holder in the South, and if any individual owned as many as one thousand slaves. We have been informed that Wade Hampton owned over two thousand in South Carolina, and that Steve Duncan and Frank Surget, near Natchez in this State, owned over one thousand each.

A DISPATCH from the Yellowstone Canyon says the President's party halted at the wonderful mud geysers. One of them is known as "The Editor's Hat," and one as "Devil's Cauldron." As the party looked into the first and listened to the rush and roar of seething water and mud that eternally boils, but finding no outlet, it was generally remarked that the place was properly named.

A SPECIAL from Jackson says that Professor R. K. Jayne succeeds Major Barksdale as editor of the Clarion. Professor Jayne has had considerable newspaper experience. He was editor and publisher of the Newton Reporter, and also of the Jackson Comet. We published an intimation some time ago that he would re-enter the field of journalism, but did not know what paper would secure his services. We congratulate him upon his accession to the editorship of such a noted paper as the Clarion.

THE new postal notes have been sent out to all the money order offices. The notes are printed in books, each book containing 5000. Eighty thousand of these books have been sent to the 65,000 money order offices. The larger offices get several books, while the smaller offices got one each. The law authorizing these notes goes into effect next Monday. Superintendent McDonald says the low fee of three cents for issuing one of these notes is due to the fact that very little clerical work is necessary. The stub is retained at the issuing office as the only record of the notes.

THE Philadelphia American prints a careful estimate of electoral probabilities in 1884, in which 16 States with 171 votes are classed as Republican, 5 States with 38 votes as probably Republican, 11 States 117 votes as Democratic, 12 States 29 votes as probably Democratic, and 2 States with 48 votes as uncertain. The States reckoned in this list as probably Republican are California, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, and Nevada; the [illegible] as Democratic are Kentucky, New Jersey, North Carolina and West Virginia. Conceding to the Democrats not only the probably Democratic States, but both of those classed as uncertain, the American says the Republicans would have 207 votes, or 6 more than are required for a majority.

MR. BLAINE is not seeking the Presidential nomination, but there is just a possibility that it may be thrust upon him. If such a thing should occur Mr. Blaine would not be an easy candidate for the Democrats to beat. No man in the Republican party to-day is so popular with the Democratic voters, especially the foreign element, and no one would draw more largely from the ranks of his opponents. There is one impression that is to be quite prevalent, and that is that if Mr. Blaine was President he would uphold the dignity of the American people no other President has done since the days of Lincoln. Whatever else may be said of Mr. Blaine, he is a man.

Supporting Anybody that is Nominated.

General Hancock would have been elected if he had received the thirty-five votes of New York. He obtained only seventeen in the North. The rest of his 155 came from the South. There is not the slightest reason for supposing that any State, North or South, that supported Hancock in 1880 will fail to vote for the Democratic candidate in 1884.—New York Sun.

Don't be too certain about that. It depends a great deal upon who the Democratic candidates will be. The Southern Democrats have charged that in local and State elections, no matter what sort of a man the Republicans nominated for office, the rank and file of the party would support him. This was true, and very bad and incompetent men were sometimes elected to office. But when it comes to National politics, cannot the same charge be made against the Southern Democrats. No matter who the Northern Democrats nominated from motives of policy, the Southern Democrats were expected to give him a united support, and they always came up to the expectation so that the "solid South" in Presidential elections is a matter of history. And is not supporting whoever is nominated, just as objectionable in National as it is in State and local politics? Just look at the results to be expected from such a policy: If Tilden had been elected by the votes of the solid South, the sectional animosities would have been prolonged for several years, the South would have been looked upon with distrust, and there would have been no appropriations for Mississippi river improvement or anything else that would benefit the South, because Tilden himself would have opposed it such measures, as he indicated he would, in a letter written prior to the election. If Hancock and English had been elected, the spectacle would have been presented of the solid South electing a man to the Presidency who was nominated for the sole reason he had been a fighting Major General in the Union army, and we would have had for Vice-President the "meanest man in Indiana" who was nominated by the policy Northern Democrats because he had a "pull" which it was supposed he would use to carry his State.

We have ventured these remarks, to suggest that we believe the Southern Democrats have got tired of supporting anybody, without reference to fitness or capacity, that the Northern Democrats may nominate. We will insist upon a suitable and good ticket next time, and if it is not furnished there will be no longer a "solid South."

What the "Scott Law" of Ohio Is.

As the Ohio Campaign turns, to a certain extent, upon the Scott taxing liquor law, which the Democrats assail and the Republicans defend, the reader will probably be interested in the following brief summary of the provisions of the law given by Dr. Scott, the author of the measure:

It provides:

"First—That every person in the State engaged in the traffic in intoxicating liquors, other than the manufacturer thereof from the crude material, and who sells in quantities of one gallon or more, shall be assessed and pay annually a tax of $200 if he sells distilled liquors, and $100 if he sells fermented liquors alone. The law makes the tax a lien on the property in or upon which the liquor is sold, and punishes by severe penalties any person who sells on the premises of another without his written consent.

"Second—It further provides that any municipal corporation may prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within its territory, and when that is done, persons having paid the tax shall be reimbursed pro rata for the unexpired portion of the year for which the tax was paid.

"Third—The law repeals the old statute, as old as the State itself, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on the Sabbath day as a beverage, and further provides that any municipal corporation may by ordinance suspend the operations of this provision, so far as the sale of beer or native wine is concerned on any part of that day.

"Fourth—It provides a heavy fine and imprisonment for selling to minors, persons who are drunk or in the habit of getting drunk.

"Fifth—It repeals the law of 1854, which forbids the sale of intoxicating liquors to be drank on the premises where [illegible]

Our New Chancellor.

The announcement of the appointment of Major Baxter McFarland, of this city, to succeed Hon. L. Haughton, deceased, as Chancellor of the 1st District, will be received with great satisfaction by the bar and people of the counties immediately interested; for while in some portions of the jurisdiction there were personal and local reasons which suggested different action to our worthy Executive, there are we are confident few who were not ready to accept him as second choice in the event of failure to secure the appointment of their personal friend or fellow-county-man. After all, however, the main desire was that the position should be filled by the appointment of a lawyer of decided ability, and a gentleman of unimpeachable integrity, and certainly Major McFarland stands up to the full measure of those requirements.

On behalf of the people of the 1st Chancery District we heartily thank Governor Lowry for his appointment, and feel that in his great perogative it was difficult to choose where so much good material offered. Governor Lowry has made a wise selection, and Major McFarland is to be congratulated.—Brookhaven Leader.

THE CHINESE.

A Visit to Chinatown and What Was Seen There.

The Food, Clothing, Occupations and Habits of the Chinese.

[Correspondence of the Boston Journal.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Your readers may be interested in a partial sketch of Chinatown, which was visited last evening in great numbers. Chinatown is the chief attraction. The Chinese appreciate the presence of the Knights Templar multitude and receive them kindly. The Six Companies—absolute monarchs on free soil—have urged the subjects of the Emperor to clean their houses and yards, to burn their rubbish and make things as respectable as possible. Chinatown covers 8 squares "four by two," or less than a half mile square, and it is said contains 35,000 Chinese.

A number of the "Frisco" police accompanied us as guides. Passing along the streets and alleys of this locality we first noticed the fires in the gutter. There were thousands of punks in clusters of a dozen and little candles burning; also fires were kindled near by, upon which gilt and plain paper were thrown to burn. The gilt and plain paper were thrown to burn. The gilt was a prayer to the gods of money—the plain for clothing. Paralled with the line of fire were small dishes containing grapes, peaches rice, whiskey, &c. At a certain time the fruits and liquid were thrown upon the fire and into the street. The fire was for the purpose "of driving the devil away;" the fruits offered were for the benefit of the dead. This performance is held once a year and is for the repose of the souls of those who died in the preceding year. This is a device of worship.

In every place we entered, large or small, good or ill, the images, altars, candles, incense, prayers were seen. Some of these prayer-places are on the floor, others in boxes fastened upright against the wall, opening towards the room. On entering a house, first regards is set on fire, quickly moved over the crack of the doors to keep the devil away.

First we entered a narrow court. Around us was a building three stories high. The building, including court, was 137x66 feet, and in the building were the homes of over 600 Chinamen. The Chinamen in this building pay 30 cents a month for rent, his food costing him 7 cents a day and his opium 10 cents a per day.

We visited a drug store. The unprepared drugs were interesting, consisting of roots, herbs, locusts, lizards and bugs. Doctor said the lizards were toxic. The store was neat, and every package of the thousands was marked in Chinese characters. In a back room some roots were being pulverized. There was an iron cutter—an arc or a circle—through which an iron wheel rolled upon the roots. This ground wheel was provided with an axle, upon the end of which the workman stood. He supported himself by his hands, and by dexterous movements of his feet and legs, gave motion to the wheel, whose movements pulverized the roots or herbs. We noticed an artesian well, 160 feet deep, made by the Chinese. By the help of a pumping engine, the whole of Chinatown is supplied with water therefrom. Another passageway, 62 feet long, 9 feet wide, seven feet high, has bunks for 92 persons. Many of these were occupied at 9:30 p.m., all sexes, all attaches of the theatre, have their food provided. All the actors are men; female characters are represented by males. Ascending two flights of stairs, we reach the dressing rooms. Extreme order prevails. The shelves and books contain the wardrobes and paraphernalia of the actors. Some, dressing, look like princes in satin, silk and gold. Several have painted faces and others are smoking. With wonderful skill, a large man painted his face with a little mirror in one hand and a camel's hair brush in the other. A white band of paint across the head, inclosing the eyes from which lines of black were traced down his cheeks, did not add to his personal beauty.

We entered upon the stage. There were forty actors, including a terrible band, upon it. The band was in the centre and rear, the principal actors seated in center and front, while on either side they were flanked by gaudily dressed Celestials, who now and then in chorus had "big talk" that is very loud. In glancing upon the audience—parquette and galleries were a sea of faces—1,000 to 1,800 Chinamen. The theatre will hold 2,500. The theatrical [illegible] consisted in events in the life of the last Emperor. It commenced at 5 p.m., and was continued till 12. M. This evening it will be taken up and continued. Sundays and Sundays the play begins at 12 at noon and continues until 12 at night. Plays are continued night after night until an end of the historical era is reached. The orchestra was terrible. A seat next to the fellow who pounded a large iron kettle, which was fastened up on a tripod, was next to the rumbling of Vesuvius. During the progress of the play a supernumerary made himself useful in arranging tables and candles, etc., this noisy work not seeming to annoy the actors. Women occupied one gallery only—that at the left of the stage. There are no "dys" on the stage, but a partition, with a door at each end of the stage, separates the latter from the dressing room. One party of a dozen, royal dressed, came upon the stage and talked. They retired, and another set equally gaudy entered by the opposite door and talked a while, then they retired. A third party assumed and had a bedlam for a half hour, the band thundering so that the plot was entirely lost to us. Having become satisfied that the plot was a mystery to us, we left the theatre and visited the joss-house. The priest is attired similar to an ordinary Greek monk. There are no canonical hours of service. Masses are special, costing from $5 to $40. The cross, however, never appears. When a great Chinaman dies there are hired female mourners, as in Mohammedan countries. The Chinese mourners dress in white, Mohammedans in black. By the side of the brave man there is an altar and the image of the devil—the good devil, before whom punk and candles are kept constantly burning. In the next apartment there are images of their worship—a representation of a benevolent man, also a great beast, who is chiefly worshiped. Their prayer service is short. The worshiper burns paper before the idol, also punk and candles, "bows low, utters a few words, then goes to the buckable and shakes sticks or throws the luck blocks. In this apartment there is the specimen of wood carving. It represents a theatrical pair in very heavy relief. The piece is ten feet long and three feet high, having two rows figures, and is the result of the work of ten carvers during two years. During service a man beats a drum and strikes a bell, near the door. The clatter of the Tongue was peculiar and the game childish, very much like "How many fingers do I hold up?" except that both hands were used. Simultaneously, answer with rapidity. Fingers being quickly changed. A wrong answer enjoins a sip of Canton whisky.

The Chinese gambling places cannot be visited during the play, because the police raid them. These dens are protected now by a series of thick doors, plated with boiler iron. Lotteries are more generally harmful. The Chinese gamble only among themselves, but their lottery tickets are on sale by all Chinamen. By this means $6,000 to $8,000 some days are gathered which are used to advance the power of the Chinese. A pawn shop kept by Pin Sho was a marvel of neatness and order. In this business he has made money enough to buy what was once the property of the First Baptist Church, at a cost of $30,000. The building is 137x70 feet. He has altered it into a tenement house, wherein a thousand Chinese live. He has already [illegible] cents, $500 of Chee Kong Tong has 8,000 or 9,000 members. This society is for self-protection. They are black-mailers—"high-binders"—and exercise an authority as fatal and secret as the Council of Three of ancient Venice.

There are 300 opium places in Chinatown. The proprietors furnish lamp, pipe and opium for ten cents a smoke. The smoker crawls into a bunk, and with contracted limbs, his head resting upon a stone or wood pillow, he seeks the repose of unconsciousness. After the smoker retires the proprietor cleans the pipes, and the opium gathered is sold to second class places or to consumers too poor to afford the best. The latter usually make a Chinaman rich. Just before the new Anti-law (July 5) there was over three million dollcars worth of opium in "Frisco, most of which is now held by the banks as collateral. These people seem harmless, many of them intelligent, and all are patriotic, having great love of their country. But they are no "Sys" on the stage, but a partition, with a door at each end of the stage, separates the latter from the dressing room. One party of a dozen, royal dressed, came upon the stage and talked. They retired, and another set equally gaudy entered by the opposite door and talked a while, then they retired. A third party assumed and had a bedlam for a half hour, the band thundering so that the plot was entirely lost to us. CENTRAL
Female Institute
Clinton, Hinds County, Miss.,
REV. WALTER HILLMAN, LL.D., Pres't,

Who will send catalogue, giving full information respecting the Institution, on application.

This is the oldest Institution for the education of Young Ladies, and is without a superior, in the State or Southwest.

The year now closing has been eminently prosperous, filling the Institution's accommodations for pupils to their utmost capacity.

Among the many superior advantages are: Extensive and Thorough Courses of Study; the Long and Successful Experience of the Heads of its Departments; Educational Facilities such as Apparatus, Cabinets, Libraries, etc., the accumulation of nearly half of a century; Expenses considering the QUANTITY and QUALITY of the returns made, very low.

The Thirty-first Collegiate year begins Tuesday, September 25th.

Death to the Dude.

The dude is dead! His hours of labor have been lengthened to such an extent as to crush him from the conspicuous place he has held on the streets of Vicksburg during the past Summer. The bell over Baum's store that has been rung with a vim, at 6 and 6:30 every evening during the last 3 months as a signal for the release of the dude (and others of course), was tolled yesterday evening for the last time, and its doleful sounds sank deep into the hearts of the dudes, for it told them plainer than words that their evening liberty was dead and that after that one night they would be compelled to toil for their stiff shirt collars by the light of the gas, or in other words that the stores of the classic city of Vicksburg will remain open until the usual hour of closing, commencing tonight and continuing during the coming winter. This ends one of the grandest seasons the dude has ever known in Vicksburg.

To the Editor of the Evening Post:

DEAR SIR—Below I give you a few facts, and if you think them of any interest to your many readers you may publish the same. I once made the remark to Col. Joe M. Jones, commanding the 48th Mississippi Infantry, and of which I was an humble private in the ranks, (and who, by the way, is still living in Greenville) that I was an unfortunate poor devil; that my purposes in life were always frustrated by some unfortunate cause. He replied by saying, he did not think so, as with what I had gone through in the late unpleasantness but for my good luck I would certainly have been killed. Well, the same misfortune haunts me still. By my being absent in Cincinnati on business, (being too poor to go for pleasure,) I again had the misfortune of missing the glorious opportunity of having at least a page of advertising matter, to say nothing of wind, in the mammoth edition of the Great Conscientious this morning, telling the good people of Vicksburg and vicinity what a wonderful good boot and shoe maker I am, and besides something of my misfortunes, and last, though by no means least, all about my patent shoe. Alas! too late. As editors are supposed to know everything, I ask you to suggest a remedy in this my particular case.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN HASZINGER,
Boot and Shoe Maker, 135 Washington St

Thirty Thousand Souls Lost in Seven.

BATAVIA, Aug. 31.—The Captain of Sunda during the recent volcanic eruptions, reports that ashes fell on the deck of the steamer in the depth of eleven inches and that he passed many dead bodies floating on the sea. Seven islands in the Straits of Sunda have disappeared and thirty thousand souls are lost.

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. H. WRIGHT, JR., leaves to-night on a short trip to the Crescent City.

MR. RICHARD MOGUIN and family returned from the Well this morning.

MISS MAMIE JACKSON, of Edwards, came in by the accommodation train this morning.

W. E. BENDER'S Sale Stable was connected with the Telephone Exchange today—No. 154.

THE Board of Supervisors meet at the Court-house next Monday to transact any business that may come before them.

WE learn that Mr. A. Meyer's store, at Grand Lake, Ark., was burned at an early hour this morning, and very little of the contents saved.

MRS. J. D. STEWART, of Jackson, returned to her home in that city by the 2:30 train to-day after a visit of several day to the family of Dr. D. B. Nailor, of this county.

MRS. EMMA WILLIAMS, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Westbrook, for several weeks, returned to her home at Utah landing by the City of Vicksburg this morning.

MR. W. A. WESTBROOK, the newly-appointed conductor on the street railroad, entered on his duties this morning. Mr. Westbrook was connected with the Vicksburg & Meridian road for several years.

MESSRS. A. F. PIAZZA and Robert Wilson leave to-night for Lexington, Va., where they will re-enter the Virginia Military Institute. They have been spending their vacation at home, and return now to complete their education.

THE Sallie Carney, of the P. Line, leaves for Anthony's Ferry at 3 p.m. to-morrow, carrying passengers for the round trip for one dollar. A pleasant evening may be spent on board this trim little packet by all who avail themselves of her cheap excursion rates.

MR. TOM O'DELL, who has been a clerk in the P. Line for a number of years, this morning accepted a position in Mr. J. Hardy's office, and has entered on his duties. While connected with the Line of steamers Mr. O'Dell proved himself a thorough gentleman, and he leaves behind him many friends who will regret to learn of his departure from the Line.

ACCIDENTAL KILLING

Of Eugene McLennon, on the Street Railroad Yesterday—Evidence of Witnesses Before the Coroner's Jury.

A sudden, but not altogether unlooked for catastrophe occurred yesterday evening on the Street Railroad at its lower junction with the V. & M. R. R's. switch which leads to Kleinston.

Numberless small boys, both white and black, are in the habit of playing around the engine of the Street R. R., and it is impossible to run them off. Yesterday a small negro boy named Eugene McLennon, was running along in front of the engine as it was coming up from Kleinston, when he must have fallen directly in front of it, as the engine passed over him, killing him instantly, before it could be stopped. Coroner Rainwater summoned a jury who viewed the remains; after which, the inquest was adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. The following is the testimony of witnesses examined:

John Hill sworn: Yesterday evening about 6 o'clock, I was coming up on the train; I was standing on the rear steps near the crossing. The V. & M. train was coming up, and the boy and a lot of chickens were between the trains. The boy ran across. I am confident the engineer could not see him, as he crossed over from the side the engineer was on. I saw the engineer on the V. & M. train wave his hand, and the fireman of the little road blow the whistle for brakes. The train was stopped as soon as possible. The car dragged him about 10 or 15 feet. I dragged him out after the engine had stopped. I laid him on some timber. He was running up the track. The engineer could not see him, as he crossed on the train. The train was running at a good rate of speed. I only knew the boy when I saw him; can't say whether he is of good sound mind or not. Only one passenger coach was attached to the engine. I found the boy under the second car wheel after the engine. He was laying crossways of the track.

Witness was cross-examined by the jury, but did not deviate from the above testimony.

J. M. Harrison sworn: About 6 o'clock yesterday evening as I was coming from the lower landing about 150 yards from the lower crossing I had shut my engine off. I saw a boy first about 20 feet from my engine. I blew the whistle for the brakes and reversed my engine. I can reverse my engine and stop in 40 feet. I don't know whether the boy got hung in anything or not. My engine bell was ringing. The boy seemed to be looking at my engine when he started across the track. I did not hear anyone call my attention before I hit him. He was standing with his side to me when I first saw him. There is a small trestle just the other side of the crossing. The boy was this side of the trestle. I don't know whether he fell or not. He would have had time to get out of the way after I blew the whistle if he had not got hung in the track.

Cross-examined by the jury: The boy was standing still when I first saw him. When I saw him start across the track I blew one whistle. There is always a lot of boys jumping on the engine. They will run along by the side of the engine, and often get in front of it. Sometimes boys will sit on the track until I blow the whistle, and I often stop to make them get off.

W. A. Westbrook sworn: I am conductor on the street railroad. I was aboard the train yesterday evening, and was standing on the platform. I put the brakes on myself when Harrison whistled them down. The boy was dead when I saw him. The train did not run over 16 feet after it struck the boy. I did not see the boy before he was struck. The bell was ringing at the time. From the original editions but were afterwards omitted. The most exquisite of these was originally inserted before the "Epitaph," but was omitted because the poet "thought it was too long a parenthesis in this place." The stanza is very graceful:

There scattered oft, the earliest of the year,
By hands unseen, are showers of violets found;
The redbreast loves to build and warble there,
And little footsteps lightly print the ground—

HERE is a receipt for "Milk Toast" by a man who "cannes eat." Milk Toast —Oh pshaw! any fellow knows how to make that! Just toast your bread and pour hot milk over it, in which you have placed a chunk of butter and some salt. That's easy.

THERE is an appalling mass of illiteracy in the South and it is increasing. The people of the South are unable to educate these millions of ignorant persons without national aid. Every thoughtful man recognizes the perils of this illiterate mass to the stability of this Union and has faith to believe that there will be no state sovereignty donkeys in the coming Louisville convention to bray against Federal money to educate the ignorant millions.—Avalanche.

Parnell in Good Spirits.

DUBLIN, Aug. 31.—Mr. Parnell in his speech at the opening of the Irish National League yesterday said he could report most encouragingly of the progress of the National League movement in America. He said he had been informed that he might after a time look for pecuniary assistance from that country which at least equals the sums of money received in time of urgency. He had every hope that the migration scheme would prove successful, thus enabling the people to keep their promise that they would never again appeal to America for aid against famine.

THE Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE Post will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post Job Printing Company." We feel confident our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

Senator Sherman and the Whisky Men.

[Special to the Picayune]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The speech of Senator Sherman before the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce in which he took decided grounds for an extension of the bonded period for distilled spirits, was made, as the report is here, to induce the distilling interest to contribute to the Republican compaign of Ohio rather than to the Democratic fund. Many of the distillers feel lukewarm toward the Republican leaders because of the failure of the bonded bill of last year, which was killed in the House of Representatives.

Gov. Butler Willing to Try it Again.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—At a meeting of the Executive Committee, of the Democratic State Committee, this afternoon, the call for a State Convention to be held at Springfield September 26, was drawn up and accepted.

It was authoritatively stated to the committee that Gen. Butler had decided to run for re-election this fall.

The call invites the Democrats of Massachusetts and all others who are already united with them in defense of the good name of the State as a just and humane commonwealth, and to promote the common welfare, by continued correction of administrative errors and abuses and the reformation of unequal and unjust laws, to send delegates to the convention for the nomination of the usual candidates, and if the convention so determine and choose four delegates at large to attend the Democratic National Convention.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—The differences between the several West-bound routes as to passenger rates between here and St. Louis culminated to-night in the announcement of the Louisville and Nastville Road that, beginning to-morrow, first class passenger tickets would be sold for $1.50. The regular price is $10. This was kept secret by the Louisville and Nashville until midnight to-night, when the city was posted with notice to that effect.

Beyond St. Louis the regular rates will be preserved, that is, on such roads as the L. and N. may have to employ, as the Missouri Pacific.

The Louisville and Nashville has also ordered the sale of all tickets marked Ohio and Mississippi to be discontinued in its Southern offices.

The probabilities are that other Western roads will meet the rate to-morrow, and that by the middle of the week the rate will be 50 cents.

The West-bound roads affected by this are the Ohio and Mississippi, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago, and the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Indianapolis.

SOME ANCIENT HISTORY.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The Capital prints the following:

"The most interesting bit of history that I have seen in many a day was fished up from the depths of the past last week. The story goes that when McClellan was nominated for the Presidency and Pendleton for Vice-Presidency by the Democrats in Chicago, in August, 1864, President Lincoln sent General McClellan a letter by the hand of Daniel P. Blair, in which he urged him to decline the nomination. In this letter the President is said to have expressed the opinion that it was almost inconceivable that a major-general in the army of the United States who had commanded the army of the Potomac should stand upon a platform which declared the war a failure. He is said to have pointed out to McClellan that the patriotic course was to decline the nomination on the ground of dissent from the platform, and urge the unanimous re-election of President Lincoln is said to have been pleased by this appeal. It is said that had it not been for the stalwart advice of Mr. Samuel J. Tilden and other Democratic leaders he would have walked in the narrow path that Lincoln pointed out. As it was, he got upon the Chicago platform and received twenty-one out of the 232 electoral votes."

The Postal Telegraph.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—John W. Mackay, the California millionaire who was elected recently a Director of the Postal Telegraph Company, has been chosen President in the place of Joel B. Erhardt, and has accepted the office. Mr. Erhardt resigned the Presidency, which he had held only a few weeks, immediately after Hugh J. Jewett and Thomas Dickson resigned as Directors on account of dissensions in the Board over the proposed rates to be charged for messages. The line to Chicago was opened soon after they resigned on the basis of 25 cents for messages of twenty words between New York and Chicago.

THE JAVA HORROR.

Appearance of the Island After the Earthquake.

LONDON, Sept. 1.—From the dispatches received from Batavia it appears that the fears of a further eruption in the island of Java in the near future have subsided, and all the efforts of the Government and the people are concentrated in the work of burying the dead and preserving the health of the living. All along the shores from Point Lampon to the river Taquise, on the northern coast and from the river Tjemandierie to the Sipanok, on the southern coast, there are found corpses thickly strewn. In the forest of the interior, from the river Tjiedom to the river Tjietarum, dead bodies are lying at short intervals apart, in some instances nearly buried in the sulphurous white mud or the hardened lava that flowed from the eruptive craters. About daybreak on Wednesday morning another of the startling incidents attendant upon the great disturbances was manifested. With the cessation of the paroxysms many emanations of the vapor evolved themselves. These vapors, as is usual, contained a variety, of acids, and as the lava cooled down deposited incrustations at the mouth of the Frevashe. The acids of these vapors issuing from the fissures in the mountain of Papaldayanang caused unusually rapid decomposition on the exposed portions of the great rocks at the summits of the several peaks. A number of them split apart suddenly on Wednesday, releasing tons of depending earth. This caused several landslides during the morning and they went crashing through the valley, carrying destruction and death with them. On the edge of the town of Narra, some fifteen or six-teen Chinese, in a section of the sanitary corps, were buried before they were aware of the cause of the deep rumblings around them. A few more bodies were found at Bantam, Warongo and Palatra. Most of the corpses in the lower part of Batavia have been disposed of, and there are no fears now that the health of the city will be affected. Four vessels have arrived. One of them had attempted to enter the Straits of Sunda, but had hardly got through the entrance when she struck on a sharp, sunken rock newly thrown up, and had a hole stove in her bows. She had great difficulty in keeping the water out by hard pumping long enough to reach this port and put in for repairs. No attempt will be made to navigate the straits till new surveys and soundings have been made. Large forces of men are busy at work in all directions digging out bodies from beneath the beds of lava and rocks. At Campange Boem there are many being dug out. At Grogo the corpses seem to be more mangled than in any other town, most of the deaths having been caused by falling rocks and debris. Reports just in from Tayreeya give the number of the deaths at 180. Sanjoor loses about 100 souls. Of Dorian Strijbon's population 130 perish. Many of their villages and hamlets report a large proportion of their population gone.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 2.—A cattle disease known as the "bloody urine" broke out on a farm near here, baffling the efforts of the verterinary surgeons. Fourteen cows died. Closing he said: "We did our best in war, and what we deemed right, and we have no apologies to make to any man. Now let us do our best in peace and win in that field the victories we lost in the other. Henceforth we have but one flag, one Union, and one country. Let it be the effort of every patriot to make that Union permanent and that country glorious."

Murder in Wayne County.

On last Tuesday, in Wayne county, about three miles from Winchester, Mr. Robt. Sumrall was found dead in his field with his throat cut. A suspicion pointed to a Mr. Lovestraugh and he was arrested immediately. The facts were about as follows: Only a few days before Mr. Lovestraughn had threatened that Sumrall should not live through fodder-pulling time. It seems that the two men live on opposite sides of the river, and Lovestraughn had a boat that some one had filled with light wood and set on fire—burning a hole in the bottom. He suspected the Sumralls of the deed and swore vengeance. Both parties are eminent members of the Baptist church, and Lovestraughn is one of the deacons. The murdered man was seventy-two years old and when his body was found both hands were full of fodder, showing that he was at work and not expecting the attack.—Meridian Mercury, 31.

SHERMAN SPEAKS.

The Ohio Senator Sounds the Keynote—Protection of American Industries the Main Question.

FINDLAY, OHIO, Aug. 25.—Senator John Sherman addressed a Republican mass meeting here to-day upon the questions at issue in the campaign—taxation of the liquor traffic, and the tariff. The substance of his speech is given as follows:

Referring to the remarkable improvements in Hancock county since his first visit here, Senator Sherman said: "Your county is but a type of the whole country. In a single generation the United States has made the most wonderful progress in human history." He then referred briefly to the great questions that had been settled during the last thirty years. "Our Democratic fellow citizens," he continued, "though opposing our measures at the time, have since acquiesced in, approved and supported them after their adoption. They cannot now name a single question of party difference for twenty-five years upon which they now will venture to take issue with us. They do not even put forward their well-tried leaders. They have now in succession nominated three gentlemen for Governor of Ohio who each have been warm and ardent supporters of the principles of the Republican party. I mean Gen. Ewing, Mr. Bookwalter, and Judge Hoadly. All these distinguished and able gentlemen have been Republican partisans as I have, and Judge Hoadly has, I think, been rather more free in his denunciation of the Democratic party than I."

The two questions to be decided at the coming election, Mr. Sherman said, are: "Shall we stand by the Scott law, which imposes a tax on the sale of spirits and beer? Shall we, in framing our tariff laws, stand on the general principle of so taxing foreign goods as to protect, foster, and diversify American industry?" "As to the proposed amendments," he said, "the Republican party does not attempt to prescribe which shall be adopted, or whether either should be. It recognizes the well-known fact that there is an honest difference of opinion among the people of Ohio of all parties as to the best method of dealing with the liquor traffic. Whether prohibitory laws will accomplish the object designed is honestly doubted by many citizens who are in favor of effective temperance laws, but who believe that the general assembly has the right to resort to legislate upon this subject as it does in matters affecting the life, property, and personal rights of all. It is in no party sense that these amendments are submitted. If the prohibitory amendment should prevail it will be the duty of the general assembly to enforce it by appropriate legislation. If both amendments fail we shall have the Scott law now established as constitutional, which, in my judgment, will tend, more than any other that has been proposed under our present constitution, to check the evils of intemperance." Mr. Sherman then went on to show why the liquor traffic should be taxed, and said the State had lost $50,000,000 in the last thirty years by neglecting to enforce a tax law.

After explaining his notes on the new tariff law and the wool items, and showing that the reduction of the duty on wool was voted for by all except three Democratic Senators, Mr. Sherman said: "This subject of the tariff is now the most important of national politics, and upon it the Democratic party is no more frank or just to the people than Judge Hoadly was on wool. If the Democratic party carries Ohio this Fall it will be greatly encouraged to break down the protective policy which the Republican party has built up and maintained for more than twenty years. We know that the controlling element of the Democratic party is opposed to this policy. Say what they will, if the Democratic party gets control of Congress and the executive office the system of American industry will be broken down by what is called 'a tariff for revenue only.'"

For fourteen years before the war we had a tariff for revenue only, based upon the Walker tariff of 1846; and since 1861 we have had a protective tariff, based upon the Morrill tariff bill of that year. Has the tariff for twenty years worked for the benefit of favored manufacturers? How could it? Every American has the business of manufacture in any part of the country without preference or favor. Protection makes, within the limits of our country, the most absolute free trade. It operates only on foreign productions. The only advantage the American has is over the foreigner, and that advantage is that the foreigner on his productions has to pay a tax which the American does not pay. Protection to American industry means a like protection to every American engaged in the same industry. It is said it creates monopolies and special privileges. This is a great error. Any benefit conferred upon a tariff law is conferred upon all of fifty millions of people. Every American citizen has the same advantage. A patent gives the inventor a monopoly for a time, a protective tariff gives equal rights to fifty millions of our people, and only gives them privileges or advantages against the out side world. The benefits of the system are open to all, and are shared by all.

"We claim that protection helps to build up and diversify our industries. The system rests upon the principle that to open new avenues for labor and capital is to increase the number of workers and the variety of work, and thus to create a home market for the products of the farm, which is the best market of all. It is in no party sense that these amendments are submitted. If the prohibitory amendment should prevail it will be the duty of the general assembly to enforce it by appropriate legislation. If both amendments fail we shall have the Scott law now established as constitutional, which, in my judgment, will tend, more than any other that has been proposed under our present constitution, to check the evils of intemperance." Mr. Sherman then went on to show why the liquor traffic should be taxed, and said the State had lost $50,000,000 in the last thirty years by neglecting to enforce a tax law.

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 30, 1883.

THE FOLLOWING ORDER HASBEEN made by the Mississippi State Board of Health, for the government of all craft wishing to land within the limits of this State from points below Fort Adams on the Mississippi river:

OFFICE OF
MISSISSIPPI STATE BOARD OF HEALTH,
JACKSON, MISS., July 17, 1883.

It is hereby ordered that on and after this date, and until further orders, all craft plying on the Mississippi river coming from points South of this State will be required to land at the Inspection Station at Fort Adams and be inspected before they will be allowed to land at any point in this State.

Certificates of inspection in New Orleans by the Inspectors of the State Board of Health of the Mississippi Valley will be recognized at this Station, and it is suggested that all boats from such places provide themselves with such certificates, so as to avoid delay.

ROBERT KELLS,
WIRT JOHNSTON,
C. A. RICE,
Executive Committee.

{Approved} ROBERT LOWRY, Governor.

At a meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen held July 19, 1883, the following ordinance was passed:

An Ordinance to aid in Preserving the Health of the City of Vicksburg.

Section 1. Be it ordered by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Vicksburg, That no steamboat or other water craft coming up the Mississippi river shall land at the city of Vicksburg without having first landed at the Inspection Station of the State Board of Health at Fort Adams and submitted to inspection according to law and the rules of said Board, and received from the proper officer at said station a certificate in the form of a Clean Bill of Health, and without having first landed at Kleinston, below this city, or at such other point on the Mississippi as may hereafter be designated by this Board and exhibited said certificate to the City Inspector at such point or points, and submitted to another complete and full examination and inspection by such City Inspector.

Sec. 2. Be it further ordained, That said City Inspector, appointed or to be appointed by the Mayor and City Physician, shall detain said steamboat or other designated point board each steamboat or other water craft coming up the said river to land at said city, and examine said certificate, and make a complete inspection of said steamboat or craft; and he shall immediately report to the city Marshal any steamboat or other water craft passing up the said station without having exhibited said certificate and submitted to such inspection by him; and if upon such inspection he shall find or have cause to believe, that there is sickness on board, he shall detain said boat or other craft at such point, and immediately notify the Mayor and the City Physician thereof, and the same shall not proceed to Vicksburg until permission given by Mayor or City Physician.

Sec. 3. Be it further ordained, That for any violation of the first section or last clause of the second section hereof, the master or Captain or other person in charge of any steamboat or other water craft shall be immediately arrested and fined by the City Court in a sum not less than One Hundred Dollars and not exceeding Five Hundred Dollars, and that, for any neglect of the duties imposed by the Second Section hereof, the said City Inspector shall be fined by said Court in a sum not less than Twenty-five Dollars and not exceeding One Hundred Dollars.

Sec. 4. Be it further ordained, That the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to all railroad trains coming into the City whenever the Board of Health at such points South of this State will be ready to land at the Inspection Station at Fort Adams and be inspected before they will be allowed to land at any point in this State.

Certificates of inspection in New Orleans by the Inspectors of the Board of Health of the Mississippi Valley will be recognized at this Station, and it is suggested that all boats from such places provide themselves with such certificates, so as to avoid delay.

THERE were only 29 yellow fever deaths at Havana last week. Not much danger of an epidemic in the South this year.

THE Memphis Ledger says the cotton receipts of that city last season were 570,789 bales, the heaviest on record since 1871.

THE European Courts are going into mourning over the dead Count De Chambord. The people don't seem to be grieving much.

COL. E. D. FROST, Superintendent of the N., J. & C. railroad, has been presented with a gold-headed cane by his friends and co-workers on that road.

THE call for the Democratic State Convention in New York is addressed to "all who believe that the Democratic State administration of Gov. Cleveland justifies the expression of confidence which attended his election."

THE State Fair Association is making good progress, with the erection of buildings, fences, etc., on the old fair ground lot near the Capitol. One of the finest race tracks in the United States has already been prepared, and fine racing will no doubt be a feature of the coming fair at Jackson.

COL. PROWELL, a pioneer farmer, nigh his three score and ten years, says "cotton farming under the present system would bankrupt the richest man in the State." We incline to the Colonel's opinion; but why theorize; cotton farmers, as a class, are joined to their idols; generally, we let them alone.—Aberdeen Weekly.

IN conversation Saturday with a gentlemanf rom Utica, we learn that he purchased corn at that place last week for 50 cents per bushel delivered. At this time last year he was paying $1.20 per bushel, at the same place. This will give an idea of the saving that will be made to our farmers this year by raising corn at home."

THE Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle presents statistics to show that the Republican vote in that State has increased only 9,000 in eight years, while the Democratic vote, in the same period has increased only 17,000. The Chronicle is sanguine that Tennessee will cast her vote for the next Republican nominee for the Presidency, if the Republicans of the State do their duty.

DEMOCRATIC meetings were held in all the wards at Jackson Saturday night. A great deal of interest was manifested, and considerable enthusiasm prevailed. The delegates appointed to the Raymond Nominating Convention are said to be almost unanimous in favor of Jones S. Hamilton for the State Senate. It is the impression that the contest will be between Hamilton and Dabney.

A PENNSYLVANIA Republican Congressman who is now, or was very recently, at Atlantic City, said last week that while Blaine could probably get the Pennsylvania delegation to the next National Republican Convention, that his own indifference made the politicians also indifferent as to who received the support of the delegation, and it was not improbable if Blaine is not more active that Arthur will receive its support.

Our contemporary should bear in mind that there are three or four fat offices interested in this railroad supervision business, and that the kind of supervision it suggests, if adopted, would probably have to be carried on by officers already in the employment. There are a good many things in the State that need supervising a great deal worse than the railroads, but they can be passed by. Supervise the supervising by creating offices to be filled by favorites of the appointing power, is the issue now.

THE Picayune thus speaks of the New Orleans & Northeastern Road: "It is confidently expected that trains will be running about the middle of October. The track is already staked, is very fine for a new road, and fast time will be made. It will be a trifle less than 200 miles, and trains will run three hours. Without stops, of course, the time will be less than three hours, but the stops will be numerous."

PORT GIBSON.

Improvements in the Past Seven Years—A New Cotton Factory and Oil Mill—The Former Just Completed.

Its Schools and Churches—Other Attractions.

Taking advantage of the train leaving Vicksburg Friday evening, a reporter of THE POST took a run down to Port Gibson to view that now thriving and prosperous town. After an absence of seven years, the changes and improvements that have been made in that time were an agreeable surprise to him. When he was last there the town had the appearance of decay, the houses looking as though they were occupied by sufferance, and the inhabitants only waiting for old Father Time to tumble the structures down whom the occupants would remove. The whole town at the time had a sleepy, finished appearance. But there has been a great change since then, and on every hand can be seen some improvement. While it is true that not many new houses have been built, all the old-time places have been repaired and repainted. The handiwork of the artisan appears on all sides; the business houses have increased in number, and now carry large stocks of goods, and if our Vicksburg merchants sit idly down and expect that the mere fact of the completion of the railroad to Port Gibson will give them the trade of this place, they will awaken to their error before long. The merchants of Port Gibson claim that they can sell at as low a figure as can the Vicksburg merchants, and will thus be enabled to hold the trade of the town and add considerable to it.

Indeed, Port Gibson seems to have awakened from the Rip Van Winkle sleep of the past, and to have started on a new march of progress that bids fair to place her once more at the front of the growing towns of Mississippi. The location of L., N. O. & T. R. R. through the town has inspired the people with new hopes for the future.

COTTON FACTORY.

Recognizing the necessity of unity of action—a lesson that Vicksburg needs—the people of Port Gibson joined together for the purpose of building a cotton factory, and now the building is completed. It is a two-story brick structure, 186x52 feet, with engine and pickers room attacked. The building has a tin roof, and has capacity for 112 looms and 4,000 spindles. Attached to the engine room is a large stack chimney that towers over the entire structure, reaching 100 feet in height. The building was erected by Capt. T. A. Wilson, a builder of Natchez, who has been so well pleased with the future outlook of Port Gibson that he has purchased property there, and is now located in the town. The machinery has been ordered, and as soon as the railroad is completed in front of the building the machinery will be delivered, and in a few months this enterprise will be under headway. The capital stock of the company is $75,000, with the right to increase it to $125,000. There has already been subscribed for buildings, grounds, etc., between $26,000 and $27,000.

OIL FACTORY.

There is a cotton seed oil factory here that has been in operation about a year, which has done a good business since it started, and has promise of an increase of business for the coming season.

Both of these enterprises are home institutions, the largest part of the capital stock being subscribed here. The people did not sit down and wait for Northern capital. This enterprise of the little town of Port Gibson should be an incentive to other and larger cities to establish industries that will afford employment to the idle and increase the business and the wealth of the community.

PORT GIBSON'S SCHOOLS.

A letter or a sketch of this lovely little town would be incomplete without a mention of its schools. The public school would be sadly incomplete. The schools of Port Gibson are the pride of its citizens, as they well deserve to be, and one cannot imagine a town better suited for the training of the mind than this place, where the society is of the highest order, and a due regard is paid for the Sabbath. The a school for boys, has been established for four years, but is really the successor of Oakland College, one of the noted institutions of learning in the South in the ante-bellum days. The Chamberlin-Hunt, like its worthy predecessor, is a Presbyterian school, being under the control of the Mississippi Presbytery. Dr. R. G. Wharton is President, and Maj. G. W. McGinnis Secretary of the Board of Trustees. Prof. Guthrie is Principal, with a corps of four assistants. The attendance last year was 120 pupils, of which 30 were boarding scholars. The prospects for the next session, which begins on Monday, Sept. 10th, are very promising and the number of scholars for the new premises is to be larger than for the

HOW IT LOOKS.

Ohio Men Who View the Situation Differently.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Gath says: I see a good many Ohio men here, all talking politics good naturedly.

Mr. Sprague, who formerly kept the Emery hotel, says he has assurances that Hoadly is sure to be elected, and Gen. Medley says he will be elected, too, and that if two tickets are put up in Hamilton county they will only compete to give Hoadly a large vote. Mr. Ellis, formerly in the railroad service at Cincinnati, says Foraker will be elected; that he has more common sense and mental and moral courage than Hoadly. Mr. Charles W. West, who gave Cincinnati $300,000, and looks to be fifty instead of seventy, hears the boys quarrel with complacency. He is putting up at Minneapolis the largest hotel in the northwest. Mr. Whaley, says it looks as if Foraker had the advantage.

The Limitations of Railway Pooling Arrangements.

A Chicago dispatch says: It is stated on good authority that the Southwestern Railway Association will not contest the suit of the Boston Sugar Refinery, instituted to test the question whether a railway pool can divert freight from the road which it is specially consigned by the shipper. The Boston company tendered certain freight to the Rock Island Road, but the Commissioner of Pools said the freight would have to go over another road in carrying out the process of "evening up" the balances of all pool roads. Under pressure of the suit the Boston company has been allowed to have its way without dispute, and its freight has gone over the road indicated. This is accepted as a confession that the pool managers realize that they have no standing in court on the question raised, namely, that a railway as a common carrier is bound to accept all freight tendered in spite of pool regulations.

New Bankrupt Law Agitation.

A gentleman who was active in the management of the attempt to secure the passage of a bankruptcy bill in the last Congress says that committees of two commercial bodies in New York are now now engaged in considering a plan for the best presentation of the subject to the next Congress, and that the measure will be undertaken earlier than it was before. He thinks that the renewed popular agitation of the subject shows that there is a greater demand for such a law. No canvass has as yet been made to ascertain the opinion of the members of the new House on the subject. The greatest opposition to be overcome is in the debtor States and among the Southern representatives, who do not wish to increase the powers of the national courts.

IN celebrating its 110th anniversary the Baltimore American publishes a sheet which shows not only the American's progress, but in all the progress in this country. In 1773 newspapers were not the bearers of fresh news, since it took ninety days to hear from Europe, and five days were required for news to travel a distance like that between Baltimore and Philadelphia. At that day "moral pleasure" in passing from Boston from a Strephon to a Chloe were the main supply of a journal's reading matter, and a few advertisements were added to make up the sheet. The ghosts of our journalistic forefathers must smile at the complex newspaper of to-day with its many departments and write—editorial, telegraph, financial, commercial, social and dramatic.

Crops in Lowndes County.

Cotton picking commenced this week in Dr. Hutchison's neighborhood. The crop is in as good condition as could be expected, and better than it is generally represented to be. There will be a falling off on Dr. Hutchison's place of about 25 per cent, and this average it is thought will hold in his neighborhood.

Many farmers, Dr. Hutchinson among them, have raised enough corn to carry them through. There are, too, plenty of hogs in the country, which means an abundance of meat during the winter. Taking it all in all, notwithstanding cotton is short, the prospect is encouraging for farmers.—Columbus Index.

The Canvass.

Between some of the candidates the fight is growing warm, but as it is over two months yet to the election all there is plenty of time for sober second thought, and for all to so inform themselves as to vote understandingly, hence moderation and calm consideration should bear rule.

The colored voters are taking great interest in the election, and seem to be governed by the parties spirit, but a desire to place honest, capable men in office, who will do ... regardless of race, condition, etc.—Corinth Herald.

THE misses in Bordentown, Pa., have chosen queer pets, if reports be true. The favorite companions of these young ladies are turtles dressed in a unique and fashionable manner. A fashionable turtle party recently occurred. It was quite a brilliant affair, for much time and expense had been lavished upon the turtles to make them appear well and attractive for the occasion. Two turtles, dressed in elaborate style, wore white silk dresses, with trains profusely trimmed with gold embroidery. Another belle wore a dress of white plush, trimmed with blue satin.

Disease Among Horses.

We learn that H. S. Levy & Bro. have lost upward of ten horses in the last thirty days, from the disease that prevails among horses throughout this county. In this connection we will say that Mr. John Andrews has a very fine horse from the same disease.—Port Gibson News.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best sanitarium in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of some of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, sold pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS at Christ Church at 9:20 to-morrow morning.

MRS. C. C. FLOWEREE and children left Saturday night for Virginia.

SHERIFF R. F. BECK, returned this morning from a brief visit to St. Louis.

MR. JOHN HYLAND, of Yokena, came in on the Port Gibson train, this morning.

THE gauge at the Elevator this morning read 12·80, a fall of 10½ inches since Saturday.

THE Issaquena, arriving Saturday night, had 20 bales cotton, and 550 sacks seed for Powers Oil Mill.

MRS. HOLMES and daughter, Miss Havana, returned by yesterday morning's train from Washington, Iowa.

MR. and MRS. WRIGHT, of Clarke & Co., accompanied by his wife, departed by Saturday night's train for New York.

MR. MAT. BEDFORD, accompanied by Miss Daisy Bedford, were among the passengers leaving Saturday night by rail.

MESSRS. ROBT. C. KELLEY and L. T. Newman, merchants of Port Gibson, are in the city this morning on a business trip.

MR. A. G. CASSELL, after being confined to his residence for some time by illness, is able to be out again at Hardaway & Cassell's.

MR. and MRS. WRIGHT, of Clarke & Co., while absent from home Friday night had their office broken into and robbed of $275 in gold and currency. He scanned some negroes of the theft, when one of them fled, and, refusing to halt on being so ordered, was shot by the Doctor, the ball entering his back near the lower part of the muscles. The wounded man was brought home on the city car this morning, and is doing well under the circumstances.

MR. GEO. SPENGLER'S Saw Mill made a shipment to-day of a lot of lumber to Port Gibson, the first shipment of the kind over the new road.

MR. J. F. WARREN, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., came in Saturday night on the freight. If Mr. Warren succeeds in finding suitable employment he will probably make Vicksburg his future home.

GEN. WM. SOOY SMITH, who had the original contract for the bridge across Yazoo river, for the L., N. O. & T. R. R., came in this morning by the V. & M. train.

MR. W. H. SHELBY, representing Claflin, Allen & Co., of St. Louis, is in the city. Mr. Shelby is an old Vicksburg boy, and should be warmly received by our merchants.

MR. NAT. DAY, baggage master on the train to Port Gibson, has been employed on the Port Gibson & Grand Gulf Road for the past eleven years, and is a railroad man of considerable experience.

THE Post-office received this morning a supply of new postal notes, which they are engaged in issuing to-day. The limit for these notes is $4.99. Up to 11 o'clock five had been issued.

MR. JAMES WARE is home again after a visit to Philadelphia, where he consulted some of the ablest physicians in the country. We are glad to state that his health is much improved.

THE first grand drill of the season of the Vicksburg Rifles takes place to-night. A full attendance on the part of the members is requested, as the men will be placed for the grand competitive drill to take place next November. Business of importance will be transacted.

TO THOSE who contemplate a trip to Port Gibson, we would call attention to the advertisement of the Bank Hotel a first-class hotel in every respect. The table is well supplied and the beds clean and comfortable.

THE Board of Supervisors met in regular session at the Court-house at noon today. Up to two o'clock nothing could be secured for publication from them. Little or no business of importance, was transacted by the Board this morning.

A FIRE, supposed to be the work of an incendiary, broke out in one of Fred. Loyd's houses on the Levee last night. The damage was only slight and is fully covered by insurance, which was placed by Capt. Wm. Chamberlin, in the Hanover Insurance Co., of New York.

GEO. S. IRVING received a shipment of seven bales of Allen long staple cotton, from Nanechehaw by this morning's train on the L., N. O. & T. R. R. This is the first shipment of cotton over this road.

MR. W. H. ERRINGTON returned this morning from his plantation (Australia) in Eagle Bend, en route to Raymond. He reports crops between here and Eagle Bend as very fair; but says that the drouth has materialy damaged cotton up above.

THE telegraph line of the L., N. O. & Texas R. R., has reached Capt. Smedes's place on Deer Creek. An office will be opened at that point in the next day or so. Only three miles remain to be completed to the northern end of Sharkey county. A permanent office will be put in at Rolling Fork in the next few days.

IT is very dusty, traveling on the L., N. O. & T. road between here and Port Gibson. No rain has fallen along the line of road for over six weeks, consequently the crops are completely burned up. What cotton that has not been destroyed by the drouth is opening rapidly and being picked out as fast as it opens.

We trust that our readers will not forget that Rev. Dr. Carl Marshall, of Vicksburg, will preach in Tallulah on Sunday next, the 2d inst. Dr. Marshall comes among us by invitation, and we hope to see a large congregation present to hear him.—Madison Journal, 1st.

SARAH WATKINS, the mother of the boy Eugene McLennon, who waski lled last Friday evening on the street railroad, then employed by Mr. J. M. Gibson, who will enter suit for her against the railroad company for $5,000 damages. The suit will be entered in t h Circuit Court.

THE residence of Mr. King Dorwart, at the intersection of Harrison and Great Road streets, was burned to the ground last night. The building was owned by Mrs. Margaret Hays and was insured for $1,000, which was placed in the Queen Insurance Co., of England, by Capt. Wm. Chamberlin.

MESSRS ANNIE and LIZZIE WRIGHT, the beautiful and attractive daughters of Mr. C. E. Wright, of this city, came in on the first train from Port Gibson this morning. They have been on a visit of several weeks to their cousins, Misses Delia and Maggie Burnes, two of our sister city's most accomplished daughters.

MESSRS. C. P. MASON, at Anthony's Ferry, while absent from home Friday night had their office broken into and robbed of $275 in gold and currency. He scanned some negroes of the theft, when one of them fled, and, refusing to halt on being so ordered, was shot by the Doctor, the ball entering his back near the lower part of the muscles. The wounded man was brought home on the city car this morning, and is doing well under the circumstances.

MESSRS. J. J. RYAN of Millikins Bend; J. J. Hardy, R. P. Alden, B. A. Rucks, of the Delta Review, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clack and Mr. Robert Lee Clack of Greenville, arrived on the City of Providence this morning. Mr. R. L. Clack is the lucky man who is destined to lead Miss Bettie Edgar to the altar at Christ Church to-morrow. After the wedding ceremony the party will leave on the Providence for Greenville.

The First Regular Train From Port Gibson.

The first regular train on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., from Port Gibson, arrived this morning at 9:15, the regular schedule time, with a fair list of passengers. The train will leave again this evening at 3 o'clock, and make daily trips hereafter between the two points, leaving Port Gibson at 7:15 a.m., and Vicksburg at 3 p.m., giving the people along the line nearly six hours in the city.

Among the passengers by the train this morning were Misses Annie and Lizzie Wright, of this city, who have been on a visit to friends in Port Gibson, and the following people from Port-Gibson: Miss Katie Ryan, L. T. Newman and his little daughter Bertha, R. C. Kelley, T. M. Bowie and Robt. McAlpin. The following railroad men were also passengers: Col. Hazlehurst, J. M. Hazlehurst, J. P. McDonald, J. C. French, Murray Nicholson, Capt. Jeff Adams and Mr. Edwards.

Railroad News.

Rumor has it that about the 10th of this month there will be three passenger trains a day each way on the V. & M. Road, two of them going through to Chattanooga, and the other, the accommodation, going as far as Meridian. Two daily freights will also be put on. We hope that Madam Rumor is correct in this.

A new locomotive for the V. & M. Road arrived yesterday, and two more are expected daily. This is good news for Vicksburg.

The train for Port Gibson leaves daily, except Sunday, at 3 p.m.

It is now an assured fact that there is to be some lively competition in the New Orleans and Vicksburg trade the coming Fall and Winter. Commodore Parisot stated to a reporter of THE VICKSBURG POST on the 29th ult. that he was now having the steamers S. H. Parisot and City of Yazoo overhauled and repaired, preparatory to placing them in the trade between Vicksburg and New Orleans, and as soon as the business opened both of these staunch boats would commence running, making a trip a week between each place. These boats will be run as part of the P. Line, a Vicksburg enterprise.

The S. H. Parisot is being overhauled and repainted at this point, and the City of Yazoo is being repaired at Vicksburg. Both of these are first-class boats and good as new. Commodore Parisot, the head of the P. Line, is one of the most popular steamboatmen in the South, and will no doubt succeed in his new undertaking.

Frank James' Trial.

ST. LOUIS, September 1.—The Post-Dispatch Gallatin special says: The State named witnesses in rebuttal in Frank James' trial, S. T. Brown, an attorney and a witness for the defense, who was on the train, was recalled, and numerous witnesses were introduced who impeached his testimony.

Mrs. Sarah Hite testified that there was no physical resemblance between Wood Hite and Frank James.

Silas Norris testified Wood Hite was not as tall as Frank James and bore very little resemblance to him.

Major J. H. McGee, who was on the train at Winston, was put on the stand, but his evidence was not material. This closed the case and the court adjourned until Monday, when arguments will commence.

More Hours and Extra Pay in the Western Union.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Western Union Telegraph Company have issued an order making the hours for night work eight, instead of seven and a half, and allowing extra pay for Sunday work. Extra service will be based on the number of week days in the month. This will result in a considerable increase of salary.

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Call of President Trowbridge, of the Executive Committee, to the District and Ward Clubs.

ROOMS DEMOCRATIC EX. COM. WARREN CO.,
VICKSBURG, MISS., Aug. 29, 1883.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party of Warren County, held August 25, 1883, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a Convention of the Democratic party of Warren county, Mississippi, be, and the same is hereby called, to be held at the Court-house, in said county, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, 1883, at the hour of 12 o'clock, for the purpose of determining upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign and to make nominations for the different offices, about such Convention, when assembled, deem the same advisable.

Resolved, That said Convention shall be composed of ten delegates from each Democratic Club in the county and each Ward in the city of Vicksburg, to be selected by the different Clubs at times and places to be fixed by the Presidents thereof, preceding the time fixed for the holding of said Convention.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the above resolution, the different Ward and District Clubs of the city of Vicksburg and county of Warren are hereby requested to meet at such time and place as they may select, and proceed to select ten delegates to attend a Court-house, on the Democratic party to be held at the Court-house of the city of Vicksburg, on the 15th day of September next, at 12 o'clock m., to determine upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign, and to make nominations for the different offices about said Convention when assembled deem the same advisable.

As the Convention to assemble on the 15th of September will determine the course to be pursued by the Democrats of the county in the approaching campaign, it is respectfully urged that the different Ward and District Clubs select the very best men in their respective Wards and Districts to represent them in the Convention. Let it be generally understood by them that when they act in said Convention they act for and truly represent the wishes of the majority of their constituents, so that any action the Convention may take will mean that it is the action and sentiments of the Democrats of Warren county—a delegation speaks that it reflects the true sentiments of the Democrats of their respective sections. If we expect to accomplish anything we must go to work, and in earnest, resolving that there shall be no dissensions in our ranks.

Respectfully,. W. L. TROWBRIDGE,
Chairman Democratic Ex. Com.

Irish Householders Deprived of Homes.

DUBLIN, Sept. 3.—A mass meeting was held Sunday at Cappamare, and Michael Davitt delivered an address, stating that by the tyrannical operation of the landlords in Ireland, six thousand householders had been deprived of their homes within the quarter ending the first of July.

Injured Crops.

PETERSBURG, Va., Sept. 3.—The drouth of the past two months has greatly damaged the crops throughout the South side of Virginia. In some sections there is not more than half a crop of corn, cotton and tobacco. The streams are all fast drying up, thus rendering milling operations almost impracticable. The early fall rains are hopefully looked for.

JAVA

Investigating the Extent of the Disasters.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 3.—The Marquis of Ripon, Governor General of British India, had sent two agents to Bantam to ascertain the extent of the calamity in Java and neighboring Islands, caused by the recent volcanic disturbances.

Ships have been sent to warn vessels approaching the Strait of aSunda of the danger of navigating therein.

A committee with the Prince of Orange at the head have been formed here to collect subscriptions toward the relief of the sufferers by the calamity.

A correspondent at Amsterdam says it is believed 100,000 persons perished in North Bantom in the recent calamity; it is also believed the garrison and fort at Onjer were swept away.

An extensive plain of volcanic shore formed in the sea near Lampon, Sumatra, preventing connection with Telok, Belonge and Southwest Java.

GALVESTON, Sept. 3.—A News' Marshall special says: Late last night occurred the sequel to the difficulties of yesterday resulting from the attempt to organize a negro military company. A committee of whites went to the negroes' rendezvous, intending to observe the proceedings of the colored men. The house was found guarded by a dozen blacks, one of whom, after calling out for the Caucusians to halt, immediately fired his shot gun in the face of a shoulder.

A general firing then began, the negroes shooting from behind the trees. No one was killed. Two colored children were struck by stay bullets, but not seriously injured.

A signal was sounded, and in a few moments 300 whites were ready for action. Committees were sent in every direction, but the negroes could not be found.

The town was strictly patrolled all night.

The negro who did the first shooting is known. He and others were looked for to-day, but were not discovered. A feverish excitement prevails. The negroes have threatened to attack the town to-morrow, but it is thought they will hardly undertake it.

Old and leading Africans to-day called on the officers of the white forces and pledged their word and control the younger element and break up the organization.

A BOOM FOR GEN. ARTHUR.

A Mysterious Conclave of Southern Politicians Working Up an Arthur Movement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—A delegation of Virginia Readjusters and other noted anti-Bourbon leaders of the South have been in session in this city considering the political situation. Their meeting was a secret one. There were said to be present at it Mahone, Riddleberger, Gen. Longstreet, United States Marshal of Georgia; Gen. Chambers, of Mississippi, Col. Jones, Collector of Customs at Petersburg, and other Virginia politicians. The gentlemen are mysterious as to the purpose of their conference or the results of it, but they admit, in substance, that if Gen. Arthur shall choose, as they put it to stand by them they will support him for the Republican nomination to secure for him the Electoral vote of at least one Southern State. That is unquestionably the position of Gen. Mahone, and he is endeavoring so to manage the politics of Virginia that he can control its Electoral vote. The fact that John S. Woltz, late candidate for Congress on the Readjuster ticket from the Valley of Virginia districts, who had difficulties with Mahone, attended the conference, would indicate Mahone has healed the difference.

Railroad Progress.

Track laying on the Valley Road (L., N. O. & T.) is being pushed from New Orleans and Memphis and both ways from Vicksburg. The last piece of the work, 9 miles, between Memphis and Vicksburg, has been let to Messrs. McTighe and Bernhardt. They broke ground during the past week and now have a good force on it.

Having finished his preliminary survey, Capt. McAlla is now locating the line from there to the foot of Lake Bolivar.—Greenville Times, 1st.

Don't forget to stop in at JOHN BARRY'S at the Iron bridge on the Cemetery road, and have a cooling draught.

SHERMAN NOT A CANDIDATE.

The Ohio Statesman Declares That He Will Not Run For President.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The Washington correspondent of the New York Herald says: "The time having arrived when candidates for the Presidency are supposed to be active in their own behalf, the question has been asked, what Senator John Sherman's plans are in the next contest? Nothing but the answer has twice been made to personal friends that he is not a candidate, and would not be under any circumstances. Sherman said that he was so deceived by persons calling themselves his friends during the last contest for the Republican nomination that he had no desire to futher sacrifice the remaining confidence he has in human nature. This remark is understood not to apply to General Garfield or Governor Foster, both of whom he has hitherto exculpated from any such suspicion, but it does apply to a number of men in whom he confided and by whom he was imposed upon. Mr. Sherman says he will be glad when he is able to devote his entire attention to business matters, and looks back with great pleasure to the time when he was Secretary of the Treasury."

JO BLACKBURN has withdrawn from the canvass for the speakership and announced himself a candidate for the United States Senate to replace Senator Williams, "old Cerre Gordo." General Williams is also a candidate to succeed himself, and he is a most able and magnetic politician. The better opinion is that Williams "has the bulge" on all opposers, but Blackburn is the favorite son of Kentucky, and will make the contest very lively. Both men are noted for the courage which counts in such a struggle, and both are equally honorable and high minded.

Differing as we do from Capt Blackburn we have a hearty respect for him. What he believes he believes; what he rejects he rejects with emphasis. He is for tariff for revenue only and denounced in unmeasured terms the two last Ohio and Indiana platforms that are quasi protection.

Blackburn would be a senator of the Maine stripe, brilliant, bumptious, honest and lively.—Chattanooga Times

Cooper's Well.

The Cooper's Well case was up before Chancellor Peyton on Tuesday and Wednesday, who set aside the last sale upon the ground of insufficiency of the bid. S. Livingston was appointed Receiver and a new sale ordered. It is understood an appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court.

It is hardly probable that Cooper's Well will be rebuilt in time for the season of 1884, even. A new sale has been ordered, and after having been made must be confirmed by the Chancery Court which does not meet until the 3d Monday of next February.—Raymond Gazette.

Remember that JOHN BARRY, on the National Cemetery Road, at the iron bridge, keeps ice-cold and fresh Beer. 13

We learn from an Alabama exchange that one of the most successful cotton growers of the State combats the ravages of the cotton worm by sifting the following on the plant by means of tin vessels having finely perforated bottoms: To one barrel of the cheapest flour add 10 pounds of Paris green, 10 pounds of Carbine and 10 pounds of powdered rosin. This quantity is sufficient for four acres.

Military Matters.

The Volunteer Southerns did not turn out last night to drill. Mondays and Thurdays are their regular nights.

The grand first drill of the Rifles last night was somewhat of a failure, but 16 men answered to their names at the roll call. The drilling of the company was very good; in fact, much better than was expected. They tried the "load and fire" last night for the first time and did very well. After the drill a business meeting was held, and one new member elected. On motion Capt. Cowan appointed a committee of three to confer with a like committee to be appointed by the Volunteer Southrons to arrange matters for a joint parade to take place in the near future. The committee met at the store of Mr. C. J. Searles this morning and decided that the two companys would turn out in joint parade next Tuesday, provided that it rains sufficiently to lay the dust in the meantime.

It is so difficult to get twenty-four men of one company together that some of the members of the Rifles are talking of drilling in some of the Volunteer Southrons, and drilling them for the competitive drill. Nearly all the members of the Southrons, it is thought, would agree to enter the best men in the ranks of the Rifles, in order to aid Vicksburg in carrying of the prize next November.

Railroad Items.

Major J. M. Edwards, superintendent of the road, is now in correspondence with Major Terrell, Superintendent of the Southern Mail Service, in regard to opening a mail route between here and Port Gibson. An answer will be received from Major Terrell in a few days.

It has been rumored in Port Gibson that the L., N. O. & T. R. R. had purchased land at Warrenton for the purpose of locating the shops of the road at that place.

A POST reporter inquired of Maj. Edwards if there was any foundation for the rumor, and he said there was not, as the Road has not purchased a foot of ground at Warrenton besides its right of way.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 4, 1883.

JAVA has forty-five volcanoes, and two-thirds of them participated in the recent eruptions that resulted so disastrously to life and property.

SAM RANDALL has recently been favorably mentioned by leading journals as a suitable candidate for the Presidency. The Democrats might go farther and fare worse.

THE receipts of cotton at Natchez for the year ending August 31st, 1883, were 46,200 bales. Of this number 21,915 were brought by the N., J. & C. Railroad.

PRESIDENT A. G. HAYGOOD writes strongly to the Independent of the need of negro doctors in the South. He says there ought to be a thousand negro doctors in the Southern States.

THE Chamber of Commerce of St. Paul has adopted the following resolution: "Resolved, that we earnestly favor the adoption of a National system of telegraph by the Government"

THE Commissioner of Patents has made the important decision that "a word merely descriptive of an article of trade or its qualities, ingredients or characteristics, cannot become a lawful trademark by virtue of a change in its orthography to that of a foreign language, in which it possesses the same meaning."

THE politician who writes an open letter or talks with his open mouth is lost.—N. O. Picayune.

Senator George, of this State wrote an open letter on what the Meridian Mercury calls the "goose question," and if what the Picayune says be true, the Senator is a "gone gosling." We might further say the letter was open to a good deal of criticism and received it.

THE conference of Southern Republicans, Conditionists, and Independents at Washington, has attracted a great deal of attention throughout the country, and been the cause of numerous comments. It is understood that the conference will result in a movement to support Arthur for the Presidential nomination, and an effort to give him the electoral votes of some of the Southern States.

THERE promises to be a lively contest for the nomination for Chancery Clerk of Hinds county, at the ensuing Democratic Convention. Mr. W. T. Ratliff, the present incumbent, was unanimously indorsed for re-election by the Raymond precinct meeting a few days ago. Several other competent and popular gentlemen are also staunchly supported for the position, among them Mr. W. W. Downing, a former deputy in the Clerk's office.

THE Mobile Register thinks that there was altogether too much gush about the recent performance at Chautauqua where Confederate and Union war songs were sung and the Rev. Dr. Haygood of Georgia waved an American flag and spoke of the days when he would have died for the Confederate banner. The Register objects to these gushing episodes because they seem to proceed on the idea that complete reconciliation between the sections is something yet to be accomplished. The Register says:

"Now, Dr. Haygood is no doubt an excellent and well-meaning man, and is endeavoring to accomplish good. But can real good be accomplished by talking as if the war were just concluded? The South has long since shown its fidelity to the Constitution, there is no doubt of its attachment to the Union, and the flag of that Union floats from one end of our section to the other, the recognized and honored emblem of a free and a happy people.

A GREAT deal of blowing and balderdash has been indulged in by newspapers "that ought to know better," about Vicksburg being the headquarters of the great National Cotton Planters' Association. A stranger reading the slush that has been written in laudation of this Association would think that it would immediately relieve the whole South from whatever evils it labors under, and that a city so fortunate as to be its headquarters must necessarily be so rejuvenated by the enterprise and benefits of the Association as to become also the headquarters of manufactures and busy industries. Most Southern cities, no doubt, envy Vicksburg in the possession of the headquarters of that great Association. Now if any such there be, we will make a proposition that before it will be bothered with the headquarters of our Association it will first establish a cotton factory.

Natchez Industries.

Vicksburg has so many natural advantages for trade and commerce, that her people have not given the subject of establishing manufacturing industries sufficient attention. The city of Natchez was in depressed condition, and her people realized that if they did not go to work and do something that would revive the drooping business of the place and infuse new energy into the people, the city would dry up and become worthless as a place for residence or business. They went bravely to work and built a railroad that was much needed, and also established two cotton factories. The results have been most gratifying and satisfactory. Port Gibson has also taken steps to establish a cotton factory and if that little town succeeds in putting one cotton factory into successful operation, we believe Vicksburg could, with the same energy and enterprise have half a dozen. To show what Natchez had done in the way of manufacturing enterprse, we copy the following from a late issue of the Democrat:

The cotton manufacture has been the most important and extensive branch of of manufacturing, and during the year ending August. 31st, the mills of this city have consumed over one-tenth of the cotton received at this place. The Natchez Cotton Mill during the year consumed 3,623 bales from which was produced over 5,000,000 yards of cotton goods. This mill was started in February, 1878, and was of little less than half the capacity it now has. After working nearly three years the directory concluded to enlarge the mil, and the machinery was stopped from the 28th of November, 1880, until the 7th of February, 1881. It then commenced to run with its present capacity, time of course being consumed in getting the machinery in good running order. Notwithstanding these hindrances the mill since its organization has consumed 14,341 bales of cotton.

The Rosalie Mill was begun as a yarn mill, on the 4th of July, 1881, and produced only yarn until October, 1882. It was then stopped for the purpose of putting in looms, and did not start until January, 1883. It has consumed to date 3,168 bales of cotton, and has turned out about 1,500,000 yards of cloth. During the past year the consumption of the Rosalie Mill has been 1,387 bales of cotton.

During the past twelve months these two mills have expended in this city alone, for wages and material, over $300,000. So much for keeping and manufacturing our material at home. But for these factories this $300,000 would have been expended in Lowell or some other Northern city, and added to their wealth instead of our own.

The handle and wood work factory in this city was started as an experiment, on a small scale, in April last. A single lathe was all the projectors would venture at first. But the business soon justified them in putting in another, and their prospects are such that the company will soon greatly extend their factory, and we expect to see it soon one of our largest and most valuable industries. Even on the limited scale on which it is at present conducted, it has proved very advantageous to the city, the factory paying out nearly $1,000 a month for material and labor.

It must be remembered that not only the amount paid for material and labor is that much retained at home, but the profits on the goods sold in their manufactured shapes is that much added to the wealth of the home community.

SOME of the New York papers are in favor of suppressing the ringing of church bells in that city, and the matter has actually been brought before the Board of Health. The paper called Truth accuses the Star of taking the sentimental view of the question, and the latter journal thus eloquently pleads for the cause of the bells:

We do take the sentimental view of the subject; and Heaven forbid the time should ever come when sentiment shall be made to yield to selfishness, and humanity become subject to a digesting machine, and no higher aims than paltry personal ambitions and the amassing of coins. We want some of the poetry of the world intermixed with the practical pursuits of life * * * Ah, no; the city would not gain by the suppression of this sentiment. We should be loth to see relegated to the silence of mere bell-metal the sweet Christmas chimes of Old Trinity ringing out in the frosty midnight air the glad tones and tidings of the Adeste Fidelis. We should miss the knell of the dying year and the joyful welcoming of the new; and would regard Easter time as truly come wanting the joyful announcement from the church towers of the city that "He is indeed risen." It may be sentiment, but there is solemnity in it. Many a religious feeling has been awakened by the sounds in bells that never seek religion in churches. Too many considerations, social, personal and religious, cluster around the "musical, magical bells," to permit of their easy surrender.

THE Tilden boom is making rapid progress among Western Democrats, and bears evidence of being skillfully manipulated. Out of 41 replies indicating Democratic preferences in various parts of Indiana, 398 were for Tilden and Hendricks, and Illinois was almost unanimous for "the old ticket." There are indications also of a revival of the "literary bureau."

THE Cincinnati Enquirer treats the Hon. Joe McDonald's claims to the Presidential nomination with distinguished contempt. It observes that he is not a leader of men or of anything, but simply "an available, palaverous, safe lawyer."

Drouth of 1883.

From all parts of the cotton growing country we hear complaints of the injury to the growing crop by the continuous dry weather. In Texas many thousand cattle have died for want of water, and many stockmen are shipping their herds north in search of it. The drouth has been, and is still, general from North Carolina to Texas. Its blighting influence has been manifested to our planters on the alluvial land in this parish in the shape of the extraordinary shedding of forms and young bolls. If it has seriously injured cotton in our rich bottom lands, how much more disastrous it must be in the sandy upland? The last crop was over seven million bales. This crop will be very much shorter. Some authorities say it will be from one million to twelve hundred and fifty thousand bales short of that figure. Now, consumers and speculators will not, or affect not, to believe the reports of injury to the crop. They are interested in getting our cotton as cheaply as possible. They are governed by the past receipts and nothing else. If the receipts in September this year are as large as they were last year cotton will not advance. Our planters are trying to cut their own throats and play into the hands of consumers by their unseeming haste to ship their cotton. It is awfully clear interest to ship and sell cotton for 9½ cents, basis middling, when it is almost absolutely certain to advance, provided the crop is marketed slowly. If the cotton is not rushed to market too rapidly the planter will make up for the loss to his crop by an increase in the price. Cotton is far now than it has been since 1845 (except a short period in 1878, when the Glasgow Bank failed.) There is every reason why cotton should advance, and none why it should decline. Planters talk bull and act bear by pushing it on the market, thereby assisting those interested in keeping down prices. The prolonged dry weather has hastened the maturity of the cotton plant, caused bolls to open prematurely, and the early picking and shipping will be no index to the final output of the crop. Speculators (unless they are assisted by the producers), cannot influence the market for any considerable period. The economic law of supply and demand will assert its power, and no combination can resist its force and influence.—North Louisiana Journal.

Railroad Supervision.

The spectacle in Mississippi just now is peculiar. We have two hundred of miles of railroad in actual operation, and other hundreds of miles in course of construction. All the life and prosperity in the State is absolutely along the lines of these roads. Back in the interior; on either side, there is a graveyard stillness, a business and financial prostration, without a parallel in the history of the State. With the exception of the Natchez and Jackson road, the money employed in railroad building in Mississippi has come or is coming for the most part from the other States—Mississippi furnishing, to some extent, 'promises to pay' only. All this is not peculiar; the peculiar part is yet to be told, and it is, that there are those who are dissatisfied with such a state of things. They want to supervise the railroads. They propose to supervise them by boards of political commissioners, all connected no doubt with the very close political corporation which it is charged now exists in the State. We suppose the railroads are giving too much life and prosperity to suit the gentlemen connected with the close corporation, (whose business it is to hold the offices and consume the tax money,) and they earnestly desire to check things. We rather think the people have more confidence in the railroads than in the political rings, and would prefer to see the former supervised first, and the railroads attended to when we get more of them.—Raymony Gazette.

All Depends upon New York.

In 1879 more Democratic than Republican votes were cast in New York State. But owing to a division in the Democratic party the votes of the majority were scattered and wasted, and the Republican candidate for Govenor was elected. That was the year preceding a Presidential election. The effect of the demoralization of 1879 unfitted our great organization for the battle of the following year, and we were beaten after a gallant stand.

New York must be carried by the Democrats this fall. Speculation upon Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts is not profitable. We absolutely need none of these States. The Republicans are welcome to them. A huge mistake is committed when we allow our time to be taken up with them to the exclusion of the incomparably more important business on hand in the Empire State. It is as certain as any future event can be that the party which carries New York next year will seat the President. And after the advantage gained last Fall, if we succeed in holding the State in November next year the party, we verily believe, shall have gained many points in the political tournament, and driven our adversaries to the wall of lasting despondency. In 1879 the Democracy lost the State through disunion; it must carry it now, or else prepare for defeat in 1884.

Short Crops.

Mr. W. E. Collins, of Steele's Bayou, a farmer of experience, says that the crop that was in sight three weeks ago has disappeared, and from the most brilliant prospects that we have had for many years the crop will not go over the average for the past four years.

Issaquena is not the whole country, but the conditions have been generally the same, and we presume that the common experience of the cotton section will not be very different from that of Mr. Collins. The false impression about the size of the present crop has run middling down to 9¾, with only slight prospects for an improvement until there is no middling to sell.

If the law of supply and demand were the law that regulates the price of cotton, we should receive about the same price for cotton that was paid for the use of 82-38, as the crop seems to be no larger.—Mayersville Spectator.

The cotton worm is at work stripping the cotton stalks of leaves, forms and young bolls. Several plantations in the bend are almost clean. Mr. Aroni's place, below Waterproof, has been completely eaten up. We hear the worm is on nearly every plantation in sufficient numbers to eat the crop. Within the next week the entire crop of the parish will be stripped by the pest.—North Louisiana Journal.

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of the EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the law for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment avese to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

CLIPPINGS.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The inventory of the appraisers of the late Shinkle estate was filed for record in the county Clerk's office in Covington yesterday. The family residence on Garrard street is valued at $22,000; Capt. Shinkle's life estate in the farm of eighty-seven acres on the Lexington pike is reported as covered with a mortgage for $21,000 to the Kenton Insurance Company, and not valuable above the incumbrance. The stocks held by Capt. Shinkle are reported as follows: Queen City National Bank of Cincinnati, 20 shares of $100 each, at $108, $2160; Champion Coal and Tow Company, Cincinnati, 50 shares of $1,000 each, at 40 cents, $20,000, the certificate for ten of these shares being mislaid; Kenton Insurance Company, Covington, 371 shares of $50 each, at $1 30, $24,147 50; Union Insurance Company, Cincinnati, 106 shares of $20 each, at 50 cents, $1060; Insurance Adjustment Company, Cincinnati, 5 shares of $100 each at par, $500; First National Bank, Covington, 3 shares of $50 each, at $1.50 each, $450; Marine Railway and Dry Dock Company, Cincinnati, 112 shares of $100 each at par, $11,200; Odd Fellows' Hall Association, 15 shares of $25 each, at par, $375; Covington and Cincinnati Bridge Company, 68 shares of $100 each, common stock, $6800. This aggregates $60,492 50 in stocks, at their market value. Capt. Shinkle also holds an endowment policy for $8000, payable in 1873, which he has turned over to his assignees, and its presentvalue is put down at $2000.—Cincinnati News Journal, 28th.

Home.

Oh! what is home? that sweet companionship
Of life the better part;
The happy smile of welcome on the lip,
Upspringing from the heart.

It is the eager clasp of kindly hands,
The long-remembered one,
The ready sympathy which understands
All feeling by its own.

The rosy cheek of little children pressed
To ours in loving glee;
The presence of our dearest and our best,
No matter where we be.

And, failing this, a prince may homeless live,
Though palace walls are nigh;
And, having it, a desert shore may give
The joy wealth cannot buy.

Far-reaching as the earth's remotest span,
Widespread as ocean foam,
One thought is sacred in the breast of man
—It is the thought of home.

That little word his human fate shall bind
With deathless shrine above.
For there the home of his immortal soul
Is in God's wider love.

Crops and Weather.

The past week has been parching dry with cold nights and mornings and hot noons.

Cotton picking is now general and good. Upon sandy lands and cotton stunted by fall usage the drought has told. But the chief damage has been from boll worm. During the past two weeks they have done very material harm; more in some localities than others.

The army worm, 3rd crop, has appeared upon some places and will soon strip a good deal of the cotton.

Summed up, the condition and the promise not as favorable as ten days since. But there will be a good crop made, if the gathering season continues favorable, upon cotton that has not been neglected or treated injudiciously.

Mr. Jno. W. Harrow, informs us that his experience with lamps, for the destruction of the moth, is sufficient to convince any one of the possibility of destroying all insects whose progeny is injurious. He says not fire, as the heat drives away the moth. But with a light with a receptacle for the moth beneath, he has destroyed them nightly until the receptacle was full. Of course its full efficiency can only be obtained by concerted action.

There has been shipped during the past week 9 bales, by the steamer Blanks; previously 2 bales. Total 11 bales.—Greenville Times 1st.

Titled Englishmen in America.

While it is true that most of the titled Englishmen now in this country were brought here as curiosities by our wealthy railroad magnates, it is equally to be otherwise than that their visit will have a good effect. Although he will not Lord Coningsby to any more of them, with the idea that the home impressed in America besides the tuft-hunters and guest he is. The Members of Parliament who come to assist in driving the last golden spike in the Canadian Railroad will return with the knowledge that Americans are scarcely conscious of the presence among them of Mr. Henry Villard. Even Mr. Sam Hatch's guests, when they go back, will have occasion to express surprise that while the newspapers speak of Uncle Sam Barlow, the people, if they have ever heard of him at all, regard him only as one of themselves. All this knowledge carried to England by titled Englishmen, and by Englishmen quite as good as the titled kind, will direct attention to the fact that America in reality cares very little for her rich men while living, but is a good country for a title Englishman to come to, even if he does not come as a rich man's guest.—N. Y. Star.

Death of Dr. Alexander.

Dr. S. Alexander, for forty-seven years a highly esteemed citizen of Clinton, this county, died last night, at about seventy years. Dr. Alexander was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church from manhood. His death will be greatly regretted by the christian people of all denominations where he was personally known. Several years ago he moved to Jackson, but it is understood it is his purpose to leave his property at his death to the Presbyterian church at Clinton. As he was a man of means, and had no children, his estate will be quite large.—Jackson Clarion.

Clinton, Hinds County, Miss.,

REV. WALTER [illegible], A.M.,

Who will send catalogue, or give other information respecting the Institution, on application.

This is the oldest Institution for the education of Young Ladies, and is without a superior, in the State or Southwest.

The year now opening has been eminently prosperous, filling the Institution's accommodations for pupils to their utmost capacity.

Among the many superior advantages are: Extensive and Thorough Courses of Study; the Long and Successful Experience of the Heads of its Departments; Educational Facilities such as Apparatus, Cabinets, Libraries, etc., the accumulation of nearly half of a century; Expenses, considering the QUANTITY and QUALITY of the returns made, very low.

The Thirty-first Collegiate year begins Tuesday, September 25th.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 48 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

GEO. K. BIRCHETT and Frank Beck arrived home this morning.

MR. SAM WATTS, of Meridian, was a passenger to Port Gibson by rail last evening.

MR. JULIUS RUHMAN is home again from a trip to the Northern markets, where he has purchased a large stock of goods.

MR. H. ST. L. COPPEE arrived home this morning from Tennessee, where he has been for his health. He is much improved by his trip.

MR. A. P. BROWN and wife of St. Joseph, La., came in this morning and leave this evening for their home.

MISSES LIZZIE and Josephine Spengler, of Jackson, came in on the 9:30 train this morning and will spend several days with friends in this city.

THE following passengers arrived by train from Port Gibson this morning: Geo Rector, Mrs Roberts, Frank Ingleing, Robt. McAlpine, Edward Klaus.

WE regret to chronicle the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs Emile Bonelli, which occurred early this morning. The funeral of the little one takes place to-morrow at 11 a.m.

THE Board of Supervisors met at 9 o'clock to-day in regular adjourned session. At this meeting the Board will levy the tax for the ensuing year.

SOME midnight marauders attempted to break into the window of a room occupied by Mrs. Fisher at Squire Lindsey's residence last night. They were frightened off before they had secured an entrance to the building.

ON account of the press of matter in our local columns, we are compelled to postpone, until to-morrow, our report of the discussion at the Council on the question of dispensing with the Special Office.

MR. WINFIELD SCOTT, formerly of Claiborne county, Miss., now of Chicot county, Ark., is in the city, on his return from visiting friends in his old home. He reports good crops in his portion of the state but very bad in the hill region.

MRS. MARY HENNESSY, an old and respected citizen of Vicksburg, departed this life this morning. The funeral will take place from the residence on Mulberry street at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

All Grocers sell PARAGON COOKING OIL. se4

Hymeneal.

At Christ Church this morning, the Rev. Dr. Sansom officiating, Mr. R. L. Clack, of Greenville, and Miss Bettie Edgar, of this city, were united in the bonds of matrimony. A large number of the friends of the young couple were present to see them embark on the journey of life. The couple were attended by five bridesmaids and groomsmen.

THE POST extends its congratulations to the groom, who has won one of the fairest jewels that glisten in the crown of Vicksburg. The bride possesses all the graces and virtues that adorns maidenhood, and in this city where she is best known, she has a host of friends who wish her the realization to their fullest extent of the bright dreams of her young life. May no sorrow ere cross the pathway of this young couple thus joined.

Of Mr. Clack, it can be said he is well worthy of his bride, and higher encomiums could not be bestowed upon the happy man.

The young couple left here by the steamer City of Providence, for Greenville, their future home, at 10 o'clock. A large number of friends accompanied them to the boat wishing them joy and happiness.

Dr. Cook's Bond Reduced.

A mandate was received by the Circuit Clerk this morning from the Supreme Court, reducing the bond of Dr. P. H. Cook from $10,000 to $7,500. The latter bond had not been made up to 2 o'clock to-day.

A meeting will be held in the Third Ward, Wednesday night, Sept. 5, 1883, to organize a Republican Club. 4-1t

The City Schools.

By reference to the Council proceedings last night, it will be seen that we were a little premature some time since, when we congratulated the people on having the schools put in a good and safe condition. The Council last night refused to make the repairs on the terms agreed upon by the joint committee, and now the people will know where the blame lies if and accident should occur at the schools. The School Board and especially Capt. Chamberlin, have done all in their power to give us good schools, but a majority of the City Council refuse to accept the recommendations of the School Board, so we will have to put up for another year with the old rattle trap building. Some of the Council have done all in their power to secure the repairs, but they were in a minority and were unable to carry the matter through.

Just About This

Time you have worn out the PANTS to your Spring Suit and want another pair to finish out the old coat and vest; something to last until you change to FALL wear. We have choice line of PANTS, all bear away from this city the following young ladies, who go to Staunton Va., to attend school during the following year: Miss Dolly Thomas, Misses Sallie and Stella Cowan and Misses Laura and Letitia Miller. They go under the maternal guidance of Mrs. Virginia Thomas.

JURPAS we go to press we learn of the death of Mr. Chris. Hugonin; also that of Mrs. O'Dell.

A. M. ROACH, Esq., proprietor of the Yazoo City, Herald is in town soliciting advertisements for his paper. As the Herald has the largest circulation of any paper in the rich Yazoo Valley it will prove a valuable medium for our merchants and others doing business in that section of the country in which to advertise.

MR. T. J. BIRDSONG, who has been quite sick in Meridian for several days, returned to this city this morning and resumed his duties in Captain A. A. Sharpe's office. Mr. Birdsong has proved himself a courteous gentleman since he has been in Vicksburg, consequently he has many friends who will be glad to know that he is well again.

THE Police Committee of the City Council, to which the case of Policeman John Connors was referred, met this morning and examined all the witnesses to the case but two. The matter was continued over by the Committee until next Thursday at 3 o'clock, when the remaining witnesses will be examined and a report he made to the Board of Aldermen, by the Committee.

THE Telephone Company have 282 poles being unloaded here for the line between Vicksburg and Anthony's Ferry. They will be shipped on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., for distribution along the track. There is 22 to be shipped by boat for Haines Bluff and Cardiff. Manager Jackson is now busy at work with his broad brim hat to keep off the sun. Work will be commenced to-morrow from Glass Bayou going North.

The bill of the Vicksburg Herald for $287.85 was refured to the city clerk for examination.

The Board argued on the subject of allowing Capt. Fay his full salary for August. Capt. Fay was sick eight days in August. The Board finally allowed him full pay. Also pay for eight days to J. T. Mentzer.

Alderman Creyton moved that the office of quarantine inspector be abolished. He said he did not see the necessity of keeping that officer any longer.

Dr. Balfour suggested that the office here be retained until the station at Fort Adams is closed on the 15th of September.

Alderman Creyton moved that Capt. Fay be retained. Motion carried.

COMMITTEE REPORT.

On the petition of Thomas M. Young the Committee was granted more time.

In the matter of A. Kuhn the Committee say that they have found that the

The press often made charges of inefficiency against the city Government, and if they, the Board, should pay attention to them the whole Board, and the Mayor would have to be impeached. When a man was brought up before the Board it was the duty of the person making to charges to have witnesses summoned to prove them. He did not know what the charges were or who made them.

Alderman Ehrman, said he had seen Officer Connors drunk on the streets and unfit for performing his duty. He said he had called the attention of the Marshal to it at the time, saying that was a nice policeman.

The Marshal said Officer Connors at the time specified was on the sick list not being on actual duty; his watch was on the day, while it was night when he was drunk. The circumstances of the charges were explained by Alderman Andrews.

Alderman Halpin said he was in Louisville at the time of the occurrences causing the charges against these officers. His charges were made as to the general inefficiency of the police and he moved that the matter be held Thursday night.

Alderman Klein moved as a substitute that the whole matter be referred to the Police Committee with power to act, which was done.

Alderman Trowbridge rose and explained the causes of his charges, which are familiar to our readers.

FIRE PLUGS.

Alderman Trowbridge presented a map of the city for the fire plugs as decided upon by the Chief Engineer and the fire engineers for action by the Board. The map provides for a plug to each block on Washington and Mulberry streets with plugs at greater distances on other streets.

On motion of Alderman Andrews the question was referred to a meeting to be held this evening at 5 o'clock, at the Mississippi Valley Bank.

HORSES FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The bids for furnishing horses for Phœnix Fire Company came up, and Alderman Ehrman moved that a bond of twice the amount of the sum bid be given that the horses be as they are represented and to be delivered at a specified time.

Alderman Andrews said it would not be fair to the city to put such a restriction on a bid. It looked as though it was made to give the bid to some favorite bidder.

Alderman Ehrman said he wished to protect home bidders, as men at a distance could get the contract and then sublet out of it.

chase property for. Mr. Trowbridge said he thought $500 was sufficient for property.

Fire Committee reported that two bills for repairs on cisterns had been allowed.

The petition of Miller and Hirsh referred to Finance Committee was reported through Mr. Klein, who explained the matter and moved that petition be allowed.

The petition of Hamilton Hill asking a reduction of revenue license from $5.25 per month, was received and the license made $10 per year.

The petition of A. Mazori, to build a frame house in the fire limits, was referred to the Fire Committee.

A petition was presented asking that the lower road to the Cemetery be graveled. Referred to Street Committee.

The Street Committee were authorized to settle the damages done to Mrs. Semple's property caused by closing the drain.

TRYING POLICEMEN.

Alderman Anderson moved that the charges against Officer Sanders be investigated.

Mr. Sanders appeared before the Board and pleaded not guilty. Squire Mackey, Wm. Campbell, H. S. Trowbridge, Mayor Birchett made statements to the Board.

Alderman Halpin wished to know who made the charges.

Alderman Andrews said he (Halpin) had made the charges.

Alderman Halpin said he did not make specific charges, being only generally opposed to the force.

Alderman Crayton said he gave the names and would now move that Mr. Sanders be acquitted and his pay for the time be granted. Carried.

The charges against Officer Connors were called up and he appeared before the Board and plead not guilty.

Alderman Anderson made a long winded speech as to articles in the papers, and said he did not think the Board should pay attention to charges made by the press. He did not care what the papers said about him, as he did not owe them a cent. He spoke about five minutes on this subject, dwelling on charges made by newspapers, but in answer to the question said it was not THE POST that had made the charges against Officer Connors and consequently his remarks did not apply to this journal

Alderman Klein said that the Board should not pay attention to all charges made against officers. That charges were made and it seemed now that no one could be found who had made them. The press often made charges of inefficiency against the city Government, and if they, the Board, should pay attention to them the whole Board, and the Mayor would have to be impeached. When a man was brought up before the Board it was the duty of the person making to charges to have witnesses summoned to prove them. He did not know what the charges were or who made them.

A BLACKEYE FOR THE SCHOOLS.

The bids for repairs of the schools were opened and were as follows: S. Spengler $2713, for Cherry Street School and $1278 for Main Stree School. This was the only bid.

Alderman Klein moved that the bids be refused, as the city was not able to do the work. The prices were to high, as they would be on credit for any work. He favored doing any work that was necessary for preservation of the lives of the pupils. After the first of January the repairs might be made, but at present the city could not do so.

Alderman Halpin said he recognized that the bid of Mr. Spengler was rather excessive, and be favored its rejections. He favored improving the schools temporarily and that a Committee to make what repairs are absolutely necessary, and that the sum of $499 be appropriated for that purpose.

Mr. Chamberlin asked was it $499 for each building. He thought that much would be required for each one to make them safe and protect the lives and property.

Alderman Halpin moved that the amount of $499 be appropriated for each building.

Alderman Clein said he objected to this. The schools were [illegible] hoped the [illegible] the Board would not vote this appropriation, but wait and when the time came they would have a better one. It would be a good thing if the Cherry Street School would burn down, but the Board must economize now.

Mr. Chamberlin said he did not ask for anything ornamental.

Alderman Halpin said he thought it was understood that the sum to be expended was not to exceed the amount specified; it might require only $100. The Committee should act as they thought best. He did not favor any extravagance, but schools were more necessary than many other things that were paid for.

Alderman Andrews said as far as Mr. Klein went he indorsed, but he wished to add a few more words. The city's finances were narrow, and it would not be a few before the colored children as well as the whites would need a school in the center of Vicksburg and they should wait awhile. Mr. Halpin knew if the sum of $499 was appropriated the whole amount would be used. With the expenditure of $499 on the schools they could be made safe, and he moved as an amendment, to Alderman Halpin's motion that that sum be appropriated for the schools and a Committee of three be appointed. The amendment was adopted, and the Mayor appointed Alderman Halpin, Trowbridge and Anderson as said Committee.

MURDER AT HAZLEHURST.

A. W. Burnett Mortally Wounded by Chas. Hart.

JACKSON, MISS., Sept. 5.—A difficulty occurred this morning at Hazlehurst, between Chas. Hart, a young man about seventeen years old, and A. W. Burnet, a prominent citizen and lawyer of that place, resultnig in the wounding of Burnet mortally. The exact cause of the affair is not known here. It is reported that Hart acted in self-defense.

RIVER NEWS.

A Batch of Important and Interesting Items from Memphis.

MEMPHIS, TENN, SEPT. 5.—The river at this point fell 24 inches during the 24 hours ending at 2 p.m. yesterday.

The shallowest place between this port and Cairo is at Tiptonville, where 7½ feet of water is reported. At Owensborough, about six miles above the city, it is becoming troublesome. Eight feet four inches full is reported there. Three and a half full at Flint Island, and scant three feet at Three Mile Bar.

The towboat John Dippold, under charter to the Government, sank a barge of rock at Tiptonville Sunday.

The John Gilmore and barges are still aground at Island 35.

The New Orleans passed down yesterday forenoon with fifteen hundred tons of freight, drawing eight feet four inches, about all there was in the channel between this city and Cairo. She refused freight here. The Orleans was delayed at Tiptonville, some time, trying to find a place to cross over the bar. She also rubbed hard at Owensboro eight miles above here.

The Commonwealth left for Vicksburg last night with a big trip, taking all the freight that had been reserved for the City of New Orleans for points below Vicksburg to be reshipped on some of the local packets there.

The Railroad Accident at Stegletz to be Rigidly Investigated.

BERLIN, September 4.—The fatal railroad disaster at Stegletz Land has been apprehended by the Government. After its purchase of the Berlin and Pethdam railroad, the Diet voted a sum sufficient to alter and enlarge the depot at Stegletz, the Minister of Finance, in the request therefor, stating that he was unable to understand the dangerous circumstances and unable to undertake responsibility for the lives of the great number of passengers which are constantly imperiled, unless the sum would be obtained was refused. A vote was taken upon this request by the Diet and rejected. The Reoctionary press threw the blame for the accident upon the National Liberals in the Diet, they having refused to vote upon the question. The Emperor has ordered a commission to make rigid inquiries as to the cause os the accident.

Terrible Accident.

An accident, which came near resulting fatally, occurred this afternoon about half past 12 o'clock. A negro man, who drives the city gravel cart, started across the bridge over Glass bayou, and was met about half way by a vehicle that was being driven by a white man. The driver of the wagon attempted to back his wagon to the road, and in his efforts to do so the hind wheels went over the side of the bridge, throwing the bed of the wagon, which was loaded at the time, and the unfortunate driver into the bayou, a distance of about 35 feet. When taken out the man although dangerously hurt was not dead. Dr. Bust and Dr. Saxe were called and found that his face had been badly cut and bruised, and his left leg broken between the knee and ankle. The injured man was carried to his home on Crawford street.

A POINTER FOR VICKSBURG.—The City Council of Dodge City, Kansas, has instructed the Marshal to enforce the ordinance relative to gambling and prostitution after the 6th of September. An ordinance was also adopted to go into effect at the same time prohibiting music in saloons and dance houses. This action was brought about by the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company, and they have assured the authorities that if an effort was made to bring about reform, a branch road would come there and that the company would at once commence the erection of a permanent and expensive building; but in the event no such effort was made all the shops would be removed and the road taken to some other point.

Sad Accident.

We are called upon to chronicle a most painful accident that occurred on Saturday last, about twenty-five miles east of this city on the Liberty road. On Wednesday or Thursday of last week there passed through this city several teams, containing tools, camp paraphernalia, etc., which belonged to Mrs. Annie Coughlin and her sons, who had a sub-contract on the Wilson Railroad. The teams were accompanied by Mrs Coughlin and her two sons and two daughters. The party had proceeded to a point about twenty-five miles east of this city, and were ascending a hill when the coupling pin of the wagon in which Mrs. Coughlin and her daughters were riding gave way. The wagon went lumbering down the hill, when by some means, the body was thrown off, and it, together with its contents, fell upon Mrs. Coughlin, crushing her to such an extent that life was soon extinct. The others who were on the wagon with her, escaped unhurt. The remains of the unfortunate lady were brought to this city on Sunday, and interred by City Sexton Stewart, in the Natchez cemetery.

From what we can learn the unfortunate lady came from Missouri originally, but for several years past her family have been engaged in railroad work, the sons and father (lately deceased) taking subcontracts, and the lady herself keeping a boarding house for the laborers. The party were well supplied with means, and after paying their indebtedness in most respectable burial in a metallic case, (with the view of ultimately removing her remains to Missouri,) the party proceeded to their destination on the Wilson railroad.—Natchez Democrat.

Monroe County Items.

New corn was selling freely on the streets Saturday at 35 and 40 cents a bushel; new crop fodder at fifty cents per hundred weight, and hay at forty cents per hundred. Upon country wagons.

Every saw mill in the county, and we have many, is working to its full capacity to supply the demand for lumber, and yet they cannot in this year of "good crops" keep up with the demand. Hence we are importing lumber from pineries down the M. & O. R. R. that are buying our supplies.

The many wagons loaded with hay upon the streets the past week, show that our stock feeding is being carried on through the scorching heat and dust of harvest. Some of the grass is now being cut the second time, and is a good crop.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

WE publish a communication this evening in regard to a meeting to raise funds for repairs to the Main Street School building. We believe the sum necessary for the repairs can easily be raised if the meeting be held. As the building now stands it is a disgrace to the city.

MR. F. N. OSBORNE, Superintendent of the Southern Express Company arrived yesterday from New Orleans and left at 3 p.m. for Port Gibson. If satisfactory arrangements can be made an express agent will be put on the road between here and Port Gibson, and an office opened at that city.

MR. FRED LOYD came over this morning from his ranch in Louisiana. Fred claims to have killed a rattle-snake during his sojourn on his place, that for size and viciousness exceeds any snake that has ever been killed in this country. To prove his story Fred produces a rattle that had evidently came off of a snake that was killed during the ante-bellum days.

IN our notice a few days ago of the case of Mr. M. Fitzgerald which was tried before Squire Loewenberg, we inadvertently stated that the charge was for unlawful retailing which is generally understood to mean doing business without license. The facts are Mr. Fitzgerald, was tried upon an affidavit sworn out by Wm. Busselman charging him with selling on Sunday. The case was tried by a jury who, after hearing all the evidence and the circumstances which prompted the sueing out of the affidavit, returned a verdict of "not guilty."

MR. CHRIS. HUGONIN, whose death was announced in our issue of yesterday, has been a resident of this city for the past eight years, and was a man who had many warm friends that now mourn his loss. He came here from New Orleans, where he was well connected. Mr. Hugonin, at the time of his death was about 32 years old. He had never married. He was a faithful member of the Phœnix Fire Company, having held several offices in the company. He was buried at 11:30 o'clock this morning, from the Catholic Church. Peace to his ashes.

AT 1 p.m. yesterday the spirit of Mrs. Jane O'Dell waved its flight to that land beyond the grave. Mrs. O'Dell was the mother of Mr. Thomas O'Dell, who is well known in this city. She has been a resident of Vicksburg for over 21 years, during which time she has gathered around her a circle of friends who will miss her many kind and loving attentions, now that she has departed this life. Her body will not be interred until her daughter, from New Orleans, and son, from Mayersville, arrive, which will propably be to-morrow. THE POST extends to the family of the deceased, who have been bereft of their most priceless jewel, its sincere sympathy.

PLANTERS MOVING

In the Matter of a Cotton Seed Mill On Account of the Low Prices Set by the Cotton Seed Men.

We learn that the planters in the section adjacent to Vicksburg protest against the prices set by the cotton seed men at their recent meeting in New Orleans, and have held an informal meeting and a committee has been appointed to see the planters whose seed belongs to the Vicksburg market, with a view for the formation of a Cooperative Association for the purpose of erecting a large at or near Vicksburg, a mill with a capacity sufficient to use all seed that comes to this market. Besides the planters the names of 15 or 20 capatilists appears as interested in the project. Several of the cotton seed buyers, who for years have been employed by the old mills are interested in the project.

A Crying Necessity.

EDITOR POST:

Our public school building on Main street being in a most deplorable condition and there being only $250 at the disposal of the School Board for repairs, would it not be proper for the said School Board now to appeal to the School patrons and friends by calling a public meeting and devise ther and there means to raise the required sums by subscription? There is no doubt that every dollar required can be raised at once.

AN ANXIOUS PATRON.

The City Council and the Special Officer.

As the question of dispensing with the services of a Special Officer for the city has been discussed for some time, we give below the debate at the Council meeting Monday night:

Alderman Halpin arose and moved that the services of a Special Officer be dispensed with. He had favored the dispensing of the Special to save $900 a year, the sum to be used for the public schools. That matter had been settled to-night temporarily, but he still wished to save the sum mentioned. If the Assessor did his duty there was no necessity for a Special Officer for that department of the city Government. If the Marshal did his duty, then he did not need the assistance of a Special Officer, and if the Health Officer did his duty he would need no special officer. In fact there was no need for one in any department of the city if the sworn officers did their duty.

The Board were only servants of the people. They had décided not to repair the schools and he hoped that all members would put aside friendship and vote as they believed their duty dictated.

Alderman Andrews asked the Mayor if he could do without the services of the special officer, and the Mayor said "No."

Alderman Klein, said that would decide as to how he would vote.

Alderman Halpin, said he at one time took the views of Mayor on that question, but he now finds it is different. The Board had a year or so ago found it necessary to dispense with a special book-keeper, against the protest of the Mayor. He asked that the Board try for a month to do without the special. If then it be found detrimental to the city he would vote to employ a Special Officer again.

Alderman Andrews said it was not a matter of personal friendship with him. That the facts were that the Special collected hundreds of dollars that the Assessor could not collect. The city had employed a special for about 20 years.

Alderman Trowbridge, asked what the duty of the Assessor was; did the law require him to go out and collect the taxes, or was he to stay at his office? He asked his Honor if Price earned his salary as a policeman, and was told he did. He asked who the people were that wished the charges made.

Alderman Halpin, said that he could go to the merchants from one end of Washington street to the other, and also the tax-payers.

Alderman Trowbridge said the charges against Price were brought about by personal attacks made on Price by Mr. Platt, in the Herald, who was moved by some personal spite. As to the cause that led to Platt's attack, he could not say.

Alderman Klein, said that he was somewhat a friend of the people, yet the people did not know the machinery of the Government as well as the Mayor. There is no city in the country but has an officer of this kind by some name, and he moved to table Alderman Halpin's motion which was carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Trowbridge, Ehrman, Klein, Andrews, Andersons.

Nays—Halpin, McCalloway, Crayton.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

The Post will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and below prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post Job Printing Company." We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors, at their regular meeting yesterday transacted the following business:

G. W. Mathie made a claim for damages sustained by his house being closed by Dr. Balfour, while small-pox prevailed in his family, which was refused.

The Board allowed C. J. Marshall $500 for assessment of County. Marshall's bill is for $734.85.

Repairs were ordered on Willow Bayou, Big Cave and Dick Harris's place, and to have the four-mile bridge on Baldwins Ferry road rebuilt.

The Board placed the limits of the First Supervisors District the same as the amended charter of the city.

Mr. J. A. Newman was released from the bond of W. A. Bryant, constable, and that official ordered to file another bond.

The Board directed Supervisor McGee to have Bowmar avenue repaired.

The following levy for all county purposes was made:

	Mills.
For county and judicial and Poor-house expenses	6
For special outstanding warrants	2
Special for Baldwin's Ferry and other bridges	2
For Judges salary and District Attorney's	1¾
For Mississippi Valley & Ship Island Railroad and interest	1¼
Total	12

An additional levy of three mills, on the property, real and personal, outside the city, for the payment of school warrents issued in 1883 was made.

After allowing bills and per diem and mileage to members, the Board adjourned.

To the Public.

It has been published in the morning Herald that we were before Squire Lowenberg on the charge of embezzlement. Now the fact of the matter is that $112 is due us by Fannie Crawford and we have retained $27 that was in our hands and placed it to her credit. There is no embezzlement in the case at all, and the affidavit is a malicious slander.

The team of the Vicksburg Gun Club that went to Bolton yesterday returned home last night and when approached by a POST representative, who was in search of data regarding the shoot, each and every member of the club was eager to sing the praises of the good people of Bolton. Our boys were treated to a magnificent dinner by the ladies of Bolton, after which the match was shot which resulted in the following score:

The Free Delivery System.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The free delivery system was established in forty-two cities and towns during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1883. But four postoffices have been added to the list since that date, although many urgent applications have been received for the establishment of the system. The department has been unable to accord the privilege except in rare instances because of the meagre appropriation, which has been absorbed to a considerable extent by the operation of the law providing for the twenty per cent. increase.

THE FOLLOWING ORDER has been issued by the Mississippi State Board of Health, for the government of all persons desiring to practice medicine in this State.

Order No. 1.

Section 1. Be it ordered by the Board of Health, for the government of all persons desiring to practice medicine in this State, that no person shall be allowed to land at any point in this State.

Certificates of inspection in New Orleans by the Inspectors of the Sanitary Service of the Mississippi Valley will be received at the Station, and if the vessel and all boats from that place possess themselves with such certificates, no further delay.

DUNCAN F. KENNER,
WIRT JOHNSON,
C. A. RICE,
Executive Committee.

[Approved]—ROBERT LOWRY, Governor.

At a meeting of the Board of Health, held July 19, 1883, the foregoing ordinance was passed:

An Ordinance to aid in Preserving the Health of the City of Vicksburg.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Vicksburg, That no steamboat or other craft coming up the Mississippi river from any point or points as may be designated by this Board, and established as the City Inspection point or points, and submitted to complete and full examination and inspection by such City Inspector.

Sec. 2. Be it further ordained, That the City Inspector, appointed or to be appointed by the Mayor and City Physician, shall examine or cause to be examined Kleinston or other steamboat or other craft coming up the said city, and make a complete inspection of such steamboat or craft; and he shall immediately report to the City Marshal all such steamboat or other craft passing up by the city without having exhibited such certificate, and submitted to such inspection. And if upon such inspection he shall find or have cause to believe, that there is sickness on board, he shall detain such steamboat or other craft at the most convenient landing near the city, immediately notify the Mayor and City Physician thereof, and the same shall proceed to Vicksburg Quarantine by Mayor or City Physician.

Sec. 3. Be it further ordained, That any violation of the first section of this ordinance of the crew or officers of any steamboat or other craft, without such steamboat or other craft shall be immediately arrested by the City Guard in a sum not less than one hundred Dollars and not exceeding five hundred Dollars, and the captain or pilot of the latter boat shall be fined by said Court in a sum not less than Twenty-five Dollars and not exceeding Fifty Dollars.

Sec. 4. Be it further ordained, That the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to all such trains arriving at the city whenever this Board shall have issued an order entered on its minutes to that effect.

Sec. 5. This ordinance shall take effect from and after its passage.

Ordained this 23rd day of July, 1883.

Death of Dr. Bosso of Yellow Fever at Pensacola Navy Yard.

PENSACOLA, Sept. 5.—Last night's reports give one case at the navy yard and one death. Dr. Bosso, last year, when the fever was raging at Pensacola, appeared with a specific and obtained certificates from hundreds of intelligent people of its marvelous cures. When the fever appeared at the yard, Bosso went there, and the people on the naval reservation gave him certificates of more cures. Now he is dead. He is well known in the Gulf States. Pensacola is healthy.

Brady on Gresham.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Following is a short interview with General Brady, of Indiana: "Gen. Brady, what do you think of Postmaster-General Gresham?" "He is the ablest man in the Republican party in Indiana. He has what 'Ben' Harrison is almost destitue of—magnetism. Gresham is a very interesting talker. Though not the best lawyer in the state—for the best lawyers in Indiana are Democrats like Hendricks and McDonald—Gresham combines executive sense with his legal ability, so that he was justified in laying down his Judicial life to command one of the departments. I consider him decidedly the ablest man in the present cabinet."

Carlisle's Friends Booming His Candidacy for the Speakership.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Carlisle's friends are very confident that the withdrawal of Blackburn strengthens his chances for the Speakership. They are making desperate efforts to secure votes in the Mississippi Valley, and to this end are attempting to correct the Southern impression of his attitude on the improvement of that river. The opponents of Carlisle have circulated extensively a fly sheet showing his record and alleged hostility to that scheme. Mr. Carlisle now is using a counter circular which is being distributed throughout the Valley. Journal Clerk Smith of the House of Representatives, who has just returned from an extended tour, says that his conclusion is that Randall cannot be defeated.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—The city was full of strangers last night, attracted by the ceremonies attending the opening tomorrow of the Eleventh Exposition. The hotels are already crowded, and business houses are decorated along the line of march.

An attempt has been made to transplant something of Mardi Gras features here by the Order of Cincinnatus. Rex of New Orleans is to arrive with a retinue by steamers by to-morrow noon and be received royally by Cincinnatus and his attendants, and the two companies make a grand parade through the streets to the Exposition building. They appear at the opening ceremonies on Thursday, when a pageant of twenty-four cars will pass through the streets.

MR. TILDEN'S HEALTH.

Renewed Anxiety as to His Physical Condition.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 4.—The Enquirer's Washington special, has the following: "Is Mr. Tilden able physically to contest for a nomination next year? This is a question asked by many persons. It is hard to obtain evidence from first hands about Mr. Tilden, but after a three weeks' stay at Saratoga, and after talking with leading politicians of the State, I have arrived at a reasonably accurate estimate of Mr. Tilden's condition. He is weak physically but is as bright mentally as he ever was. He may live for the next ten years, and he may die suddenly. If you should call upon Mr. Tilden in the morning you might think he had not long to live. He tones himself up with whisky after his breakfast, and by 1 or 2 o'clock in the afternoon he is quite bright. His use of whisky is regulated by his physician, and it acts upon his system most favorably. As one of his friends recently said: 'Whisky is all nourishment for Mr. Tilden. He has used it moderately for years, and it has never done him any harm.'

"Mr. Tilden is usually an invalid whose condition is one that needs constant watching. In reality the bulk of the politicians do not talk about Mr. Tilden as a candidate, but they all recognize the fact that Mr. Tilden is well enough mentally and able-bodied enough physically to have great influence in deciding who shall be nominated. Just as long as the Sage of Greystone has the strength requisite for the signing of a check very few Democrats think he can or will be ignored. Everybody recognizes the artful hand of Tilden in the 'ferocious boom' Dana is working up for the amiable and thoroughly surprised William S. Holman. This is a part of the plan to kill off McDonald.

LOUISIANA LOTTERY.

Postmaster General Gresham's Answer to the Suit of the Company.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—In the case of the manager of a New Orleans Lottery Company against the Postmaster General, action for $100,000 damages in issuing an order to prevent the delivery of letters addressed to him, etc., the Postmaster General to-day filed, by Solicitor General Phillips, his pleas.

He pleads: First, not guilty; and second, that he is not guilty under sections 3929 and 4041, Revised Statutes; third, that November 13, 1879, when Mr. Key was Postmaster General, plaintiff was conducting a scheme for obtaining money through the mails by means of false and fradulent pretenses, and forbade the payment of postal orders to him by the Postmaster at New Orleans, and that said order had never been revoked.

The Postmaster General admits that he has enforced this order, but says he was not actuated by malice or a desire to injure plaintiff.

He pleads further that the order of Key, of Nonember 13, 1879, is included in his order of July 9th, and says he considered it his duty to enforce it. He admits he was informed of the later direction of Key, suspending the order, and also that an appeal had been taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, which was dismissed by plaintiff, but considered that any statements made by Key were only incidental for the end they were made and were therefore admitted in effect. Therefore, that he might be informed of anything plaintiff might have to suggest to the contrary, he notified him what he proposed to do and heard arguments in his behalf.

He admits he declined to retry the question, inasmuch as plaintiff did not allege there had been any material change, and after the hearing he issued, July 9th last, a direction to the matter.

He states that whatever has been done in the matter has been done merely in the course of his official duty and without malice to plaintiff, and denies all allegations in the declarations contained contradictory to or not admitted by this plea.

Details of the Death of Dr. Bosso, Who Persisted in His Faith in His Own Remedies to the End.

[Special to the Picayune.]

PENSACOLA, Sept. 4.—Your correspondent is indebted to Surgeon Guiteras, U. S. Navy, at the Navy Yard, for the following detailed account of the sickness and death of Bosso:

Bosso took sick one hour after Paymaster Brown's death, on August 29, and he treated himself with his own medicine. On the third day of the disease Surgeon Guiteras was called in and found him with a typical case of yellow fever, with black vomit. Rational treatment was prescribed, but the patient insisted on walking, eating and drinking as he pleased. Black vomit continued incessantly until his death yesterday at 5:30 p.m. He maintained to the last that he was not suffering from yellow fever

Assassination and Mob Law.

This will be the subject of special consideration in an article in our next issue. A whole sermon is preached against the latter by the utmost positive proof of the innocence of Capt. Pressell who was hanged at Mayersville a few weeks since for supposed rape, while the hanging of three colored men in the southern part of the State seems to be without a shadow of defense. Assassination seems to have become so very frequent that the utmost vigilance of good citizens will be required to stamp it out.

Mississippi is not worse than other States, yet we are sorry we cannot claim that she is better in this respect.—Jackson Clarion.

STEAMBOAT COLLISION

Between the Steamers E. C. Carroll and Alert, Near Yazoo City—What Capt. Smith Says.

A collision occurred on the 5th instant, between the steamers E. C. Carroll, of the P. Line, and the Alert, at Milton's Landing. No serious damage was done to either boat. We publish below a report which was made by Capt. T. R. Smith, of the Carroll, to Capt. E. C. Carroll, Superintendent of the P. Line, which gives full particulars:

On Sept. 5 about 11 a.m., as the steamer E. C. Carroll was nearing Milton landing on the Yazoo river, the whistle of the steamer Alert was heard by those on board the Carroll. The Alert blew her whistle once and then hove in sight. As soon as we saw her she blew her whistle twice to keep to the left; she was then about half a mile from the Carroll.

The latter boat being in the head of the chute did not answer the Alerts signal immediately, but waited until she got nearly out of the chute, then the pilot of the Carroll blew two whistles to keep to the left, and was answered by two whistles from the Alert. The Carroll then blew for a landing on the west bank which is further evidence that she was going the left of the Alert. The Alert kept pulling into the right as if she was going to make a landing also. Seeing that the Alert was keeping to the right the engines of the Carroll were stopped sooner than they otherwise would have been and she landed some twenty-five yards below the regular landing. The pilot of the Alert (Frank Campbell) did not stop his engiuer until he put his engines hard down a port right across the Carroll's bow. The fact that the Carroll was entirely stopped is all that prevented what might have been a serious collision. The Alert had on board at the time 8 or 10 passengers when her papers only allow her to carry two. Some of them jumped on the Carroll, when the boats came together, I attribute the collision to the ignorance of Capt. Frank Campbell who was at the wheel of the Alert at the time of the accident.

Yours truly,

Cattle Disease in Pennsylvania.

LANCASTER, Sept. 5.—A disease known as spleenic fever has attacked the cattle of this county and is raging with great violence. A large number of cases have already proved fatal. The disease is apparently on the increase, occasioning great alarm among stock owners.

The P Line to New Orleans.

THE VICKSBURG POST says the Parisot Line will put two boats in the Vicksburg and New Orleans trade this season. Commodore Parisot is a popular steamboatman, backed by ample means, and the Times-Democrat predicts that there will be one of the liveliest fights on record.—Monroe Bulletin.

Resolutions of the Lauderdale County Democracy.

At the Convention held at Meridian last Monday, the Committee on Resolutions made the following report, which was adopted by the Convention:

Resolved, 1, That this Convention adopt and ratify the platforms adopted by the last State and National Democratic Conventions on every subject except those hereinafter mentioned.

2. That as there can be no vested rights in legal wrongs, we favor the unconditional repeal of all class legislation, particularly such as exemption from taxation and other special privileges granted railroads, manufacturing and other joint stock companies organized for profit

3. Stringent and searching laws for the prevention, detection and punishment of tax dodging, and that the revenue laws be so amended as to subject all property to its just tax.

4. The supervision and regulation by the authorized agents of the people of all railroads, operated in this State, and we believe and declare the same to be constitutional, and that the time has already come when the protection of the people demands immediate legislation on this subject.

5. We favor the election by the people of all civil officers, the judicial as well as the Executive and legislative officers.

6. We are in favor of making it a misdemeanor for any executive, legislative, or judicial officer of this State to accept or carry a free pass on a railroad.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 6, 1883.

A PHILADELPHIA paper says: "With a little more enterprise and a little less politics, the South will become the garden of America, as the West has long been the farm."

THE Texas and Louisiana cotton crop reports telegraphed to the Houston Post September 1 show a heavy falling off in the estimates of the previous month owing to long continued drouth.

THE striking telegraphers have placed the politicians under obligations by giving them a live issue for the next Congress to tackle, viz: The question of a Government telegraph.

IN the next house the Democrats will have 192 members the Republicans 120, and 13 Independents. In the Democratic caucus, if it is full, the successful candidate for the Speakership must get 97 votes.

SAYS the New York Bulletin: The Fall trade has opened with every indication of a fairly active and profitable season. Upon this point the statements of merchants and others, presented in another part of this day's Bulletin, are unmistakable and conclusive.

JUDGE HOADLEY, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, is sick, the Executive Committee is quarrelling, and John Sherman is making unanswerable speeches in favor of the Republican side on the tariff question. Altogether the prospects for Democratic success in Ohio are not bright.

THERE are said to be five thousand unemployed bookkeepers in New York city. The supply is greater than the demand, and is constantly recruited from different parts of the country. It is estimated that there are 23,000 bookkeepers employed in that city. Places are hard to find when once given up.

A GENTLEMAN writing from Augusta, Maine, to the editor of the Boston Journal, says: "I passed an hour yesday with Mr. Blaine. He never was in the enjoyment of better health, and seems as absorbed in his book as I ever saw him in campaign work. He declared to me in the most emphatic manner that he is not a candidate for the nomination, has no desire for it, and wants it so understood."

THE Mahone scheme for the election of "Independent" Electors from Virginia and one or two other Southern States, who should hold the balance of power in the Electoral College and dispose of their vote to the highest bidder, is eminently characteristic of the Virginia statesman. It is a scheme which Republicans, North and South, will do well to leave alone. The next Presidential election is not to be settled by dicker.—Boston Journal.

SENATOR GEORGE was asked the question: "How do you account for the fact that in the Southern States there are and always have been great tracts of good agricultural land upon which people cannot be got to settle?" To which the Senator sententiously replied: "I can only account for that upon the theory that people do not want to go to the South." This answer is satisfactory so far as it goes.—Avalanche.

The Senator's theory on this subject is a great deal more definite and satisfactory than his theory on Railroad supervision in Mississippi.

The Negro Problem.

The Southern Workman, a monthly journal published at Hampton, Va., has a very able and thoughtful article on the negro problem. It remarks that there are many evidences of the abuse of political rights by the colored men, and that their political action in many localities dishonors their best friends. It adds that evidence is accumulating on all sides that the negro is becoming the tool of unscrupulous whites as well as blacks; that he is beginning to sell his vote or demand office, and that he does not support good men of his own color. The trouble is attributed to the lack of education and political training. The article continues, with the wise words of a friend:

"It has been the sentiment of the nation that 'the negro should have a chance.' If he throws away his opportunity it will be his great misfortune. There are intelligent and patriotic negroes in the South, and being patient cannot fail to induce lively sympathies and confidence. There has been too much of the part of colored leaders, in the past, of making impossible demands, and raising issues that could not be settled. Let the negro show that he is willing to work, and to work his way, and he will find plenty of friends. Let him show that he is willing to be patient, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to help him. Let him show that he is willing to be educated, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to educate him. Let him show that he is willing to be a citizen, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to make him a citizen. Let him show that he is willing to be a man, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to make him a man."

Mississippi at the Louisville Exposition.

We are told that our State has no exhibit of its productions or resources at the great Louisville Exhibition now in progress. Dr. G. Y. Woodward, the special State Commissioner, is there; Mr. F. C. Morehead, President of the Mississippi Press Association, President of the National Cotton Planter's Association of America, and Commissioner-General of the New Orleans World's Centennial Cotton Exposition, is there also; the great Mississippi Press Association, in all it's glory and grandeur, will be there in a few days; but we doubt if the combined influence of all these representative individuals will attract one dollar of capital or a single immigrant to our State.

The Louisville Exposition's visitors are principally made up from the Southern States; but quite a large number of people from the Western States, and a few from the East, also attend it. Now, if our State had a creditable display of its agricultural products, of its magnificent timber, and of its manufacturing industries, the attention of people of the Western and Eastern States would be directed to Mississippi; our Commissioner could readily explain the capacities and resources of the State, and the Northern people would go back to their homes impressed with the desirability of Mississippi as a place for the investment of capital, the locating of manufactures, or the immigration of those seeking homes and fortune.

As it is never too late to do good, we suggest that Gov. Lowry and Commissioner Wall set on foot a movement to have an exhibit of Mississippi's products, manufactures and resources, sent to the great New England Fair, soon to be held at Boston. That fair will be attended principally by people from the crowded Northern and Eastern States—a section from which desirable immigration and unlimited capital can be obtained if proper inducements are held out. Therefore it will be better to have a good exhibit at Boston than at Louisville or any other Southern city. North Carolina will have a fine exhibit, comprising over two thousand articles, at Boston; we believe Georgia will also be well represented; and Tennessee has a Special Commissioner there with a fine exhibit. Major A. J. McWhirter, the Tennessee Commissioner, has been interviewed by one of the Boston newspapers. He says: "Our purpose in exhibiting in Boston is to induce Northern labor and Northern capital to emigrate South, and we are sure both North and South will be benefited by the result. We are only too glad to have people from the North come to us. We want your snap; we want your intelligence, and we are prepared to offer great inducements to bring you to our State. It is not negro labor, however well educated, that will develop Tennessee. It is smart, intelligent, enterprising white labor, and that we hope to obtain from New England."

Mississippi should make an exhibit in Boston, and for a similar purpose. Our wants are the same as those of Tennessee, and we believe we can offer greater inducements to capitalists and immigrants than our sister State.

It is probably too late now to make a showing at Louisville; but we can and should by all means make a good one at Boston.

Java.

The geological formation of Java is highly volcanic. A range of mountains runs through the Island, and of these 46 are volcanoes, about twenty of which are said to be in a state of eruption. The population of the Island is very dense, a census taken in 1856 giving to the whole island an average population of 222 to the square mile, and in some of the provinces it amounted to over 600 to the square mile. The province of Bantam, in which the greatest destruction of life occurred in the recent catastrophe, was one of the most populous on the island.

This country, which is so distant from us, and between which and our shores there is so little intercourse, is said to be one of the most pleasant and salubrious of all the tropical islands. Its population of over 12,000,000 is controlled by about 20,000 Dutch who are settled in the principal cities, Batavia, Samarang and Surabaya. Its climate is mild, neither Summer nor Winter producing the extremes of heat or cold. But with all its pleasant features, it is here the famous upas valley exists, which is an object of terror to all the surrounding country. From its bottom emanates a large supply of carbonic acid gas produced by volcanic action and every living being which penetrates this valley falls down dead, killed by this poisonous gas. The recent eruption is by no means unprecedented. In 1882 there was an earthquake produced by volcanic eruption; that destroyed 114 villages. Notwithstanding these, its balmy climate and its spicy groves, Java will scarcely be the country which will attract emigrants from our own land.—Natchez Democrat.

The State Fair.

The State Fair will open on Monday, October 29th. The buildings and grounds will be in fine condition, and the liberal premiums and racing purses cannot fail to induce lively competition and a fine turn out. We are encouraged to hope by the part of colored leaders, in the past, of making impossible demands, and raising issues that could not be settled. Let the negro show that he is willing to work, and to work his way, and he will find plenty of friends. Let him show that he is willing to be patient, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to help him. Let him show that he is willing to be educated, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to educate him. Let him show that he is willing to be a citizen, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to make him a citizen. Let him show that he is willing to be a man, and he will find that the nation will not be slow to make him a man."

The Tariff Question.

There will be no issue between the parties on the tariff question next year unless the Republicans change their tariff policy inaugurated 24 years ago. On May 17, 1860, the Republican National Convention met in Chicago, and after adopting a platform nominated Abraham Lincoln for President. The twelfth resolution embodied the party's declaration on the tariff which was as follows:

"That while providing revenue for the support of the general Government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such an adjustment of these imports as to encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country; and we commend that policy of National exchanges which secures to the workingmen liberal wages, to agriculture remunerative prices, to mechanics and manufactures an adequate reward for their skill, labor and enterprise, and to the nation commercial prosperity and independence."

That there is not a particle of difference between the Democrats and the Republicans on this question is shown in the following Democratic platform declarations recently promulgated. It will be observed that not only are the ideas identical but there is a marvelous similarity of phrase to be found in the Ohio, Virginia and Democratic platform and the Republican National platforms. The Ohio Democratic platform adopted June 21, 1883, and the Virginia Democratic platform, adopted July 25, 1883, are one, the latter having adopted the platform of the former without alteration. It is as follows:

"We favor a tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of the Government economically administered, and so adjusted in its application as to prevent unequal burdens, to encourage productive industries at home, afford a just compensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies."

The Pennsylvania Democratic platform was adopted August 1, 1883, as follows:

"We belive in such taxation of the people as is required for the necessities of the Government, economically administered; and that import duties should be so adjusted in their application as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productive industries at home, afford a just compensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies."

A Novel Invention.

Special dispatch to the Globe-Democrat from Litchfield, Ill., says: Rev. A. B. Morrison, of this city, who, for thirty years, has been a Methodist pastor, and who has, of course, attended a great many burials, for several years has been devising an easier and safer process of depositing bodies in the grave. He has at last completed an invention for that purpose. It consists of an adjustible folding crane, derrick and lever, by which the heaviest body can be safely and gently lowered to the last resting place without the possibility of mishaps. The apparatus is not cumbersome, but can easily be folded and set aside. Mr. Morrison received a telegram from Washington on Saturday, notifying him of the granting of the patent. What disposition will be made of the invention in order to introduce it to the general public has not yet been determined, but either it will be disposed of to parties interested in such things, or a company will be formed for its manufacture.

Spanish Railways.

A recent traveler in Spain gives us the following crisp statement of Spanish railway traveling: "The road beds are good; the train service bad. There is but one brake—a handbrake—to each train. There are no sleepers, no bell cords, no annunciators, no ice water, no closets, no check system. The express trains stop at every little station, and at each one there is immense exertion to start it again. First a bell rings, then the guard whistles, then the engineer whistles, then the porter cries out, 'Senores, viajeros, al tren!' then another bell rings, and another whistle sounds, and at last you are off. The railways are built on the grade, as in the United States, not sunk below it or raised above it as in England. The engineers are women, and the solemn air of responsibility with which they hold aloft the white or green flag of safety or danger is quite assuring to the timid traveler. The rates of fare are about double what they are in this country."

THE Clarion of last week gave official information to the newspaper world that the Hon. E. Barksdale laid aside with that issue the editorial harness. This matter in itself was perhaps not unexpected, but the fact that the sole ownership of the paper passes to Col. Power, will, perhaps be a matter of temporary surprise. Maj. Barksdale's reputation as an editor is so conspicuous that with regard to himself in a new avocation, he is likely to find his greatest rival in his past reputation. Col. Power has cut short, at least for the present, any wonder as to the future course of the paper, by placing in intimate association with himself in the editorial management Mr. R. V. Hayes, whose journalistic experience and fixed political views are attested in the columns of the Comet and Report—papers over which he at no late day presided.—New Mississippian.

OLD NAT, while a crowd was standing around, approached the general delivery window at the Post-office, the other day, and, slyly glancing at the crowd, said: "Gimme my correspondence, young man. I'se been so busy dat I didn't hab time ter come fur it dis mawnin'." The clerk handed him three letters, and proudly walking away, he muttered: "I put dese letters in heah myself, dis mawnin. A man's got ter be mighty sharp ter keep up wid de white folks dese days; an' eben 'mong de culled folks his standin' is regarded by de letters he gits. I generally manages ter paralyze de brudrin, and I'se got my teeth set for de office ob county judge. I'll step mun, heah terslight an' put dese documents in sq'ar."—Arkansas Traveller.

AMERICAN girls who go abroad to study at German pensions are always astonished by their schoolmates there to a question in regard to their politics in America. "But, my dear," said a young German, "that is a matter for men to settle. We women have nothing to do with it."

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

The Sunshine Follows the Rain.

"Rain and rain! and rain and rain!"
Yesterday we muttered
Grimly as the grim refrain
That the shunders uttered.
All the heavens under cloud—
All the sunshine sleeping;
All the grasses limply bowed
With their weight of weeping.

Sigh and sigh! and sigh and sigh!
Never end of sighing!
Rain and rain for our reply—
Hopes half-drowned and dying;
Peering through the window pane,
Naught but endless raining—
Endless sighing, and as vain,
Endlessly complaining.

Shine and shine! and shine and shine!
Ah! to-day, the splendor—
All the glory yours and mine—
God! but God is tender?
We to sigh instead of sing
Yesterday, in sorrow,
While the Lord was fashioning
This for us to-morrow!

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep4

WARREN Light Artillery meets tonight. See notice.

WORK is progressing all along the line of the railroad from here North and South.

DR. RICHARD WINSLOW, of Tallulah, Issaquena county, is in the city to-day, en route to Meridian.

LIEUT. JOHN A. KLEIN, JR., of the Volunteer Southrons, returned this morning from a Summer trip.

NOT a member of the Board of Aldermen has a child in attendance at the public schools of the city.

MR. J. HYATT, of Yazoo City, came down this morning on the Carroll and leaves to-morrow by boat for New Orleans.

MR. ED. JACKSON, from Yazoo City, is in the city en route to Tennessee to bring his family home from their Summer trip.

NELSON J. EDWARDS, son of A. A. Edwards, left Tuesday night for Port Richmond, Staten Island, where he will enter school.

SEVERAL elegant passenger coaches for the L., N. O. & T. Railroad will arrive here in a week or so, and then the ride to Port Gibson can be made more pleasantly.

THE funeral of the late Geo. Lucitt took place from the Catholic Church this morning. The remains were followed to the grave by a number of friends of the deceased besides a deputation from Branch 87 of the C. K. of A. which he was a member. Mr. Lucitt erected one of the best houses that was ever built in Kleinston, and lived there until his death, which occurred at 12 m. yesterday.

MR. BERT L. DEMPSEY, the traveling agent of the New York Freeman's Journal, is in the city, in the interest of that great and celebrated paper. The Freeman's Journal has a world-wide reputation for the ability with which it is conducted and the truthfulness of its statements. Mr. Dempsey will canvass our city to-day, and we trust he will receive the encouragement the merits of his paper justly deserves.

THE bids for building Longwood Levee in Washington County and Kentucky levee in Bolivar county, besides other work of much importance, were opened by Mississippi Levee Board at Greenville last Monday. Messrs. T. F. Duffin & Bro., were awarded the contract for Longwood at 19½ cents per cubic yard, and Mr. John B. Ried the Kentucky levee at 18 cents per yard. Longwood levee will be composed of about 225,000 cubic yards of earth and Kentucky levee of about 70,000.

WHILE the Board of Aldermen are amusing themselves by ordering sidewalks put down in various parts of the city, for it is only a little innocent fun for them to so order, as no one pays attention to it, they might mention Levee street from Crawford to the Planters Compress. No where in the city are the walks in such bad condition as on this street. Suppose they should go about this in earnest, and suppose the citizens on that thoroughfare should be treated to a new side walk, would they not arise and bless the Aldermen. Try it, gentlemen.

LIST of arrivals by the steamer Issaquena: Thos. F. Duffin, D. Lemile, M. Ettinger, Greenville; A. C. Loder, J. W. Macon, Wilsons Point; J. Raiford, J. Mitchell, A. Dreyfus, Jas. O'Dell, A. J. Montgomery, Miss L. Cox, Dr. J. C Hall, Miss Hickman, Skipwiths; W. H. Harvey, Ashton; J. S. Martin, Wildernes; Dr. Askew, Arlington; Geo. Wilhelm, Providence; A. Rose, Ben Lomond; Dr. Winslow and wife, Hays Landing; A. C. Gibson, Chotard; Dr. Kiger, Brunswick; F. Liebenfrank, Peelers Landing; S. Nelson, Arcadia; Mrs. Newell, Millikens Bend.

Attention, Fair Play Social Club

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the Fair Play Club this (Thursday) evening at 8 o'clock, when business of importance will come up for action. By order.

Road to Kleinston.

Capt. E. G. Carroll informs us that the new gravel road to Kleinston will begin at the southern end of the lower Compress and run south through the property of Mr. G. M. Klein and Mr. Thomas Rigby, through the old Fair Grounds, thence west to the V. & M. Railroad track, and thence south to the P. Line platform. No estimate of the cost of the work has yet been made, but it is thought 3500 cubic yards of gravel will be used per ft, and about 5000 yards of earth moved. The expense will be spread around the land owned in all the way by the road. The work will be commenced the first part of the week.

Meeting of the School Board.

The School Board met at Capt. Chamberlin's office at 6 o'clock yesterday evening.

The Board discussed at some length the action of the City Council in refusing to make the necessary repairs to the school buildings. Several suggestions were made looking to raising money enough to have the repairs made, some saying the money could be raised by subscription, but as the taxes were now very high it was thought best not to make the appeal.

On motion of Mr. Lee Richardson, Messrs Chamberlin, Short and Edwards were appointed a committee to act with a like committee from the City Council, to have what repairs made the sum appropriated would pay for, $250 going to the Cherry Street School, and $249 to the Main Street School.

Mr. Richardson suggested that the janitors be required to have the buildings ready for the opening.

Mr. Edwards moved that the schools open on the first Monday in October, which was carried.

It was decided that the janitors of the two schools be required to commence cleaning up their premises immediately, and assist in whitewashing, for which they shall be allowed regular pay for the time put in.

Mr. Short moved that the pay of all teachers be placed at the same figures as last year before the reduction made by the City Council. This does not interfere with the salary of the principal and first assistants of the schools.

The question of the pay of the teachers in the Cherry Street School coming up, Capt. Chamberlin suggested that the lower grade teachers be paid $30, Mrs. McCalloway $40, Mr. Temple $50, and Mr. Reynolds $75.

Mr. Short objected to the difference being made in the two schools, saying some of the teachers had agreed to work for $30, but this was done through fear that they would lose their places.

Mr. Hanes made a little talk, taking the same views as expressed by Mr. Short, saying that he thought the teachers were now paid poorly enough. The Board now had 4 mills and could pay fair salaries. There had been teachers who were not good ones but the Board had displaced them.

Mr. Trescott asked what the salaries were, and was told that the pay last season was $45 before the reduction was made.

Mr. Short's motion was then carried.

Mr. Chamberlin was authorized to purchase three car loads of coal for the schools.

Some studies and rules for the government of the Cherry Street School, submitted by Mr. Reynolds, the new Principal, were read to the committee on rules.

A letter from Prof. Seeley, Principal elect of Main Street School, was read to the Board, relating to the kind of school books used by him in the several schools in which he has taught, claiming for them a superiority over all other school books, and recommending the adoption of such books in the Vicksburg school, as he had mentioned.

On motion the Board adjourned.

The Post Job Printing Office.
It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Loklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

The Post will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as consistent with first-class work.

Do not send orders for job printing to any firm in Vicksburg until you get the estimate of the "Post Job Printing Company." We will do your work as cheap as any one, and guarantee satisfaction.

Cotton Seed Oil for Cooking Purposes.
The product of the cotton seed is now taking the place of lard. Consumers in Vicksburg can be assured of getting a pure article of cotton seed oil, as the Paragon oil is manufactured in our midst by the J. J. Powers Oil Mill, and is now on sale by all leading grocers. Lard is doubtful—sometimes it is adulterated; sometimes it is made from diseased animals, and sometimes it is very strong. There are no doubts about the purity and healthfulness of the vegetable oil. Almost every educated family in New York City now uses it in place of olive oil and lard, and it is esteemed sweeter and better for food than lard or common butter. It is easier to handle, easier for the cook's use. New York people are employing it in all salads, mayonaise dressing, and in frying oysters, fish, and making cakes, and for ordinary "shortening." In fact, pork and lard have disappeared from the New York cuisine, and seed oil taken its place.

The foremost New York chemist, Prof. Chandler, pronounces the cotton seed oil to be superior in healthful qualities to pork or lard, and adds that it will not produce dyspepsia. The time will come when New York will as impatiently await the new crop of seed oil as it now awaits the new crop of tea, coffee or flour. The educated Italians of New York use seed oil with their maccaroni. Five hundred Italian laborers on the New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railroad are using seed oil in place of meat, which they do not eat; and what splendid food, so healthful as compared with lard, this will be for the laborers in the South when the whites have been careful to introduce it at their own table.

A Novel Invention.
Special dispatch to the Globe-Democrat from Litchfield, Ill., says: Rev. A. B. Morrison, of this city, who, for thirty years, has been a Methodist pastor, and who has, of course, attended a great many burials, for several years has been devising an easier and safer process of depositing bodies in the grave. He has at last completed an invention for that purpose. It consists of an adjustible folding crane, derrick and lever, by which the heaviest body can be safely and gently lowered to the last resting place without the possibility of mishaps. The apparatus is not cumbersome, but can easily be folded and set aside. Mr. Morrison received a telegram from Washington on Saturday, notifying him of the granting of the patent. What discussion this will make of the invention in order to introduce it to the general public has not yet been determined, but either it will be disposed of to parties interested in such things, or a company will be formed for its manufacture.

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.
VICKSBURG, MISS., July 19, 1883.
THE FOLLOWING ORDER HAS BEEN issued by the Mississippi State Board of Health, for the government of all craft wishing to land within the limits of the State from points below Fort Adams on the Mississippi river:
OFFICE OF MISSISSIPPI STATE BOARD OF HEALTH, JACKSON, MISS., July 17, 1883.
It is hereby ordered that on and after this date, and until further orders, all boats on the Mississippi river coming from points South of this State will be required to land at the Inspection Station at Fort Adams and be inspected before they will be allowed to land at any point in this State.
Certificates of inspection in New Orleans by the Inspectors of the Sanitary Council of the Mississippi Valley will be accepted at the Station, and it is suggested that boats from that place provide themselves with such certificates, so as to avoid delay.
ROBERT KELLS,
WIRT JOHNSTON,
C. A. RICE,
Executive Committee.
[Approved] ROBERT LOWRY, Governor.
At a meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen held July 19, 1883, the following ordinance was passed:

An Ordinance to aid in Preserving the Health of the City of Vicksburg.
Section 1. Be it ordered by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Vicksburg, That no steamboat or other craft coming up the Mississippi river shall land at the city of Vicksburg without having first landed at the Inspection Station of the State Board of Health at Fort Adams and submitted to inspection according to law and the rules of said Board, and received from the proper officer at said station a certificate in the nature of a Clean Bill of Health, and without having first landed at Kleinston, below this city, or at such other point or points as may hereafter be designated by this Board and exhibited said certificate to the City Inspector at such point or points, and submitted to another complete and full examination and inspection by such City Inspector.

Sec. 2. Be it further ordained, That said City Inspector, appointed or to be appointed by the Mayor and City Physician, shall, at said Kleinston or other designated point, board each steamboat or other water craft coming up the said river to land at said city, and examine said certificate, and make a complete inspection of said steamboat or craft; and he shall immediately report to the City Marshal any steamboat or other water craft at said station, and immediately notify the Mayor and City Physician thereof, and the same shall not proceed to Vicksburg until permission given by Mayor or City Physician.

Sec. 3. Be it further ordained, That for any violation of the first section or last clause of the second section hereof, the Pilot or Captain or other person in charge of such steamboat or other water craft shall be immediately arrested and fined by the City Court in a sum not less than One Hundred Dollars and not exceeding Five Hundred Dollars, and that, for any neglect of the duties imposed by the Second Section hereof, the said City Inspector shall be fined by said Court in a sum not less than Twenty-five Dollars and not exceeding One Hundred Dollars.

Sec. 4. Be it further ordained, That the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to all railroad trains coming into this city whenever this Board shall so direct by an order entered on its minutes.

Sec. 5. Be it further ordained, That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Ordained this 19th day of July, 1883.
H. J. TROWBRIDGE,
City Clerk.
Approved, this 20th day of July, 1883.
T. G. HIRCHERT,
Mayor.

VICKSBURG, MISS., July 20, 1883.
The Station is located at Kleinston; about two miles below the city, where all water craft from points south of Fort Adams, intending to land within the corporate limits of the city of Vicksburg, are required to land, have their papers inspected and approved by the officer in charge of Station, before they will be permitted to land at said city. The station will be designated by a yellow flag in the day, and a red light at night.

It is hoped that steamboats will comply with this order and obviate delays.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Memphis River Report.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Sept. 7.—The river is falling; it fell three inches in the last 24 hours. The channel is very narrow and crooked between here and Cairo.

Departed: Wyoming for Cincinnati, at 9 a.m.; City of Providence for St. Louis, at 11 a.m.; Belle of Shreveport passed down at daylight for New Orleans.

Market Reports.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 7, Noon.—Futures quiet, but firm 1-64 off. Uplands quiet and unchanged.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 7, Noon.—Middling 9¾ steady.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 7, Noon.—Middling, 9 11-16; steady.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7, Noon.—Futures steady 8 to 9 points higher; Middling 10¼ firm.

HINDS COUNTY NOMINATIONS.

Result of the Democratic Convention at Raymond.

Jones S. Hamilton for Senator, S. B. Thomas for Sheriff, W. T. Ratliff for Chancery Clerk.

And Good Men for Other Positions—The Vote.

RAYMOND, Sept. 7.—The Democratic Conservative Convention, composed of ninety-five delegates from the several precincts, assembled here yesterday at the Court-house for the purpose of nominating county officers for the November election.

Mr. Oliver Clifton of Jackson was chosen permanent Chairman of the Convention, and Mr. Sam D. Harper Secretary.

The following persons were elected in the order in which they were nominated, forty-eight votes being necessary to a choice.

Mr. Jones S. Hamilton of Jackson, for Senator, received 52 votes.

Mr. J. K. McNeeley of Utica, for Representative, received 71 votes.

Col. Thomas, the present incumbent, was nominated by acclamation for Sheriff.

For Chancery Clerk, M. W. T. Ratliff received 52½ votes on the first ballot.

W. H. Potter of Jackson, nominee for Circuit Clerk, was nominated on the second ballot by a vote of 65.

D. X. Brown of Utica, 48½ votes for Treasurer.

W. T. Collins, for Surveyor, 58½ votes.

Everything passed of quietly and the successful candidates wore their honors with becoming modesty, while other less fortunate aspirants accepted the situation as being the will of the people.

Talk About the Colored National Convention.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Leading colored men here are not only indignant over the report, but deny vehemently that the Colored National Convention, called to meet in Louisville this month is to be abandoned. Mr. Fred Douglas, in an interview touching the report of the abandonment of the Convention, said to-day that it bore evidence of having been got up by persons inimical to the proposed Convention.

"As to the Convention having been gotten up in the interest of the present Administration," said Mr. Douglas, "this is wholly untrue. The statement that I am sick is untrue. I intend to go to the Convention if any Convention is held. I have letters, continued Mr. Douglas "from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Nebraska, Illinois Indiana, Maryland, and I don't know how many other States, that have elected delegates to the Convention, all of whom will attend. Besides I have received letters from Senator Harrison, of Indiana, and from the Mayor of the city of Indianapolis and from other prominent gentlemen of Indiana, welcoming the Convention to Indianapolis, in case we are not welcomed to Louisville, Ky., and in any case, if we should wish to hold the Convention there."

The Corresponding Secretary of the Committee who issued the call for the Convention said: So far the reports showed that between 160 and 170 delegates, representing thirteen or fourteen States, had been elected and would go.

In some of the States so much interest was taken that the proceedings of the State Conventions has been published in pamphlet form and distributed. "We see very much encouraged, and expect a large Convention."

Two Persons Drowned.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 6.—Capt. Thomas Fullwood, of the steamer Cape Fear, and Miss Lizzie Bell, of Fayetteville, were drowned in the Cape Fear river, near Fayetteville, on the night of the 4th inst. Capt. Fullwood was in charge of the steamer Cape Fear, which left Fayetteville for Wilmington on the afternoon of the 4th. Miss Bell was a passenger. Soon after leaving the wharf she fell overboard. Capt. Fullwood jumped in after her, and both were drowned. Miss Bell's body was recovered.

GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH.

Hill, of New Jersey, Tells About its Success in England.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The agitation of the question of a Government telegraph line gives especial interest to some figures and facts gathered here regarding the working of the system in connection with the Post-office system in England.

"I believe the time has come," said Hon John Hill, of New Jersey, speaking to your correspondent, "when the telegraph system of the country, or at least a telegraph system, will be incorporated with the post-office system."

Mr. Hill is the original agitator of the two cent postage scheme in the late Congress. Other people have talked about it at various times, and others joined with him in the fight for it in the last Congress, but he claims the paternity of the movement which finally gave the country the two-cent postal law which is to go into effect at the end of this month, and he probably is entitled to the credit of it. Mr. Hill, by the way, is the most talked of for Republican candidate for Governor in New Jersey. Mr. William Walter Phelps having beaten him in the race for the nomination and consequent election to Congress a year ago.

"What do you know about the workings of the Government telegraph system in England, Mr. Hill? You are familiar with the English Post-office system through your study of cheap postage."

"Yes, I have naturally gathered a good deal of information about it in my researches in support of my two-cent postage measure. I think there is a growing demand for cheap telegraphy, and this naturally leads to talk about the Government taking control of the system or creating one of its own. There are many arguments in favor of it, especially that of cheapness and universal uses, but there are other potent ones against it, especially that which relates to the great addition to the number of Government employes, which would follow. Yet the probabilities are, I think, that it will some day be realized."

"Yes. The use of the telegraph has greatly increased since the system was adopted and the Government and the people are greatly pleased with its workings. The telegraph, the Post-office and the saving bank systems are, you find it upon inspection, under the Government, and as one system there, and all with eminent success.

The latest attainable reports upon the workings of the English postal telegraph system show some interesting facts regarding the growth of the system and service since the Government took possession of the lines. It was in 1869 that the lines were turned over to the Government. The management has been very wise and the result very gratifying. In 1869 the number of offices was 2,488; in 1880 it was 5,331. The number of messages transmitted in 1869 was 6,502,000; in 1780 it was 26,000,000; in 1801 it was 29,000,000, and in 1882 it reached over 31,000,000.

"The Department has, during this time, paid its operating expenses and accumulated a surplus of ten million dollars, which has been used to pay interest on the bonds issued when the lines were purchased. The chief feature, however, of the experiment is the enormous increase in the use of the lines by the people."

We have heard of a Holmes county farmer who says he has been making cotton on the same plantation for forty years, and this year's crop is the poorest of the 40.—Lexington Bulletin.

Suspension of Coleman Brothers.

The news of the suspension of the firm of H. Dudley Coleman & Brother, which was announced yesterday, will no doubt cause much surprise in the mercantile community. Certainly the regret with which it will be read this morning will be wide-spread and deep. No young mercantile establishment in the South had a larger circle of warm friends than that which has been built up through years of persevering struggle and has now unexpectedly gone to the wall. These young men fairly represented the new South. Coming out of the war with less than nothing, except their stout hands and hearts, they started in with the determination to win an honorable success. With no fortune except their talents and energy, they have made for themselves a splendid record in the commercial world. Large-hearted and generous, they have never stinted the public in its expectations or demands. If we had a few score firms of equal public spirit, the Crescent City would take a position enviable indeed.

Considering themselves unable to carry forward their extensive business without risking and possibly sacrificing those who would help them, they have deemed it advisable to go into liquidation. They have taken this step in order to place their creditors on an equal basis. The showing presented elsewhere is quite satisfactory. Mr. Dudley Coleman is widely known and highly esteemed throughout the South. He has always been a man of marked public spirit, and has taken a large interest in the affairs of the city. has stood ready to advance every worthy enterprise and to lend his services and talents to the public good. Such a man to be found in business circles is a necessary requirement. We trust that What S. S. Cox has to Say About the Speakership.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Hon. S. S. Cox, of New York, is in the city, completing the details of the purchasing of a house. He is not now disposed to be communicative touching the Speakership, other than to affirm his confidence in his chances of election.

He denies, however, with forcible rhetoric, that he has made an alliance with Carlisle, or that any communication has been made to him from any quarter looking to such an alliance. Mr. Cox says of his canvass that he has the bulk of his own State delegation behind him, substantial support in Ohio and most gratifying advices from Wisconsin, Michigan, and Missouri. Mr. Cox further says that in no quarter has ever belittled the canvass of Mr. Randall, but on the contrary, has directed his energies to keeping aloof from antagonizing, save honorably, any of the other candidates.

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Call of President Trowbridge, of the Executive Committee, to the District and Ward Clubs.

ROOMS DEMOCRATIC EX. COM. WARREN CO.,
VICKSBURG, MISS., Aug. 29, 1883.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party of Warren County, held August 25, 1883, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a Convention of the Democratic party of Warren county, Mississippi, be, and the same is hereby called, to be held at the Court-house, in said county, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, 1883, at the hour of 12 o'clock, for the purpose of determining upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign and to make nominations for the different offices, should such Convention, when assembled, deem the same advisable.

Resolved, That said Convention shall be composed of ten delegates from each Democratic Club in the county and each Ward in the city of Vicksburg, to be selected by the different Clubs at times and places to be fixed by the Presidents thereof, preceding the time fixed for the holding of said Convention.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the above resolution, the different Ward and District Clubs of the city of Vicksburg and county of Warren are hereby requested to meet at such time and place as they may select, and proceed to select ten delegates to attend a Convention of the Democratic party to be held at the Court-house in the city of Vicksburg, on the 15th day of September next, at 12 o'clock m., to determine upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign, and to make nominations for the different offices should said Convention when assembled deem the same advisable.

As the Convention to assemble on the 15th of September will determine the course to be pursued by the Democrats of the county in the approaching campaign, it is respectfully urged that the different Ward and District Clubs select the very best men in their respective Wards and Districts to represent them in the Convention. Let it be generally understood by them that when they act in said Convention they act for and truly represent the wishes of the majority of their constituents, so that any action the Convention may take will mean that it is the action and sentiments of the Democrats of Warren county. Let there be no grumbling after the Convention adjourns, but that every Democrat in the county will feel bound to stand by its decision. Canvass your Wards and Districts thoroughly before you select your delegates, that we all may know when a delegation speaks that it reflects the true sentiments of the Democrats of their respective sections. If we expect to accomplish anything we must go to work, and in earnest, resolving that there shall be no dissensions in our ranks.

Respectfully, W. E. TROWBRIDGE,
Chairman Democratic Ex. Com.
Attest: H. DENIO, Secretary.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 7, 1883.

Only October States this year are and Indiana.

GENERAL SHERMAN writes in a private letter that he is entirely satisfied with the Republican position in Ohio, and confident of triumph.

The close of the commercial year shows that Shreveport received 107,503 bales of cotton last season, of which 68,409 came by wagon, 23,707 by rail and 20,[illegible] by river.

Hon. Frank Jones Hamilton gets into the papers. The people will expect him to build the Gulf & Ship Island Railroad, or put a movement on foot for the accomplishment of that great work.

The WARREN County Executive committee has called a convention to take place the 15th, to determine the desirability of making nominations, and to nominate if desirable. This looks a little as if a fusion movement is on hand.—Lexington Bulletin.

The five District Democratic Clubs met at Port Gibson on the 6th inst. to appoint delegates to the District Convention at Fayette. The meeting instructed: first, for Briscoe; second, for McNair; third, for Bridges.

A SPECIAL from Jackson to the Picayune says Sheriff E. M. Terry, of Leflore county, and J. L. Saunders passed through the city en route for Montgomery, Ala., after Henry and Taylor Murrell, nephews of the late John A. Murrell, of the Murrell clan, who are in custody at that place for the assassination of W. M. Beck in Leflore county on July 27. They are armed with a requisition from Gov. Lowry.

JUSTICE FIELD, of the Supreme Court, whose letter and platform we published two or three days since, evidently does not wish his name to be overlooked by the Democratic Presidential nominating Convention. The Judge's platform seem to be: Judge Field for President, with incidental Tilden. The Judge wants to catch the Southern vote by favoring the refunding of the cotton tax and other measures that may be supposed to appeal to the fancy of the South. But we believe the South, next time, will not support the man who makes the "best bid" for the nomination; weightier matters will be taken into consideration, and the Judge will probably have "to seek other fields and pastures new."

THE following kind and complimentary words from the last Brookhaven Leader are highly appreciated by us: "THE VICKSBURG EVENING POST is one of the best and most high toned newspapers in Mississippi. By its able, fearless and impartial utterances, it reflects credit upon the profession of journalism. Its condemnation of all species of lawlessness, and particularly those acts which have disgraced Vicksburg and vicinity for the last few years, is especially commendable. Vicksburg has long needed just such a paper as the POST—fearless, yet just—and if the good people of that city desire to see order and rise put down in their midst, should hold to a strict account, and the influence of the community redeemed, they will stand by and support that journal to the last."

A SPECIAL to the POST from Raymond, gives the result of the Hinds County Nominating Convention held at that place yesterday. A good ticket has been put in the field, and as a result of the nomination peace and harmony will prevail, and a peaceable and fair election can be secured. Jones S. Hamilton, of Jackson, heads the ticket, as candidate for the State Senate. He is an unswerving, sensible and progressive man, and his best efforts will be given to promoting the material interests of the State. The "bourbons" of the politics will have to give in his make up; he is a practical man and will make a good Senator. Col. Thomas, the present incumbent, and is probably the strongest man in the county. Capt. Bridges was renominated for Chancery Clerk, and Capt. Jackson for Circuit Clerk, by acclamation. The ticket is a strong one, and will be elected by a good majority.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 6.—The Times editorially regrets that Governor Blackburn has been renominated for Congress. It says that he is a man of ability, but that his record is such that he cannot be elected. It says that he is a man of ability, but that his record is such that he cannot be elected. It says that he is a man of ability, but that his record is such that he cannot be elected.

Why Gov. Blackburn Was Renominated.

Gov. Blackburn, in announcing his free use of the gardening paper, stated in his farewell address at Frankfort on the 4th that he found the penitentiary a hole of filth, a fit place for disease, pestilence and death. Scurvy, malaria and fever were all at work. Within less than a year 74 convicts had died. There were 900 prisoners and only 780 cells. Over 300 miserable wretches were paired together in cells but 6 feet 8 inches long, 3 feet 9 inches wide and 6 feet 3 inches high. Young prisoners, who had perhaps been guilty of a single mishap in life, were thrust into these coffin-like cells with the most hardened criminals, and the beastliness which resulted was too horrible to describe. Being a man of generous nature and humane feelings, it is no wonder that Governor Blackburn was moved to pardon on many of those guilty of the milder grades of crime that they might have a chance to live and to reform.

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property; and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The Appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

Satisfactory Results of the County Convention—Prospects for an Immense Fusion Victory.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]

JACKSON, Sept. 6, 1883.

The Democratic Convention met at Raymond to-day and nominated their portion of the Fusion ticket, conceded to be of overwhelming strength.

The Supervisor conceded to the Republicans, fell by lot to the Utica precinct. The Gibraltar of Hinds bows gracefully to the situation and promises her accustomed unanimous acquiescence to the will of the Democracy.

Hamilton, Potter and Isydore Strauss, the latter nominated as Supervisor from Jackson precinct, were received by the citizens of Jackson upon the return of the delegation to this place, with a salute of a hundred rounds belched forth from the mouth of the Royal Moses, a monster cannon so named in honor of an illustrious ancestor of Mr. Isydore Strauss.

The Republicans will complete the ticket with their nominations on the 12th inst., shortly after which a series of joint ratifications and barbecues will take place. Knowing politicians now place the future fusion majority at 5,000.

INCUBATOR.

The Women of the South.

Whenever the demagogue of Northern politics grows weary of Ku-Klux in the South, he assails Southern women. He claims that they were enthusiastic over secession, encouraged rebellion and that they still hate the "Yankee" with a bitterness almost personally dangerous. The first part of the charge is true—the latter an outrageous blunder. Modern history cannot name a war in which the wives and mothers and sisters and daughters of an army were more enthusiastic and self-sacrificing. To the men of the South the war was the solution of a political problem. To the women it seemed an attempt of the North to conquer and desolate the country. They firmly and earnestly believed that the South had long been oppressed, and that the war was to futher abridge rights and liberties. Believing thus it may be safely asserted that nineteen out of every twenty women in the South were Trojans in their courage, Spartans in their fortitude and Romans in their faith and self-sacrifice. Husbands and fathers and brothers were made ready for war and given a woman's blessing, and even had the Confederate conscription act been less stringent the able-bodied man who shirked military service could not have lived at home for the taunts of the women.

History will never detail the self-sacrifice and heroic courage of Southern women. No matter as to the right or wrong of the cause—they believed it was right. The blow fell upon the family household early and with full force. In Virginia seven out of ten families were without men folks at home within three months from the first battle. Father and sons went together. The wife and mother gave all she had, and then turned to face further anxieties. There were thousands of women in the Old Dominion who had never laced their shoes or combed their hair. The slave was at hand to obey every nod. Those women sent their husbands and sons to the front and then faced the question of food supply. In many cases the slaves ran away. When this occurred the women went into the fields and put in such crops as they could. Where the slaves remained the mistress was forced to act as her own manager and overseer and assume all responsibility. There are plenty of Federal troopers still living who found educated and cultured Southern women wielding hoes and holding plows in the corn-field within six months of the opening of the war.

It was the Southern women more than the provost marshals who checked desertion and made the offense odious. The Confederate who left the front without leave found no welcome outside of his own family. He who came home by authority, and with a wound to attest his bravery in action, was a hero until duty compelled his return.

No man ever saw a night so wild that a Southern woman would not face it to carry news to Confederate soldiers. Every woman was a scout and a spy. If the mother could not go the daughter was sent. If there was no daughter a dispatch or message was hurried off by a negro or a signal was made. They came to accurately estimate the strength of marching columns, to identify one make of gun from another in the batteries, and where scouts and spies could not go the women could. It was the women who saved Morgy again and again. It was a woman who told Early just how Sheridan's army was distributed at Cedar Creek, and there was scarcely a battle on Virginia's soil with which women had not something to do as the bearers of information. Once called in to cause their die not know what despair was. They sent their bedding to the hospitals, their provisions to the army, and their jewels to a buyer of Confederate arms in Europe. When the Confederate Government could not furnish provisions the Confederate women did.

I have asked hundreds of Confederate soldiers how they made a start after the war, and in nearly every instance the answer began:

"Well, my wife had a little money—"

His wife had a little money to break him up for the new start in life. The money was all any missing people ever all were supposed to have escaped—even the girls of Dreman's place, who were standing in the crowd, believing their companions had escaped.

But inquiry later in the day failed to procure any information as to the whereabouts of at least eight of them, and one man also was not to be found. A most exhaustive search was made through the whole crowd, and every means used to ascertain if the missing ones had turned up, but not a word could be learned of any of the eight girls and one man, and at midnight their frantic, heart-broken parents, brothers and sisters gave up all hope.

Those reported not found at midnight were Chris. Borman, who was working on the press on the second floor of Dreman's place; he was fifty-eight years of age, and lived on Buckeye street; Rose O'Connell, a widow, known as Rose Lydia, aged thirty-seven years, living on Eighth Street Hill; Mary and Maggie Lee, sisters, and aged respectively eighteen and twenty-two years, and living at No. 64 Findlay; Mary Burke, fifteen years, living at No. 148 S. East street; Mary Spieler, aged seventeen, living at No. 42 Dunlap street; Bessie Brady, aged twenty, living on Eighth street near Broadway; Mary Lynch, living at 113 East Sixth, and Nelly Kelly, eighteen years, living on eighth Street Hill.—Times-Star.

Through bills of lading for cotton are given over the railroad at $1.50 a bale.

Mrs. W. G. Dunn died Monday last of swamp fever. She was an estimable lady.

The shooting match between the Ouachita and Vicksburg Gun Clubs, which was to have taken place next Monday in Vicksburg, has been postponed till October. Several members of the Ouachita Club can not leave their business at this time.

Court adjourned without day in Richland last Friday. It is a bad season for Court. Crops are pressing and the weather too good to neglect them. The regular September term in Morehouse has been adjourned with the understanding that there will be a special jury term in November.

The Consolidated or Sicsan Line, it is whispered, will have to contend with quite a powerful and determined opposition the coming winter. The Katie Prescott is being put in tip-top order, it is said for this route, and a couple of fine new Ohio river packets will soon be in the warfare against the "Consolidated."

CLIPPINGS.

In the case of accidents to steamers it would be well for the Captain in charge to give the reporter when he requests it the "facts," and not compel him to go nosing around the cook-house, engineer's department and among the roustabouts generally, for his information, for in nine cases out of ten those persons have really no interests at stake, will exaggerate and the same goes into the papers, for "the whole truth."—Memphis Ledger.

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette, 4th. According to arrangement many of the boats in port had their flags out to-day in commemoration of the restoration of the old rule in regard to steamboat signals, and a meeting of steamboatmen was held this afternoon at which speeches were made appropriate to the occasion.

The Anchor Line and Barge Line-advanced rates last Monday from St. Louis to New Orleans 2½c per pound or 50c per ton. The rates to New Orleans are 20c per 100 pounds on freight, 25c per 100 pounds on hay, and 40c per barrel on flour. Barge rates on bulk grain were advanced to 8½c per bushel on corn, and 7c per bushel on wheat, but package freight remains the same at 17½c per 100 pounds on pound freight, 22½c on hay, and 35c per barrel on flour.

Times-Democrat, 5d.—Tobin's Train, the J. M. White, left her laying-up quarters yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, and steamed up the river amid the whistle salutes from the ferry and all the tugboats in port. She went up as far as Girod street, came back, and made her landing at the Vicksburg warf. When she passed Canal street she was moving so fast that it looked as if it was impossible to stop her. The White has received a thorough overhauling, new gards, ect., and has been repainted all over from stem to stern.

It is unnecessary to mention any more about this wonderful steamboat, as her excellent reputation is too well known by every one both far and near. She will leave on her first trip of the season to Vicksburg this evening at 5 o'clock.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of the 3d had the following report:

The following steamers will ply in the Cincinnati and New Orleans trade during the ensuing season: Will S. Hays, Charles Morgan, R. R. Springer, New Mary Houston, Guiding Star, Thos. Sherlock, Will Kyle, Carrier, Belle of Shreveport, Wyoming, Paris C. Brown, Golden Rule, Golden Crown, U. P. Schenck.

A Decreased Southern Corn Crop.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—A special report of the corn crop by Charles B. Murray, editor of the Cincinnati Price current, published to-morrow, makes the outlook in the Western States favorable for a good crop of 75,000,000 bushels over last year, but the South and elsewhere will be about an equal amount short, so that the entire crop proposes to be about the same as last year. In many sections of Indiana, Illinois and Iowa the growth is backward, partly on the use of seed from the West, which is late in maturing. An estimate shows a reduction of fifteen per cent as compared with last year, and an increase in Nebraska and; and a decrease in every Southern State of significance except Texas, which will be 15 to 20 per cent. over last year.

NEARLY 100 members of the Pennsylvania Legislature remain at home, but keep on drawing $10 a day all the same. It is not libelous to say that these gentlemen belong to the solid army of sublimity for revenue only.—Times.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by laying $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold.

Death of a Venerable Lady.

Mrs. Josephine Bunne, one of the oldest and most respected residents of this place, died early this morning. Mrs. Bunne was born in Elberfeld, Prussia, in the year 1808, and immigrated to this country in the year 1861. She settled here with her husband, and during the siege of the Hill City, was a perfect angel of light to the soldiers who so bravely defended this historic city. Those who were here during the days of the seige will read with much heartfelt regret the fact that one more of the noble women, who strove so hard to alleviate their sufferings and hardships during that dark and gloomy period, has passed away to seek rest in the bosom of her Maker. Her funeral takes place at 5 o'clock this evening from the residence of Mr. Wm. Muller, on Grove street, thence to the Catholic Church, and from there to the grave.

The Finest Establishment in Vicksburg.

We call the attention of our readers to the card of W. E. Beck, wholesale dealer in wines, liquors, cigars and tobacco. This establishment carries the largest stock of any in the South and is doing an immense business. Mr. Beck buys all of his goods direct from the manufacturers for cash, and is enabled to offer buyers at home and in the country special inducements to purchase from him. His whiskies comprise all the favorite leading brands, and he offers straight goods of various ages either in bond or free.

The "Old Crow" whisky, for which he is the sole agent, has an unrivalled reputation and sale; and parties desiring to buy will do well to call on him before going elsewhere.

His stock of cigars is the largest ever seen in the South, and as Mr. Beck has had a long experience in this branch of that business, his selections were made with rare taste and judgement.

His line of plug tobaccos is large and varied, embraces all of the leading brands and styles. "He is sole agent for the "Gravely" and spring brands, and can offer them at manufacturer's prices. He also carries the "Star" the "Horseshoe," and other Western Navies, and a full line of Virginia goods. He is sole agent for the genuine Aurora bottled beer—also carries Budweiser, Pilsener and Phillip Best Brewing Co.'s "Select." Any of these brands he is ready to offer at bottom figures. Aside from the above, he offers a full line of cased wines and liquors, brandies, etc., all bought from first hands. Give Mr. Beck a call and be convinced.

Just About This

Time you have worn out the PANTS to your Spring Suit and want another pair to finish out the old coat and vest; something to last until you change to FALL goods. Come and see us.

We have a choice line of PANTS, all FIRST-CLASS GOODS, and cheap.

The Wrong Editor.

A short while back one of the editors of THE VICKSBURG POST reported a transaction that didn't do any great deal of credit to a city policeman. The gentleman of the star and club bided his time, slipped up on the pencil-pusher when he was off his guard, grabbed him by the hip-pocket, found he had a pistol therein, and then arrested him for carrying a concealed weapon. Vicksburg editors should either conform to the law in the matter of concealed weapons, or wink at the irregularities of the "perlece."—Lexington Bulletin.

It was one of the editors of the Herald, and not a POST man, that had the trouble with a policeman.

Our Public Schools.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

Our American Public School System gives superior lustre to our land in all free well regulated and liberty loving countries on the face of the earth.

They, more than the enactments of Legislatures, of Congresses, the decrees of Courts, or the Constitution itself, constitute the guarantee of progress, freedom, domestic felicity, deliverance from ignorance, priest and clergy craft, monopoly, and the attainment of the great ends of our being. Educate the children educate them through and through—physical, moral, mental, Teach them not mostly to cypher like an Automaton, or to study geography as a policeman, and listen to teachers as divinities, but to think, to look for the reason, to be independent, rational and wise. Instruct them in the solemn and momentous obligations of refinement, purity of moral, gentleness and dignity of manners, and in the all-subduing power of genuine politeness, with its great attributes of unselfishness, sincerity and suavity. For creeds and catechisms, for theology, and the prolonged monotonous and insipid repetitions of the stale platitudes of medieval superstitions, there is room and time and place outside of the school-house. If we pay a teacher to instruct our children in the majestic revelations of the three R's we don't want soda-water, ginger-snaps, and tri-colord candy mixed up with the lessons, as more essential than the bill of fare we bargained for; and we won't have it.

Our public schools are now fixed upon a solid base—the respect and affections of the parents and people, and at all hazards and any cost they are to be, not only maintained, but made the best that ability in teaching and proper management can furnish—or we will know the reason why.

Things are not yet fully and thoroughly right. Some shameful indebtedness has crippled the proper improvement of the school buildings—but we will remedy that trying defect by the free offerings of our public spirited citizens. It is folly to try to educate children in dirty rooms, tumble-down, rickety old second-hand modifications. We will fix up the old one now the best we can, and build a grand one for the next lot of new comers as they tumble out of their cradles and cry for the nourishment of the best school books.

So now fix up the grand old historic school-house where hundreds of our beautiful women and brave and manly boys were educated, and let our public school be our loudest, heartiest and most gratifying boast.

Planters will come to our city and educate their sons and daughters; and when they do so they will find a first class public school, as well as several superior private academies where all they wish or could desire, may be found.

Yours, C. K. MARSHALL.

Military Matters.

The Volunteer Southrons, under command of Lieut. John A. Klein, Jr., turned out four sets of fours last night, and put up a most creditable drill. Their field movements are very nearly perfect, and with a little practice they will soon get the manual on the march down to a science. Owing to the absence of 1st and 2nd Sergeants, C. J. Searles and H. Winston, privates Dan Searles and Nickodemus Moore acted in their stead. Private Searles led the company very creditably, and acting-Seargent Moore brought up the rear in such grand style as to call forth bursts of applause from those who had assembled on Washington street to witness the drill. Mr Moore has the making of a fine soldier in him, if he will only keep on as he has begun.

The Vicksburg Rifles were on the streets drilling last night. This company puts up as pretty a drill as has been witnessed in Vicksburg since the palmy days, when the old Volunteers, Southrons and Cadets used to call forth loud cheers of praise for the soldierly drilling. The Rifles were put through the manual last night and proved that they had not forgotten what they had learned last Spring. They seem to have caught the knack of working together, and everything goes like clock work. We would suggest, Lieut. Piazza that the men composing the Rifles have been drilled long enough under the recruit rule, and that public reprimands are calculated to discourage rather than help them.

When you drive out to the National Cemetery, stop at JOHN BARRY'S and get a cool glass of Beer

CENTRAL
Female Institute

Clinton, Hinds County, Miss.,

REV. WALTER HILLMAN, LL.D., Pres't,

Who will send catalogue, or give other information respecting the Institution, on application.

This is the oldest Institution for the education of Young Ladies, and is without a superior, in the State or Southwest.

The year now closing has been eminently prosperous, filling the Institution's accommodations for pupils to their utmost capacity.

Among the many superior advantages are: Extensive and Thorough Courses of Study; the Long and Successful Experience of the Heads of its Departments; Educational Facilities such as Apparatus, Cabinets, Libraries, etc., the accumulation of nearly half of a century; Expenses, considering the QUALITY and QUANTITY of the returns made, very low.

The Thirty-first Collegiate year begins Tuesday, September 25th.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 8, 1883.

THOSE having it in charge are working up the State Fair with a vim which insures a successful exhibition and inspires the belief that it will be placed on a permanent footing.—Fayette Chronicle.

WE learn from the Vicksburg papers that war has broken out between the Oil Mills and cotton Planters, about the price of cotton seed.—State Ledger.

You did'nt learn it from Vicksburg "papers," as THE POST was the only one that mentioned the matter.

IT is stated that the Illinois Central Railroad will build a branch road from Jacksonville, Tenn., to Memphis, and one from Jackson to Nashville. These two branch roads will run through a rich and wealthy country, and will pay a handsome profit upon the money expended in their construction.

IN his celebrated letter to Ellis in 1864, Abraham Lincoln used the following memorable words: "I affirm it as my settled conviction that class laws, placing capital above labor in the structure of the Government, endangers the Republic more fatally this hour than did chattel slavery in the days of its haughtiest supremacy."

MISSISSIPPI CROPS.—A special from Jackson to the N. O. Picayune says: "Reliable reports received at the office of the State Commissioner of Agriculture show that the cotton and corn crops of Mississippi are much injured by unfavorable weather. The decrease in cotton, as compared with last year, amounts to 25 per cent. and the corn 15 per cent. With a favorable picking season this is a fair estimate."

THE VICKSBURG POST of the 30th contains a sketch of the death of Col. Geo. C. Porter, of this neighborhood. He has been sick for a week or two past, but there has never been apprehension even of his condition. The alarm was a false one.—Raymond Gazette.

We are very glad that our information was incorrect, and that the genial Colonel "still lives" to minister to the wants and pleasures of those who visit Cooper's Well.

A NEW YORK correspondent of the Louisville Post is confident the Democratic slate is all fixed—Randall for Speaker, and Tilden and Hendricks. And Boss Kelly is willin. But it is so easy to fix slates that are as easily Broken. Political slates are made to be broken.—Avalanche.

If Randall is elected Speaker, the people may insist upon his being a candidate for President. He is probably the best man the Democrats have for that responsible position.

SENATOR BECK, has struck his colors. He says that "the revenue tax should be adjusted as far as possible so as to aid the American industries in the proportion in which they can least bear foreign competition." Just so, Mr. Beck, a tariff for revenue, with incidental protection. Mr. Beck has no cause to say one word, after this, against Mr. Randall's candidacy for the Speakership. One by one the free traders fall by the wayside.—Augusta Ga., Chronicle.

THE Philadelphia Times says that just as the Democratic party came in plain sight of general success it seems to have again justified its old-time reputation for committing political hari-kari. Of the "tidal wave" States of last fall the Times does not think that the Democracy stands the ghost of a chance of holding more than New at the coming fall election, if it does that. Not satisfied with losing the States gained from the enemy last fall, "Democratic majorities are also being frittered away in sure Democratic States by folly and corruption," and "the rosy prospects of a Democratic national victory in 1884 seems to have been sadly clouded by recent Democratic stupidity and selfishness."

O, MOST JUST JUDGE.—A dispatch from Nashville says: "In the criminal court to-day Judge Allen called in the grand jury and delivered a vigorous charge against the sale of obscene literature, quoting the act passed by the last legislature, and instructed them to indict all newsdealers selling the Police Gazette, Police News and other periodical of that class. As a consequence, the papers which were displayed in windows by newsdealers this morning have been removed and they refused to sell them in response to the demand of customers." If the Post has any influence with the next Legislature it will see to it that a similar act is passed in this State.

The Murder of Prisoners.

The particulars of the recent desecration of a grave near Auburn, in Hinds county, and the subsequent lynching of the perpetrators of the crime, are given to the Raymond Gazette by the Magistrate who held the preliminary examination of the culprits and committed them for trial. The crime was one born of superstition and ignorance; the perpetrators had confessed it; they were in the hands of the officers of the law on the way to jail after being tried before a Magistrate, and there was no reason to apprehend that they would not receive the full legal punishment their crime deserved. The prisoners were forcibly taken from the custody of the officers, and murdered. This is a short history of the case. It affords food for reflection.

One of the culprits slain by the mob was an old negro 75 or 80 years of age, whose head was white with the weight of years. Some may say he was old enough to know better, but his age affords a very good reason why the horrible superstition was grounded in his natuge. A half century of this old man's life had been spent in slavery, when it was a crime by law for him to have learned to read, and when very little was done by owners to disabuse the minds of their slaves of the ignorance fostered by law in this country and of the superstitions inherited from African ancestors.

The Justice of the Peace innocently suggests that the Legislature enact laws to prevent "conjuring" and its attendant crimes. This is all very well, but it did not seem to occur to the Justice that laws should be passed or enforced to protect the lives of prisoners in custody of officers of the law when there is no probability of the law not being duly executed and no prospect that the criminals will escape legal punishment.

The Justice of the Peace says the mob was composed of about 150 white and black men, "the negroes, if possible, more indignant than the whites." Now would it not have been well for the whites, the more intelligent race, to set an example of law-abiding citizenship, and to have restrained the ignorant indignant blacks from assisting in the commission of another crime?

It seems to us there have been more instances in the State of Mississippi, in which prisoners have been taken from the custody of officials or taken out of prisons, and lynched, than have occurred in any other State in the Union.

There is a bad state of public sentiment when these unnecessary lynchings are of such frequent occurrance, and if there is any means of suppressing them, the means should be resorted to.

Is it not about time Gov. Lowry was taking some official steps to protect the lives of prisoners in this State?

The Work of Mob Law.

D. W. Pressel, a white man about 65 years of age living at Mayersville, in Issaquena county, in this State, several weeks ago was charged with raping a little girl of that town aged about 9 years. He was arrested and stoutly denied the charge, but on a preliminary examination was sent to jail without bail. An indignant mob assembled in force, overpowered the jailer and in the midst of the man's solemn protestations of innocence hung him.

It is to avoid just such results as this and not in the interest of crime, that the law-abiding men of the country denounce lynch-law. Very few men will be found who would consent to leave a question of their right to recover a debt or their right to the possession of property, to an irresponsible mob. Why should they be invoked in questions of life and liberty? If we are to have something for the mob to decide, let us leave to their decision questions relating to property, because if they happen to make a mistake then there is a chance to correct it by an appeal to a second mob.

Now suppose that the relatives of the unfortunate Pressel conclude to invoke a mob and hang the men who hung him; it would be curious to see then which side the advocates of mob law would take. The probability is that those papers in the State which approved the violence of the mob that hung Pressel would be like the man that swore the horse was 16 feet high. They would begin to throw mud at Pressel on some pretext or other, and consider it a sufficient defense to say that he ought to have been hung on general principles. Another class would justify the last mob and throw quite as much mud as the self-constituted judges of Pressel. Both classes would claim that they represented the good people of Issaquena, when as a matter of fact, each would be representing a mob and nothing but a mob. By the by, this game of the mob pretending to be the people of a county and procuring themselves to be spoken of as law-abiding citizens of that county, while they are skulking about so secretly that a grand jury acknowledge after diligent inquiry that they are unable to indentify them, is pettering out in Mississippi. To the credit of a large portion of the Mississippi Press be it said, they are beginning to denounce in unmistakable terms this reckless resort to mob violence: and to the credit of our people be it also said, nine-tenths of them are with flaming colors and despise and denounce the mobs. Let the reform go on.—Brookhave Leader.

A Word of Caution.

Corn is too cheap to justify a man who has an immortal soul to starve in stealing it, but we would call the attention of farmers to the fact that cotton seed are advancing so rapid in price as to justify a little extra care in the matter of the protection of the impending crop. Cotton seed is 6 and 7 per cent. oil, and at present prices are worth $6 per ton. Any farmer can see at once how much money there is in a thief who steals a bushel of seed. Cotton seed is still one of the cheapest articles of feed in the country, and we hope that the time will never come when it will have a similar value to corn.

Not Wholly Dead.

We call them dead, the loved and lost
Whose faces bear no more we see,
Those who the solemn bound have crossed
That borders vast Eternity.

Yet all that in their lives was sweet—
The words they spake, the smiles they gave,
The kindly acts love made complete—
Passed not with them into the grave.

For these their blessed influence
Still round our pathway sweetly cast,
And open to the soul's pure sense,
The dearest memories of the past.

We lay our precious dead away,
No longer their fair forms we see
And part of our lives died the day
Their mortal being ceased to be.

The loving ways that made them dear,
Their gentleness untouched by art
In sweet impression linger here,
For of ourselves they are a part.

Our aims these loved ones helped to cast
In honor's mould; they planted seeds
Of hope within us that at last
Were ripened into life's best deeds;

And though no more their hands we press,
Though they have vanished from our side
The glory of their loveliness
Faded not with them when they died.

Their sweet companionship we miss
As we recall the words they said,
But in our souls their presence is—
We cannot call them wholly dead.

GOULD'S HISTORY.

The Millionaire Appears Before the Senate Labor Commission.

He says Money Making is no Object to Him Now.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Senator Blair and Call waited patiently for Jay Gould to appear before them yesterday morning to testify as to the relations of capital and labor. A large audience was in attendance. As Gould delayed appearance the committee heard statements from Geo. W. Weston, a lawyer of this city, who appeared in opposition to the theories of Henry George and Moody. Just as the witness was beginning his testimony Gould entered.

Weston merely stated that the tendency to monopolize land was not so great now as it was 100 years ago in this country.

Gould then took the stand, and, on being sworn, Senator Blair requested him to give his history, his early life and first business adventures, and then go on and give the story of his progress to his present condition. Gould seemed to be somewhat staggered at the request, but turning with a smile to the reporters' table, began in a low voice:

I was born at Roxbury, Delaware County, this State, May 27, 1836. My parents had a small farm and kept 20 cows, which I assisted in tending. I attended school about fifteen miles distant, and when I was about fourteen years old I obtained a situation in a store in a neighboring village. I was much interested in mathematics and used to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and study until 6, when the store was opened. I remained in this State for for two years, when I made the acquaintance of a surveyor who was working a survey of Ulster County.

He took me into his service at a salary of $20 a month. I learned my employer's credit was not very good, and I was to obtain no money for my work until the map was complete, so I made sundials for the farmers at $1 a piece to pay my running expenses. I made surveys afterward in Delaware and Albany counties, and made in these counties about $5,000. I then went into the tanning business with a Mr. Pratt, of Prattsville, and finally entered into partnership with Charles M. Leupp, who committed suicide.

The first railroad with which I had any connection, was what is now a portion of Rensselaer and Saratoga, of which I was Superintendent. During the panic of 1859, stock went down very low, and I was able to buy in very large amount, which afterward rose in value and made a handsome profit.

The next road in which Gould said he interested himself, was the Cleveland & Pittsburg, which he afterwards leased to the Pennsylvania Road.

Gould then rehearsed over his connection with the Union Pacific road. As he had interested himself in it and stock was falling, he made up his mind to carry it through at any cost. It was on the point of being placed in the hands of a receiver. Afterwards, when the road became a paying one and dividends were declared regularly, there was a great cry from the public that it was Jay Gould's road, as if this was a dangerous thing.

He said, however, that he was then engaged in selling out his stock, which was soon in the hands of more that 7,000 investors, representing the earnings of many widows and orphans. This ended his connection with Union Pacific, and the stock is now higher than when he sold it. His next venture was the building up of the Gould railroad system in the South and West. It began with the purchase of the Missouri Pacific from Commodore Garrison. Other roads were purchased and connections made to different points. Gould said he had at this time passed the point when money making was an object and his only idea was in carrying out the system to merely see what could be done by combination. The lines now spread through Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Texas, Louisiana and Mexico. There are central connections at Cincinnati, St. Louis, Chicago and New Orleans. All construction of this system of roads was completed last year, and represented about 10,000 miles of road. The earnings of the lines when he took possession of them was about $70,000 a month.

The earnings for the past month were $5,500,000.

In building up this system the Southwest has been opened up and the country thrown open to civilization.

Mr. Gould stated that he was a director in the Chicago Northwest, Chicago & Rock Island, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, New York & New England and several other smaller lines.

Incidental to his railroad interests he has become largely interested in the telegraph business, and has made hundreds for the farmers at $1 a piece to pay my

THE VICKSBURG Evening Post,

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY) BY

J. G. CASHMAN & CO.

No. 154 Washington Street,
UP-STAIRS.

The Publishers of THE POST will endeavor to make it

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The circulation of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

JOB PRINTING.

Orders for Job Printing will receive prompt attention, and be executed in the best style attainable in this section, and at prices that will compete with any establishment in the South.

THE J. M. WHITE.

The above named grand steamer commences to-day her regular trip for the fall season in the Greenville, Vicksburg, Natchez, and Bend trade, and no time is more appropriate to speak of her great merits as a noble specimen of marine architecture, but we almost feel inadequate for the task and adjectives will not properly convey the meaning or the proper speech to use in describing her many and varied great qualities. That she is superb, no one can doubt; that she combines all the requisites of a superb passenger steamer is conceded by all, and she is without a peer, but like her illustrious namesake she will live in the hearts and minds of all long after her days of usefulness have passed, and when gone we fear her like will never be seen again. She has just had her usual summer attention from artisan and mechanics, and is to-day in all her pride and glory, as perfect as when she first landed at our wharf, all of which is the credit of her owner and commander, Capt. John W. Tobin, who never does things by halves. It is his pride to keep his boats ever neat and clean, as well as all of their appointments. The J. M. White, as usual, will be under the charge of Capt. Tobin, with Capts. Curtis Holmes and W. N. Calmes in charge of the office, assisted by Kirk Lewis and Harry McCrindell. Capts. Lou Drouillard and Charles Pierce will be her pilots.

Mike Carbine will have charge of the lunch deck as mate, and Col. Jack Hukill will be in the cabin as her chief steward in charge of the cabin force, which is ever one of the best. The balance of ... have been specially picked out for their good qualities as first-class steamboatmen; and with this brief notice we wish the J. M. White a safe, prosperous and successful season, and long may she live to enjoy many more, and be as useful in the future as she has been in the past to the commerce of New Orleans.—N. O. States.

State Fair Items.

The State Fair Association offers $10 for the best five pounds of butter made in the State. Dr. W. E. Oates, of Vicksburg, offers a special premium of $5 for the same. Somebody will get $15 for 5 pounds of butter, or $3 per pound.

The State Fair Association offers $25 for the best registered Jersey heifer bred in the Gulf States. Dr. W. E. Oates, of Vicksburg, adds $10 to this as a special premium.

GEN. J. R. CHALMERS passed through the city yesterday on his return from Washington. Although he weighs only about 155 pounds he looked quite tired and homesick. We like the General personally, but cannot approve his political course or admire a lot of his ideas.

Chalmers has made some great mistakes; we will see no harsher term. He will see it and feel it yet if he does not now.—Memphis Ledger, 7th.

Work on the Roads.

Every able bodied farmer work his force on the roads in Warren county this week. Let us have a better system of working the roads than in a previous year, and we will have good roads.—Vicksburg Herald.

Steamboating.

Steamboating is quite brisk now for Vicksburg and serves to show the go-ahead spirit of the owners of the Belle of the Bends.

The petite and pretty P Line steamer Deer Creek, Capt. George W. Bookout master, and Walter Kain chief clerk, will arrive here Sunday from all points on Sunflower river. This little steamer leaves every Wednesday evening at 4 o'clock for Sunflower river, and attends promptly to all business that is entrusted to her.

The pet of the P Line, Sallie Carney, makes her regular weekly excursion to Anthony's Ferry to-morrow, leaving the lower landing at 3 p.m., and returning at any time most convenient to those who "excurt" on her. She will make a trip to the Ferry Monday, leaving at 10 a.m., and will arrive on her return trip to leave at 5 p.m. for Davis Bend. Capt. B. H. Bowman commands her, and K. J. Bruzelius presides in the office.

Capt. Harry W. Brolaski's palatial and popular Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City, will arrive here to-morrow night from St. Louis and all intermediate points. That elegant steamer will leave the wharfboat at Kleinston next Tuesday at 11 o'clock as the regular Anchor Line packet for Memphis, Cairo, St. Louis and all intermediate landings. Carroll B. Mount is her passenger agent, and Chas. Quesnel, assisted by Al Simpson, presides in the office.

Nothing could have been grander or more beautiful than the scene at Kleinston this morning. The great steamer J. M. White was lying at the wharfboat and was surrounded by a number of boats of much smaller dimensions, which served to show off that superior steamer to a greater advantage. She has lately been put in thorough repairs, and now rides on the bosom of the great Mississippi without a peer among her sister steamers. That palatial steamer which is known as "Tobin's train," because of unequaled speed, left for Greenville, and and will return Monday to leave at 5 p.m., for New Orleans. Passengers for lower coast landings should not fail to choose the White, if for nothing else than to be able to say they have traveled on that prince of steamboats.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger, 7th:—The James W. Gaff, 26 days out from Cincinnati, arrived last evening with about 500 tons of freight which she discharged at the elevator. Capt. Russell received orders to lay up at this port for the present. The boat had considerable trouble in the Ohio and did not fare much better in the Mississippi for she grounded at Island 35, lost 16 hours and tore her decks by heavy sparring. The officers looked tired out but are in as good humor as might be expected.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

CAPT. W. C. O'HARA is the White's passenger agent.

THE Volunteer Southrons and Vicksburg Rifles meet to-night for drill.

MR. J. W. GOODRUM left by the Tributary this morning for Eagle Bend.

MR. E. MARTIN was a passenger by last night's train for New York.

DR. P. H. COOK succeeded in making his bond this morning and was released from custody.

MRS. A. ROSENTHAL and her daughter Miss Rosa will leave to-morrow evening for New York city on a visit to friends. We wish them a pleasant time and safe return.

MR. MORRIS MAYER and lady, of New Orleans, accompanied by Mr. Fischel, of this city, will leave by the J. M. White Monday next for the Crescent City.

A WHITE woman named Lou —— got off the steamer City of New Orleans last night, sick and in a destitute condition. She was sent to the Hospital this morning by Deputy Sheriff J. J. Fay.

MR. EUGENE NEELEY, of Memphis, Tenn., and formerly of Jackson, Miss., a thoroughly competent druggist and popular young gentleman, is now connected with the house of C. C. Reynolds & Co.

J. F. BAUM & Co., have received all the latest periodicals and papers suitable for Sunday reading. Call around and lay in your supplies, as the popular papers kept by the popular house are going like "hot cakes."

THE next Anchor Line steamer leaving here, is the large and beautiful "Arkansas City" Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock for Greenville, Arkansas City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis. Capt. Harry W. Brolaski master, Chas. J. Quesnel clerk. Carroll B. Mount passenger agent.

George Washington alias Jones, colored, was fined $20 and cost by Mayor Birchett this morning, for stealing a bag of shot from the Prentiss house ware room. George has been an office boy for the L., N. O. & T. Railroad.

THE friends of Miss Sara Oats will be sorry to learn that ill health has compelled her to discontinue her studies at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati and return home. Miss Oats is exceedingly talented, and with proper cultivation would certainly make a musician of fine merit.

THE contract for graveling the road from Vicksburg to Kleinston, which was to have been closed to-day, will probably not be closed before Monday. Capt. Carroll says that he expects several more bids on the work, and that he will hold the contract open to-day in order to give the contractors time to get their bids in.

THE Vicksburg, New Orleans and Texas Railroad is now in full operation from this city to Delta, a distance of forty-two miles. The work of grading the western side will be pushed forward Monday.

THE morning's Herald contained a local, to the effect that the fire steamer Vicksburg, of the Washington Fire Company was out at the Machine Shop pond yesterday filling cisterns. The item could be construed two ways, and this morning the POST received a note from Chief engineer Fisher, asking us to state that the engine used did not belong to the Fire Department, but was an old "Silby" that is the private property of the Washington Steam Fire Engine Co.

THE following gentlemen were appointed to the position following their names, yesterday, by the directors of the Vicksburg Compress, to serve as employees of the Compress Co. for the ensuing season: Chas. Borchert, Superintendent; G. W. Howard, bookkeeper; D. J. McRaven, and Joe Hornthal, weighers; George S. Wamsley, yard clerk, and Thos. Green, receiving clerk. The directors showed excellent judgment in the above selections.

CONSTABLE LITTLE this morning arrested a colored woman named Harriet Kelley, on an affidavit sworn out by Superintendent Word of the National Cemetery, charging her with using abusive, profane and indecent language in the Cemetery. Squire Lindsay who tried the case, bound her over in the sum of $100 to appear before the United States Circuit Court in default of which she was sent to jail. We are glad to know that Superintendent Ward proposes to enforce the rules in regard to such language in the Cemetery.

A NUMBER of youngsters are in the habit of playing a very interesting game known as "hunt the hare," in the neighborhood of the Washington Engine-house. Last night the cry of "hunt the hare" was heard in every direction from the above named engine-house and from a distance it sounded so much like the alarm of fire that steam was raised in the engine and the horses hitched up ready to go out. The police should put a stop to such yells as the urchins raise, as they are very annoying to the engine keepers and those in the neighborhood generally.

Rumored Killing of Joe Robinson.

A telegram was received in this city last night, stating that Joe Robertson, a well-known character here about, had been assasinated near Rolling Fork, and his body found at one point with his head severed and lying a distant from his headless trunk. THE POST telegraphed to Mayersville, Greenville and other points this morning for particulars of the deed, but were unable to get an answer up to going to press.

The rumor created cosiderable comment here, as Robinson is well known in this locality, where he was regarded as a shooter, a man who would shoot in a moment.

This reputation was gained by the fact of his having killed three men—Doctor Clarke, at Rolling Fork; Hugh Carson in this city, and a negro in Sharkey county. He had also shot and wounded others. Robinson, we learn, was at one time a minister of the Gospel!

Schultz's fashionable Restaurant is again in full blast. At this popular resort is to be found all that the Southern markets afford in endless and delicious variety, served up in the latest style, in the most palatable shapes and after the most artistic suggestions of the cuisine. As to Mr. Schultz is in endless to speak his reputation as a culinary artist being world wide, and his efforts to please his patrons are proverbial. This is enough to say to the public, and is more than the great host of his patrons will require of the institution.

A THRIVING INDUSTRY.

SPENGLER'S SAW-MILL AND FACTORY.

One of Vicksburg's Largest Manufactories, That Ships its Goods in all Directions, Using both River and Rail.

Space Covered—Articles Manufactured—A large Piece of Timber.

As some alterations are now being made in Mr. S. Spengler's large sash and blind factory, a few words about this immense establishment will, no doubt, prove interesting to the many readers of THE POST. Few people even here in Vicksburg have an adequate idea of the magnitude of these works, which include two saw-mills and a large factory. The mills and factory are situated at the foot of Washington street, and, with the lumber yards attached, cover some three squares of ground at that point. Besides, there are two other yards, which will aggregate another square of ground, and are situated on Monroe street, at the corner of Clay and China streets.

Two large saw-mills are kept constantly at work to keep up with the demands. These two mills average 15,000 feet of lumber per day each, which, with the large amount on hand now, is rapidly being shipped and manufactured by this enterprising gentleman, whose trade extends over a large territory, and is serving to make Vicksburg well-known as a lumber market.

THE FACTORY.

The factory at present covers 80x160 feet, with machinery in two stories, which of course, gives it 160x320 feet of surface room; and it is kept busy at all times of the year in the manufacture of sash, blinds, doors, molding, cornices, and all manner of articles which wood can be used for building purposes. The railroad now building along there will take up about one-sixth of the present structure, but Mr. Spengler now has in course of erection an addition of 40x100 feet, which will give him much more room and enable him to keep up with his increasing demand for lumber and the articles that he manufactures here.

SHIPMENTS.

This mill ships by nearly every boat leaving here, both going up and coming down the river. The trade down the river extends as far as Baton Rouge to which point, as well as Clinton, Jackson, Smithland, and Bayou Sara, La., as well as all intermediate landings, large shipments are frequently made. We were congratulating Natchez a short time since, on shipping ax-handles to Vicksburg, but the shipments of this factory to that point is very large and consists principally of manufactured goods, of which Natchez is a large buyer. The trade up the river extends as high as Chicot City, Ark. Last Summer, Mr. Spengler made several shipments of shingles to Rising Sun, Ind.

The railroad shipments of this mill are also a large item; and extend to the V. & M., V., S. & T. P., while they have already comm enced to ship to Port Gibson on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., and Thursday made a shipment on the Carney as far as Alexander, and from there to Sharkey county on the railroad.

Over 120 hands are employed in this large institution, even at this season of the year, and that does not include a number of men who are engaged in making shingles at different points.

Mr. H. Holtslander is general manager of the manufacturing and building department of the works, and has been in that capacity here since January 12, 1878, coming from Chicago that year, where he had been in the same line. Mr. H. C. Pennell is book-keeper of that department.

Mr. Pete Theobald is manager of the saw-mill and lumber department of the works, with Messrs. Stuart Shaw, William George and Ed. Shaw, as assistants.

This large manufactury is an evidence of enterprise on the part of the proprietor, Mr. S. Spengler, one of the most thorough and solid business men in this community, and is a great benefit to Vicksburg, showing what energy and perseverance can accomplish. Mr. Spengler started in the saw-mill business in Vicksburg in 1845, more than thirty-eight years ago, and from that time he has steadily advanced until now he owns one of the largest saw-mills and factories in the South. Mr. Spengler was the first man to put up a circular saw in this section, starting with this improvement when he first went into the business and has always kept abreast of the improvements in his line.

A LARGE LOG.

While looking around this establishment our attention was drawn to a large log of timber which was six feet in diameter at the top, eight feet at the butt, and sixty feet in length of perfect appearance. This is a large log ever brought to this market, and is now on the yard of the Messrs. Shaw, awaiting the saw. The log was cut in the woods of Mr. Spengler, in Madison parish, and was brought to this city by the Tallulah Lumber Company, of which Mr. Spengler is a member. The log was cut from a cypress tree, and the roof 60, by 100 feet. It is the intention of Mr. Spengler to send this piece of timber to the Cotton Centennial in New Orleans next year.

What Has Become of It?

Editor Vicksburg Post:

Sometime since a collection was taken up in this city for the purpose of celebrating the completion of the railroad to Port Gibson. From unforeseen circumstances the celebration was postponed from time to time, and now will probably never take place as the appropriate time for it has passed.

Now, would it not be a good idea to appropriate the money thus collected, to the repairs of the school buildings for which another collection is now being made? That this would be a good and proper use of the money, and that those who gave donations to the Railroad celebration would not object to its appropriation to the school buildings, is the opinion of

The Acquittal of Frank James.

KANSAS CITY, MO., Sept. 7.—A special to the Times from Gallatin says that upon the announcement of the verdict acquitting Frank James, applause came from certain quarters of the Court-room. The Court, however, quickly frowned it down, and singling out a young man who had made a movement to throw up his hat, called him to the bar and administered a severe reprimand. The youth proved to be Luther B. Jones, of Kansas City, cousin of the defendant. The question as to the disposition of the remaining indictments against Frank James for complication in the killing of Westfall at Winston, the robbery and murder of Sheets, at the Gallatin bank robbery in 1868 was then considered and the cases were then continued until the October term, the prisoner being remanded to await futher trial. It is announced that he will not attempt to furnish bail but will remain in jail until next term. The prisoner received the verdict with perfect confidence, as did also his wife, but Mrs. Samuels, his mother, was much affected. In order to guard against any disturbance which might follow, the one saloon of the place was ordered closed. It can be truthfully said that the verdict was a great surprise and much indignation is expressed at its nature.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE POST will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post Job Printing Company." We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 10, 1883

THE VICKSBURG POST will accept thanks for the nice notice of our town.—Port Gibson News.

MR. BURNETT, who was shot in Hazlehurst several days ago, has since died.

THE proceedings of the Bovina District Democratic Club will be found in another column. The Club passed an important resolution opposing nominations by the County Convention and in favor of a "free for all" race.

THE Tammany Hall General Committee met in New York city last Friday night and passed resolutions declaring themselves ready to make every concession consistent with honor to secure the adjustment of the local differences and providing for the appointment of a committee composed of one representative from each Assembly district in the city to confer with the County Democracy and Irving Hall, with a view to securing a single, united delegation from this city to the State Convention. Speeches were made advocating harmony and denying that Tammany Hall is opposed to Gov. Cleveland or his Administration.

THE Hinds County Independent party holds a nominating Convention at Raymond to-day. It is thought the Convention will be quite largely attended—especially from Jackson—as it is a mass meeting rather than a delegate Convention. We learn that Dr. Crisler is to be the nominee for Sheriff, and Capt. Will Montgomery the nominee for Chancery Clerk in opposition to Capt. W. T. Ratliff. It is possible, however, if the Independents can find another strong man to run for Chancery Clerk, Capt. Montgomery may be the candidate for Senator in opposition to Jones S. Hamilton. Col. J. D. Stewart, of Jackson, is also talked of as the Independent candidate for Senator. Col. Stewart, it will be remembered, was strongly opposed to the fusion movement. A lively race may be expected in Hinds county, but the fusionists have got the bulge on the Independent boys.

A school-teacher who has been engaged for a long time in his profession and witnessed the influence of a newspaper upon the minds of a family of children writes as follows:

I have found it to be the universal fact, without exception, that those scholars of both sexes and all ages who have access to newspapers at home when compared with these who do not, are:

1. Better readers, excellent in pronunciation, and consequently read more understandingly.

2. They are better spellers, and define words with ease and accuracy.

3. They obtain practical knowledge of geography in almost half the time it requires of others, as the newspapers made them acquainted with the location of the important places of nations, their governments and doing of the globe.

4. They are better grammarians, for having become so familiar with every variety of style in the newspaper from the commonplace advertisement to the finished and classical oration of the statesman, the text and constantly analyze its construction with great ease.

5. They write better compositions, use better language, containing more thoughts more closely and connectedly expressed.

6. Those young men who have for years been readers of newspapers are always taking the lead in the debating societies, exhibiting a more extensive knowledge upon a great variety of subjects and expressing their views with greater fluency, clearness, and correctness in the use of language.—Selected.

How to Put on a Postage Stamp.

A man can always learn something if he will only look about him. I was at the Post Office Department the other day, and I noticed an employee busy affixing stamps to envelopes. Every time he moistened the right hand corner of the envelope and then placed the stamp upon it. I asked him if there was any advantage in wetting the envelope instead of the stamp, and he said: "You notice that I moisten the envelope first; well, I do that because it is the right way. There is a right and a wrong to do everything, and, consequently, there is a right and wrong way to put on postage stamps. It is impossible to moisten a stamp with the tongue unless a small proportion of the gum adheres to it. Now this gum is by no means injurious, but then the department do not advertise it as a health food; so the only way left is the right way, and that is to moisten the envelope first." After listening to this brief statement, I felt as though I had emerged from the deep shade of ignorance to the glorious sunlight of knowledge.—Washington Letter.

Independent Meeting At Oxford.

The Independent meeting in the Court-House, on Saturday, Sept. 1, was well attended and the room was filled. A portion of the crowd was composed of Democrats who had no sympathy with the objects of the meeting but were drawn together by curiosity to hear what the leaders had to say for their cause.—

National Politics.

Gen. Grant, who for so many years of his public life played the Sphinx with hermetically sealed lips that never opened except for the fragrant havana, has developed suddenly into a voluminous and candid talker. He has quite recently taken the American people into his confidence, and among other interesting bits of information that he has seen proper to communicate, he has declared that of all men he would prefer to see Mr. Conkling President of the United States. And of ALL MEN in this great and prosperous Republic, he would like the least to see Mr. Bayard President.

It would be ungracious, or at least, not the most polished deportment, not to thank him for this expression of his confidence, but at the same time a sincere love of the truth compels us to say that everybody could easily have guessed that Mr. Conkling is altogether to Gen. Grant's taste, and that Mr. Bayard with all his admirable qualities, is not in the least to his liking.

There is no reasonable doubt in the world that there are men in the Democratic party for whom Gen. Grant has a sympathetic political feeling, but not of Mr. Bayard's or Mr. Lamar's kind; and there are lots of gentlemen in the Republican party that his highness Gen. Grant does not approve of, and, if it did not offend the rules of good breeding, we might mention by way of illustration, Mr. Edmunds, Mr. Blaine and Mr. Sherman.

The real honest truth is that Gen. Grant was never very much of a Republican any way. When he was first nominated it has been strongly suspected that he would have accepted a Democratic nomination if there had been more cheerful indications of success. After he did get fairly into the Republican fold, he brought into existence, and developed what was known in 1880 and is still defined as Stalwartism. A better name would be Republican Bourbonism. This represented the WORST POSSIBLE THINGS of the Republican party, culled and thrown together, and it is now the Bourbon, red-hot end of the Republican party.

Aside from party politics we express the opinion that the PUREST AND MOST CONSERVATIVE and patriotic thought of the nation, not only in the Republican, but in the Democratic party, is opposed to this Republican Stalwartism or Bourbonism.

It aimed at auto cratic powers, through a personal government, fostered favoritism, and nepotism; created curruption and screened corruptionists, and was finally thrust into the background only after a long and bitter struggle.

And now, to the observant and careful thinker, in the analysis of this rethe part of a certain sort of Democrats, with this Conkling-GRANT Republican Stalwartism. And in the latter, a most emphatic antipathy to another kind of Democrats, for illustration Mr. BAYARD.

There are Chalmers, Brady, Cash and Mahone of the Southern independents courting Republican Stalwartism, making passes at Mr Arthur, and possibly getting some significant winks in return from a lot of Republicans who would like to see a return of the good old times of king Ulysses.

And is it an offence against truth or charity to say there are a lot of Bourbon Democrats who are beginning to think Mr. Conkling a model American statesman, and to feel in their political heart of hearts that the Grant crowd is more congenial to their own tastes than the frigid Mr. Edmunds or the emotional Mr. Sherman? And to bring the subject nearer home, is it possible that the Democratic irreconcilables, in Mississippi, who want to supervise the railroads and corporations, elect all the Judges and Postmasters and crush out the little material progress we are making, will never find themselves with the Chalmers crowd who have identically the same aims purposes, principles and ambitions? Will they not get together? If they both continue to entertain the same political views, and to labor for a common purpose can they long remain apart?

There are noble, pure and patriotic men in the Democratic party of the Nation, but, through the crowd of demagogues, big and little, when will they work their way, and when will they have a hearing?

This smart, political empiric has a silver dollar that will cure all failures in commercial circles. Another Charlatan has a method for throwing all taxation on the rich people, another will restore constitutional freedom by regulating rail-way fares, another set will champion the rights of the people by electing every sort of official, and each one of these incomparably disgusting hypocrites professes to love the Dear People better than his fellow demogogues. It seems almost incredible that these people cannot see that these issues are aimed at their own party, and are not cementing things to any alarming extent.

Let us see a little farther. Gov. Cleveland, of New York, who is beyond all doubt pure and independent, has lost his hold, and the machine politicians are against him. So of Gov. Patterson, of Pennsylvania. And Judge Hoadly is surely going to be beaten in Ohio, by Boss McLean and his clique of Democrats. Even as far off as Indiana, Mr. Dan Voorhees has seen proper to deal Judge Hoadly a blow because he is not the kind of Democrat that Mr. Voorhees is—which is vastly to Judge Hoadly's credit.

And as for Mr. Bayard, by all odds conspicuously one of the most admirable and pure men in public life in America, does any body believe that he suits the fastidious tastes of Mr. Voorhees Mr. Tilden, or Ben. Butler, or Mr. Pulitzer, or Boss McLean, or would even get a smile from their little crowd in the South?

We sincerely believe that the Democratic party can carry the country in the next Presidential election, if it would bring a better class of men than the interminable tinkerers to the front and place itself in accord with the best and most conservative sentiment of the best people in the nation. Next Winter may present the opportunity, and next Winter will surely tell the tale.

Democratic Meeting at Bovina.

BOVINA, Sept. 8, 1883.

Pursuant to call, the Democrats of the 4th Supervisors District met at Bovina to discuss the political situation, and to send ten delegates to attend the Democratic Convention, which meets at Vicksburg on the 15th inst.

The club was called to order by the President, Geo. M. Batchelor. The Secretary, J. H. Brabston, being absent, H. M. Goff was elected to serve in his stead. All portions of the District were represented, and a free discussion had as to the best policy for the people to pursue in in the county election.

A resolution offered that the delegates from this Club be instructed to vote against a nominating Convention, also against any movement looking toward fusion, but to vote for an Independent, free for all race, untrammelled by party ties, was unanimously adopted.

On motion the President was authorized to appoint ten delegates and alternates, and the following named gentlemen were selected:

Delegates—A. W. Brien, J. M. Batchelor, J. R. Petway, E. R. Cook, H. M. Goff, Jos. S. Ferguson, H. P. Noland, W. F. Brabston, W. R. Billingslea and J. A. Newman.

Alternates—J. H. Brabston, Walter Folkes, Dr. J. C. Newman, N. B. Lanier, Jas. Hagan, Richard Tucker, Jessie Ferguson, S. S. Booth, Dr. W. E. Oates and W. Bell.

On motion, the President, Geo. M. Batchelor, was added to the list of Delegates.

On motion, the VICKSBURG POST and the Vicksburg Herald were requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

The Club adjourned, subject to call of President.

GEO. M. BATCHELOR, Pres.
H. M. GOFF, Secretary pro tem.

Stratford the following inscription;

"Good friend for Jesus sake forbeare
To digg the dust enclosed here:
Blest be y man yt spares these stones,
And curst be he yt moves my bones."

It is the general belief that the poet wished his ashes to rest in peace for all time, and hence he directed these lines of prohibition and warning to be inscribed on his place of sepulcher. He was buried in April 1616, nearly three centuries ago, and it is doubtful if anything valuable can be obtained by opening his tomb and examining his remans.

THE Vicar of Stratford-upon-Avon will be set down among the vandals. Unmindful of the curse invoked by Shakespeare—and making part of the inscribed record on his tomb—against any who should disturb his bones, the Vicar has given permission for the exhumation of the remains of the poet, in order to compare the skull with the busts and portraits of him. It is conceded that the portraits and busts are ideal; they are certainly various enough to suggest doubt as to the authenticity of any. The Chandos picture is traditionally regarded as the most reliable; but we fail to see any sufficient object in the "comparative anatomy" of a real skull with an ideal conformation.

One of the wealthiest as best known farmers of Genesee county, N. Y., Mr. C. R. Witters, has been arrested for horse stealing. He confesses, and says that having lost or been robbed of several hundred dollars at Hornellsville he was ashamed to return home and acknowledge the loss. As he was walking along the street he saw the horse, and the idea struck him that he would steal it, drive it home and tell his family that he had purchased it, thus accounting for the missing money. Witters's wife and daughters are almost crazed over his disgrace.

BISHOP FRANCIS MCCORMACK, of Acony, in Ireland, has been selected to visit the United States to raise funds supplementary to the $250,000 by Parliament to assist Irish emigration. The Bishop was elevated in 1872, and is well known for both ability and philanthropy. It is very desirable that the opportunity of his visit should be seized on in the west not perhaps, so much to tender him ready cash to forward the benevolent object of his visit, but to show him the opportunities offered by the west to energetic emigrants.—Chicago Press.

PERHAPS the largest raft of timber ever known in the world, recently arrived at New York by sea. It contained 3,300,000 feet of timber, built in cribs 65 feet long, 33 feet wide, and drawing 9 feet 6 inches of water. It was towed by two tugs from St. John's, N. B., and made the passage in nineteen days, putting into harbors for protection against storms on the way. As an experiment it was considered successful, and may exercise considerable influence in the lumber trade hereafter.

THE VICKSBURG

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY) BY

J. G. CASHMAN & CO.

No. 154 Washington Street,

UP-STAIRS.

The Publishers of THE POST will endeavor to make it

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which it asks at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river; and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no worduage necessary as to its mechanical execution.

JOB PRINTING.

Orders for Job Printing will receive prompt attention, and be executed in the best style attainable in this section, and at prices that will compete with any establishment in the South.

Carroll B. Mount is the agent of the Anchor Line of packets at this point.

Capt. H. C. Marrionneaux, the popular commander of the Issaquena, brought in that petite steamer Saturday evening from Greenville and all bend landings with a big trip in the cabin and on deck. She is up for Greenville and the bends and will leave at 5 o'clock this evening for the above point and all bend landings. The Issaquena is one of the promptest packets we have in the Vicksburg trade and may always be depended on. Frank Steigleman has charge of her office and is assisted by Mr. J. H. Hendrickson. Capt. W. C. O'Hara is her passenger agent.

CLIPPINGS.

According to an opinion delivered by the solicitor of the treasury last Wednesday the Government need not wait for an informer to bring suit against the owner or master of a steamboat, as has been the custom heretofore when passengers in excess of the number authorized by the inspector's certificates have been carried. This is of great importance, as it supplies the steamboat inspection service and district attorneys with a power to enforce the law, for the supposed lack of which there has always complaint.

The Three-Cent Coins.

The Treasury will probably recommend to Congress that the coinage of the three-cent piece be stopped. The three-cent piece originated with three-cent postage, the impression being that the people would find it difficult to buy three-cent stamps without three-cent coin. The piece has always been an annoyance, and is not in harmony with the general system of coinage, and now that the three-cent stamp is to be supplanted by the two-cent stamp on October, first, it is claimed that there is no longer any reason for its existence.

Hayti Hard Up.

Prof. Langston, United States Consul at Hayti, has obtained leave of absence to come to Washington on what is understood to be diplomatic business. It is said that the Haytian Government, which is very much involved financially, proposes to mortgage the Island of Conaive to the United States, and to cede the Island of Tortuga, in lieu of all claims for damages to American citizens in the Haytian war. If Prof. Langston is coming to Washington on any such mission his trip will doubtless prove fruitless.

AN object lesson in the transmutation of virtues is conveyed in this paragraph from an exchange "Tennyson can take a worthless sheet of paper, and by writing a poem on it make it worth $5000. That's genius. Vanderbilt can write a few words on a sheet, and make it worth $5,000,000. That's capital. The United States can take an ounce and a quarter of gold, and stamp upon it an eagle bird and twenty dollars. That's money. The mechanic can take the material worth $5, and make it into a watch worth $100. That's skill. The merchant can take an article worth 25 cents, and sell it for $1. That's business. A lady can purchase a very comfortable bonnet for $10, but she prefers to pay $100. That's foolishness. The ditch-digger works ten hours a day, shovels out three or four tons of earth for $2. That's labor."

Bad Work of Some of "the Best Families."

AMITE CITY, LA., Sept. 7.—In a difficulty between J. B. Saunders and William Berry this morning, the former was shot, from the effects of which he died in a few minutes. Berry was arrested and lodged in jail. The parties are connected with the best families of this place.

Not Severe Enough.

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—Naval Cadet Rumsey, third class, was sentenced to seven days' solitary confinement for attempting to haze Cadet Thomas P. Morgan, fourth class.

Don't Want to be Governor.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Judge Devens, Republican, positively refuses the use of his name as a candidate for Governor.

From Pensacola.

PENSACOLA, FLA., Sept. 6.—The news from the the Naval Reservation to-night is very discouraging. Seven deaths from yellow fever have occurred within the past twenty-four hours, and thirteen new cases are announced.

Frost Last Night.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Telegrams from various points on the Illinois Central report frost last night, but not heavy enough to injure the born prospects.

Through the Rapids.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The experiment of sending a boat remodelled after the old "Maid of the Mist" through the whirlpool rapids, was carried out successfully yesterday in presence of 40,000 people.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in 25 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sept

THE mail train that was due here this morning at 6 o'clock was five hours late and did not arrive until 11 a.m.

DR. C. J. MITCHELL and wife arrived Sunday morning from Kentucky and departed by 11 o'clock ferry for Louisiana.

MISS JOSEPHINE GENASSIE, who has been spending a few weeks with friends in Jackson, arrived home yesterday on the 9:45 train.

CAPT. JOHN A. WEBB, general freight and passenger agent for the Little J. road, arrived in this city this morning by the 9:45 train.

TWO new stores, Mr. Heidinrick Tom New Orleans, and Mr. Bonelli from Vicksburg will open in a few days.—Port Gibson Reveille.

MR. GORDAN SHEPPARD came down from the Government works at Wilson Point, Saturday, and leaves in a few days for Coopers Well.

GENERAL W. L. MCMILLAN, of New Orleans, arrived in this city this morning and leaves by the Issaquena this evening for Lake Providence.

MR. J. H. WOODWARD was a passenger by the mail train this morning to this city from Selma, Ala. Mr. Woodward has been visiting relatives in Selma for several weeks.

PROF. H. T. MOORE, County Superintendent of Education, who has been spending the Summer at Raymond, arrived home this morning, accompanied by his wife.

THE fine little P. Line Steamer Sallie Carney, Captain Bob Bowman in command and K. J. Bruzelius chief clerk, will leave at 5 o'clock this afternoon for Davis' Bend.

THE Misses Miller left for Livingston, Ala., by the 3 o'clock train last night under the guidance of Mr. Martin Marshall. They will attend school at Livingstone during the coming season.

MR. C. D. WINSLOW came in on this morning's train from Jackson, and left by the Issaquena this evening for a trip up the river.

MISS ALICE TANNER, who has been spending a few weeks with friends in Jackson, was a passenger home this morning by the accommodation train.

MISS GEORGIA KNIGHT, an accomplished Warrentyn belle, came up this morning and will spend some time with Mrs. Smith on the corner of First North and Clay streets.

MESSRS A. M. PAXTON & Co., have nearly completed the necessary repairs of their foundry and are at work to-day notwithstanding the serious fire of Saturday night.

MME. FERGUSON was a passenger by last night's train for a visit to relatives in Minnesota. After a short stay their she will go to the Eastern markets to select a stock of millinery for the Fall and Winter trade.

THE west bound freight on the A. G. S. road, was ditched at Cottondale last night by the draw-head of one of the cars falling out. Five cars were thrown from the track and demolished, but fortunately no one was hurt. The mail train was delayed five hours by the accident.

MR. A. L. BLANKS has sent THE POST a picture of the model of the Issaquena, that was made by him. The photograph represents the popular little Issaquidna as lying at a river bank, and is as natural as if it had been taken from the original boat and not from a model in Mr. Blanks' gallery.

DR. PRYOR has sold his residence on Crawford street to Mr. Ben. Guider, and Mr. Guider has sold his beautiful cottage residence in Springfield to Dr. Pryor. Dr. Pryor will in a few days have the mechanics at work to give his new house a complete overhauling, and make the cottage almost new, where he hopes to spend the remainder of his life.

THE Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City, will be in this evening, and will leave to-morrow (Tuesday) morning at 11 o'clock, for Greenville, Arkansas City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis. Capt. Harry Brolaski is in command of this beautiful steamer, and Chas. J. Quesnel has charge of the office. Carroll B. Mount is her passenger agent.

THE Issaquena which arrived here Saturday from Greenville brought in: 1600 sacks seed for Powers Oil Co: 400 sacks for Refuge Oil Mills: 11 bales of cotton for Willis, Moore & Co; 1 bale of cotton for Jno. F. Halpin & Co; 1 bale of cotton for Phil. Gilbert; 3 bales of cotton to order; 42 bales of cotton for New Orleans.

SHORTLY after 9 o'clock Saturday night Mrs. Ellen Foley, the wife of our esteemed fellow citizen Mr. P. J. Foley, departed this life at the residence of Mr. John Foley on Harrison street. Mrs. Foley was a woman of the most exemplary character and died in the midst of a large circle of admiring friends, who will deeply sympathise with her bereaved husband and motherless little children. Her body was buried from St. Paul's Catholic Church this morning, a large number of friends of the deceased following it to its final resting place—the grave.

A LETTER was received here this morning from the Bolton and Raymond Gun Club to the effect that it would be impossible for them to be in Vicksburg to-morrow. The Vicksburg club and citizens generally will be greatly disappointed that our friends from Bolton can't meet the Vicksburgers on their own grounds, as a little contest was looked for and our boys wanted a chance to show the Bolton club that they can appreciate a good thing when it is done them, by giving that club a regal old time while in Vicksburg. The Bolton Club agreed to come to Vicksburg at some later date, and then our boys can reciprocate.

STEAM was raised in the Vicksburg Compress this morning for the first time this season. The several stockholders and a few invited guests were present at the opening ceremonies, after which a simple but elegant lunch, consisting of sandwiches, salad, punches, etc., was destroyed by those present. Some 50 bales of cotton will be pressed to-day and those who have not seen how the mammoth press of the Vicksburg Compress Co. works, are cordially invited to walk, ride or roll down to-day and take a look at things. The machinery is well worth seeing by those who have only heard how a bale of cotton can be made so small.

Notice to Consignees of Cotton.

OFFICE OF VICKSBURG WHARFBOAT AND ELEVATOR COMPANY,
VICKSBURG, MISS., Sept. 10, 1883.

There will be a charge of ten cents per bale on all cotton handled at the Wharfboat, and an additional charge of ten cents per bale when same is elevated to the platform. Consignees desiring their cotton elevated will please notify the Wharfboat.

Fire Saturday Night.

Saturday night at a little after 9 o'clock an alarm of fire rang out on the night air, throwing those who heard it into a fever of excitement, as it was soon generally known that the roof of the moulding room of A. M. Paxton & Co's large iron foundry on South street was one mass of flames. When our brave firemen reached the scene, a few moments after the alarm was given, it seemed as if their untiring energy and constant work would be of no avail, and that the flames would spread to the main building in spite of their strenuous efforts to check them. The engines were put to work, and in about thirty minutes had what promised to be one of the most destructive conflagrations that has raged in Vicksburg for several years, under complete control, and soon after extinguished the fire entirely. The loss has not yet been fully estimated, but what ever it may be is fully covered by insurance.

When it was thought that the whole building was to become a victim to the flames, nearly all the portable articles, books, etc., were removed from the building by eager helping hands, who are always ready to assist those whose property is in peril.

Capt. Cowan offered to detail a squad of men from the Rifles to guard the building from fire-thieves during the night, but his offer was declined by Capt. Paxton, who did not think it necessary. The public will see by this one act of Capt. Cowan's that our military organizations can make themselves useful as well as ornamental, when the occasion requires.

au20 RUHMAN & CO.

IT is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Robert Harrison Randolph, who died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. T. M. Borent, last Saturday at 2 p. m. Mr. Randolph was a man of many noble traits of character, always treating those beneath his circle, with the courtesy and respect he would his peers. He has departed this life, to leave behind him many friends, who will join THE POST in extending their sincerest regrets and sympathies to his afflicted family.

His remains were interred yesterday evening from Christ Church.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE POST will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post Job Printing Company." We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

Don't forget to stop in at JOHN BARRY'S at the Iron bridge on the Cemetery road, and take a cooling draught.

Departure of Col. John Walsh.

Our esteemed and public-spirited fellow citizen, Col. John Walsh, took his departure for the Boston Exposition by Saturday night's train. As is well known, the Colonel visits the "hub," as Boston is termed, as one of the Commissioners of the State of Mississippi to the great Exposition now being held in that city.

Notwithstanding the Colonel's efforts to leave the city without any ado or demonstration, and "unbeknownst" to his friends, (as he is a very modest man), the news of his intended departure became noised abroad in the city, and at the hour of the train's departure there was quite a large delegation to "see him off" and escort him a part of the way on his journey.

At the depot we noticed Mr. Geo. M. Klein, President of the Mississippi Valley Bank; Capt. E. C. Carroll, Superintendent of the Anchor and P. Lines of steamboats; delegations from the St. Francis Temperance Society which was founded by the Colonel, and from the C. K. of A., and other organizations, all of whom gave the Colonel a hearty hand shaking and wished him "bon voyage."

It was when the Colonel got on the train, and his escort assembled around him, that the distinguished consideration that is entertained for him, was most observable. There were to be seen the Hon. J. S. Morris, a noted member of the Vicksburg Bar; Dr. C. A. Rice, of the Mississippi Board of Health; Mr. West, a nephew of Gen. West, the leader of the Greenback party in Mississippi; a representative of the VICKSBURG POST, and others too numerous to mention. Thus it will be seen, the Bar, the Medical Profession, the Greenback party, and the press, were all represented. The Colonel entertained his escorts by reading to them letters that he had recently received from President Arthur, Gov. Ben Butler, Hon. John Kelley, President John Scott, Hon. Daniel Doherty, and other eminent men of the Nation. The Colonel also recited his course as leader of the Greenback party of Warren county, when he demolished Gen. John D. Freeman in debate.

Much against Col. Welsh's wishes his departure was telegraphed in the Associated Press dispatches Saturday night to the press of the United States. But notoriety always follows famous men.

The Colonel's escort left him at Jackson, and he proceeded on his way in high glee and good spirits, determined to creditably represent Vicksburg and the State at the Boston Exposition. The Colonel's baggage, we learn, consisted of three Saratoga trunks, in which he had safely stowed away, among other things, three plug hats, and seven suits of fine clothes, some of the latter costing as high as $200, and made by the celebrated firm of Warner & Searles in this city.

Attempted Arson.

About 11 o'clock last night Mr. Pat McMahon discovered a fire in the store and residence of Mr. Joseph Geary, on Belmont street, and breaking open the doors found that some incendiary had poured coal oil on the rear of the store and set it on fire. The fire was extinguished by Mr. McMahon but not until the feather mattress and pillows which were on the bed had been destroyed. Mr. Geary and family were absent at the time the fire was discovered and as yet have found no clue as to who perpetrated the deed. The damage is covered by insurance which was placed by Julius M. Klein & Co.

Dr. Marshall's Unwarranted Attack on Foreigners—Some of his Errors Exposed.
Editor Vicksburg Post:
In your paper of yesterday I see an article from Rev. C. K. Marshall, on Public Schools, most of which meets my views, but a portion of which was unnecessary and unkind, and can easily be refuted.
Says the Reverend gentleman: "All sensible, right-minded men, without bigotry, without superstition—men who go for the rights of the poor, and are willing to aid the needy—will stand by the school system, and strive to make it the best agency of instruction in our city. What lifts our country above Italy Austria, Spain, Ireland—those dens of darkness, ignorance and vice? Only our public schools and free worship."
Now to me who is but one of the people, and devoid of the intellect and education of this learned Doctor, it does seem that he is hard run for argument to sustain his subject, when he drags in and hurls insult at a very large number of our citizens who without any act of theirs were born beneath the sunny skies of Italy, Austria, Spain and Ireland. So far as the Doctor's remarks apply to Ireland, at least, they are not true. Hear what the U. S. Bureau of Education says on that subject in a circular issued showing the comparative statistics of elementary, secondary and superior education in the principal countries, wherein we find Ireland heading the list, with an average of 20 per cent of her population of 5,159,829 attending school; the United States comes next in percentage, 19 3-5 of a population of 50,157,873. As far as crimes are concerned, there is no country on the face of the earth, which for the pure concentrated essence of crime, can surpass this glorious and enlightened United States; and the culprits are not to be found only among the ignorant, they can be found among the cultured as well.
I have failed to hear of any of our citizens who are enemies to the public schools, or who have shown any "bigotry or superstition" in connection therewith. The Doctor, so far as my observation goes, is alone in possession of this knowledge.
A FRIEND OF FREE SCHOOLS.
The Fever at the Pensacola Reservation.
[Special to the Picayune.]
PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 9.—The report from the Naval Reservation for the past twenty-four hours is eight new cases of fever. Fortunately no deaths have occurred within the same period. The surgeons are very busily engaged in attending the large number of cases now under treatment.
The Speakership Contest.
So long as the opponents of Randall continue to be divided between Carlisle, Cox and Springer, the ex-Speaker can feel compasatively easy. His chief danger lies in the success of the movement being secretly engineered to concentrate all anti-Randall votes upon one candidate. But such a concentration is more easily planned than executed. There are Southern Democrats who favor Carlisle first and Randall second. If Carlisle retires they will go for Randall. The New York delegation cannot be held for any opponent of Randall except Cox. If Carlisle should be fixed upon as the most available candidate against Randall, and Cox thus retired, a number of the New York votes will go to Randall. Springer does not seem to be seriously considered by the men who are plaining for Randall's defeat. It is thought that he may get the votes of his colleagues and a few scattering members as a compliment, but he will be dropped early in the fight. Carlisle is willing to give way to Cox if the latter is deemed the strongest, and, with New York at his back it is not improbable that Cox will be the choice of the anti-Randall men.—Washington Star.

HINDS COUNTY INDEPENDENTS.

A Gathering of the Clubs at Raymond—The Ticket Nominated.

RAYMOND, Miss., Sept. 11.—The remains of the Greenback party, some disappointed Democrats, and a sprinkling of Republicans, forming what is now called the Independent party, met here yesterday to nominate a county ticket.

In order not to disclose their weakness, they held a mass meeting, instead of a delegate convention. If a delegate convention had been held, possibly a number of precincts would not have been represented.

As on all such occasions, there was considerable enthusiasm and a great deal of buncombe talk.

For Sheriff—Dr. J. Chrisler, of Byram.
Chancery Clerk—Capt. W. A. Montgomery, of Edwards.
Circuit Clerk—D. P. Ellis, of Jackson.
Treasurer—T. A. Catchings.
Surveyor—G. A. Pearson, of Raymond.
Coroner—N. P. Wallace, colored.
Senator—L. A. Carraway, of Dry Grove.

Two Young Texans Quarrel About a Girl and Are both Killed.

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Sept. 10.—A fearful tragedy was enacted here last Thursday on a stock ranch. Antonio Gario and Manuel Lecair, two young ranchmen, quarreled over their aspirations to the hand of a young girl, the daughter of a wealthy stock-raiser. Lecair attempted to strike Gario, when the latter seized a heavily loaded cattle-whip and dealt his assailant a blow on the side of the forehead, following up the attack with a storm of blows showered upon Lecair's head and shoulders, crushing in his skull and causing death to ensue in a few hours. Gario then fled across the border, but was followed by a brother of the murdered man and stabbed to the heart by him. Friends of Gario are now said to be looking for Lecair's avenger, and more trouble is anticipated. Both of the deceased were young and handsome, but utterly reckless and desperate.

THE COTTON CROP.

September Report of the Department of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The cotton returns of the Department of Agriculture are less favorable than those of August. The principal cause of injury is drought, which has reduced the prospects in every State except Florida and Tennessee. The decline has been the greatest in Texas. In North Carolina and Virginia the temperature has been too low, attended with serious drouth. The Gulf States report more or less general prevalence of caterpillars and boll worm at many points. The general average of the condition is reduced to seventy-four. State averages are as follows: North Carolina, 78; Virginia, 78; South Carolina, 78; Georgia, 70; Florida, 93; Alabama, 76; Mississippi, 75; Louisiana, 77; Texas, 67; Arkansas, 80; Tennessee, 80. In September, 1879, the general average of the condition was 85; in 1881 it was 70; it was 92 in the great crop years of 1880 and 1882. In some counties drouth still continues, and in others the recent rains have caused some improvement. Rust has appeared very generally and is most threatning.

THE State Fair, which opens on the 20th of October, will continue six days. Each day will have an interesting programme, and everyone may come feeling assured of an enjoyable time throughout the entire week. Besides racing and prize drills, there will be on exhibition fine stock and poultry of every description. A pretty display of needle work and painting will be some of the numerous attractions.—Jackson Tribune.

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Call of President Trowbridge, of the Executive Committee, to the District and Ward Clubs.

ROOMS DEMOCRATIC EX. COM. WARREN CO.,
VICKSBURG, MISS., Aug. 29, 1883.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party of Warren County, held August 25, 1883, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a Convention of the Democratic party of Warren county, Mississippi, be, and the same is hereby called, to be held at the Court-house, in said county, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, 1883, at the hour of 12 o'clock, for the purpose of determining upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign and to make nominations for the different offices, should such Convention, when assembled, deem the same advisable.

Resolved, That said Convention shall be composed of ten delegates from each Democratic Club in the county and each Ward in the city of Vicksburg, to be selected by the different Clubs at times and places to be fixed by the Presidents thereof, preceding the time fixed for the holding of said Convention.

Now, therefore, in accordance with the above resolution, the different Ward and District Clubs of the city of Vicksburg and county of Warren are hereby requested to meet at such time and place as they may select, and proceed to select ten delegates to attend a Convention of the Democratic party to be held at the Court-house in the city of Vicksburg, on the 15th day of September next, at 12 o'clock m., to determine upon a policy to be pursued by the party in the coming political campaign, and to make nominations for the different offices should said Convention when assembled deem the same advisable.

As the Convention to assemble on the 15th of September will determine the course to be pursued by the Democrats of the county in the approaching campaign, it is respectfully urged that the different Ward and District Clubs select the very best men in their respective Wards and Districts to represent them in the Convention. Let it be generally understood by them that when they act in said Convention they act for and truly represent the wishes of the majority of their constituents, so that any action the Convention may take will mean that it is the action and sentiments of the Democrats of Warren county. Let there be no grumbling after the Convention adjourns, but that every Democrat in the county will feel bound to stand by its decision. Canvass your Wards and Districts thoroughly before you select your delegates, that we all may know when a delegation speaks that it reflects the true sentiments of the Democrats of their respective sections. If we expect to accomplish anything we must go to work, and in earnest, resolving that there shall be no dissensions in our ranks.

Respectfully, W. L. TROWBRIDGE,
Chairman Democratic Ex. Com.
Attest: H. DEMO, Secretary.

Postal Notes Deemed a Failure.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—From the action by the local banks and a number of companies filed at the postoffice it appears that the postal notes issued to the public last Monday are already deemed a failure in this city. A great many began to arrive here within a day or two after the first issue, sent in the line of drafts for small amounts and were at once deposited the same as checks or drafts. Numberless mistakes made by the postmasters sending them caused the banks to refuse to accept them and this action is deemed tantamount to destroying their usefulness. The postoffice officials also declare that handling postal notes and the work of rectifying errors has entailed an unusual amount of additional labor on the working force.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 11, 1883

THE Hinds County Independents were not very liberal in their distribution of offices to the "colored man and brother."

A LONDON dispatch says the critics there generally admit the success and beauty of Mary Anderson's performance, but criticise her methods as deficient in art. They condemn the play of Ingomar.

SOUTHERN farmers will have more cash in bank this year than ever before, even if the cotton crop be short, since they owe less to the traders, and have raised more food than in any other previous year.

THE revival of a letter written by Mr. Tilden twenty-eight years ago on the question of liquor legislation, and its simultaneous publication in a number of journals, is curiously suggestive of a literary bureau.—Boston Journal.

SENATOR SHERMAN reports that the Scott liquor law is becoming so popular that no party will dare to repeal it. Throughout the State, and especially in the rural districts, he finds a strong sentiment in its favor among Democrats as well as Republicans.

THE Albany, (N. Y.) Argus, speaking of convict labor, points out that the policy of England is not to make a revenue out of the convicts by having them compete with skilled outside labor, but to keep them employed at vast public works, which are devised specially for that purpose.

THE Meridian Observer says: "On Saturday the track of the N. O. & N. E. Railroad was completed to the south draw of the bridge across Lake Pontchartrain. Some eighteen miles are still uncompleted between the present southern terminus and the Lake. The turn-tables are being built in New Orleans preparatory to the opening of the road."

THE Jackson Tribune charges THE POST with being a Bourbon Democratic paper. We had flattered ourselves that we were very liberal and progressive. THE POST has favored the "fusion" policy in Hinds county, as opposed to the Tribune's Independent Greenback party, and the Tribune no doubt considers every one a Bourbon that does not side with its conglomerate party organization.

MILTON HAY, who was a warm personal friend of Abraham Lincoln, among other things says of him: "I never saw a man with less instinct for commerce, for gain by barter, or any of the usual methods of getting rich. He knew nothing about them. That is, perhaps, why he had such a happy temperament. He trusted Providence and did what came along."

THE Aberdeen Examiner has bit at Judge Field's bait, and says "Mississippi would gladly welcome him to the occupancy of the White House." We don't think Mississippi will ever have the opportunity. The Judge has been so profuse in his promises, in order to catch the Southern ear and vote, that he has entirely neglected his Northern and Western constituents; and if he should get the nomination the Democrats of those sections would be apt to sink in their tents and Mr. Field could not be elected without their efficient and hearty co-operation. Mr. Field was appointed to the Supreme Bench as a Republican. Is it not possible for the Democrats to get other than renegade Republicans as candidates for important State and National offices. We would prefer to support a straight-out and consistent Republican to a sour and disappointed one who expects to attain his ambition through the weaknesses or prejudices of the Southern Democracy.

THE Reveille prints a general commercial review and business directory of Port Gibson. The following is what the Reveille says about Port Gibson's manufacturing interests:

The Cotton Mills, a splendid two story brick building 180 feet in length by 50 feet deep, with a smoke stack 100 feet high, fronts the main street of the town, and is just as pretty as a picture. Don't E. S. Drake is President, Jas. W. Person Secretary, and Amos Burnet Treasurer, with such men as J. H. Gordon, Wm. Cahn, G. W. McGinnis, L. T. Newman and Sidney Bernheimer in the board, and these names are the guarantors of its success.

The Port Gibson Oil Mills, occupy a space of many acres, with buildings, which till it looks like a village—give promise of great success. They turn out the best oil, oil cake and cotton seed meal that go to market. F. C. Englesing is President, Stephen Schillig, Secretary, and Herman, Geogel Treasurer, and with these gentlemen and Charles Hoefer, Robert Ernst of Vicksburg and H. J. Ernst of Natchez, the enterprise is in the hands of men who have tested it and know its value.

The Business Outlook in the South.

The outlook for the business season in the Southern cities is more promising than it has been for some time. Baltimore merchants say that the collections have been good, and evidences are plenty that the South is getting down nearer to a cash basis than it has ever been. Long-credit sales are becoming scarce, and that kind of trade will before very long be classed among the musty antiquities. The large Southern merchants are getting to be hard-pan dealers, buying on close margins, and the revolution in trade in their section is driving out those who have not the means or the grit to get beyond the old slow methods. The crop reports of the South are a fair yield of corn, moderately good for cotton, which will be improved if September is propitious, and a general good feeling for a substantial Fall business. All kinds of goods are quoted at reasonable prices. None are too high and some are cheaper than they will probably be. Merchants feel that the goods they buy will not decline in price, and their retail customers will be satisfied that goods are worth the money.

The Southern Independents.

It is becoming evident that there is a definite movement on foot to unite the anti Bourbon elements in the Southern States, and practically identify the combination with the Republican party. There have been several conferences recently of prominent "Independents", in Washington, who aspire to accomplish elsewhere what Mahone has done in Virginia. Indeed the assumption is that Mahone himself will spread his energies over a larger field and become the leader of the new organization. There are certain objectionable features to Bourbonism, and the sooner the South is relieved from them the better. The Republican party can indorse any reputable movement which has in view the abrogation of those features; but an indorsement of this purpose is a very different thing from entering into close political fellowship with those who profess to be bent on carrying it out.

An organization composed of dissimilar elements, having but one thing in common—namely, the possession of offices—is not a stable institution. It is liable to fall to pieces at any time. The combination of the disaffected Southern Democrats and others is of this character. It contains, it may be admitted, many honorable men, but it includes also many who are known to be mere place hunters and demagogues. Indeed these latter are thrusting themselves conspicuously forward in the present case. Chalmers, of Mississippi, for instance, is prominent. A close investigation of the personal and political record of a very large percentage of the individuals thus engaged would not result in showing up a good side of human nature by any means. The vast majority of Republicans repudiate Mahone. They give him credit for whatever he may have done in establishing a fair ballot in Virginia, and will give him credit and thank him for whatever he may accomplish in that direction elsewhere; but they have no two prominent characteristics in the man which commend him radically from true Republicanism. One relates to his financial unsoundness, and the other to bossism. The latter idea Mr. Mahone evinces no indication whatever of abandoning. He sees in it the only chances of carrying his State, and thinks, if given full swing, he can throw its electoral vote for the Republican candidate for President. The electoral vote would be acceptable enough, but it can not be purchased at any such price.

And what is true of the attitude of the Republican party towards Mahone, is true with respect to the whole movement. There is a conglomeration of greenbackism, repudiation and soreheadism in it for which Republicanism has no affinity whatever. Those things cannot crowd themselves into the Republican bark by simply hoisting the banner of a free ballot and fair count. Republicanism is much more than that. It is strengthening itself and girding up its loins for the settlement of problems which intelligent men can see must soon be met and solved. Its attitude to matters affecting the business and economic interests of the people. Our present currency laws are necessarily temporary. The shrinkage of national bank notes compelled by the calling in of the bonds, and uncertain duration of the Treasury notes the reissue of which may at any time be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, the discrepancy between the gold and silver dollar and the continued compulsory coinage of the latter, are some that our money matters are yet to be placed on a permanent basis. Their present status is the result of a series of makeshifts which the necessity of compromising with ignorance and prejudice, mostly Democratic, invented to tide the country over critical places. Changing conditions in trade and manufacture indicate the necessity of frequent alterations in the tariff laws. The better intelligence of the people must come forward in some shape to deal with questions of this description, and if the Republican party does not keep its head clear, a new party will become a necessity.

The people who are conducting important enterprises, who have large interests dependent upon the stability and soundness of the currency, and who are generally foremost in the development of our material prosperity, will have representation. So also will the moral sentiment which demands honest administration of affairs. For some years back Republican politicians have fallen behind the masses of their party. Intent upon their private business, the voters have neglected their political duties, and the management has drifted into bossism to a considerable extent. Awakening to a sense of the situation, the lay members of the party have given notice that they have no use for this sort of thing, and there has been a very perceptible change in consequence. It is evident that a political affiliation with some of the elements which enter into the "Independent" movement in the South will weaken the forces of the Republicanism to deal with the great economic questions that it is called upon to meet, and which must be settled before the country can enjoy the full measure of prosperity to which it is entitled.

"Concealed Weapons."

The journals all over the Union are crying out for a more rigid enforcement of the laws against carrying concealed weapons. In Aberdeen, Columbus and Memphis the law is being as well enforced as possible, though the fact that the statute itself suggests a misnomer—the seeing or discovery of what is supposed to be hidden. The law in Mississippi as amended to its present text by Hon. S. J. Gholson, applies the penalty where the weapon is "concealed wholly or in part," and virtually forces the wearer to fall back upon his Constitutional right to bear arms, by carrying his weapon belted outside of his coat, or in some other equally exposed manner. But the majority of shootings are done by parties who are not supposed to be armed, and usually responsive to blows or insults and hence the law can only operate under present circumstances after the exhibit by use, unless an espionage be established that will warrant the feeling of every man's person who is suspected of having a bowie knife or pistol about him, at imminent peril to the officer of being knocked down by any stronger man who is conscious of innocence and aware that the laying of hands upon him without his consent is an assault that he is warranted in redelling with force.

When this question was last up in the Legislature we suggested what we believed then and believe now was an adequate preventive of the evil incident to carrying concealed weapons if not an absolute bar to the practice; it was this: That the State issue through county officers, license to applicants to carry concealed weapons fixing the price at say fifty dollars, and make the penalty for violation imprisonment in the county jail or labor on the county roads; neither penalty to be under any circumstances substituted by fine. That every man having a license be compelled to wear a metal badge upon the lappel of his coat, inscribed "Licensed to carry concealed weapons;" and that the penalty for appearing in public with arms concealed on the person, without the badge being conspicuously worn, should be the same as that for carrying concealed weapons without a license; and that any Justice of the Peace or Circuit Court should be competent to impose the penalties in either case.

That these licenses and badges should be issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court, who should be required to keep standing in the columns of one or more newspapers in the county, a list of all persons licensed to carry concealed weapons, with date of expiration of license.

We believe that if such a law as this was in force the practice would soon pass away. The men carrying concealed weapons would be spotted and known everywhere, and could not, without proving themselves arrant cowards, draw their weapons upon any but those who like themselves wore badges; they would come to be regarded with contempt in their respective communities, and the wearing of a license badge would be regarded as a disgrace to the wearer unless he was known to be engaged in some perilous employment, such as the transporting of money; or was a person whose life was threatened by lawless persons or combinations.

We believe that some such system as this would break up a practice that is curbed by strong public opinion in this and a number of other communities.—Aberdeen Examiner.

Cotton Factory at the State Capital.

It will be gratifying to every citizen to know that a project is on foot looking to the establishment of a cotton factory at an early date. The importance of this enterprise cannot be over-estimated. The commercial prosperity of Natchez is due more to her factories than any other cause. The Missionary Mills made of a mere village the thriving town of Wesson. Vicksburg, Meridian and Grenada, each with an eye to the spirit of enterprise that has characterized the State, are clamoring for factories. A cotton factory will lift up every vacant lot within the corporate limits with comfortable cottage houses, work will be furnished for 400 to 1000 operatives, and the business of the town strengthened in every way. If the factory is established here, and we have every assurance that it will be, the Capital City, with its many natural advantages, will jump up from 'about the sixth in importance to the first or second town in the State in point of population and wealth. A cotton factory will do more for the advancement of our community than the four railroads we have now, or the two others to be built.—Jackson Tribune.

THE owner of a "little farm well tilled" from which he derives a comfortable, if moderate subsistence, upon which he is free from care and trouble, and which he will leave as an unimpaired inheritance to his children when he has done with it—such an owner may not envy the envy of men and horses but who dies worn out in the prime of life, and leaves a widow with an estate far beyond her control, and loaded with debts amounting to more than the property will sell for. Who is the really rich man? There is no question as to who is really the happy one.—N. Y. Times.

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

Steamboat is reported between St. Louis and Cairo. The packets of the Anchor line are only leading to 5½ feet at St. Louis.

Capt. Will Cannon, of the lower steamer John W. Cannon, and Mr. Dixon, of the Vint Shinkle, are at the Louisville Exposition.

The Belle P. Line steamer Sallie Carney arrived from Davis Bend, and left o'clock for Anthony's Ferry connects with the Louisville, Nashville and Texas Railroad.

The steamer Dixon, which left St. Louis on Saturday for New Orleans under the charge of the Anchor Line, will not go below Memphis during the winter but will run between Orleans and Bayou Sara trade.

The steamer J. M. White could not get sufficient water to reach Greenville and had to reship her freight from Memphis on the steamer Commonwealth, which came down yesterday and left New Orleans at 5 p.m.

Capt. W. C. Carroll, Jr., Capt. T. R. Ferguson, arrived here last night from Memphis with a fair freight. She left for the Tallahatchie river this evening, and will leave here promptly at her advertised hour. Goosey and Manlove are polite and competent clerks.

The Belle P. Line steamer Deer Creek, Capt. W. Bookout master, and Dan Kelly chief clerk, will leave for Greenville promptly at 4 o'clock this evening. The Deer Creek is a fine Yazoo River packet for the Sunflower, and may be found at the Vicksburg wharfboat.

The Belle P. Leather's great steamer Sunshine is up from the Crescent City this evening, and will leave for Memphis on her return trip this evening. The Sunshine is by no means a large boat, but is as fast and as popular as any steamer that ever plied the Mississippi river.

The steamboat clerks' contract for all points on the Mississippi river, between Memphis and New Orleans, has been awarded to Messrs. Thomas & Dean, of New Orleans, who have been in the business for many years, and are well known to all steamboat men. The contract is a very large one, and the firm will have their hands full in supplying the boats with clerks.

Capt. Thomas Leathers, of the steamer Belle P. Leathers, and Capt. Vic. Eskridge, of the steamer Sallie Carney, are both on the sick list. Capt. Leathers is confined to his room with a severe attack of rheumatism, and Capt. Eskridge is suffering from a severe attack of fever. Both gentlemen are reported as doing well.

The steamer Belle P. Leathers, Capt. Thomas Leathers, arrived here last night from Memphis with a fair freight. She left for the Tallahatchie river this evening, and will leave here promptly at her advertised hour. Goosey and Manlove are polite and competent clerks.

The steamer Belle P. Line steamer Deer Creek, Capt. W. Bookout master, and Dan Kelly chief clerk, will leave for Greenville promptly at 4 o'clock this evening. The Deer Creek is a fine Yazoo River packet for the Sunflower, and may be found at the Vicksburg wharfboat.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a home and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 35 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

DR. MITCHELL is home from a visit to Kentucky.

MR. W. E. CAMPBELL is home again from a Summer trip.

MR. A. M. LEA was a passenger home this morning by the mail train.

TWENTY-FIVE convicts were shipped up the river this morning for plantation work.

SOUNDINGS taken by the P. Line boats show 4½ feet of water at the mouth of old river.

THE hot weather seems to have passed off for season. The nights and mornings are delightfully cool.

A. P. SAUER, Esq., Superintendent of the Refuge Oil Mills, came in on the accommodation train this morning.

THE steamer Natchez got 50 bales of compressed cotton to-day for foreign shipment, from Messrs. J. J. Cowan & Sons.

DR. J. P. MOORE, of Yazoo City, came in this morning from East Mississippi, en route to his home. He leaves this evening on the Carroll.

MRS. R. S. BUCK, accompanied by her son Richard, who has been quite ill for sometime, left last night for Lexington, Ky.

WE are glad to learn that Mr. Preston Winkley, who has been quite ill at the residence of his parents in Jackson, is rapidly recovering.

MR. CHARES ALLEN, of George W. Hutcheson & Co., is home again from a trip to Europe, where he spent the Summer. He is looking well from his voyage.

CAPT. W. H. SARGENT, of the steamer Ike Bonham, is on the streets again, having just recovered from a spell of sickness which laid him up for some time.

THE engineers are now making a complete survey of the basin and canal cut by the dredge boat in order to find the amount of filling that has been done since this work has been accomplished.

MR. JAMES E. LEWIS and wife leave by to-night's train for New York. They will be accompanied by Miss Emma Haley, who returns to her home in Boston.

MISS ANNIE MCGILVARY, of Port Gibson, came up on the L., N. O. & T. R. R. this morning, and is stopping at the residence of Mr. T. W. Broughton. Miss McGilvary is one of the most popular young ladies of our sister city.

MR. H. HOLTSLANDER, superintendent of Spengler's sash and blind factory, leaves to-night for Chicago, and Sterling, Ill., on a trip combining business and pleasure. While absent he will purchase a lot of new and improved machinery for the factory for the new addition being made.

If you are still wearing your straw hat you are out of season and had better drop in at Warner & Searles and get a new one.

THE reported killing of Joe Robertson, from the latest news received in this city was incorrect, and he is still in the land of the living.

MR. WM. BROWN, SR., and wife, of Port Gibson, who were residents of Vicksburg long years ago, came up on the train from Port Gibson this morning on a visit to friends in Vicksburg.

D. GEORGE HUMPHREYS, of Port Gibson, is in the city to-day.

MR. GREER, of Hazlehurst Co., contractors, came up to-day from Port Gibson.

THE alarm of fire at 10 o'clock to-day was caused by a burning chimney in one of the frame buildings on Cherry street, opposite the Synagogue.

THE large drug-store of C. C. Reynolds & Co. have a new advertisement in to-day's issue, to which attention is directed. With the best drugs and competent and polite druggists to wait upon their customers, it is not to be wondered that this house does such a large business.

MARSHAL GROOME has been engaged to-day in notifying parties who have been ordered to repair their sidewalks, to have the same done before next Monday. Work will be commenced Monday by the City Marshal on all sidewalks that the owners refuse to repair and they will be charged 25 per cent damages by the city.

OWING to the absence of a number of prominent members of the Cotton Exchange the meeting for the purpose of organizing and opening the exchange which was to have been held at 11 o'clock this morning was postponed until 6 o'clock this evening. It is hoped that all members of the Exchange will be present, as business of importance will be transacted.

THE mud that is now being removed by the dredge is taken up and dumped just beyond Glass bayou quite a distance from the shore. Now, it will strike the average person hereabouts that this is a bad place to dump this mud as there is none too much room along there even in high water. It would be best for the scows to be emptied on the other side of the island, so if there is to be any filling in, it will take place there.

DON'T YOU DO IT!

Don't wear your old straw hat any longer. The season for them is over. Come in and let us fit you in a fine STIFF or SOFT hat. FALL STYLES just received.

Death of Miss Mary Martin.

Miss Mary Martin, who has been a respected resident of this town for the past thirty-one years, died at her residence at 7 o'clock this morning, after a short illness. Miss Martin was a native of Meath county, Ireland, from where she came to this country in 1851, and has resided here almost constantly ever since. She leaves a brother living in Memphis, two sisters in Greenville, Miss., and two sisters in her native country, to mourn her loss. Some 10 years ago Miss Martin returned to her native place and built a handsome home for her aged parents who could not be induced to leave the old country during their life time she was a faithful and loving daughter to them, taking care of them in their declining years. Her acts of kindness and charity in this city are numerous, and many have cause to bless her for her generosity. She has raised and educated several young ladies, and at the time of her death had two little girls whom she had adopted, their parents dying in 1878. To these little ones she was a kind and generous patron, sparing no pains to raise and educate them in a manner that would reflect credit upon them in after life. Many tears will be shed for this generous lady, who never tired doing good and whose life has been one of good deeds. The funeral will not take place until the arrival of her brother, who is expected to-morrow. Due notice will be given of the time.

DRESS DRILL.

Grand Dress Parade by the Volunteer Southrons this Evening.

The dull monotony of our little city will be somewhat varied this evening and our citizens will be treated to a sight that will be well worth seeing. The Volunteer Southrons, in their new uniform will form in their armory and at five o'clock will commence a grand dress drill on Washington street. Owing to the dust which now covers the out of town streets the Southrons will confine themselves to the above street, where they will execute all the beautiful manœuvers known to the soldier. Capt. A. M. Paxton, Jr., the efficient commander of this popular company will show the public what rapid strides his company have made in the art of drilling and also let those who so generously contributed to their uniform fund see how their contributions have been invested.

The Vicksburg Rifles were invited to participate in the parade, but owing to the fact that they have not yet completed their uniform they were compelled to decline the honor.

After executing a number of field movements, the Southrons will be put through the "manual of arms." The "manual" is by for the prettiest of a dress parade.

The attention of the members of the Volunteer Southrons is called to the notice of their meeting this evening in today's issue.

Attention Volunteer Southrons!

You are hereby ordered to report at "Magnolia Armory" this Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock sharp, in Full Dress Uniform, wearing Spiked Helmet.

The Natchez.

For a number of years Captain T. P. Leathers has been owner and commander of steamboats on the lower Mississippi, all of which have borne the name of Natchez. To-day Capt. Leathers commands the representative "Big Injun," which for reliability and swiftness is unrivalled by any steamboat afloat. The present Natchez was built a few years ago, and during the past Summer has been put in the most thorough order and condition. Her complement of officers comprise some of the most skillful, accomplished and best-known steamboatmen on the river. Captain Leathers, her owner and commander, is an ideal of what the commander of such a mammoth steamer as the Natchez should be, consequently is one of the most popular steamboat captains on the river. We gladly endorse anything that can be said in compliment to this elegant steamer and recommend her to all who desire excellent fare, accompanied by the most comfortable and homelike accommodations, as we believe that no better boat than the "Big Injun" floats on the lower Mississippi.

Dr. Marshall.

Rev. Dr. C. K. Marshall, of Vicksburg, preached to a large and appreciative congregation at this place on Sunday last, among whom were a number of persons from remote parts of the parish. Dr. Marshall, though far advanced in years, seems to retain to a remarkable degree his oldtime physical and intellectual vigor of twenty-five years ago. He preached a most excellent sermon.

The people of Madison parish have great reverence and affection for Dr. Marshall. He has ministered to them for fifty years. There were children here last Sunday whose great grand parents listened to his preaching before their grand parents were born. Thus three generations of men and women have enjoyed the privilege of listening to the wise and loving counsels of this great preacher. The fourth generation will hardly retain a remembrance of the man, but will tell their children in coming years that they saw and heard him. What child that ever listened to Whitfield or Wesley or Bascomb, ever forgot it? And so will the memory of Dr. Marshall be cherished by the men and women and children of Madison long after his body is dust.

It is not alone for his graces and eloquence as a preacher that the people love him. During the four years of our terrible war he was on the great battle fields to help the wounded, to console the dying. In all the fearful pestilences which have visited our country in these fifty years he has been foremost in relieving the suffering and distress which sickened the hearts and palsied the efforts of many brave men. No scene of suffering was too lowly, no human being too degraded or too repulsive to enlist his sympathies, and to command his efforts for their relief. If the love and gratitude of a people he has served so long and so faithfully, is a recompense for all this self-sacrifice and devotion, verily he is not without reward. How few there are who can look back upon a long life so well spent, and with such ample preparation for that which is promised to those who "confess the Christ before men," and to his work by acts of charity, benevolence and loving kindness to the humblest of his creatures.—Madison La., Journal.

The Fever at the Pensacola Navy-yard.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 11.—In a letter to the Postmaster-General the Postmaster at Pensacola, Florida, describes the yellow fever at the Pensacola Navy Yard as the regular Vera Cruz vomit of a very malignant type, fifty per cent of the sick dying. The city of Pensacola, however, is said to be remarkably healthy, with not a single case of sickness. In answer to the request of the Postmaster for permission to fumigate the mails from the Navy-yard, the Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service has authorized him to open tied mail bags at Big Bayou Bridge and fumigate it at that place. If the packages can be fumigated without breaking seals and violation of their contents, the Postmaster is granted liberty to do so.

TALK ABOUT THE SPEAKERSHIP.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The recent interview with Mr. Carlisle, in which he refers to Mr. Blackburn's withdrawal from the Speakership race is deemed so extraordinary in its tone and phraseology that many persons have been expecting to see it formally repudiated. Mr. Blackburn's withdrawal was couched in terms calculated to aid Mr. Carlisle, and coming from one who had just made the race for Speaker against Mr. Randall was regarded as a magnanimous tender of the olive branch to Carlisle. It is not received by Mr. Carlisle in the same spirit, and the declaration that he would not be a candidate for the Senate in the ordinary sense of "button holding and trickstering for the votes of the General Assembly," reads like a severe reflection upon the methods pursued by past and present candidates in Kentucky for this high office. The allusion to Mr. Randall as "crafty" is hardly respectful to a rival who has been three times the choice of the party for Speaker, and who is now decidedly ahead of Mr. Carlisle in the race. The assertion of his belief that Mr. Randall would withdraw reads more like the bragging of a reckless paragrapher than the deliberate utterances of a gentleman like Mr. Carlisle.

The reference to "pledged votes" is also deemed unfortunate, as nine members out of ten always resent the idea that they are "pledged" or belong to any man's ranks, and however friendly they may be to his nomination they prefer to retain their liberty of action up to the last moment.

The whole interview sounds like the manufacture of a careless reporter, and is so well calculated to injure Mr. Carlisle that some of his friends, who know him, allege that he could not possibly have expressed himself as quoted, although he may fail to repel the false position in which he has officiously been placed. It is understood that the offensive language respecting Mr. Randall has been brought to that gentleman's attention, and that he declines to take any notice of it.

Mr. J. J. DOHERTY, representing the Vicksburg Post, favored the Reveille with a call last Saturday. Mr. D., called on our people in the afternoon, we learn, and was quite successful in exchanging the editions of the Post.—Port Gibson Reveille.

Robbed in a Den of Infamy.

A white man by the name of John Glackin, who came in on the train yesterday from Rankin county, with his wife and four children and his wife's sister, the latter quite sick, got somewhat under the influence of liquor, and while in that condition was enticed into the den of Lou Wesley, on the corner of Veto street and Gordon alley and robbed of some $200.

This den is one of most unsavory reputation in the heart of the city, on one of the most frequented thoroughfares, and has been an eyesore to respectable people for years. This is not the first or second time that such crimes have been committed at this place, for the inmates have been before the courts several times and fined, when an appeal would be taken and this would be the last of it, much to the disgust of people who wish to see this crowd severely punished.

This place is an eyesore to the community, and it is the duty of the city authorities to suppress it. It may be said that a man has no right to enter such a place, but that is no excuse for the city allowing such places to exist. The man who was robbed was out in front of the house after the robbing throwing rocks at it, for which he was arrested and fined the costs before the Mayor this morning.

Lou and Lizzie Wesley and Lottie Gansly, negro inmates of the den, were arrested on an affidavit sworn out before Squire Loewenburg and tried this morning. The first two were discharged and the latter was convicted of stealing $8 from the complainant, for which she was fined $10 and costs. Squire Loewenburg made a rigid examination of the witnesses but the man Glacken, was too drunk when robbed to remember anything about it. He claims that he was drugged by the inmates before being robbed.

Now it is time that something was done to drive these women away from this place, as their establishment is a disgrace to any city. Passengers to and from the train are frequently treated to a lot of filthy language in passing this den, and ladies in going by are liable to be insulted at any time.

BUSINESS STATEMENT.

A General Improvement in All Lines.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's from the principal trade centers of the United States report that the first week in September has witnessed a very general improvement in business. Special mail reports give striking testimony to the opinion that the general jobbing trade of the country is experiencing a general revival. Stocks of samples in jobbers' hands, with the exception of dry goods, have been kept low, and sales have been kept well in hand and at shorter terms of credit. At the present time the Fall demand has not only plainly showed itself, but is visibly increasing. Even from Eastern cities, which have been slower to feel the renewed movement than those closer to the great grain and cattle-growing regions, word now comes by telegraph that the past week has shown an unexpected gain in orders and shipments.

The industrial situation in general remain without special change. The striking iron mill hands at Troy, N. Y., some 2,000 in number, have returned to work, and the leading metal industries elsewhere are fairly well employed. At Philadelphia and vicinity the stoppage of a portion of the cotton and woolen mills still continues. Wheat has declined over two cents per bushel on the New York market during the week, but has sustained a partial recovery since, owing to covering of shorts, a renewed inquiry, and reports of unfavorable weather at the West. At Chicago reports of cool weather in the West advanced the prices of wheat and corn. Provisions recovered toward the latter part of the week, closing firm.

Pig iron is not accumulating, and recent sales, while small, aggregate in excess of like weeks in 1882. Steel rail production is heavy and some large contracts are in sight. There has been a well sustained demand for wool in all markets, and values have ruled firm on all descriptions.

Cardinal Manning's Immigration Project.

OTTAWA, ONTARIO, Sept. 11.—The Rev. Father Siddons, Secretary to Cardinal Manning, to-day had an interview with Mr. Lowe, Secretary of the Department of Agriculture, in regard to the immigration of children from Ireland. He asked the Government to allow certain sum per capita for every child sent out under Cardinal Manning's direction.

Mr. Lowe, it is understood, gave the gentleman to understand that $2 per child would in all probability be allowed. Six hundred children have already, under the direction of the Cardial and his secretary, found homes in Canada this season.

The Agricultural Report.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The crop reports are less favorable than those for August. The September cotton returns of the Department of Agriculture are less favorable than those of August. The general average is reduced to 74.

The Port Gibson Reveille is afforded another copper unity of lasting at the expense of the Mississippi press.—Raymond Gazette.

GEN. GRANT'S SPEECH.

At the Completion of the Northern Pacific Railway.

There were loud cries for Gen. Grant and as the General came forward the air was rent with cheers. He said he was reminded by the speeches to which he had listened of the fact that he had had something to do with the great Northern Pacific enterprise. When Gov. Stevens, thirty years ago, had organized his surveying expedition, he was a lieutenant and was acting as quartermaster and commissary on the Columbia River, and had issued the supplies for the expedition. Was he not then entitled to some of the credit which Mr. Billings had apportioned out to others? It was true that while Mr. Billings had contributed out of his own money, he had paid out Uncle Sam's.

This sally greatly pleased the audience, largely made up of veterans, who became perfectly wild when he said that these intercolonial railroads would have amounted to but little, but for the men who after the war sought the Territories as fields of enterprise. They had made these railroads plausible and prosperous. At the conclusion of the speech three cheers were given for the General.

Why the South is Shunned.

Mr. Henry George, when questioned by Senator Call of the Senate Labor Committee acknowledged that he could not explain why it was that Northern men do not go South, where lands are cheap, where the climate is mild, and where a soil can be found that can readily be made fertile by good cultivation. Mr. George is ready to tackle any other economic question but the phenomenon that he was not able to account for. Neither do the glib Northern journals touch the question when they talk about social ostracism and political prejudices. To be plain and direct, the people from Africa keep the white people from the populous Northern States from coming South. Dislike for the negro induces them to prefer the frigid sections of the extreme Northwest, where there is not scarcely any summer, to the best lands and healthiest localities in the Southern country. The man that has to depend on the labor of his two hands is not willing to come in competition or association with the colored laborers. The men who got out of the Northeastern States to find new homes, prefer to go where there are few or no members of the negro race. The color line is drawn much more rigidly in the Northern mind than it is in the South, and white people in the North will not settle where there are negroes in large numbers. This is the plain truth of the situation, and there is no need of blinking it or trying to find other reasons to induce men to go to Manitoba when they could come to Virginia or Georgia. They prefer the wind-swept plains where Sambo is not, to the sunny fields of old States where he congregates.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE penning up of healthy persons in the neck of land occupied by the Pensacola navy yard by a quarantine cordon is a piece of the brutality without excuse. Certainly, a system which can prevent the escape of pestilence beyond its lines, could devise means to disinfect and remove the unfortunates caught in proximity to infection. The food for the plague of late at the navy yard are those given over to death by the tyranny of incompetence. Somebody is censurable, but as the victims are past complaining, let us hope that hereafter when the pestilence is quarantined as much pains will be taken to remove the healthy from infection as to separate them from outsiders. Quarantines should be in charge of officers who can keep their heads when the populace are panic-stricken, and a case of yellow fever or small-pox in many localities will run some people clean daft.—Meridian Observer.

THE costumes of the Annuites is said to defy all attempts of a stranger to discover the sex of the wearers. Men and women look exactly alike, and embarrassing and ridiculous blunders are the consequence. The dress consists of a pair of loose white trousers and a short white jacket. Overall is worn a long coat, close fitting at the throat and reaching nearly to the ground. The coat is open on either side from the waist downward. The garment has no variation in pattern or difference in length for either sex. A turban completes the costume.

A TEXAS paper has invented a new classification for the human race. Speaking of a popular citizen, it says it "never heard man, woman or negro speak a disrespectful word of him."

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 12, 1883

JUDGE JACKSON, of the Supreme Court of Georgia, says "the grogshop and the concealed pistol are the roots of the evil" of violence and private vengeance in the South.

THE number of commercial travelers in the United States is, according to statistics, 200,000. The average cost to the employers is $3,000 for each salesman, or an aggregate of $600,000,000 per annum.

RACES over the Greenville Race Track will be held November 7, 8 and 9. It is the design of the Directors to hold a County Fair at this meeting, of which full and timely notice and directions will be given.

Dr. Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital Service, will recommend that pilots be subject to other tests as to the vision, than that of color-blindness, which he regards as inaccurate. Many who are not color-blind are short-sighted, and have other defects of vision.

CAPT. G. D. BUSTAMANTE has introduced a planter's oil mill at Canton, in this State, and it is now in successful operation. Planters in this section, who are indignant at the action of the Cotton Seed Crushers Association, might learn something to their interest by conferring with Capt. Bustamante.

ONE of the witnesses before the Senate Sub-committee on Labor and Education pointed out the men who never succeeded in life. These indulged in excursions, more cigars, more hours of so-called recreation, more gunning. If they thought they would succeed in life they would be foolish.

THE Louisville Exposition is thus summed up briefly by a visitor:

"There is more of the North than the South about the exposition; the management has been slow; it has not been patronized sufficiently to be profitable; yet, it is a big thing for Louisville and the South.

JAY GOULD is a statesman as well as a financier. In his recent examination before the Senate Committee on Labor and Education, he gave expression to a terse, truthful and wise opinion in regard to legislation: He declared that the only safeguard to society was the education of the masses; anything would be good which would tend to educate and elevate their moral condition.

THE fever at the Pensacola Navy-yard has been particularly severe among the children, and very fatal among the adults in proportion to the number stricken. Out of 18 adults attacked with the disease, 14 cases have resulted fatally, all of whom were white. The other 12 deaths were among the children, and of that number 10 were white.

A SPECIAL correspondent of the Memphis Ledger does not go in to extasies over the Louisville Exposition. He says:

The Exposition at Cincinnati surpasses it in many respects, and the people of that city are not making half as much fuss over their entertainment, while they charge just half price to see it. There are but five attractions at the Exposition, however, worthy of especial admiration. Take away the art gallery and the displays made by Tennessee, Arkansas and Alabama, and the Seventh New York regiment band, some thirty strong, and the Louisville or Southern Exposition wouldn't be much.

EX-DIST. ATTORNEY C. W. CLARKE has folded his tent and silently made tracks. He has moved his effects and defects to Kansas City, Mo.—Mayersville Spectator.

Inasmuch as the man, with all his "effects and defects," that the Vicksburg Herald endeavored to elect to Congress, the situation was about thus: Jeffords was the Republican nominee, Clarke a Republican bolter candidate, and Waddell a self-constituted Democratic candidate with no chance of success. Jeffords was rather popular with the Democrats, and the theory was that all Democratic votes that could be diverted from Jeffords to Waddell would give Clarke that much better chance of being elected. The Herald vigorously supported Waddell.

A SLIGHT error of fact or practice will sometimes result in a serious mistake. This was recently illustrated in a school in this city, where a pupil who had been impressed with the force and value of double letters, such as "double o" in "fool," "double e" in "heel," etc., was called upon to read that touching poem exhortatory to early rising, beginning:

"Up, up, Lucy! the sun is in the sky!"

Surprise, which soon gave way to disbelief, was occasioned when the pupil read the line: "Double up, Lucy! the sun is in the sky!" thus giving it a significance by no means contemplated by the author.

Whisky and Pistols.

There is sometimes a difference in the distances from the top to the bottom and from the bottom to the top of the same thing. For instance in any civilized community where whisky and pistols are allowed to bear sway, the descent from the top to the bottom is short, swift and easy. But for young men who have made their way down and, would return, the ascent is long, rugged and almost impossible. Far better is it, therefore, never to attempt to fathom the enchanting abyss, for in it those who have descended thither find no more of the sweet light of innocence and youth; but only a Golgotha from which the affrighted ghosts, of victors and victims alike, can depart only to mingle their babblings with the wailings of the damned!

With pistols and whisky too many of the young men and boys of our country are beguiling their footsteps adown the flowery descent, from which the return is so hard, so weary and so difficult. The song of the siren echoes and reverberates through the perfumed recesses now almost within their reach, and the costly mirrors and passionate pictures, the brilliant repartee and joyous laugh attract them onward and downward. The exhilarating beverage stills the voices of both conscience and prudence, and away they are flying to that delusive and fatal bower where no law but Colt's Lightning imposes any restraint upon human conduct.

Is it not time that these satanic instrumentalities were placed at a greater and less attractive distance from our sons and the youth who are to marry our daughters! Is it not time for concerted, systematic and persistent efforts to induce all those manly young citizens to turn their backs upon vile allurements of TEMPTER! Who says yes? Who will tell us how to begin? And who will lead the way!

North Carolina's Display at the Boston Exposition.

Passing through this hall one comes to the large main hall, and here the first thing that strikes the eye is the magnificent display of North Carolina, directly in the foreground. The land of cotton and of yellow-leaf may well be proud of her exhibit in Boston. Under the charge of Dr. Dabney, the State chemist, everything is arranged in perfect order, in excellent good taste, and best of all, entirely and completely arranged. At the head of the exhibit is the Information Bureau where a large map of the State is displayed, and where all information in regard to the resources, needs and advantages of this Southern region can be obtained. Behind this in the center is a tasty little hut sheathed with grain, and holding various specimens of grain and seed. In the rear of the grain hut are the specimens of that wonderful industry, the silk industry, and here not only are specimens of finished silk exhibited, but also the "raw" cocoons on their rack. On either side of these exhibits are cases of precious stones, including that newly-discovered Hiddenite gem, a bright, light green stone, which is found in shape like a narrow pipe-stem running in layers through the rocks. Marble and brownstone, in the rough and polished, are exhibited, together with native wines, such as claret, cognac and imperial. To the right are cases of yellow-leaf tobacco, which cannot but be interesting to Northern men, and also all kinds of ores. In the rear of the North Carolina space lie the lumber specimens, and some of these in their polished form are as handsome articles for household use as could be desired. Large bales of cotton stand conspicuously in their front.

Macon Oil Mills.

We enjoyed a visit on Wednesday to this new enterprise and found it in full blast. We fell into the hands of that indomitable pioneer of machinery in this State, Mr. G. D. Bustamante, who pointed out the process from Alpha to Omega.

To understand it one must go and look on a few hours. We were astonished at the amount and perfection of the machinery, which goes along as glibly and sweetly as a school girl's tongue.

We learn that Canton has the honor of being the first to put in motion a planter's oil mill in the State, although there are several in course of erection. We knew that with such men as Carroll Smith and E. L. Tarry holding the ribbons, things would go, and they are going. It is a big concern, and we think those who have put their money into it will find they have struck a bonanza, one that will yield large returns to them, at the same time benefiting the town and county by instilling the spirit of enterprise. Let no farmer think that the county is being ruined by selling seed to this mill.

When farmers get to using cotton seed meal they will find that one ton of the meal is worth three of the seed. This we say from personal experience. Our oil mills men have not paid us to say so, or even asked us to say it.

We will take occasion to say more on this subject when people get politics off the brain.—Canton (Miss.,) Citizen.

Cotton and Weather.

In our last issue we stated that there had been a material falling off in the prospective cotton yield. From accounts from every portion of the county, and from Bolivar and Sunflower, we repeat that statement with emphasis. The chief damage appears to have come from the boll worm. But the drouth has contributed, and the younger cotton will generally be stripped by the army worm; which has already devastated the fields of the Calhoun Land Company around Sunnyside in Arkansas, and are beginning to work in portions of this county. We have never known so sudden and so absolute a "letting down" in the cotton crop.

There was a heavy rain in the northern and eastern portion of the county on Tuesday night last.

There were shipped the past week 69 bales. Previous shipment 11 bales. Total to date, 78 bales.—Greenville Times, 8th.

Benjamin Franklin, the Boston Boy.

A lecture at the Old South Church, Boston, upon Benjamin Franklin was delivered by Mr. George W. Towle recently. Mr. Towle first spoke of the different ways in which Franklin is remembered by medals, stamps, statues, etc. On Milk street, just across the way, there once stood a rude house, with the second story projecting. It was about two centuries ago that Josiah Franklin emigrated from England to this house. He was twice married, and possessed a family of seventeen children, of which Benjamin Franklin was the fifteenth, born on the 6th of January, 1706. Boston was then a fair-sized town, with green fields and scattered houses. Benjamin Franklin was a leader on the play-ground, fond of pranks and escapades. In his sixth year the family was moved to Hanover street. Franklin's schooling was most meagre. He entered the grammar school in his eighth year, and remained but one year. He was most averse to mathematics. After this his father employed him in filling candle molds, a distasteful occupation; but all spare hours were devoted to books, especially to Addison and other classic writers. Afterwards he became bound to his elder brother as a printer. The whole atmosphere of the printer's shop was redolent with literary suggestions, and opened great opportunities to Franklin. To be an author became to him an absorbing inspiration, and he first tried a hand at poetry, hawking the ballads through Boston. He then resolved to be a writer to the Courant, his brother's paper, contributing anonymously. In this occupation he incurred the hostility of his father and brother; but he was brave, packed up his wardrobe and made his way to Philadelphia, where he won renown.

The events of Franklin's after life was summed up briefly. In Philadelphia, he first established a printing office, becoming in two years the best known printer and an honored citizen. Crossing to London, he made his way for two years. Returning to America, he married and became an energetic citizen; published Poor Richard's Almanac; established the first library of America, and also the first fire company. He became Justice of the Peace and then Postmaster. At the age of 46 he was the most eminent citizen of Pennsylvania, and at that age he made his wonderful experiments with electricity. Franklin's part in achieving independence in the United States was then explained. For eighteen years he remained in Europe as the champion of America. He protested against the stamp act, and answered all the attacks made upon his country. Two historic scenes in which Franklin took part was depicted, the first being at the Declaration of Independence, the last at the negotiation of the Treaty of Peace with Great Britain. In his eighty-fourth year he wrote a petition against the slave trade, and formed an abolition society. In 1790 he died.

In studying his character, we notice especially the great variety of his powers; they were his philanthropy, and always, his shrewd common sense. It is most fitting that we shall always remember him, "Legislator of one world, benefactor of two, all mankind owes you a debt of gratitude."

The First Bale.

In an Arkansaw town the season's first bale of cotton is an object of great interest. The bale is drawn into town as though a lost treasure had suddenly been reclaimed. Every one knows that the first bale will come, yet, somehow no one is quite prepared to receive it. If great surprise attends the first bale's transportation to a town, then has the fond hope of the producer been realized? If he fail to create surprise, his first bale has been a failure. When the wagon arrives at a point near the centre of the town, or say at the public well, a negro hops on to the first bale and rings a bell as the wagon moves along the street. Steam mills whistle, and people generally neglect their own business to pay respectful tribute to the season's first collection of the royal staple. After the principal streets of the town have been traversed, the wagon stops at a public place, where the first bale is "auctioned off" to the highest bidder. It generally brings about twice as much as it is worth, and the producer goes home happy not to say half drunk. About a week later he comes to town with another bale. There is no excitement. The first bale has already been received. He cannot get anyone to mount the bale and ring a bell, for every one knows that such a performance would be useless. The producer drives to the public place and attempts to "auction off" the bale, but his efforts are not rewarded with success. Two or three hardened cotton buyers come on, pluck the sample from the bale, tear it to pieces and make the producer a discouragingly low offer. He refuses and drives around town a while. "Long about the shank of the evening" he comes back to the hardened buyers. They inform him that the market has declined since they last consulted with him, and offer him a few cents less per pound in consequence. They "haggle" a while, and in the mean time they receive a telegram announcing that the market has gone down a few points. Then they offer him a figure so low that tired and disgusted he accepts it, gets two pairs of brogan shoes, a pair of yellow jeans "britches," a handkerchief, a tin pan, a quart of whisky and goes home drunk.—Arkansaw Traveler.

A FRENCH medical journal has been amusing itself by prescribing for the ailments of illustrious people who have been long dead; but who, according to this authority, ought not to have died as early as they did. It seems that Moliere could have been saved by a few grains of caffeine; Racine's neurosis would have yielded to bromide of potassium; while any modern doctor could have cured Napoleon of his biliousness, and altered the course of history by making the great Emperor live to a green old age. All this brings such satisfactory evidence as to the progress of science that our descendants may wonder how Gambetta was allowed to die in the prime of life, and why the most expert physicians of a knowing age have found it so difficult to understand the Comte de Chambord's illness.

Last Year's Cotton Crop Statement.

The New York Financial Chronicle's statement of the cotton crop of last year makes the total 6,992,234 bales, and 27,428 bales more than the crop report of the National Cotton Exchange. There is an excess of some 18,000 bales in Southern consumption according to Chronicle's report, and 10,000 bales in receipts at the ports. The telegrams regarding the National Cotton Exchange's report show some discrepances, or crooked figuring. The total port receipts of the Exchange is 6,009,612 bales, of overland shipments 641,801, and Southern consumption 313,393, making the total bales 6,964,806, while the receipts show a total of 6,945,756 bales, or about 18,000 less than the above. The Chronicle gives Southern consumption at 331,000 bales. Much interest is manifested in both statements, but the National Cotton Exchange is regarded as official, and will be the figures accepted as the real crop of 1882-3. Many, however, believe the Chronicle is the closest to the mark.

The Publishers of THE POST will endeavor to make it

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of the EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

The Powers Oil Mill Company's steamer Issaquena, will arrive here this evening from Greenville, and leave at 5 p.m. to-morrow on her return trip. Capt. H. C. Marrioneaux is master, and Frank Steigleman chief clerk of the "beauty."

The Anchor Line steamer City of Helena, which was due here last night is behind time, but will probably get here to-day. If she arrives to-day she will leave at 11 a.m. to-morrow for St. Louis. Capt. John T. McCord is in command, with Geo. O. Walton in the office. Carroll B. Mount is her passenger agent.

Passengers and shippers for points on the Sunflower river, will bear in mind that the trim little P. Line steamer Deer Creek, Capt. Geo. W Bookout master, and Walter Kain chief clerk, will leave for that stream promptly at 4 o'clock this evening. Those wishing to catch the Deer Creek will have to be on time, as she is a packet with a regular schedule and don't stop for anything.

CLIPPINGS.

The Boyd Company, at Lavanna, Ohio, have built and launched a transfer boat for the Scioto Valley Railroad Company for use at Ashland, Ky. She is two hundred feet long, has thirteen water-tight compartments, with double fore and aft bulkheads, and thirty-nine hatchways opening into the same number of compartments. The main hog-chain braces are twenty-five feet high, with timber cross-braces at the top, carrying double chains, and all the lumber on the boat is dressed on both sides; the bow and stern are sheathed with heavy iron, and the knuckles are plated with angle-iron. Mr. M. J. Enster, the foreman of the yard, finished the work Saturday, and she only awaits a towboat to take her up the river.

Memphis Avalanche: The City of Helena, which should have left this port Sunday morning for Vicksburg, is hard aground at Tiptonville, 165 miles above this city. The City of St. Louis left the Helena at that point Sunday, but it is probable that she has got off since then and will pass down early this morning.

Joseph Walton & Co., of Pittsburg, have decided that, beginning with the next coal-shipping season, no female shall be employed in any capacity on any of their boats.

A New Long-Distance Telephone.

It is currently reported, says the Montreal Witness, that Mr. Senecal, on his return, will take a prominent interest in the development of a new system of telephoning. A recent experiment was made between this city and St. Albans, which is reported to have worked admirably. Mr. Webster Gillette claims to have invented an instrument over which conversation can be carried on between points 2600 miles apart, a distance as great as that between Liverpool and New York. Another company, called the "Overland" Company of New York, of which Mr. R. G. Dun is the head, was to have made an experiment between Montreal and Toronto, but a telegram was received this morning that the works where the electrical machines are manufactured in New York were burnt and the experiment would have to be postponed. Professor Thompson of the United States Electrical Department was to have been here this morning to superintend the experiment, but owing to the fire could not come. The company intend forming a Canadian syndicate and all the stock has been taken up. The Overland claim to have "killed the induction," which means that other wires running parallel with telephone wires will not affect the instrument, and this has been the difficulty in the past that telephone men have been trying to overcome.

Suicide of an Animal.

The opinion has commonly prevailed that man alone among animals was capable of committing suicide. A Paris paper of recent date, however, gives particulars of the tragic end of a donkey which was witnessed recently by a dozen persons, who are all convinced that the animal's death was premeditated and intentional. The unfortunate quadruped, which was reduced to a condition of skin and bone from over-work, cruel usage and scanty food, managed to escape from his stables and made for the Seine, into which he entered. A man who happened to be giving a Newfoundland dog a bath close by, perceiving that the donkey made no effort to swim and was on the point of drowning, dispatched the dog to his assistance. Seizing the animal's ear in his mouth the Newfoundland managed to bring him to land. But to no purpose. The donkey looked round with his large, sad eye, and quietly walked back into the water. The dog made a second effort at him; but this time the donkey kicked out so vigorously that his preserver could not approach. The donkey once beyond his depth, resigned himself to the action of the current, made a momentary effort to sustain himself, and was speedily drowned.

Capt. S. H. Parisot.

We learn from the VICKSBURG POST of Aug. 30th, that it is the intention of Capt. Parisot to place the steamers S. H. Parisot and City of Yazoo in the Vicksburg and New Orleans trade this winter. Capt. Parisot is a man of large means, has had great and deserved success as a steamboatman, is an obliging gentleman, and will try in every way to advance the interests of his customers. We hope the citizens of Tensas will extend to him a hearty welcome and a liberal patronage. His efforts in behalf of our daily mail service should commend him to all persons desiring a quicker delivery of our mails. They should also recollect the obstacles placed in the way of securing this service by those interested in the present contract.—North Louisiana Journal.

MR. J. J. DOHERTY, representing THE VICKSBURG EVENING POST, was in town last Saturday, looking after the interest of that excellent journal. We are happy to know that the Post has surprised the most sanguine expectations of its publishers and is on the road to great prosperity. We are glad of it.—Port Gibson News.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 85 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

L., Power, of Jackson, is the other Representative from the Grand Lodge of Mississippi, while Capt., W. Q. Lowd of the same place, will go as a representative from the Grand Encampment of this State.

WORK on the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas railroad bridge across Glass bayou is progressing very rapidly. Yesterday 27 of the foundation piles were driven, which swells the total number driven up to yesterday evening to 160. Nearly all the frame work for the bridge has been shaped out, and is being put into position as rapidly as possible. When completed the trestling over Glass Bayou will be about the best on the road.

CAPTAIN WM. CHAMBERLIN, chairman of the School Board, yesterday appointed Messrs. Lee Richardson and Thomas Mount as a committee to act in connection with Mr. G. G. Pegram and Captain S. H. Parisot, the committee appointed by the citizens, to select subscriptions to repair the public school buildings. The committee will go to work at once, and it is to be sincerely hoped that their efforts will meet with success and that the required amount ($700) can be raised.

JOHN TRONI, the great oyster man, has made preparations to supply his numerous customers with oysters and fish this season, and will receive daily shipments during the entire season. John has an immense ice-box for keeping his oysters fresh. The box is made on a new plan, and is the only one of the kind in this city, the ice being packed on each side and the bottom. The capacity of the box is 8,000 oysters. John also has a new delivery wagon, and will deliver oysters to any part of the city at a moment's notice. His telephone number is 110.

THE firm of Picchetto & Bro., dealers in candies, nuts, fruits, cigars and tobacco, etc., are now receiving large shipments of goods in their line and the orders they receive keep them constantly busy. This firm manufacture their own candy, which is perfectly pure and the demand for which is constantly increasing. The manufacturing of candy is under the supervision of Mr. John Bianchi, an experienced candy-maker of 15 years' practice, a first-class workman in every respect. Parties desiring anything in their line will do well to call upon or address Picchetto & Bro. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention and at the lowest figures.

Fire Last Night.

At a quarter to three o'clock this morning, Marshal Groome and Officer Grimes discovered smoke issuing from the Woodbine saloon and turned on the fire alarm. In a very short time the entire fire department was at work. When the doors were broken open the smoke was so thick that the firemen could not enter, but the streams from the three engines were poured into the building. When entrance could be made it was found that the fire was in the cellar of the building, into which the streams were then turned, and in a short time the floor of the cellar was flooded about three feet deep and the fire extinguished. It is thought the fire originated from a cigar thrown on the celler floor, on which a lot of loose straw was strewn.

The damage to the building, which is owned by Mr. Alex Kuhn, is very slight and is fully covered by insurance. Work is progressing to-day on the repairs. Mr. Leyens' loss will amount to several hundred dollars on which there is full insurance.

The work of the firemen last night was excellent and no doubt prevented a conflagration in the business part of the city. But then our firemen can always be depended upon to do good work, as the recent fires here show.

Chief Engineer Fisher had his hat knocked off last night by a stream and it must have been dissolved as no trace of it could be found this morning.

Yesterday's Parade.

At half past five o'clock yesterday evening the Volunteer Southrons, in full dress uniform, formed in their armory and soon after appeared on Washington street, where nearly a thousand men, women and children had assembled in honor of the occasion. A variety of fancy movements were executed by the Southrons which met with the silent approbation of those present. After going through a number of field movements, which were done in very fair style, the company was wheeled into line in front of the office of THE POST and put through the manual. Their execution of this important feature of the tactics, was very good, and the men worked well together. To one who is a judge of military matters, it would seem that the movements in several instances were a little slow, but that is a fault that is easily remedied. Owing to the absence of second Lieutenant George Waddill, orderly sergeant C. J. Scarks, acted in that capacity. When the programme had been carried out, the members of the company, together with a few invited guests, adjourned to their hall where several bowls of excellent punch were destroyed. Thus closed one of the most pleasant and successful military displays that has been witnessed in Vicksburg since the days of the old-time military.

Collision on the V. & M.

Intelligence reached here last night that at 3:30 p.m. yesterday the regular freight train that left here at 8:30 a.m., yesterday morning, bound east, came in collision with an extra west bound freight train at Green's switch, between Pelahatchie and Morton. There was fortunately no one hurt, but both engines and seven box cars will prove a total loss. The west bound freight was running on the east bound regular train's time, and was trying to make Green's switch when the collision occurred. Conductor Ramsey was on the east bound train with engineer Jack Noel, and conductor Ed Gibson had charge of the extra, with a man named Lawson as engineer. Lawson is a new man on the road and was formerly an engineer on the Cincinnati Southern road.

An Eloquent Tribute to the Late Miss Mary Martin.

Hark! the mournful funeral knell! As the day's pearly dawn spread o'er our city, Death claimed as his own a brave, true heart, bore in his arms to the Creator a form familiar to one and all—one known far and wide for her justice, industry and integrity. It seems incredible that "Miss Mary" is dead! We thought she should live while the city lasted, so long and successful has been her life. Years and years has she lived among us, respected, admired by every nationality, every creed, and a tear of regret will dim many eyes when they hear the solemn requiem chanted above her body, cold and silent in death. In her business transactions "Miss Mary" was regarded as a woman of great intelligence, determined will, and unimpeachable honor. Her name, North, South, East, West was known, her word respected and accepted as readily as an oath.

Though apparently cold and indifferent, she possessed a heart as warm and loving as ever beat in human breast. Many knew her as a smart business woman, but few knew howkind and gentle she was to those in distress. To her sorrowing sisters she was father, mother—she was their all! No words of comfort can still the waves of grief lashing their bleeding hearts. To her poor little orphans—the two motherless babes she brought to her heart and home—her death is indeed a sad blow! Fond and devoted, she cared for them as faithfully as a mother. As the shades of eve would close upon a busy day, Miss Mary would forget her weariness and find comfort and pleasure in teaching her little girls to read and spell. This one act alone has wreathed her brow with a crown of fadeless glory in God's home above. Peace, sweet rest, dear Miss Mary!

The Changes in the Straits of Sunda.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The commander of the British man-of-war Strait of Sunda, is probably unchanged. Angier light has disappeared. The light-house at Java Head is undamaged. The Dutch authorities are taking every precaution to prevent damage to vessels, and have ordered their ships to cruise at three months to warn vessels of the changes in the channels.

FATAL JEALOUSY.

A Georgia Girl Disembowels Her Rival in the Affections of a Country Swain.

BLACK SHEAR, GA., Sept. 12.—A rustic dance in the lower part of Pierce county was the scene of a sanguinary encounter between two country lasses Thursday night. Miss Mabel Smith and her niece, Miss Roxy Wilson, both daughters of respectable farmers, and belles of the evening, were rivals for the hand of a country swain, whose personal attractions were enhanced in the eyes of the maidens by a $10,000 estate to which he is the only heir. His preference for Miss Smith's company was very marked, and Miss Wilson became infuriated with jealousy. At eleven o'clock she was so maddened that she made open threats that she would kill both her rival and her lover. Her brother, who was present, shared his sister's anger, and, while they were all dancing in the same set about midnight, secretly put an open knife into his sister's hand and went on with the dance. Suddenly raising the knife above her head, the infuriated woman sprang upon her aunt, and at the first strike almost disemboweled her. Before the horrified spectators could recover from their astonishment she raised the knife again and plunged it to the hilt in the dying woman's breast, cutting a gash which laid open her dress and exposed the bleeding wound to view. Without waiting to see the effect of the wound the murderess sprang like a tigress toward the throat of the swain, but was seized and disarmed before she could accomplish her purpose. The woman's brother made no attempt to interfere while the tragedy was being enacted, and when it was over calmly walked away, and has not been seen since. The murderess, who is an uncommonly handsome country girl of nineteen years, is under arrest. Her father is said to be worth $25,000, and to have announced his intention to spend every cent of it if necessary to clear her.

LAND AND CAPITAL.

Witnesses Before the Senate Sub-Committee Air their Views on Important Subjects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—In consequence of the illness of Mr. John Roach he was unable to resume his testimony before the Senate sub-Committee on Education and labor Monday morning.

James K. Ingalls, who was examined by Senator Blair, submitted a paper which he had prepared on the relations of labor to land. In his opinion, the holding of large tracts of land by single individuals was dangerous to the interests of society and labor. The effect of the absorbtion of land by single ownership had also produced injurious effects in the agricultural districts. No man should possess an absolute fee of land, but should only own the use of so much land as was necessary to his comfort during his life. Under the present system a man was virtually able to entail his real estate by conveying it to his son during his life. He recommended a change in the law by which a man's executors should have power to dispose of his real estate within a certain time, and if this was not done it should be put up at public auction.

George Blair, a manfacturer of packing-boxes, who for many years has been connected with the labor movements in this city and State, was the next witness. He stated that although he was a manufacturer and had been in business for himself since 1874, he still took a great interest in all labor questions. He now had in his employ sixty men, who received on an average $700 per annum. One of the most important measures in the power of Congress to establish was the revival of the income tax. All incomes under $10,000 should be exempt, but all above $100,000 should be taxed so heavily that a millionaire would be an impossibility. He thought that $25,000 a year was as large an income as any man should possess, and with this he could live handsomely. Government bonds should also be taxed, as well as bonds of other corporations. One of the greatest needs of the times was a general system of education under Government supervision. The people should be educated in their political duties. The public schools are not what is desired on this subject. He thought the best and most economical method was to hire labor by the day. Witness thought that, whenever the state of trade would admit of it, workmen should take the right of demanding a fair share of the profits.

Edward King, a printer, recalled, said that he found the views of Henry George on the land question were making rapid headway among the working classes. He was opposed to free grants of land, or owning of large tracts of land by any one individual or corporation.

A Cowboys' Battle in a Dark Room—The Killed and Wounded.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 12.—Details of a bloody affray which occurred at the McLaine ranche, in Elbert county, on Saturday night in which eight cowboys were engaged, have just reached the city.

Sunday was a day off, and all went to Agate station, on the Kansas Pacific Road, and falling in with a companion opened festivities with several drinks, thence rode to a neighboring ranch, which contained a supply of liquor, and started home. On the way home the two named —Rossiter and Makeever—engaged in an angry dispute about a trivial matter, and all repaired to the herders' quarters and settle the difficulty.

As soon as inside the men clinched and both fell to the ground fighting desperately, their companions urging them on. The tables and benches were removed and a ring improvised. The men beat and tore at each other with the ferocity of tigers. The lookers-on in the excitement madly howled and danced about, brandishing revolvers and encouraging their favorite in the fight. It was a weird, blood-curdling sight. While the fight was at its height the oil lamp was knocked from its place and the room was in darkness.

The men, mad, ran upon each other, and in a minute after the light had been extinguished the melee was general. The door being locked, and there being no means of egress, each man fought for himself. Amid the resounding blows and curses a pistol shot rang out and the death cry of a victim paralyzed whatever of reason was left in the party.

Almost before the cry left the lips of the unfortunate man there was a wild fusillade, and for a moment, by the fitful flash, the gloom was lifted and it was a bloody scene. Rossiter was dead, the two Joneses were weltering in their blood. Three others were wounded, some fatally. Rollins and McKeever were the only ones not injured, and fled and have not yet been apprehended.

MR. JAMES MARTIN, of this city, yesterday received a telegram from Vicksburg conveying the sad information of the death of his sister, Miss Mary Martin. The deceased has been a resident of Vicksburg for thirty years, and by her energy and industry accumulated a handsome fortune. She was quite well-known in Memphis, where her death will occasion deep sorrow, as Miss Martin was the possessor of many sterling qualities.—Memphis Ledger.

Prohibition in Louisiana.

At their meeting in August, the Police Jury of West Carroll Parish passed the following important ordinance:

On motion of Mr. Hanegan, Geo. W. Shillings being in the chair, Be it ordained by the Police Jury of West Carroll, that the Sheriff, W. W. Bradley, be and is hereby required to hold an election at the different precincts in said parish on the first Monday in December, 1883, to ascertain and determine by ballot the wish of the people on the prohibition and sale of intoxicating liquors, and due return make of same according to law.

A Noted Gambler Killed in Ohio.

Charles Henderson, the noted gambler, who made Chattanooga his headquarters for many years, and is well-known here, was killed a few days since in a row in Ohio. He was sent to the Penitentiary for five years from this city for passing a "spiel work" on a countryman as a $20 gold piece, but was pardoned by Gov. Porter. He was in this city about a year ago with a band of thieves who called themselves Maybury's Circus.—Chattanooga Times, 11th.

Importing Fine Stock.

The steamship Nantes, from Liverpool, brought in 44 head of fine Jersey cattle on their way to Kentucky. The importation of the best blood of the famous isle are the property of Messrs A. G. Herr, of the Magnolia Farm, J. C. McFerran, of the Glenview Farm, and of our well know citizen and prominent merchant, J. L. Harris, for the Hurstbourn (formerly Tenbreck) Farm, Kentucky. Mr. N. T. Herr went to Great Britain, purchased the stock and came out on the steamer with them. Though some rough weather was experienced, there was no loss; on the contrary, the number increased by one on the voyage, and the animals are in perfect health.—N. O. Picayune, 12th.

MRS. GEN. STONEWALL JACKSON and daughter are the guests of Gov. Benjamin F. Butler in Boston. The world moves, and it moves toward a higher and better plane. This incident, though unimportant of itself, is full of meaning and significance: it is another garland hung up to show where the rivets are fastened that hold together a united country.—Memphis Ledger.

A PITTSBURG girl who had refused a good-looking telegraph repairer man three times within six months, gave as a reason that he was too much of a wanderer; that he roamed from pole to pole, from one climb to another, and, if he did come, he'd be insulate, that the neighbors would be sure to talk.—Pittsburg Telegraph.

CHATTANOOGA, claims to have invested nearly a million dollars in building in the last twelve months, classified as follows: Over $700,000 now actually in progress, fully $200,000 completed and $100,000 contemplated. It is estimated that 250 dwellings are in course of construction. This is a good showing, and it has a solid basis.

SENATOR CERRO GORDO Williams says he has a sure thing of re-election, as all but eighteen members—he asserts—will vote for him on the last ballot. Some of the Kentucky newspapers incline to doubt this and think the General has not a prospect of a walkover.

WASHINGTON COUNTY.

The Democrats Opposed to Ballot Reform and Supervision and Election of Judges by the People.

At the Convention at Greenville on the 11th inst., the Committee on Resolutions reported the following, which were adopted by the Convention:

Resolved, That the Democratic party of Washington county, in view of the present upward, onward and progressive tendency of public improvements, the construction of railroads, and investment of capital generally, considers any legislation tending to retard same, as highly detrimental to the best interest of our State, and particularly to the delta region.

Resolved further, That we regard the agitation at present of railroad supervision as especially hurtful, and that we utterly condemn it as productive of evil as it will tend to retard the sure and rapid development of our State and section and to create dissension in our party, and we desire that our representation in the next Legislature shall earnestly advocate, maintain and conform to the spirit of these resolutions.

Resolved further, That we oppose the election of Judges by the people.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Convention that the present levee system of this Levee District with the laws pertaining thereto be jealously guarded and maintained by our representation in the Legislature in all of their integrity, except in so far as amendments to the law may be necessary for the more efficient working of the system.

Attempted Rape.

Simon Walker a negro boy about 15 years of age attempted to ravish Mr. Hub Taylor's little nine year old daughter in the vicinity of Kewanee Sunday afternoon. The little girl and her youngster sister were returning home from a neighbor's house about sundown when this black brute came upon her quite near her father' house. He threw her down in the road and would have accomplished his hellish design, had not her screams brought her father and mother to her rescue. The boy made his escape but was subsequently arrested at his mother's house, a half mile distant. He was brought to this city yesterday morning and arraigned before Justice Patton for the crime of attempted rape who committed him without bail. What is strange about this affair is that the little girl's father didn't blow the brains out of the black brute instead of bringing him before an officer for trial. God be praised that in some communities he wouldn't have lived a minute!—Meridian Mercury, 12th.

I have just received a large lot of Wagons of all sizes. Iron Axles and thimble-skeins. Call and examine before purchasing. A. A. TRESCOTT, aug15 32 33 and 34 Crawford Street.

Military Matters.

The Vicksburg Rifles held a business meeting last night, during which Capt. Cowan was authorized and requested to appoint a committee of three, who will call on the merchants of this city who have members of the Rifles in their employ, and try and make arrangements with them whereby those who are now kept away from the drills of the company by business will be enabled to attend the meetings and drills from now until the competitive drill at Jackson takes place. Vicksburg is the largest city in the State, and has two military companies, with as good material in them as any in the State. It seems to us that with two such companies as we now have that it will be strange if our merchants refuse to grant members a little time to perfect themselves in the military art, which will enable the Companies to compete for the handsome prize of $1,500, which is offered by the State Fair Association for the best drilled company. Vicksburg can carry off the prize if her merchants will only allow their employees who belong to either company to attend the drills.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 13, 1883

SENATOR VOORHEES has been engaged as the leading counsel for the defense in the case of young Nutt of Uniontown, Pa., who killed Dukes, the murderer of his father.

THE Washington county Democrats talk about right in their resolutions on the important subjects of railroad supervision, election of judges, and the levee system. Read them.

THE Boston Post attributes the revulsion of feeling as to Democratic success in Ohio to the fact that "every leading Democrat in the State is reaching for the throat of some other leading Democrat."

MR. MCDONALD explains the call for "a tariff for revenue only" as meaning "a tariff for taxation to raise the $200,000,000 of revenue needed, but which will not be levied with any idea of protection."

THE Brooklyn Eagle (Dem.) warns the party that "it is very well to cry, 'Turn the rascals out,' and 'the Republican party must go,' but the business men of the United States will not do much turning out in favor of a party which cannot make up its mind concerning so great a matter as the tariff."

ELECT Sam Randall as Speaker of the House; and then nominate him for President of the United States; and the Democratic party will have a splendid show for success in the next National contest. Defeat Randall for Speaker, and Democratic chances for success will be greatly diminished if they do not entirely vanish.

SOME Democratic opponents of the protection policy, says they are in favor of a tariff for revenue, with incidental protection. This is a good deal like Judge Field's favoring Mr. Tilden incidentally for President—that is the Judge don't want him all. "A tariff for revenue only" would be the proper platform for the incidental protection fellows if they had the courage to affirm it; and "Judge Field for President only" will about suit the stand taken by the "you know also" aspirant of the Federal Supreme Court.

RAILROAD Supervision, we regret to say; is dormant, at least, for the next two years. The hopes and desires of the people have been thwarted by political machination, and the triumph of the corporations is complete.—Okoloma Messenger.

The above is very good news. The hopes of the people, however, have not been thwarted. The people don't want supervision; they want railroads, and political demagogues and office-seekers will not be able to hoodwink them into retarding the good work of railroad building now in progress in this State.

IF there is a Northern member of Congress who has shown himself favorable to the improvement of the Mississippi river, that member has been Sam'l J. Randall. If Gen. J. Floyd King supports Mr. Randall for the Speakership it will be because he has found him at all times a friend in his favorite hobby, Mississippi river improvement. Indeed, Mr. Randall's well-known friendship to river improvement would have secured for him the entire support of the West and South, if he had been like Mr. Carlisle, a tariff for revenue man.—Natchez Democrat.

JUDGE FIELD'S platform is a good one, and we think the Judge would make a first rate President; in fact we are in favor of making a change in the line of succession to the Presidency, so as to get it out of the hands of the military, and Judge Field is a good subject to commence with. From Andrew Johnson down to Chester A. Arthur the office of President of the United States has been filled by a military man, and we think we might try the Judiciary a while to vary the monotony.—Lexington Bulletin.

And so the Judge has caught another Missispipi paper. It is a little strange that the Bulletin did not find some objection to Gen. Hancock, a purely military man, at the last election. Gen. Grant, we believe is the only President "from Andrew Johnson down to Chester A. Arthur" that might be properly termed "a military man." Johnson was not a soldier, and neither was Arthur. Garfield and Hayes were volunteer soldiers while the war was in progress, but "arms" was not their profession; they were civilians before and since the war. Even Grant was out of the army a long time—while he was engaged in hauling wood and tanning leather; but Hancock, whom the South solidly supported, has been nothing but a military man since he graduated from West Point.

Quite Sure.

We are getting it down pretty fine on Mr. Samuel J. Tilden. It is undoubtedly a most capital thing, indeed quite an indispensable thing to an intelligent searcher after truth, to know just precisely what particular tricks are scheduled among the methods of this distinguished and astute statesman.

"Ouce upon a time," when political "bosses" carried high heads, the great State of New York was lost in a State election to the great Democratic party, when it ought not to have been lost, and when treachery was the only solution of defeat. And this particular State election, as a remarkable coincidence, preceded by one year the Presidential election of 1880. Of course the Tilden crowd "cussed" John Kelly as usual, and loaded him down with this treachery as the crowning iniquity of his life. But a few knowing people who were on the innermost inside of things, said that Mr. Tilden was chiefly responsible. And the real truth is that defeat was primarily due to Mr. Tilden's bossism and selfishness. The facts are very simple, and are about as follows: Mr. Tilden was the chief political "boss" at that time. John Kelly was a smaller "boss," with less strength, but yet with a powerful backing. Tammany could not control the party and dictate a nomination, but represented a tremendous power in the party, and was indispensable in the election.

So Mr. Tilden ordered the nomination of Governor Robinson, who was objectionable and distasteful to John Kelly and all of Tammany. And Tammany objected to his nomination, but in pressing the objection it was expressly indicated and clearly understood that Tammany would cheerfully support any man of Tilden's naming except Governor Robinson, and they declared in advance that they would not support him at the polls. Outside of this one man Mr. Tilden could have named the Democratic nominee for Governor. But Mr. Tilden said Robinson it should be and nobody else. And so with notice duly served beforehand that he would run his man to certain defeat he forced him on the track.

There were Clarkson N. Potter, since deceased, Mr. Dorsheimer, and scores of as good, yea better men than Governor Robinson, to choose from who would have united the party. But Mr. Tilden would have none of them.

The truth is that Mr. Tilden is not going to let any man grow as strong in the party as he is if he can help it. And this has all along been at the bottom of all his tactics and maneuverings.

Mr. Tilden don't want Judge Hoadly elected in Ohio. And he did not want Hancock to carry New York in 1880. And he pretends that Mr. Hancock is a most fit man for the Presidency, whom everybody ought to know that this is the most wretched sort of hypocritical twaddle.

Here is what the New York Herald, that is generally acute and accurate in giving the key to a situation, says about Mr. Tilden and the canvass of 1879, charging it all to Tilden's selfish ambition:

Mr. Roosevelt says "Kelly defeated Governor Robinson because the Governor had views of his own and would not be a boss rule." Well, we remember something about that, too. Mr. Kelly and Tammany Hall gave frank notice beforehand that they would support any nominee of the Convention except Governor Robinson, whom Mr. Tilden had "put up." It seemed to the Herald at that time that under the circumstances the party had better not nominate Governor Robinson. He was no doubt a good man, but he was not the only good man in the party. Mr. Tilden, who was at that time a Democratic "boss," insisted that Governor Robinson, and no one else, should be nominated. He might have consented to the nomination of the late Mr. Clarkson Potter, who was as able and good a man as ever sat in the Governor's chair, and whose election would, by the way, have made him a very strong Presidential candidate. But Mr. Tilden would not have Mr. Potter. Besides Mr. Potter there were at least half a dozen other gentlemen, all fit, and all able to command the whole party vote. It was the year before the Presidential electing, as now. Mr. Tilden is an able political "boss." He carried the Convention—and defeated his party.

It always seemed to us "poor politics"—for the party at least. So far as we now remember, it did not hurt Tammany. But Mr. Tilden's success in "bossing" his party into a defeat on the eve of a Presidential election undoubtedly was a prime factor in causing the loss of that election.

The nomination of Mr. Tilden in 1884, so far as can be inferred from present indications, is very improbable.

But it is certain that he is manipulating some sort of scheme in New York that possibly looks in some other direction.

Mr. Roosevelt, one of his special crowd, is steadily pulling against a pacification with Tammany; and there seems to be quite a Tildenish smile beaming over in the direction of one Mr. Conkling.

What all means is quite an interesting inquiry.

THE editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, thinks that Senator Edmunds or President Arthur will be the Republican nominee for the Presidency, and that Arthur may succeed if he can heal the differences in New York; otherwise Edmunds will be the strongest man, although favors Randall for Speaker, and thinks Tilden may be the Democratic nominee if he has good health.

"You Know Also."

Judge Field, in his letter to Mr. Royall of Virginia, defining his status on leading political topics, began the first paragraph with the words "you know," and each succeeding paragraph with the words "you know also." Now if Judge Field believed that Mr. Royall knew all about his ideas and policy, what was the necessity of telling it all over to him. The Judge very likely wanted the solid South "to know also" how he stood, and gave us, through "you know also" Mr. Royall, a lot of "taffy" and big promises, t e same as grown people sometimes give to children to make them obedient and tractable. The South has been growing a little of late, and is getting to be too "knowing" to be caught by such pandering as Judge Field gave in his "you know also" epistle.

Fusion in Washington County.

The Democracy of Washington county met in Convention at Greenville on the 11th. Col. W. A. Percy presided. The Hinds county plan of fusion was followed, the Democrats getting the offices of Sheriff, Treasurer, Chancery Clerk, all the Supervisors, one Magistrate in each District, and one member of the Legislature. The Republicans get two members of the Legislature, the Assessor, the Circuit Clerk, and Magistrates and Constables in each District.

The Democrats nominated W. E. Hunt for Sheriff, C. M. Johnson for Chancery Clerk, John P. Finlay for Treasurer, and S. M. Spencer for the Legislature.

The Republican nominees are: J. R. Parker and Gilbert Horton for the Legislature, A. J. Hill for Assessor, R. J. Mahone for Circuit Clerk.

"Four Years in the South."

Under this heading the Times-Democrat of a recent date gives assessment in all the Southern or Gulf States, in 1879 and 1883 to show, by comparison, the progress made in this section during the four years just past. According to the table all the Gulf States, except Mississippi, have increased in assessment, this State showing a decline. The figures we give as follows: Mississippi assessment in 1879, $129,308,345; assessment in 1883, $116,288,810.

There must be a mistake here. Where the Times-Democrat got its figures from we do not know, as all the official figures of this year have scarcely reached Jackson by this time. Nearly all counties in the State we have seen reports from show an increase over the assessments of 1879. Very few, if any, show a decline.

The report of the Times-Democrat is under the circumstances rather damaging to Mississippi, and it is untrue as to this State ought to be corrected.

The Aberdeen Examiner has also called attention to the incorrectness and injustice of the Times-Democrat's statements, and has given facts and figures to prove Mississippi's growth. The New Orleans journal should revise its figures, and give our State its just due.

Shadow and Sunshine.

If on thy path thou seest shadows lying
Be brave and let not hey heart despond;
For the clouds above thy head are flying,
The sweeping sun still shines for thee beyond.

The very shadows tell thee of the brightness
To be revealed when from the arching
The clouds shall pass—Ah, thou wert surely sightless
Could'st thou not see those clouds are flitting by.

Beyond the shadows golden rays impinging,
Upon the hill-tops promise fairer hours,
And silvery fleece e'en now the clouds is fringing,
And rainbows shine amid the passing showers.

And when, at last, completing life's brief
The placid evening cometh softly on
The clouds themselves will gleam with sunset's splendor
And promise of Eternity's fair dawn.

Accidental Killing.

A few nights since one of the tenants on Mrs. Urquhart's place, heard a noise among his chickens, and suspecting a thief was pilfering his fowls, discharged a shot gun, loaded with buckshot in that direction. Unfortunately another tenant was returning home from a visit, accompanied by his little girl and boy, and came within range of the shot. The boy was killed and the man and girl severely wounded. We did not ascertain the name of the parties.—Greenville Review.

REV. DR. MIXER tells a good anecdote, illustrating the popular idea entertained about the three leading professions, which will bare repeating. He says an anxious father consulted a seer to find out, if possible the destiny of his three boys. To his great dismay the man of knowledge declared: "One will be a murderer, another a falsifier, and the third a parson living on the town." As the good father began to bewail his lot the seer added: "Do not mourn; these are the common lots of men. Your first son will be a doctor, the second a lawyer, and the third a country clergyman."

MR. ISIDORE FURMANSKI died last Saturday morning. Mr. Furmanski was a Polander and settled in Monroe four years ago. Our relations have been of the kindliest nature and we always found him full of honor. He was a member of many charitable and co-operative societies, and stood high in all of them. The Knights of Pythias and the Knights of Honor bare the remains to the grave. Mr. Furmanski leaves a wife, and in her and bereavement she has the sympathy of of an entire community.—Monroe Bulletin, 10th.

THE champion bicycle rider of England is named Lees. On the 18th of August he rode 20 miles in 58 minutes 34 seconds, and, going on, covered 30½ miles 25 yards within the hour, thus surpassing record of the ex-amateur champion, H. L. Corris.

A French Adventurer.

The case of the Marquis de Rays and six other defendants, who have recently been tried before the French Courts for a series of gross frauds and murderings in connection with a scheme for colonizing Port Breton, is more like a romance than a page from actual contemporary history. The facts charged in the indictment are admitted by the accused, whose sole point of contest appears to be that the crimes alleged were perpetrated beyond French jurisdiction. Some time in 1877 the Marquis de Rays began to publish advertisements announcing that he had excellent land to sell at five francs the hectare in the Island of Port Breton, in the Archipelago of New Brittany, near New Caledonia. A newspaper, called La Nouvelle France, was started as the organ of the enterprise, and its columns teemed with descriptions of the Island as a terrestrial paradise, with a most delightful climate. The Marquis de Rays was a Royalist and a Catholic, and he appealed to the same elements in French society which gave that other bubble, the Union Generale, such enthusiastic support. He exhorted those who were tired of Republican rule and indignant because of the prohibitions of the Church to take refuge in this Island, where the happy condition of Old France would be reproduced in miniature. The facts are that the Marquis had bought of a King named Maragmo 7000 hectares of barren soil in consideration of presents of tobacco, cheap jewelry, a few hatchets and a costume of red velvet, the whole valued at $800. But the credulous French took to the enterprise, and in the course of three years land shares to the amount of $360,000 were sold by the Port Breton Company. The price of the hectare was gradually raised from 5 to 50 francs, and before the bubble burst the enterprising Marquis and his associates had sold 700,000 hectares or one hundred times as much as he had bought of the King Maragmo.

Other speculative enterprises speedily developed in connection with the central scheme. Six joint stock companies were formed "to develop the natural resources of Port Breton." Among them the Port Breton Distillery Company, the New France Mining Company and the Franco-Oceanian Commercial and Navigation Company, all of which found a ready market for their shares. The generous Marquis bestowed titles right and left. One man was created General and Commander-in-Chief, another Supreme Judge and a third President of the Colonial Council. The Catholic papers spoke highly of the Marquis and his projects, and the criticisms of Republican papers were regarded as prompted by political malignity. In 1878 the Marquis began preparations for colonization. He bought a sailing-vessel named the Chandernagor, manned her with a crew under an American Captain, hoisted over her the American flag, and shipped on board of her eighty-seven emigrants of various nationalities. The voyage was one of unmitigated wretchedness. The provisions were bad and the crew incompetent. Six of the emigrants died during the voyage. Fourteen, who were mutinous, were landed on a desert island and most of them perished. Four were captured and eaten by cannibals. Sixty-seven were landed at Port Breton, finding there a wretched climate and no means of subsistence. Within less than a year fifty-one of the emigrants died of want and disease. No news of these events reached France. On the contrary, great enthusiasm prevailed there and money poured in upon the company. Three more ships were sent out with emigrants, one with a party of twenty-five, one with 339, mostly Italians, and a third with eighty-one old soldiers who had been enlisted to form the nucleus of a colonial army. The same story of mutiny, suffering, wretchedness, privation and death was repeated, with few variations. Gradually the survivors made their way back to France, and their pitiful stories became known. The bubble collapsed, and the Marquis and the other managers were arrested. Without denying the facts, they demur to the jurisdiction of French Courts on the ground that they cannot be tried in France for offences committed in other parts of the world. This plea has been overruled by the Eighth Chamber of Correctional Police, and an appeal taken to a higher Court. Even if some of the crimes are ruled out, enough will be left that were unquestionably planned and completed on French soil to make the marquis and his associates suffer, though probably not as their crimes deserve.

The magnificent steamer John W. Cannon, Capt. Wm. Campbell master, will arrive up from New Orleans this afternoon. The Cannon is without a rival in point of beauty and finish, and runs like a real "she nuff" clipper steamboat ought to. The culinary department of this fine steamboat is in charge of a gentleman who thoroughly understands the art of catering to the public taste, and her table is supplied with everything that the famous Southern market affords. Her officers have fine reputations for ability and courtesy. For elegant accommodations this marvelous steamboat stands pre-eminent. Passengers for the lower coast landings will find the Cannon to be just the boat they are looking for. She leaves for New Orleans from the lower landing at 5 o'clock to-morrow evening.

CLIPPINGS.

New Orleans Picayune, Sept. 12: Owing to the low stage of the river above Vicksburg the Ed. Richardson will leave for Greenville to-morrow in place of the J. M. White.

New Orleans States, 11th: Some of our New Orleans merchants who had goods shipped for them on the steamer U. P. Schenck, on her last trip from Cincinnati, and stopped at Flint Island, are anxious to know what became of their goods, as they need them badly. It will be Capt. Laurence Carter give the information?

Memphis Ledger, 12th: Officers of the Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg, which passed down last evening, report finding a channel at Tiptonville outside the former one. Boats of late have been finding only 6½ to 7 feet, but the pilots of the Vicksburg found 8 feet, but the pilots of the Vicksburg found 8 feet in the new channel. At Cheek's Island they also report the channel with 9½ feet, higher up than boats have been running. The Vicksburg was drawing 8 feet 8 inches and came through these places without trouble.

The Way It Struck Her.

A little ragged orphan girl, who ne'er had had a home or known a parent's care, And who, with shoeless feet and hatless head,
Newspapers sold to earn her scanty bread,
Was taken from the city far away,
With others of her kind, one summer day.
To look upon the ocean. At the sight,
Her thin, sharp face was filled with grave delight;
And some one said, "I wonder what can be
Her thoughts, poor child, about this mighty sea."

She heard the words, and quickly turned her head,
And in glad tones, "I's thinkin' ma'am," she said,
"I's glad I's come, because I never see Enough of anything at wunst before."

North Carolina Politics.

The text of an address by Patrick H. Winston, a prominent Democratic leader of North Carolina, to the Democratic party, containing his reasons for joining the Republican party, has been received. It is creating a marked sensation throughout North Carolina, and undoubtedly will contribute much to the anti-Bourbon movement which is taking so firm a hold on the State. Mr. Winston is a native of North Carolina, and has long been a leader there. Republicans are hopeful that the address will do much to destroy the Bourbon Democracy of the State. Winston, in his address, takes the ground that the issues of the war and reconstruction are settled; that the Democratic party has violated its time-honored doctrine of State rights and home rule; that the methods of the Democratic party do not commend themselves to patriotic men; that the free trade tendencies of the Democracy are fatal to North Carolina, and that Democracy oppresses the laborer, is opposed to education and is hostile to the Union.

A Case for the Wisdom of Solomon.

Quite a contention was had before the Chancellor, last week, as to the custody of the children of Joe Gowen who died recently. The parties to the suit are colored, and both the litigants and witnesses reside in and about Durant. It seems that Joe and his wife were not living together, but that Joe had possession of their children, and when he was about to depart this life, he bequeathed the youngsters unto his friends Jordan Weatherby and wife, who had no children of their own. Gowen's widow felt that she had been left out in the cold, and therefore sued out a writ of habeas corpus in order to test the Weatherby's right to keep the babes.

There was quite an array of counsel and witnesses, and the trial became quite interesting. A big effort was made to prove that the mother was not a suitable person to have the children in charge, but the preponderance of the testimony was in the woman's favor, so that she went out of Court with a decree that she should take the children.—Lexington Bulletin.

Dead Man Found.

We have the information that an old white man of about 60 years of age, and supposed to be a Frenchman, was found dead about a quarter of a mile South of Lincoln Store, Thursday, the 6th inst. His head was resting upon a bundle consisting of a shirt, pair of drawers, and two masonic trowels, wrapped in a piece of old cloth. He had in his pocket ten cents in money, and two or three biscuit. The supposition is that he died of malarial fever. From another source we hear that, only a short while before he was thus found, the man had crossed the ferry at Tchula going onto the Island, and from this we infer that he laid down to rest, and died without a struggle.—Lexington Bulletin.

The New York Sun is of opinion the result in Ohio next month will not have any influence on the result next year. The meaning of what it says is that it believes Hoadley will be beaten.—Chumbus Times.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best possible medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 36 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sept

LOCAL ITEMS.

BISHOP JANSSENS was in the city yesterday.

MR. EGOTE, of Port Gibson, was in the city yesterday on business.

THE Vicksburg Rifles elected ten new members last night.

DR. RICE returned home this morning from a short visit to Brandon.

COMMODORE PARISOT arrived home this morning from a business trip to St. Louis.

THE long-continued drouth has caused a number of cisterns in the city to go dry.

MR. H. H. KAIN returned from Louisville and Cincinnati by this morning's train.

MR. S. M. SHELTON arrived by this morning's train from Virginia, where he has been spending a short vacation.

MR. GREEN, of Hazlehurst & Co., railroad contractors, came up from Port Gibson this morning.

MISS MARY BROOKE was a passenger home this morning from a visit to friends in Kosciusko, Miss.

MAJ. HAZLEHURST, who has been quite sick for several days, was on the streets this morning.

THE amusement season, it is expected, will be opened on the 28th or 29th by Barlow & Wilson's Minstrels.

THE work of graveling Clay street between Washington and Walnut streets will be completed to-day.

CAPT. H. L. GARDNER returned this morning from an inspection of the levees built by the Government in this District.

COL. THOMAS H. HUNT, of New Orleans, is in the city en route to his plantation at Glencoe, for which place he leaves this evening by the Issaquena.

CAPT. FRANK MERIGOLD is around with his friends to-day, having come in on the mail train. He reports the large sawmill erected in Bolivar county by Vicksburg capitalists as doing a good business.

THE sky became somewhat overcast yesterday, and people began to hope that we would be visited by a shower at last, but by morning all the indications of rain had passed away.

THE Vicksburg Building Association at their meeting last night offered $1,000 to loan, which was bid in by Mr. J. Piazza at 25 per cent. This Association is in a flourishing condition.

MR. TOM O'HARA and Maj. J. Thompson, railroad contractors who have been in the city for a couple of days looking after a contract on the L. N. O. & T. R. R., leave by rail to-night for Memphis.

gram from New Orleans, the steamer Edw. Richardson will leave there this evening for Greenville in place of the J. M. White. The White will come out in the Richardson's place next Tuesday.

HUGH R. HILLYER, a former Vicksburg boy, who is now with C. T. Worthington, at Leota, is in the city to-day on a visit to his relatives and friends. He returns by the Issaquena this evening.

THE case of Calvin Gibbs, a hackman, charged with driving over the fire hose, was continued in the City Court this morning until to-morrow. The Mayor says he intends to put a stop to this practice by fining every driver convicted of such offense.

MR. B. W. PENDERGAST, representing Messrs F. Audress & Co., dealers in art decorations, mural and textile fabrics, etc., arrived here this morning from Leota, where he has been decorating the residence of Mr. C. T. Worthington, at that place.

THE Anchor Line steamer City of Helena will be in this evening, and will get away as soon as discharged, for Greenville, Arkansas City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis. Capt. John T. McCord master, Geo. O. Walton clerk, Carroll B. Mount passenger agent.

MRS. J. E. BROOKE, of Vicksburg, relict of the late Hon. Walker Brooke, and for many years a resident of Lexington, has been spending a couple of weeks or more with her old friends here. She was accompanied by her youngest daughter, Miss Mary.—Lexington Bulletin.

THE City Assessor's books have been ready for some time for the Revising Committee of the City Council, but it is impossible, it seems, to get that body together. This matter should be attended to at once. An endeavor was made to hold meetings some time since, but Aldermen Halpin, Anderson and McCilloway were the only ones present.

MR EMANUEL SCHWARTZ, who has been spending the Summer in Europe, arrived home by this morning's train and will resume his position with Baer & Bro. Mr. Schwartz looks well after his trip across the ocean. While absent, Mr. Schwartz visited London, Paris, and other points of interest.

THE following are the arrivals by the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas road this morning: Capt. Greene, Capt. Gloster, John J. Ryan, L. Stowers, Rev. Noel Logan, Ed. Stowers, Mrs. Woods, and Miss Jeffie Weeks from Port Gibson and Miss McArthur from Big Black.

THE popular, fast and elegant steamer City of Vicksburg, is the next regular Anchor Line packet, leaving here at 11 o'clock Saturday morning for Greenville and all other important landings as high as St. Louis. Capt. Jas. O'Neil is in command, Wm. C. Blanker clerk, Carroll B. Mount passenger agent.

MAJ. R. H. GARRATT arrived home this morning from New York, where he has been on a business trip for the railroads he represents. The Major reports a large number of Vicksburg merchants in New York, who are making extensive purchases for the Fall and Winter stock. He also says that business in New York is very brisk, especially with the South. The roads represented by Mr. Garratt expect that their business this year will be double that of any previous season.

MESSRS. JOHN F. HALPIN, Alex. Kuhn, Geo. W. Hutcheson, and C. C. Willis, as a committee from the Cotton Exchange, held a conference with Capt. E. C. Carroll yesterday. The object of the conference was to arrange wharfage and elevator charges on cotton. The meeting of the committee and Capt. Carroll resulted in the latter gentleman reducing the rates from 20 to 10 cents per bale for receiving cotton on the Citizens' Wharfboat and elevating it to the bank by the P. Line Elevator. The above rates will be satisfactory to everyone.

THE following delegates and alternates to the Democratic County Convention have been appointed by Mr. John C. Kearney, Chairman of the Second Ward Democratic Club, to represent that Club at the Convention next Saturday: Delegates—Jno. C. Kearney, D. A. Campbell, M. Wolf, T. E. Hayes, A. J. Katzemier, W. O. Worrell, J. M. Brennan, Jno. F. Halpin, Julius M. Klein, Prentiss Lewis. Alternates—Geo. W. Rodgers, E. A. Forbes, Laz Hirsch, Jno. A. McElevy, Chas. Kette, R. J. Murch, H. C. David, T. E. Mount, J. P. Roach, G. W. Yoste. Mr. Kearney desires us to state that any one whose name appears on the above list, who cannot serve, will please notify him at once so that he can appoint some one to act in their stead.

Oyster Parlor.

Bloomerstell, the Confectioner will open his Oyster Parlor, on next Saturday and will be ready to serve the public with Oysters in all styles. Bloomerstell's Parlor is nicely fitted up, and ladies desiring an oyster lunch will find it an excellent place to drop in while shopping. se13-3t

"My Kingdom for a Horse."

The Board of Delegates of the Fire Department at their meeting last night, passed a resolution asking the City Council to purchase a horse for the Chief Engineer. Now if the Council will purchase a horse for that purpose, why let it be a good one by all means. Let them get a racer. P. Line is the horse they need, for if it is necessary for the Chief to ride to a fire he should ride fast, and P. Line is the fastest horse in this neck of the woods.

A gentleman of this city suggests that they buy a bycicle or a cyclone. Since we come to think of it, a cyclone is faster than a race-horse. Therefore let it be a cyclone.

Commencing, Saturday, the 15th, the GARDEN SALOON will keep Fresh Oysters which will be served at all hours and in all styles. se13-3t

Beck's New Cigar.

W. E. Beck, the progressive and live wholesale liquor and tobacco dealer, has a new brand of cigars that are of a local nature. The name of the new brand is "Our Tug Joe Seay." In his window he has a large colored lithograph of two tugs racing, representing the race between the tugs Joe Seay and Lizzie Frank, on August 14th, with the boat in front bearing the name Joe Seay.

The lithograph is elegantly framed and on the sides are printed "Our Tug, Joe Seay," with a date of the race. All of Mr. Beck's cigars bear original brands, but this one is of local interest hereabout. He will distribute framed copies of the picture to dealers who handle the Joe Seay cigars. The cigar is an excellent one. The handsomely framed picture as placed in the brilliantly lighted window last night, attracted attention from all passers by.

Fine Specimens of Mississippi Wood

Mr. S. Tracy, of the V. & M. Railroad Shops, has just finished joining together specimens of native woods which were taken from the forests along the Railroad. The collection comprises specimens of dogwood, yellow curly pine, boxwood, red gum, oak, walnut, white holly, ash, magnolia, poplar and osage orange. The pieces of wood were joined together in the neatest manner possible, and put into a frame 1 by 3 feet made of yellow pine The whole work received a very high polish at the hands of Mr. Geo. Booth, and will make a splendid show at the Cincinnati Exposition whither it is to be sent by Mr. Browne, Master Mechanic of the shops. The different woods are labeled with tiny tickets bearing the name of the specimen. The tickets were painted by Mr. Gustav Stubbe.

Go to the GARDEN SALOON for Fresh Oysters, nicely served in all styles and at all hours. se13-3t

Laid to Rest.

All that was mortal of the late Miss Mary Martin was laid to rest this morning in the City Cemetery. Her funeral proceeded from her late residence to the Catholic Church, where a requiem mass was held. The funeral was very large, testifying the esteem in which this good woman was held by our citizens. Thus has passed away one of Vicksburg's old residents, an honored and respected lady, a friend to the orphan—one whose good deeds will live after her. Many lives have been made brighter by her generosity and many a tear was shed at the announcement of her death.

Railroad Notes.

A meeting will be held in this city next Saturday, of the stockholders of the Mississippi Valley & Ship Island Railroad, the Mississippi Valley Railroad and the Memphis & Vicksburg Road. The object of the meeting is to change the name of the roads named above to Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad, and effect a consolidation of the same. The line of road has been laid from New Orleans to a point within three miles of Baton Rouge, and eighteen miles from Memphis. Work on both ends of the road is progressing very rapidly under the present admirable management, and it will not be many months before a continuous and direct line of road will be opened between this city and Baton Rouge, Memphis and New Orleans. Tracklaying is going on beyond Port Gibson.

Engine No. 21, of the V. & M. R. R., which was wrecked a few days ago, will be brought into the shops of the road at this city to-day.

Fresh Oysters in all styles will be served at the GARDEN SALOON on and after the 15th inst. se13-3t

The Next James Trial.

GALLATIN, Mo., Sept. 12.—The excitement caused by the result of the James trial has not yet subsided, although there are no longer any demonstrations. The town has been entirely abandoned by the strangers who filled it during the past three weeks. The cost of the recent trial will amount to nearly $10,000, but the Westfall case, which will be a duplicate of the McMellan case against the defendant, will cost nearly that figure. There is no complaint whatever at the expenditure, but there is talk of a movement to have the next jury summoned by the Coroner instead of the Sheriff. If popular sentiment goes for anything, it is safe to say that the difficulty in securing an unprejudiced jury at the next trial will be ten-fold greater than it was at the last. It has been almost settled, in fact, that the defense will ask for a change of venue when the next trial is called on the ground that justice could not be secured in this county. Meanwhile an application for the release of the defendant on bail will be made.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 14, 1883

PRIVATE letters indicate that Judge Hoadly's health is not seriously impaired. He is sanguine of success in his race for Governor of Ohio.

WHAT has become of the fellows in these parts that were shouting "down with Sam Randall" a few months ago. They are singing very low just now.

SENATOR LAMAR will deliver a speech at Hernando in a few days. He will discuss politics. A general desire prevails in North Mississippi to hear him.—Columbus Index.

IT has been suggested that many of the "patent outside" Mississippi editors who have been feasting and enjoying themselves on the North and West, will now need a reverse patent.

THE Democratic revolt in Hamilton county, Ohio, takes the form of an entire new county ticket, bearing the reform label and starting with the pledged support of 6,000 Democrats.

IT takes Mr. Carlisle a long time to make up his mind in regard to how he stands on the important question of improving the Mississipi river. It should not take Mississippi Valley Congressmen long to make up their minds to give as hearty a support to Sam Randall for Speaker as that gentleman has always given to their interests.

THE proposition for a Constitutional Convention in Kentucky has been defeated by the neglect of the required majority of voters to vote upon it. Twenty-two counties either failed to make any report of the result, or made them so bunglingly that they could not be understood.

THE tariff don't hurt us much and river improvement helps us a great deal. Randall is a tariff and river improvement man; Carlisle is neither. As a matter of fact, the members of Congress from this section should have no difficulty in choosing between them. We are glad to believe that Randall will be supported by Mississippi and Louisiana Congressmen who will not swap the material interests of their people for a little "tariff for revenue only" talk. Down here we want some tariff for river improvement.

GOV. CHAS. FOSTER, of Ohio, arrived at Washington a few days since. He says that there is not the slightest question about the result of the election of Foraker by a handsome majority. The Republican party throughout the State is in perfect harmony and success is certain. Besides electing the Governor, he is confident that the political complexion of the next Legislature will be such as to assure a Republican successor to Senator Pendleton. The Democratic party, he says, is in a condition similar to that of the Republican party last year, split into factions with no possibility of healing its differences.

THE Mississippi editors visiting Cincinnati the past few days, were dined at the Burnet House last Tuesday by Col. Scott, President of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Pacific railroad and Erlanger system. The dinner was an elegant affair. Col. Scott was unable to be present himself, but was ably represented by E. P. Wilson, general superintendent of the road. He welcomed them in a neat address. After partaking of the dinner the editors passed resolutions commendatory of Col. Scott and his railroads. It was also made the occasion of presenting to Mr. F. C. Morehead a gold-headed cane, by the Mississippi editors, in token of their appreciation of his efforts in getting up the excursion and making it agreeable.

Sanitary Drainage.

The influence of subsoil drainage on the general health of the people, and especially in removing or mitigating fever and ague in malarious regions, has been quite as marked in the case of drainage works carried out in country districts for purely agricultural reasons. The result of such drainage in England, in districts which were formerly extremely malarious, has been most important and lasting, and it is now the accepted belief on all sides that the sovereign remedy for fever and ague is the complete drainage of all moist lands in the neighborhood.

CIGAR boxes were then handed round by fat Democrats, headed by Bre'r Jackson, who shouted out: "I've made de holes in de boxes big enough for trade dollars. Now, John, go up ter dat gentlem in de house and get his dollar; look right in his eye and don't yah leave him till he pays up."

Fine Cattle in Mississippi.

A contemporary suggests that scarcely a man, old or young, ever hears of a notable thing done but he thinks to himself, "I could have done that." It is either want of opportunity or absence of thought in that particular direction, and the latter is by far more frequent than the former. A genius—or what is precisely the same thing, a successful man—makes his own opportunities. He gives his mind to his special idea, cultivates it, perfects it, and finds a place for it at once. It is precisely thus with regard to the improvement of our live stock. It will not do to despise popularity. There is always something back of success in everything; and it is wholly wrong to think that the men who have paid thousands of dollars for the Short Horns and Jerseys were fools with whom their money was soon parted. In the vicinity of Vicksburg we are fortunate in having a man of this kind. We allude to Dr. W. E. Oates. Several years ago he began taking an interest in Jersey cattle, and invested quite largely in a small number of those celebrated animals. By additional purchases and natural increase, he has now one of the finest and most noted herds in the South. Though not so great in number, we doubt if any one else possesses finer or more select, or better specimens of the Jersey breed. The Doctor was laughed at and ridiculed when he began his enterprise, but it is a great satisfaction to know that he has been imminently successful, and his investments have turned out to be both pleasant and profitable. The Doctor may be an enthusiast in acquiring fine stock, but his enthusiasm cannot but benefit this section.

As an evidence of Dr. Oates's determination to get the best and most celebrated animals that money will buy, we will mention that there has just arrived for him on the steamer Cannon, from New Orleans, one of the finest and most valuable Jersey bulls in the United States. This animal is "Prince of Melrose" No. 4819. After overcoming numerous difficulties, and by the exercise of a great deal of perseverance and the outlay of considerable money, the Doctor captured this animal in south Louisiana several days since. The reputation and value of "Prince of Melrose" is greatly enhanced by the fact that he is a full brother to the wonderful cow "Mary Anne of St. Lamberts" now owned in the province of Ontario. This cow has a record of 311 lbs. 13 oz. of butter in 93 consecutive days. Mississippi stock breeders have reason to congratulate themselves that one of our enterprising citizens has brought such a desirable and noted animal to this section.

A late number of the Stock Breeders Gazette, published at Chicago, has this to say in reference to the wonderful cow, "Mary Anne of St. Lamberts:"

"A cow that has produced 311 lbs. 13 oz. of butter, ready for market, in ninety-three consecutive days, ought to interest breeders of all classes of cattle; and in order that our readers may have an opportunity of seeing this remarkable animal as she appears at Oaklands, we present herewith an illustration which is probably true to life. Mr. Fuller is to be congratulated on the possession of an animal of such superlative capabilities, and Jersey breeders at large should feel that through her performances the breed is acquiring a still stronger position than it had ever before attained in the eyes of all interested in butter production."

Female Education at the State University.

Editor of the Brookhaven Leader:

In compliance with your request toward the close of the last session, I give you a few lines on female education at the State University. When this idea was first mentioned at a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the University, about four years ago, some of the members chuckled over it as merely a joke. Two years later it was referred to a committee who, after mature consideration, reported favorably. The Board then adopted the system as it now stands—females admitted to all the privileges and fees of students of the males. It has been my privilege to watch daily the effect of this so-called experiment for the first year of its trial. Its success has been gratifying to all concerned. Its influence on the young men is beyond question, stimulating and elevating. The dozen females who attended were, in point of intellect, above the average of their sex, having come from the first families in the State. As a class they surpassed the males in their advancement, and have, in a large measure established public sentiment in favor of that system. It is thought the numbers in attendance will be trebled next session.

I will close by begging that you will pardon my long delay in responding to your inquries.

J. G. CHASTAIN.

MT. CARMEL, Miss., Sept. 1, 1883.

THE unfortunate comparison of assessments in the gulf States by the Times-Democrat, in which we referred in our last, and which does the grossest injustice to Mississippi, appeared in the first of September issue of that paper. That issue was a special one, was a great deal larger than the regular issues of the Times-Democrat, and has gone to every part of this as well as other countries. Correction would scarcely reach all the readers of that special issue. But still the Times-Democrat owes it to the people of this State to make what amends it can. This it can do by obtaining from the Auditor of this State full returns of the two years, 1879-80, and giving them as much prominence as it can.—Columbus Index.

FORMING a syndicate to publish a paper in the interest of the anti-Amend-Republican Fusion ticket is all right, but forming a syndicate to start a beer saloon in connection is all wrong.—Brookhaven Leader.

Mob-law in Hinds.

Hinds county now comes in for its share of lawlessness. One night last week two negroes who were yet in that state of ignorance and superstition which has faith in conjuration, conceived the idea of digging up a grave at Auburn, in the above named county, to supply themselves with "human conjure bones." They had no design on any particular grave, it seems, but, as it happened, struck upon that of Mrs. Hattie Howell, a lady who had been buried about two years, and from her remains they supplied themselves with the particular bones desired. The grave robbery was soon discovered, the negroes tracked up, captured and confessed their crime, (the extreme penalty of which, we will remark by the way, is fixed in Campbell's Code at 5 years imprisonment in the penitentiary). It happened that the deceased lady had some hot-blooded relatives, and now we come to

THE COMPOUNDING OF LAWLESSNESS AND CRIME.

These men wanted to shoot the negroes on sight, but "wiser" counsel prevailed. Col. Calvin Wells, a big lawyer of Raymond, a leading and influential citizen of Hinds county, and not long since, if our memory does not fail us, a prominent member of the County Democratic Executive Committee, told the hot-blooded young men aforesaid this would never do. Said, he "if you do this, you lay yourselves liable and the law will get hold of you, sure. Just wait till the negroes undergo a preliminary trial, are sentenced and started to jail at Raymond, and then you can have a mob of young fellows ready to overawe the guard, and on the way the prisoners can be 'lost' or allowed to 'escape,' and the law will never touch you." He illustrated the truth of what he said by a war anecdote, his advice was adopted, and the sequence was, one of the negroes was hung by the mob raised, and the other riddled with bullets trying to make his escape after he saw what was coming.

We have been told the above by one of a party of gentlemen to whom Col. Wells related his shameful connection with this infamous affair with as much gusto as if it were something of which to feel proud. As Col. Wells is a lawyer and a man of intelligence, he will at once realize upon reflection how far he is legally and morally responsible for the blood of these helpless prisoners, one of whom was in his seventies, with hair of almost snowy whiteness.

We desire to call Judge Wharton's attention to these statements, so that if there is any disposition to enforce the civil law in Hinds against lynch-law murderers, he can instruct the next grand jury with whom to begin.

A few nights after the above affair, some young men followed a negro who had already been punished according to law at Utica for a minor offense and was leaving the town, dragged him from the cars at Adams Station, and proceeded to repunish him according to a law of their own. Our informant does not state whether Col. Wells counseled this or not, but it is fair to presume he would have done so.

What shall we say of the observance of law in Mississippi when this condition of affairs exists in her "empire" county, the hub of the State, the home of the Governor, Circuit Judge, State officers, a half dozen newspapers, and other moral influences? Hinds, the land of fusion and pure delight, which should be as a city set upon a hill?

It seems to us it is getting about time Governor Lowry were exercising the power vested in him to put a check on mob law. Not many immigrants will rush to Mississippi until better protection is offered to life and liberty than they now see.—Brookhaven Leader.

Bad Prospects for Southern Crops.

The report of the Department of Agriculture for September presents a very unfavorable showing for the cotton crop. The protracted drouth which has prevailed in nearly every Southern State has parched the fields, stinted the growth of the plant, and reduced the condition to about the level of the short crop year of 1881.

While the condition of the crop was reported at 92 (or within 8 points of a good average), it is now only 75. The last crop turned out 6,949,756 bales. The preceding year it was 5,456,048. The conditions at present are scarcely better than when the latter crop was made, though the acreage is somewhat larger. The bottom lands are, perhaps, worse off than then.

Estimates have therefore fallen lately to 6,000,000 bales, and the tendency is lower. The corn crop has also been greatly curtailed in many sections, and but for the surplus carried over from last season, many of the planters who have been trying to be self-sustaining would be compelled to buy supplies this year.

In Texas the drouth has scarcely ever been equaled in severity, and the condition of the crop there is put down as low as 67, and it is still on the decrease.

The yield of cotton is also quite low. Current rates are 2½c. per lb. cheaper than last year, and the state of trade does not justify sanguine views as to future values. Last year's crop left a large surplus over and above the wants of manufacturers. The requirements of the world are not sufficient to absorb at good prices over a 6,000,000 bale American crop, and another crop approaching 7,000,000 would have placed the South at the mercy of buyers. The reduction in the yield this season is therefore not wholly an unmixed evil. We do not look, however, for full compensation for the loss in yield in the market rates, owing to the condition of the cotton goods trade and the surplus left over from last season, which spinners now have available to use against efforts to advance prices.

The business outlook in the cotton belt is, therefore, not bright by any means, and trade is not likely to be prosperous the coming season. Planters as a rule are perhaps better off in many sections than they were at the date of the last short crop, because they have been forced to be more self-sustaining, and will get through all right, but in some sections where the crops have almost entirely failed there will be considerable destitution.

In the Louisiana sugar districts the drouth has been equally disastrous to the sugar planters. The rainfall has been so deficient that the plants are stunted and there is nothing like the prospects of last year. The crop last year was an excellent one, both seed and stalks, but the rains during the grinding season were very propitious and we should have exceptionable weather through out the fall, the crop is likely to be a small one.—N. O. Picayune.

Particulars of the Collision.

The regular freight train going East on Tuesday evening, collided with an extra train going West, about four miles west of Brandon, literally demolishing both engines, and ten or twelve freight cars, but fortunately injured no one seriously. The freight going East, with Jas. Ramsey as conductor, was exactly on time, and running at twenty miles per hour. The extra train, going west, with Ed Gibson as conductor, was 14 minutes behind, and was running at the rate of 40 miles per hour, in order to reach Greens Switch in time. There was a curve in the road, and the trains were in a short distance of each other before they were aware of it. There were several passengers on the regular freight all of whom jumped off except a colored woman, the wife of Jack Finch, of this place. She had her knee cap knocked out of place, but the balance escaped with a few scratches. The conductors, engineers, fireman and brakemen of both trains jumped off in time to save themselves. The blame all appears to attach to Gibson, the conductor of the extra train, and he lays the blame on his watch. —Brandon Republican.

LORD COLERIDGE does not escape the penalty of being a distinguished visitor to this country. He has already experienced the American system of being interviewed, and takes it all good-naturedly. Once he was rather annoyed. An enterprising reporter wanted him to decide the momentous question as to "whether the officials at the Trenton Penitentiary, New Jersey, could be held liable for removing the queues from the heads of the five Bhinaman who were recently imprisoned there."

THE late Judge Black is said to have received the largest fee ever paid to a lawyer for success in a suit. He defended the New Almaden Quicksilver Company of California in a suit in the United States Supreme Court, the opposing counsel being Reverdy Johnson, Charles O'Conor and Judah P. Benjamin. His fee was said at the time to have been $250,000. This is believed to be an exaggeration.

MR. J. A. RHODES, traveling agent for the Mercury, returned from Neshoba county Wednesday. He reports the crops in that county an entire failure. He saw whole fields of corn that would not make a bushel, and it will take twenty acres to make a bale of cotton.—Meridian Mercury, 14th.

CLIPPINGS.

Cincinnati Times-Star Sept. 13: The first departure for New Orleans in three weeks was that of the Mabel Comeaux last night. She is not a large boat, but what there is of her is the substantial and elegant combination. Capt. E. J. Comeaux was busy closing up the little financial matters incident to the completion of a new steamer, but he found time to receive his friends in his accustomed cordial way, and took considerable pride in explaining the improvements introduced on board. The Comeaux is 145 feet long, 30 feet beam and 6 feet depth of hold. She has two boilers, each 24 feet long and 40 inches in diameter. Her cylinders are 14 inches in diameter and 4½ feet stroke. She has cotton guards and a capacity of about 1,500 bales. Her passenger accommodations are complete for forty stateroom passengers. Every room was full on leaving last night. Chas. and Jas. Nichols went away in charge of her wheel, and pilots Wm. Attenboro and Chas. Shields went along to look at the river. Captain Alex. Terry was the builder, the work being superintended by Captain Wm. Wentzel.

New Orleans States: Sargeon General Hamilton, of the Marine Hospital Service, is after the pilots with a sharp stick. He says that besides that of color blindness, he is going to have them tested for short-sightedness, and actually believes some of them are crossed-eyed, and others only one eye, and what more we will learn in the near future.

Memphis Ledger, 13th: There is to be a meeting of the Colonial on Saturday next of all the officers and owners of boats in the Southern Transportation Line. * * * There are several bad places in the river below here and 8 feet of water is required over the shoalest bar. With low water and the river filled with snags, navigation is surely hazardous. * * * An immense quantity of New Orleans freight is reported along the lower Ohio river, the wharfboats and warehouses being blocked at every landing. The Southern Transportation and Memphis lines, when they found the river too low for their boats to run, should have accommodated the people by chartering very light draft boats and run through freight out to Cairo, where it could have been reshipped. The Anchor line is under good management, and always provides boats for my stage of water.

THEY do injustice to other countries who attribute to Ireland a monopoly of all the good "bulls." THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 35 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

Paxton, J. Stilenker, H. Denio, Alex. Kuhn, M. Gomes, H. Schuler; Sumner Demarchi, H. H. Bingham, Ed. Rapp, W. L. Trowbridge.

The Post Sued for Libel.

THE POST, like all great newspapers, has a libel suit. We have long yearned for such a necessity to a first-class journal, and now our cravings have been satisfied and if we seem a little proud when we meet our friends let them attribute it to the fact that we are defendants in a libel suit and not that our success has turned our head The party whose fair name has been injured by THE POST is one Ed. Marble, a piece of colored stone, to whom THE POST referred as a chicken thief who escaped from the chain-gang. It seems at the time he escaped, Ed. was not up for stealing chickens, but on some other charge. Ed feels that his reputation has been injured to the extent of $150. Now just think of it! Only $150 for a man who has a reputation to be injured. This is too small a price for such a jewel as a man's character and reputation. A reputation and character that is worth only $150 can't be much of a reputation.

We presume that one time Mr. Marble had a reputation of unlimited value, but after the following charges were preferred against that noble specimen of colored honor and respectability, his reputation lost a little of its ancient value. We copy the following from ex-Justice Cooley Mann's docket:

VICKSBURG has a distinguished son, Col. John Walsh, a prosperous disciple of St. Crispin, whom she delights to honor. Being about to depart for the Boston Exposition, to which Gov. Lowry had appointed him State Commissioner, the papers give a glowing description of the demonstration of his fellow-citizens on the occasion of his leaving. Most of the prominent people were there to have a tear with the eminent son who was going so far away, and some could not utter the parting word until they reached Jackson. We learn that the people of Vicksburg have leased all telegraph lines to Boston and put on telephones, so that Col. Walsh's gentle voice can daily reach the distressed fellow-citizens he leaves behind him.—Meridian Observer.

The Road to Kleinston.

The statement published in the morning paper that Mr. Thomas Rigby had refused the right of way through his property for the road to Kleinston, is incorrect and an injustice to that gentleman. Mr. Rigby is absent from the city, and Mr. Geo. M. Klein, his agent, did not feel at liberty to make terms with the gentlemen building the road, without first consulting Mr. Rigby. This of course prevented the promoters of this road from building it at present, as they do not care to make an outlay of several thousand dollars until the undisputed right of way is obtained.

Mr. Rigby will be written to in regard to the matter, and it is believed satisfactory terms can be arranged with him for the right of way through his property. Then the work will be prosecuted to a final completion. Instead of being abandoned as stated, the work is only in abeyance at present.

Too much depends upon the completion of this road to the lower landing for it to be abandoned, and we feel sure that the gentlemen interested will not let it fall through, even though Mr. Rigby's consent for right of way is not obtained. However, there is little doubt of this. Those who would keep the city down are not in the majority as stated in the morning paper. On every hand can be seen evidence to the contrary, in the way of new buildings, new enterprises and increased business. It is the other kind that are in the majority, and they are not increasing in number either, much to the advantage of Vicksburg.

To Bridge Contractors.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF Warren County, Mississippi, will let out contracts for repairing Willow Bayou bridge, West of United States Cemetery; the building of a bridge over Big Bayou, 4 miles from Vicksburg, on Baldwin Ferry road; and the building of a Bridge over Big Cave, near D. Harris' on Benton road. Plans, etc., of work can be seen at Clerk's Office, or on application to the members of those districts. The work will be let out at public outcry on the ground, to the lowest bidder, at cash prices, to be paid out of special levy; the Willow Bayou bridge, by Will McGee, Esq., member of Second District, on Tuesday, 25th of September, 1883; the Baldwin Ferry road, 4 mile bridge, by H. M. Goff, Esq., of Fourth District, on Friday, 28th of September, 1883; and the Benton road bridge, near Dick Harris,' by H. R. Jones, Esq., of Fifth District, on Saturday, 29th of September, 1883. Each of these gentlemen will explain their works and will require bond and security to be given the Board for the faithful performance of each contract.

Suppressing Obscene Literature in Georgia.

ATLANTA, Sept. 14.—W. Montross, of the New York Police Gazette, was to-day convicted of distributing obscene pictorial newspapers and sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and to serve one year on the chain gang. Several weeks ago Montross, came here by order of R. K. Fox, proprietor of the paper named, to make a test case under the law passed in 1878. Mr. Fox is here and the trial excites much interest. The presiding Judge stated that he would impose the full penalty because the defendant was seeking to get a foot-hold for a paper which has been suppressed for five years. The case will be carried to the Supreme Court.

O'Donnell Arrives at Madeira.

MADEIRA, Sept. 14.—The South African steamer, with O'Donnell, the slayer of of James Carey, on board, arrived here yesterday.

O'Donnel is in charge of two colonial detectives. His manner is quiet and reserved, and there is no sign that he feels any anxiety for the future. A Central News correspondent, who was permitted to go on board and converse with O'Donnell, found him calmly smoking his pipe, and apparently enjoying such comforts as are permitted him.

He said that he was utterly indifferent as to the result of the trial. He, however, was perfectly sure that he would not be hanged.

ARCTIC PERILS.

Graphic Accounts of the Loss of the Proteus.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept 14.—The first officer of the Proteus briefly summarizes the ill-fated Proteus expedition as follows: The Yantic and Proteus left St. Johns at 4 p.m., June 29th. The Proteus arrived in Godhaven Bay, Disco Island, July 6; the Yantic at the same place on the 12th. Necessary preparations were made, and the Proteus sailed for Cory Island, arriving on the 16th. Left on the 21st, and two days afterwards was crushed, sinking at 7 p.m., July 23. Twenty-nine days were spent in boats. Several storms were encountered, from which the boats took refuge under lee of the icebergs.

The Yantic reached Cory Island Aug. 2. The same night she proceeded to Pandora Harbor, where the result from Pike and Garlington was found. She next proceeded south along the Greenland coast, sending boats all round the island in search of the missing crew. A storm and heavy pack of ice on August 9th forced the Yantic to anchor to the leeward of Number and Island. The next day she bore away for Upernavik, arriving there August 22d. On the 29th she started for Waigate coal mine and returned to Upernavik September 2d, Capt. Pike and crew were found and taken on board the Yantic.

It seems the first intimation of the Proteus' disaster was found August 3d at Littleton left a record there, coming southward, the shipwreck and indicating the general movement of Capt. Pike and the ship's company.

On the 4th search was instituted along the Greenland coast from Cape Alexander to Cape Roberts, on every point likely to bring up with the retreating party; searched till Sept. 2, when Upernavik was reached, and the whole Proteus party found in good health and tolerable spirits. They were exposed during thirty-one days and nights in their boats, making some stoppages at intermediate harbors.

The Proteus was crushed in a floe of ice at three o'clock on the evening of the 23d of July, and sank within four hours as the closed floe parted company. Fortunately sufficient time was given to save the clothing, provisions, compass and other necessaries to meet what might prove a protracted voyage.

On the 25th, the boats being equipped, provisioned and manned, the start was made. The scene of the disaster was 8 miles north-northwest of Cape Sabine, lat 70° 51' north. Over 600 miles of ice and frigid sea were passed before Upernavik was reached.

The worst feature in the unfortunate Proteus expedition is that no provisions were landed or caches made, and all the stores intended for the Arctic colony's relief went down in the steamer.

While at anchor in Danish Harbor on the 12th of August, Governor Elburg came on board the Yantic and reported the Danish steamer Sophia had arrived there from the harbor, thirty miles north of Cape York, and the captain stated a native Esquimaux had told him that two natives had arrived on sledges last winter, and reported all well except Dr. Payer, who had died.

These natives went back to Lady Franklin Bay. Another Esquimaux arriving from Greely camp reported all the officers murdered by the men. Neither of these reports is reliable, as the fondness of the Esquimaux for lying and sensationalism places them in the category of fiction.

Capt. Sinke says that as far north as Cape Sabine there was no trace of Greely or his party, and his failure to come south to Littleton Island to meet the relief steamer this Summer leaves grave apprehension as to their probable fate.

The Proteus was retreating home when the ice rip overwhelmed her. She got barely fifteen miles north of the scene of shipwreck.

The prospects of the Greely colony encountering the rigors of a fourth Winter beneath the Arctic Circle are mournful to contemplate. The crews of both ships, the Yantic and Proteus, are in excellent health. One death only occurred during the expedition—that of Henry Wilson, gunner's-mate of the Yantic, of appoplexy.

CAPITOL AND LABOR.

The Testimony of John C. Calhoun Before the Senate Committee—A Planter's Views on Negro Labor, etc.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina, grandson of the famous statesman of that name, and who is now a resident of Arkansas, was a witness before the Senate Committee on Labor yesterday morning. He was called to testify in regard to the condition and prospects of labor in the South.

He stated that since 1869, he had been engaged in cotton raising in Arkansas, and had abundant opportunities of observing the condition of labor in the South. The laborers in the Mississippi Valley are entirely agricultural. Few white men are employed, as they soon become either land owners or tenants. The condition of the negroes was good, as compated with a few years ago. There were three methods of employing laborers—for wages, working on shares and as tenants. Large farmers, besides furnishing laborers with shelter, fuel and other advantages, divide the gross proceeds of the crop among their employees. Under this system thrifty and industrious laborers ought soon to become land owners; but the negroes are so indolent that they fail to take advantage of the opportunities offered them, and will only devote such of their time to work as will enable them to procure the necessities of life. Under the present existing system the best land in the country can be obtained for eight to ten dollars an acre, and with the rental of as many privileges on his own farm.

Witness employed all these methods of employing labor, but preferred the tenant system. It was his object to raise the standard of colored labor to that of the small white farmer. This could only be done gradually on account of the extreme proverty of the negroes.

A large portion of the cotton crop is now raised by small farmers, and the number of these are increasing every yerr. The relations between the planters and employes is friendly and harmonious, and there is little danger of strikes. The laborers felt they had interests in the soil and a strike would be as injurious to them as to the employers.

There was a much greater tendency to a conflict between the races than between labor and capital. The best interests of the laborers of the South would be subserved by the establishment of industrial schools and by a total elimination from Federal politics of the so-called negro question, and by leaving its solution to time, and a reduction of taxation. For many years the negroes regarded themselves as the wards of the Federal Government, and it were well for them to understand that they have nothing more to expect from the Federal Government than the white man, and that like him their future depends upon their own energy and industry.

Nothing, probably, would contribute so immediately to their prosperity as a reduction of the tariff. The witness thought the South offered the greatest inducements to immigration. The race feeling was dying out, and if the South was left to itself there was no more danger to be feared from it. Capital could then find secure investment.

In politics the negro vote was by no means as solid for the Republican ticket as so many in the North supposed, but there was a split between the two parties, a large proportion voting with the planters, their employers, not from coercion but by preference.

Witness advocated Government control of the improvement of the Mississippi. In regard to education, he suggested that the former cotton tax of $70,000,000 should be appropriated to the education of the negro in the South. As to the rest of States, they could take care of their colored citizens. And he recommended that the settlement of all difficulties be left to time.

WARREN COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

Meeting of the County Convention—Geo. M. Klein Elected Chairman—Committee on Resolutions.

The Convention Resolves Not to Make Nominations.

Mr. W. L. Trowbridge, Chairman of the Executive Committee, called the Convention to order, in the Court-house, at 12:15 to-day.

Not a full Convention was present, but there was a goodly crowd of delegates from every Beat in the county and Ward in the city.

On motion of Mr. Alex. Kuhn Mr. G. M. Klein was elected Chairman.

Mr. Wm. E. Gibson was elected Secretary.

J. J. Hays, A. M. Paxton, H. M. Goff, M. Wolf, Messrs. Williamson and Billingsley were appointed a Committee on Credentials. The said Committee was then allowed 15 minuets to return their report. A recess was then taken.

After the recess Secretary Gibson read the report of the Committee on credentials and called the roll of the Convention.

The report of the Committee on credentials was adopted.

The Chairman then suggested that the Committee on resolutions be appointed from each beat.

On motion of Judge Brien, one member of the Committee was appointed from each Ward, and one from each Supervisors District.

The following gentlemen were then appointed by the Chairman as a Committee on resolutions:

H. Denio, First Ward; E. A. Forbes, Second Ward; Murray F. Smith, Third Ward; John Aiken, Fourth Ward; H. C. McCabe, City at large; R. V. Booth, Second District; A. D. Stanford, Third District; A. W. Brien, Fourth District; J. W. Harris, Fifth District. Judge Brien was appointed Chairman of the Committee by the Chair.

The Committee then went into Session to draw up proper resolutions.

At the request of Chairman A. W Brien, Mr. R. V. Booth read the following report of the Committee on Resolutions:

Having perfect confidence in the good sense and judgment of the masses of the people of Warren County; therefore be it

Resolved, by the Democratic party of Warren county in Convention assembled, that while we affirm the well-known principles of the Democratic party as enunciated in its various State and National Platforms, yet we think that under existing circumstances nominations for the various offices to be filled in the county elections are inexpedient."

A motion was made to table the report, which was lost by acclamation.

The ayes and nays were then called on it, with the following result: To table report; ayes 9, nays 29.

Considerable discussion was here indulged in, and the Convention was treated to a speech by Mr. John H Kearney, who advocated tabling the report.

Mr. D. A. Campbell then offered as a substitute for the report of the Committee on Resolutions, a resolution to nominate candidates for every county office except those of Sheriff and Treasure.

Mr. Kearney in a lengthy speech said he was in favor of adjourning the Convention to see what the Republican Convention intended doing.

The question was then put as to whether the report of the Committee on Resolutions be adopted or not. The vote stood: ayes 29, nays 7.

The Convention then adjourned.

New Jersey Democrats.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—The democratic state convention assembled here at noon, yesterday and organized by the election of George O. Vanderbilt as permanent chairman. Lyman Abbott was nominated for governor on the second ballot amid great confusion. The Albright men jumped on their seats, cursed the nomination and declared they would bolt. A motion to make the nomination unanimous was howled down and with out adjournment the delegates dispersed. The final vote, according to the secretary's count, showed 333 votes for Abbott, or 14 more than was necessary to a choice. Great dissatisfaction is expressed by many delegates to-night, and there are those who talk of a bolt.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 15, 1883

ORDERS have been issued by the Mississippi State Board of Health to discontinue the quarantine station at Fort Adams on the 15 inst.

THE quarreling and bitter fights among the Cincinnati Democratic politicians and new-papers must be very edifying to their Republican opponents.

JOHN C. CALHOUN gave the Senate Committee on Labor and Education some interesting information upon land and labor matters in the South.

AT the District and Senatorial convention held at Fayette, Frank C. Mclane, of Amite, was nominated District Attorney and J. J. Whitney for Senator by acclamation.

HON. A. H. HANDY, ex-Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Mississippi died at his residence in Canton, last Wednesday night. Judge Handy was an able jurist, and a highly esteemed citizen.

HON. BEN. LEFEVRE, of Ohio, just arrived at Washington, says that the Democrats will elect Hoadly, and carry the legislative ticket in Hamilton county and in Cuyahoga also. The Democratic quarrels and Republican harmony now prevailing in Ohio, do not augur very well for the verification of Mr. Lefevre's predictions.

IT may be considered great newspaper enterprise to omit mention of the arrivals and departures, in what is called River news, of such great boats as the Natchez, J. M. White, Ed. Richardson, and John W. Cannon. A paper that does not give the movements of these boats, and of all boats, in fact, that arrive and depart from this port, don't give correct river news. There may be more spite than enterprise in the matter however.

MR. CARLISLE has placed himself in an unenviable position in his recent utterances concerning the Speakership. "Ferg" wrote in the Dispatch several months ago that Carlisle's candidacy was conceived in selfishness and brought forth in vanity. And from what is daily coming to light it is apparent that he was as correct in the assertion as he generally is in what he writes. Mr. Carlisle will never be Speaker.—Columbus Dispatch.

DR. GALLOWAY, in the last Christian Advocate, publishes a leader on the subject of "wooden editorials." He says that farmers, commercial men, lawyers, and even preachers, in their several professions and avocations fellow the practice of the editors in substituting "wooden editorials" for genuine orginal work. The Doctor should not say a word about the wooden-heads who steal poetry and endeavor to palm it off as original. But there is no excuse for the latter, and the Doctor wisely refrained from mentioning them.

THE New York Times thus gently touches up Judge Field, who recently wrote to Mr. Royall, telling that gentleman a great many important things which the Judge said Mr. Royall already knew: "For months he has been forced to hear the praises of McDonald, the old ticket, Holman, and other Democrats of more or less eminence, but never has the name of Field fallen upon his ears. From his lofty and secluded station on the supreme bench, he has eagerly scanned the country from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the Gulf for some sign of a popular demand for Field. But no sign has gladdened his eye. 'Can it be,' he has cried, 'that they have forgotten me? I must remind them that I still live, and still long to move from Capitol Hill to the White House. I will write a letter to a friend!'"

A SPECIAL from Jackson to the N. O. Picayune says:

Senator George, after six weeks' attendance upon the Senate Labor Committee in New York, has returned. He was warmly welcomed by a legion of friends. He left this evening for Leflore county to look after his large planting interests. He will be absent a few weeks and return in time to be presents at the forthcoming Levee Convention in Vicksburg.

The Cholera Coming Next Year.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The Daily News publishes a large number of letters from physicians of this city, in answer to a circular asking their opinions as to the probability of a cholera epidemic in this country next year or within the next few years. Most of them anticipate more or less cholera in this country next year, and urge the necessity of thorough observance of sanitary precautions, municipal and personal.

Failure of a Cotton Firm

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 14.—Jones & Co., a prominent cotton firm, failed today.

A National Sentiment.

Since the war—but notably since the re-establishment of home rule in Mississippi in 1876—a large class of people in Mississippi, not only of the ante-bellum Whig element, but numbers of ante-bellum Democrats, have encouraged and promoted the development of a real National sentiment in the South as the first important moral step in the great work of restoring prosperity to the Southern States. Not an affection for the Republican party, which is quite another thing, but an earnest and sincere purpose of dealing with all National questions and interests from a high National point of view, and an unreserved recognition of what may be termed the logical results of the war.

The fruits are manifest; the South of to-day is not the South of 1860, nor the South of 1876. We are fast leaving behind and out of sight in the distance the old regime that was the outgrowth of slavery and secession.

There are only Mr. Davis and a few of his old personal following that hung on his utterances in the hey-day of his power, and who yet believe in him when he periodically declares that the eternal principles embalmed in the ordinance of secession, unlike the Egyptian dead, will be revivified, and walk the earth a thousand years from now.

And they are only a little handful of mourners. And besides these are a few demagogues, who think they can make a little cheap political capital by pandering to a supposed prejudice against the National authority.

The South of the year 1883 is in its heart sincerely rejoiced that the curse of slavery has been taken from the land, and that Mr. Davis and his Southern Confederacy did not perpetuate themselves. It is better for us of this day and generation that it is just as it is.

And now all we want for the South is the leadership of the strong young hearts and the clear heads of to-day, who are willing to take the line of duty as it lies here nearest to hand, and rebuild and develop a land for which Almighty God has done so much, and for which the politicians have done so little.

Justice Field of the United States Supreme Court, who appears every four years as an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, has recently written a letter for the New York Herald, in which he declares in favor of the refunding of the amount of money collected just after the war from the tax on cotton. For a Justice of the Supreme Court, Judge Field is very emphatic about this matter. He declares the tax unjust and illegal and says the repayment of the 70,000,000 "would be some slight reparation for the burdens inflicted upon the South by the miserable and corrupt carpet-bag Government." This sum he would have paid to the Southern States, to dispose of as they may deem proper. We fear that Judge Field is not logical, since, if he should write a letter upon the tariff, he would insist that the duty placed upon goods of any kind is so much added to the cost to the consumer, and that the consumer rather than the importer pays the duty as an addition to the price of the goods he buys. If this is true, then the cotton tax should be refunded, if refunded at all, to the persons who purchased the goods into which it was manufactured. Judge Field also took occasion, in the letter referred to, to declare in favor of a system of Mississippi levees, which shall be "built in such a form that they will last for ages." If the Justice had been able to have demonstrated the method of such construction he would have rendered a lasting benefit upon the country. This practical matter is, however, of little consequence, since the letter was designed rather as an indication that he understands the popular longing of the section to which he addresses himself to derive substantial benefits from the public treasury. Col. Sellers is carrying the flag with an appendage in the form of a large number of appropriations.—Boston Journal.

An Odoriferous Meeting.

While a celebration of the Union Star Society was in progress the colored Baptist Hall Tuesday night, some one fumigated the meeting. Those who were in attendance are very indignant over the affair, as the fumigated assembled color that the meeting had to be closed. The old darkey who gave us our information, in reply to a question as to whether the smell was so unpleasant as to cause an adjournment of the meeting, answered: "Journed! Well, I speck we did, and if you'd abin dare and kotch a smell of dat stuff, you'd a journed too!" Seriously, we think the person who did this thing ought to be captured and punished. The society in question is a benevolent one,—the object being to see that all members are properly nursed and cared for, and to bury all members who die without means necessary to meet their funeral expenses. We are glad that no white person had anything to do with this affair.—Columbus Dispatch, 14th.

WE see it stated that Mr. Samuel J. Randall, while sojourning in the country, heard that he had been drawn as a juror in Philadelphia, and that he hurriedly returned to the city, hunted up the sheriff and insisted upon having the summons served, so that he might discharge his duty as a citizen. Since we read about the faithful Choctaw, who was unavoidably detained in attending his own execution, owing up at the last moment, apologizing for his tardiness and insisting on the hanging going on at once, we have not seen anything more affecting. Let the individuals who are in the habit of dodging jury-duty as if it were a pestilence, imagine this lingering patriot waiting among the jury-bummers, and weep over the degeneracy of the age.—Meridian Observer.

Irishmen in the Revolution.

The Brooklin Eagle devotes a lengthy article to the services rendered by the Irish in the revolutionary war, from which we condense the following:

John Barry, a native of Ireland, the first commodore of the American navy, appointed by Washington.

John Dunlap, a native of Ireland, a brave officer under Washington, and publisher of the first daily paper in the United States; also the first printer and publisher of the Declaration of Independence. In 1780 he subscribed twenty thousand dollars to supply Washington's army with provisions.

George Ewing, a brave soldier in Washington's army, of a distinguished Irish family, resided in Cumberland county, New Jersey. He was an officer in the New Jersey line, and fought at Germantown and Brandywine, and spent the terrible winter of 1777 with Washington at, Valley Forge. His son was Thomas Ewing, of Ohio, Senator of the United States and member of President Harrison's and President Taylor's cabinets. His granddaughter is the wife of Gen. Sherman, the head of our army, and John Gibson, a native of Ireland, a renowned Indian fighter and major-general in our army. His brother George penetrated the forests from Pittsburg to New Orleans to supply Washington with powder from the latter city, then under Spanish rule. He fought in all our battles with England from Trenton to Yorktown. His men were rifle sharpshooters, and were known as "Gibson's Laudo." This George and George was Commissionary-General of the United States army for forty years, and his son John B. Gibson, was Chief-Justice of Pennsylvania for twenty-five years, whom Jeremiah S. Black, another son of Ireland, describes as "the most illustrious judge of his time."

James Graham, who commanded in fifteen battles, in our war with England, before he was twenty-three years of age. The youngest of his twelve children, whose mother was the daughter of John Davidson, another Irishman, who signed they Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, was William A. Graham, a member of President Taylor's cabinet, and a candidate for Vice-President on the ticket with Winfield Scott.

John Hezlett, a native of Ireland, who fell with Shereer at Princeton, and whose son was Governor of Delaware.

William Irvine, a native, of Ireland, who fought with Wayne, under General Thompson (both Irish), in Canada, commanded the attacking party at Mount , stormed Stony Point with "Mad Anthony," and was trusted and praised by Washington everywhere.

Henry Knox, Major-General, and Washington's chief of artillery, and also Secretary of War and of the Navy in Washington's cabinet.

Andrew Lewis, who was born in Ireland, but had to fly with his father, John who shot one Irish landlord for evicting himself and family from their home. This John who slew his Irish landlord had five sons, all of whom distinguished themselves in our war with England. When Washington assumed command of our army he requested that Andrew Lewis should be made one of his Major-Generals.

David Porter, a naval officer of merit in the war of the Revolution, father of David Porter, whose career was "a blaze of heroism," and grandfather of Admiral David D. Porter, the head of our navy.

Stephen Moylan, brother of the Catholic Bishop of Cork, one of Washington's favorite generals, and one of five brothers who fought in our Revolutionary army.

Daniel Morgan, a native of Ireland, who won the victory of the Cowpens over Tarleton; helped to defeat Burgoyne and fought under Montgomery at Quebec.

Andrew Pickens, who fought at the Cowpens and elsewhere, and whose son and grandson were Governors of South Carolina.

Jerry O'Brien, who fought and won our first sea fight with the British John Rodgers, whose father came from Ireland and served in the Revolutionary War and gave to this country one of the most illustrious families of naval heroes.

John Stark, who fought and won the battle of Bennington. John Sullivan, one of Washington's favorite Generals. There are also some of the most illustrious heroes of our second war with England, who were born in Ireland or of Irish parents. Andrew Jackson and Alexander Macomb, in our army. Stephen Decatur, David Porter, John Rodgers Johnson Blakeley, Thomas McDonough, Oliver H. Perry and Charles Stewart in our navy.

Potatoes and Diphtheria.

Dr. M. C. Keith, of Lincoln, Neb., writes to the Chicago Inter-Ocean charging much of the diphtheria prevalent to eating unripe (Irish) potatoes. He says: Some seventeen years ago the attention of my father, Mr. Alvin Keith, late of Augusta, Me., was called to the fact that children who were not fond of the tuber known as the Irish potatoes were not subject to attacks of that much-dreaded malady, diphtheria. Following out this hint, he advised families of his friends to avoid the use of this vegetable among children, and until his decease he was accustomed to make the assertion that rotten potatoes produced the throat disease known as diphtheria.

In my practice in this city and county the offer has been made to treat any form of compensation if they would avoid the use of Irish potatoes. As a sequence not one of the patients who were not potato eaters had been threatened with the disease. In many of the inland towns of this State the writer has patients, and in some of the infected districts the families of those who have learned of this simple preventive have escaped any attack of throat disease although the potato eaters on each side of them have unfortunately had cases of diphtheria which resulted fatally.

The writer rests his assertions upon twelve years of his father's practice prior to 1861 and seventeen years of his own covering a period of twenty-nine years, and including a personal knowledge of 1100 cases of diphtheria. The tuber known as the Irish potato is specified, since it is believed that sweet potatoes do not have the effect of producing any disturbances in the human animal economy. If these assertions are proven, the result must relieve the world from a disease which is to be dreaded, and a malady which has caused many heartaches upon two continents.—Med. Reporter

Contemplated Improvements at Meridian.

Our city authorities are considering seriously the question of issuing bonds for the purpose of making some necessary improvements, which the present tax levy will not permit of being done. One of the most important of these is securing a good supply of water for the protection of the city against fire, as well as for drinking purposes, and another is the adoption of a proper sewerage system for sanitary purposes. These are all matters of paramount necessity, and will involve more than the city can afford to raise by taxation, yet we believe the tax-payers of the city will cheerfully agree that bonds may be issued to meet the expense.—Observer, 14th.

En Voyage.

Whichever way the wind doth blow,
Some heart is glad to have it so;
Then blow it east, or blow it west,
The wind that blows, that wind is best.

My little craft sails not alone;
A thousand fleets from every zone
Are out upon a thousand seas;
What blows for one a favoring breeze
Might dash another, with the shock
Of doom, upon some hidden rock.
And so I do not dare to pray
For winds to waft me on my way,
But leave it to Him Who will sail with me
Through storm and calm, and will not fail,
Whatever breezes may prevail,
To land me, safe, in port at last,
Within His sheltering haven at last.

Then whatsoever wind doth blow,
My heart is glad to have it so;
And bless it east or bless it west,
The wind that blows, that wind is best.

THE SATISFACTION

of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that he has left those he must leave behind as here a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a home and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot at Vicksburg Addition, add pay the balance in 36 monthly instalments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sept1

LOCAL ITEMS.

CAPT. H. L. TAYLOR, of Yazoo county, is in the city to-day.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. SMITH arrived home yesterday from New York.

MR. J. M. CHILTON passed through the city to-day en route home.

STEVE DUNCAN, Esq., arrived in the city on the 9:45 train this morning.

MRS. F. Y. DABNEY, Mrs. J. M. Knox, and Miss Mary Brady returned home this morning by the 9:15 train.

MR. C. W. WORTHINGTON, of Glenora, arrived by the mail train this morning en route home.

MRS. D. O'BRIEN and daughter, of Delta, were passengers for Cooper's Well by the 2:30 train yesterday.

REV. MR. CUMMINS, Presbyterian minister of Vicksburg, returned home this morning from a short vacation.

JUDGE J. S. MORRIS was a passenger for Natchez yesterday by the Cannon, where he goes on professional business.

FORTY-FOUR bridge builders came in on the V. & M. train this morning. They go to work on the L., N. O. & T. R. R.

THERE seems to be prospects of rain hereabouts at present. A little shower would be much appreciated and is badly needed.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL, who has been in Kentucky visiting his parents for a few days, returned by this morning's train.

THE drouth is so severe along the line of the V. & M. R. R., that much difficulty is experienced in getting water enough for running the locomotives.

FROM Capt. W. C. O'Hara, we learn that work by the Government at Wilson's Point in progressing very favorably, and laborers in large numbers are arriving daily at that place from St. Louis and Chicago.

CAPT. A. AUTEE, an old veteran steamboatman, is we regret to learn, very ill at his residence on Walnut street. His many friends hope to see him out shortly.

THE Yazoo Sentinel says that enterprising place proposes to have electric lights. With its railroad and its city lighted by electric lights, Yazoo will begin to put on city airs.

MRS. BERNARD, who has been visiting Mrs. J. W. Person at Port Gibson, came up this morning and left for her home at Lake Providence.

MISS MARY KERR was a passenger from Port Gibson this morning, returning from a visit to her brother at this place. She left for home on the Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg.

MRS. J. W. TOMS and family are making the round trip on the Richardson with Capt. Tobin.

MISS MAMIE MCCABE, who has been pending several months at Natchez returned home this morning on the Ed. Richardson.

THE Richardson, arriving at 10:30 this morning, had a large freight for this point and her Delta freight was the heaviest ever brought up for that place. She also has a good trip for Greenville and the Bends.

BAUM & Co., received a fresh supply of periodicals this morning as well as their usual daily papers. Call on Fred Baum, Jr., for your Sunday reading matter.

HON. S. GWIN, State Auditor, passed through the city this morning en route to his plantation in Washington county.

MRS. Dr. BALFOUR and daughter, Mrs. Phelan, arrived home at 6 o'clock this morning from a trip to the Summer resorts.

MR. J. G. ALEXANDER, of Silver Creek, Yazoo river, who has been spending several weeks in Virginia, arrived by this morning's train and leaves for home on the Carroll this morning.

THE Sallie Carney in loading a boiler this morning, let it slip and fall into the river. Some light damage was done to some furniture on the boat, and she left without the boiler. It will be raised.

THE City of Providence is the Tuesday boat, for St. Louis. Capt. Geo. W. Lenox master, Frank Perkins clerk.

THE meeting of the stockholders of the Memphis & Vicksburg, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and Vicksburg & Memphis, and Vicksburg & Ship Island Railroads, which was held in this city to-day, was adjourned over for ten days without taking action on the proposed change of name to Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad.

THE Kleinston Inspection Station will be discontinued to-day, and Officer Fay will return to the police force. Mr. Fay is one of the few efficient policemen on the force, and it will be a good thing for the city to have him back, for Vicksburg needs such officers.

MR. AND MRS. J. D. JONES have the sympathy of their numerous friends in the death of their little daughter, Annie, which occurred yesterday afternoon at their residence on Grove street. The little girl was a remarkably bright child, of a sweet disposition, loved by all who knew her for her gentle and loving ways.

MRS. CATCHINGS and her daughters, Mrs. W. R. Hudson and Miss Fannie Catchings, came down on the Carroll this morning, from Yazoo City and left on the City of Vicksburg for St. Louis. Mr. W. R. Hudson accompanies them to Bolivar landing where he goes on a business trip.

Our Fire Department.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

As I take great pride in the efficiency and reputation of our Fire Department, and have a great admiration for firemen and everything in connection with them, I have thought it would not be amiss, with their permission, to make a few suggestions, which, in my opinion, may prove of some value if acted upon. While in some of the larger cities where I have either lived or had occasion to visit, I paid the closest attention to the workings of their fire departments, especially at fires.

Much has been said for and against the Hook and Ladder feature of this Department. From what I know and have seen, this branch of the Department should be of the greatest value and importance. It should always be on the ground ahead of the steamers. A truck should go to a fire with all the speed to be gotten out of its horses. It should endeavor to be there at the very inception of the fire. With the addition of about six of the Babcock fire extinguishers to the truck our Hook and Ladder Company would be invaluable.

The truck arriving upon the ground at the very incipiency of the fire, the men using the Babcock arrangements upon their backs, rush up the stairs into any part of the building the fire may be breaking out, and ten to one they will extinguish the fire; whereas if nothing could be done until the steamers arrive and steam has been gotten up the probability is that the fire is under full headway before the Department is ready to tackle it.

If the Hook and Ladder Company will provide themselves with say six Babcock fire extinguishers a big change will soon be experienced in this Department, and this Company instead of being at the tail end of the Department will be at its head. These Babcock arrangements can be carried on the truck.

Many a disastrous fire is prevented by these simple little things, and many a dollar's worth of property saved. I have no doubt but the insurance companies here would contribute enough to purchase them.

I have seen in some of our papers that the question of furnishing the Chief Engineer with some kind of conveyance to enable him to get quickly to fires has been brought before the city authorities. The Chief should unquestionably be furnished with some means of getting to a fire quickly. The Chiefs of the larger cities each use a horse and a two-wheel, light kind of a buggy. The horse should be a fast one, and the buggy should have the name "Chief of Vicksburg Fire Department" in gold letters upon each side of it.

All good and expert pipemen hold the stream low, or as much under the fire as possible. A stream thrown on the top of fire is mostly wasted. The intense heat turns the water into steam or vapor, which ascends above the fire. Water thrown low on a fire strikes where the heat is not so intense, and even when it is turned into steam or vapor the latter ascends through the fire and dampens and checks it. In fighting fire hit under the belt every time.

An officer should be near each pipe so as to direct the playing and make it as effectual as possible.

Hose should not be allowed to obstruct the public streets or thoroughfares for an unnecessary length of time. If such were permitted in large cities miles of street cars, thousands of vehicles, and tens of thousands of people would be unjustly interfered with and delayed, and the greatest kind of loss and damage would be caused. When it is absolutely necessary to lay hose across a public street there is some kind of an arrangement used which is placed over the hose, and over this street cars and vehicles pass without endangering the hose. A fire department has no right to obstruct a street only in the very midst of a dangerous fire.

On account of the hilly nature of our city and its bad streets, the horses used by the Department should be large, stout, splendid animals—in fact they should be first-class.

The engineer and house-keeper (driver) of each steamer should be acquainted with the locality of every available cistern in the city, so as to avoid unnecessary delay in finding water in case of a fire.

I see that the Department is asking for more hose. If we are to have the proposed water-works it will not need additional hose—in fact it will have more then than will be needed. The plugs will enable the steamers to get as near a fire as can be desired.

I append the following, which is worth perusal by our fire boys:

NEW YORK FIRE ENGINES.

The engine stands in the house ready for the road; so does the tender. The horses are in their stalls; the men are lounging about or sleeping; the alarm strikes; in a twinkling all are at their posts. There is no harnessing, no adjusting of belly-bands and squeezing of collars and fastening of reins. The new "swing" harness used in the Department is a complete casparison, which is suspended by an ingenious apparatus above the spot where the horses take their places. Close the open collar with a snap, pull a rope, which lifts the suspending apparatus, and they are equipped and ready for the road. The door swings open and away goes the engine.

"EXEMPT."

The Kleinston Road.

The facts in regard to the Kleinston road are that Capt. Carroll, who has been devoting his time to it for the past month, has been compelled to give it up for want of time, but there is a possibility that the matter will be taken in hand by other gentlemen. Capt. Carroll is ready at any time to give all the data and information in his possession. There is a great demand for this road, and we have confidence in the ultimate success of the undertaking. Our experience is that our business men do not give up an undertaking at the first obstacle that arises. While it is the duty of the city and county to make good roads, we feel sure if they do not take the matter in hand the live business men of our city will have the road. There has been too much croaking already for the good of Vicksburg, and THE POST intends to leave that to those who do not care for the prosperity of our city. We feel sure that the city will have a road to Kleinston this Winter. Too much depends upon this enterprise to let it fall through, and our merchants understand the necessity of such a road. Let the croakers alone; their day has past.

To Bridge Contractors.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF Warren County, Mississippi, will let out contracts for repairing Willow Bayou bridge, West of United States Cemetery; the building of a bridge over Big Bayou, 4 miles from Vicksburg, on Baldwin Ferry road; and the building of a Bridge over Big Cave, near D. Harris' on Benton road. Plans, etc., of work can be seen at Clerk's Office, or on application to the members of those districts. The work will be let out at public outcry on the ground, to the lowest bidder, at cash prices, to be paid out of special levy: the Willow Bayou bridge, by Wm. Meiere, Esq., member of Second District, on Tuesday, 25th of September, 1883; the Baldwin Ferry road, 4 mile bridge, by H. M. Goff, Esq., of Fourth District, on Friday, 28th of September, 1883; and the Benton road bridge, near Dick Harris,' by R. R. Jones, Esq., of Fifth District, on Saturday, 29th of September, 1883. Each of these gentlemen will explain their works and will require bond and security to be given the Board for the faithful performance of each contract.

A. H. ARTHUR, President.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17.—Corn 47½; Wheat 97½; Oats 24½. Provisions dull; flour weak, lower to sell.

Carey's Murderer.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—It is probable the police will board the steamer Athenian upon her arrival off Southampton and take O'Donnell, the murderer of James Carey, ashore and bring him secretly to London in order to avoid any public demonstration by sympathisers.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One hundred and thirty-six failures in the United States are reported during the past week—60 less than the preceding week in 1882 and 48 more than the same week in 1881. Of these failures there were 28 in the Middle States, an increase of 4 over the preceding week; 23 in the New England States, a decrease of 1; 54 in the Western States, an increase of 6; 13 in the Pacific States and Territories, a decrease of 10, and 14 in Canada and the Provinces, a decrease of 3.

A Boasting Colored Preacher Swung Up to a Tree, But Slips the Noose.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, Sept. 15.—In Trousdale county, a full blooded preacher named Crenshaw had been boasting that he had been criminally intimate with a nice young white lady in the neighborhood. He was waited on by a mob and swung up to a tree. Several law officers arrived before life was extinct, and a regular mob fight ensued. While the fight was in progress Crenshaw succeeded in loosening the noose from his neck and making good his escape. That colored church is without a pastor, for Crenshaw has left the country.

Trying to Relieve Greely.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Secretary Lincoln said yesterday that if there was any possible means of reaching Lieutenant Greely and his party this season he would undertake it. Officers of the navy with whom he had consulted thought it a matter of utter impossibility to send a vessel anywhere near to Greely until next Summer. Some army officers, however, think it possible to reach him this year.

Lieut. Danenhower, who was in the Jeannette, called at the Navy department and expressed a willingness to go early next spring with an expedition to relieve Greely. Capt. Tyson, who was a member of the Polaris expedition, submitted a letter to Secretary Lincoln to-day, volunteering to go in search of the party next Spring, in a schooner, with a crew of his own selection.

Suicide of a Virginia Congressman, who was Elected in Mahone's Interest.

Special to the Picayune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Judge Robt. Mayo, of Westmoreland, Va., who has just committed suicide, was defeated in the last Congressional Convention by Hon. George T. Garrison; but the Mahone Returning Board, on a fraudulent pretense, threw out the vote of Gloucester, a Democratic county, and gave the certificate of election to Mayo.

The issue of this certificate was one of the most infamous acts ever committed even by the Mahone gang of miscreants, and there is not the slightest doubt that it would have been promptly rebuked by the expulsion of Mayo. It is pretended by some that his suicide grew out of a consciousness of the unworthy position he filled in this matter; but this is altogether improbable, and the suicide may readily be referred to mental aberration.

The natural duties of the Mahone Governor, Mr. Cameron, would be to order a new election in this District, but Mr. Garrison having been clearly and indisputably elected, it is doubtful if the Democrats will participate in the new election.

The practice of the last House of Representatives in such cases was to disregard the second election and to seat the man elected at the first. Garrison having been elected there is no vacancy. There are two more cases of Readjusters from Virginia, who are claiming seats by gross and shameless frauds, which the House will undoubtedly set aside.

Who Killed Rose Ambler.

The latest Connecticut murder is a mystery. There was very little doubt as to who killed Mary Stannard. Pretty Jennie Cramer's death left no mystery of importance to be cleared up. The responsibility for her ruin and murder is perfectly well understood. But the murder of Rose Ambler is baffling local investigation and excites public curiosity. She had been married. She was miserable with her husband, who became intemperate and abused her. She obtained a divorce from him. Lewis, a market man, who had business relations with her husband and had befriended her, paid her attentions. They became engaged, and he was building a house in anticipation of their marriage, and in the expectation of having a happy home. Lewis lived with his parents, and Rose frequently visited the house, to which she was always welcome.

On the night in question Rosa left the house between 9 and 10 o'clock alone. She had done so before, because Lewis was obliged to get up between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning to go to market, and she was unwilling to deprive him of needed sleep. Her way lay over a much-traveled road. Her body was found behind a wall. Her dress was torn and her appearance indicated a hard struggle, though there was no evidence of personal violence. She died from strangulation, with the marks of the hand that choked her on her throat. There appears to be no facts which tend to incriminate anybody. The rumor that Lewis was tired of her is a silly fiction, contradicted by all the facts; besides lovers do not commit murder merely to break an engagement. Ambler was away and could not have committed the deed; besides he felt kindly toward the woman. An excitable person named Curtis, a stranger in the place, has been followed, but chiefly because there was nobody else to dog, save a young negro, whose innocence is conceded by everybody. The victim was attractive, but not handsome. It is not known that she had enemies. The absence of a motive for killing her increases the difficulty. It looks as though this murder were enveloped in a mystery not likely to be dissipated right away. But it teaches that no woman should trust herself out alone after nightfall, even in such an orthodox place as Connecticut.—New York Star, 12th.

A Brief Description of the Minnetonka.

One of the most completely elegant and most powerful tow-boats ever built around the Ohio Falls, is the new Minnetonka, just completed at Barmore's shipyard, Jeffersonville, for Messrs. Carroll & Powell of St. Louis. She is 176 feet long, thirty-one feet beam and six feet depth of hold; has four steel boilers to make steam for two engines with twenty-two inch cylinders, with eight feet stroke; three steam capstans, steam shifting gear, and all other first-class steam gearing appertaining to her uses. She has one hand capstan, a full line of first-class syphons and the latest deck rigging required to put her away ahead in the arena of tow-boats. Her up stairs quarters, including the rooms intended for use of the Mississippi River Commission, private cabins, state-rooms and general cabin, can not be excelled by any first-class passenger steamer afloat on the Western or Southern waters. They are all simply elegant and worthy of the occupancy by any of the great heads of the nation. She is equipped with modernly improved bath-rooms and her culinary departments are gorgeously decorated in the most approved wares. Her quarters for the crew excel many passenger steamer accommodations, and the men so fortunate as to be employed on her will live after the manner of Kings. She has one of the handsomest models ever turned out around the falls, and all told she cost her owners the neat little amount of $50,000.

A GENTLEMAN from Maine attended an auction sale of unclaimed freight in Boston and bought a box, ignorant, of course, as to what the contents might be. When he opened it he found that he was the owner of about 2000 manuscript sermons formerly the property of a Methodist clergyman. The clergyman had written along the margin of his pages such curious suggestions to himself as the following: "Deliver this passage in a manly tone;" "Scornful smile after the word 'never;'" "Pause long enough to count twenty-five after this passage;" "Close Bible with violent slam after this passage;" "Contemplate ceiling in attitude of adoration at this point;" "Sarcastic wave of hand;" "Rapid gesture."

SAILORS seem to be generally freeing themselves from many of their old superstitions. A leading English steamship company fixed on Friday as the day for the weekly departure of several of their vessels. Good fortune attended the voyages, and the crew began to consider Friday as lucky as any day in the week. Steam has obviously had considerable to do with destroying the bad reputation of Friday. Vessels propelled by steam are constantly on the move. There is little time for the crew of a steamship to tell ghost stories or to indulge in talk on superstitions. With the fear of Friday, many other superstitions have disappeared.

DR. LUCY HALL, of the Massachusetts Woman Prison, said in the conclusion of a carefully prepared paper at the Social Science Association: "Nowhere is there an acrity work of reform more needed than among the mill population of our State. Those who know only what were the social conditions there twenty or thirty years ago can form but an imperfect idea of the depravity and disorder which now prevail in these localities."

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in 35 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

CAPT. H. L. TAYLOR, of Yazoo county, is in the city to-day.

MR. AND MRS. W. H. SMITH arrived home yesterday from New York.

MR. J. M. CHILTON passed through the city to-day en route home.

STEVE DUNCAN, Esq., arrived in the city on the 9:45 train this morning.

MRS. F. Y. DARNEY, Mrs. J. M. KNOX, and Miss Mary Brady returned home this morning by the 9:45 train.

MR. C. W. WORTHINGTON, of Glenora, arrived by the mail train this morning en route home.

MRS. D. O'BRIEN and daughter, of Delta, were passengers for Cooper's Well by the 2:30 train yesterday.

REV. MR. CUMMINS, Presbyterian minister of Vicksburg, returned home this morning from a short vacation.

JUDGE J. S. MORRIS was a passenger for Natchez yesterday by the Cannon, where he goes on professional business.

FORTY-FOUR bridge builders came in on the V. & M. train this morning. They go to work on the L., N. O. & T. R. R.

THERE seems to be prospects of rain hereabouts at present. A little shower would be much appreciated and is badly needed.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL, who has been in Kentucky visiting his parents for a few days, returned by this morning's train.

THE drouth is so severe along the line of the V. & M. R. R., that much difficulty is experienced in getting water enough for running the locomotives.

FROM Capt. W. C. O'Hara, we learn that work by the Government at Wilson's Point in progressing very favorably, and laborers in large numbers are arriving daily at that place from St. Louis and Chicago.

CAPT. A. AUTER, an old veteran steamboatman, is we regret to learn, very ill at his residence on Walnut street. His many friends hope to see him out shortly.

THE Yazoo Sentinel says that enterprising place proposes to have electric lights. With its railroad and its city lighted by electric lights, Yazoo will begin to put on city airs.

MRS. BERNARD, who has been visiting Mrs. J. W. Person at Port Gibson, came up this morning and left for her home at Lake Providence.

MISS MARY KERR was a passenger from Port Gibson this morning, returning from a visit to her brother at that place. She left for home on the Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg.

MRS. J. W. TOMS and family are making the round trip on the Richardson with Capt. Tobin.

MISS MAMIE MCCABE, who has been pending several months at Natchez returned home this morning on the Ed. Richardson.

THE Richardson, arriving at 10:30 this morning, had a large freight for this point and her Delta freight was the heaviest ever brought up for that place. She also has a good trip for Greenville and the Bends.

BAUM & CO., received a fresh supply of periodicals this morning as well as their usual daily papers. Call on Fred Baum, Jr., for your Sunday reading matter.

HON. S. GWIN, State Auditor, passed through the city this morning en route to his plantation in Washington county.

MRS. DR. BALFOUR and daughter, Mrs. Phelan, arrived home at 6 o'clock this morning from a trip to the Summer resorts.

MR. J. G. ALEXANDER, of Silver Creek, Yazoo river, who has been spending several weeks in Virginia, arrived by this morning's train and leaves for home on the Carroll this morning.

THE Sallie Carney in loading a boiler this morning, let it slip and fall into the river. Some light damage was done to some furniture on the boat, and she left without the boiler. It will be raised.

THE meeting of the stockholders of the Memphis & Vicksburg, New Orleans, Baton Rouge, and Vicksburg & Memphis, and Vicksburg & Ship Island Railroads, which was held in this city to-day, was adjourned over for ten days without taking action on the proposed change of name to Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railroad.

THE Kleinston Inspection Station will be discontinued to-day, and Officer Fay will return to the police force. Mr. Fay is one of the few efficient policemen on the force, and it will be a good thing for the city to have him back, for Vicksburg needs such officers.

MR. AND MRS. J. D. JONES have the sympathy of their numerous friends in the death of their little daughter, Annie, which occurred yesterday afternoon at their residence on Grove street. The little girl was a remarkably bright child, of a sweet disposition, loved by all who knew her for her gentle and loving ways.

MRS. CATCHINGS and her daughters, Mrs. W. R. Hudson and Miss Fannie Catchings, came down on the Carroll this morning, from Yazoo City and left on the City of Vicksburg for St. Louis. Mr. W. R. Hudson accompanies them to Bolivar landing where he goes on a business trip.

WE don't believe the citizens of Vicksburg were much alarmed at the propects of an ice famine of long duration, as they had every confidence Col. Flowerree would see to it that they were supplied with ice. He has never let Vicksburg suffer for the want of this necessary article in all the years he has managed the ice business, and our people had confidence in him this time.

A OSSELLA, No. 114 Washington street, opposite the LaMadrid House, has a large stock of fruits, candies, tobaccoes, nuts, etc., which he offers to the trade at the lowest possible figures. Buying for cash, and thus getting the discount, he can sell all goods in his line at the lowest market rate. His stock is kept constantly replenished, and so great is the demand you can always count on being supplied with fresh articles when you buy from Osella. Mr. Osella not only keeps a supply for retail business, but is always ready to extend his increasing wholesale trade, and give attention to all orders received. Remember his number, 114 Washington street, and call and see him when you wish anything in his line.

Our Fire Department.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

As I take great pride in the efficiency and reputation of our Fire Department, and have a great admiration for firemen and everything in connection with them, I have thought it would not be amiss, with their permission, to make a few suggestions, which, in my opinion, may prove of some value if acted upon. While in some of the larger cities where I have either lived or had occasion to visit, I paid the closest attention to the workings of their fire departments, especially as fires.

Much has been said for and against the Hook and Ladder feature of this Department. From what I know and have seen, this branch of the Department should be of the greatest value and importance. It should always be on the ground ahead of the steamers. A truck should go to a fire with all the speed to be gotten out of its horses. It should endeavor to be there at the very incipiency of the fire. With the addition of about six of the Babcock fire extinguishers to the truck our Hook and Ladder Company would be invaluable.

The truck arriving upon the ground at the very incipiency of the fire, the men sling the Babcock arrangements upon their backs, rush up the stairs into any part of the building the fire may be breaking out, and ten to one they will extinguish the fire; whereas if nothing could be done until the steamers arrive and steam has been gotten up the probability is that the fire is under full headway before the Department is ready to tackle it.

If the Hook and Ladder Company will provide themselves with say six Babcock fire extinguishers a big change will soon be experienced in this Department, and this Company instead of being at the tail end of the Department will be at its head. These Babcock arrangements can be carried on the truck.

Many disastrous fire is prevented by these simple little things, and many a dollar's worth of property saved. I have no doubt but the insurance companies here would contribute enough to purchase them.

I have seen in some of our papers that the question of furnishing the Chief Engineer with some kind of conveyance to enable him to get quickly to fires has been brought before the city authorities. The Chief should unquestionably be furnished with some means of getting to a fire quickly. The Chiefs of the larger cities each use a horse and a two-wheel, light kind of a buggy. The horse should be a fast one, and the buggy should have the name "Chief of Vicksburg Fire Department" in gold letters upon each side of it.

All good and expert pipemen hold the stream low, or as much under the fire as possible. A stream thrown on the top of fire is mostly wasted. The intense heat turns the water into steam or vapor, which ascends above the fire. Water thrown low on a fire strikes where the heat is not so intense, and even when it is turned into steam or vapor the latter ascends through the fire and dampens and checks it. In fighting fire hit under the belt every time.

An officer should be near each pipe so as to direct the playing and make it as effectual as possible.

Hose should not be allowed to obstruct the public streets or thoroughfares for an unnecessary length of time. If such were permitted in large cities miles of street cars, thousands of vehicles, and tens of thousands of people would be unjustly interfered with and delayed, and the greatest kind of loss and damage would be caused. When it is absolutely necessary to lay hose across a public street there is some kind of an arrangement used which is placed over the hose, and over this street cars and vehicles pass without endangering the hose. A fire department has no right to obstruct a street only in the very midst of a dangerous fire.

On account of the hilly nature of our city and its bad streets, the horses used by the Department should be large, stout, splendid animals—in fact they should be first-class.

The engineer and house-keeper (driver) of each steamer should be acquainted with the locality of every available cistern in the city, so as to avoid unnecessary delay in finding water in case of a fire.

I see that the Department is asking for more hose. If we are to have the proposed water-works it will not need additional hose—in fact it will have more then than will be needed. The plugs will enable the steamers to get as near a fire as can be desired.

I append the following, which is worth perusal by our fire boys:

NEW YORK FIRE ENGINES.

The engine stands in the house ready for the road; so does the tender. The horses are in their stalls; the men are lounging about or sleeping; the alarm strikes; in a twinkling all are at their posts. There is no harnessing, no adjusting of belly-bands and squeezing of collars and fastening of reins. The new "swing" harness used in the Department is a complete caparison, which is suspended by an ingenious apparatus above the spot where the horses take their places. Close the open collar with a snap, pull a rope, which lifts the suspending apparatus, and they are equipped and ready for the road. The door swings open and away goes the engine.

"EXEMPT."

The Kleinston Road.

The facts in regard to the Kleinston road are that Capt. Carroll, who has been devoting his time to it for the past month, has been compelled to give it up for want of time, but there is a possibility that the matter will be taken in hand by other gentlemen. Capt. Carroll is ready at any time to give all the data and information in his possession. There is a great demand for this road, and we have confidence in the ultimate success of the undertaking. Our experience is that our business men do not give up an undertaking at the first obstacle that arises. While it is the duty of the city and county to make good roads, we feel sure if they do not take the matter in hand the live business men of our city will have the road. There has been too much croaking already for the good of Vicksburg, and THE POST intends to leave that to those who do not care for the prosperity of our city. We feel sure that the city will have a road to Kleinston this Winter. Too much depends upon this enterprise to let it fall through, and our merchants understand the necessity of such a road. Let the croakers alone; their day has past.

Carey's Murderer.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—It is probable the police will board the steamer Athenian upon her arrival off Southampton and take O'Donnell, the murderer of James Carey, ashore and bring him secretly to London in order to avoid any public demonstration by sympathisers.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—One hundred and thirty-six failures in the United States are reported during the past week; 60 less than the preceding week in 1882 and 48 more than the same week in 1881. Of these failures there were 28 in the Middle States, an increase of 4 over the preceding week; 23 in the New England States, a decrease of 1; 34 in the Western States, an increase of 6; 13 in the Pacific States and Territories, a decrease of 10, and 14 in Canada and the Provinces, a decrease of 3.

A Boasting Colored Preacher Swung Up to a Tree, But Slips the Noose.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, Sept. 15.—In Trousdale county, a colored preacher named Crenshaw had been boasting that he had been criminally intimate with a nice young white lady in the neighborhood. He was waited on by a mob and swung up to a tree. Several law officers arrived before life was extinct, and a regular mob fight ensued. While the fight was in progress Crenshaw succeeded in loosening the noose from his neck and making good his escape. That colored church is without a pastor, for Crenshaw has left the country.

Trying to Relieve Greely.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—Secretary Lincoln said yesterday that if there was any possible means of reaching Lieutenant Greely and his party this season he would undertake it. Officers of the navy with whom he had consulted thought it a matter of utter impossibility to send a vessel anywhere near to Greely until next Summer. Some army officers, however, think it possible to reach him this year.

Lieut. Danenhower, who was in the Jeannette, called at the Navy department and expressed a willingness to go early next spring with an expedition to relieve Greely. Capt. Tyson, who was a member of the Polaris expedition, submitted a letter to Secretary Lincoln to-day, volunteering to go in search of the party next Spring, in a schooner, with a crew of his own selection.

Special to the Picayune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Judge Robt. Mayo, of Westmoreland, Va., who has just committed suicide, was defeated in the last Congressional Convention by Hon. George T. Garrison; but the Mahone Returning Board, on a fraudulent pretense, threw out the vote of Gloucester, a Democratic county, and gave the certificate of election to Mayo.

The issue of this certificate was one of the most infamous acts ever committed even by the Mahone gang of miscreants, and there is not the slightest doubt that it would have been promptly rebuked by the expulsion of Mayo. It is pretended by some that his suicide grew out of a consciousness that his worthy position he filled in this matter; but this is altogether improbable, and the suicide may readily be referred to mental aberration.

The natural tactics of the Mahone Governor, Mr. Cameron, would be to order a new election in this District, but Mr. Garrison having been clearly and indisputably elected, it is doubtful if the Democrats will participate in the new election.

The practice of the last House of Representatives in such cases was to disregard the second election and to seat the man elected at the first; Garrison having been elected there is no vacancy. There are two more cases of Readjusters from Virginia, who are claiming seats by gross and shameless frauds, which the House will undoubtedly set aside.

Who Killed Rose Ambler.

The latest Connecticut murder is a mystery. There was very little doubt as to who killed Mary Stannard. Pretty Jennie Cramer's death left no mystery of importance to be cleared up. The responsibility for her ruin and murder is perfectly well understood. But the murder of Rose Ambler is baffling local investigation and excites public curiosity. She had been married. She was miserable with her husband, who became intemperate and abused her. She obtained a divorce from him. Lewis, a market man, who had business relations with her husband and had befriended her, paid her attentions. They became engaged, and he was building a house in anticipation of their marriage, and in the expectation of having a happy home. Lewis lived with his parents, and Rose frequently visited the house, to which she was always welcome.

On the night in question Rosa left the house between 9 and 10 o'clock alone. She had done so before, because Lewis was obliged to get up between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning to go to market, and she was unwilling to deprive him of needed sleep. Her way lay over a much-traveled road. Her body was found behind a wall. Her dress was torn and her appearance indicated a hard struggle, though there was no evidence of personal violence. She died from strangulation, with the marks of the hand that choked her on her throat. There appears to be no facts which tend to incriminate anybody. The rumor that Lewis was tired of her is a silly fiction, contradicted by all the facts; besides lovers do not commit murder merely to break an engagement. Ambler was away and could not have committed the deed; besides he felt kindly toward the woman. An excitable person named Curtis, a stranger in the place, has been followed, but chiefly because there was nobody else to dog, save a young negro, whose innocence is conceded by everybody. The victim was attractive, but not handsome. It is not known that she had enemies. The absence of a motive for killing her increases the difficulty. It looks now as though this murder were enveloped in a mystery not likely to be dissipated right away. But it teaches that no woman should trust herself out alone after nightfall, even in such an orthodox place as Connecticut.—New York Star, 12th.

A Brief Description of the Minnetonka.

One of the most complete, elegant and most powerful tow-boats ever built around the Ohio Falls, is the new Minnetonka, just completed at Barmore's shipyard, Jeffersonville, for Messrs. Carroll & Powell of St. Louis. She is 176 feet long, thirty-one feet beam and six feet depth of hold; has four steel boilers to make steam for two engines with twenty-two inch cylinders, with eight feet stroke; three steam capstans, steam shifting gear, and all other first-class steam gearing appertaining to her uses. She has one hand capstan, a full line of first-class syphons and the latest deck rigging required to put her away ahead in the arena of tow-boats. Her up stairs quarters, including the rooms intended for use of the Mississippi River Commission, private cabins, state-rooms and pilot-house cabin, can not be excelled by any first-class passenger steamer afloat on the Western or Southern waters. They are all simply elegant and worthy of the occupancy by any of the great heads of the nation. She is equipped with modernly improved bath-rooms and her culinary departments are gorgeously decorated in the most approved wares. Her quarters for the crew excel many passenger steamer accommodations, and the men so fortunate as to be employed on her will live after the manner of Kings. She has one of the handsomest models ever turned on around the falls, and all told she cost her owners the neat little amount of $50,000.

A GENTLEMAN from Maine attended an auction sale of unclaimed freight in Boston and bought a box, ignorant, of course, as to what the contents might be. When he opened it he found that he was the owner of about 2000 manuscript sermons formerly the property of a Methodist clergyman. The clergyman had written along the margin of his pages such curious suggestions to himself as the following: "Deliver this passage in solemn tones;" "Scornful smile after the word lower;" "Pause long enough to count twenty-five after this passage;" "Close Bible with violent slam after this passage;" "Contemplate ceiling in attitude of adoration at this point;" "Sarcastic wave of hand;" "Rapid gesture."

SAILORS seem to be generally freeing themselves from many of their old superstitions. A leading English steamship company fixed on Friday as the day for the weekly departure of several of their vessels. Good fortune attended the voyages, and the crew began to consider Friday as lucky as any day in the week. Steam has obviously had considerable to do with destroying the bad reputation of Friday. Vessels propelled by steam are constantly on the move. There is little time for the crew of a steamship to tell ghost stories or to indulge in talk on superstitions. With the fear of Friday, many other superstitions have disappeared.

DR. LUCY HALL, of the Massachusetts Woman Prison, said in the conclusion of a carefully prepared paper at the Social Science Association: "Nowhere is there an active work of reform more needed than among the still population of our State. Those who know only what were the social conditions there twenty or thirty years ago can form but an imperfect idea of the depravity and disorder which now prevail in these localities."

The Speakership.

Hon. J. S. C. Blackburn, of Kentucky, has formally withdrawn from the race for Speaker. Now let Carlisle come down and there will be some chance of beating Randall. The race narrowed down to Hurd and Randall, or Morrison and Randall, tariff reformers could succeed in winning a victory over the monopolists of Pennsylvania.—Columbus Index.

Mr. Blackburn did not have far to jump when he came down, for he was practically out of the race.

As to Hurd, he is the very weakest man who could be suggested in connection with the Speakership contest. He is the only "Free Trade" Democrat elected to the Forty-eighth Congress, and certainly the only one elected upon that distinct issue. He made the canvass of the Toledo district as Free Trader and won, yet so little faith had he of the popularity of the doctrine in Ohio, and so little confidence in the assumption that his election was due to his championship, that when the State Convention met he was there to insist upon the adoption of a platform that would guarantee incidental protection while laying a tariff for revenue. More than that, he favored such a revision of the wool tariff as would give adequate protection to sheep farmers while almost prohibiting the importation of fleeces, and yet the tariff on wool gives the key note to the Free Trade howl of the country.

As to Morrison, while an excellent and able gentleman, he has not the first attribute of a presiding officer, and is not in sympathy with hardly any of the practical interests of our section.—Aberdeen Examiner.

A STEP has been taken in the right direction in Texas by the adoption, at the recent election, of the constitutional amendments relating to the public schools. Under the old Constitution the school tax could not exceed one-fourth of the revenue of the State for all purposes, and the limit of taxation was 50 cents on the $100. This gave but 12½ cents on the $100 for the schools, which was inadequate, and the normal schools have had to run on short time for lack of funds. Under the amendments, which were adopted on a light vote and by a small majority, the School Trustees will be enabled to dispose of the school lands for the immediate benefit of the schools, and to levy a tax "not to exceed 20 cents on the $100" for educational purposes.

MR. SPURGEON, the famous London preacher, being asked whether a man could be a good Christian and belong to a brass band, replied, "Yes, I think he might, but it would be a very difficult matter for his next door neighbor to be a Christian."

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 17, 1883

THE Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College at Starksville, will open its Fall session on the 20th inst.

IT is stated that a large number of New York Democrats insist that either ex-Governor Tilden or Governor Cleveland must be the party candidate for President.

WE learn that Mr. J. A. DeLaunay will begin the publication of the East Carroll Citizen at Lake Providence about the 25th of this month. Mr. DeLaunay is an experienced journalist, and will give the people of East Carroll a good newspaper.

THE Charleston News and Courier prefers a grave charge against Mr. Tilden. It asserts that he agreed to contribute $5,000 to the expenses of the canvass in that State, "that $7500 were spent on the faith of Mr. Tilden's promise, and to this day Mr. Tilden has not repaid a solitary cent of that which was expended in his name."

BY our special correspondence from Jackson, it will be seen that the Colored Convention, which assembled there last Saturday, adopted some very sensible and practical resolutions. It will not be such an easy thing for Greenbackers and anything-to-beat-the Democrats, to set themselves up to catch the colored vote. The colored voters are learning to properly value the right of suffrage.

REV. T. DEWITT TALMAGE encouraged his congregation on the heavenward way with the words: "The railroad track is decreed and the engineer's area free agency; we cannot get along without either, and the train is rolling along the track into God's Grand Central Depot of the millennium. All aboard for heaven!"

RECENTLY in answer to the inquiry of a friend, as to his opinion respecting the Republican prospects in 1884, Mr. Blaine said: "At the present time I regard the prospects of the Republicans in the campaign of 1884 better than they were a year before the campaign of 1880, and in every way more hopeful than they were a year prior to the election of 1876. For years there has not been so general a feeling of harmony in the Republican party as exists at the present time, while the absence of anything like unity of sentiment on the leading issue, the tariff, by the Democratic leaders, leads intelligent men to distrust that organization more than ever." Being asked about available candidates, he said that he thought a Western man would be strongest, all things considered, than an Eastern man.

WHAT a difference. The People's Convention at Raymond was half white and colored. The Democratic Convention was solidly white. The so-called Republican Convention was solidly black. The time has passed for drawing the color-line in Hinds county. Men should meet in a convention as men.—Jackson Tribune.

This is very fine talk, and is evidently intended to tickle the mind of the "colored man and brother." It is estimated that there are about 500 white Independents, Greenbackers and malcontents in Hinds county. If the Independent ticket is successful in that county it will have to get the bulk of its support from the negro voters who number about 5,000. Now, if, as the Tribune suggests, "men should meet in Convention as men" without regard to color, should not the offices, honors and emoluments be also given to these "men who meet in Convention as men" without reference to color? The recent Independent Convention in Hinds county nominated twelve candidates for county offices, and out of this large number saw fit to give the negroes "who met in Convention as men" only three nominations—one member of the Legislature, the Circuit Clerk, and the Coroner-Ranger. The white Independents who met their colored brethren and men, very modestly reserved to themselves the candidates for Sheriff, and State Senator, three members of the Legislature, Chancery Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor and Surveyor. And, if we are not mistaken, they also nominated four candidates for Supervisors, all of whom are white.

The Independents seem very willing to meet the negroes in Convention as men to men, but when it comes to dividing the offices, it is about in the proportion of twelve to the white "men to men" to three for the "nigger" "men to men." Notwithstanding, the negro is expected to do three-fourths of the voting if the ticket is elected.

Warren County Democrats.

The Democracy of this county assembled in Convention last Saturday. The Convention passed a resolution reaffirming the State and National Democratic platforms. The most important action of the Convention was the resolution deciding not to make nominations for county offices.

Our people have been enjoying a season of rest from political strife and contention, and a desire to continue this state of affairs, no doubt, prompted the action of the Convention. A great deal of indifference was manifested in the different Ward and District meetings, to send delegates to the County Convention, and most of them were slimly attended. Notwithstanding all this, our people are impressed with the importance of having good and competent officials. It was probably wise under all the circumstances that would attend a political canvass in this county, not to make nominations; but at the same time, it cannot be gainsaid that the Democrats, who represent the bulk of the intelligence, the business and the property interests of the county, are entitled to representations in the county offices, and if the Convention had made a demand of this sort, the Republican Convention soon to assemble, would no doubt accede to it. Unfortunate and unwise management characterized the course of the Democrats at the last county election, when they refused a very liberal offer from the Republicans, made the Sheriff's office a bone of contention, and lost everything. Possibly a fear of a similar result prevented an effort for a division of offices between the Democrats and Republicans this time.

We are informed that the Republican Convention to assemble this week will not be likely to make any nominations. This will insure a free for all or "scrub" race, as it is termed. If it results in the selection of good officials no harm will be done, but on the contrary a positive gain will be made in escaping a heated political campaign.

In 1879 there was a similar race in this county, and the result was not disastrous to the peace, prosperity or welfare of our people. Let us hope the action of our County Convention will turn out to be "all for the best."

Randall the Man.

A Washington correspondent of the Nashville American, who has been making some observations on the canvass for Speaker, gives the following as the situation in Washington:

"The burden of about all that the public gets coming here say is that the Democrats must act cautiously and wisely in the next session if the confidence of the American people is to be retained through the presidential contest. One of the most conspicuous elements in such a political programme is a safe leadership. This, without an exception, is conceded to be secured in the person of Mr. Randall. Even the most bitter opponents of the astute Pennsylvanian in his canvass for the Speakership admit that his services are indispensable, and while they object to him as speaker, nearly to a man select him as the head of the appropriation committee to battle for economy and purity of service in all branches of the Government. In other words, they acknowledge the leadership of the man in this trial session, when Democratic interests are at stake, but for personal reasons would not place him in the position where he could and would be of the most essential and actual benefit to his party. It is noticeable however, that these gentlemen admit that Randall furnishes the safer leadership and would be a more potential power in politics than any other man suggested, not for the gratification of an individual ambition, but for the good of the political organization to which he is allied. This is just what is giving him strength with the members, and particularly the new ones, and which will without doubt give him a majority of the caucus vote, any alliance offensive or defensive between Messrs. Carlisle and Cox to the contrary notwithstanding.

Although what I have written has somewhat of the personal tone, it has been the sole endeavor of your correspondent to present a reflex of the statements emanating from some of those who will have a deciding voice in the determination of the nomination for Speaker.

SOME of the disaffected Democrats, and others, held a mass meeting in Monroe county, several days since. The Aberdeen Examiner refers to it at length, but we only extract the following to show the composition of the meeting:

When the assembly that congregated at the Athens Camp Grounds on the 4th inst. had been called to order, and a member of the Executive Committee that was selected by the Regular Democratic Convention of July 28th, took the chair to preside over this heterogeneous concourse, and saw among the upturned faces those who had trained in every political organization that ever blessed or cursed the country, it was natural enough that a shudder of wondering surprise should pervade the whole assemblage, and that the participants, seeking identity, should start in by adopting the following resolution, to-wit:

Resolved—

1. That this is a true Democratic mass meeting of Monroe county.

Whereupon the Greenbackers winked at the Independents; the Independents ogled the Radicals; the Radicals looked sweet at the fence-straddlers, while they all cast sheep's eyes at the Democratic kickers and defeated Convention candidates; and they, dear innocent souls that they were, looked aloft, tried as it were to pierce the rafters that they might see in the cloud rifts, a crown of glory jemmed for each.

IT is said that the Cincinnati Southern will shortly put on a fast mail train between Cincinnati and Chattanooga, the trip to be made in eight hours.

At The Mill.

What did you see, my farmer?
Gray walls of wood and stone,
A mill-wheel turning to grind your grist,
And turning for that alone;
You hear the mill-stone's murmur,
The splash of the tumbling rill,
As you plod with your oxen slowly down
The sunny slopes of the hill.

The heavens are blue above you,
There's sun shade on the road;
You touch the brindle backs of your team
And reckon the bags in the load.
You clip the heads of the daisies,
And wonder that God should need
To litter the fields with the staring blooms
Of a stubborn and worthless weed.

You're honest, true and sturdy:
Here, give me your brawny hand—
A singer of idle songs, I greet
The farmer who tills the land.
Plod home with your grist in the gloaming;
The baby crows at the gate,
And over the hill by the pasture bars—
The lowing cattle wait.

What do I see, my farmer?
The mill and the rill and the wheel,
The moss on the shingles, and mould on the stones,
And the floating mists of meal.
But the poet's vision is clearer,
Revealing the hidden things:
I see the rivulet flow to the sea
From cool, clear, wooden springs.

I see the brown fields quicken
With the green of the growing wheat,
When the swallow's artilt at the bending eaves,
And the breath of the morn is sweet.
I see the swaying grasses
In fields of the golden grain;
And oxen that pant in the summer sun
Yoked to a loaded wain.

I see white sails careening
On the sun-painted seas,
When the silvery sunlight glints the waves
That are stirred by freshening breeze.
I see the storm-rack gather,
That blots out the evening star;
And flung in the foam of a billow's crest,
A drowned man lashed to a spar.

I see in the city's shadows
A figure that creeps and crawls
"Give bread or bread," while the wine flows red
And there's mirth in the city halls.
I see a rich man's daughter,
As fresh as the rose's bloom,
And the gaunt, white face of a little child,
Dead, in a barren room.

Plod home with your grist, my farmer,
Nor heed how the wide world fares:
The eyes that are clearest are saddest, always,
With their burden of alien cares.
Hushed is the mill-stone's murmur,
The dripping wheel is still;
And over the dusky vale I hear
The song of the whip-poor-will.

Missippi Convention of Colored Men.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]

JACKSON, MISS., Sept. 16, 1883.

The State Convention of colored men, which assembled here Saturday, elected a full list of delegates to the Louisville, (Ky.) Convention. Among them were Register Bruce and Ham Carter.

Resolutions were adopted condemning the practice of calling these periodical gatherings, and instructing their delegates to use their best exertions to prevent the Convention from falling into the hands of the chronic office-seekers who hang about Washington City, and also one endorsing the political course of Hon. John R. Lynch in his efforts to throttle Chalmersism.

A State Committee was appointed and organized by the election of J. J. Spelman, the President of the Convention, as Chairman, whose duty it shall be to look after the Educational and Industrial interests of the race. OCCASIONAL.

Heir to $70,000,000.

It is announced in legal circles that Mr. John Jacob Astor had decided all his property to his only son, William Waldorf Astor, now U. S. Minister to Rome. The news created a profound sensation, and old lawyers declared that it was only another movement by the Astors not to permit the value of their immense estate to be publicly known.

John Jacob Astor is now an old man, and although in apparent good health, the question of wills, deeds, heirs and Surrogate Courts must occur to him. The story, as reported, is that Mr. Astor has deeded away all his property, but that the deeds will not be recorded until after his death. His son, William W. Astor, receives everything, subject, however, to a pension of $100,000 per annum, payable to his father during his life. By this means of transferring the property two objects are said to be accomplished—first, that the estate will not be divided among different heirs; and secondly, that no litigation over a will can ever come into court by which the value of the estate would be discovered. There are unquestionably other branches of the family, which, if a will leaving all to the son were made, might enter a contest. It has always been the idea of Mr. John J. Astor's life to entail his property, and to have the estate remain intact from generation to generation as in England. The present John Jacob Astor's father died about thirty-five years ago, bequeathing his property to John Jacob and William B. Astor, and to his daughter, now Mrs. Chandler. There was also an idiot son in the family, for whom ample provision was made, and also for his son's guardian. The idiotic child grew to manhood, and died several years after his father's death.

At the time the estate was worth about $30,000,000 or $40,000,000. It was then mainly unproductive. John Jacob Astor received the largest part of the estate, including the Astor House, which was deeded to him for $1. The golden principle of the Astor family was never to build until forced to do so, and when a building was put up it was intended to last for years. The estate grew more valuable each year, until to-day the value is really unknown. Most of the property lies between Twenty-third to Fiftieth streets, from Eighth to Third Avenues. Murrry Hill lies in the heart of the family possessions. Blocks and blocks of houses belong to John Jacob Astor, all of which he has deeded to his son. The value of John Jacob Astor's estate is estimated at from between $60,000,000 to $70,000,000, and Wm. B. Astor's estate at something less. The present Mr. Astor's idea is for his son to follow the same course he has, and so through generations.—New York News.

DAUGHTERS of the late Gen. Garfield and Mr. Hayes attend the same school in Cleveland.

New Orleans and Northeastern Road.

Mr. George B. Nicholson, engineer in charge of the construction of the Southern division of the New Orleans and Northeastern road, arrived in the city yesterday from an inspection of the line. He informed the reporter that the south draw of the Lake bridge will be swung into place within the next two weeks, and when this is done the track will be further advanced to the trestle.

The first pier of the West Pearl River bridge is finished, and is ready for the erection of the draw span, which will be put in place in a few days. While the erection of the draw is in progress, work on the remaining piers will be finished, which will then permit the building of the fixed spans.

Over the East Pearl River a temporary trestle work has been built, on which the track will be laid in order to avoid the delay of waiting until the iron spans are erected, the piers for which are very nearly completed.

On Honey Island there are several small wooden trestles which are not yet completed, but which will be ready for the track by the time it reaches that locality.

Mr. Nicholson states that every contractor who is slow or backward with his work is being pushed vigorously. He thinks that the track will reach the West Pearl River by October 1, and that there is every reason to believe that the road will be completed to this city by November 1.—Times Democrat.

Railroad Appointments.

Under the recent reorganization of the transportation department of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railway system, the following appointments will take effect on Sept. 15:

W. W. Wells, Superintendent of the C., N. O. & T. P. R. R., with headquarters at Somerset, Ky.; T. S. Williams, Superintendent of New Orleans and Northeastern road, headquarters at New Orleans; D. H. Purdon, master of transportation of the Alabama Great Southern, Vicksburg and Meridian, and Northeastern roads. All orders for the movement of trains by telegraph will be sent and received in his name.

T. J. Hewlett, trainmaster Alabama Great Southern road, with headquarters at Birmingham.

D. N. Ennis, general baggage agent of the entire system, with headquarters at Cincinnati.—N. O. Times-Democrat.

SEVERAL visitors at the great sea side resorts at Little Boar's Head, and Rye Beach, New Hampshire, were killed last month by disease traced to drinking foul water from the hotel wells.

Female Institute

Clinton, Hinds County, Miss.,

REV. WALTER HILLMAN, LL.D., Pres't,

Who will send catalogue, or give other information respecting the Institution, on application.

This is the oldest Institution for the education of Young Ladies, and is without a superior, in the State or Southwest.

The year now closing has been eminently prosperous, filling the Institution's accomodations for pupils to their utmost capacity.

Among the many superior advantages are: Extensive and Thorough Courses of Study; the Long and Successful Experience of the Heads of its Departments; Educational Facilities such as Apparatus, Cabinets, Libraries, etc., the accumulation of nearly half of a century; Expenses, considering the QUANTITY and QUALITY of the returns made, very low.

The Thirty-first Collegiate year begins Tuesday, September 25th.

The fast little steamer E. W. Cole, Capt. J. F. Ellison master and M. D. Baldwin clerk, will arrive down from Arkansas City to-morrow and leave at 4 p.m. on her first regular trip to Greenville and the Bends this season. The Cole is well adapted to the trade her owners have chosen for her.

The large boiler which rolled into the river last Saturday while being loaded on the steamer Sallie Carney, was successfully raised this morning. A diver was brought down from the Ferry Saturday night, and between 11 and 12 o'clock yesterday he went down and put some heavy chains and ropes around the boiler, by which it was hauled up this morning.

Steamboatmen here are beginning to look forward to the starting of the P. Line steamers S. H. Parisot and City of Yazoo with a great deal of interest. Capt. Frank Beck came up from New Orleans Saturday, and while in conversation with the river reporter of THE POST said that the Parisot had been put in apple-pie order, and would soon be ready to enter the race. The Parisot is not quite a year old, and is a "stunner" in every sense of the word.

The Annie P. Silver, from St. Louis, arrived here at 7 o'clock yesterday, evening and left at 9 p.m. for New Orleans. She dropped the barge that she had to use to lighten herself over the several bars between here and Memphis, at this point. The barge was towed up to the coal fleet, where it will await the next Anchor Liner going up.

The prompt and reliable Vicksburg and Greenville packet Issaquena, Capt. H. C. Marrionneaux master and Frank Steigleman clerk, arrived here Saturday night. She was detained a few hours by unusually heavy freights. This elegant packet will leave for Greenville and all intermediate points at 5 o'clock this evening.

It is currently reported that Capt. Geo. H. Smith will put a boat in the Sunflower river trade in opposition to the P. Line. Capt. Smith is now in the Sunflower country, presumably to make contracts with planters for cotton shipments.

The United States snagboat O. G. Wagner arrived here Saturday evening from Red river, and is laid up just below Kleinston, where she is having some repairing done. It cannot be learned at present which direction she will take when she leaves Vicksburg.

The following is the advertisement in the New Orleans papers referred to in our special from that place Saturday last:

FOR YAZOO AND TALLAHATCHIE RIVERS.

PARISOT LINE.

For Natchez, Vicksburg, Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Sunflower Rivers—The new and light-draught passenger steamer

CLIPPINGS.

St. Louis telegram to Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: Through the agency of Jenkins & Sass Gen. H. C. Ewing to-day sold to Capt. D. H. Silver the steamer John L. Rhoads. She was towed down to the docks this evening, and Capt. Silver will give her a thorough docking, refurnish, paint and put cotton guards on her, and change her name to C. C. Carroll, after Mr. Carroll, of the enterprising insurance firm of Carroll & Powell, a good man and a good name. She will enter Red River in the cotton trade independently the coming season.

Cincinnati Times-Star: The Southern Transportation Line held a meeting this morning and discussed the preliminaries of an arrangement for the New Orleans boats this coming season. * * * Mr. Ed. Miller, Secretary of the Southern Transportation Line, returned this morning from a visit to Louisville. He reports Mr. Elliott Miller, chief clerk of the Houston, at Jeffersonville, superintending the repainting of that boat. It is said the Houston's new decorations combine all the essentials of richness and elegance.

Memphis Avalanche 16th: It is said that the Chas. P. Chouteau, Helena, Henry Frank and Cherokee will run between this port and New Orleans during the cotton season. They will be known as the "Big Four Line." * * * The City of New Orleans, a little over four days out from New Orleans, passed to St. Louis last night with 400 tons of freight. She discharged at the elevator 1000 packages. The Orleans will lay up at St. Louis on account of the low stage of the river.

New Orleans States 16th: The Marine Hospital Service seems to have been well conducted in the last two years, and are receiving great credit for the same by the press of the country, and the Memphis Ledger wants to know what has become of the Mississippi Valley Sanitary Council. * * * Capt. I. W. Lovell, of Nashville, Tenn., claims that the steamer Ella is the lightest draft boat afloat. She only draws ten inches.

A GREAT STEAMBOAT.

A representative of the Daily States on yesterday boarded the steamboat Ed. Richardson—named for the largest cotton planter of the world—for the purpose of seeing how she was being prepared for the business of the season, and found everything thoroughly satisfactory. This reporter is somewhat of an expert on the subject of steamboats, having served many years both in building and running them, and flatters himself that it is not a very easy matter to humbug him with any schoenedad taffy. He did not go on board to ascertain the palatance of the captain, on the courtesy of the clerk, or the catering qualifications of the steward, or the mixing character-istics of the barkeeper, but to see how the solid men were doing their work. By solid men he means those who build boats, and their machinery, and manage them in their several departments. The reporter found on board Mr. Wm. Magreevy, chief engineer, who has been on the boat during the past four years, and the traveling public may rest assured that so long as he holds control over the furnaces, gauge cocks and throttle valves, the lives of passengers will not be endangered by incompetency or negligence on his part. We found there a corps of carpenters hard at work, among them Mr. James Lask, President of the Ship Carpenters and Joiners' Benevolent Association, who, with maul in hand, was fastening a wheel fender to the hull.

The repairs in the carpenter line have been nearly completed under the superintendence of Mr. Wm. Stewart, carpenter of the vessel. And the reporter, after critically examining things generally in the mechanical departments began to ask questions in regard to other matters. This steamer will leave on the 18th of the present month for Vicksburg, taking the place and business of that great steamer the "Robert E. Lee."

The Richardson is 321 feet in length, 51 feet breadth, 103 feet hold and a carrying capacity of 8,000 bales of cotton; has 85 staterooms 175 fixed berths, and can comfortably carry and accommodate 225 passengers, 175 first cabin and 50 in second. Her crew will by law consist of one master, two engineers, one mate and one carpenter and 40 men. The engineer is allowed to carry 160 pounds pressure on the boilers; the engines are 1437 horse power, 10 feet stroke, cylinder 38 inches diameter, wheel 40 feet in diameter with 18 feet length of bucket, nine boilers 32 feet long and 42 inches in diameter. There are but few people that know or care to know the power of a steamboat's engine, and the power required of it. Each of the wheels of the Richardson weighs 47 tons, and when we add weight of crank, pitman piston rod and piston-head we have 61 tons weight for each engine to move before giving motion to the boat.—New Orleans States, 13th.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in 85 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep11

LOCAL ITEMS.

ED. MYGATT is home after a pleasant Summer trip.

MR. CLAUDE JONES is much improved to-day.

W. A. FAIRCHILD, of Lake Station, is in town to-day.

MR. G. P. H. RECTOR, took his departure by Saturday night's train.

MR. JOE HIRSH and family returned home this morning from a Summer trip.

MAJ. L. W. MAGRUDER left by Saturday night's train for a short trip to Yazoo county.

MR. BENSON BLAKE and wife were passengers for New Orleans by last night's mail train.

MR. W. K. BENDER, was among the arrivals by this morning's train from a business trip North.

PARTIES in search of a private boarding house are directed to a local to be found elsewhere.

MRS. KATE FOUSSE and family left for Meridian last night where they will make their present home.

MRS. MANWELL and Miss Lucas, of Madison parish, came in this morning from a trip to Chicago and the Northwest.

MR. W. H. STOWERS and wife returned home this morning from a visit to Atlanta, Ga., where they spent a while visiting relatives.

MESSRS. J. N. HAZLEHURST, C. Ashby, Jos. Martinolchi, and Chancellor McLaurin came up from Port Gibson this morning.

MASTER WALTER PERRY is now connected with the new firm of S. Q. Kline & Co., where he will be pleased to serve his many friends.

THE Issaquena arriving here Saturday night had 800 sacks seed for the Powers Oil Mill, 12 bales cotton for town, and 35 bales for New Orleans.

MR. JOSEPH NEWWITTER, of the enterprising firm of Switzer, Newwitter & Co., arrived home from New York this morning, where he has been making purchases for the Fall and Winter trade.

BRANCH 87, C. K. of A. hold their regular monthly meeting to-night. Three assessments are due and must be paid, and other important business will be transacted.

MR. P. B. MOORE, of the Port Gibson News, a sprightly and newsy paper in our neighboring town, paid us a visit this morning. He is in our city in the interest of his paper.

THE Presbyterian Church is now in the hands of the repairer and will be thoroughly repaired. Among the improvements being made, a new lot of windows of stained glass are being put in, which will add much to the appearance of the church.

HOGS have been at work for the last three or four days rooting up the side walk along the Flowerree property on Clay street between Walnut and Monroe and what was one of the best sidewalks in the city is now torn completely up for about half the distance. The city should repair this sidewalk immediately as they allow the hogs to run at large, which caused the damage.

AS THE the canvass is now opening we desire to say to candidates that we will be glad to announce their names for the various offices, but all announcements must be paid for in advance. No exception will be made to this rule, and announcements without the fee accompanying the name will receive no attention whatever.

THROUGH the appreciated courtesy of Signal Officer Kenealy, we are enabled to furnish the following account of the rainfall in this city during the month of August and up to the 16th of September. On the 3d of last month .86 inches fell, on the 15th .16 inches, on the 16th .52 inches, and 21st .32 inches; making a total of only 1.86 inches during the entire month of August. On the 15th and 16th of this month .66 inches of rain fell.

MR. CHAS. W. FISHER has received from New York, a certificate, which was filled out here, and certifies that he is Chief of the Fire Department, etc. The picture represents several acts common among firemen and when framed makes a nice ornament for the home of any of those who are members of our department. Firemen can purchase them from the chief, for the small sum of sixty cents.

THE New Orleans Times-Democrat says it has reliable information to the effect that Mr. R. H. Garratt, the popular traveling agent of the Alabama Great Southern road, will be appointed ticket agent of the New Orleans and Northeastern road in this city. The appointment will be judicious in every respect, for the reason that Mr. Garratt is a thorough railroad man, and is known in railroad circles throughout the South.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found the card of S. Q. Kline & Co., who have opened at O. H. Perry's old stand. They have a complete stock of the very best class of groceries, which they bought for cash and thus can sell as cheap as any house in the city. It will be well for our friends to give them a call. Mr. S. Q. Kline who will have charge of the business is well known for his integrity and fair dealing.

Railroad Rumors.

A great deal of what are known as round house rumors are in circulation in regard to changes contemplated in the running of trains on the V. & M. R. R., when the New Orleans and Northeastern road is completed. Among them it is said that the train on the V. & M. will only run through to Meridian, where passengers will have to change to the train that will run through from New Orleans to Cincinnati. Another rumor, and one that is likely to be correct, is that there will be two daily passenger trains on this road, as well as on the N. O. & N. E. road. One of each will go through to Chattanooga and a train will be made up from the other two at Meridian to go through.

It is possible that passenger trains will not be put on the N. O. & N. E. road for awhile after its completion, but freights will be run over it till the road settles a little.

Delia and Maggie Bridges.

Next Thursday and Friday nights our citizens will have the oppotunity to enjoy a rare entertainment at the Opera-house. These wonderful twins are only about 8 years old, and are aptly denominated "Mississippi prodigies." They possess vocal, instrumental and histrionic powers that are unsurpassed, cousidering their youthfulness. The twins first came into prominence by assisting in entertainments given for benevolent purposes at their home in Summit, and in other towns in south Mississippi. And now, that they are giving entertainments in their own behalf their merit should be fully recognized. The Natchez Democrat speaks in terms of highest praise of their abilities and talent as recently demonstrated in that city. While in Natchez the twins gave a concert for the benefit of the Protestant Orphan Asylumn, under the auspices of the Masons of that city, which realized about $230 for the orphans. The press at all towns where the little girls have played, speak in the most complimentary manner of the excellence of their entertainments; they are also endorsed by the leading citizens of Mississippi, and we feel that we can recomend this native talent to the people of Vicksburg with perfect confidence.

The Post Libel Suit.

The Vicksburg Post has a libel suit on its hands. It was a good paper before, but it now ranks as a great newspaper. The suit is a small affair, but it is libel suit, nevertheless. The prosecutor is a colored gentleman, named Marble, who lately escaped from the chain gang. A paper that can damage the character of such an important personage must be a power for good or evil. The Post undertook to polish off this Marble but the polish wouldn't take. Any paper that would charge a gentleman with stealing chickens, when the record showed that he only obtained money under false pretenses, ought to have a $150 libel suit to defend.—Memphis Ledger.

Keep the Horses.

The city needs more teams for street purposes, and as they have ordered a pair of horses for Phenix Fire Company they should take the pair now used by that Company and use them on the streets instead of selling them as proposed. The price offered for the old horses is only $300, and it is the opinion of many citizens that it would be better to use them here for the work of gravelling the streets than to sell them. Will not the price of the horses be saved in a year's time in what is now paid out for hire of teams? Let the Council think of this before selling the present team. All the streets in the city should be gravelled, and to do this good teams will be needed. No fault will be found by taxpeyers if the city spends a little money to permanently improve the streets.

The Convention will elect a new Executive Committee for the county.

Military Notes.

THE Vicksburg Rifles seeing that it is impossible to get twenty-four men to attend the drills of the company regularly at night, have or will decide to-night to sleep in their armory, and drill every morning from 5 o'clock until the hours for opening business. The strictest camp regulations have been drawn up, and every member of the company that intends to go to Jackson for the competitive drill will agree on his honor that he will obey the rules set forth in the regulations. THE Post is confident that there is good material in the Rifles, and will do anything in its power to further the efforts of the officers and men of either the Rifles or Southrons, to make themselves perfect in every particular. The regular drills of the two companies takes place to-night.

THE cotton season is opened and the oppressed colored man is selling his staple. The poor oppressed man who is not allowed on account of numerous deficiencies, to hold the highest political offices in the land, receives his money from the hard-hearted cotton dealer and straight way goes where a gentlemanly but oppressed negro sells whisky at five cents a drink. In this establishment is is a very amusing game, with which the poor, oppressed colored man soon becomes infatuated. He loses his money, after which he becomes a delegate to a convention where the abuses foisted on the colored race are rehearsed.—Arkansaw Traveler.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE POST will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post job Printing Company." We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

The Reveille on the Press Excursion.

The press-gang's reception at Louisville—says the telegrams—was very imposing. We suspect the biggest part of the "imposing" was felt by the Louisvillians.

Cincinnati fairly bristled with press-gang orators last Monday. Rev. Dr. Galloway reluctantly spoke, President Morehead electrified the throng, and then followed a free lunch at the Burnet House at which the press men were entirely self possessed.—Port Gibson Reveille.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

The Suicided Virginia Judge—Election Prospects in Ohio.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Some of the secretaries are showing a disposition to earn their pay. Seller Teller of the Interior is back after an absence of some two months. Mr. Lincon has resumed work after a long absence. Mr. Folger is back at his desk again but his absenteeism maks up a fearful record. All the others are absent. Mr. Frelinghuysen, Secretary of State, has been away near two months. Mr. Brewster, Attorney General, does not seem to feel that he has a duty to perform. Mr. Chandler has been gone the whole Summer. Mr. Gresham, who began very lively, has exhausted himself on his new lottery order and has gone off to recruit.

President Arthur flitted here the other day, and has flitted off for "a rest," as it is the fashion to call it, "from his ardnous labors." The Government may possibly resume operations in two weeks, but this is doubtful.

All these gentlemen are drawing their pay with steady regularity, and all affect great zeal for civil service reform. The Government is being run by the clerks. It turns out that the Mr. Mayo who committed suicide was the alleged Congressman from the First Virginia District, but is Judge Robert Mayo. He was laboring under great depression of spirits, but the special cause is not known.

A private letter from a prominent Democratic politican, at Cincinnati, is that the Democratic Legislative ticket in Hamilton county will certainly be elected. This would insure the majority of the Legislature to the Democrats and probably also the election of Hoadley.

BEECHER failed to catch on to public sentiment in San Francisco. The people did not hanker for him, and gave the impression that the old man was "played out." RUHMAN & CO.

Meeting of the Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade.

The meeting held yesterday of the Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade, which was called to take into consideration the question of a road to the lower landing, was largely attended and quite a lively time had.

Capt. Cowan asked if the town of Kleinston was an incorporated place, and Mr. Geo. M. Klein stated it was not, but the Wharf and Landing Company was incorporated.

Capt. Cowan said, in his opinion, that as the company controlling that place were working against Vicksburg's interest, they should build the road themselves, and not ask the city to do so.

The Wharf and Landing Company had notified the V. & M. R. R., this year that they would charge them $500 a month rental this year for railroad connection with the landing, while last year they had only been charged $90 per month. This large increase was made because the Railroad brought cotton to and from the Vicksburg Compress.

Mr. Kuhn stated that when the road had been laid out last year, Mr. Rigby had not owned any of the land through which it passed.

Mr. Klein said the Wharf and Land Company were not asking anything of Vicksburg as for a necessity for the business of Vicksburg. If the Wharf and Land Company build the road, they would have to charge toll on it.

Mr. Hoffman favored the building of the road on the old route decided upon last year.

Mr. Halpin, President of the Cotton Exchange, and Mr. Hutchison, President of the Board of Trade, said that the meeting was called to discuss the question of a road to the landing and to endeavor to have the city and county build the road.

On motion of Mr. Teller, the Presidents of the Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade appointed a committee of five from each of those bodies to wait on the City Council and Board of Supervisors and request that they build the road.

The committees are: On part of Cotton Exchange—E. Teller, L. Hirsch, S. H. Parisot, C. Wise, Willis and S. Field. For Board of Trade—Alex. Kuhn, Jacob Shlenker, S. Schwartz, George S. Irving and Louis Hoffman.

It was resolved, on motion made by Mr. Kuhn that if the city did not have the money on hand to do the work, they be requested to issue loan warrants to be repaid out of the taxes of 1884, and the merchants of the city would cash them so the work could be done immediately.

ALDERMAN CHAS. EHRMAN was assaulted this morning in front of the Woodbine Saloon, by one J. N. Collier. The difference which led to the assault grew out of Ehrman's driving some cattle over Collier's land, and refusing to make a settlement that was satisfactory to the latter. Collier was arrested and a charge of assault and battery was preferred against him.

FORT BAYOU FEVER.

What Dr. Shannon Has to Say—A Clear and Calm Statement.

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss., Sept. 10, 1883.

Editor Democrat-Star:

I desire in justice to myself and in refutation of the unjust criticisms and misrepresentations of which I have been the subject, to give some of the facts relative to the death of Mr. Frank Snyder, which occurred at the residence of his brother Col. W. R. Snyder on the 9th of August, 1883, on Fort Bayou in this county.

I will here say that Col. Snyder's residence is situated on one of the highest and healthiest points in this section of country, and free from local influences likely to cause disease of any kind; certainly the last place that I would expect to find yellow fever, there being none within our borders except at the quarantine stations, and the cordon at Ship Island and other infected localities was believed to be sufficiently perfect to prevent the introduction of the fever poison into the interior. The unkind things that have been said of me are probably due to a "statement" made by Dr. D. C. Case, of Ocean Springs, to Dr. W. H. Carson, Inspector of the Louisiana State Board of Health, and incorporated by Dr. Carson in his official report of Aug. 11th, and published in the PICAYUNE of August 13th and widely copied by the press and accepted as true.

In this "statement" Dr. Case asserts that Mr. Snyder did not die of yellow fever, notwithstanding the fact that but a day or two before, when the post-mortem was ended, he gave it as his opinion that it was yellow fever. Here is what Mr. Ellis, a neighbor of Col. Snyder, has to say:

BELLEFONTAINE, Miss., Aug. 29, '83.

Dr. H. Shannon, Ocean Springs—

Dear Sir—I was present at the post-mortem examination made by yourself and Dr. Case, in the case of Mr. Frank Snyder and I asked Dr. Case what he thought of the case, and he told me emphatically that it was yellow fever. He told you, Dr. in my presence that it was yellow fever. When the Dr. started home, I then asked him what he thought of the case. In reply to my inquiry he told me "he could put it up to be nothing else but yellow fever."

Respectfully yours,
T. W. ELLIS.

Regarding this case with suspicion I determined to exhaust all available sources of scientific information to ascertain if possible its true nature. I therefore telegraphed Dr. Joseph Jones for a "fever expert," and I invited Dr. Case to be present at the autopsy. The expert failing to arrive in time Dr. Case and I made the examination. The result not being satisfactory to me, and believing the condition could probably be accounted for from another and a very different cause, I determined to submit the stomach and contents for further examination. While Dr. Case was placing the specimens in alcohol, in his office, I wrote a short letter to accompany them, which was read and approved by Dr. Case and all three placed in a box and expressed to Dr. Joseph Jones. I expected that my telegram and letter would remain private until the specimens had been examined and a final conclusion reached, and then give the result to the public.

I confess I was surprised and disappointed when I saw my telegram and letter in print, though neither had been marked confidential. But as I now understand matters I do not censure Dr. Jones for reporting them to the Louisiana State Board of Health at the time he did.

Late on Sunday night August 12th, nearly four days after Mr. Snyder's death, I received a letter from Dr. Joseph Jones giving the result of his investigations, from which I make the following extract:

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11, 1883.

Dr. Shannon, Ocean Springs, Miss.,

Dear Sir:—Accept my thanks for the information contained in your letter accompanying the specimens.

The cases certainly deserve careful examination, and all facts regarding the origin of this form of disease, and more especially their connections with the shipping should be ascertained and recorded. * * * I examined the black vomit from the stomach and found it to contain Blood Corpuscles, Hematin, and dark granular matter. In fact it contained altered blood. * * * The appearance of the stomach as well as the microscopical, chemical and physical character of its contents more nearly resemble those of yellow-fever, and prudence demands that you should treat the subject in this light and institute all necessary measures of isolation, disinfection, etc.

Please keep me informed of all developments. Respectfully your ob't servt.,

JOSEPH JONES, M. D.
Prest. Board of Health.

This letter dispelled all doubt in my mind as to the nature of the disease, and coming from one so justly eminent in the profession, must be accepted by all fair-minded men as conclusive. I have not heretofore given the facts to the public, because I desired to keep the family in which this case occurred, and others, in ignorance of the real disease until sufficient time had elapsed to prevent the possibility of new cases from that point.

In an act of justice, I request all papers that published Dr. Case's opinion as incorporated in Dr. Carson's official report of August 11th, to give this a place in their columns. Respectfully,

H. SHANNON, M. D.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 18, 1883

THE Cincinnati Enquirer denounces Senator Pendleton as "a sulker, a skulker and a sneak."

THE Governor of New Hampshire has vetoed the Railroad Commission bill recently passed by the Legislature of that State.

THE daily declaration of New York Sun that Mr. Tilden will not accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency is exciting suspicion.

THE Memphis Ledger has been enlarged and otherwise improved. The Ledger is an evening paper, and is deservedly popular.

IOWA is having a real political canvass. Among the speakers advertised are Senators Harrison, Hawley, Logan, Plumb and Ingalls, Emory Storrs and Representative Horr.

THE fusion of the Hinds county Democracy with the Republicans is looked upon in that county as a wise movement, and one that will secure peace and harmony between the races. The ticket nominated is a strong one, and will no doubt be elected.—Pascagoula Star.

THE Kershaw (S. C.) Gazette says there can be no possible doubt that South Carolina is in better condition, as far as general prosperity and accumulation of capital is concerned, than she was before the war. The wealth of the State is not now confined to a few, but is shared by the masses. The people are more progressive and energetic than before the war.

OF the Cincinnati Enquirer and its manager, Mr. McLean, the Cincinnati News-Journal declares: "The Enquirer's three-column assault upon Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton was the inspiration of an idiot, if idiots may be inspired. The local Democratic ticket in Hamilton county will be overwhelmingly defeated if the venom of this nasty little fellow McLean is permitted to poison the local contest."

WE have received the first number of the Crusader, published at Natchez under the auspices of the "C. U." We don't know what "C. U." stands for; but the Crusader is evidently trying to be what is called a red-hot newspaper, a style of journalism that the people have long since tired of. The Crusader is very small—four pages, four columns to the page.

WE had the pleasure of a visit this morning from our old-time friend, Judge Upton M. Young, formerly of Vicksburg, now of St. Louis. The Judge is as genial, and social and cheerful as ever, and it is a genuine pleasure to meet him. We are glad that he is prospering in St. Louis, and that he is meeting with the professional success that his eminent legal ability and fine oratorical powers are sure to bring him.

WE print elsewhere a statement from our old friend and fellow-citizen, Dr. H. Shannon, in regard to the cases of fever at Fort Brown some months since. A controversy arose upon this subject, and Dr. Shannon was freely criticised and unisadverted upon for his opinions and conduct in the matter. The doctor has calmly and patiently bided his time, and we are glad to know comes our first best in the controversy. Dr. Shannon needs no vindication here in Vicksburg where his character as a gentleman and good citizen, and his ability and high standing as a physician, are known and appreciated. His card, however, will prove interesting to his many friends.

THERE is a free railroad in Oakland, Cal. The city is across the bay from San Francisco, with a population of 45,000. The Central Pacific Company needed a way directly through it, and the principal streets afforded the best route; but the people were reluctant to have the thoroughfare spoiled, and only consented with the provision that no fages should be collected within the corporate limits. There are several stations on this peculiar section of the line, and the residents use the trains freely.

THE Government has inaugurated so many postal reforms this year that the public perceives the possibility of further advantage and cries for more. The reduction of fees for orders not exceeding $10 from 10 to 8 cents, the introduction of the 3 cent $5 order, and the knocking off 2 cent from the letter postage rates, leads to the demand for a reduction of the city postage on "drop letters" from 2 to 1 cent, a charge of only 5 cents on $10 orders, and the extension of the carrier system to the smaller cities.

MISS MAUD BANKS, daughter of Gen. Banks, rose on the platform this season as an elocutionist. She has been in training in Europe.

Immigration.

There is a great stream of sturdy emigrants steadily flowing from Germany and Sweden and Ireland to Castle Garden, and from there it flows westward—not southward. And a vast percentage of capital and population in the densely populated East is steadily drifting—westward, not southward.

Nobody comes to Mississippi—that is so few come that they count for nothing.

We have a fair land, a genial climate, and generous soil; land is cheap and homes are plenty.

The door is open and the invitations have been sent abroad. But the stranger does not come.

Senator George is reported to have said that we don't have immigration because people do not want to come to the South. But why don't they want to come to the South? It is possible that the distinguished Senator has not answered the real question.

With thousands of tillers of the soil in Europe and in the crowded Northern States where land is scarce and high in price, with homes in the fertile South that could be had almost for the asking, there must be some good reason why they don't want to come to the South.

Why is it? There are a few papers in the South who have had the hardihood to say that we lack that tender reverence for human life that characterize some other civilizations; that we have a universal pistol hip-pocket; and a quick trigger finger—and hair-trigger pistols; that we have had a Chisolm massacre and several minor mob-lynchings in the same quarter; that we do not punish brazen-faced criminals of the better class, and do lynch by brute force another class that is both friendless and helpless; that some newspapers, calling themselves the best, advocate murder when committed by an indignant mob, and moreover that what is termed public sentiment does not indignantly crush out these offenses against law and order.

Besides we have a lot of politicians and a kind of politics that keep everybody stirred up regularly once a year—and in a kind of ferment all the time. So when a newspaper here and there, admitting that murders are committed and lynchings occur, insists that there are thousands of good people who condemn these things, such as the Chisolm massacre, for illustration, there is a class of noisy politicians and newspapers who declare that the State is slandered and her good name murdered by a parcel of home enemies—and all that sort of stuff. These same apologists for law-breakers retort, that as many murders are committed in New York and Chicago. But do not let us lose sight of the real question. Undoubtedly that is true in one sense. But the murders there are committed generally by what are termed the "CRIMINAL CLASSES" of society, with an earnest public sentiment of all other classes sternly against it, while in Mississippi the crime of homicide is NOT confined to the ordinary "criminal classes."

The gentleman of society or the sons of the best citizen are as likely to kill their man as the commonest slugger or bar-room bully. There is a public sentiment which exacts something like a fair fight and abhors a downright assassination. And there is a universal sentiment against the crimes of larceny and perjury and the like.

But do we, as a people, deep down in our hearts tenderly love and reverence the human life that Almighty God has given to our fellow-creatures?

We are not going to slander a people who have so many generous and noble qualities; but we love the truth too well to say that we have no faults, and that this particular one, the lack of the highest sentiment of reverence for human life, is not among the number. And we love justice too well ever to condone a murder, whether it is the work of one pistol or the performance of an indignant mob of the "best citizens."

Why does not the flowing tide of immigration flow Southward and Mississippiward?

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., known as the Magic City, has had a growth not less remarkable than that of some of the famous Western cities. In 1873 it was a ragged village of 2,500 inhabitants. In that year it was nearly depopulated by a cholera epidemic. An era of railroad building set in for the State, and the intersection of two there brought Birmingham's population up to 4,000 in 1880. A census just completed gives the city in 1883 11,348 inhabitants. The assessed value of property has increased in three years from $3,000,000 to $8,000,000 The growth of the town is due to the development of the iron mines in the vicinity.—Hartford Post.

THE Louisville Post gives Mr. Carlisle some very sensible advice. It tells him that he is making a blunder—a serious blunder—in offering for an office to which he can never be elected. That he can be elected senator and now is the time for him to gracefully withdraw. The misfortune is that the election for speaker comes off first; otherwise we suspect Mr. Carlisle would take the Post's advice. He seems bent on taking two bites at the official cherry.—Birmingham Age.

"AH, here are some interesting statistics," said Mr. Job Shuttle, as he wiped his eye-glasses. "It seems that in this city occur once in 89 births, and triplets occur once in 8,910 births, while quadruplets only occur in 877,429 births. Great Jinks, what a family a man must have before he can be the happy father of quadruplets!"—Hartford Post.

Overworked.

Up with the birds in the early morning—
The dew-drop glows like a precious gem;
Beautiful tints in the skies are dawning,
But she's never a moment to look at them.

The men are wanting their breakfast early;
She must not linger, she must not wait;
For words that are sharp and looks that are surly
Are what the men give when the meals are late.

Oh, glorious colors the clouds are turning,
It would but look over hill and trees;
But here are the dishes, and here is the churning—
Those things must always yield to these.

The world is filled with the wine of beauty,
If she could but pause and drink it in;
But pleasure, she says, must wait for duty—
Neglected work is committed sin.

Oh, for an hour to cool her head,
Out with the birds and winds so cheery!
But she must get dinner and make her bread.

The busy men in the hay field working,
If they saw her sitting with idle hand,
Would think her lazy, and call it shirking;
And she never could make them understand.

The dinner dishes are all put by,
She sits and sews, though her head is aching,
Till time for supper and "chores" draw nigh.

But after the strife and weary tussle
With life is done, and she lies at rest;
The nation's brain and heart and muscle—
Her sons and daughters—shall call her blest.

And I think the sweetest joy of heaven,
The rarest bliss of eternal life,
And the fullest crown of all, will be given
Unto the wayworn farmer's wife.

Sound Tariff Doctrine.

[N. O. Picayune.]

Last year, while the Tariff Commission, which drafted substantially our present revenue law, was sitting, Mr. E. L. Ranlett, of New Orleans, representing the New Orleans Cotton Exchange and certain manufacturers, appeared before that Commission and delivered an impressive statement, specifying such changes in the law as he regarded beneficial to the interests for which he spoke, and answering such inquiries as the Commissioners thought proper to make. At one point in his remarks he used language so forcible, so fit, and so remarkably like that which has been placed in the Democratic State platforms of several States, that some persons think he ought to be regarded as the author of the new phrasing of the Democratic doctrine on tariff—the phrasing destined to supersede the unwise "tariff for revenue only" which lost us the last election. As it is by no means impossible for much the same train of thought to occur to different people, we cannot pretend to question the claim of any other to the same distinction, especially since the trend of Democratic economical thought has been in this direction. But we are tempted to quote Mr. Ranlett's words and let them speak for themselves:

"I hope and believe it will be found that protection means to secure to the people of each section a fair return for the capital and labor employed, without special detriment to any other class of producers in any other section whose claim to American citizenship is just as good. In short, a tariff must exist for revenue, it should produce no more than the requirements of the Government, and if it be necessary for protection, it should not largely benefit monopolies, foster sectional feeling, or give a preposterous return for capital invested in the manufacture of the articles so protected. Coming from a section that needs protection, and being a citizen of a country that requires a revenue, I believe the interests of all are best served where the burden falls fairly on the customer without regard to locality."

To show similarity of thought, we quote below the tariff plank from the Democratic State platforms adopted this year in several States:

Ohio, June 21, 1883. "We favor tariff for revenue, limited to the necessities of government properly administered, and so adjusted in its application as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productive industries at home and afford just compensation to labor, but not to create nor foster monopolies."

Virginia, July 25, 1883. "We favor tariff for revenue limited to the necessities of government economically administered, and so adjusted in its application as to prevent unequal burdens, encourage productive industries at home, and afford just compensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies."

New Jersey, Sept. 13, 1883. "We favor a tariff for revenue, limited to the necessary expenditures of the Government, and so adjusted as to give protection and encouragement to home productive industry and labor, without producing or fostering monopolies."

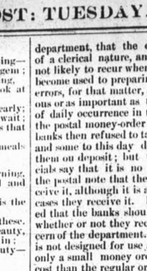

The New Postal Note.

There are great differences of opinion among Post-office officials as to the success or failure of the new postal note. As a rule the officials are friendly to it, and agree with Mr. McDonald, the Superintendent of the money order system, who devised it, that the public should "give the note a chance." The fact that some Western banks have refused to receive the note has created the impression that the blunders which caused the banks to decline the note are inherent in the system. It appears, however, from an investigation of the complaints that have thus far reached the department, that the errors are entirely of a clerical nature, and that they are not likely to recur when the Postmasters become used to preparing the notes. The errors, for that matter, are not so numerous or as important as those which were of daily occurrence in the first stages of the postal money-order system, and the banks then refused to take money orders, and some to this day decline to receive them on deposit; but the Postoffice officials say that it is no argument against the postal note that the banks do not receive it, although it is a fact that in most cases they receive it. It was not intended that the banks should receive it, and whether or not they receive it is no concern of the department. The postal note is not designed for use as currency: it is only a small money order, issued at less cost than the regular order, and intended for small sums, mainly fractions of a dollar. Dr. McDonald, the Superintendent of the Money Order office, for instance, who is very properly called the father of the postal note, expresses the greatest confidence in its success. He admits, however, that it is now in an experimental stage, and that it may be necessary to make some important changes in the present note before the system can be considered fully established. The printing and paper of the note have not fully met expectations. It was supposed that the paper would be of such a chemical composition that it would not be possible to make any erasures, but experiments which have been made show that erasures are possible. There are complaints also about the shape of the note. It is found that it will not go in ordinary envelopes without unnecessary folding, but it is the expectation at the department that the note will ultimately serve the purpose of those who framed it and prove to be a great public benefit.

The elegant Issaquena, Capt. W. C. Marrionneaux master, departed at 5 p.m. yesterday for Greenville and the bends. This boat is famous for her superior passenger accommodations and the excellent manner in which her officers attend to any business that is entrusted to her. She will arrive here to-morrow to leave Thursday at 5 p.m. for Greenville and all upper bend landings. Steigleman, Hendrickson and Sartorius are her clerks.

The fine P. Line steamer E. C. Carroll, Jr., Capt. T. R. Smith master, arrived here last night from Belzoni with 180 bales of cotton for New Orleans and 8 for Parisot & Co., besides a lot of sundries. The Carroll is the regular P. Liner leaving at 5 o'clock this evening for Yazoo City, connecting there with the P. Line steamer for Tallahatchie river. Charley Wallace, Harry Goosey, and Geo. Matlove are her clever clerks.

The Big Ed. Richardson, Capt. John W. Tobin in command, and W. N. Calmes in charge of the office, arrived at Delta at 4 p.m. yesterday. After lying at that point for two hours, she crossed the river to Kleinston, where she added a lot of cotton and sundries to her already heavy cargo. When she left here at 8 o'clock last night for New Orleans, she had her cabin full of people, 2310 bales of cotton, and 754 sacks of seed, which is a pretty fair trip for this season of the year.

Capt. Leathers received the following telegram this morning in answer to one sent by him inquiring as to what the snag-boats intend doing this Fall:

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13, 1883.

Capt. T. P. Leathers, steamer Natchez:

Dispatch received. United States snag-boat McComb is now working down the river. SULER, Engineer.

The river between this point and New Orleans is full of snags, and the sooner the McComb gets here the better it will be for the steamboats.

THE NATCHEZ AND HER GALLANT COMMANDER.

The unapproachable Natchez came up on time yesterday as usual, and is now at Kleinston preparatory to leaving at 5 o'clock this evening, returning to New Orleans and all principal landings en route. This great steamboat—in all probability the greatest that ever floated on the father of waters—is the last of seven bearing the same name, and all equally famous in their particular day. All, from first to last, have borne the impress of the master hand, and the present great Natchez is a beautiful and galland craft; and as the poet said: "Broad is the beam, but sloping aft With graceful curve and slow degrees. That she might be docile to the helm That the current of the parted seas. Closing behind with mighty force Might aid and not impede her course."

The veteran Capt. T. P. Leathers, "the invincible Push ma ta ha," as he is familiarly called, is indissolubly linked with the fame, name and splendor of the "seven great sisters," and is one of the most accomplished steamboatmen of his day. Capt. Leathers is also one of the oldest the most reliable and the best. While a man of decided views, respecting all the great issues of the time, he is likwise a man of strong personal attachments, jovial and social in his predilections, possessing an inexhaustable fund of humor and anecdote, and withal a charity that is never failing in its spontaniety. Long life to old Push and his great Natchez.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger: The Annie L, en route to Cairo from Greenville with a wharfboat containing about 500 tons of freight and drawing about 5½ feet, came down yesterday from Island No 35, where she left the wharfboat and freight, returning. The latter is said to be on a mud lump and swinging, but will probably have to be lightered off. * * * The United States snagboat in charge of Capt. Frank Clayton got out to Cairo last Saturday last, and will probably continue her good work in this direction. She will find plenty to do above and below here. * * * A few days ago the owners of seven different steamboats at Cincinnati seperately placed the figures at which their different boats should be valued, and on comparison the greatest difference between the highest and the lowest was not more than $10,000.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13.—Ed. Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette. Without intending to detract from any one in what we will have to say about the piety of the navigators, if it is intended to arrest any further encroachments upon the legitimate business of our great rivers by these unrelenting railroads, it would seem almost certain that the blows intended for each other should be turned upon the common enemy. How amusing it must be to these railroad men when they note the manifest interest shown by river men in their little game of dog eat dog, since it affords them an opportunity to scoop up everything of value that has a tendency to seek the river. They are always posted as to the stage of water, and when the bottom is pushed sufficiently near the surface to stick in their shovel, down freight goes, by a liberality on the part of these railroads, but as soon as the boats are hauled off by good water freight is worse off than before. Winter exercise, sure to be indulged in as regularly as the season rolls round, while the navigator lays off ready to pounce on his neighbor as soon as he gets to the wall. This, too, goes on year in and year out without any effort to overcome the difficulty. There are but few interests so utterly divided as that of commerce upon our rivers, lakes and oceans, when it is clear that they should be united outside of their deliberations. Why not, then, aid in furthering the interest of the National Board of Steam Navigation?

BRAZIL wants immigrants, and Dom Pedro is willing to do almost anything to turn the tide that way. He proposes to enable an alien to become a citizens after a four years' residence, and will halve the time if he will marry a native or start a mill. These are decided inducements, especially to men not too much married already.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 35 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE weather is now real Fall Like.

WE learn that Dr. H. Shannon will return to Vicksburg about the 1st of October.

The Germans that were given by the club last Winter were a source of enjoyment to all and it is earnestly hoped that they will be repeated during the coming season.

CAPT. T. P. LEATHERS, of the great Natchez, says the Citizens Wharfboat at Kleinston should be moved to a point below the Kleinston water-works. When asked by the writer to point out the Kleinston water-works the humorous master of the Natchez took him to a point where a good view could be obtained of the "nigger" which keeps the pump in motion that supplies the street railroad locomotives with water, and asked him if he saw the works. The scribe "tumbled," and acknowledged the joke. Capt. Leathers did not give his reasons for suggesting the change.

John F. Halpin & Co.

In another column will be found the card of John F. Halpin & Co., cotton factors and wholesale grocers. This is one of the largest houses in this section, and all business entrusted to them will meet with prompt attention and be transacted in a satisfactory manner. Mr Halpin, the senior member of the firm, is well known as a business man of the first quality, and by strict attention to all details of his large house has succeeded in building up an immense business in the city, and country surrounding us. Merchants and planters sending orders to John F. Halpin & Co., can rest assured of having them filled promptly

Their place of business is Nos. 195 197 and 199 Mulberry street. Besides their groceries, Halpin & Co. are also wholesale liquor and tobacco dealers, and can supply anything in this line that may be required. Before sending their orders off to foreign markets, it would be well for merchants and others to get a list of prices from this house.

Cotton consigned to them will receive prompt attention, and the highest market rates paid for the staple.

To Resign.

At the meeting of the Volunteer Southrons, which was held last night, Captain Paxton stated that his business would not admit of him giving the proper attention to the company and that he would resign next Thursday night. The company then decided that they, under the command of 1st Sergeant, C. J. Searles, would continue their drills and enter for the prize at Jackson next November. It is currently reported that Lieutenant John A. Klein, Jr., will be elected to the captainey of the company, if Captain Paxton resigns. The above comes from good authority, hence THE POST feels no hesitancy in printing it.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

IN REGULAR SESSION

Transacts Routine Business—Stirring Up the Water-works Question—Graveling the Streets.

The Question Raised as to Alderman McCalloway's Right to a Seat in the Board—Other Matters.

The Board met, with President Andrews in the chair, and Aldermen Trowbridge, Ehrman, Halpin, Nelson, McCalloway and Crayton present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read.

Alderman Trowbridge asked if the Street Committee had been instructed to call for lumber and brick, stating that he, as Chairman of said Committee, had not so understood it, but if such was the fact he would act accordingly.

The minutes were then adopted.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Claims Committee, on the account of Thomas F. Young, through Alderman Anderson, said the committee could not agree upon it, and recommended that the Board act upon it as a body, which was agreed to.

The Board then took the matter up and Alderman Anderson said, the city had never received any benefit from the property in question, the city not having receiving the money for which the property wassold for taxes.

Alderman Halpin said the Building Association had owned the property and paid the taxes, and sold it to Mr. Young, who was put to considerable expense to send to Jackson to get the records from the Auditors office.

Alderman Trowbridge said he was opposed to paying it, as Mr. Shuler had offered to rectify the error, but a party, who he would not name, went to Mr. Young and got him to pay him $10 for the work which the Assessor had offered to do for nothing. The petition was ruled out.

The petition of Frederic Speed for a street, on motion of Alderman Trowbridge was dismissed.

On the petion of J. Q. Arnold, for street to grave yard, further time was granted.

On repair to fire cisterns further time was granted the Committee.

The petition of A. Marozi for a small frame building on South street was reported and recommended it be granted, which was carried.

LANIER APPEAL CASE.

Mr. J. M. Gibson appeared on behalf of Mr. Lanier on an aapeal case where the bond had been ordered forfeited.

Alderman Halpin moved to reconsider the forfeiture of Mr. Lanier's bond, said forfeiture being made by an error of Mr. Lanier's counsel. The motion was carried, and the case continued until the next regular meeting.

GRAVELING THE STREETS.

A petition was presented from residents of Openwood street asking that said street be graveled.

Alderman Halpin said that before this petition was acted upon he desired to say that a similar petition would be presented for graveling Levee street to the city limits, and he moved to grant the petition for graveling Openwood street, the work to be commenced immediately after graveling Levee street.

Alderman Andrews said he would advise the Board not to pass the resolution in that way, as it would make it obligatory upon the Street Committee to forego work laid out in the business part of the city. The plan had been to take the streets in the business center and then go in each direction, but here it was proposed to skip about in this manner. To start in on this plan the Board would be flooded with petitions from every part of the city.

Alderman Trowbridge said he thanked the Chairman, as he would not have done the graveling until the main business streets are graveled. He had as much right to have the street in front of his house graveled as anyone else, and until the business streets were graveled he would insist on this stand.

Alderman Anderson said he knew something was going to come when Jackson road was heard from. The citizens of the Second Ward had some rights. There was as much business done on that street as on any street of the same length in the city. He said he was going to have his say if it took all night. He said the names on the petition represented tax-payers, and made a general defense of the Second Ward. He would be glad to have his Ward out of the city. The city had graveled streets on which not so much business was done as on Jackson road.

Alderman Trowbridge said other property-holders had paid for teams and had their streets graveled, and the property-holders on Jackson road could have their street graveled on the same terms.

Alderman Halpin's motion was withdrawn.

Alderman Anderson renewed the motion, with the understanding that the work now in progress be finished first, and the motion was carried.

Messrs. Kuhn, Hoffman and Teller, as a committee from the Board of Trade and Cotton Exchange, appeared before the Board, and asked that the city gravel Levee street to the city limits and appoint a committee to act in conjunction with a committee representing the mercantile interests to wait on the Board of Supervisors and request them to gravel the road from the city limits to the landing. Mr. Kuhn said the committee was authorized to say to the Board that the merchants of the city would loan the money to do the work on warrants made payable for the taxes of the year 1884. He said now the Board could not plead poverty.

Mr. Teller also addressed the Board in a few pertinent remarks, urging the necessity of immediate action.

Alderman Halpin moved that the Street Committee be instructed to commence graveling Levee street immediately.

Alderman Trowbridge offered as a substitute the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Mayor and Aldermen of Vicksburg instruct the Street Committee to gravel Levee or Pearl streets to the city limits, when the Board of Supervisors of Warren county agree to appropriate means sufficient to gravel or permanently improve the continuation of either street to the steamboat landing at Kleinston.

Resolved, That the street committee are authorized to hire men and teams sufficient for said work, if deemed necessary.

Resolved that his honor appoint a committee of three to act with the committees from the Cotton Exchange and Board of Trade, as a joint committee, to ask of the Board of Supervisors of Warren County to appropriate money sufficient to permanently improve the road from the city limits to the steamboat landing at Kleinston.

The substitute was adopted, and Alderman Halpin, Trowbridge and Crayton appointed as said Committee.

A petition was presented to the Board from the Harbor Committee asking that the sum of $300 be appropriated to pay the assessment made upon Vicksburg for the Mississippi River Convention to meet in Washington next February. Referred to next meeting.

A petition from the Fire Department, asking for 1000 feet of new hose, was read and referred to Fire Committee.

A petition was presented from the Fire Insurance Agents for fire cisterns on Levee street. Referred.

WATER WORKS.

Alderman Trowbridge offered the following resolution:

Whereas, six months, have elapsed since the execution of the contract between the North American Construction and Improvement Company, of New York, and the Mayor and Alderman of the city of Vicksburg, for erection of water works in our city; and

Whereas, Said contract specified that operation shall commence within ninety days after the execution of said contract, and the work to be completed within twelve months thereafter; and

Whereas, No work as yet has been done and no indications are shown that said work will be done; therefore be it

Resolved, That said North American Construction and Improvement Company is given sixty days from this date to commence active operations on said waterworks, otherwise their contract shall be forfeited.

The clerk read some letters from the authorities of Athens, Ga., saying the Company were slow but the belief is that they will do as promised. The resolution was then adopted.

On motion of Alderman Halpin it was resolved that the report of the fire engineers and the Committee of the Board on the location of fire plugs be adopted and the Company notified.

It was resolved that when the new horses for Phoenix Company arrive, the present pair be turned over to the Street Committee.

A number of property owners were ordered to repair the side-walks in front of their property written within 30 days.

IS MCCALLOWAY A LEGAL MEMBER.

Alderman McCalloway arose to ask had one member of a Committee the right to act for the who Committee, without first consultating the other members. The cause of this question being that Alderman Ehrman had ordered the lamps in the market house repaired without consulting him, McCrilloway, one of the Committee on gas.

Alderman Ehrman said he had ordered the work done as he knew it to be necessary. He did not go to Alderman McCalloway, as he did not believe the gentleman was a legal member of the Board and asked the Chairman if he was.

Biderman McCalloway said he was a member from the Third Ward, and would so be until the Board directed otherwise. He was ready to go into an investigation now.

Mr. Ehrman moved that a committee of three be appointed to investigate the matter: Carried. The Committee consists of Aldermen Trowbridge, Klein and Creyton.

APPEAL CASES.

Alderman Anderson moved that the Board meet Thursday night, the 27th inst., to try appeal cases. When an appeal was taken, that seemed to end the matter, and he wished to have them off the docket.

Alderman McCallewuy said he wished his case taken up immediately, but it was ruled that the matter had been referred to a committee.

It was resolved that the Board meet Wednesday night to examine the assessment rolls.

ARE THE SAWMILLS AND OILMILLS EXEMPT EROM TAXATION?

Special Officer Price asked some instruction about the collection of licenses from sawmills and oilmills, as the proprietors of these institutions claimed they were exempt from all taxation and promised to appear before the Board.

On motion of Alderman Halpin the Special officer was instructed to collect the privilege license from these mills.

The Board then, at 10 o'clock, adjourned.

Gen. Prentiss filled his appointment.

The Social Equality Idea and Its Adherents.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—It is well known that there is a large and growing sentiment in the Republican party in favor of the negro social equality with whites, and that particularly considerable advances have been made in this direction. Any protest on the ground that such equality and social admixture would lead to miscegenation is regarded by the Republican party as a fine subject for a joke. Ex-Gov. Holden's card on this subject is made the subject of sarcasm to-day by the National Republican, which paper is controlled by Mr. Frank Hatton, one of the leading spirits of the Post-office Department.

Mrs. Bruce, wife of the colored ex-Senator from Mississippi, being alluded to as mingling with the whites, Mr. Bruce comes out in a card and claims that his wife has been received by the most respectable white ladies and gentlemen from both sections, both socially and officially. This is not true of the Republican politicians here, and Bruce's bold announcement of the fact is enroute to show that the issue of negro social equality is one that will soon have to be met. There seems to be a general understanding all around that the negroes are to insist on equal social privileges with the whites in restaurants, hotels, theatres and the like. In this city the servility of vendors of the soda fountains, the car drivers and others to negroes is effusive enough to satisfy the most ardent worshipper of the negro.

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION.

The Present Year a Fateful One in the History of the World.

The present year, although it has yet three months to run, has already taken its place in the annals of the world, as the most disastrous, perhaps, of any recorded in history; and the loss of life, considering the fact that the great powers have been in a state of peace, and the destroying forces of war quiescent, places a black mark against it in the calendar of time. Wreck by sea and land; fire, flood and gaunt plague, have seemingly joined forces against the human race. Storms, unparalleled in violence and frequency, have swept the earth. Cyclones have torn through peaceful fields and pleasant valleys, and before their electric force, man and the works of him have melted like snow before the furnace blast. Hurricanes at sea have sent gallant ships staggering to destruction. Steam has offered up its full quota of victims who might truly be called sacrifices on the altar of progress. The earth itself has trembled, as if in alarm at the times which have come upon us, and in its trepidation we feel horror culminated. Islands rising and falling, as if the solid land was the sport of the waves, and tidal waves sweeping inland have carried destruction with them, and laid miles of once-smiling country waste. Cholera has sprung from its lair by the Yellow Nile, and is marching westward to clasp hands with yellow fever over their joint victims. Mere jugglings of words cannot express the full meaning of the year's disasters, and where language fails we shall have to call figures to our aid.

The following may serve to show the victims that have been claimed by grim disaster as its own.

First in the dark list comes the Java earthquake, which numbers 100,000 victims; next, the Egyptian cholera, with a record of 21,000; and the Indian cholera, with 15,000.

Following these comes the loss of the Cimbria, in which 348 souls went to join that vast host which shall come forth when the sea shall give up its dead. The disasters to the English fishing fleets, which sum up the fearful total of 4,500 lives. The steamer Daphne, on the Clyde 150. The Ischia earthquake, which swallowed 500 people. A powder explosion in Europe, by which 230 people were killed, and many mangled. The April and May tornadoes, 200 and 118 respectively. The school panic in Sunderland, England, where 202 children met their death. The Carlyon, New York, accident, 170 killed.

Two mine explosions in Europe foot up 162 victims. The circus fire in Poland, 260. Treading upon the heels of these horrors, and their fearful list of unprecedented destruction to life, come the following casualties, which, in the presence of the foregoing, pale into insignificance, but each of which, viewed alone, is in itself, an epitome of horror:

The Bombay factory panic, 104; Milwaukee hotel fire, 84; flood in Australian mine, 72; Tehechina coal railroad accident, 21; flatboat disaster in North Carolina, 18; loss of the City of Brussels, 10; mine explosion in Illinois, 10; panic in a New York school, 16; Braidwood mine disaster, 77; February freshets, 56; Downsville, Minn., drowning horror, 11, fall of a Texas hotel, 14; Brooklyn bridge panic, 14; June freshets, 58; Baltimore pier disaster, 72; floods at London, Ont., July, 17; fire in Hungary, 20; German floods, 373; Mt. Ararat avalanche, 150; Rochester, Minn., tornado, 10; Lake Chiem palace accident, 23; Cornwall mine disaster, 12; collision off Eldystone light, 18; steamer Navarre, 40; ship Dunshaffrage, 26; Rome explosion, 40; explosion in Besegge, France, 21; steamer Grappler, 70; burning of theatre at Lake Como, 47; fishermen lost on the Great Banks, 60; steamers Ansonia, 20, Canmore Castle, 32; steamer Gypsey, 18. This list of deaths foots up the imposing figure of 144,570 members of the great army of mankind.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—In the war on passenger rates between Chicago and Louisville, this morning, the Panhandle opened with the rate at $450, which the Monon route at once met. It is said that scalpers are selling at $4, and as the Panhandle professes to be fighting the commission to scalpers, it will probably drop to that figure.

THE CAMPAIGN OPENED.

Meeting at Freetown—Candidates and Strikers Make Speechss.

One Fight—First Blood for Bill Cox.

Candidates and strikers were there in profusion. Among the candidates were Chas. Lehman and W. W. Edwards, candidates for Circuit Clerk; J. M. Harris, Geo. T. Hardy and J. W. Bourne, candidates for Chancery Clerk, with others who were running for beat offices in the district. After the meeting was opened, Hon. John Mack addressed the assembled multitude in his usual elegant and impressive style. The Hon. John interspersed through his speech select quotations from the Book of books, which always takes well. The frequent applause which occurred during John's address showed that he had struck the popular vein. Some but those who have seen and heard this gentleman can imagine anything of his powers as an orator.

W. W. Edwards was the next speaker. Mr. E. was frequently interrupted in his remarks by Mr. Chas. Green, janitor of the City Hall. Charles was a little too full, but finally he put in a very pertinent inquiry to Mr. Edwards, which Cox (Bill Cox we mean) didn't exactly like, whereupon the irascible William proceeded to chastise the said Charles, right in open meetin', too, by knocking him (the said Charles) down; hence first blood in the campaign for Cox. Charles said he considered the source, and did not resent it. Charles is a philosopher.

Speeches were made by Messrs. Lehman, Harris, Hardy, Bourne and others.

A great deal of bad whisky and beer was drank, much noise made, and all left for home happy. We can now safely say the campaign is open. "Come one, come all!"

A New Industry.

Mr. W. H. Stowers received a letter this morning from a friend in Atlanta, Ga., asking if a stock company could be formed in Vicksburg for the purpose of establishing a broom factory here. Mr. Stowers and Mr. Baum took the matter in hand, and by two o'clock to-day $3,150 had been subscribed for the enterprise. Nearly all of our most substantial business men have subscribed, and it is more than likely that a broom factory will be in operation here in the near future. Only $1,000 will be required to test the enterprise.

State Fair Excursion.

Maj. E. G. Wall is arranging to have a big excursion to run from Chicago to this place during the Fair week. A great many people have signalized a desire to come down and view the State's exhibits and see our country with a view of settling here. There are several in correspondence with him. To accommodate all such and afford them a low rate, this excursion will be. Let our people do their duty in the way of exhibits so that visitors may see that our State has waked up and is placing herself in the line of progress being made by other States of the Union.—State Ledger.

Landing of O'Donnell at Southampton.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The steamer Athenian, with O'Donnell, the murderer of Carey, on board, has arrived off Plymouth. A force of detectives has left in a tender to board the Athenian. It is rumored that a gunboat will be dispatched from the victualing yard to intercept the Athenian, and O'Donnell will be landed at the navy-yard. No suspicious characters have yet been observed in this vicinity, and extra precautions have been taken to prevent any attempt at rescure.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 19, 1883

THE Chicago Press wants the Senate Committee on Labor and Education to examine Vanderbilt, and thinks his views might be interesting and perhaps valuable.

LOGAN'S profane remarks as to Sitting Bull—that he is not such of a h— of an Indian as he seems to think"—might be paraphrased by the latter and applied with effect to the Illinois Senator himself.—Chicago Press.

THERE is scarcely a doubt but that the public are made asses of—not to put too fine a point upon it, beasts of burden. In this view of the case, how will the Press Association look their Honorable President soberly in the face.—Greenville Review.

IF is a hard matter to convince some of our exchanges that no arrangements have been made for military parade at the State Fair. If there is to be one, it is unknown to the directors.—Jackson Ledger.

Then the directors should certainly make arrangements for it. A competitive drill, with liberal prizes, would be one of the most attractive features of the Fair, and tend to make it successful as much as any other one thing. We think the directors will make a mistake if they omit the military.

SENSIBLE VIEWS.—Col. Richard K. Hinton was recently before the Senate Committee on Labor and Education, and gave expression to the following very sensible and practical suggestion: "More attention should be given throughout the country to instruction in the primary schools, which are now neglected for schools of higher education. It was the best mode of reaching the laboring classes, and the common school system should be placed on a firmer basis."

THE report of the Commissioners of Immigration of the State of New York show 363,374 immigrants landed in the port of New York from August 3, 1882, to June 30, 1883, inclusive. The largest number that landed in any one month, 69,593, was in May, 1883, and the smallest, 8343, in January of the same year. The duty imposed on the Board of returning paupers and persons unable to take care of themselves to the ports whence they came has been carefully exercised, and a large number of undesirable persons have been sent back.

WHY.—Two years ago McGee's Weekly printed the following, which is just as pertinent and applicable to-day: The cotton crop of the South is estimated at about three hundred million dollars in its raw state, and twice that sum when it comes back from England. Why do not the Southerners build their own mills and manufacture their own cotton crops? They have the ample facilities in the world for doing so. When the South shall manufacture her own cotton crop, raise her own food supplies, and develop her industries, she will be the richest and most prosperous section of country on the globe. An infusion of Northern pluck and enterprise would be of more benefit to that portion of the Union than all the "chivalry" and "first families" within is borders.

The State Fair.

The Mississippi State Fair this year will open under brighter auspices than any that have preceded it in this State since the war. It is an enterprise that should receive the encouragement of all Mississippians, not only as a matter of State pride, but for the practical benefits that it promises. Commissioner Wall is making arrangements for an excursion from Chicago to Jackson during the Fair week, and the Illinois Central Railroad will furnish round trip tickets, good for thirty days, from points in the West to Mississippi at very low figures. These arrangements will no doubt bring many visitors to the Fair from the great West, and if our people make a creditable exhibit of the numerous products and resources of the State, it cannot fail to make a good impression on the strangers. Another good effect of a fine exhibition will be the fact that our own people will have the opportunity to know their resources better than they do now, and be encouraged to improve their numerous advantages. A good State Fair will infuse new life and vigor into our people, and if it succeeds in bringing a desirable class of immigrants to our Commonwealth a great and lasting good will have been accomplished. At all events it will benefit Mississippi if the Cotton Centennial benefits any place it will be New Orleans, and as we are more interested in Mississippi's prosperity than we are in New Orleans's glorification, we would suggest to the Mississippi press the propriety of booming their own enterprises a little.

An Elective Judiciary and Railroad Supervision.

It is indispensable in a republican government that every serious public question should be clearly understood by the people before they are called upon to render a decision at the ballot-box.

And we have the faith that the great masses of the people, upon a clear comprehension of any important question in all its bearings and ultimate consequences, will decide with both honesty and intelligence.

And we express the most sincere confidence that they never can be caught by tinsel and tawdry sentiment, or betrayed into the traps of a demagogue, however cleverly set, if they only give the subject a little thought.

The existence of the American Government to-day is proof that the great masses of the people in all affairs of the Government, act generally from patriotic and honest motives. They will not elect a thief to an office, knowing him to be a thief, because the love of honesty is deeply planted in the human soul, nor will they elevate demagogues to high places, knowing them to be demagogues. They truly detest the one and abhor the other.

Hence the thief affects the walk of an honest man, and the political demagogue invariably imitates the manners and bearing of a patriot.

It is well, thegefore, that everybody who cares for the welfare of Mississippi should understand the ideas indicated by the title at the head of this column.

The propositions to create a Railroad Commission and elect all the Judges, though advocated separately, logically belong together, and thus are but two parts of one scheme.

The most superficial view is that they are each exposed to "tickle the ears of the groundlings."

It is useless to say more than that railroad supervision sprung up in the West after the Greenback craze had subsided, under the inspiration of a lot of Granger politicians; it was imported into Mississippi by a few politicians, worked unpersistently into an issue, re-echoed by some of "the Grange," and was then declared by the politicians to be a great popular outcry against railroad autocracy. Attention was called to the feeble echoes of their own voices as the great "vox populi." "Listen," they said, "to the detonations of this great people's thunder storm."

There are really a few of the small-fry (who catch the drippings from the big frying-pans) in favor of railroad supervision, who don't live in fifty miles of a railroad.

All intelligent and public-spirited citizens know that hostile legislation will deter capital and capitalists from coming to Mississippi, and that above everything else in the world we need railroads. We want them all over the State. We want every dark corner lighted up and brought into communication with the world. We want the population and intelligence and civilization and wealth that railroads and great internal improvements always bring. The pretense that a Railroad Commission would not postpone this state of things is a great sham. It has been said so often that Illinois, with her great net-work of railways, and Georgia, with her splendid system of railroads, have wise supervision, and said, too, as if supervision built railroads, that it has actually come to be believed by a few ignorant people. This is all the worst sort of sham. The fact is Illinois had her great net-work of railways before a Grange was ever heard of; and Georgia has not built 200 miles of road since the adoption of supervision, while Mississippi, on the heels of the defeat of supervision, has constructed 600 miles of railway.

But the lion in the path of effective supervision is the constitutional guarantee in favor of vested rights, which the courts will undoubtedly respect and maintain.

We deliberately assert that no Judges of the Supreme Court of the State who could be appointed by a respectable Governor and confirmed by a reputable State Senate, would fail to declare invalid an unconstitutional statute.

More than one advocate of supervision has suggested that the Legislature should pass a measure of DOUBTFUL CONSTITUTIONALITY and leave its decision to the courts. But if unconstitutional the courts, as now constituted, would undoubtedly do their duty.

Therefore, when the courts may be composed and moulded to suit this question, and that pliant and elastic judicial consciences may be selected, it is proposed to elect all the Judges by the method of ward conventions and popular vote.

We may readily understand what results are expected.

It is necessary only that these things should be intelligently dealt with and clearly understood.

We need railroads and do not need supervision; and as for the Judiciary, the present system works well, and it would be the height of folly to venture upon any experiments in a matter of such great importance. We do sincerely hope for the coming of the time when the political issue-makers, big and little, will find themselves entirely out of employment.

THE peanut crop of Virginia is said to be a failure.

THE POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

An Interview With Postmaster General Gresham.

Concerning the Postal Telegraph System, Which He is Studying.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Postmaster General, in speaking of the postal telegraph to-day, said: "I will tell you frankly that I have not yet reached any conclusion upon the subject. I have been engaged a part of the summer in studying this question, together with the operations of the department. The relation of the Government to the telegraph is certainly the most important question now before the department. It will have to be considered. I have been gathering all the literature upon the subject, and am amazed at the extent of it. I have been making a careful study of the reports of the Postmaster Generals and of such other reports as to the working of the system in great Britain as are accessible. I have obtained besides a great many pamphlets, arguments, speeches and newspaper articles published in this country advocating both sides of the question. This subject, which is so comparatively new here, has a very voluminous literature. If the mass of matter which I have collected to consider had not been so great, possibly I might have came to a conclusion before, but it is a fact that I have not yet in my own mind decided what is best to recommend for anything. Mr. Creswell made a particularly active canvass in favor of a postal telegraph. It was his aggressive position that brought out the opposition of the Western Union under the Presidency of William Orton. Mr. Creswell is a man of great intellectual vigor, and he advocates the system still with just as much earnestness as he did in his reports as Postmaster General. He said to me only the other day that his experience in private life had fully confirmed the correctness of his views as Postmaster General. He was more firmly convinced than ever that a postal telegraph is a matter of public necessity.

"Do you know what views the President has upon this subject?" was asked of Judge Gresham.

He replied: "I only know what his statement was in his message to Congress referring to the recommendations favorable to postal telegraph made by Judge Howe. The President had only a line or two on the subject, saying simply that as to the views of the Postmaster General he could not give his assent."

Judge Gresham was asked whether, if it should be found that the President was opposed to the postal telegraph, he would himself advocate the system in his report if he personally favored it. He answered that he could only say he thought it would be better to have the views of the Cabinet and President in accord upon such an important subject, if it was to be advocated at all. The impression was clearly left upon the questioner that Judge Gresham would not be an active advocate of the postal telegraph in his report, if the President should oppose it, and that the entire subject might be considered an open one so far as the President and himself are concerned.

Judge Gresham expressed the greatest hopefulness as to the general political situation. He said the Republican prospects had greatly improved within the last six months, and that the administration of President Arthur had the confidence and esteem of the people. "The President," he said, "is a good business man. He is a fine administrator. He never deceives any one. I have yet to hear the first man say that he was misled by anything the President told him. That is a great deal to say of a public man."

A Sensible View.

Springfield Sunday News.

Lectures, platitudes and essays on "Success in Life" have become so common-place and trite that they have long ago lost their charm and have about lost their interest. A recent issue of the "Standard Library" in "Successful Men of To-day," by Wilbur F. Crafts, who has written several quite popular books. His book, named above, is evidently made to sell, and is vitiated by that very fact, although it will in all probability prove popular and profitable. The book was formed from the replies to a printed list of eight questions, received from over five hundred persons. One reply, by a man who has held many prizes in life, is so unique, direct, simply truthful and honest, that it deserves several readings by all who want to get on in the world as well as by those who are 'successful:'

"MY DEAR SIR—I would be glad to answer the inclosed inquiries, if I did not regard them as misleading, vague, and, if published, harmful, especially to the young. These rules for success in life are like formularies for breaking the bank at faro. In my judgment, few men know why they have succeeded, and if they did the same causes would not bring success to others. Again, your idea of success and mine might be different. Of those who have made great fortunes very few would admit that lying and cheating were the 'chief elements' of their success. Yet every lawyer knows it to be true. Take my own case. I think my success is due (such as it is) chiefly to a good stomach and an aptitude for fooling. Yet you would not commend bull-headed, blind-eyed foolishness to your young inquirers for the short cut to the top of the hill. Again, such statistics are mischievous because they are the wrong kind of data. What we call success is always exceptional. Usually in such cases the men, the means and the opportunity are exceptional. Very rich men are simply monsters. So are great statesmen and generals and authors. We may trace their growth and find out some of its causes, but you cannot deduce therefrom the elements of a success that shall make others grow up like them. Again, I don't know your idea of what constitutes failure—'numerous failures.' If you mean business collapse, I should say it generally resulted from carrying too big a load. From your use of the term 'professional,' I suppose you mean more, though I don't know about a professional man failing if he works, keeps sober, and sleeps at home. Lawyers, ministers and doctors live on the sins of people, and, of course, grow fat with reasonable exertion, unless competition is too great. It requires real genius to fail in either of these walks of life. But the failure itself is almost as often success as otherwise. Grant's failure as a subaltern made him commander-in-chief, and, for myself, my failure to accomplish what I set out to do led me to do what I never had aspired to. Yours respectfully, ——."

THE FLAG OF PAUL JONES.

The Flag and Cutlass of the Famous Privateer on Exhibition at the New England Institute Fair.

Among all the handsome exhibits at the New England Fair there are none so interesting to the lover of history and to the admirer of the gallant patriots of the Revolution as the faded and tattered flag exhibited in music hall. Next to the music stand, in a somewhat secluded spot, are to be seen the first United States flag ever honored by a foreign Power, the flag of the Bon Homme Richard, Paul Jones's sloop, and also the cutlass used by Paul Jones in his many battles.

These relics are in the possession of Mr. Samuel Pergard Stafford of Maryland, a kinsman of Paul Jones, and the son of Lieutenan Stafford of the Revolutionary Navy. In his genial, quaint, old-fashioned way Mr. Stafford tells the interesting history of the flag and the sword. His father, at the breaking out of the war, was a merchant in New York. Summoned by the English Governor to swear allegiance to the British crown, the patriotic merchant refused, and, when force would have been used, fled to Newport, R. I. Here, in company with other daring spirits, he fitted out a sloop-of-war, the "Kitty," and joined our list of privateers. The little sloop, however, was no match for the superior forces of Old England, and finally, after a noble struggle, yielded to the conqueror. Stafford and all who survived the fight were cast into irons, and a British crew placed in charge of the vessel. But it was not long before Paul Jones, in his "Bon Homme Richard," sighted the captured vessel, and for him to see was to conquer. The rescued Americans immediately joined the crew of the "Richard," and then it was that Lieutenant Stafford first saw that honored flag which he was soon to save from the hands of the British.

On the night of the 23d of September, 1779, occurred that eventful fight between the Bon Homme Richard and the British brig Serapis off the coast of England. The vessels had locked together, and boarders were thrusting and repelling one another with their cutlasses and pikes. Suddenly a ball from the British sharpshooter struck the flagstaff of the privateer. The American flag half fell, caught on the lines, then a lurch of the vessel sent it floating down into the sea. There was a cry of triumph from the English tars, but it lasted only a moment, for Lieutenant Stafford, dropping cutlass and pistol, plunged headlong into the water, seized the fallen ensign with one hand, swam to the ship and clambered up the side. In an instant he is darting up the shrouds, reached the mast head, and is about to fasten the banner again in its place when a blow from behind crashes through his shoulders. A daring British sailor is close behind him, eager to gain the trophy. But the Lieutenant conquers and the flag is saved. Below, on the deck, Paul Jones, himself, with his trusty blade, is leading the onslaught, and his heavy blows and cheering words cannot but lead to victory. The Serapis is conquered; the American flag is safe, and the sword of Paul Jones rests uncontaminated by the enemy's grasp. This flag and this sword are now on exhibition at the Institute Fair. Mr. Stafford is the son of that gallant Lieutenant Stafford. The flag after the sinking of Bon Homme Richard, was placed at the mast head of the Alliance, where it floated until 1784. Robert Morris then purchased the Alliance, but the flag, the cutlass of Paul Jones and a large musket were bestowed upon Lieutenant Stafford as the one most worthy to possess them. In 1838 the Lieutenant died, and the historical relics then passed through the hands of his widow and Sarah Smith Stafford to the present possessor.

Mr. Samuel B. Stratford is a pleasant gentleman somewhat advanced in years but as agreeable and ready in conversation as the youngest of those around him, while it is absolute pleasure to hear the words of heartfelt patriotism which fall so naturally from his lips. The flag was a great object of interest at the Baltimore sesqui-centennial and was also at the Yorktown centennial.

The genuineness of the relics is proved by the certificates shown—one certificate dating as far back as Dec. 13, 1784. Mr. Stafford has twice been urged to sell the flag for $5000, but money cannot purchase the family relic, with its history and traditions, from the patriotic old gentleman.—Boston Journal.

EX-REPRESENTATIVE Flower of New York, Gov. Cleveland's leading competitor for the nomination last year, is said to be in league with John Kelly to oppose Cleveland and get control of the Democratic State Committee at the forthcoming convention.

...ont of the steamer R. C. Carroll reports that there is only 3 feet of water on the bar at Cottonwood landing and only 3½ feet on Belchers Bar, in Yazoo river. The water at the mouth of the Yazoo is also very shoal.

Capt. Frank Hicks says the Henry Frank will come out on the 29th inst.

The J. M. White will leave for St. Louis next Tuesday.

If the White had to withdraw from the Greenville trade on account of low water, we would inquire of the Picayune how she expects to get to St. Louis?

The light-running steamer City of Cairo of the St. Louis and Vicksburg Anchor Line arrived at Delta at 7 o'clock this morning, with a heavy freight for that point. She crossed over to the landing at Kleinston at 8:30 and commenced at once discharging her miscellaneous cargo preparatory to leaving at 11 a.m. tomorrow for St. Louis.

The fast steamer E. W. Cole arrived here at noon yesterday, but she had a hard run to make. She left at 5 o'clock yesterday evening on her first trip of the season to Greenville with a little freight and a good list of passengers. Such splendid boats as the Cole are sure to become great favorites if they are given a showing by the people. Capt. Ellison, and clerk Baldwin are both gentlemen of rare merit and are fast making friends with the people along the river.

Why is it that some shippers await till the last minute to forward their goods to steamboats? They never delay shipments by rail to the last minute for they know the train will not wait upon them, but think as a matter of course the boats can wait a half hour or more over time. It is the cause of much loss of time to boats awaiting on tardy shippers. Get your freight down on time so the boats may leave as per advertisement.

The following telegram was received this morning from the Belle of the Bends, the Issaquena: "Will arrive at 10 to-night with a good trip. All well." This dandy craft will leave to-morrow at 5 o'clock for all landings as high as Greenville, and when it is known that the Issaquena with her obliging and clever officers is to leave, passengers know what to expect. Remember her hour is 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and she leaves on time.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger: Capt. A. J. Carter, of the Anchor Line steamer City of New Orleans, has chartered the steamer Lucy Lewis to be used by the government work at Plum Point and Lake Providence at this stage of the water. Before all boats had trouble, but now there is deep water.

Memphis Avalanche: The Wyoming has left Cairo for St. Louis and will load independent should there be no opening in the Anchor Line.

The Commonwealth on her last trip up, picked up a snag above here that damaged her considerably.

A Little Rock special of the 14th to the St. Louis Globe Democrat contains the following: "The charter of the Sunk Lands Navigation Company was to-day filed in the office of the Secretary of State. The incorporators are J. C. Collins, of St. Francis county, Ark., and the following Memphians: J. D. Randall, O. P. Lyles, James M. Harris and Thomas A. Taylor. The capital is $25,000, the blocks bearing $25 each. Collins holds 10 and the others 100 shares each. The Company intend establishing a line of steamboats and other craft to navigate the St. Francis river far from its place where it is crossed by the Kansas City and Memphis road, in Poinsett county, up through CootaHatchie and the sunken lands of the St. Francis, to the Missouri Line. Also, to navigate Little river from the same crossing through Big lake and Lake Niccarney to the Missouri line. The charter further gives the right to connect said streams and branches of water by land improvements."

O thistle down! Soft thistle down!
A breath dispels thy dainty snow.
The softest of all winds that blow
May carry wide from each roadside
The treasure of the thistle down.

O thistle down! Fair thistle down!
A host of winged fancies spring
Into my thought, and with them bring Uncontrolled memories of old
Of days as fair as thistle down.

O thistle down! White thistle down!
In the olden, golden summer hours,
Through meadows sweet with woodland flowers,
My light heart blest with peaceful rest,
I walked amidst the thistle down.

O thistle down! Light thistle down!
Your barbs have stung my careless breast,
You fill my soul with wild unrest;
Tearful I gave these summer days
On silver of the thistle down.

O thistle down! Barbed thistle down!
Your beauty mocks my sense of pain;
My faith, my trust, your barbs have slain;
For friends, who seemed true as I dreamed,
Are false and light as thistle down.

O thistle down! False thistle down!
Scatter thy flakes o'er hill and lea.
Thy bar's alone remain with me;
Love, friendship, faith, joy, life and death,
Are but barbed thistle down.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree perhaps the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $15 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

THE Waterworks Company needed the stirring up which the Council gave them.

DR. JOHN BUTTS, Mrs. B. B. Willis and Mrs. Moody were passengers by last night's train for New York.

THERE was a meeting of the Holly Grove Club last night, which was addressed by Robt. Wood and J. T. Spencer, candidates for office.

AMONG the passengers by the Natchez yesterday evening were Mrs. Phelan, for New Orleans; Mrs. Newman, with her little granddaughter, Mr. C. G. Wright's little girl, for Natchez, and Mrs. Fox, for Bayou Sara.

THE grading and graveling of Levee street by the railroad company is progressing rapidly and will be finished in a few days. The work done has added much to the street and made one of the best thoroughfares in the city.

THE mail train was three hours late this morning, caused by a slight accident to a freight train on the A. G. S. road a short distance below Birmingham, Ala., caused by the train running over a cow.

THE Woodbine Saloon will re-open tomorrow morning with a fine lunch and the best of liquors and cigars, and Sam and Charley behind the bar, who will be glad to meet their old friends as well as new ones in their elegant saloon. See notices elsewhere.

OWING to the death of Mr. David Joseph, the house of Jos. Joseph & Bro's. will be closed until Friday. Mr. Joseph died at his home in Germany Monday and the news reached here yesterday, by cablegram.

MR. J. C. BEARD, for some time past connected with Julius M. Klein & Co's. insurance agency, was a passenger for Monroe, La., to-day, where he goes to take the position of Secretary of the Monroe Oil Mill and Soap Works. Mr. Beard is a clever gentleman, and we wish him success in his new position.

MR. C. E. ARMSTRONG, Auditor of the L., N. O. & T. R. R., came in this morning by rail.

MRS. ALICE HACKETT, an old and respected resident of this city, departed this life at her residence on Harrison street, yesterday afternoon. The deceased was the widow of Mr. Thomas Hackett who died two years ago, and was 77 years old. Mrs. Hackett was a consistent member of the Methodist Church and was buried from the Church this morning at 9 o'clock. May she rest in peace.

JUDGE ARTHUR, President of the Board of Supervisors, went out to Baldwin's Ferry this morning to examine the work at that point on the approaches to the bridge and the causeway from Ragan's Lake to the Ferry. It is believed the work will be accepted by the Board, as it is said by those who have examined it that the work has been done in an excellent manner.

WE direct attention to the card of Adam Fox, to be seen elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Fox's foundry and machine shop is one of Vicksburg's big institutions, and all work intrusted to him will receive prompt attention and be done in a workmanlike manner. In order to fill orders, Mr. Fox will make castings daily. Blacksmithing a specialty.

WE had a pleasant call this morning from Mr. Luther Manship, lately of McComb City. Mr. Manship has been appointed Superintendent of the Jackson Compress, and is in our city taking notes of the workings of our Compress. He is a practical machinist and a thorough business man, and we wish him success in his new position amid his boyhood friends.

THE City Council at its meeting Monday night ordered property-holders along Levee street to repair the sidewalks in front of their property. This is the first move, and it is to be hoped the work will be done immediately. When Levee street is graveled and the sidewalks repaired it will be much improved. Let the authorities now stop the balls at the National Hall and the residents of that part of the city will have cause to thank them.

The Amusement Season

Will be opened in Vicksburg by the justly celebrated Mississippi twins, Maggie and Delia Bridges, at Magnolia Hall to-morrow night. And what could be more appropriate than for these bright and beautiful little girls to open the season with a chaste and unique entertainment, that "will drive dull care away." From what we are told, these prodigies possess a genuine and wonderful talent, and their performances never fail to awaken a genuine enthusiasm and to please the most exacting. We trust the ladies, and our people generally, will show a proper appreciation of these little Mississippi girls, and encourage them by crowded houses at each performance. The Natchez Democrat, of the 8th inst., has this to say of the twins:

The large attendance at Institute Hall last night to witness the performance of those bright little darlings, Maggie and Delia Bridges, shows that their histrionic and musical merit is more than ephemeral. The house was as well filled and the interest of the audience in the really remarkable music and acting of "the twins," was as great as on the preceding evening. The deep quiet that pervaded the audience during the rendition of their pieces, and the enthusiastic demonstrations of delight at the close of each song, were the highest compliments that could have been paid to these precocious children. All their songs were beautiful, and their rendering of each was effective. In that sweet Gipsy song, "Come Buy My Flowers," they used for the first time tambourines, which were specially presented to them by a gentleman friend.

Newly fitted and painted up, with the best Wines and Liquors in the city, is the condition of the popular Woodbine Saloon, which re-opens to-morrow morning with a fine lunch.

Vicksburg and Yazoo City Telephone.

Work on the telephone wire from Satartia and Yazoo City to Vicksburg, is progressing in a satisfactory manner. The poles have been erected as far as the upper end of the National Cemetery, while all post holes have been dug as far as Blakely. A car load of poles left here yesterday evening for distribution along the L., N. O. & T. R. R. Work on this end of the road is under the supervision of Mr. Jackson, manager of the Vicksburg Exchange. Mr. Ben Heuck, who is building the line from Satartia, has reached a point two miles beyond Anthony's Ferry, and will meet the line from here at that point in a few days. The wire is expected shortly, and will be put up as soon as it arrives.

THE DREDGE WITHDRAWS

From Work on the Basin and Canal —A Survey Being Made of the Filling Since the Work Commenced.

The Outlook, and What is Necessary to be Done—Rumors, Etc.

It has been so evident to the casual observer that the work on the basin in front of the city would have to be abandoned, if not for good, at least temporary, that the withdrawal of the dredgeboat yesterday was no matter of surprise whatever.

The plan adopted and upon which the canal and basin was to be made provided that the basin and canal should be cut to the zero of the gauge, and upon this plan the work was awarded to Col. Rittenhouse Moore. At the present time the water stands seven feet above the zero, and the dredge, and scows when loaded, draw seven and a half feet, so that at the present stage of water, to carry the work on, it would require the basin to be cut below the zero to allow the dredge in there. The work on the canal leading up into the lake, is only for temporary use, as the original plan proposed that the canal should extend from the southern end of the island to the river at Kleinston.

It is proposed to resume work on the basin and canal when the water rises sufficiently if it is not found that the bank is sloughed so as to show the utter impracticability of the present plan.

A survey is now being made of all the inner harbor, by a large force, so as to present to the River Commission at their October meeting a complete showing of the amount of filling in since the work was comfinenced here. The survey will consist of running lines from this side to the shore opposite about every 400 feet, and will be thorough and complete. The preparations for the survey have been going on for some time past and active work was commenced this morning on the survey.

So far the only work done on our harbor that has resulted as expected was that done on Delta Point last Fall, when $75,000 was expended, which has resulted in preventing any caving where the bank was protected by these revetments.

It is the belief of competent judges that this work will eventually form a bar at the Delta wharfboat and throw the current further toward Vicksburg. In this connection would it not be a good idea to take the $60,000 unexpended and use it in driving piles at the Delta point to assist in forcing the current toward Vicksburg? No one can be found with faith enough in the basin and canal plan to hope for its success.

It is rumored that Capt. Marshall fears that when the plans and comparative profiles are laid before the River Commission they will show such filling and sloughing that the present plan of operation will be found to be an utter failure.

Now, the question presents itself: What are we going to do? We must either have the current of the Mississippi thrown to this side or endeavor to get the Yazoo brought down through the lake. Some steps should be taken immediately in the matter, as there is no time to lose.

LADIES,

Examine the stock of Dress Goods, Velvets, Velvettas, Plushes, etc., just received at ARTHUR JACOB'S, and you won't want to see anybody else's stock.

Who Should Build the Road to Kleinston.

The commercial bodies of our city have appointed a committee to wait on the City Council and Board of Supervisors, to ask those bodies to build a gravel road to the lower landing to facilitate the business with that quarter now rendered necessary by the low water. The City Council at their meeting night before last showed a disposition to do their share of the work, and every confidence is felt that the Board of Supervisors will not refuse this request of Vicksburg's business men.

Now there is another incorporated body that will receive more benefit from a good road to the lower landing than any individual or company in the city or county, and that is the Wharf and Landing Company. We think they should also contribute liberally to the public road. Without this gravel road, a large percentage of freight for Vicksburg will come by rail, and the Wharf and Landing Company will be the losers thereby. Would it not be a good idea for the various committees to confer with the stockholders of this Company and see what they are willing to do for the improvement of their property? It is nothing more than just that they should bear part of the expense.

MILITARY PARADE.

The Vicksburg Rifles and Volunteer Southrons to Have a Joint Parade To-morrow.

The military spirit which seemed to invade the city last Spring has not died the death that was predicted for it, but to the contrary our young men who are members of the Rifles and Southrons seem to enter more actively into military matters than ever. Nothing could be more beneficial to the health and morals of young men than a strictly first-class military company, such as we have in this city. The exercise necessary to drilling tends to develop the muscles of the men as well as cultivate among them a social spirit that is so necessary for the good of our community.

The Vicksburg Rifles and Volunteer Southrons each held a meeting Tuesday night, also a drill. At the meeting of the former company the Board of Directors were instructed to order a sufficient number of white cotton cross belts, cartridge-boxes and bayonet scabbards to add to every uniform now owned by the company.

On motion, it was also decided that a dress parade would be given by the company to-morrow evening, in which the Volunteer Southrons should be invited to participate. Capt. Cowan appointed a committee of three, who waited on the Southrons and tendered them the invitation that had been sent by the Rifles. The invitation was accepted by the Southrons, and a joint parade is the order of the day to-morrow evening.

The men will form in their armeorys at 5 p.m. and appear on the streets at 5:30 sharp.

The Woodbine Saloon will re-open to-morrow morning with an excellent lunch.

Arthur Jacob, Dry Goods, Etc.

With the opening of the Fall season the large dry goods house of Arthur Jacob comes to the front with an elegant stock of ladies dress goods, carpets, millinery, etc., which he offers to the public at the low rates for which this well-known establishment is so justly celebrated throughout this entire section. Long experience in the dry goods business, and an intimate knowledge of the wants of the people in this country enables this house to select such goods as have a ready sale. Read the notices elsewhere, and remember that at Arthur Jacob's, successor to Maurice Meyer and at the latter's old stand, is the place to buy your dry goods.

Re-opening of the Woodbine.

Mr. Sam. The Woodbine Saloon has a full stock of the finest wines, liquors and cigars, and with Sam Leyens and Charley Fisher behind the bar you will be served with the best in the house. Remember the re-opening to-morrow morning, and be on hand to partake of the excellent spread, which will be one of the finest ever set in Vicksburg. The Saloon has been repainted and otherwise improved, and looks as bright as a new dollar. 1t

Get a Home.

We would have every true man build for himself a home, be it ever so humble in the beginning. Industry and frugality and good judgment will make of it the most lovely spot on earth. The man without a home is like a sojourner without a country. The richest, happiest and best man in the wide world is he who has a pretty, comfortable home of his own, a family, good health, and owes no man a cent, even though his entire worldly possessions would not sell for a thousand dollars, and though he has never held so high an office as town constable or roadmaster.

We sometimes feel constrained to doubt whether a homeless man can be at best but an indifferent citizen and a more indifferent patriot. He cannot feel that interest in other people's real prosperity that he feels in his own, and without such prosperity we could have no country worthy a name. He would scarcely care to risk his life in defence of the hearthstone of his landlord, but let that hearthstone be his own and woe to the invader who should threaten it with desecration. The homes of the people are the strength of the State. Build them, beautify them, own them, and be happy. This is the fair deduction from hosts of instances, and is the true philosophy of home making and home owning.

In this connection we direct attention to the advertisement on this page in reference to eligible building lots in Speed's addition. The first step towards getting a home is to secure the ground, and Mr. Speed has some of the most desirable lots in the city.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[Special to THE EVENING POST.]

Death of a New Orleans Editor.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—Minor Elmore, city editor and one of the proprietors of the State's died this morning of bram fever.

New Orleans River Report.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Sept. 20.—The weather is sultry and threatening. Business fair.

Arrived: Annie P. Silver from St. Louis.

Leaving this evening: Ed. Richardson for Greenville; Annie P. Silver for St. Louis.

Commodore Parisot arived safely.

A Timely Rescue.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., September 19.—The French fishing schooner Mercury, which arrived at St. Pierre last night from Grand Banks, picked up on the 12th two Newfoundland fishermen named Walsh and Matthews, they having been six days adrift without food or water. They became delirious, and Walsh opened veins and sucked blood to quench the terrible thirst. They were so helpless that they had to be hoisted aboard the vessel with a rope. The Mercury also brought Capt. Hiscock and three of the crew of the wrecked Medianna. They know nothing of the balance of the crew.

The New Jersey Republicans Nominate a State Ticket.

TRENTON, Sept. 19.—The Republican State Convention assembled at noon. Wm. Walter Phelps was chosen temporary Chairman. After appointing the usual committees it took a recess until 2:30 o'clock. At 2:30 o'clock the Convention reassembled. Senator John Taylor was appointed permanent Chairman. He said the people paid no attention to political promises; it was action that swayed the multitude. He thought the signs of the times were all in favor of an aggressive campaign being successful. He had no sympathy for the cowardly sentiment that discounted success.

The counties were then called for nominations, and the only names presented were Judge Jonathan Dixon, of Hudson county, and ex-Congressman John Hill, of Morris county.

It was evident before the figures were footed up that Dixon was the choice, and before the announcement of the result could be made the Chairman of the Morris county delegation moved the nomination be made unanimous. This was carried with great applause.

O'Donnell's History.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The Times, in tracing the antecedents of O'Donnell, finds that he is forty-seven years old, a native of Meracladdy, County Donegal, Ireland, has been to America several times, served in the American war, lived for some time in Philadelphia, and kept a public house on the Canadian border. He invested his funds in silver mines and Fenian bonds and lost his money. He returned to Ireland last May, and frequented a company of Irish Americans in Londonderry. He carried a revolver, and was considered a strong Nationalist, but was opposed to the Invincibles. He denounced Carey when the latter turned informer, and declared that he would not shoot, but would burn him by inches. He went to the Cape to work because he considered America played out. Had never seen Carey before taking passage, and had no idea the informer was on board the steamer Kinfauns Castle when he embarked. The defense will be that Carey tried to shoot the prisoner, who wrenched the revolver away and used it to protect his own life. It is stated that O'Donnell's brother, who is living in Ireland, will endervor to obtain the services of A. M. Sullivan, M.P., to conduct the defense. The friends of O'Donnell ridicule the idea that he went to the Cape ror the purpose of killing Carey.

A Vigorous Campaign Against the Louisiana Lottery.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The lottery people will discover that Postmaster-General Gresham is not the kind of man to quietly submit to the bulldozing which has been recently commenced against him. Some months since he declared that the order of Postmaster-General Key, which prohibited Postmasters at New Orleans and New York from delivering money orders and registered mail to the Louisiana Lottery Company, should be revived. The Louisiana Company answered by suing the Postmaster-General and by proceeding against some newspapers which published his order. They also have provided that their mail shall be sent to a certain National bank in New Orleans. The Postmaster-General will make his answer to the lottery company in the Courts. Meanwhile he has issued another order which will probably give the lottery company something to think about. Without making a new investigation he takes the state of facts as were reported to exist to the order issued by Postmaster-General Key, and extends that order so that all Postmasters in the United States are forbidden to deliver any money orders or registered letters to M. A. Dauphin. Postoffice officials say that while it is true that the Postmaster-General has no power to stop the mail of a National Bank, even if it is used as a cover for a lottery company, it is by no means improbable that the Comptroller of the Currency might find some means to take very vigorous action against any National Bank which shall be found to violating or prostituting its charter to aid in the violation of National law. From these intimations at the Postoffice Department it is inferred that the Comptroller of the Currency possibly may have some such step in contemplation.

Oysters.

During eight months of the year, the oyster is the one universal metropolitan favorite. He appeals to all ages, and to both sexes. His capacity for accommodating the most different tastes is unlimited. He is delicious raw. He is exquisite on the half'shell, or no shell at all. He is superb when fried. Broiled, he gives forth all his richest juices. In a stew he is unapproachable, provided only that there is enough of him. Unlike almost everything else in the way of food supplies, he may be eaten at any hour from sunrise to sunset, and considerately remains awake all night, waiting to be served up to suit the whim or fancy of his patrons. Fruit is said to be gold in the morning, silver at midday, and lead at night. The oyster is gold through every hour of the twenty-four.

Failure of Loeb & Co.

On Monday the city was surprised to hear of the failure of Loeb & Co., a firm which had commenced business here but a few weeks ago, with considerable flourish, and who opened with quite a good stock. It is understood that Mr. Loeb purchased about $18,000 worth of goods, on which he says he paid $4,000 cash, and gave his note at thirty and sixty days for the remainder. On last Saturday he sold a considerable quantity of goods at a very low price for cash to a Mr. Wolf, of Forest, and on Monday evening he closed out the balance of the entire stock to Mr. A. J. Hyde, for $5,000. He claims to have sold Wolf $5,500 worth. This would leave, after deducting his probable sales in the last three weeks, about $12,000 worth of goods sold for $5,000.

Several attachments were taken out against Loeb on Monday and Tuesday —one by Con. Shehan, for $800, for one year's rent of the storehouse he occupied; one by A. H. White, for $25, and one by Carson and Watts, for $800. These were levied on the goods sold to A. J. Hyde, which were immediately replevied by his son, C. J. Hyde, who, it appears, soon after the sale purchased the stock from his father, Mr. A. J. Hyde. Mr. Loeb was also arrested on a criminal charge of obtaining goods under false pretences. The affidavit was made by Maj. A. B. Watts and the warrant issued by Justice Henderson. He was bailed in the sum of $800, and the case set for trial Saturday morning. There is considerable indignation among business men at Loeb's failure. His explanation is very unsatisfactory and it is reported among creditors that the failure was a fraudulent one. Most of his victims are New Orleans, and among others the commission house of Carson & Watts, of this city, lose $800.—Meridian Observer.

Death of the Greatest of Farmers.

An Atlanta special dated September 16th, announces the death at his home near Milledgeville, Ga., last Saturday after a brief illness of Hon. Farish Furnam, the most extensive planter in the State, and probably the most successful farmer in the world. Several years ago he gave a splendid law practice and discarded bright political prospects to devote himself to agriculture, determined to solve all mooted questions and demonstrate the feasibility of cotton farming on a gigantic scale.

His success in every effort was almost phenomenal, and the crops of cotton obtained by him from land that had been regarded as almost barren were greater than others harvested from the richest fields.

His death is a great loss to Georgia, the South and the world, but his teachings will long survive him.

Bolivar County Politics.

From the Rosedale Leader it appears that there is no "let up" in the political heat of Bolivarcounty. Two Republican Conventions have been held. The one of September 1st nominates the following ticket: For State Senator, W. H. Alcorn; for, Sheriff, Geo. P. Melchoir; for Chancery Clerk, D. R. Tunstall; for Circuit Clerk, D. Wilson; for Treasurer, L. C. Reynolds; for Representatives, W. L. Lowe and T. C. Buckley; for Assessor, A. S. McRee; for Coroner and Ranger, G. M. Mitchell; for District Attorney, J. F. Harris.

On Monday, September 3d, another Republican convention placed another ticket in nomination, thus giving the intelligent voter the advantage of choosing between two evils. The latter is as follows: For District Attorney, R. L. Richardson; for Representatives, F. A. Montgomery and Perry Payton; for Sheriff, Geo. Y. Scott; for Chancery Clerk, T. R. McGuire; for Circuit Clerk, J. E. Ousley; for Treasurer, D. Barnes; for Assessor, J. T. Moore; for Surveyor, D. D. Galloway.—Greenville Review.

Greely in No Immediate Danger.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Secretaries Chandler and Lincoln were in consultation to-day in reference to sending relief to the Greely party. It is impossible at this writing to state positively what conclusion was reached, but it is understood information has been received that the Greely party is supplied with provisions sufficient to sustain them for over a year yet, and there is consequently no necessity for starting a relief expedition this Fall. Another consultation, however, will be held this afternoon, at which Dr. Pounds will be present.

AGAINST THE LOUISIANA LOTTERY.

The Postmaster-General Issues an Order to Prevent Dauphin's Circumvention.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The following letter, which is self-explanatory, was sent from the Post-office Department today:

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 19, 1883.
To Washington B. Merchant, Postmaster, New Orleans, La:

SIR—Since you were instructed to deliver no registered letters reaching your office addressed to M. A. Dauphin, or to redeem no money orders payable to him, he has directed in certain papers that all registered letters intended for him and concerning the Louisiana State Lottery should be addressed to the New Orleans National Bank, at New Orleans, and that all money orders sent to your office for his benefit concerning the business of said lottery company be made payable to said bank. I am in possession of trustworthy information that this bank has been, and is still, receiving through your office, registered letters and money orders for the benefit of M. A. Dauphin, in pursuance of his published directions.

This is a defiant scheme on the part of M. A. Dauphin and the New Orleans National Bank to evade the orders which have been addressed to you by the Postmaster-General in pursuance of the statutes of the United States, intended to protect the mails and public against a business which is vicious and immoral, and which, in the main, preys upon the ignorant and credulous. This bank cannot be permitted to stand in the shoes of M. A. Dauphin, and thus enable him to accomplish by indirection, what he is not allowed to do directly. Hereafter, therefore, you will deliver to the New Orleans National Bank no registered letters and redeem no money orders payable to it, but deal with it the same as directed by the order of the Department of Nov. 14, 1879. This order will be revoked whenever the bank gives satisfactory evidence that it has abandoned the above scheme. Very respectfully,

W. W. GRESHAM,
Postmaster-General.

Mississippi Factories.

A wood working factory is to be established at Columbus, Miss., where not only wagon spokes, handles, &c., will be turned out, but also buckets, tubs, hubs, &c., will be manufactured. There is said to be but one other factory of this kind in the South, which is situated at Nashville, Tenn., and this mill is said to find a greater demand for its wares than it can supply. We think that the managers of the Natchez handle factory will find a "pointer" in this item that may be of profit to them, if they will take it. Let them add the necessary machinery to their factory for the manufacture of buckets, tubs and hubs, and begin the making of three other articles on a large scale. All the raw material that they could work up would be found here, and with such an extensive market as the entire South to sell its goods in, they certainly would find the venue a most profitable one. This suggestion is thrown out for what it is worth, and we hope that the enterprising gentlemen who are operating the handle factory will be favorably enough impressed with it to thoroughly investigate the matter.—Natchez Democrat.

Racing Stock for Mississippi.

Mr. James Surget, of this county, is adding much valuable blood to his racing stables, and will ere long have a string of "flyers" that will be able to cope with any horses on the turf. Mr. Surget has recently purchased from August Belmont, the noted patron of the turf of New York, the bay stallion imp. Matador, foaled in 1872, by Gladiateur, dam imp. Nonpariel, by Kingston. Nonpareil, Matador's dam, is own sister to Silvervale, the dam of Silvio, which won both the Derby and St. Leger in 1877. Matador is a magnificent animal, and will prove a valuable acquisition to the many thoroughbreds of which Adams county can already boast.—Natchez Democrat.

Petition for Liquor License.

To the Board of Supervisors of Warren County, Miss.:

WE THE UNDERSIGNED VOTERS and petitioners of District No. Two, do respectfully petition your body to grant MRS. L. M. DAVIS, retail liquor license to sell spirituous and vinous liquors in quantities less than one pint at her place of business, situated at Altorf Plantation, Mississippi, in county and District aforesaid. Said Mrs. L. M. DAVIS, being known to us as a proper person to receive such license, we ask that your body grant her license to sell the same for one year from issuance of license. We your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray, &c:

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 20, 1883

THE New York Herald suggests that the Democrats nominate a Southern man for Vice-President.

FURMAN, well known as the author of "Intensive farming," died at his home near Milledgeville, Ga., last Friday.

GEN. J. Z. GEORGE, one of Mississippi's distinguished Senators, has our thanks for kind remembrance in the shape of several valuable public documents.

THE Jefferson county P. M. & M. Association will hold their Fourteenth Annual Fair at Fayette on the 16th, 17th and 18th days of October next. We return thanks for a complimentary ticket.

WE understand that the Cotton Seed Mills combination is broken already. It is stated that the Memphis mills are now offering $2 per ton more for seed than the price agreed upon by the combination.

THE Postmaster-General says the lottery business is vicious and immoral and preys upon the ignorant and credulous. Is it not about time for those distinguished Confederate Generals, Beauregard and Early, to get out of this bad lottery business?

THE Postmaster-General is not to be bulldozed or circumvented by the Louisiana Lottery men. He has instructed the Postmaster at New Orleans not to pay money orders or registered letters to the First National Bank at New Orleans which are intended for M. A Dauphin. Gen. Gresham is the right man in the right place.

THE Yazoo Herald urges the appointment of Dr. McCormick, of that city, to be Superintendent of the new Insane Asylum at Meridian. The Meridian Observer wants its townsman, Dr. J. F. Moore, appointed. We understand that Dr. C. A. Rice, of this city is a candidate, and we would respectfully urge his claims to the consideration of the appointing

MGR. CAPEL, now in this country, though not a professed politician, expresses himself in favor of home rule for Ireland. He is not a Fenian, much less of course is he a dynamitist, but he has no idea that England possesses all the brains in the British empire, and is convinced that Ireland is as well able to govern itself as the Queen is to govern it.—Chicago Press.

MISS MARY ANDERSON recently refused to be introduced to the Price of Wales, whereupon the "great consequentious" Vicksburg Herald grows indignant and says Miss Mary acted the "prude and the churl."

We read a short time since, a statement of some actresses who had recently been introduced to the Prince, and who entertained him by giving specimens of their skill in acting, singing and dancing. The Prince was so highly pleased, and wished to render himself so agreeable, that when the ladies addressed him as "your Highness," he remonstrated and said: "Don't call me Highness; call me Princey."

The prince of Wales has nothing in the world to recommend him, save that he is Queen Victoria's son. He is neither conspicuous for his education, talent, or manners. He is conspicuous for his vices and depravity, and in almost any country but fawning and Royalty-worshipping England he would long ago have met his just deserts. His character is worse than that of Pressel, whose lynching, for a crime which he had not committed, was so vigorously and virtuously defended by the Herald a few days since.

The American people—the virtue-loving people of the world—will commend Mary Anderson for upholding the dignity of womanhood, and for rebuking the miserable and despicable Princely debauchee.

Terrible Suffering.

HALIFAX, Sept. 18.—Captain Alfred Gaston, of the bark Brittannia, which was wrecked off this coast Monday last, tells a story of fearful suffering. They were on wreck from Monday until Tuesday afternoon, during which time a gale was blowing, and all hands were compelled to remain on deck, exposed to the fury of the storm. Finally they took to a small raft, and hardly had the people got on this when a heavy sea washed off every soul except the Captain and eight men were the only ones to be rescued. During Monday night and the following morning five others were washed off in a similar manner, leaving only four survivors, who were rescued by a boat from shore. Twelve persons perished, including the wife and four children of Capt. Gaston, all natives of England. Two of the Captain's children were picked up, and died in a few moments, either from fright or exhaustion.

Lynch Law.

The Jackson Clarion and Jackson Ledger, in their last issues, each publish a leading editorial devoted to a condemnation of mob law. The articles are well written and contain unanswerable arguments as to the general proposition that lynch law is unnecessary and wrong and hurtful in Mississippi. But the articles only deal in generalities, and while they cannot be controverted will not make a deep or lasting impression on the minds of their readers.

Now if the Clarion and the Ledger had desired to preach an effective sermon on the subject, they had a splendid opportunity to do so just at the time their elegant essays on lynch law appeared, but they failed to take advantage of the opportunity or were not equal to the emergency.

Only a few weeks ago, almost at their doors and under their noses, in their own county, there was perpetrated a cruel and unnecessary murder and lynching of two ignorant and helpless negroes, who were in custody of officers of the law, but if the Clarion or Ledger either one denounced this outrage or called upon the State officials to uphold the majesty of the law, it escaped our attention.

We do not believe that the best public sentiment upholds these outrages; and although some of what are called the best citizens may engage in these lynchings and violations of the law, it is the duty of the press and of the Governor and officials generally, to tackle them; to expose them, and to vindicate the laws.

Charity begins at home, and we suggest to the Clarion and Ledger that that would also be a good place to begin the repression of mob violence. Don't be afraid to "speak out in meeting." A vast majority of people wish to do what is right, and the best public sentiment will come to the aid of the newspapers and of the officials who will boldly stand up for law and order.

And is not about time our dear Governor Bob was looking into the murder of prisoners in the custody of officials in this State. He sent a dispatch to Oakland to induce the mob to desist from its attempt to murder a prisoner, but "the leading citizens" up there paid no attention to him, and proceeded to hang the culprit. The Governor will have to stop throwing grass at the Mississippi lynchers, if he wants them to come down from the high stand they have taken in defiance of law and authority.

THE political canvass is getting hot in Ohio Monday evening papers were filled with the speeches delivered in that State, Tuesday morning's papers contained resolutions demanding the expulsion of John R. McLean, of the Enquirer, for conduct unbecoming a member of that body. Of course this is a political move, or the outcome of a newspaper quarrel, which up there means about the same.—Memphis Ledger.

The Hot Water Cure.

Everybody who has dyspeptic friends, which, unfortunately, in this country is equivalent to saying everybody, must have heard of a new and wonderful cure for that dismal complaint and of its brilliant achievements. Fortunately this blessed remedy cannot be patented, for it is nothing more nor less than hot water—a couple of glasses of hot water taken before meals each day. It is cheap and not nasty, and though its efficacy may have been exaggerated and the doctors may some day discover that it is a dreadful insult to the stomach, there can be no doubt that its popularity is great and rapidly increasing. A Poughkeepsie physician has so impressed by this fact that he is about to open a hot-water fountain in his store. "You would be astonished," he said the other day to a reporter, "to know the number of people who drink hot water during the Fall and Winter seasons. They are mostly invalids, and used to drink vichy and seltzer, but now hot water seems to be their popular drink. I think a hot-water fountain in this town would prove an excellent investment. The hot water these people could get at home is seldom of the proper temperature, and, what is worse, is usually impure. I intend to clarify the water and make it absolutely pure. The proper temperature to drink it at is about 140 degrees." The beneficial results are surprising. Thousands of dyspeptics have been either completely cured or immensely benefited on whom every other remedy had been tried and failed.—Chicago Tribune.

Injunction to Prevent the Consolidation of Certain Railway Lines and Interests.

[Special to the Picayune.]

VICKSBURG, MISS., Sept. 18.—An injunction was served on Major J. M. Edwards as Vice-President and general manager of the Vicksburg & Memphis, Mississippi Valley & Ship Island, Tennessee Southern & Grand Gulf & Port Gibson Railroads, enjoining them from consolidation under the name of Louisville, New Orleans and Texas Railroad. It is claimed in the bill of injunction, filed in the Chancery Court of this county, that a contract made in February, 1881, between R. T. Wilson, of New York, E. Martin, Geo. M. Klein, N. H. Harris and Mrs. L. A. Campbell, of this city, and Mrs. Margaret Hunt, of Boston, that for and in consideration of certain property, franchises, etc., that he, R. T. Wilson, was to issue stock and bonds to the plaintiffs to the amount of $2,000,000, which the plaintiffs in suit claim has not been done, hence the injunction.

The injunction forbids the delivery of said bonds, franchises, etc., to any other parties except these named in the petition. The case will be heard before the Court of Chancery at the November term.

How Mahone and Other Politicians Violate the Civil Service Law with Impunity.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The Mahone bulldozing circular, rebuking his henchmen in the Washington Departments for their failure to do their part in the so-called Virginia Association, has created a good deal of unfavorable comment. The New York Times says Mahone is liable to prosecution under the Civil Service Act for violating the section which says no member of Congress "shall, directly or indirectly, solicit or receive any assessment, subscription or contribution for any political purpose whatever from any employee of the United States."

It may be doubted whether Mahone could be convicted under this section, as he could plead that he did not know of the purpose of the officers of this association to utilize his circular in order to extort money. The Mahone circular shows how poorly the Civil Service Act is calculated to bind an administration which is disposed to regard its officers as a band of political janisaries. The only effective and operative part of the law is its features shielding from removal the Republicans now who monopolize Federal employment. Whether Mahone has violated the law or not, Attorney-General Brewster will not have him indicted, as the pair are birds of a feather and flock together in the same dirty pool.

The Corn Crop.

The attempt of speculators to create an impression that the corn crop has been ruined by the recent frosts has doubtless led many to believe that the supply will be below the demand. A few moments' consideration will show that such a conclusion is unwarranted even by the statements of the alarmists and the farmers, who always put injuries to crops when they first come at the highest figure. The whole crop will not be far from 1,600,000,000 bushels, half of which is produced by the States reaching from the Ohio line to the western border of Kansas, and stretching from the Arkansas line on the south to Minnesota. Missouri, producing 170,000,000 bushels last year, is almost wholly below the frost line. Kansas, which gave 144,500,000 bushels last year, has not been touched by frost. Illinois gave 182,300,000 bushels and Indiana 107,500,000 bushels, the greater part of which was raised in the Southern parts those States and below the region which the frost visited. Iowa is the only large corn-growing State which lies north of the frost line. Its yield last year was 175,500,000 bushels. The crop of that State is reported to be injured in some localities. It is estimated that less than 140,000,000 bushels was raised in the northern portions of Illinois and Indiana. This would indicate that regions producing 315,000,000 bushels on the basis of last year, have been reached by the frost in the five corn-growing States. Of this, the most damaging reports claim that only a portion of it has been injured. The States north of those named produced one-tenth of the corn crop last year, namely, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Nebraska. These States, with the Territories in the same latitudes, raised less than 170,000,000 bushels in 1882. To this must be added the yield of those of the frost-touched sections [illegible] A total of 485,000,000 bushels as the corn crop of the localities in the West visited by frosts. As only a fraction of the crop is damaged in these sections, and as the crop of this year is estimated at 400,000,000 bushels of corn, there will have been

ABOUT ALLISON.

The Presidential Bee Buzzing in the Hawkeye Senator's Bonnet.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—When Congress adjourned last spring Iowa Republicans went home believing that if Mr. Blaine was not himself a candidate for President, he would throw his influence in favor of Senator Allison. Meanwhile Allison has considered himself in training. He has for some time studied his course in the Senate by not committing himself on dangerous questions. The mistake of trotting him out a year or more in advance it was intended to avoid, but the cold wave which passed over Iowa last fall had a chilling effect and threatened to so benumb Allison before the race that he could not rogain sufficient activity to enter the struggle at all. Nor is the danger passed. Iowa as the Republican Gibraltar is not what she was. Allison's proportions are comparatively diminished.

There is another, cause of doubt with the Republicans. Senator Allison has mounted the prohibition hobby, which has sent confusion into its ranks, and cleared off the wits of dozens of voters who had stood firm. Allison as a candidate would invite the issue everywhere. "It may be a good thing to do in Iowa," say Republicans, extending their gaze over the field, "but it may give us trouble precisely where we would least wish to see it."

The Republican party as such is not the Prohibition party. Yet, they contend, when the time comes for abandoning its old ground for that of Prohibition in the struggle for President, Mr. Allison may be a good enough candidate. But for his mistake in mounting the hobby, they continue, he might be a good enough candidate. The prohibition business changes the question. Blaine's late observation that the Republican candidate would be taken from the West has this significance. It is highly entertaining for Logan.

IN a number of the counties in which fusion has prevailed negroes have been nominated for the Legislature. The Democrats seem to have adopted the policy of supporting negroes for the Legislature instead of for county offices. The result will be a large negro representation in the next Legislature.

It would be better we think for the fusionists to divide the county offices with the negroes. A Legislative position is more important just now than some of the county offices we could name, and which the Democrats who have gone into the fusion business, seem determined to hold on to.—Columbus Index.

The dandy Issaquena, the Belle of the Bends, came in last night with a first-class trip, and will back out at 5 o'clock this evening on her regular trip to Greenville. The Issaquena is always promptly on time, and to the people along the river she is like a railroad train, as they know when they hear her whistle (and you can rest assured they know the sound of their favorite's whistle) what the hour is. No need of looking at your clock when the Issaquena comes along, for she is on time, and knowing her hour once you know when to look for her, and will not be disappointed. With Capt. Marrionneaux in command and Frank Steigleman in the office, assisted by Bob Hendrickson and Will Sartorius, the Issaquena is a great favorite between here and Greenville, and is reaping the reward of promptness and clever and efficient officers in the shape of an extensive and increasing business.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Avalanche: The Commonwealth, bound from St. Louis to Vicksburg, and due yesterday morning, is aground eight miles above here. Officers of the boat came down in a yawl early this morning and reported the same. Capt. Ad. Storm secured the towboat Billy Ezell, and taking a lighter went up to give relief. She will probably be off and pass here this evening.

Editor Avalanche: I see by this morning's Appeal, and also by a recent number of the New Orleans ("what is it") that A. J. Carter, of the steamer City of New Orleans, says that the Government works at Plum Point and Lake Providence reach are a success; that the channel has been deepened, and that the river at those places is in a better navigable condition than ever before, etc. Now, I would like to know who are the pilots on the City of New Orleans with Capt. Carter, and why they did not say the same thing. I admit that the channel at those places is in better condition this season, but do not believe that this change was caused by the work of man, and I am an old PILOT.

The Fate of Arctic Expeditions.

The failure to relieve the Greeley Arctic expedition forces ones one to the painful conclusion that the daring men who compose it will meet the fate which so many others have met who have ventured into the North Pole. The Greeley expedition has reached a point farther north than have any of its predecessors, but this fact tends only to make its destruction more certain. While one can but admire the daring spirit which animates the men who volunteer in these more than hazardous undertakings, the repeated disasters and the repeated loss of the lives of so many valuable men lead one to inquire if it is not about time to cease sending these expeditions to the Arctic Ocean. What has thus far been accomplished for science that will warrant the loss of a single ship's crew? Suppose it is demonstrated that there is an open sea about the North Pole—what use will that knowledge be to any human being? Who has been benefited by this loss of life and property in the past? Is there any likelihood that anybody will be benefited should the North Pole be reached by more fortunate adventurers than have yet lost their lives in these fruitless undertakings? These are some of the questions which arise now when their failure and loss of another expedition is announced.—Boston Journal.

Aberdeen Items.

Many huge wagon loads of admirably cured pea vine hay have been on sale on our streets this week. The ruling price was from forty to fifty cents per hundred weight.

The Aberdeen Guards, under Capt. E. Lykes, were out on drill until a late hour Monday night, and did excellent work in the manual of arms and marching. We understand that this week Lieut. W. M. Holliday—who by the way is one of the most accomplished drill masters in commission in this or any other State—will resume the drill of the company in platoon and other important exercises.

The cotton pickers were never more actively employed in getting out the crop, but there is comparatively little ginning and packing going on. This speaks well for the condition of the farmers and shows their ability to hold and control their crops. The fact is that there is less indebtedness against the present cotton crop in this region than at any former harvest season in the last eighteen years, and the vast majority of the producers are in a position to absolutely control the sale and movement of their cotton. A better conditioned race of farmers does not exist anywhere on the globe than we have here in this section.—Examiner, 19th.

A Young Lady Seriously Burned.

The family of the late George W. Hindsell reside on the Big creek road, (Second street extended north) very near the water works, and comprise Mrs. Josephine Huduall and several children. The eldest daughter, Miss Addie, a young lady and her younger sister occupy the same bedroom. On Sunday night they went to bed leaving their candle burning and the room door locked. From some cause, during the night the candle set fire to the bedclothes. On awakening, the younger sister escaped from the bed without harm, but the night clothes of the elder, Miss Addie, caught fire and burned her arms and lower limbs seriously. Fortunately two gentlemen, friends of the family, were in the house at the time and on hearing the screams of the young ladies, burst in the locked door and extinguished the fire upon the person of Miss Addie and also the bedding. Without their assistance it is probable the house would have burned, with far more serious results. A physician was called in and afforded all the relief he could to the young lady.—Memphis Avalanche, 18th.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. JOHN WARREN, of Hinds county, is in the city.

MR. J. T. STROTHER and wife are in the city.

MR. LUTHER MANSHIP left for Jackson last night.

COM. S. H. PARISOT left by rail last night for New Orleans.

MR. W. H. CAFFEY and Mr. Henry Walton, of Bolton, are in the city to-day.

MR. ISAAC HIRSCH was a passenger by the morning train from Cincinnati.

MR. D. STEIN, of Farmersville, La., came in this morning by rail from St. Louis.

MR. T. J. FINANE departed by last night's train for a business trip to New Orleans.

JUDGE WARREN COWAN arrived home this morning from his Summer vacation.

MR. HENRY GRAM, who has been ill for some time, was on the street this morning.

J. R. BAIRD, Esq., of Sunflower county, came in on this morning's train, and leaves for home to-day.

THE Republican Ward Clubs meet to-night to elect delegates to the County Convention, which meets Saturday.

MR. CHARLES SMITH, of Washington county, and Mr. Ferguson, of Leota, left for Cincinnati last night by rail.

MR. CHARLES M. KAIN, Superintendent of the Planters Compress, is on the streets after a few days illness.

MR. FRED. ENDOM, Mayor of Monroe, accompanied by his daughter, was a passenger by last night's train for Cincinnati.

THE grading and graveling of Levee street from China to South street will be finished this week. Work is being pushed forward with all possible speed.

DR. J. E. BOLDEN, arrived from Belton, Texas, this morning, en route to Lake Providence, La., where he will locate. The Doctor has a fine reputation as a physician.

REMEMBER the entertainment at Magnolia Hall to-night.

THE New Missippian says: "Fred Loyd of Vicksburg has three fine racers now quartered at the fair grounds. They can be seen any morning exercising on the track, which is in excellent condition."

WE learn that J. B. Sanders, who was employed as a penitentiary guard, accidently shot himself in the left thigh, at Jackson, yesterday. He was not seriously hurt.

MR. JOSEPH KLEIN, who was a resident of Vicksburg years ago, but returned to Manheim, Germany, his old home, came in this morning and will possibly make this his future home.

DR. C. G. COLEMAN left this morning for Omega to make a survey of the levee at that point, and prepare for the contractor, who will commence work in a few days.

MR. PAT. KINNEY left for Jackson last night to meet his sisters, Miss Minnie Kinney and Mrs. Thomas Kinney, who have been spending some time in Evansville, Ind. They arrived home this morning.

MR. T. W. TILTON, who has taken a subcontract from J. B. Neeley & Co., for part of the levee at Goodrich contracted for by Neeley & Co., leaves today by the steamer Issaquena for the work. He will take with him the teams and the necessary implements for the work.

THE side-track of the L., N. O. & T. road from the main line of road to the pile of steel rails at Kleinston, will be finished to-day. These rails will be sent forward immediately, after which the temporary track which has been put down will be removed.

THE Baldwin ferry bridge was thrown open for travel this morning. We learn from a gentleman out in that neighborhood that there were over fifty bales of cotton waiting on the road on the other side of Big Black for the opening of this bridge, so it could be brought into Vicksburg.

MR. JOHN P. CARR and Miss Ida Ferguson were married at the residence of the bride's father last night. The ceremony which was very impressive, was performed by Dr. C. K. Marshall. Mr. Carr and his beautiful bride left on the City of Cairo this morning for their future home in Charleston, Indiana.

LIST of arrivals by the steamer Issaquena last night: W. McCutchen, M. Galesby, J. Picard, Mrs. McIlee and daughter, and Wm. Simms, Greenville; C. W. Wilson, Glenora; Capt. George Smith, and T. B. Hill, Skipwiths; H. M. Ehrman, Tallula.

THE steamer Issaquena, arriving last night, had 2200 sacks cotton seed for Powers Oil Mill Co., 60 head of sheep for H. M. Ehrman & Bro., 4 bales of cotton for Willlis, Moore & Co., 3 bales of cotton for John F. Halpin & Co., 71 bales of cotton for New Orleans.

THE brick gutter along Levee street between Clay and China, being built by the railroad, was completed yesterday by the Beck Bros, the contractors, and work was immediately commenced on the square south, which will be pushed to completion. The work along the square just finished will average five feet high, and contains 30,000, brick and is done in the very best manner.

CAPT. A. A. SHARPE informs us that the steamer U. P. Schenck, which laid up in the Ohio river last month, had some 300 kegs of bolts on her for the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas Railroad, which were sufficient to join 50 miles of track. The Schenck failed to reship the bolts, hence others had to be ordered by telegraph. Had they not arrived yesterday, work on this end of the line would have to be suspended for the time being.

THE Supervisors, who yesterday visited the work done by Messrs Kennedy & Morris on the approaches to Baldwin Ferry Bridge and the causeway leading to it, pronounce the work as being done in a satisfactory manner and accepted it on part of the county. This will give our neighbors in the western and southeastern part of Hinds county an opportunity of trading in our city, where they can get better bargains than at any other place in this section.

THE Paragon cooking oil is now coming into general use everywhere for culinary purposes. The mills in St. Louis which make this celebrated brand are now shipping four car loads daily to New York, where the dealers report the demand in excess of the supply. It is said in that market the bakers are large purchasers of this oil, and the demand is daily growing. Let our housekeepers give it a trial, as it is cheaper, and it is far superior to lard for cooking. Geo. W. Hutcheson & Co. are the agents in Vicksburg for this excellent brand of pure oil.

The Twin Prodigies.

It was the pleasure of a representative of THE POST to hear the little prodigies, Maggie and Delia Bridges, in a couple of character songs at Mr. Woodruff's music store yesterday. It is not strange these little ones have met with such success wherever they have appeared. Their personation and gesticulation is entirely bare of the stiff stageiness that is so prominent in all children on the stage. They are remarkably graceful, with the innocent and winsome manners of children, which is one of their chief attractions. Their singing is very good, while their acting has the natural grace of childhood. As soon as they finished a song they would run around and enjoy the sights with a childish delight. All who go to the entertainment to-night may rest assured of a pleasant and interesting evening. These bright and handsome little ones well deserve all that has been said in their praise, and no one should miss the opportunity of seeing them. There will be a matinee Saturday afternoon, which will afford a good opportunity for parents taking their children, who will surely enjoy the entertainment.

A Recherche Affair.

The residence of our fellow-townsman, Mr. G. W. Hutcheson, was in its utmost brilliancy last night. The soft rays of light reflecting on the faces of the fair sex was something beautiful to behold, and it melted as gentle as frost in the sunshine, while the radiant glare spread its mantle of lustre over the brows of the sterner sex. So bright was the affair that each interested countenance evinced a visible trace of supreme happiness, and even fair Luna displayed its effulgency with desired effect. The occasion of this pleasant gathering was in honor of the departure of Miss Vallie Clack, of Greenville, Miss., who has been on a visit to her friend, Miss Katie Harrison. Yet in the midst of all delightfulness there was a sombre tinge of sorrow. During Miss Clack's sojourn here she has made many friends and endeared herself to their confidence, so that her sudden leaving will make more more than a gossamer line in society. The jolly and mirth-provoking Will. Hackett made things lively in his accustomed way. Mr. Walter Bobb was untiring in his efforts to please, and the success of the entertainment is somewhat attributed to his generous endeavors. At 12 o'clock an elegant repast was spread, and all ate with sufficient relish and gusto; and as the town clock pealed forth the hour of three, wraps were brought into requisition, and dispersing began, all feeling as if they had received more than the share of enjoyment accorded them; also with the earnest hope that Miss Clack will again visit our city, and at an early day.

The Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad.

Track laying on the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad was completed yesterday to a point eighteen miles west of Monroe. It is expected that all the grading will be finished by the middle of October, and then track-laying will be pushed through without delay. The road to Shreveport, it is expected, will be completed by the first of next February.

Good-by, Miss Ida; "may long life and ever-increasing happiness be thine, is the wish of the friends you leave behind." W. G. M.

FRESH OYSTERS
Received daily at
BERGER'S RESTAURANT.

The Kleinston Road.

We learn that Judge A. H. Arthur, President of the Board of Supervisors, says that he will call a meeting of the Board at an early date to take into consideration the petition presented to that body by the City Council, the Board of Trade and Cotton Exchange of this city relative to the road to Kleinston. We hope the action of the Board will be as requested, and that the road be built. The city of Vicksburg and its residents pay four-fifths of the county taxes, and surely they are entitled to a good road to the landing. It is not known what day the meeting will be called and what the Board will do, but we hope they will see the need of the road and the justice of the demand of our merchants.

The Water-works.

A POST reporter, while talking with Alderman Trowbridge this morning on the subject of Water Works, asked that gentleman what the North American Improvement and Construction Company intends doing. Mr. Trowbridge said that the Company had recently sent on here for the maps of this city, with the desired positions of fire plugs marked upon it, but as yet nothing further had been heard from them since the maps were forwarded to the main office of the Company in New York. Mr. Trowbridge intimated that if the Company who now have the water-works contract does not come to the scratch pretty soon, and start work, that bids will be invited from other parties. No doubt good bids could be obtained, as there are numbers of such companies in the North.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather, Capt. Cowan has ordered the Vicksburg Rifles to assemble at their armory this evening to meet in joint parade with the Volunteer Southrons. The companies will assemble in their armories at 5 o'clock, and at 5:30 will appear on the streets. The parade will give our citizens an opportunity of judging which is the superior company of the two, and also to see what progress they are making. Seats will be prepared for ladies on all the balconies fronting on Washington street.

A colored woman by the name of Fanny Throbs or Johnson, who returned from St. Louis a day or two ago, stated that another colored woman named Mary Price, whom she met in St. Louis recently, said she had stabbed a woman in Vicksburg who had afterward died, and she (Price) had left and was going to Chicago. It is supposed the woman referred to as being killed was Mary Thomas, who was stabbed on the Island a few weeks ago.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office, and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE POST will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post job Printing Company." We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in he way of good work and moderate prices.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

WASHINGTON, Sept. '27.—Congressman Cox, one of the candidates for Speaker, is out in an interview in the New York Herald, marked by a great deal of garrulity and indiscretion. He passes a hard judgment on all the persons who have filled the Speaker's chair since Mr. Colfax's time, including Hon. Michael C. Kerr, of Indiana, Mr. S. S. Cox, of New York, Milton Tayler, of Ohio, and Sam'l J. Randall, of Pennsylvania, by saying that "the Speaker's business since Blaine took the chair has not been as it should be," and by speaking of "bullies in the chair."

If the interview ended here Mr. Cox would still fail to attract Mr. Randall's attention by his assaults; but he takes occasion in this interview to make public a long letter from Judge Hoadly, the Democratic candidate for Governor in Ohio, which was plainly not written with any idea of its being printed. The letter was probably written in confidence, and its publication is calculated to embarrass and injure Judge Hoadly very seriously.

This is the second offense of which Mr. Cox has been guilty this summer. Not long ago he gave out to the press an account of a letter from Mr. Carlisle, and used language calculated to induce the belief that Mr. Carlisle, in case he could not be elected Speaker would transfer his vote to himself (Mr. Cox). Mr. Carlisle naturally felt aggrieved at a statement which placed him in an utterly false position, but though he called Cox's attention to the matter it was never corrected. It is the knowledge of this sort of imprudence that makes it impossible for Mr. Cox to command the support of his own delegation.

All the advices received from New York are favorable to Democratic success there this Fall by a great majority. Mr. Randall, who is well informed about the State, writes here that the Democratic majority will be 50,000.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

The Boiler of the Steamer J. S. Robinson Explodes at Albany, New York.

ALBANY, Sept. 28.—Early this morning the boiler of the steamer J. S. Robinson, which lay at the foot of Waterloo street, exploded with frightful force, instantly killing Capt. George S. Warner and Fireman Wm. Geary and seriously injuring Fred Kenslar, engineer, who was blown into the water and narrowly escaped drowning, and Willard Durand and Melville Ryan, deck hands; Richard Vannani, son of Capt. Vannani, of the tug Cara, from New Baltimore, lying along side the Robinson, was also injured. Capt. Robinson, of the Hattie B. Betts, was blown from his pilot-house on the wharf and severely injured. The Betts which lay at the stern of the Robinson, was damaged $1000, the Cora alongside, was a total wreck, and the C. P. Grant, lying ahead of the Robinson, had her jobber work carried away and machinery damaged. The Robinson sank immediately. One section of her boiler weighing two or three tons was hurled four hundred feet against the top story of a three story building and passed into section of the wall, another section weighing nearly a ton, crushed the roof of the coal barge E. M. Darrow, and still another section was buried in the earth, passing the cabin of the

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

Justice Field Decides that Hong Kong Celestials are not British Subjects.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Sept. 28.—Judge Field, of the United States Supreme Court, sitting in banc with Judge Sawyer, rendered a final decision in respect to the rights claimed by Chinese born in Hong Kong to land in the United States. He rules that the fact of a Chinaman being born in Hong Kong does not constitute him a British subject, and enlarges on the fact that Congress never intended to disregard the requirements of a treaty with a foreign Government. "An Act of Congress," he says, "must be construed according to its manifest intent, and must be so enforced by the courts. In respect to the Restriction Act, no consideration was deemed necessary to the position of other Governments regarding the Chinese within their borders. Its object was to exclude Chinese laborers coming from any part of the world. It was known that Hong Kong would pour Chinese laborers into our country every year unless covered by the Restriction Act. The Act declares in the first section, that from and after ninety days from its passage until its expiration (ten years) the coming of Chinese laborers to the United States, without any limitation of countries from which they might come, is suspended. During such suspension it shall not be lawful for any Chinese laborer to come, or having come, to remain in the United States. The twelfth section declares that any person found unlawfully within the United States shall be removed therefrom by direction of the President to the country from whence he came—not necessarily to China, but to the country he came from." He concluded that all the provisions of the Restriction Act were consistent with each other, and that the full purpose of the law to exclude Chinese laborers from the United States would be defeated by any other construction.

The Oyster's Recollections.

My thoughts to-day
Are far away,
Dreaming of that blue-waved bay,
Where, out of sight,
Each balmy night,
I used to watch the moon's soft light.

My mates and I
Would calmly lie,
And laugh at lobsters lingering nigh;
We thought that they Would pass away
Long ere we saw the light of day.

While in our bed
We did not dread
The shadows of the ships o'er head;
But oft we'd smile,
And care beguile
By chasing crabs, mile after mile.

Then we'd play tag
Behind some snag,
And ride on anchors when they drag.
With wicked wink
We'd swiftly sink,
And seek some quiet spot to drink.

But, yesterday,
O'er that calm bay,
There passed a shadow where we lay;
Excite could make
A plunge, a rake
Came sweeping down, and us did take.

Now, on a bar,
We gaze afar,
As fixed as that great northern star,
Now, friends, good-bye!
For we must die,
And be served up in stew and fry,

Mary Anderson and the Prince of Wales.

A gentleman who knew Miss Anderson very well was asked by the Prince of Wales to say that he would be pleased if she would indicate a time when it would be agreeable to her to receive the communication to his Royal Highness. She replied that while she wished to show every respect to the future Queen of England, she must decline to receive letters from a reply had never before been made to a request for an introduction by a person not of the blood, and she was asked to speak plain. "An introduction to the Prince of Wales," she pluckily answered, "would do me no good professionally, and I know very well how he regards actresses generally. Personally I have always maintained my dignity and selfrespect, and I do not mean to put myself in any position voluntarily where I may be compelled to forget them. Therefore I must decline to be presented to him. I have gone this far in life without a breath of scandal attached to me, and I do not mean now to do anything that might change that condition." This settled the matter. The story got into London and was widely repeated, and it was noticeable after that the Princess never invited Miss Anderson to her garden party, an honor she has never before conferred on any actress of the English stage.—New York World.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 29, 1883

THE elections in Ohio and Iowa occur Tuesday, Oct. 9th. Ohio is considered doubtful, and Iowa is a conceded Republican State.

GENERAL GRANT denied to a reporter in St. Paul the other day the report that he favored Mr. Conkling's nomination for President.

SOME papers remark that Postmaster General Gresham is showing himself a good deal of a man. A few weeks ago Mr. Blaine remarked that Judge Gresham had the stuff in him to make a good candidate for President.

THE Secretary of the State Fair Association has a pile of letters (large enough to make a junk man happy for a week) of inquiry from stock men and horse racers. If the Fair proves a failure it will not be from lack of fine horses, pigs and cattle.—Jackson Tribune.

THE somewhat famous Boyd trial in Nashville came to a close yesterday. Boyd, formerly a respectable citizen, was found guilty of murdering a woman named Birdie Patterson on the 5th of last July, and sentenced to serve twelve years in the penitentiary. As he is over fifty years old that will probably finish him.—Memphis Ledger, 28th.

DEMOCRATIC and Republican primary meetings were held in Natchez last Thursday. The Republican meeting was addressed by Hon. John R. Lynch, who strongly advocated fusion in local politics, but counseled his party to stand together on National principles. The Natchez Democrat says fusion secured a big victory at both meetings.

COMMITTEES representing the two factions of the Democratic party in Cincinnati held meetings some days since in order to see if some plan could not be devised to insure harmony and one local ticket. The Conference failed because the candidates of the McLean controlled convention refused to withdraw in order that another convention might be called and a new ticket nominated.

FRED. DOUGLAS, in his speech at Louisville, probably allowed his ambition to get the best of his judgment and good sense. Fred. would like to see a member of the negro race in the Cabinet or Vice-President of the United States. It is only reasonable to think that if a negro were selected for either position, Fred. would be the man, both on account of his ability and prominence, therefore he cannot very well help looking favorably upon a scheme to elevate his race which promises this sort of promotion.

AS WE published the Brookhaven Leader's strictures on Col. Calvin Wells for the part he took in the murder of two prisoners in custody in Hinds county, we give that gentleman the benefit of a long explanation which he makes in the Leader. It can only be called an explanation for - it is certainly not a defense. Under the circumstances, it would perhaps have been well for Col. Wells to have remembered the old adage: "The least said soonest mended." It is a pity that a man with the influence possessed by Col. Wells should not have used it on the side of law, and justice and mercy. That he exercised a considerable influence, is evidenced by the fact, according to his own confession, that the crowd followed his advice. Perhaps, they would have followed his advice also, if he had given them better counsel. He did not, and more is the pity. But a long comment on Col. Wells' communication is altogether unnecessary; its perusal will insure its condemnation, and if anything further were needed the Brookhaven Leader supplies it.

MR. HAMP. MOODY was elected Mayor of Beauregard last week. Mr. Moody is the young man who took refuge in a box car with his wife and child when he saw the tornado approaching last April, and which was blown from the track two hundred yards over the hill, and then four negroes who had also taken refuge in it were killed outright. Himself, wife and child all received terrible injuries, he being several times reported dead or beyond hope. After his wonderful recovery he conceded his mind to have been affected from the effects of concussion and it was thought his reason had been permanently dethroned. Notwithstanding all this, he got straight and is now one of the foremost men of his town.

Military at the State Fair.

The announcement that a Mississippi "State Fair Association" is willing to "offer a $1,500 premium for the best drilled company, provided the attendance of certain companies" from other States, can be assured, is calculated to excite some surprise and a great deal of disgust. If such veteran victors on sundry fields, as the Chickasaw Guards and the Porter Rifles of Memphis, the Crescent Rifles of New Orleans, and the Mobile Rifles, can be induced to make their appearance at Jackson during Fair week, they will draw immense crowds of people and put much money into the coffers of the aforesaid Fair Association, but it is neither sensible nor respectful to ask our young and inexperienced companies to compete with the famous organizations we have named. If this is the best the State Fair Association can do to promote the military ardor and esprit de corps of the young volunteer soldiery of Mississippi, we advise the concern to close its doors and put up its shutters.—Vicksburg Herald.

Competitive drills, at which companies from several States took part, have been interesting and prominent features at several States Fair—notably at the last Fair at Nashville, Tennessee. If the Directors of the Mississippi Fair can secure the attendance of some of the famous companies, it will certainly be an attaction. But, if companies from outside the State are not willing to come, we think the Directors should have a competitive drill even if it is only participated in by our own State companies. However, we see no occasion for the "withering sarcasm" of the "great consequentious." The State Fair directors are evidently doing the best they can to inaugurate their enterprise, and it is one calculated to benefit the States. And as the Herald has been so lavish in its praise and flattery of Col. Morehead for his supposed connection with getting up the Atlanta Fair, and the big Fair to be held in New Orleans next year, it would seem that anybody who was trying to get up a Fair (and especially one in our State) would at least deserve its praise and encouragement, and not be unceremoniously advised to shut up its shop.

THE HINDS COUNTY LYNCHING.

Col. Calvin Wells' Defense, and the Brookhaven Leader's Comments.

RAYMOND, MISS., Sept. 14, 1883.

Mr. B. T. Hobbs, Brookhaven, Miss.:

DEAR SIR—Some kind friend has sent me a copy of your paper containing your article headed, "Mob Law in Hinds." As that article places me in a false attitude I take the liberty of addressing you on the subject. My connection with that matter has been entirely misconceived by your informant. I will proceed to state in detail the part I played in that affair.

When the two men had been captured, arrested under a warrant and brought to my Mill near where the grave had been robbed, the husband and father-in-law of the lady whose grave had been robbed were there with their feelings harrowed as no man can possibly fully appreciate unless he could be placed in the same situation. These men were armed and their outraged feelings urged them to rush upon the negroes and shoot them until they were dead. I had little acquaintance with these two men. Some of their most intimate friends came to them and advised them not to kill them. My limited acquaintance with them caused me at first to decline to advise them; but as my friends insisted I privately stated to them that they would certainly get themselves into trouble if they did it. They made no reply, but my friends told me that at first they were enraged at the advice I had given them, but, upon reflection, they determined to leave these men in the hands of the large body of citizen already congregated there. Some of these citizens enquired of me whether or not they could be sure if the citizens en masse should take them and hang them. I replied by relating and incident that occurred with my regiment in the army. I told those who were in conversation with me that if they were determined to kill them, then I thought it best for them to send for a Magistrate, let the negroes have a fair trial before him, let all the facts be developed and ascertain certainly who were the guilty parties, and then if they were determined to kill them, they could do so after the officer had started to Raymond. But by all means if they did kill them to take them and hang them with as much order and decorum as a Sheriff would do under a sentence of the court; and that if it was done that the very best citizens do it. My advice prevailed, a Magistrate was sent for, and about the time that I began I took the train for my home at Raymond. At that time there was another negro under arrest for the same offense, one of the two having stated that this third man had assisted in the killing. What occurred subsequent to that I do not know personally, but I am informed that the third man, on the investigation, was released. The Deputy Sheriff started with the two men, and when he had gone about a half mile the negroes were taken from him, and as they were fixing the rope around the younger man's neck he resisted, made an effort to escape, and was shot. The other man was hung to a limb. On the trial they confessed all, and had in their possession a part of the bones of the woman sawed or broken into short pieces to bags for conjuration, as they stated. It is not true that I advised the killing of these men. My advice, in my opinion, saved one man. That crowd did not seek advice as to the advisability of killing. Each one of them seemed made up as to their, and all that I might have said against it would have been of no avail.

It is true that I was a member of the Committee of Safety appointed at the meeting held in Raymond in 1876 during the political campaign, but I went straight and became one of the best workers in the ranks of the Democratic party in this county. I have never been connected with the Hinds county affair; but as in the willingness to answer to his country, he certainly has been a soldier in the ranks of the highest degree honorable. So far as my being "legally and morally responsible for the blood of these men" I stand ready to answer both to my country and my God for that charge. I am glad you feel called upon to assist Judge Wharton in preserving the laws of the country. Should you desire to go before the Grand Jury, both you and your informant, I stand ready to applaud you and him for your noble conduct in thus seeking to bring me to justice. I was born and raised in this county, and I feel no hesitancy in placing my life and honor in the hands of the her people.

Not content with holding me up to your readers as a murderer (a postal of inquiry could have secured you all the facts in forty-eight hours), you take occasion to express the belief that I would have advised the whipping of the negro at Adams Station had I been counseled as to that. This piece of slander (I hope I do not put it too strong), was volunteered without even a "reliable informant" to fall back on. That you may have some information on the subject, allow me to say the young men of Utica who saw proper to champion the rights of an estimable young lady who had been struck in the face by a burly negro man with his fist, did not seek advice from me on the subject.

* * * * * * *

I hope you will excuse the length of this article. Had I taken the time to have gone into the details to your informant as I have in this article, I feel confident you would not have assailed me as you have. Please insert in your next, and I hope all papers that have copied your article will also, in simple justice to me, copy mine.

Yours, W. CALVIN WELLS.

SOME COMMENTS.

As we had no desire whatever to criticise Col. Wells behind his back and not allow him an opportunity of vindicating himself, we ourself were the "kind friend" who mailed him a copy of The Leader; and now we could wish that he had more successfully shown the charges groundless which we published against him.

The sincerity and honesty of his statements we do not question for a moment, but we submit that his own testimony proves, substantially, what was charged. It was not stated Col. Wells advised the killing of the prisoners before a preliminary examination could be done without danger to the lynchers, after an officer started with them to Raymond. That he did give this advice to men who were determined, in some way, to kill the negroes, he states himself in language of plainest import, and he told the "war anecdote" to illustrate the point. We consider it a significant fact that Colonel Wells omits this anecdote in his defense. It will also be noticed that Colonel Wells nowhere states that he advised against the hanging of the negroes by the mob, or that he was not in sympathy with it, and it was against the crime of lynching that our criticism was directed. He advised that civil process be observed as far as a preliminary trial was concerned, and his advice was followed; as the law-abiding citizen he would have us believe him to be, why didn't he advise that the law be observed all the way through? Advice is cheap. From this point however, Col. W.'s advice seems to have been how not to carry out the State's laws. Nevertheless Col. W. is evidently a man of order and decorum, and if the thing had to be done he wanted it done "by the best citizens." Yes, let the best citizens proceed in a deliberate, orderly and decorous manner to violate the laws of our State, which every citizen is sworn to uphold, and hang two helpless prisoners already within the clutches of the law, and to whose crime our law's makers, in their wisdom, have seen fit to affix as the most extreme penalty five years in the Penitentiary. It seemed to be a very important consideration in the opinion of Col. W. that the law be violated in a decorous manner, and by "the best citizens." We would say that there would have been more allowance for its violation had it been done in the heat of passion, before there was any time to reflect, and by the worst citizens instead of the best. Col. W. says: "My advice prevailed, a Magistrate was sent for, and about the time the trial began I took the train for my home in Raymond." Yes, his advice did prevail, and he might have added in the same connection (to quote his own words), the negroes would have been hung "with as much order and decorum as a Sheriff would do under the sentence of the court," but "as they were fixing the rope around the younger man's neck he resisted, made an effort to escape, and was shot. The other man was hung to a limb." That if those men had confessed their guilt, their crime was not deserving of death, much less by a mob.

Col. Wells ineidently presents one of the very strongest of arguments against the lynch-law—that of saving the life of one man who was accused, and not worthy of even five years imprisonment. We give him full credit for this, and are free to admit to that extent at least "decorum" was a good thing to have around.

We will inform Col. Wells what "conclevable connections" our mentioning him as one of the Hinds County Democratic Executive Committee had to do with the subject. It was done to emphasize the prominence of his position in the county, and further and more partially to suggest the utter inconsistency of one occupying so honorable a position to become a party, as we were assured he had, to an act which could but bring reproach upon the party which presided over laws and administers them. The Democratic party is responsible for all the present laws of Mississippi and for their faithful and impartial administration, and it ill becomes one calling himself a Democrat, much less occupying a prominent position in the party, to do so unseemly a thing as to engage in or advise a lynching.

We have nothing to say as to Col. W.'s willingness to answer to his Maker for his connection with the Hinds county affair; but as to

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree may be the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It is the best balm to die-sease, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, add pay the balance in $3 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE City of Vicksburg leaves at 5 o'clock this evening for St. Louis.

GEORGE WILSON seems to be acquainted with our policemen's ways.

MRS. CLARENCE KEENE arrived home by the 6 o'clock train, from Virginia.

MR. G. W. HUTCHESON and wife leave for St. Louis on the 2:15 train this afternoon.

MRS. C. D. BOSWELL and mother departed by the J. M. White last night for New Orleans.

MRS. H. H. KAIN, who has been on a visit to relatives in Louisville, returned by this morning's train.

CAPT. W. O. WORRELL departs by the 2:15 train this afternoon for a business trip to St. Louis.

MRS. T. W. PRESTON, who has been spending the Summer in Virginia, returned home this morning.

MRS. MARKHAM and her daughter, and Mr. R. S. Buck and daughter, leave for Cincinnati by to-night's train.

THE new horses for Phœnix Fire Company were out on trial yesterday. The company have not accepted them yet.

MORNING by the steamer City of Vicksburg.

HON. S. GWIN, State Auditor, is registered at the Pacific House.

MR. T. L. BRADY, of the firm of M. Brady & Sons, and mother, Mrs. S. P. Brady, leave for St. Louis by the 2:15 p.m. train to-day.

CAPT. A. K. JONES, Chancery Clerk of Claiborne county, and Mr. J. W. Beaty, were passengers to this city from Port Gibson this morning.

MRS. H. B. BRUSER and Miss Lizzie Bruser will leave by this afternoon's train for St. Louis, to attend the great Fair. They will be accompanied by Miss Sadie Elliott.

MISS MAMIE HUNT, of Selma, Ala.; Miss Jennie Banks, of Clinton, Miss.; Mrs. A. E. Starkes, of Virginia, are passengers by the City of Vicksburg leaving here this afternoon for St. Louis.

DURING the Rev. Dr. Sansom's absence there will be morning service at Christ Church to-morrow and on every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and the Sunday-school will meet at 9 o'clock.

MRS. MAGGIE PATTON, of Raymond, one of the loveliest ladies in Hinds county, takes her departure for home by the 2:15 train, after a pleasant visit of two weeks to friends in this city.

ALL parties who have not taken out their privilege license had better do so before the meeting of the Grand Jury on Monday next. It may save them trouble by attending to this immediately.

SHERIFF BECK left for Jackson the train last night to make his monthly settlement with the Auditor for privilege license collections. He will make the State $940 better off by his trip.

IT is learned from parties on the Ed. Richardson, that the Fred A. Blanks will enter into the New Orleans and Vicksburg trade, leaving New Orleans Mondays. This is a move in the great steamboat fight now just starting.

THE sewer at the intersection of South and Levee streets is in a very dangerous condition. Something should be done in the matter immediately, or the city will have a lawsuit on its hands for injuring some one's horse or mule.

PROF. W. C. GUTHRIE, of the Hunt-Chamberlin Academy, Port Gibson, arrived in the city this morning to meet his wife who has been spending the Summer in Virginia. They leave for home on the 3 o'clock train this evening.

THE City of Vicksburg is the Anchor Line steamer leaving here at 5 o'clock this evening for Greenville, Arkansas City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis; Capt. Henry Keith master, Wm. C. Blanker, Thomas and Chilaress clerks; Carroll B. Mount passenger agent.

A CALL for a meeting of the St. Francis Temperance Society for to-morrow morning immediately after High Mass, will be found elsewhtre. We understand this excellent society proposes giving an entertainment at an early date, and if they do it will be one of the events of the season.

FRANK CHANDLER, a raftsman, died at the mouth of Willow bayou yesterday, and his body was brought to this city in a skiff by two friends and buried in the City Cemetery. The deceased was at work Thursday until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. His wife died in the city hospital a short time since. He leaves several children.

THE fearful din made by the sharp whistles so customary in the Opera-house may be amusing to the whistlers, but the rest of the audience can do without such noise. This is only a suggestion. It may be necessary to request that the management suppress this nuisance by ejecting some of the noisiest of the parties at some entertainment.

HENRY LONG, a worthy colored man, whose wife died on December 7th, last, will, in pursuance of the old time custom, have her funeral preached at the A. M. E. Church to-morrow, of which the deceased was a member at the time of her death. This is a mark of respect to the memory of his late wife by her husband who thus shows respect to the deceased partner of his bosom. Her friends are invited to attend the sermon, which will be preached by the Rev. Francis Carolina, at 3 o'clock to-morrow evening.

AS THE entertainment season is opening, we will give a few words of advice to theater-goers, which they may have heard before: The people in front, rear or side of you are not particularly interested in having you criticise the play. They prefer to think for themselves Neither does it impress them with an idea of your qualifications as a critic. Quite the contrary. Of course none of our readers are so rude as to thrust their opinion upon others, so this is intended for other people. Please just mention this to your friends. A wise head keepeth a still tongue, sometimes.

Arrested for a Murder Committed Thirteen Years Ago.

About thirteen years ago Mr. Thomas Cox, one of the Constables in this city, while attempting to arrest a negro by the name of George Westmoreland, at a house on Fort Hill, was shot by the negro and killed. The murderer escaped, and has been at large ever since. It was reported afterward that Westmoreland had died, and the murder has been almost forgotten.

Recently Marshal Groome heard of the whereabouts of Westmoreland, and a few nights ago Special Officer Price left here for the purpose of arresting him. This morning Marshal Groome received a telegram from Mr. Price, dated Brinkly, Ark., stating that he had secured his man.

So after his thirteen years of freedom this murderers has been captured, and it is hoped he will be punished for crime.

The Pallium—Its Origin and Importance.

Every new Archbishop is obliged to apply to the Pope, in person or by proxy, for the Pallium, within three months of his consecration, and it would not be held lawful for him to exercise any act of what is properly archiepiscopal as contra-distinguished from episcopal jurisdiction, until he shall have received it. The Pallium cannot be transferred from one Archbishop to another, as it is required that it shall be received direct from the Pope; on the death of one of these ecclesiastics the Pallium is buried with him. In use it is supposed to symbolize the office of "Good Shepherd" bearing the lost sheep upon his shoulders. Its use is said to have decended from a very early period. It is worn by the Pope at all times, but can only be worn by Archbishops during the solemn service of the great Church festivals, and on the occasion of the ordination of Bishops or of priests. It is a narrow annular band of white woolen web, about three inches wide, upon which black crosses are embroidered, which encircles the neck of the Archbishop, and from which two narrow bands of the same material depend, one falling over the breast, the other over the back of the wearer. The Pallium is made wholly or in part from the wool of two lambs, which are blessed annually on the festival and in the church of St. Agnes. During the night of the vigil of the feast of St. Peter and St. Paul the paltia made of this wool are placed on the altar above the tomb of these apostles, and on the feast of St. Peter are delivered by the Pope to the sub-deacon, whose duty it is to keep them in charge.

The Minstrels Last Night.

The Opera-house was densely packed last night to witness the performance of Barlow, Wilson & Co. Long before the curtain rose there was only standing room, every seat from the footlights to the entrance being occupied and the side aisles crowded with spectators standing. The curtain was raised promptly at 8 o'clock, a feature worthy of imitation by other shows.

This troupe is one of the best on the road, and no one could witness a performance by them and not enjoy it. It is impossible in the short space at our command to give a critical review of the evening's entertainment. Taking it altogether, it was excellent. The only feature at which fault could be found was some jokes were rather old. This was the only part of the entertainment, however, at which an objection could be raised. The singing, both solos and chorus, was very fine indeed, and it is impossible to say which song was the best rendered.

Billy Carter in his specialties and Barney Fagan in his clog dances of won great applause. The "four aces," were, as their title suggest, the best in the deck. The Alhambra quartet, rendered a beautiful selection, and it is seldom that such singing can be heard in Vicksburg.

But the crowning event of the evening was the inimitable George Wilson—a smile forces itself upon one when his name is mentioned. Wilson is unexcelled in the minstrel business and his appearance on the stage in the signal for a laugh. There is no one on the stage that can approach him. He is truly inimitable and unapproachable. His appearance on the stage one time is worth the price of admission.

Frank Moran, as the lecterer, has few equals and no superior in the minstrel line.

Indeed last night's entertainment fully equaled the expectations of the large and appreciative audience present as was attested by the rounds of applause that so frequently occured. One special feature to be commended, was the march played by the orchestra as the large audience filed out; it is worthy of attention by other troupes.

As our paper goes to press a large audience is enjoying the matinee. This excellent troupe give another entertainment to-night, and there is no doubt but that another large house will greet them.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

Editor Medill of the Chicago Tribune Before the Senate Committee—The Practical Ideas of a Practical Man.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Joseph Medill, editor of the Chicago Tribune, testified before Senator Blair's Committee yesterday upon the relations exciting between labor and capital and kindred social topics.

"I believe," he said, "that the chief cause of the impecunious condition of the wage classes of this country is their own proudness and lack of thrift. Too many people are trying to get along without work. Those who do toil squander the greater part of their wages in drink and tobacco. With smaller wages they can still save something. The wisest political thinker on social questions the United States has yet produced once said that a penny saved is a penny earned. It was to the working classes that Dr. Franklin was speaking, and I must say I have never known a workman, no matter what his earnings were, who, if he spends his money for smoke and drink, ever accumulated anything. Those who have closely examined the subject have stated that the workingmen spend at least $400,000,000 per annum for liquor and nearly $220,000,000 for cigars and tobacco. The money thus thrown away during the last ten years would have been sufficient to provide a comfortable home for every family in this country. Placed at interest this amount would today have reached the high figure of $5,000,000,000. Drink, I affirm, is the progenitor of nearly all the ills to which the poor men of the United States are subjected. No traders union or combination can ever bring relief to them in the absence of temperance and economy. High license—the higher the better—will reduce the number of groggeries and the inclination on the part of the people to visit them. I have very little faith in political prohibition, or schemes of that sort.

The evil next to drink which destroys the lives of wage workers is the existence of wretched tenement houses. It is a significant fact that in the great city of New York the number of deaths exceeds the number of births by 10,000 annually. Premature deaths among the laboring classes in this and other cities are due partly to the criminal neglect of public officials and partly to the greedy avarice of grasping landords. Rents are too high. Healthy dwellings at low rents, high license and personal temperance would benefit the wage paid people. It is a standard belief among the trades unions that the reduction of the hours of labor would eventually prove a remedy for all the ills to which the laboring classes are now subjected. They seem to overlook the fact that were this plan adopted the country would soon be flooded with a horde of foreign artisans and wages would, as a result, fall so low it would become almost impossible to make a living. Education might be made to remove some of the difficulties, but not with our present system. High schools and colleges do not teach a pupil how to double the value of his labor. They bring up hundreds and thousands of our youth to get their living by their wits. Every institution should teach practical studies, such studies as will be of use to the student in his after life.

COLORED CLAMORS.

Address Adopted by the Louisville Convention.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 27.—The Colored Convention adopted the following address:

1. That we are grateful for, and rejoice in the miraculous emancipation of our race twenty years ago. The shock of embattled arms was the lullaby of a Nation born in a day. We do not, we cannot, forget the great sacrifice of the heroic men who made possible the struggle in which treason and slavery were consigned to a common sepulchre, nor would we be unmindful of the measure of devotion and patriotism that the 186,017 colored soldiers rendered to the nation in the war for the preservation of the nation.

2. We are not insensible to the fact that the Congress of the United States has spread upon the statute books many laws calculated to make us secure in our rights as citizens; nor would we be forgetful of the magnificent amendments to the constitution intended to render forever impossible the crime of human slavery.

3. We do not ask any more class-legislation—we have had enough of this; but we do believe that many of the laws intended to secure us our rights as citizens are nothing more than dead letters. In the Southern States, almost without an exception, the colored people are denied justice in the courts, denied the fruits of their labor, defrauded of their political rights at the ballot box, shut out from learning trades, cheated out of their civil rights by innkeepers, common carrier companies, and left by the States to an inadequate opportunity for education and general improvements.

4. We regard the labor question, education and sound moral training as paramount to all other question. We believe that the question, especially in the South, needs recasting, and the plantation credits and mortgage system should be abolished, honest labor should be remunerated, the landholders of the South should recognize that this question is to be solved by encouraging the negroes to industry, frugality and business habits; by inciting them to habits of thrift, by assisting them to acquire an interest in the soil, by paying them honest wages for honest work, and by making them contented and happy in the land of their nativity. The white men and owners of the soil in the South can settle the question, and labor and capital between the white and black. We believe that a broad comprehensive system looking towards the education of young colored girls so they may become faithful and intelligent women, and that young colored boys may learn trades and become useful men and good citizens. The religious and moral training of the youth of our race should not be neglected. The hope of every people is adherence to sound social, logical and ethical principles. The moral element in character is of greater value than wealth or education, and this must be fostered by the family and encouraged in the pulpit.

The failure of the Freedman's Savings Bank and Trust Company is marvelous in these times. It was established to receive the earnings of persons heretofore held in bondage and the descendants of such persons. It was established by the Government, and thought to be solvent. In changing its charter the Trustees transcended their authority, and thereby made themselves liable. The Government, in appointing special machinery to close the insolvent institutions, violated the United States statutes on bankruptcy, and should therefore reimburse the creditors of the bank.

The distinctions made between the white and colored troops in the regular army is un-American, unjust and ungrateful. White men can enter any branch of the service, while colored men are confined to the cavalry and infantry services, and in the appointment of civilians to the regular army all believe it the duty of the President of the United States to consider the claims of colored men. This distinction is carried into the navy as well.

8. It is not our province to dictate a policy for the Government of the action of our fellow citizens in the several States. It is a matter that their circumstances, patriotism and needs should shape.

9. As a race struggling and contending for our political rights, we are not unmindful of the efforts of Ireland to gain her rights, and we extend to our Irish friends profound sympathy and best wishes.

10. We earnestly desire the abolition of the chain-gang convict system, and the admission to trade unions of men of our race and their employment in commercial pursuits.

In nearly every State in the Union, both North and South, people of our race are not allowed to enter freely into the trades or gain employment in the higher walks of life. This is unworthy of our institutions and hurtful to the reputation of our country at home and abroad.

The Mississippi State Fair—Adams County's Exhibit.

From telegrams published yesterday it seems that a creditable display is likely to be secured at the State Fair to begin in Jackson on the 29th of October. As we have before said, the exhibit of Mississippi products at the Louisville Exposition amounted to almost nothing and here is an opportunity for Mississippians to show that it was not for want of material that the State was not better represented at that exhibition.

We will right here take the opportunity to state that several gentlemen of this city, at the head of whom was the enterprising president of the Natchez Cotton Mills, Mr. R. F. Learned, had prepared for exhibition at Louisville, quite a creditable display of the productions of this city and county, consisting of the Natchez and Rosalie Cotton Mills, cotton batting factory, the two oil mills, the wood factory and other manufactures, together with specimens of the woods, earths, &c., of the county.

The exhibit would have done honor to the industry and enterprise of the people of Natchez. Letters were written by Mr. Learned to the officers of the Exposition for information as to the proper method of placing them on exhibition, and the only reply he received after a long delay, was a few lines on a postal card referring him to the Secretary of the State of Mississippi. A letter to the Secretary of the State was referred by him to Maj. Wall, commissioner of immigration, who only just having been appointed to act in the matter, could give no definite information on the subject. Finally disgusted with red tape and delay, Mr. Learned gave no further thought to the subject and the matter was abandoned. This want of systematic management on the part of the officers of the Louisville Exposition may probably account for the absence of Mississipi products.

But the fact remains that the State was not properly represented among the useful and wonderful things collected at Louisville, or at Cincinnati, or at Boston. Can we not retrieve the laurels we have lost by showing at our own State Fair and at the Exposition in New Orleans, that it is not for want of something to show that the space devoted to Mississippi was vacant in the great exhibitions of this year? Adams county and all the counties in the State should make a beginning at the State Fair, and send exhibits to Jackson, that will be increased at New Orleans.

From what we can learn, the articles on exhibition at the State Fair at Jackson, from Northern manufacturers will be many. These Northern men understand the advantages of advertising their productions at State Fairs, and neglect no opportunity of doing so. From State to State they move their products, and in every case they find opportunity for bringing them into notice. Shall the people of Mississippi allow the principal attractions of a Fair at their capital to be made up of products brought from other States? We hope that State pride, to say nothing of individual interest will appeal to every citizen of Mississippi to arouse from the lethargy of the past and determine that this State shall no longer remain in the background. We hope that in our own city and county many will be found who will send to Jackson something that will show that the people have not been asleep, they have quietly been devoting themselves to the advancement of individual prosperity which when aggregated makes up the prosperity of a community.—Natchez Democrat.

The Inter-State Levee Convention.

The Inter-State Levee Convention will meet in Vicksburg on Monday next and it is thought will be attended by full delegations from Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. The action is looked forward to with much interest by the people of the alluvial portions of these three States particularly. If judicious consideration is given to the best methods of general protection from overflows, there is we think much to be hoped from its action. The States of Louisiana and Arkansas are largely dependent upon the co-operation of the two States so far as State action is concerned, and although Mississippi has a separate alluvial district, it has a joint interest with Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri and all the States that border on this great waterway in securing from the general Government an improvement of the Mississippi river, including riparian protection.

Wise and exhaustive consideration of there interests which are in common will be expected from the Vicksburg Convention, and from the character of the delegates appointed by the Governors of the three most interested States we believe the public expectation will not be disappointed. Louisiana and Arkansas, with their community of interests, will of course be most largely interested, and we hope that conclusions will be be arrived at that will insure the closing of the breaks through which pour the waters that flood the whole of Louisiana and a large portion of Arkansas.—Natchez Democrat.

Stabbed to Death.

On last Friday night news reached town that Mr. Jas. G. Evans, one of the county's most enterprising saw mill men, had been fatally stabbed at his mill about 5 miles southwest of this place on the Meadville road, by a young man named Preston Smith.

The circumstances that led to the tragic affair are related by witnesses as follows: Some two weeks previous to the fatal difficulty, a son of Mr. Evans had killed a hog in his father's field belonging to Smith. Smith discovered this a few days after the hog was killed, and when he did so, went to the Senior Evans and demanded payment for his loss. This, Evans cheerfully agreed to make, either by giving Smith another hog or in money. Smith said another hog would be troublesome to keep at home, and preferred that his loss be made good in cash. Thereupon he agreed upon as the price of the hog killed, which Evans was to pay upon demand, and the matter considered settled. Late last Friday evening young Smith, in company with a friend, went to Evans' mill to get his money. As the hands were quitting work, he desired to speak to Mr. Evans privately and the two walked a little aside in a friendly matter and sat down on a log. What words passed between the two men after this is not definitely known, as none of the witnesses could hear their conversation; but a dispute arose which came to blows, the two men clinched, and at this stage Smith stabbed Evans several times in the breast and side with an ordinary pocket-knife from the effect of which he expired almost before any one knew what was going on.

Smith was soon arrested and on a preliminary trial before Justice Bagget Saturday afternoon, he was held to appear at the next term of the Circuit court in a bond of $1,000. He gave the bond late Monday evening and is now at large.

The affair is to be very much regretted for a number of reasons. Evans was a man of about fifty, with a large family, and was a quiet, useful citizen; while Smith is a young man of 22, with a young wife, and has heretofore borne a good character.—Brookhaven Ledger, 27th.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 28, 1883

HON. S. E. PACKWOOD has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for State Senator from the 32nd Senatorial District composed of the counties of Lincoln, Marion and Pike.

NEXT week the campaign in New York will open, and it will be a lively one. The Massachusetts campaign is already booming, and the big guns are heard all along the line in that State.

THERE is to be a grand "fusion" ratification Democratic barbecue at Raymond to-morrow. The Natchez, Democrat says Hon. John R. Lynch of Adams county, will be among the speakers.

THE Kemper Herald comes to us with a request for exchange. As quite a number of killings occur over in that section, and we also have a few here occasionally, we put the Herald on our exchange list so that we can keep each other posted.

THE Republicans of Maryland have nominated Hon. Hart B. Hatton for Governor. Mr. Hatton is a prosperous farmer and member elect to the next Congress from the Fifth Distrtct. At the election last Fall his majority over Chapman, Democrat, was 1536. Two years ago Chapman's majority over his Republican opponent was 4,786.

OFFICIALS of the Post-office Department at Washington, say that Postmaster-General Gresham, will, in his forthcoming report take stronger grounds in favor of the postal telegraph system than any of his predecessors. Mr. Gresham will also urge the establishment of a postal savings bank system similar to that now in operation in England, which has been found to work very successfully. Gresham seems to be a live man, and will probably make the best Postmaster-General the country has ever had.

THE political storm continues to rage in Rankin county. The Brandon Republican goes for the Free State, and the little sheet responds in lively style. In the last issue of the Republican, however, Frantz lets politics alone long enough to write the following editorial: "We had the pleasure of a call on Saturday from Mr. B. L. McInnis, of Mobile, traveling agent for the celebrated Maryland Rye Whiskies. The sample bottle presented us is splendid."

A CORRESPONDENT of the Brookhaven Leader is inclined to be despondent. He says: "The nomination of McLain, for District Attorney, at the Convention at Fayette, last week, surprised the voters in this county, and creates no enthusiam. A great many of the voters in this county are opposed to conventions, and not getting the man of their choice, will yield but a lukewarm support to the nominee, and unless the Democracy can be aroused, it is useless to try to disguise the fact that Col. Deason will prove a formidable opponent."

The Massachusetts Democracy.

Gen. Butler has again been nominated by two State Conventions, Greenback and Democratic, for Governor of Massachusetts; and the state of exasperation among the Republicans has become so intense that we are sure to witness the bitterest canvass ever known. The Greenbackers probably do not bring the General above 10,000 votes, and the Democracy hopes to carry through the whole ticket. Last year Governor Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, had 116,678 votes, and Butler 123,946, so that the General ran 17,268 votes ahead of the Democratic ticket; but the Democrats are very confident of largely increasing their vote this year, and the fact that the Republican nomination went begging, and was given finally to the only western Congressman in the State, is indicative of want of confidence in Republican success.

The platform adopted by the Democratic State Convention yesterday is strictly in its way. It neatly lays out the odious and equivocal "for revenue only" without pronouncing for protection, and at the same time it is distinct and will be approved widely. It favors arbitration of differences between employers and laborers, and pronounces for equal rights without distinction of race or sex. A refreshing reading, after the platitudes which we have been treated by the many recent Republican conventions. If it won't hurt the ticket a bit. If it wins this fight, he will be "a bigger man than old Grant," sure and certain. (1) Picayune.

The Light for the City.

Meeting of the Sub-Committee of Finance on Light of Commerce street, City Hall yesterday afternoon to consider the matter of putting up Brush Electric Light on Washington street, between the Court House and Levee.

Present—Messrs. Sessums, Chairman, Hall, Hamilton, Hyland, Lee, Mayor Monroe and Clerk Bullitt.

Mr. Sessums stated that under the contract with the Brush Electric Light Company, the City was to furnish the poles, and the Company the lights, and that the poles were now on the ground.

Mr. Hall moved that the Committee recommend to the Board of Mayor and Aldermen that the Brush Electric Light be put up on Washington street, between the Court House and Levee, and that the Mayor be authorized to sign the contract with the Company.

Mr. Hamilton moved to amend by striking out the words "Court House and Levee," and inserting "Jackson and Monroe."

Mr. Lee moved to amend the amendment by striking out the words "Jackson and Monroe," and inserting "Clay and Monroe."

The amendment to the amendment was carried, and the amendment as amended was carried.

Mr. Hall moved that the Committee recommend to the Board of Mayor and Aldermen that the Brush Electric Light be put up on Washington street, between Clay and Monroe, and that the Mayor be authorized to sign the contract with the Company.

Carried.

Mr. Hamilton moved that the Committee recommend to the Board of Mayor and Aldermen that the Brush Electric Light be put up on Washington street, between Jackson and Monroe, and that the Mayor be authorized to sign the contract with the Company.

Carried.—Monroe Bulletin, 25th.

Miss Sallie Ellis.

Miss Sallie Ellis, who has been under the charge of Mrs. Dr. Hall, at Jackson, for the past two years, has returned to her home in this city. Miss Ellis is a young lady of fine attainments, and has been a pupil of Mrs. Hall's from the time she opened her school in Jackson. Miss Ellis is a graduate of Mrs. Hall's school, and has been engaged as assistant teacher for the past two years. She has returned to her home in this city, and will open a school for young ladies and children. Miss Ellis is a lady of fine attainments, and will no doubt be successful in her undertaking.—Monroe Bulletin, 25th.

LETTER FROM JACKSON.

A New Correspondent Asks a Hard Question—"Crumbs of Comfort" Needed by the People's Party.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]

JACKSON, MISS., Sept. 27, 1883.

The People's party here, so-called, attempted to have Mr. Henry J. Detterly appointed as their representative on the Electoral Commission Board for Hinds county, but recognition is given to the Republicans, and their representative appointed.

By the way, I enclose copies of the application made in the recent Congressional election in this District. Major Barksdale was the Democratic nominee, and of course the Democrats claimed and received two of the three Commissioners. And then Hill and the Republican Executive Committee asked for a man. They did not get him; Detterly was appointed. If you can explain why Mr. George C. McKee, and Mr. R. C. Kerr, and Mr. F. B. Hull, and Mr. Moseley and others of the "People's party" were so anxious to PREVENT Hill having any representation in that contest, and why they especially wanted their own nominee appointed, you will oblige a curious public here. It was a known public fact that Henderson and Detterly were both opposed to Hill.

If these gentlemen, Messrs. McKee, Kerr and Hull, in that contest had a candidate of their own, the thing might be explained, but having none their effort to "secure a fair election" by actively preventing Hill securing any representation is a "rock" on which I split.

KRUM.

JACKSON, MISS., Aug. 27, 1883.

Hon. State Board of Commissioners, Jackson, Miss.:

SIRS—I have the honor to apply to you for the position as Commissioner of Election of this (Hinds) county. I am a Republican, and refer you for reference to the gentlemen indorsing this application.

Awaiting your action, I am very respectfully, W. W. HENDERSON.

Signed: Geo. C. McKee, John McGill, E. L. Gilliam, Abram Dobson, J. T. Abby, T. J. Anderson, R. C. Kerr.

JACKSON, MISS., Aug. 27, 1883.

Hon. Board State Commissioners, Jackson, Miss.:

GENTLEMEN—We respectfully recommend for the position of Commissioner of Hinds county J. Henry Detterly. Mr. Detterly is a Greenbacker in politics; a man of thorough acquaintance in the county, of capacity and integrity, having the respect and confidence of men of all parties who wish justice and fair dealing.

Chairman Hinds County Ex. Com.

Secretary Hinds County Ex. Com.

A Southern Vice-President.

There is a very strong desire among Southern Democrats that the candidates for Vice-President next year be taken from that section. They say, with reason, that the South is as thoroughly loyal and patriotic as the West or East; that it has plenty of statesmen of National reputation, and that the vote of its States has been solidly Democratic for years. That section deserves recognition from the National Democracy.

This is a plausible and strong case. It deserves consideration. The South has plenty of men who would fill with credit any office in the Republic. It has made a rapid stride in every material industry and social direction since the war, and today its interests identify it with the North and West more than ever. It would be a splendid encouragement to the Democrats of the South, who have thrown off all the prejudices and passions of the war, and with a spirit of generous magnanimity have gone to work to create a new order of things there, to have their efforts and spirit appreciated by their brethren of other sections. Such a graceful act would strengthen the ties that bind the sections together, and give a new impetus to National feeling in the Southern States.

Another point in this connection deserves attention. Arthur bases his claim for nomination on the ground that through Mahone's manipulation he is sure of the vote of Virginia, and that other States are ready to be Mahoneized. This claim may not be substantial. But there is no question that the political situation in the Southern States is beginning to change in important respects. The negroes can no longer be held as mere chattels for voting purposes by the Republican managers; they are asserting their rights. And finding that their interests in most cases are identical with the Democratic landholders and employers, they will act with them in politics as in other matters. When a party is in an overpowering majority there is always a tendency to division on local or other matters, as have been shown for the past twenty years in this city, and there are indications of such divisions in Georgia and Mississippi. Nothing would tend more directly to hold the South true to its Democratic allegiance and check the spread of Mahoneism, which is another name for Arthurism, than the selection of a Southern man for a place on the National ticket.—New York Star.

Railroad Notes.

The Shreveport Times has been informed that the road will not be completed before February next.

The force is now engaged on the 19th mile and is advancing at the rate of three-quarters of a mile a day. The extortions that are being made on the line of section may prevent any delay at that point. It is the last obstacle to Arcadia.—Monroe Bulletin, 25th.

BRIEFS.

When I was young, I'd clamorous
A group of maidens gentle,
And somewhat grew, as fellows do,
To be quite sentimental.
I kissed the girls, and pulled their curls,
Played "Buzz" and "Copenhagen;"
Now they are flown, and I am grown
A sensible old Pagan.

For once I met a gay coquette,
Enchanting, sweet and charming;
And in a week, I found my cheek
Had wrought a deed alarming.
I tightly swore, as oft before,
Affectionate assurance;
And vowed a life without a wife
To be beyond endurance.

I used to write her every night
A sugar sentenced letter,
With raptures of a lavish love
That knew of nothing better;
I wailed my woes in plaintiff prose
As doleful as a hearse is,
And jammed my joy, like any boy,
In very spoony verses.

My postage bill increased until
My bank deposit dwindled;
Her missives came and fed the flame
That cunning Cupid kindled;
I bought bouquets and penned my praise
In language fine and fervent;
To end the note I always wrote—
"Your most devoted servant."

Alas, the stationery gay—
The reams of tinted paper!
Alas, the ink I used to think
Had magic in its vapor;
Alas, that I should ever buy
Such loads of things to give her?
When I recall them one and all
It makes my conscience quiver!

For woe is me! I didn't see—
Love made me so short-sighted—
How vain it was to woo, because
She seemed so much delighted;
For she had money, I had none,
To make my pocket jingle;
And so I live, a fugitive,
In blessedness that's single.

The Death-knell to Natchez.

The Wilson railroad is progressing rapidly in Franklin county. A large force is already at work on it, and many of our farmers are supplementing their short crop by a few months work on the road. It is estimated that from 1,500 to 2,000 hands are at work in this county, and the force is being daily increased. I learn that the contractors are very sanguine that the grading will be completed in December. The completion of this road will be the death-knell to Natchez, as almost the entire trade of that city comes from Franklin and Jefferson counties, which trade will be cut off by this road. It will also affect the trade some on the "Big J" road, but not very seriously. The rich and beautiful valley of the Homochitto, whose trade has been divided between Brookhaven, Summit and Natchez will be but little affected by the Wilson road; it is too far west.—"Dot," in Brookhaven Leader.

AUSTRALIA.

An Observant Traveler's Talk of This Far off Country.

Mr. H. D. Umstaetter, formerly an Ohio man, whom everyone knows, but for the past few years a Baltimorean of the famous house of the Chas. A. Vogeler Company, is in the city en route homeward from Australia, where he has been since spring. He is to-day at the Grand Hotel, where he was met by a Times-Star representative. Mr. Umbstaetter appeared somewhat worn down from railroad travel, but was enthusiastic over his trip across the ocean on a steamer of the Pacific Mail Line, and delighted with what he saw of Australia and New Zealand and full of prophecies of the great future that is in store for these new countries.

"Just the place to make money," he remarked, "and there are many Americans there doing it."

"Much trade with this country?"

"A great deal and improving very fast. These expositions have opened up the country as an American market, and our manufactured goods of all kinds are being pushed in with great energy."

"Climate fine?"

"Delightful. I was there in July, which you know, is mid Winter, and the breezes were as balmy and the vegetation as luxurious as one would expect in Spring. New Zealand has the greatest future so far as agriculture is concerned because the rains are more frequent."

"What of Australia?"

"It is the great sheep country of the world. This industry is something wonderful. In New South Wales alone there are over forty millions of sheep and over one hundred millions in all the colonies. On a single sheep station I have seen as high as 117,000 sheep."

"Any game there?"

"The kangaroo is hunted with great energy. He has made himself a public nuisance by destroying the sheep pastures, and the Government has put a premium on his head. Every kangaroo captured nets to the slayer twenty-five cents for his scalp besides the value of the skin. Ten thousand have been killed in a year on a single sheep station. They are hunted with heavy stag hounds, the hunters riding on horseback. When run down they show fight, and if they can reach water will frequently succeed in drowning the dogs."

"What of the people?"

"They are slow-going, seeming to think that to make haste is vulgar. In Sidney and some other cities all the wholesale and retail houses close up for an hour in the middle of the day to permit the employees to get lunch. They are very fond of outdoor sports. Cup Day at the Melbourne races is frequently attended by 125,000 people, and I have seen from 18,000 to 25,000 people at a foot ball match."

"Are there Americans engaged in sheep raising?"

"Not many. The Americans there are mostly engaged in mercantile pursuits generally, introducing American wares of various kinds. But American sheep are being successfully introduced and are proving a great advantage to the country. Mr. Alfred Hay, of Boomanoonoot, is taking the lead in introducing the merino sheep from Vermont. On account of the coldness of their native land the wool on these sheep is much heavier than on those of Australia. By crossing the two kinds a much denser fleece is secured without any deterioration as to quality. Mr. Hay is so largely engaged in the business of carrying Yankee Vermont sheep over that he has leased all the intervening country for a hundred miles, and has now [illegible] full ships and more are coming. Americans in need of rest can do no better than to follow the same line of travel."

"How about accommodations for travelers?"

"I found the hotels poor and the railroads, which are under Government control, not to be compared with those of the United States, so far as comfort and conveniences are concerned, but that the newspapers of Sydney and Melbourne compare very favorably in character, make-up and circulation with the best journals of America. They contain less news, however. The leading papers are printed on American presses with American ink."—Cincinnati Timer-Star.

John Sherman.

Mr. Sherman is still before the people of the United States as a very prominent character, and is managing the campaign in Ohio upon very bold ground, and characteristic of the vigor of character well known to be possessed by him. Mr. Sherman is one of that class of men whom the world is compelled to recognize as statesmen. He possesses well defined political views, which, with him override any element of hero worship or partisan dictatorship. He has shown himself unquestionably to be more thoroughly devoted to the success of his political views than to personal aggrandizement. If Ohio goes for the Republicans by a large and certain majority, and carries with it a Legislature which will elect a Republican Senator, the movement will unquestionably be regarded by other Northern States as a turn in that political tide which overwhelmed the Republican party last fall, and will fixedly impress the Republican party with the Sherman stamp as a brand and make contradistinguishing it from Conklingism.

This will bring into combination and very hearty unison—Blaine, and Edmunds and Sherman. The future Republican nominee will then be one or the other of these three individuals, or a nominee substantially their common choice and in accord with the general line of political thought possessed in common by these gentlemen.

The Republican party was made up as a war party of both Whigs and Democrats. Under the impress of Sherman, Blaine and Edmunds, the party will take very much a Whig shape, especially in matter of currency, tariff and internal improvements. Thus far President Arthur appears to be in accord, both personally and politically with these three gentlemen. His re-nomination, perhaps rests where McCullough of the Globe-Democrat placed his ability to unite the party in New York in his favor, with a fair prospect of carrying the State in 1884. The coming New York State election will be significant of much upon this point.—New Mississippian.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely ever to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MATINEE to-morrow.

CAPT. C. C. COWAN, of the Vicksburg Rifles, left for Memphis last night.

MRS. R. H. GARRATT arrived home by this morning's train from New York.

MR. DANIAL ENNIS leaves on the J. M. White this evening, for P. J. Kenedys works.

MR. JOSEPH W. SHORT left last night for the great Louisville and Cincinnati Expositions.

WE are glad to learn that MRS. D. J. O'Keefe, who has been very sick, is a great deal better to-day.

MISS A. KENNARD, of Port Gibson, came up this morning and leaves for Yazoo City to-day, where she is one of the teachers in the public school.

THE Board of Mayor and Aldermen are busily engaged every night now, till midnight, revising the assessment rolls of the city. They are making every effort to make an equitable assessment.

CAPT. GUNNING commenced work yesterday, getting out rock at the quarry at Haynes Bluff, Yazoo river. The rock is to be used by the Government on its work at Wilson's Point.

MR. J. F. MCLAWS, who yesterday commenced the survey of the proposed railroad to Yazoo river from Vicksburg, left on the

As the Opening Shot in the Steamboat War.

As the J. M. White came in yesterday evening, the cotton brought down on the Carroll, which was loaded on a barge, was taken to the City of Yazoo, passing the White. The cotton arriving on Thursday's P. Line boats has always gone to the New Orleans packet, and this change in the usual order yesterday may be considered the opening of the fight, the P. Line firing the first gun. It is not known what the next move will be, but a stubborn fight may be expected, as both parties are game.

The Broom Factory.

The Committee appointed to prepare plans for organization of the new factory met at the office of Mr. Murray F. Smith, yesterday evening. A number of names were suggested for the new manufactory. The name "Vicksburg Manufacturing Company," suggested by Mr. Halpin, was finally agreed upon.

The capital stock was placed at $50,000 with the privilege of increasing it, the price of each share being put at $25.

Mr. Murray F. Smith was instructed to draw up a charter, providing for the manufacture of various articles, the charter to be submitted to the incorporaters at their meeting next week.

To show the interest taken in this enterprise, it is only necessary to say that letters have been received from parties at a distance, offering to take stock in the enterprise.

Railroad Items.

The L., N. O. & T. R. R. Company received a new locomotive at Memphis yesterday, and one passed through that city en route to New Orleans. The Company have eighteen more now being built, the contract calling for the delivery of three each month until the entire number are delivered.

Grading on this road from Memphis to Clarksdale is now completed, and the bridging is finished from Memphis to a point forty-two miles south of that city.

The company will take charge of the track-laying from the Memphis end on the 1st of October, Capt. A. A. Sharpe now being up there for that purpose.

The road is now completed five miles south of Port Gibson, and progressing very well.

Work on the Yazoo river bridge at Anthony's Ferry is also progressing in a satisfactory manner.

The Inter-State Levee Convention.

The Committee of Arrangements for the inter-State Levee Convention, which meets in this city next Monday, had a meeting at the Cotton Exchange to-day. Capt. Carroll reported that Magnolia Hall had been secured for holding the meeting, it being the best place for that purpose. The club-rooms adjoining the hall have been tendered to the Committee to be used for a reception of the delegates.

Everything that can add to the pleasure or comfort of the delegates will be attended to.

The Business Situation.

There being no longer doubt respecting the crops, which are for the most part good, except cotton, there is a general improvement in business throughout the country. The decrease in the cotton crop will not be so extensive in view of the very large crop last year as to curtail to a great extent the resources of the South or interfere with the manufacturing industry. That the South is in a good condition to purchase goods is proved by the large shipments to that section. During the past two weeks the shipments of merchandise from this city, New York and Philadelphia to the West and South have been very heavy, especially of dry goods. The protracted drouth has begun to interfere with the production of many goods, which may result in an advance in prices. The trade thus far indicates an Autumn business from 10 to 15 per cent. greater than that of last year. Reports from the South quite generally indicate that the severe drouth has broken, but while the rain will do good generally it will fail to help the cotton crop, which is now being picked. The money market in all the large business centers is reported to be easy, indicating an abundant supply for business purposes at a season when there has usually been a stringency because of the amount necessary to move the crops. During the first of the last week there was a general downward tendency in wheat, corn and provisions generally, but Thursday they all took an upward turn, and gained about as much as was lost earlier in the week. The event in the stock market has been the attack upon the Northern Pacific stocks. They have been assailed by a powerful bear interest and hammered down. On the surface there does not appear to be any ground for this decline in prices, but reasons do not avail to maintain values when a powerful combination assails any given stock. —Boston Journal.

Female Institute

Clinton, Hinds County, Miss.,

REV. WALTER HILLMAN, LL.D., Pres't,

Who will send catalogue, or give other information respecting the Institution, on application.

This is the oldest Institution for the education of Young Ladies, and is without a superior, in the State or Southwest.

The year now closing has been eminently prosperous, filling the Institution's accommodations for pupils to their utmost capacity.

Among the many superior advantages are: Extensive and Thorough Courses of Study; the Long and Successful Experience of the Heads of its Departments; Educational Facilities such as Apparatus, Cabinets, Libraries, etc., the accumulation of nearly half of a century; Expenses, considering the QUANTITY and QUALITY of the returns made, very low.

The Thirty-first Collegiate year begins Tuesday, September 25th.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Mr. Samuel H. Buck, of New Orleans, who is here in the interest of the World's Cotton Exposition to be held in New Orleans, has made application for the Marine Hospital at New Orleans for the purposes of the Exposition, and Surgeon-General Hamilton recommends that the use of the building be granted, and Secretary Folger concurs in the recommendation. The building will be rented at a nominal price or put up at auction at an upset of $40,000 for the Exposition managers to buy, as they may choose.

Talk About the Speakership.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Efforts are being made by Mr. Cox's friends to produce the impression that he will start in the race for Speaker with the vote of the New York delegation, as two or three out of the nineteen Democratic members have declared for him, but there is the best warrant for stating that the delegation will be divided—as between Cox and Randall. A letter from a Democratic member of the delegation specifies three members for Mr. Randall, including himself, and there is authority for stating that seven or eight members of the delegation will support Mr. Randall. After the first ballot the race will be entirely between Randall and Carlisle, and when the former will assuredly receive fifteen out of the nineteen Democrats from New York.

THE TELEGRAPH WAR.

A New and Effective Alliance Against the Western Union.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 25.—Yesterday the American Rapid with the Bankers & Merchants' Telegraph Company entered into a mutual agreement with the Baltimore & Ohio Telegraph Company for a more thorough opposition to the Western Union Company and a more satisfactory extension of their present facilities. This new arrangement means the dropping of the Postal company by which the Rapid has been able to reach Chicago and other points west, gives them better facilities to the west and at the same time allows the Baltimore & Ohio to reach Boston and points north and west hitherto unattainable by them. The Postal company thus being left out in the cold.

The Postal will, it is stated, apply to the coming Congress to buy it out. On the first of October the Rapid discontinues the use of its automatic machines and adopts the duplex Morse system. This throws many lady operators out of work. The inside workings of the late consolidation of the Rapid with the Bankers & Merchants is, that J. W. Converse, President of the Rapid in Boston, gave A. W. Dimmick, President of the Bankers & Merchants, a mortgage on the Rapids' plant for means to further extend its lines. A semi-consolidation, for security, was then entered into. J. W. Converse will remain President of the new company.

C. C. Converse, his brother will be Vice President and Treasurer, and J. A. Sherman General Superintendent. Mr. Dimmick will look after his interest as a director. Frederick S. May, the present General Manager of the Rapid, will be dropped. The operators of that company, in consequence, in Baltimore and other cities are getting up a handsome purse to purchase a suitable present for Mr. May upon his retirement, as a testimonial of their esteem.

Jefferson County Nominations.

Maj. Thos. Reed, who came in from Fayette last evening, informs us that the Jefferson county Democrats met in Convention Saturday and made the following nominations: For Representative, [illegible]; for Sheriff, P. A. [illegible] (present incumbent); for Treasurer, [illegible]; for Chancery Clerk, [illegible]. They also elected [illegible] delegates to the State Convention, which meets in Jackson on the 3d of October. There were no negroes and "carpet-baggers" in the Convention, but there were a few whites who made "from $1,000 to $3,000 a year above all expenses." There is no negro in the county who makes "from $1,000 to $3,000 a year above all expenses," and the "brother in black" knows it. There are no negroes and "carpet-baggers" in Jefferson county, but there are a few whites who make "from $1,000 to $3,000 a year above all expenses." These are the men who are trying to array the negroes against the whites.

In regard to the condition of the negro farmers, Mr. Calhoun said that there were many who were accumulating money rapidly. There were many who were making from $1,000 to $3,500 a year above all expenses."

These matters of which our friend Capt. Calhoun has spoken pertain to Jefferson. He does not give a correct idea of the "brother in black" hereabouts. There are no negroes and "carpet-baggers" in Warren county, but there are a few whites who make "from $1,000 to $3,000 a year above all expenses." These are the men who are trying to array the negroes against the whites. THE COLORED CONVENTION.

A Representative Body of the Race at Louisville—A New Orleans Clergyman in the Chair, etc.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 25.—The colored Convention in this city, beginning at noon yesterday, is a notable gathering comprising the representative men of the race, with the inevitable examples of men who know much less than they imagine they do, in which respect they do not differ from the average conventions of white men.

When 12 o'clock came the large hall of the Liederkranz building contained about 243 delegates and a large number of colored and white spectators.

The names of A. M. Greene, of Louisiana, C. H. Tardy, of Missouri, Fred Douglass, of the District of Columbia, Geo. L. Ruggin, of Massachusetts, and Dr. Fin Butler, of Kentucky, were mentioned to elaborate speeches for temporary chairman.

The name of Fred Douglass was withdrawn at the earnest request of his friends who intend pushing him for permanent Chairman.

Mr. Greene, of Louisiana, was elected and introduced to the Convention as a martyr of his race.

In accepting the nomination, Rev. Mr. Greene said he felt it an honor to preside temporarily over such a meeting on soil made hallowed by the name Henry Clay, and his successor, Cassius M. Clay. In concluding his speech, which recounted the past history of the colored race, he invoked the Convention to stand by the principles set down in the call, and to refrain from all discussions of political questions.

Twenty-seven States are represented, and no trouble about the accommodations, every delegate being provided for.

A recess at 2:40 was taken until 7.

Fred. Douglass has been put in nomination, but the Convention does not show any great desire to elect him, though it is still probable he will get in.

D. A. Stoaker, of South Carolina, has a strong following, who have nominated him, and who are making a hard fight for him. Other candidates will probably be nominated.

The Convention during the early part of the evening session was orderly, but the feeling grows, and the Eastern delegates are charging the West and South with a desire to dominate the Convention. Points of order are too numerous for the presiding officer, Green, to even hope to decide half of them. Too many want to speak at once, and some charge Green with unfairness, which he resents in a dignified manner, and threatens to leave the chair, which the Convention opposes. He is an intelligent man, and as far as can be seen endeavors to do justice to all.

Fred. Douglass has not entered the hall, but paces the floor nervously just outside the door, awaiting the tardy summons to the President's chair, and probably feeling that his race is none too just toward him.

Despite the high feeling the delegates are behaving with the usual decorum of political conventions, the applause being generous from the immense audience which fills the large hall. Several of the younger delegates have learned the way to the saloon down stairs, and have apparently traveled it too often, but not more than an equal number of white delegates would have done.

The feeling grows and deepens, and that the Convention among lookers-on that chances to reach the desired results or to break up without doing more than create ill feeling.

Nearly every speaker reaffirms devotion to the Republican party, but much difference of opinion is apparent as to how any result is to be reached.

After nearly four hours of hot wrangling Fred Douglass was brought into the hall amid the wildest enthusiasm of his friends, and went upon the stand. The old man was trembling with excitement, and if he had talked his words would have been hot ones.

His presence resulted at the end of four hours in his election to the permanent Presidency.

The lateness of the hour prevented his delivery of a lengthy prepared speech, but he took occasion to deny that he had said if Ben Butler were nominated for the Presidency he would sweep the colored vote of the Union. It was a mere slip of the reporter's pencil, but it had nearly caused him to lose the support of his dearest friends. Adjourned.

Barlow & Wilson's Minstrels.

Of this celebrated minstrel troupe, which appears in our city Friday and Saturday nights, and Saturday afternoon, the Washington Republican says:

An audience large enough to crowd the National theatre to its wall was entertained by Barlow & Wilson's very good company of minstrels, in a programme both long and varied. The word entertainment is used with full intent, for the evening was full of laughter; and there is no room to question that everybody went away at its close with a sense of having been very well amused.

The managers have good reason for laying stress on their comedians. Few organizations of like character can exhibit better ones. Barlow and Wilson themselves—one on each end in the "first part"—are funny enough to make a success of any kind of show. Wilson especially, is a man of ready wit. His style is happy and infectious, and his wit is quick enough to take advantage of the moment's opportunities. The inspiration of a crowded and appreciative audience lifted him out of the rehearsed forms several times last evening, to the manifest amusement of the other members of the party as well as of his auditors in front.

The second part of the programme brought Billy Carter in a banjo solo; Mr. Fagan and eight others in dances of various kinds; George Wilson in a "lecture;" Frank Morgan—a satirical rogue—in a monologue of very general scope; and a farce entitled "The Enchanted Castle."

There will be two more evening performances and a matinee. Whoever desire broad fun wishes to roar, and likes minstrelsy, will find it very worth while to go to any or all of these.

The Constitutionality of Legal Tender Notes to Come Up Before the Supreme Court.

Special to the N. O. Picayune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Some four or five years ago Messrs. Ben. Butler, of Massachusetts, and Chittenden, of New York, had a discussion over the constitutionality of the legal tender law, and between the two they managed to have a case made up for adjudication by the United States Supreme Court.

The title of the case is Augustus D. Juilliard, plaintiff in error, vs. Thomas Chas Scott, Geo. Green, defendant in error. This was an action at law brought by Juilliard, a citizen of Connecticut, in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York, to recover the sum of $5,100, the balance of the purchase price of 100 bales of cotton sold and delivered by the plaintiff for the agreed price of $5,122, payable in cash on delivery.

The defendant tendered in part payment United States notes of the series of 1878. The defendant in his answer averred that these notes were a re-issue of legal tender notes which had been redeemed subsequent to the 1st of January, 1879, and were reissued under the act of Congress to forbid the further retirement of United States legal tender notes, approved May 31, 1878. Plaintiff objected to the answer as insufficient in law.

Senator George F. Edmunds and Mr. Wm. Allen Butler appeared for the plaintiff, and it is understood that Gen. B. F. Butler is for the defendant.

The case does not involve the legal tender quality of all outstanding legal tender notes, but of those only which have been redeemed and reissued, or which may hereafter be so redeemed and reissued. The question is as to the constitutionality of the act of May 31, 1878, and the case is thus a test case. An application was made to advance the case, but the Supreme Court have shown no anxiety to hurry it up. It is evidently a made up case, and it has not been usual for courts to deal with fictitious cases. It is now thought the case will come up early in the next term and be regularly argued.

It will be remembered that the court was expressly packed by President Grant in order to procure a decision affirming the constitutionality of the legal tender. The court has greatly changed since then, but it is very doubtful if it will reverse its former decision.

Struck on Account of the Circus.

JOLIET, ILL., 25.—Friday about fifty of the wire-workers in Lambert & Bishop's Wire Fence Factory asked that the works be closed and they allowed to go to Barnum's circus, which was in town. Mr. Lambert, the head of the wire company, told them that this could not be done, as they had a rush of work and already behind in filling orders, whereupon the fifty men walked out of the works. The company have advertised for new hands to fill the strikers' places.

MR. ARTHUR and Mr. Lincoln are reported to have made a political alliance, offensive and defensive.

THE Democrats and Republicans of Panola county effected a fusion and nominated a joint ticket last Saturday.

MR. GLADSTONE has determined to suppress the Parnell meetings in Ireland. This is what is called liberal government.

THE New York Democrats are making strenuous efforts to harmonize. A big meeting was held for that purpose at Cooper Union Hall Monday evening.

TWO PASSENGER trains daily each way will be put upon the Vicksburg & Meridian railroad as soon as the Northeastern road is completed.—New Mississippian.

TAMMANY'S organ says that "the simple and undeniable fact is, Samuel J. Randall is not a National Democrat." Well, Tammany is not much of a National party.

WHY not send Mr. Tilden on the Greeley Relief Expedition?—N. Y. Journal.

Why not? He might secure the North pole and then be able to knock down the Presidential persimmon.

WE have received the first number of the "Southern Voice," published at Jackson, by W. Yerger and S. S. Calhoun, Jr. Its size, get-up and contents bear unmistakable evidence of the youthfulness of its publishers. It is a sprightly little paper nevertheless. The following is the way the boys "embark on the broad sea of journalism:"

To-day we launch the Southern Voice

We hope it will be the people's choice,

Free Tea and Free Teapots.

A curious war has broken out between the crockerymen and the tea-dealers. It seems that during the last five or six years, the merchants in Bohea and other choice brands of the cup that cheers but not inebriates, in order to stimulate trade, been making free gifts of teapots to their patrons. This, naturally, has had the effect of almost ruining the crockery kings, who have risen in insurrection to defend their rights. An appeal to the State Legislature has failed, and the crockery manufacturers have cruelly resolved to occupy the ground of a cold neutrality. The retail crockery dealers are thus driven to their wits' ends. It seems to us that they might find an easy way out of their difficulty and save not only their bonor but their crockery. It is this: Let them give tea away as a free gift and charge up the loss on the cups and saucers. If the tea-dealers can give away free crocks, why cannot the crock-men make a free tea distribution? If this plan should fail, they should make every family present of a teapot and sufficient to keep it occupied for a twelvemonth.—New York Journal.

Jute Decortication.

The damages to the machine for stripping jute were easily repaired and it has been operated with perfect success since. The best evidence of the satisfaction of the proprietors is their intention to go peartly into the culture of jute next year. The fibre procureds strong, clean and of extraordinary length.

All the wild indians, an Indigenous race, are dying out. They perish with consumption, and other diseases of civilization.

The Massachusetts Greenbackers.

A Greenback Convention held at Boston yesterday nominated Ben. Butler for Governor, and a full State ticket. The nominee for Attorney-General is not a lawyer, but one of the delegates remarked that made no difference as is Butler they had all the law necessary, and "it was no matter who was Attorney-General." It may very well be assumed that a Convention which is so indifferent about who shall be its candidate for Attorney-General, is almost equally indifferent as to the rest of the ticket.

When a political party has everything its own way, and an assured overwhelming majority, it sometimes become very careless as to it nominees. And when a party has no chance of success, no possibility of scoring a victory, there is a cause for indifference and carelessness that cannot be overcome. The latter is the condition of the Greenback party in Massachusetts. It never did amount to much, but now there is a split in the party in the Bay State. As a result of the split E. Moody Boynton, of the National Committee of the Greenback-Labor party, has issued a call for a Greenback Convention at Worcester, Oct. 16, to nominate a State ticket.

The call protested in advance against the Convention just held at Boston, as without precedent in the history of the party, and also against the ratification of Gen. Butler's statement that the mission of the Greenback party had been accomplished.

So now it can readily be seen why the portion of the party that held its Convention at Boston was in favor of Butler for Governor, and anybody for Attorney-General.

By the way, what has become of the Greenbackers in Mississippi? There is a splendid opportunity for them to come to the front now, and endorse the action of their Greenback brethren in Massachusetts. But the Greenback party has been very quiescent in Mississippi for a long time. Its platform, as defined by its leader in Warren county, was calculated to induce a large following. Col. John Walsh said the platform of the Greenback party was: "More money and less work."

Now in order to revive the Greenback party of Mississippi, and of other States—just to make things lively and interesting—we suggest that they nominate Butler for President, anybody for the rest of the ticket as Butler will answer for all, take for their platform "more money and less work," and go before the country in the next National canvass.

The Agonies of Crucifixtion.

All civilized communities demand that a life to be sacrificed shall be sacrificed swiftly and without needless pain. True, various nations have different opinions as to how this may best be accomplished, but the American and English Governments have decided that hangng is the most merciful. Rome compared with the Spanish instrument of death, the garrote, it is questionable whether or not hanging is the most merciful. A bungling executioner may in either case cause unnecessary tortures. With these subjects, however, this paper has nothing to do. The writer desires simply to set forth the various modes of crucifixion as adopted by the ancients, and to show what terrible sufferings the wretched malefactor had to undergo before death came to his relief. Hours and days of unmitigated torture; a thirst which was unquenchable; a prolonged suffocation; a horrible gasping for breath, intensified only by a moment's respite; the bites of the vultures of the air, and the stings and burrowings of insects; the burning of the rays of the noonday sun, and the cold, clammy dews at midnight—tell us, in awful language, of that dies iræ, from a repetition of which the present day is happily delivered. In comparison, our present capital punishments are most merciful, and the vindication of justice most humane.

The most primitive form seems to have been an upright tree, to which the victim was either bound or nailed. In Ezra, vi. 11, it is ordered that "whoever shall alter his word, let timber be pulled down from his home, and being set up, let him be hanged thereon, and let his house be made a dunghill for this." Timan had no time to add a horizontal beam when crucifying 500 Jews a day for months. He simply drove a pole into the ground, to which the victim was lashed, and he was left to die.

Slaves were generally punished by having a furca, (fork,) slipped over their necks, to which their arms were tied, and this was hoisted to the top of a pole, and secured there by a rope fitting into a groove. This device evidently suggests the more recent cross, to save time, and as being more artistic. It was usual to nail the hands, but to bind the feet. It is erroneous to suppose that a single spike secured both feet to the cross, one foot in front of the other. A spike was driven through each foot, sometimes to a support fixed on the cross just beneath the plantar surface of the feet. Additional cruelty was sometimes practiced by the victim being seated on a spike or "horn," (Justin Martyr), though at times a piece of wood was so placed that he might rest on it.

The nails, aided by intense heat, soon produced gangrene. Although the culprit writhed in agony for some time, it is doubtful whether any long-continued activity of the body could be maintained. The weight of the intestines, gravitating downward, produced intussusception. The circulation was impeded, the viscera pressing on the veins. The lungs could not be emptied. Insects got into the eyes, nose, ears and wounds. At nightfall the bones of the dregs of these still living were broken, ostensibly to hasten death, but in reality to gratify the spectators, who were becoming jaded.

Death generally resulted from gangrene was accelerated by hunger and thirst, the vicissitudes of heat and cold, or the attacks of ravenous birds and beasts, and in others designedly accelerated by burning, stoning, suffocation, breaking the bones or piercing the vital organs." (Adam Clarke, "Commentary on Matthew," chap. xxvii., v. 36.)

According to Origen, Timotheus and Maura, a married pair who suffered about the year 206, under Diocletian, remained for nine days and nights on the cross, exhorting each other, and expired on the tenth day. By order of the Emperor Maximian in the year 297, seven Christians at Samosata were subjected to long tortures; three of them were taken down from the cross while yet alive, and the Emperor, hearing of this, ordered huge nails to be driven into their hands.—New York Medical Journal.

Sarcasm Tinged With Truth.

The Chicago News of the 18th says: The farmers of Tennessee, we are glad to say, have found out the reasons why the agricultural interests of the South are in so depressed a condition. They have discovered in the first place that the general crops are not abundant there because the head of the Bureau of Agriculture in Washington is not a Cabinet officer. Mr. Loring, the official in question, has been of this opinion a long time, but his native Massachusetts modesty prevented him from saying so. Another source of their trouble is that the cattle doctors are an insidious class of persons who prescribe worthless pills and other compounds for cows whose stomachs are out of order, whose appetites have abandoned them and whose spirits generally are depressed. The Tennessee farmers are firmly resolved that these imposers must go. The next great evil is the dogs. There are enfirely too many dogs in the South, especially in Tennessee. They want a first-class dog pound, or permission to shoot every dog on sight. All these are moderate demands and should be granted at once. With Mr. Loring in the cabinet, a few honest doctors and a dog pound, the South will become an agricultural paradise.

Through Bills of Lading.

Railroad managers are fast becoming convinced that they have no more legal right to dictate to a shipper the route his freight shall take than they have to decide the line by which the shipper himself shall travel. To get around the point in some manner, however, at a recent meeting the members of the Southwestern pool unanimously agreed that a railroad is a common carrier but not a common forwarder. This theory is adopted to back up the proposed action of the trunk lines in refusing to give through bills of lading, except upon condition that the railroad giving the through bill may elect by which lines it shall be forwarded after leaving its own line. If the shipper doesn't like the condition he can take the freight at the end of the initial company's line and do what he pleases with it. It is of course impossible for the shipper to do that, and he must, therefore, submit to the condition imposed. It is manifestly impossible, they claim, for the railroads to do through business if every shipper can dictate as to the particular roads over which his freight shall be forwarded by the initial company beyond its own lines. At the same time there are limits beyond which the the railroads may not be permitted to go in asserting this right; otherwise, conditions may be formed to exclude obnoxious roads from natural through connections. Shippers also may have rights which may be violated by arbitrary action of a trades union made up of quasi public railroad corporations.

A Derelict Postmaster.

Early yesterday morning a report was put in circulation on the streets that Mr. H. H. Meng, Postmaster at Vidalia, had been arrested for extracting registered packages containing money from the mails, and we regret to say that the report was verified. Mr. Geo. A. Dice, one of the inspectors of the Post-office Department, who was detailed to work up the case, and who had Mr. Meng in custody last night, gave us the following statement of the unfortunate affair:

Mr. Dice says that Mr. Meng by his own confession acknowledges that he began extracting registered packages from the mails as far back as last May, but as the packages were for the country office back of Vidalia, such as Frogmore, Troyville, Harrisonburg, Trinity, and other points on the Tensas, Ouachita and Black rivers, complaints of the missing packages only reached the Vidalia office where they were suppressed. Some ten days since however, the Post-office Department was apprised of the losses, and Mr. Dice was detailed to work the matter up. This he did by the decoy letter system, mailing on Wednesday last, five registered letters from Trinity and Troyville, La., and then following them from office to office until they reached Vidalia, where he called for them, but received only two, the others being withheld. This fastened the crime on Mr. Meng, and he was taken into custody.

Mr. Dice tells us that he has 165 registered packages that had been opened by Mr. Meng, and that as far as he can judge, the losses will amount to about $717.00, which falls principally upon the offices already mentioned. He says that other packages were opened and withheld, but Mr. Meng afterwards restored their contents and forwarded them.

Of the postal funds for the present quarter, Mr. Meng is between $100.00 and $200.00 short, while in the money order department the shortage is trifling.

Mr. Dice, who made the arrest, says he regrets the occurrence very much and expresses great sympathy for Mr. Meng's indiscretion. Mr. Meng was considered to be a very promising young man, is well connected, and his numerous friends will deplore his miss-step.

Mr. Dice leaves on the train with Mr. Meng this afternoon for Monroe, La., where the latter will be arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Ray.—Natchez Democrat, 25th.

Sick Convicts.

Yesterday afternoon's passenger train took on at Fayette some seventy-five sick convicts who have been engaged on the railroad now going on east of us. Some of them are very sick, and it is

Some fellow will get himself in trouble when he least expects to. A young lady in the rural districts wrote to us asking advice about how to have a dress made. Now, we didn't know any more about a dress than a single man ought to, and didn't know what to say. But we granted to accommodate her, so we got a fashion magazine, copied a description of a dress and sent it to her. Yesterday the queerest creature we ever saw bounced into our office. "Do you see this dress?" she demanded; "I have worn it in here to let you see it. This is the thing you advised me to make; look at it."

Then she went on. She had caused the dress to be made up, wore it to the city, expecting it to be right in style, and found it to be a terror. Investigation showed that the magazine was of 1847. We hadn't observed it before. Then there was only one thing for us to do. We told her that we were not the editor who wrote the article, and took her to the office of the literary editor whom we pointed out as the man. Then we fled the office. We hope we shall not see the literary editor for a few days. He is a man of violent impulse and somebody might get hurt.—Boston Post.

The Crop Gathering.

The past week has been a continuation of the perfect cotton picking season, of which we have now had a continuous month. Though the crop will be another short one it will probably yield an excess in the aggregate over that of last year. It is being gathered earlier, and is therefore of better quality. The worms have gone over most of the cotton, but have not stripped it very closely so far as we have heard, nor done much damage.

There were shipped during the past week 439 bales, previously 73 bales, total 512 bales.

John McCutchen will ship to-morrow 118 bales of hay from his Fish Lake place to New Orleans and Vicksburg. As this is the first shipment of hay in any considerable quantity from Washington county it deserves mention.—Greenville Times, 22d.

THE services of Mr. Luther Manship have been engaged as manager of the Jackson Compress Company. He will have full charge of the business, and all who have any dealings with him may assured that the work he turns out is first-class in every respect. Mr. Manship served four years as an apprentice and two years as a journeymen workman at McComb City, and Col. Frost says that Luther Manship is not only well instructed in his business, but better than most men. Recommendations, however, for Luther Manship are not needed in our community where he is known. He is a first-class man, and we trust that his success in life may be commensurate with the wishes of his friends.—Jackson Clarion.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind will have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

TOM BURKE departed by train last night for Chicago.

RESERVE your seat for the Minstrels at Baum & Co's.

MRS. D. J. O'KEEFE is very ill at her residence in this city.

MR. RALPH HICKS, of Memphis, is in the city to-day.

THERE will be a regular monthly meeting of the School Board to-night.

MISS MAMIE VICK arrived home by the 6 o'clock train this morning.

MR. L. BAER and family returned home this morning from an extended trip North and West.

MR. THOMAS DUFFIN, the railroad contractor, came up from Port Gibson this morning.

MRS. J. H. WILSON, of Jackson, Tenn., is in the city on a visit to her sister, Mrs. R. W. Martin.

MRS. J. W. HAYES, of West Carroll parish, La., arrived in this city yesterday on a short visit to friends.

MR. DAVID RICH and family arrived this morning from their Summer vacation at the Virginia Springs.

MR. SOLTON SMITH, of Francis Smith & Co., left by the steamer Natchez last night for Concordia parish, La.

MR. R. H. WATTS one of our active young farmers, bought a large engine and boiler at Eden Fox's yesterday.

MR. CHARLES LAURIE and lady, of Natchez, are visiting Mrs. Laurie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall.

MRS. MOORE, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Corinne, who has been attending the College of Music at Cincinnati, came home this morning on the mail train.

MRS. HORNTHAL, at her residence on the corner of Cherry and South streets, has a banana tree in her yard with a branch of this tropical fruit nearly full grown.

MR. THOMAS WHITE, engineer of the Sallie Carney, was taken sick this morning and is now at home under treatment of Dr. Quinn. Mr. White's wife is also sick.

THE gin of Thomas W. Watts, Jr., that was burned in Madison parish a few days ago, was an entirely new one. Four bales of cotton were consumed. There was no insurance on either cotton or gin.

MR. SAM D. HAUSMAN, of the wholesale dry goods house of Mayer Bros. & Co., left for Yazoo City on the E. C. Carroll last night. When Sam Hausman goes out, his house may look for good orders.

MRS. GRIFFIN and her daughter Miss Julia, who have been spending the Summer on a visit to Mrs. Leppich in this city, departed for home last night. Miss Griffin made hosts of friends during her visit, who regret her departure and will always be glad to welcome her back.

GEO. A. DICE, Inspector of Post-office Department arrived in the city this morning, with Meng, the defaulting Postmaster at Vidalia, La., in custody. The Inspector is taking his prisoner to Monroe, La. It is said that Meng's relations and friends have made up enough money to repay the Government for his stealing.

IN his rambles yesterday a POST representative met Mr. C. T. Wilson, who is a partner of Col. J. B. Neely in a contract on the L., N. O. & T. R. R. five miles from Stoneville. Mr. Wilson says the work all along the line in that part of the country has been delayed somewhat by the scarcity of labor, but that when the cotton picking season is over they will be able to secure sufficient labor to make up for lack of men at present, and expect to have all work completed at the time specified.

WARREN C. KAIN, the great cotton seed man of this county, left for Galveston, Tex., last night. Warren goes to Texas on business for the New Orleans Cotton Seed Association, and if good business qualifications are necessary for the business, the Association have secured the man they want, for Warren Kain is a business man of first quality.

THE E. W. Cole, leaving yesterday, had the following passenger list: Mrs. Hill, Mrs. C. J. Green, J. J. Patton, G. W. Faison, Mrs. Ruck, J. C. Johnson, A. Tobias, J. Newton, and M. Gerson, Greenville; J. P. Leatherman, Mrs. Nelson, and two children, and Miss Pettway, Arcadia; D. Humphreys, Millikens; R. C. Winslow Tallula; Judge E. Dillone, Lake Providence; N. J. Vick, and A. J. Fields, Skipwiths; J. C. Murphy, Pilcheis Pt.; J. W. Marshall, Leota; H. B. Thompson, Ashtop; Dr. T. R. Pettway, Chotard; Mrs. Fannie Crawford, Greenville; A. Bier, Lake Providence.

The Coming Levee Convention.

President John F. Halpin, of the Cotton Exchange, and President Geo. W. Hutcheson, of the Board of Trade, have appointed the following committees, to make preparation for the reception of the delegates to the inter-State Levee Convention to be held in this city next Monday, October 1st:

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Lee Richardson, E. S. Butts, Geo. S. Irving, Jacob Shlenker, F. M. Andrews, E Teller.

ARRANGEMENT COMMITTEE.

E. C. Carroll, Hon. T. G. Birchett, A. Kuhn, J. F. Baum, J. J. Cowan, C. O. Willis, W. L. Trowbridge, and Jas. Botto.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

Hon. T. G. Birchett, A. M. Paxton, F. C. Morehead, Capt. W. L. Marshall, Judge Warren Cowan, Gen. W. F. Fitzgerald, John C. McCutchen, S. P. Metzger, M. Brady, John Ryan, S. Spengler, Wm. Curphy, E. VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 25, 1883

THE Philadelphia Times says that Mr. Robinson, the Republican nominee for Governor of Massachusetts, is an "able, bold, aggressively honest, public man."

CAPT. GEO. TYSON does not fear for the safety of Lieut. Greely. He can secure, he says, fresh meat and game at Lady Franklin Bay, and an abundance of fresh water.

GOV. PATTISON of Pennsylvania has vetoed the resolution stopping the pay of the members of the Legislature during the balance of an extra session which he is responsible for.

MR. ABBETT, the Democratic candidate in New Jersey, told the Committee which informed him of his nomination, that if elected, the Democrats who did the work will be rewarded with the places in his gift.

THE collection box contributions to the Peter Cooper monument fund now amount to $16,000. The boxes are everwhere in New York and the sums contributed are mostly dimes and five cent pieces.

VICKSBURG is about to supply a long-felt local want—a broom factory. There never were enough brooms in Vicksburg. The amount of sweeping needed in Vicksburg is wonderful. A soap factory next. Remember that cleanliness is next to Godliness.—Port Gibson Reveille.

We have the soap factory already. The Vicksburg Soap Works have been in operation a couple of years, and make an excellent article of soap. The next thing in order will be a cotton factory. If the proper men take the initiative, there will be no trouble to raise the stock in this city. Let the factory boom proceed.

The Speakership.

One of the best informed politicians and newspaper correspondents at the Capital, writing to the Aberdeen Examiner, under date of Sept. 17th, says: "Carlisle is a beaten man and Randall's election is practically assured. He is the second choice of fourteen of the New York delegation; gets nearly all of Ohio and the most of Missouri. Men who have been holding back are now coming up to him, and he is gaining perceptibly every day. I am a great admirer of Carlisle's ability but he has been trimming and dodging terribly on the Mississippi River question. I was positively informed by a friend of his that he was about to write a strong letter taking emphatic ground in favor of the plans of the 'Commission,' levees and all, but he has not done so, but in lieu, furnishes us with an old, evasive letter, written last Winter."

An Old Friend of Mr. Tilden's

The Brooks comet has been satisfactorily identified as the comet of 1812. The sky detectives have set the matter beyond doubt. Certain peculiarities about the way it banged its hair, its striking red eye and the resemblance of its nucleus to an ancient brand of tomato-can were the main features relied on to prove that it was the starry tramp of 1812. It was about due. Its bleared eye will gaze upon a much changed world. It will find Washington's body-servent and nurse extinct; it will miss Thurlow Weed and Andrew Jackson, full of martial ire seventy-one years ago. It will look in vain for Montgomery Blair and Buchanan. It will have to hunt mostly among the heavy-backed armchairs by wintry firesides for the human relics of its visit. But when it casts its glance in the direction of Greystone, it will recognize one hale and hearty friend of "Auld Lang Syne." As plainly as comets can speak it will say: "Hello, Sammy; same sly old chap as ever, eh? In training for the Presidency yet? Oh, of course." And when the secretive Samuel has let that eye-lid drop more suddenly thau usual, the old sky-wanderer will give a great swish of amusement to his tail that will frighten half the world. —N. Y. Journal.

REPORTS from Ireland are more cheering than they have been for years. Mr. Healy, who ought to know, says the country is looking up. She is going ahead in the matter of providing remunerative labor for her people. The savings banks returns speak well for their progress in economy. On Friday last the first long tramway to run by electricity was opened. It runs from Portrush to the Giant's Causeway, away up there in the north. The report of Mr. Davitt's illness being serious is unfounded. It is said that there is no uncertain sounds about what he says when he tells his hearers that landlordism is to be extinguished by boycotting. Boycott himself, it is strange to say, having relinquished a noxious post, is now one of the most popular men in the country. Mr. Parnell's payment of $25,000, received from the National tribute fund, leaves him with an income of $20,000 from the estate of Avonmore, and now free to become what he has always appeared to be, a good landlord.—Chicago Times.

THE Canadian cotton manufacturers, after a conference at Montreal, have decided to close their mills two days each week in order to curtail production.

Our River Front--How to Secure a Harbor.

At the meeting of the River Commission next month, the Engineers in charge of the river work here will submit their report, and it can only be that nothing has been accomplished by dredging, and that what is known as the "canal and basin plan" is a failure. The Commission will not be likely to set apart any more money for that plan.

It will not do for our people, however, to give up all hope of having our harbor restored, partially if not entirely. With sufficient means and proper scientific skill, the most difficult engineering feats can be accomplished. Something should be done, and something can be done if the Government continues its efforts to restore our harbor. The only question now is what is the best plan to pursue in the light of past experience, and in the face of the obstacles that now confront us.

The condition of our harbor attracts universal attention. It is the topic of strangers who visit our city, and is certainly the most important matter which our people have before them for their present consideration. Some people, whose judgment and opinions are entitled to thought, say the best thing for our citizens to do is to realize that the permanent landing will not be any nearer than Kleinston, and to make preparations to reach that place with the greatest facility and least expense.

Others think—and it is a favorite theory with many—that the Yazoo river can be brought in front of the city and will give us a comparatively good harbor.

We have no hobby in the matter, but are in favor of some plan which offers reasonable hopes of success, and the expense of which will not deter the Government from making the needed appropriation to carry it out. We think SOMETHING should be done.

In order to direct the attention of the people and authorities to the subject, we offer the following suggestions. If any one has a better plan, let him come to the front:

In 1877 a board of engineers investigated the condition of the harbor of Vicksburg and the river adjacent, and adopted a plan for their improvement, the project being to hold the main body of the river as near the channel it then occupied as possible by stopping the caving at Delta point with mattresses, and then dredge a canal from said channel along the city front. The first part of this plan has been carried out with much difficulty and great expense. Last Winter an allotment was obtained to be expended in dredging. The dredging was commenced in April, and carried on up to a few days ago, with what success can be seen by any one who may choose to visit the levee. From what we can gather from engineers, all hopes of obtaining a harbor by this means will have to be abandoned, unless Congress sees fit to appropriate over a million dollars more, and even then it will be a continual expense because of the necessity of removing the deposit which will collect during every high stage of water.

If the dredging is to all intents and purposes a failure, would it not be well to put a stop to it, and use the balance yet unexpended in a more profitable way?

In 1880, in compliance with a request of the Mayor of Vicksburg and a number of the citizens, Capt. Jas. B. Eads made an examination of the harbor, and submitted to them two plans for its improvement, the first being to build a mattress dike from Delta point to the south end of DeSoto Island, thus daming the Mississippi and causing its water to return to its old channel around the island. The second plan was different only in that it changed the position of the dike to a point further up the river, leaving an opening between the end of the dike and the end of the island. It seems an enormous undertaking to dam the Mississippi river and force it through a bar and into a channel not half its width nor one-fourth its depth. The shortest dike that could be built would be 8,000 feet long, and the current of the river would strike with terrific force at an angle of about 50°. The expense of carrying out his plan would be enormous.

Just above the revetted portion of Delta point there is a sand-bar which for some years past has been working its way down the river. It now occupies a position not one-half mile above the Delta Wharfboat. If this bar could be caused to form faster by means of open dikes, such as are used at St. Louis and in the reaches now being improved by the River Commission, until it occupied a position below the Delta Wharfboat, a closed wing dike could be built there in shoal water which would throw the current back to a point not far from the Compress, giving again to Vicksburg at least a good part of its lost river front.

It is useless to hope that the river may be forced back into its old channel around the island by engineering skill; nature may accomplish it many years from now, but the present and near future is what most concerns us.

It was supposed last year that a dike was to be built on the sand-bar above Delta, and we understood $10,000 was allotted for that purpose. It was thought advisable to use it on the other work then in progress, and as no appropriation was made by Congress last year nothing has been done with regard to the matter, or can be until the next Congress meets unless the unexpended balance for dredging could be obtained for building the dike. There is no reason to suppose it will be anything but a success, and very much better than throwing the money away in dredging. It will be seen that this plan is very different from Capt. Eads's. He proposed to build a dike in deep water, checking the current of the Mississippi, whereas this would be but a wing dam on the bar in shoal water at such an angle as not to materially check the whole volume of the river but force it over to the line of the river bank, cutting the bar through which the West Pass was dredged, and gradually bringing its channel nearer the city proper.

The expense of these works would be nothing compared with any other plan that has been advocated. To turn the Yazoo, it is conceded by all engineers who have visited the locality and studied the report already made, will be a very costly undertaking.

Many miles of dike of the description to be used in this work have been built near St. Louis, and have proved a great success. The river has been forced to the desired channel, and back of the dike large tracts of land formed by deposit. In this instance the plan would be to force the river to the Mississippi side and form the land by deposit on the Louisiana shore. The dike is made by driving piling in rows, connecting the rows with braces. On the front row, or that facing the current, willow screens are placed, the spaces between the willows in the screens depending on the extent to which it is necessary to check the current. If a large bar can be formed on the Delta side at the required point it is self-evident that the caving bank will be on the other side, which is the required condition in order to obtain the river nearer the upper landing.

Robinson and McLane.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Robinson and McLane, who were respectively nominated as Governors of Massachusetts and Maryland on Wednesday, are well known here. Both were members of the last House. Robinson was re-elected and McLane might have been if he would have accepted a renomination. McLane first entered Congress in 1847, and was often a member of the House from that time forward. He was Minister to China thirty years ago, appointed by President Pierce, and in the last Congress when the Chinese Bill was up for discussion he took an active part in the discussion of the subject.

He thought that what McLane didn't know about the Chinese and the Chinese question wasn't worth knowing. He thought the Chinese and the Republican party ought to "go." He is a wrathy, garrulous old man, and don't mind calling people the sort of names that he thinks indicate their real character. He doesn't like President Arthur at all, and some of his remarks about him in the sessions of last Winter were by no means of a complimentary nature. Personally, he has the air of one of the old school Southern gentlemen—stately, dignified, polished, well dressed, with old time standing collar, smooth face, and the air of one who has plenty of money.

Robinson, of Massachusetts, is a different sort of a man. He is, perhaps, forty, plain in his personal attire and appearance, yet not so much so as to attract attention; very quiet, but always attentive to the business of the House, a hard worker and hard thinker. When he spoke he always spoke to the point, and no man on the Republican side of the House had more influence than Robinson. With a few words he could accomplish more than any man on that side of the House. More than that; he was always listened to with interest and with profound respect by the opposite side of the House. There was an air of perfect honesty and personal conviction that what he was saying was true, that made his sayings always welcome to both sides of the House. Fearless where the question of Justice appeared, modest and unassuming, yet aggressive when great questions were to be taken, strong in his ability to "say," yet always courteous and obliging so far as consistent with his duties, he commanded the respect of everybody, even when opposing their wishes or advocating principles with which they could not coincide. "Robinson ought to be elected," said a gentleman here who knows him well, yesterday. "and if Massachusetts party wants a Presidential candidate of ability and integrity, against whom nobody can say anything, and who should rank high as a statesman, he would be their man."

One curious feature of Robinson's career is that he has been accused by his opponents of being an anti-temperance man. Speaking of this yesterday a man who knew him well said: "The fact is that Robinson is the most thorough temperance man imaginable. I have seen him at great dinners here, and under all sorts of trying circumstances, and he never drinks anything but water. He is a temperance man in the strictest sense of the word, but he don't believe in prohibition, and he is so thoroughly honest that he will not advocate anything that he does not believe heartily in."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"BUTTERED eggs" are a new luxury in which Gothamites are indulging. There are old women in the city who get them at the authorities the right to keep hens, which are domiciled in the cockloft of their houses and they keep boys watching them till they lay an egg. No sooner is it laid than it is dipped in melted butter, and the shell, which is yet warm and susceptible, absorbs the flavor of the butter, and they are said to be very fine. They bring from sixty to eighty cents a dozen.

THE Warren county Democrats held a meeting to make nominations last Saturday, and gallantly resolved to surrender. They have furled the old flag of 1875, and are waiting for Ham Carter and Crosby, and other skunks and scalawags, to come and take possession of the citadel.—Port Gibson Reveille.

New York Republican Nominations.

New York Republicans seem to have felt a little like those of Massachusetts this year—not very anxious to run. The old ticket was renominated, except the candidate for Treasurer, who was so disastrously defeated in 1881. Possibly it was believed that the old vote, which came over to the Democracy last year, would go back to the old colors. The vote of both years is of interest for comparison, and we subjoin the highest Democratic and lowest Democratic vote for each year:

1881—STATE TREASURER.

Maxwell, Democrat	413,195
Husted, Republican	382,251

1881—STATE COMPTROLLER.

Lapham, Democrat	403,380
Davenport, Republican	417,464

1882—GOVERNOR.

Cleveland, Democrat	535,318
Folger, Republican	342,464

1882—CHIEF JUDGE.

Ruger, Democrat	482,822
Andrews, Republican	406,007

We have disregarded the votes of smaller parties, so as to make more distinct the relations of the two large parties. It would be idle to expect a repetition of the phenomenal majority of Gov. Cleveland, and it would be foolish to disguise the fact that the unwise course of the Legislature on a number of important questions has heavily loaded the canvass. Much now depends on the admission of Tammany to the State Convention. Tilden's New York city machine, called the county Democracy, has refused to divide the delegation with Tammany Hall and Irving Hall, and these bodies, which represent half of the Democracy of the city, will be compelled to send contesting delegations, and if refused participation, they may prove refractory. In 1879 Robinson was defeated for Governor in this way. John Kelly announced himself as an independent candidate and polled 43,047 votes in New York city alone, and the Republican candidate for Governor was elected by 42,777 plurality in the entire State. Last year Tammany and Irving Hall and the County Democracy all united on Franklin Edson for Mayor, and he was elected by a plurality of 21,417 over the candidate of the Republican and Citizens' fusion. The vote for the six successful candidates for Aldermen at large in 1881 was as follows: Republican 48,847 and 48,291; County Democracy 47,402 and 46,847; Tammany and Irving Hall 48,979 and 46,779. These figures show that the New York Democratic Convention cannot afford to ignore Tammany.—New Orleans Picayune.

THE National Board of Health reports that Dayton, Ohio, is the healthiest city in the country. It is below 15 in every thousand, while the average for the whole country is over 15. New Orleans and Memphis have the highest death-rate—27 to the 1,000. Brooklyn and Boston are 23 per 1,000 each.

BOATS LEAVING TO-MORROW.

Capt Anthonys Ferry and return—The fine steamer Sallie Carney, Robt Bowmaster, John Brazelius clerk, will leave at 10 a.m.

Sunflower river—The reliable P Scudder Headlight, George W. Bookmaster, Chas. Pare clerk, will leave at 4 p.m.

NOTES.

Below for a good road to the landing.

There were six boats at the lower landing this morning, presenting a lively appearance at our southern suburbs.

The great J. M. White leaves New Orleans this evening for this point, and will go going back in the lower coast trade.

The "City of Helena" is the next packet for Lower Steamer. She will leave Vicksburg Thursday morning at 11 o'clock for St Louis and points en route.

The Anchor Line steamer Arkansas will leave the Wharfboat at 6 o'clock this evening for Greenville and all principal points to St. Louis.

Capt. John Bell has finished the carpenter and caulking work on the City of Baton Rouge, and now she looks as bright as a dollar.

The light draft P. Line steamer Headlight, J. W. Smith master, and Pare clerk, will leave here to-morrow evening for all points on the Sunflower river.

The "City of Baton Rouge" will pass here for St. Louis early to-morrow morning.

For further information see Carroll Mount, Anchor Line passenger agent.

The Ed Richardson passed down at 7 o'clock this morning, with 4000 bales of cotton and 1700 sacks of seed, for New Orleans.

The Shed had a good trip of passengers also.

The Scudder passed down at 2 o'clock this morning. She landed and put off a few packages. She dropped an empty barge here that had been used as a lighter by the river.

We learn from Mr. Thomas Young, clerk of the Carroll, that the Yazoo river is very low. There is only 3 feet of water at Cottonwood and Belzhee's bar, and navigation is very difficult.

The Sallie Carney came in from Davis Bend this morning and left on her daily trip to Anthony's Ferry at 10 o'clock. Capt. Bob Bowman and clerks Brazellus and Quackenbos are the officers of this fine steamer.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Greenville, which passed Cairo Saturday night, reports finding a new channel at Cat Island 35, of 10½ feet of water, but does not give marks to run by. Her officers found river over the discovery. The old channel gives only 6 feet water.

The river at the upper end of the Wharfboat is crowded with docks, barges and fishing boats, making it inconvenient for landing at that part of the boat. It would be a good idea to move all these crafts down below the Wharfboat, thus giving packets plenty of room.

The "Arkansas City" is the Anchor Line steamer leaving here at 6 o'clock this evening for Greenville, Arkansas City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis. Capt. Harry W. Brolaski is in command of this beautiful steamer. Chas. J. Quesnel, Alf Simpson and Joseph Dukes are her clerks. Carroll B. Mount is her passenger agent.

In a talk with Capt. Leathers this morning, he stated that the river was on a decline at all points between here and New Orleans. The shallowest place is at Bedford's, where there is 12 feet. Capt. Leathers says he has no doubt but that there will be sufficient water all season for the Vicksburg and New Orleans packets.

The Tesaquena, leaving yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock for Greenville and the Bends, besides a full cabin of people, had about 75 deckers, the larger part of whom were shipped by Capt. W. C. O'Hara for the Government work at Wilson's Point. She also had a splendid freight trip.

The E. C. Carroll arrived from Yazoo City last night at 7:40, with 347 bales of cotton for New Orleans, and 8 for Vicksburg. The Carroll did not go up to Belzoni, meeting the Lefore at Yazoo City and reshipping on her. She will leave this evening on her regular trip to Yazoo City, at 5 o'clock, instead of laying over till Thursday as reported in the morning's paper.

The E. W. Cole will leave this evening at 4 o'clock for Greenville and all Bends landings, with Capt. J. F. Ellison in command and M. D. Baldwin in charge of the clerk's office—both clever gentlemen and efficient officers. Travelers for all points en route to Greenville will find this boat comfortable and roomy, and her officers polite and obliging.

Capt. Carroll received a telegram yesterday evening from the DeSmet saying she had unloaded her Memphis freight and left for Vicksburg. She will arrive here early Thursday morning and reship her freight and lay up here for the present. Capt. T. G. Ledbetter is her popular commander, while Capt. Frank Beck is in charge of the office on her trip down. The DeSmet while at St. Louis was docked and thoroughly overhauled, and is in excellent condition for the Fall business.

The great Natchez, always prompt, came up yesterday evening about 3 o'clock from New Orleans, with a very good up-stream freight. Her mail was distributed by 5 o'clock. This splendid steamer, with Capt. T. P. Leathers, the old reliable, in command, and V. G. Entricken in charge of the office, will leave out at 5 o'clock this evening for all points en route to the Crescent City. Those contemplating a trip to New Orleans who wish to avoid the dust and annoyance of a railroad trip, should take the Natchez, as she is safe and sure.

CLIPPINGS.

Mr. D. A. Boardman, a well-known Red river steamboatman, is at the head of a stock company recently organized in Pearlington, Miss., for the purpose of boring an artesian well and building a first-class hotel at that point.

The petition to Col. Merrill, asking him to have a cofler dam built at the head of the locks at Davis's island, Miss., is being numerously signed by coal and river men at Pittsburg, who are anxious for more water in the harbor.

Memphis Leader, 24th: An important meeting of the Cincinnati and New Orleans steamboat owners is to be held in Cincinnati to-day. As this is their third meeting they will doubtless come to some agreement and will know their boats will run this season. It is understood that there will be three boats sent out each week.

The great iron steamer, Charles P. Chouteau, left St. Louis on Saturday evening and will be due here Wednesday morning on her way to New Orleans. After her present trip she will at once enter the Memphis and New Orleans passenger trade for the season. Captains Thorwegan and Miltenberger, with all the old officers are in charge. Besides being a big carrier the Chouteau has splendid passenger accommodations.

The famous Gem City, which burned at St. Louis on Saturday last, was valued at $60,000 and insured for $40,000. She had the best record for time upon the upper Mississipi, having made the run from St. Louis to St. Paul on her maiden trip in 1881, in 65 hours, a distance of 750 miles. Her time through Lake Pepin, a distance of 30 miles, was 1 hour and 4 minutes. Commodore W. F. Davidson will commence building a duplicate of her at once, and have her ready for the spring business of 1884.

What Frank Could Do.

Were Frank James now free he could rob and murder with perfect impunity. Received with open arms by respectable people, loved because of his connections here, he could direct a band of robbers with perfect freedom from arrest. Simply because the evidence of one of his accomplices would be believed, and because his connections here are respectable citizens who would identify him personally in any act.—Gallatin (Mo.) Democrat.

Ticket for Sale.

Dr. Niles, well known in this city, resides, on account of his health, in a small cottage on the beach about 3 miles south of the point selected for the terminus of the Jacksonville & Atlantic Railway. About 500 feet above high water mark he will sell, located. It is 16 feet deep and yields an abundant supply of pure fresh water and yet it rises and falls with the ocean tide. This is a fact.—Jacksonville Times-Union.

To Bridge Contractors.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF Warren County, Mississippi, will let out contracts for repairing Willow Bayou bridge, West of United States Cemetery; the building of a bridge over Big Bayou, 4 miles from Vicksburg, on Baldwin Ferry road; and the building of a bridge over Big Cane, near D. Bolton on Benton road. Plans, etc., of work can be seen at Clerk's Office or on application to the members of those districts. The work will be let out at public outcry on the ground, to the lowest bidder, at cash prices, to be paid out of special levy; the Willow Bayou bridge, by Will McGee, Esq., member of Second District, on Tuesday, 25th of September, 1883; the Baldwin Ferry road, 4 mile bridge, by H. M. Goff, Esq., of Fourth District, on Friday, 28th of September, 1883; and the Benton road bridge, near Dick Harris, by H. R. Jones, Esq., of Fifth District, on Saturday, 29th of September, 1883. Each one of these bridges will require good work and will require bond and security to be given the Board for the faithful performance of said work.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 35 monthly instalments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. FRANK BONELLI did not get off for Port Gibson but is to leave to-day.

MR. WARREN C. KAIN departs this evening for Galveston, Texas, on a business trip.

MESSRS L. P. WILLIAMS and Joseph Williams, of Port Gibson, came up to the city this morning by rail.

WESLEY CRAYTON declines to become a candidate for the Legislature. He prefers to remain an Alderman.

THE Summer tourists are returning home by every train, refreshed by their sojourn at the various seasides and Summer resorts.

MRS. W. H. CASHMAN, who has been spending some time at Raymond with her sister Mrs. Edrington, returned home this morning.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL was a passenger by the steamer Issaquena yesterday evening for the Government works at Wilson's point.

MRS. P. S. WILKINSON, and Miss Bessie Corket, for Yazoo City; and Mrs. Liddell, for Monroe, La., came up on the Natchez yesterday evening.

MR. JEFF THOMPSON, son of the celebrated Civil Engineer of the same name, came in this morning by rail and leaves this evening on the E. W. Cole on a trip up the river.

IN the report of the organization of the fire department of the broom factory yesterday afternoon, the name of the Vice-President, Capt. E. C. Carroll, was accidentally omitted.

THE scholars of the public schools are now looking up their books and beginning to think of the end of their long holiday. Next Monday they will have to commence a new season of study.

COL. P. C. MORSHEAD, Commissioner General of the World's Cotton Centennial Exposition, is in the city, and paid the Post a very pleasant visit this morning.

DR. R. WINSLOW came down on the Richardson this morning on a business trip and leaves this evening for home on the steamer E. W. Cole.

THE brick work on the east side of Levee street, from Clay to Crawford, will be completed to-day. The street is graveled and is in excellent condition, and in keeping with all the work done by the L., N. O. & T. R. R.

W. T. MONTGOMERY, County Treasurer, who has been traveling through the North, returned home this morning.

MR. W. H. EDRINGTON and family returned to the city this morning by the 9:45 train from Raymond, where they have been spending the Summer. Mr. Edrington will make Vicksburg his future home.

THE Carroll, on her trip in last night, had the following passengers: Mrs. Dennis, C. H. Cole, Mr. Jones and Mr. Morris from Yazoo City; Judge P. P. Baley, J. J. Rose from Satartia; C. O. Willis from Annadale.

THE fine quilt for which Mr. I. Sokoloski has been securing chances during the last few days, will be raffled for to-night at Mr. M. Sokoloski's store. Parties having chances are requested to be present.

MR. HENRY MARX, Secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Seed Association, who went up on the Richardson Saturday, returned by the same boat this morning and leaves for New Orleans by rail to-night.

THE Board of Trustees of the Presbyterian church met at Capt. Chamberlins' office last night and decided to have the inside of the church thoroughly repaired and repainted, and a committee appointed to raise the necessary funds. It was also decided to sell the parsonage, if a fair valuation can be obtained for it.

CAPT. JOHN J. FAY served fifty-two notices on property-owners this morning and yesterday, notifying them to repair the sidewalks fronting their premises. Marshal Groome is now engaged in making repairs to sidewalks where the owners have refused to comply with the order of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen to do such work.

THE remains of the late Samuel Nelson were brought to the city this morning by the 9:45 train and interred in the city cemetery, followed by a large number of mournings relatives. The Knights of Pythias, of which the deceased was a member, escorted his remains to their last resting place.

A WHITE boy about 16 years of age named Willie Mitchell, came down from Anthony's Ferry last night and surrendered himself to Squire Mackey, saying he had cut a negro boy in the side with a knife. He claims that the negro had struck him and cursed him before he used his knife, and says he thinks he negro is badly cut. Mitchell was employed as a water-carrier by one of the railroad contractors at Anthony's Ferry.

MR. A. RUHMAN, one of Vicksburg's great clothing merchants, returned from New York this morning. He is looking the picture of health and happiness, and his jaunt to the North evidently agreed with him, as his improved appearance indicates. It is hardly necessary to say that Mr. Ruhman is the forerunner of a very large and fine stock of goods, and that his establishment will present greater attractions this Fall than ever before. We have beretofore neglected to note the arrival of Mr. Hanover, the popular and artistic cutter, who has been in our city several days and is already busily engaged in giving Ruhman's customers fits.

THE following is a list of departures by the Issaquena yesterday: Mr. Daniel and bride, Grand Lake; J. B. Stinges, Wilderness; W. W. Moore, Julius Fox, and wife, Hays; Buddie Baszinsky, J. C. Sale of the Steamer Sunflower.

The steamer Sunflower, which had been libeled, was sold this morning by the Deputy U. S. Marshal. The boat was bid in by Commodore S. H. Parisot for the P. Line, at $1750. Capt. George H. Smith, formerly Clerk of the boat, bid $1600 for her. The boat will be repaired and overhauled by the P. Line, and run by them again.

RIVER DISASTER.

Steamer Centennial Sunk Yesterday

130 Miles Above Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 24.—The steamer Centennial, Captain, Wm. Burke, destined from St. Louis to New Orleans, hit a log and sunk in nine feet of water yesterday afternoon about five o'clock, above Haile Point, 130 miles north of this city. The boat had a large cargo of freight, of which some 1000 bbls. of flour and other goods were in the hold and will be seriously damaged. The passengers of the sunken vessel were taken off last night by the Ste. Genevieve, and arrived in this city at 10:30 this forenoon. The Centennial was drawing 6½ feet of water at the time of the accident and she also had a barge in tow. The obstruction hit was a log lying close to the shore, directly in the channel, and it tore a hole in the bottom of the boat thirty feet long. The steamer DeSoto hit the same log yesterday as she passed down, but escaped further injury than breaking a hog chain. The Centennial lies rafted straight, with about nine feet of water at the stern and seven feet forward, and she still rests on the log which caused her ro fill. It is expected that the wrecking steamer, T. F. Eckbert, now in port, will go to the assistance of the sunken boat this forenoon.

The freight stored on the Centennial's main deck, it is thought, will escape damage, as the water did not cover those decks at any point except in the engine room.

The Minstrels.

Of all performances given in Vicksburg, a good Minstrel Company is probably the most popular and always draws the biggest houses. Mirth, merit and music are appreciated by our people, and as good minstrel companies very often contain more genuine artistic skill than any other traveling combinations the secret of their popularity and success can readily be understood. Thousands of hearts will bound with delight at the announcement that Barlow, Wilson & Co.s Minstrels are coming. They are already established favorites, and this season have many new attractions and specialties. Everybody will have a chance to see them, as they remain two night's and give a Saturday matinee.

The Company are able to remain Saturday night only by securing a special train on the V. & M. Railroad to take them to Jackson after that night's performance. This they have succeeding in doing through the liberal and accommodating spirit of Mr. I. Hardy, although of course the minstrels will incur considerable expense by their enterprise.

Reserved seats will be on sale at J. F. Baum & Co's bookstore to-morrow morning, and those that want choice seats had better go early, though for that matter every seat in the house is considered choice when Barlow, Wilson & Co. come along.

The Yazoo River Survey.

The work of surveying the proposed route of bringing the Yazoo river through Chickasaw bayou and McNutt lake, will commence Thursday morning. A list for subscription, by those who desire to contribute, will be opened at the Vicksburg Bank to-day. If more money is subscribed than is necessary for the work, it will be divided pro rata, and balance returned to subscribers. Mr. McLaws, who has the work in charge, is confident of the feasibility of the plan. It will well repay Vicksburg to see what there is in this proposition.

A Wife Out of Town.

Of all the insidious
Temptations invidious,
Contrived by the devil for pulling men down,
That's none more delusive,
Seductive, abusive,
Than the snare to a man with his wife out of town.

He feels such a delightfulness,
Stay-out-all-night-fulness,
Shall-I-get-tight-fulness,
I own it with pain!
A bachelor rakishness,
Next day's headache-blue-ness,
None can explain!

His wife may be beautiful,
Tender and dutiful,
'Tis not that her absence would cause him delight;
But the cursed opportunity,
Baleful immunity,
Scatters his scruples as day scatters night.

He feels whisky-and water-ful,
Rapine and slaughter-ful,
Nothing he-ought-to-ful
To his toes' ends;
So bachelor-ally-some,
Quite corps-du-ballet-some,
Make-stories-tally-some,
With wicked friends.

A Man in Rapides Parish Murders His Brother-in-law in the Presence of His Wife.

[Special to the Picayune.]

ALEXANDRIA, LA., Sept. 22.—Gilbert Dubos had a preliminary examination to-day before Judge Blackman. He was charged with killing his brother-in-law, Richard McGee, on the 20th of last August. This deed was done at McGee's home, near Boyish Station, in this parish, which is on the Texas and Pacific Railroad. The weapon used was a shotgun. McGee was killed almost instantly, the buckshot penetrating both his chest and head.

At the examination to-day the chief witness against the accused was his sister, Mrs. McGee, wife of the murdered man. She swore positively that she saw her brother talking to her husband on the morning of the killing. Her husband had gone out to yoke up his oxen. When she heard them talking she got up and went to the door and saw a gun in her brother's hand. She saw him raise it up and heard her husband say "shoot and be damned." She also swore that she saw him shoot her husband down, emptying both barrels into his body and then ran away.

From the evidence the feud between the parties was about some money matters, McGee owing Dubos some money.

Judge Blackman remanded the accused to jail there to await trial on the charge of murder.

NEARER TO THE POLE.

A Thorough Exploration of Greenland to be Made by the Famous Explorer.

LONDON, Sept. 23—Advices from Prof. Nordenskjold's expedition to Greenland are received via Shurso, Scotland. They say the expedition started from Amtzisk Sepember 4, and reached a distance of 360 kilometers inland, attaining a height of 7,000 feet above the sea. This is the first time human beings have penetrated so far into Greenland. The whole region is an icy desert, proving that there is no open water inland. Very valuable scientific data were obtained. Along the northwest coast a cold stream flows, which induces a very low temperature, but on the eastern shore the weather is not so severe, and that coast is accessible to steamers in autumn. The expedition will return via Reikjavik.

When the party was 140 kilometers east of the glacier border, soft snow prevented them from proceeding on sledges. Laplanders were therefore sent on with snow-shoes. The rest of the expedition visited the northwest coast between Waigetted and Cape York. They were informed by Esquimaux that two members of an American Polar Expedition had died, and the rest returned to Littleton Island. August 16 the expedition sailed south from Egedesminde, making a short stay at Ivighit, Julianeshaub and Frederikshal, and tried to go eastward three times through the sound south of Cape Farewell, and once along the coast, but the ice prevented. They went outside the ice-field, remaining continually in sight of land. Having twice vainly tried to find the shore from the ice more to the southward, a band of drift ice was forced south of Cape Dan, and September 9 they anchored in Ford Newa, where remains of the Norman period were found. This was the first time since the fifteenth century that a vessel has succeeded in anchoring on the east coast of Greenland south of the polar circle. After having tried vainly to anchor in another ford more to the north, they returned and arrived at Reikiavik September 9.

Sledges and dogs have been procured from the coast of Iceland, fur clothing and provisions were supplied in abundance, and the explorer is sanguine that, with the aid of a party of Esquimaux that he had secured, the country can be explored for hundreds of miles inland with gratifying results.

Remember that JOHN BARRY, on the National Cemetery Road, at the iron bridge, keeps ice-cold and fresh Beer. 18

Stamps Enough to Go Around.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The published statement that the contractors are unable to fill the large requisitions recently made by the Post-office Department for two-cent postage stamps is denied at the department. All orders so far made have been promptly filled, and as the contractors have an ample stock of stamps on hand, prepared months ago, no apprehension is felt at the department about filling future requisitions as soon as made.

The County Convention.

Now, all around, the deaf'ning sound
Of voices in contention,
Both loud and clear assail the ear,
At every State convention.

With hat in hand the chairman bland
Turns red with cries of "Order!"
While at his side, swelled up with pride,
Reclines the fresh recorder.

He reads the call, and through the hall
Prevails the old-time motion;
Then, after prayer, the movers swear
To act with true devotion.

Committees here, committees there,
Of all kinds are appointed,
Until it seems as wild he screams,
The chairman's doubled-jointed.

With air elate each delegate
Increases the confusion,
When, with a squeak, he tries to speak—
A victim to delusion.

Then when at last the ballot's cast,
And some one's nominated,
With maudlin yell, which naught can quell,
The scene grows animated.

Is all this row and big pow-wow
A simple scheme to mock us,
A plot to rob—a put-up job—
All cut and dried in caucus?

A Great Steam Fire Engine.

In regard to a recent trial between two Ahrens steamers and a number of the finest and heaviest steamers of the New York fire department, the Ahrens Manufacturing Co. writes the following to a gentleman in this city:

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20, 1883.

Dear Sir—We consider the New York trial a victory for us and all our engines, as four of them were accepted and paid for. If you have the copy of the trial you will find that two of their engines were nearly 40 per cent. larger in capacity than ours, and still we were compelled to work through the same size nozzle that they did, and a larger nozzle than than they ever use when they couple two engines on to one Siamese, and considering the amount of steam carried we did far better than they did. Yours truly,

AHRENS M'F'G CO.

CINCINNATI has swallowed up the Louisville Exposition. Drummers stand at the doors of the Louisville show and give free passes to Cincinnati. The inducement never fails.

It is estimated that within the last three years over 130,000,000 cans of tomatoes have been consumed in this country. The statistics indicate the prosperity of canning factories and the growth in popularity of the once unfamiliar "love-apple."

GALVESTON merchants hope to solve the problem of deep water for that port by forming a company with $5,000,000 capital to build wharves out through Galveston Bay to deep water in the Gulf of Mexico. They will endeavor to induce the State, which has a surplus of $3,000,000 in the treasury, to lend the money on bonds bearing 6 per cent. interest and to run thirty years.

Mary Anderson and Her Mother.

Miss Mary Anderson is a sensible as well as a gifted and a presevering young woman. She is a splendid specimen of womanhood, whose head has not been turned by success and flattery. So much the better as an assurance of her future career. She has been before the public long enough to satisfy the most exacting critics that her position has been fairly won, and that her triumphs are not ephemeral. Aside from her superior advantages in physique and mind, and her passion for the drama in its highest conception and aims, she has been attended by another inestemible blessing seldom enjoyed by young actresses in their first contact with the stage world. she has been accompanied in all her travels by her mother, a pure Christian woman, of fine sense and traits of character that would fit her to shine in any circle of refinement and culture. Mary has always honored and been guided by her mother, and that blessing promised in Holy Writ seems to follow her. Such a girl will never make a serious mistake in the selection of companions or in her general conduct. Mary Anderson is a noble example as a confiding and obedient daughter for the girls of America, whether they happen to be known to the world or only in their immediate neighborhood and circle. Although earnest and sensible in everything, she enjoys life like a child and deprives herself of no rational pleasure She declined an introduction to the Prince of Wales, so it is reported, not from any prudery or whim; but on account of his name as a fast man who had little respect for the intrinsic qualities of character that should protect every woman. It is very doubtful, however, whether she made any such formal and suggestive reply as reported, or probably declined without making any speech. At discreet, sensible mother perhaps had something to do with it, for in private life they are said to be companions and friends, as mother and daughter should be.—Memphis Ledger.

COMMON-SCHOOL EDUCATORS

Action of the Inter-State Convention in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 23.—The Inter-State Educational Convention adjourned after a session of three days, twenty-four States being represented by appointments by their Governors. In view of the necessity of education to the perpetuity of free institutions, and of the inability of some States and Territories to sustain efficient common-school systems without assistance it was

Resolved, That this Convention cordially approves the principle of giving Federal aid to be distributed among the several States and Territories upon the basis of illiteracy.

Resolved, That a commission be appointed whose duty it shall be to memorialize Congress upon this subject, and to assist in any manner which their judgement may approve in securing the legislation necessary.

The following proviso was adopted: That such aid shall be made under State laws and by State authority exclusively, but with proper guarantee for its faithful application.

DUBLIN, Sept. 22.—Thirty-six townships in County Clare, eight in County Limerick, and two in County Mayo have been proclaimed. Extra bodies of police have been sent to these districts.

It is rumored that the Irish Government intends to prohibit some of the proposed meetings of the Parnellites throughout the country, and in pursuance of this policy a meeting announced to be held to-morrow at Millown Malbay, County Clare, has been prohibited.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Arrangements are being made by the Irish National League for a series of mass meeting in America, which will be addressed by many prominent Nationalists, including John Redmond, who is now in Australia. Redmond will return from Australia by way of San Francisco, which he is expected to reach in November.

DUBLIN, Sept. 22.—Many townships in the counties of Clare and Limerick have been officially pronounced as being in a disturbed state, requiring additional police force.

THE Monroe county split does not amount to much. After the nomination of the Democratic ticket a number of dissenters assembled at Athens, declared that the nominations were secured by fraudulent means and proceeded to put out a second ticket. Mr. J. W. Howard, the gentleman endorsed for Sheriff, and H. S. Gilleyen, for Chancery Clerk, had declined to allow their names to be used. Ticket No. 2 will be dissolved by election day.—State Ledger.

WE are indebted to our kind friend F. M. Swan, for a handsome cabinet photograph of the little twin sisters, Delia and Maggie Bridges, who created such a furore in our city some days since. The little ones are taken in their "Mascot" costumes, and the picture is true to life. We understand that there is quite a demand for these pictures by those who witnessed the performances of these sweet little ones, but Mr. Swan thinks he will be able to meet it.—Natchez Democrat.

NOW THAT we have had rain, every one who has the ground should sow a quantity of turnips. Let the main crop be of the Swede or rutabaga variety, as they are a good article of food for both man and beast.—North Lousiania Journal.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 24, 1883

THE Chairman of the Virginia Democratic State Committee promises that his party will "make the best fight it can."

THE Mississippi department at the Louisville Exposition was full when the editors were there.—State Ledger.

Very likely the editors were, too.

THE recent census of Indiana shows that there are 449,833 voters in the State —an increase of 49,607 since the last census of voters was taken.

COL. J. B. DEASON, Postmaster of Brookhaven, is an Independent candidate for District-Attorney against Frank McLain in Judge Chrisman's District.

HON. J. P. PERKINS, of Tunica, has been nominated for the Senate, and Mr. Ferguson, of the same county, one of the strongest levee men in the last House, has been renominated.

THE Governor of New Hampshire decided not to sign the Southern Pacific Railroad Company and Steamboat Company bill, which passed both branches of the Legislature.

THE New York Financial Chronicle estimates the consumption of cotton by Southern mills for the year ending September 1 at 331,000 bales, having more than doubled in four years.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York World figures up a majority of 11,600 for Judge Hoadly in Ohio. When it comes to give the certificates of election the canvassers don't go by correspondents' figures.

THE proposal to exhume Shakspeare's remains from the tomb at Stratford-on-Avon has been pretty thoroughly discussed in this country and abroad. The Town Council and townsmen of Stratford-on-Avon have now taken a determined stand against the project, and the Mayor and Corporation say that the scheme will never be carried out.

THE exhibits in the Mississippi department of the Louisville Exposition is shockingly poor, and a disgrace to the State. The exhibit consists of a cotton stalk, a bunch of millet, a tobacco stalk two or three pieces of wood, a rocking chair, a table, and a file of State papers. The display has done more injury to the State than anything that could have been suggested.—State Ledger.

After wading through a batch of our Mississippi exchanges we are inclined to think the Ledger is probably correct.

AN OUTRAGE.—Sometime since Geo. B. Mitchell subscribed to Miss Eva Britton's paper, of Atlanta, Ga. Failing to receive the paper in due time, he had the little girl arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. He has had her drug around by the merciless officers of New Orleans, worrying and humiliating her greatly.—Jackson Ledger.

Of course it was an outrage, and the "drugger" and "druggee" should be drugged and jugged. It is a very heartless thing for officers to "drug" people around.

THE Aberdeen Examiner is not much of a Judge Field paper after all, although it said "Mississippi would gladly welcome him to the White House." The Examiner now says some of its contemporaries have attached too much weight to this expression, and that it "has in its mind's eye several prominent gentlemen that it would prefer to Judge Field, among whom are McDonald, of Indiana and Bayard, of Delaware." The Examiner's Field aberration, we are glad to say, was of very short duration.

THE opening of the Mississipi State Fair at Jackson next month will be the most important event of the year in our neighbor state. There will be a big excursion from Chicago during fair week, the Illinois Central Railway furnishing round trip tickets at low rates from western points to Mississippi. The same excursion will visit the Jackson Fair in Tennessee and our northwestern compatriots will have a chance to see for themselves where they can dig more money to the acre out of the soil than in any other part of the known world.—Memphis Avalanche.

Not Recognized.

The State Board of Election Commissioners did not recognize the People's-Independent-Greenback party in appointing the commissioners of election for this county. Two Democrats and one Republican were appointed. That's about right, as the P. I. G. party is really no party. It is one thing one year and something else the next. Now for how's.—State Ledger.

ENGLISH army officers in India feel very sore over the appointment of the Duke of Connaught to the command of a division of the army. Surely, it is said, there are men whose services and whose seniority better entitle them to this £4000 per anum.

THE friends of Judge Field will again bring him forward for the Presidency. Several papers have spoken out for him and the boom is about to commence. Judge Field would make a grand and great President. He has many friends in Mississippi who would hail his nomination with delight.—State Ledger.

The Ledger seems to be forsaking its first and long-time love, Sammy Tilden. The Ledger exercised better judgment and discrimination in preference for Tilden than it does in its pressing the claims of its new favorite. If Judge Field has "many friends" in Mississippi, we have never heard of them. There is probably not as many as one thousand people in the State who ever heard of him.

The Gift of Tears.

The legend says, in Paradise
God gave the world to Man. Ah me!
The woman lifted up her eyes:
"Woman, I have but tears for thee,"
But tears? and she began to shed
Thereat the tears that comforted.

(No other beautiful woman breathed,
No rival among men had he;
The seraph's sword of fire was sheathed,
The golden fruit hung on the tree,
Her lord was lord of all the earth,
Wherein no child had walled its birth.)

"Tears in a bride?" "Yea, therefore tears,"
"In Eden?" "Yea, and tears therefore."
Ah, bride in Eden, there were fears
In that first blush your young cheeks wore,
Lest that first kiss had been too sweet,
Lest Eden withered from your feet.

Mother of woman! Did you see
How brief your beauty, and how brief,
Therefore, the love of it must be
In that first garden, that first grief?
Did these first drops of sorrow fall
To move God's pity for us all?

—[Mrs. S. M. B. Piatt in the Atlantic.

The Murderers of General Tucker.

The trial of Smith Shaw and Dick Shaw, charged with the assassination of General Tucker, has been changed on petition of the defendants, to Pontotoc county, and will come up we suppose in February next. This plea for a change of venue is, as we understand, that the defendants cannot secure a fair trial here, but from what we know of the facts in the case, we are constrained to believe that a fair trial is about the last thing they desire. A study of the criminal law for ten years, and a careful reading of the daily newspapers of the country for as long a time, have failed to disclose to us a stronger case of circumstantial testimony, and if all the witnesses adduced at the former trials can be compelled to attend the Court at Pontotoc, a jury of that vicinage will never, in our judgment, return a verdict of acquittal, notwithstanding the legal astuteness and learning of the prisoners' Counsel. Matt Simmons, the foul instrument of Smith Shaw's malice and the accomplice of Dick Shaw, after a trial of nine days, was convicted by the most intelligent jury we ever saw in a murder trial, and that too, without deliberating thirty minutes, and is now under sentence of death for his heinous crime.—[Chickasaw Messenger.

The Grandiose Herald.

The proudest boast of the Vicksburg Herald, is that it has ten times the circulation in North Louisiana of this paper. This is no indication of any inherent weakness in this journal, but simply goes to prove that it must be a perverted public taste that can prefer the silly meanderings of a distempered half-breed sheet to the wise utterances emanating from a thorough-bred, dyed-in-the-wool Democratic organ.

Come again, pretty Major, do; we admire to see you.—North Louisiana Journal.

Light Weight Cotton.

As a general thing we get a five hundred pound bale of cotton in this region from about 1,550 or 16,000 pounds of seed cotton; this year it is said to be taking from 1,650 to 1,700 lbs. We have the satisfaction of knowing, however, that the seed this season are worth about twenty-one cents a bushel against twelve and a half cents last year.

A ST. LOUIS reporter asserts that the meat of diseased cattle and crippled hogs constitute a large share of that city's food supply. It was ascertained from butchers that cattle that die of injuries received in shipment or, in warm weather, be dressed within two hours after death, and the blood so worked out of the meat that only an expert can detect it. The reporter found evidence that lame, bruised and mangled cattle in their feverish state are dressed and sold to retail venders, who could not know even the condition of the animal when killed.

THE oldest house in Campbell county, Va., is an old wood and brick house on what is known as "Lawyers Road." It is a queer specimen of architecture, the fireplace in the big room extending quite across the end of the building. It is a story and a half high and from present appearances is likely to last another century. It was the regular stopping place for Patrick Henry and other eminent lawyers while attending court at Lynchburgh, which was then the county seat of the old Lunenburg county. It was there that Henry delivered his famous Johnny Hook-beef speech.

THE Board of Education in Philadelphia had an animated discussion over the salaries of Superintendent's assistants. Some members moved that women should receive the same pay as men for the same work. The motion was opposed on the ground that "women are inferior, physically and intellectually." It was decided that as services of women could be obtained for less, they should be obtained for less. Accordingly, men were voted $2,500 a year and women $1,800. The discussion noted a tendency of the day; but what branch of labor will be opened first for men and women of equal worth to share alike?

THE wire fence war will engage an extra session of the Texas Legislature. Some of the pastures are fenced without a break for forty miles or more, and the only choice left to travelers is either to drive two day's journey out of their way or cut the fences.

AT Mineral Park, Arizona, the coyotes are so tame that they come into town and play with the dogs.

Republican Resolutions.

The following resolutions were adopted by the Republican County Convention last Saturday after THE POST had gone to press:

Whereas, the people of Warren County are to-day in the midst of profound peace and prosperity with every business interest taxed to its utmost capacity and every industry thriving, with new enterprises springing up on every hand, and others in contemplation or erection, with large sums of actual capital daily seeking investments in our county borders, and its vast resources rapidly developing through the agency of railway construction, and believing that much of this is due to the subornation of county contests for office to these business and industrial interests, and partly to an honest and competent administration in County and City affairs by public officials; and being unwilling to disturb the causes which have produced these highly beneficial results, therefore be it

Resolved, 1. That in future as in the past we will adhere with unswerving fidelity to the principles of the Republican party as platformed by the last National and State Republican Conventions.

2. Resolved, That we make no nominations for county officers, and declare the present race for office in this county to be open and free for all.

3. That we cordially invite the earnest co-operation of all good citizens in the selection of county officials who come squarely up to the Jeffersonian standard, and this without reference to the candidates political affiliation or predilection, and to this we, the Republicans of the county, afe given free liberty to support and vote for whomsoever they may see fit.

4. That in the Hon. R. F. Beck, our present able and efficient Circuit Judge, people have an honest and trustworthy official whose high standing as an officer and citizen was amply attested by the action of the Democratic Convention in this city on the 15th inst. We also commend him for his cool, courageous and gentlemanly bearing in his much deplored yet unavoidable controversy with the Judge of this District. We further congratulate him and the Republican party, whose chief county representative he is, upon his complete and triumphant vindication by a grand jury composed of twenty three of our best citizens, and representing in the aggregate at least one-half the entire wealth of this city and county. It is also a well-known fact that at least three-fourths of them are prominent and prominent Democrats and that several of their number were of this Circuit Judge's own selection and publicly known to be personally and politically unfriendly to the Sheriff, and put there by the Sheriff at the request of the Court for the sole purpose of investigating the Sheriff's office.

5. We concede the right, but deny the present necessity for general legislative supervision of railroads, but we condemn unjust discrimination by railroads between competing points and the granting special rates to one and denying them to others in the same line of business.

Combination by corporation for the purpose of pooling their respective interests are in violation of one of the leading principles of political economy. The law of supply and demand should be the sole principle by which prices and wages should be regulated. Such combinations being detrimental to the interests of the people should receive legislative attention.

We favor a State tax for levee purposes.

The following amendment was adopted to the above resolutions:

Resolved, That this Convention endorse the past record of J. M. Gibson, J. W. Bourne, J. R. Coats, W. T. Montgomery, W. F. Fitzgerald, Geo. T. Hardy, C. J. Marshall, W. R. Spears and W. W. Edwards.

Railroad News.

A depot has been opened at Bentonia, on the Y. and M. V. R. R.

There is a rumor on the street that the I. C. R. R. Company has bought the "Little" Railroad.

The Y. & M. V. R. R. crossed the Big Black bridge on Wednesday. The bridge is 4,400 feet long and substantially built.

The V. & M. R. R. have opened a night telegraph office at this point. Mr. Jones, late with the Western Union Telegraph Company at Memphis, is the operator.

Mr. C. M. Sheafe, Superintendent of the I. C. R. R. has been in the city several days looking over the yard of his company with a view of making the necessary changes in their tracks to accommodate the business which will be largely increased by the Y. & M. V. branch.

Col. J. C. Clarke, President of the I. C. R. R., accompanied by Mr. E. T. Jeffrey, General Superintendent, arrived Tuesday evening and left Wednesday morning on their special car over the Y. & M. V. R. R. Col. Clarke has put an extra force of two hundred and fifty laborers, under Mr. Scott Evans, Supervisor, on the line to place it in readiness for regular trains which we learn will be put on about the first of October to run as far as Bentonia. Col. Clarke will put the line to Yazoo City with all possible dispatch, and we are assured that the schedule trains will be run to that point by December first.—Jackson Ledger.

THE English papers speak in highly complementary terms of Minister Lowell's address at the unveiling of the bust of Fielding. The Saturday Review says: "One reads this speech with a kind of shame in thinking that there is not probably a single English man of letters who could have delivered so good a discourse; not one scholar, poet or novelist who could stand up and speak so well, even on such a subject as Henry Fielding. Several there are, no doubt, who could have written as well; indeed, it is a most promising and fertile theme; but to write is England and to speak American. It is the great merit in Mr. Lowell's panegyric that it never sinks to commonplace." The St. James Gazette, Daily News, Standard and other papers speak in very cordial terms of the effort.

AT Conway, in Wales, there is a monument erected in the church to the memory of a dead worthy, Alderman Hoopes. His epitaph consists of the following sentence: "He was the father of twenty-seven children, and was the forty-first child of his father."

Aberdeen Items.

The Aberdeen Guards deserve to win the prize at the Fair, for they are doing some hard and steady work in drilling.

The cotton that is coming in now is of beautiful sample, thanks to the elegant weather we have had thus far during the picking season.

The receipts of machinery of every class and description by this county in the last twelve months is unprecedented in her history, and yet the cry is "still it comes" by every train.

The White City Free School opened its first week with an attendance of 173. We have not heard what the number was at the colored City School, but understood that the opening was very favorable.—Examiner, 21st.

It is quite evident that the motive of the New York Times in reducing its price was not a generous impulse to allow the readers to share in the paper's prosperity. No doubt there were very important business considerations behind the somewhat startling reduction. And of all the explanations yet offered the one which will be generally accepted is that the Tribune has been gradually gaining ground in the field occupied by the Times. It is more than probable that the latter journal's advocacy of free trade has seriously affected its circulation, and what the Times has lost on this account the Tribune, a strong protection paper, would naturally gain. The free trade idea is decidedly unpopular among the intelligent masses who are newspaper readers. In the manufacturing East, especially, the heresy has never been less in favor with well informed people than now. As a newspaper the Times is a credit to American journalism, and if it had not gone wrong on the tariff it might have gained instead of lost in circulation, and perhaps would have been spared the necessity of making a possibly perilous venture.—Cin. Times-Star.

THE total number of French officers in active service is at present nearly 14,000, including 400 Generals. No province is more numerously represented than Alsace-Lorraine, no less than 2,000 officers being natives of that now German province, including 26 Generals of divisions and 59 of brigades, the best known among whom are Schneegans, Sumpt, Schramm and Wolff. Besides these there are about 100 naval officers from Alsace-Lorraine in the French Service, including Admirals Conrad Krantz and Pigeard.

Yazoo City—The swift and reliable packet E. C. Carroll, Jr., T. Potter master, Charles Wallace clerk, will leave as above at 5 p.m.

NOTES.

Towboat R. S. Hays, with six barges passed down Saturday night.

Arkansas City is the next Anchor packet, and will leave here to-morrow evening at 11 o'clock for St. Louis.

The Mabel Comeaux, the first boat Cincinnati for several weeks, passed down for New Orleans Saturday night.

The steamer E. W. Cole will leave at 5 p.m. to-morrow evening for all Bends as high as Greenville, with J. F. Ellison master, and M. D. Baldwin clerk.

Has a very good passenger list and a full freight for points above.

Sallie Carney backed out on time this morning for Anthony's Ferry and will return in time to leave for Davis Bend on her regular semi-weekly trip at 5 p.m. this evening.

Capt. Ed. Richardson, with Capt. J. Darnell in command, and Curt Holmes as clerk, will pass down for New Orleans with full loadings at 5 o'clock this evening.

The fine packet Annie P. Silver came up early this morning from New Orleans, and will here all day having her boilers scaled. The work was done in a satisfactory manner by P. J. Foley. She left this afternoon en route for St. Louis.

The elegant Natchez with the veteran Captain Capt. P. T. Leathers on the hurricane deck, and P. V. G. Jones, Jr., Astriken in the office, arrived at the Kleinston landing this morning. She leaves to-morrow evening at 5 o'clock for New Orleans and Bends.

The swift and elegant Anchor Line packet Arkansas City will leave here tomorrow evening at 11 o'clock for Greenville, Yazoo City, Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis; Capt. H. W. Brolaski master, Chas. J. Quesnel clerk. Carroll B. Mount is her passenger agent.

The Carroll is due in this evening from Belzoni, and will leave to-morrow at 5 p.m. for Yazoo City, with Capt. Tom Smith in command and Chas. Wallace in the office. Like all the boats in the P. Line, the Carroll is prompt and reliable. Shippers should have their freight down at the landing on time.

The steamer Headlight arriving from Sunflower river last night had 132 bales of cotton, 20 for reshipment, and for town: 70 for Willis Moore & Co., 24 for W. H. Andrews & Co., 4 for G. L. Monroe, 3 for McCutchen & Co., 2 for S. Schwartz, 3 for W. H. Smith, 3 for Dr. Hunt and 3 for Formouski. She had 174 sacks of seed cotton. The Headlight will leave on her return trip for Sunflower river Wednesday evening.

Capt. Jackson, of the steamer Alex. Chambers, is having a boat built at Evansville, Ind., to be used in towing barges in the cotton seed business. The new craft will be 135 feet long, with 4 feet 7 inch stroke. The boat will be named the Henry Marx, in honor of the Secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Seed Association.

The steamer Issaquena, the Belle of the Bends, leaving for Greenville at five o'clock, will put you through safely. Her officers cannot be excelled for urbanity and politeness. So if you are going up the river be sure and take this dandy boat this evening. She will take up fifty hands for the Government works at Wilson's Point.

CLIPPINGS.

The fleecy staple has seemingly begun to move forward to market. The John W. Cannon cleared from Natchez last Saturday with over 1400 bales of cotton; and the Ed. Richardson (in place of the White,) cleared from the same point last Tuesday with 2,400 bales of cotton and 800 sacks of seed. On her trip last week the Natchez landed at New Orleans with 846 bales and 330 sacks.

General Dumont has received a letter from a prominent firm in Wheeling, West Virginia, containing an encouraging view of boat building prospects on the Ohio river. It says: "This Ohio valley has been somewhat slow to attract capital for the lack of good rail facilities, but I think we will have quite a boom soon. Several railroads are now in course of construction and their early completion will build up the inaccessible places and increase the river traffic largely. It is a mistaken idea so many persons hold that the building of railroads along the shores of these rivers interferes with the water tonnage. In every case the annual receipts of the boats have increased. Frequently the rates are reduced but a larger volume of freight is carried with no greater running expense."

Cairo Argus: The Ohio river here has been crowing over toward the Mississipi for centuries past. Within the memory of some now living here the Missouri shore was just below what is now Cairo, and the main channel of the river ran where the Mobile and Ohio railroad track now is. The rock on which the White Rose sunk is beyond the track of the Mississippi Central from here, and the rock that sunk the old Grand Tower is now out in the sand bar on the Kentucky shore. Bacon rock, which is on the same line with White Rose and Grand Tower rocks, will soon be in the Kentucky sand bar, and the river is still crowding over this way. The Big Muddy, next to the mouth of the Mobile incline its progress is hindered by the riprap of stone that has been put in. The incline extends a long way down, and is being made so as to hold the river in check, but below there it has its own way.

St. Louis, Sept. 22.—About two o'clock this morning the handsome steamer Gem City, which had been in winter quarters two weeks, was burned to the waters' edge. The boat laid at the foot of Dorcas street, and the flames were seen some time before the alarm was turned in. The fire spread too quickly for the Department to be of any service, and in less than three-quarters of an hour from the time the fire started the boat was destroyed. Only the hull, which is iron, and the machinery remains. The Gem City was built two years ago, and plied between St. Louis and St. Paul. She was the largest boat on the upper river, and belonged to the St. Louis and St. Paul Packet Company, Commodore Davidson President. The loss is estimated at $30,000. Two of the company's barges were also burned insured for almost full value.

Carp Culture on the Prairie.

Mr. J. M. Gillespie, has a pond or pool about an eighth of an acre in extent, into which he put two carp minnows about a year ago, they were hardly longer than a man's finger. Last week he determined to clean the pool out for Winter, and had the satisfaction of transferring two hundred and forty young carp about seven inches long, while the old pair weighed over four pounds each. This pool had a muddy bottom, but was entirely free from cat-gish, perch or any other ambitious spawn eaters.

Mr. Gillespie is preparing a pond of about two acres, for he says that if the increase in the next twelve months equals that of the last, his present pool will be a solid mass of fish.

We think we can safely say to every owner of a carp pond who complains of increase, that a little investigation will disclose the presence of cat-fish or other devourers of spawn.—Aberdeen Examiner.

THE nomination of Judge Dixon by the New Jersey Republican Convention for Governor is said to be an excellent one. The Republicans make a straight issue against the aggressive policy of the railroad interests, which use the portion of the State of New York to the detriment of the tax-payers. The Democratic candidate, Mr. Abbett, has been the Attorney of those interests, which have escaped taxation and ignored local government.—Boston Journal.

To Bridge Contractors.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF Warren County, Mississippi, will let out contracts for repairing Yellow Bayou bridge, West of United States Cemetery; the building of a bridge over Big Bayou, 4 miles from Vicksburg, on Baldwin Ferry road; and the building of a Bridge over Big Cave, near D. Harris' on Benton road. Plans, etc., of work can be seen at Clerk's Office, or on application to the members of those districts. The work will be let out at public outcry on the ground, to the lowest bidder, as cash prices, to be paid out of special levy; the Willow Bayou bridge, by Will McGee, Esq., member of Second District, on Tuesday, 25th of September, 1883; the Baldwin Ferry road, 4 mile bridge, by H. M. Goff, Esq., of Fourth District, on Friday, 28th of September, 1883; and the Benton road bridge, near Dick Harris,' by H. R. Jones, Esq., of Fifth District, on Saturday, 29th of September, 1883. Each of these gentlemen will explain their works and will require bond and security to be given the Board for the faithful performance of each contract.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 24 monthly installments. No better opportunity to build a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1-tf

LOCAL NOTES TO THE POINT.

ITEMS.

THE weather at present is perfectly delightful.

WE regret to learn of the serious illness of Mr. Eugene Platt.

JUDGE WYLEY, of Lake Providence, arrived by rail this morning from a trip to the East.

AMONG the passengers booked for the Issaquena this evening is Mr. J. J. Daniels and bride, Gen. McMillan and Judge Wylie.

MISS ELLA QUINN, who has been spending the Summer up North, arrived home yesterday evening.

MR. JAMES CUMMINGS is the happy father of a bouncing baby boy that arrived at his home yesterday morning.

MR. P. B. MOORE, of the Port Gibson News, which has been recently enlarged, is in the city to-day on business connected with his enterprising paper.

THE German Club will met at 7 o'clock this evening instead of at 5 o'clock as heretofore announced.

BUSINESS men will find it to their interest have their job printing done at the POST job printing office, corner Washington and Crawford streets.

MESSRS. HEMAN DENIO, Wm. French and R. R. Harrison have been appointed Election Commissioners for Warren county, and received their commissions as such.

CAPT. W. C. O'HARA will ship fifty white laborers to Wilson's Point this evening on the steamer Issaquena. Most of them are from Chicago.

CAPT. LORD, accompanied by Mr. Dodson, the engineer, and several other employees on the dredge, left for Mobile by Saturday night's train.

MR. JOSEPH LOEWENBERG, the efficient runner for the Vicksburg Bank, departed by last night's train for Louisville and Cincinnati to see the sights of the great Expositions in those cities.

WHILE Mr. Gregory was at church yesterday some scoundrel entered his Nursery and carried away a brass handpump, with about three feet of hose attached to it. The thief will probably offer it for sale, and we trust that he may thus be detected. Mr. Gregory is willing to pay $5 for the capture of the thief.

I. OSTROFFSKY, Esq., the B. C. at Fitler's Landing, Miss., arrived on the Issaquena, and will remain in this city a few days. As our city is benefitted many thousand dollars during the year by his regular visits, we like to see him come early and often.

THE following passengers arrived on the train from Port Gibson this morning: Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. James A. Gage, Mrs. Annie Jackson, Mrs. Bassinsky, Miss Etie Londer, and Messrs Frank Bonelli, H. Bodenheim, P. B. Moore, D. G. Humphreys, D. Humphreys and Capt. W. W. Moore.

MISS ETTIE LOUDER, of this city, who has been on a visit to relatives in Port Gibson, arrived home this morning.

MR. FRANK BONELLI is in the city to-day from Port Gibson, where he is now engaged in business. He leaves on this evening's train.

MR. W. D. GRAHAM, the coal merchant, notifies our citizens through to-day's POST that he will be here shortly with a big lot of Pittsburg coal.

MR. CHARLES REED, of Reed & Conners, bridge contractors on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., arrived last night from Rolling Fork, and reports work along the line progressing rapidly.

THE new passenger coaches for use on L., N. O. & T. R. R. between this city and Port Gibson, were shipped from Schenectady, N. Y., to-day. They will arrive shortly, and be put on the road immediately upon their arrival here.

THE Board of Trade and Cotton Exchange will hold a joint meeting at the Cotton Exchange this evening to make arrangements for the reception of delegates to the Inter-State Levee Convention, which meets in this city on the 1st of October.

THE F. M. C. T. A. & B. Society, resolved to celebrate its Natal Day (1st of October,) by a low mass quarter to 8 a.m., and a lecture by Father Picherit on Catholic Societies at 8 p.m. followed by Benediction. The Societies and public are invited. All free. They also elected a delegate to Cincinnati, Mr. M. F. Battle, and received two new members.

JUDGE J. T. STROTHER, who was raised in this city, and who has been practicing law in Monroe, La., for several years, has located in Vicksburg for the practice of his profession. Mr. Strother has been District-Attorney and Parish Judge of Ouachita parish, which shows the esteem in which the people of that section hold him as a citizen and lawyer. We wish for him success in our midst.

THE large, handsome house of T. J. Brennan & Bro. have just received a heavy shipment of cooking and heating stoves, which they say must be sold immediately. If any one wishes anything in this line they should call on these gentlemen, as they are determined to sell them, even at a sacrifice. Besides the stoves, they have everything in the line of cooking utensils and house-keeping goods.

GEN. JOHN[illegible] WALSH, one of Mississippi's Commissioners to the Boston Exposition, like the modest man he is, slipped in yesterday from his trip to the Hub. The General did not notify his friends of his intended return for fear they would turn out to give him a grand ovation. He looks well, and speaks in high praise of the great Exposition in Boston.

MR. SAMUEL NELSON, a prominent citizen of Issaquena county, who died at Cooper's Well this morning, will be buried in our city cemetery to-morrow morning on the arrival of the 9:45 train. Mr. Nelson was a member of Issaquena Lodge No. 32, K. of P., and his funeral will be taken charge of by R. E. Lee Lodge No. 1 of this city, the members of which are called to assemble at their hall at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

MR. A. STOUT, the gentlemanly Ladies man and Manager in the mercantile house of Phil. Gilbert at Rolling Fork, corner Broadway and Main streets, is in the city arranging details for the Fall campaign. Rumor says that Ambrose is growing in popularity as well as in inches at his new home. Although Shaksspeare says "there's nothing in a name," Mr. Stout is one of the strong and solid merchants of the commercial emporium of their county. He will return in a few days.

JUDGE ARTHUR, President of the Board of Supervisors, has called a meeting of the Board for Monday, Oct. 1st, to consider the petitions of the Cotton Exchange, Board of Trade, and City Council relative to making a gravel road to the lower landing. As the city pays such a large percentage of the county tax, we cannot see why the Board of Supervisors should not build this road. It is an absolute necessity to our mercantile interests, and should be built at once.

THE following passengers arrived by the steamer E. W. Cole yesterday evening at 6 o'clock: J. J. Patton, Capt. G. W. Faison, Miss Annie Johnson, John J. Edmunds, Greenville; I. Levy, J. E. Hauff and son, Skipwith; C. H. West, A. J. Phillips, Mayersville; Judge Delaney and son, Miss Delaney, Jas. Hays, S. G. Marshall, Lake Providence; Mack Stockler, Longwood, and fifty-eight deck passengers. Ninety-three cabin passengers were registered on the round trip. The Cole also had 1,830 sacks cotton seed, 4 bales cotton, and 82 packages of sundries.

THE following passengers arrived by the steamer Issaquena Saturday night: R. A. Flanagan, J. B. Ried, Greenville; Jas. Odell, Chas. Wagner, Skipwiths; Mr. Prigge, R. H. McHil, Wilderness; W. B. Powell, Shipland; J. Ostroffski, Tallulah; C. Smith, N. E. Scales, Goodrich's; Dr. Pettway, Chotard; B. G. Ginger and wife, Miss I. Luckett, Miss L. Luckett, Brunswick; Maj. Carlisle, L. Roe, Omega; J. R. Locke, Peeles; S. E. Blum, Milliken's Bend. The Issaquena also had 1,200 sacks seed for Powers' Oil Mill, 2 bales cotton for Phil. Gilbert, 28 for Willis, Moore & Co., 4 for S. C. Ragan & Co., and 42 for New Orleans.

Attention Knight of Pythias.

The officers and members of R. E. Lodge K. of P., are hereby instructed to assemble at Castle Hall to-morrow (Tuesday) morning at 9 o'clock to attend the funeral of BRO. SAMUEL NELSON of Issaquena Lodge No. 32.

The officer and members of Washington Lodge No. 4 and all visiting Knights are invited to attend.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The Inflammatory Speech of W. J. Jordan—A Few Words of Advice to Colored Men.

The proceedings of the Republican Convention Saturday were in the main orderly, and were a great improvement on past conventions of this party in this county. But some of the speeches savored too much of the old time Radical speech-making. Noticeably among these was the speech of W. J. Jordan, delegate from the Second Ward, a negro school teacher, who delivered a regular "negro line" argument," addressed to the race prejudices of the majority of the delegates. Jordan is the same man who raised such a row in the Second Ward meeting, and who caused, more than any other member, the turbulent times which disgraced that meeting, while the other Wards conducted their proceedings in an orderly manner.

Now, we cannot believe that the sentiments of Jordan are entertained by the better element of the people of his race in this county. They know, or should know, that such inflammatory speeches are not calculated to produce a continuation of the era of "profound peace and prosperity" so loudly professed in the resolutions adopted by the Convention. They have had a trial of such leaders as this man Jordan, and know what the results were. The same results will follow if such a course as mapped out in Jordan's speech is again attempted. The colored people of Warren county had better hasten slowly in accepting the leadership of such fire-brands as this man, for no good can come of it. Jordan boasted of being a school teacher, but he makes his attempt to inflame the passions of the negroes more reprehensible, as he should know better. Does he not know that the whites pay almost the entire taxes that support the negro schools, and that they will not care to have a man with such ideas and notions instructing the young negroes?

We have ridden over Mr. McLaws' Chickasaw bayou route, and think his plans are entirely practicable, and can be cheaply accomplished.

The Broom Factory.

A meeting of the stockholders of the proposed broom factory was held at the Cotton Exchange at noon to-day, and Mr. J. F. Baum was elected chairman, and Mr. Murray F. Smith, Secretary.

On motion of Gen. Butts a committee on organization was appointed, consisting of Messrs E. S. Butts, W. H. Stowers, G. W. Hutcheson, Geo. M. Klein, Murray F. Smith. The Committee reported that the following gentlemen should compose the first directory, and draft or adopt a charter: J. F. Baum, President; Lee Richardson, W. H Stowers, A. Warner, George W. Howard.

On motion, it was resolved that the meeting adjourn until next Thursday week at 12 o'clock, when they will meet at the Cotton Exchange to hear the report of the committee. The committee will meet at the office of Murray F. Smith next Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

"DOX'T go West," writes a correspondent from Villard's party. "How long have you been out here?" was asked of a pretty young wife with a child in her arms. "Six months." "How do you like it?" "Pretty well, but not as well as New England." "Don't you come out West until you have to," interposed her sister. They both enjoyed excellent health and liked the climate, but few New Englanders or Pennsylvanians have any ambition to go out West and grow up with the country.

Bringing the Yazoo River to Vicksburg.

VICKSBURG, Sept. 23, 1883.

Editor Vicksburg Evening Post:

It was not my wish to be brought before the public in connection with the Yazoo river project until I had made a survey and was able to submit facts and figures on the subject that would be indisputable. After your article of Saturday evening, however, I think it due to myself as well as to the project to make a more complete statement of my plans and ideas.

The country through which the Chickasaw bayou route lies is all of an alluvial formation, and easily disintegrated and transported by the action of a current. From the character of the undertaking such a current is available, and any plan that would not take advantage of this force with which nature has supplied us, would be, to say the least, very expensive and bad engineering.

My plan is to cut a channel from in front of the Elevator into the Mississippi river at Kleinston; thrown a dam mattrass and rock work across the West Pass if necessary; make a clearing of sufficient width, and excavate a channel between the upper end of Lake Centennial and the lower end of McNutt lake; make such clearing and excavation of channel along McNutt lake and Chickasaw bayou as may be necessary; then throw a submerged dam of mattrass and rock work across Yazoo river below the head of Chickasaw bayou.

Of course I am not prepared to state the magnitude of this work without having at my disposal the results of an accurate instrumental survey; but I am prepared to say, from my inspection of the route, that the project is practicable, and that the cost will exceed very little, if any, the amount already expended on the harbor of Vicksburg.

I have taken the precaution to ride over the route with Mr. John Williams, Mr. J. H. Powers, and Mr. J. P. McDonald, all practically familiar with such a subject, and they have indorsed my plans and ideas in toto. I might also add that the two last named gentlemen are contractors of ability and varied experience. Their indorsement is hereunto appended.

I think that I am warranted in saying that there is a company forming which will be prepared to make a definite proposition to the next Congress for the accomplishment of this project, provided the city of Vicksburg will assume the liability for the land damages. I do not think that this should amount to more than ten thousand dollars. Will they do it?

Figuring on the New York Elections.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The proceedings of the New York Republican Convention are regarded as indicating very strongly that Mr. Arthur will have the support of the New York Republicans in his efforts to secure the Republican nomination. The Convention was very harmonious, the principal speaker being a United States Senator who now and then mysteriously disappears from the usual haunts of men. This orator dilated on the war, loyalty, etc., but the information from inside sources of both parties, and entirely reliable, is to the effect that the Democrats will carry New York this Fall by a large majority. Some Republicans concede 50,000 majority Republican County Convention.

The Convention was called to order at 12:35 by R. F. Beck, Chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Warren County, who read the call for the meeting.

As soon as the call was read, B. V. Mills, W. C. Cox, and —— Feathers jumped up and called out: "Mr. Chairman."

The Chair stated that no motions were in order until he made a statement, after which several delegates arose, and W. C. Cox was recognized, who moved that Wesley Crayton be elected temporary Chairman.

Whereas, the people of Warren County are to-day in the midst of profound peace and prosperity with every business interest taxed to its utmost capacity and every industry thriving with new enterprises springing up on every hand, and others in contemplation or erection with large sums of actual capital daily seeking investments in our county borders, and its vast resources rapidly developing through the agency of railway construction, and believing that much of this is due to the subornation of county contests for office to these business and

The Terrible Crime of a Methodist Minister in Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—On the top floor of the four-story brick building, in the rooms occupied by Mrs. Elizabeth Kemlo, short before 1 o'clock this afternoon, a horrible case of murder and suicide occurred. It appears that Mr. James Kemlo, a Methodist minister, residing in Newark, N. J., and his wife Frances, paid a visit to his mother-in-law, at the above number. Mrs. Kemlo was just preparing dinner, and left her son-in-law and daughter in the house while she went to the grocery. While she was absent a quarrel must have arisen, and the husband seized a huge butcher-knife which was lying on the table, with a ten inch blade, and stabbed his wife in the neck. He then drew the knife across his own throat, and jumped out of the window.

STEPHENS' FUNERAL EXPENSES

The Georgia Legislature Refuses to Pay the Bill.

ATLANTA, Sept. 21.—The Legislature yesterday refused to foot the expenses of the funeral of the late Gov. Stephens. Relying on the devotion with which the late Governor served the State, his dying in an official position, and without immediate family, the State officers and citizens on Atlanta went to considerable expense in giving him sepulchre in keeping with the occasion. Over twenty military companies were in line in the funeral. The coffin was of the same pattern as that in which Garfield was buried. The bill for the payment of these expenses has been hanging fire for two months, wrangling over bills of musicians and undertakers growing into public scandal. Yesterday the House sat down on the whole affair, leaving the committees and private individuals to foot the expenses.

UNITED STATES-BRAZIL.

Telegraph Communication Between the Two Countries Formally Opened.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The officers and directors of the Central and South American Telegraph Company are elated over the successful opening of their line to Brazil, the connection with the United States being via Galveston, Texas. Prestowing cablegram to the Emperor of Brazil:

"The President and Government of the United States salute the Emperor and people of Brazil through the new channel of direct communication between the two countries this day opened via Galveston and Valparaiso, and see in the multiplying links of intercourse assurances that the happy relations between them will continue and increase, to the material benefit of the people of both countries."

Congratulatory telegrams were also sent by the Chamber of Commerce of New York to the various commercial associations of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, by President James A. Seymser, of the company, to Baron De Copanema, Director-General of the Bureau of Telegraph, Rio de Janeiro; by President Arnold, of the New York Coffee Exchange to Associaca Commercial, of Rio de Janeiro. The opening of the new line gives American merchants the advantage of direct communication with Rio de Janeiro. By the old route to Lisbon, messages had to cross the Atlantic ocean twice before delivery. The line of the company and its tributaries comprise 5,610 miles of water and 567 miles of land line, and connects exclusively with 20,000 miles of wire in Mexico and Central and South America. Any of the Western Union Company's offices in the United States will accept messages for the Central and South American Company.

The Nomination of Congressman Robinson to be Governor of Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Congressman Robinson, who had just been nominated for Governor of Massachusetts, at one time fully committed to the Commission plan of improvement of the Mississippi river, but has subsequently changed his course, became a bitter and persistent enemy of the portion of the scheme which favors the building of levees. It is not likely that Mr. Robinson will resign his seat in Congress, as the railroads will want him to stay there if he beats Butler. The election contest will be one of unusual acrimony.

A YOUNG lady, evidently impressed with the idea that she knows all about it, says: "If a fellow is desperately in love with a girl, and is persistent in his efforts to win her, he is sure to gain his suit. The Domed Steamship Meteor.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—The principal event in marine circles during the past week has been the arrival of the domed steamer Meteor, which was towed from Nyack, on the Hudson, to the position she now occupies at the dock of the National Wharf Company in East Boston. In the few days that this modern invention has been opened for inspection she has been visited by a large number of mechanics, who have examined with great interest the novel points in this craft, which has caused the attention of every person concerned in marine advancement. The general impression that the vessel had a domed deck upon which it was impossible to stand in a heavy spell of weather has been done away with by the fact that the sides of the ship are domed instead of the deck, and that model presented is one that is said to justify the greatest speed ever attained by any ocean vessel. The only mistake which the owners of the steamer admit to have made is in the selection of the engines, which are not equal to the high-pressure boilers introduced. Arrangements have been made for the introduction of compound engines, and there is a prospect that the next steamer may be used for the fruit trade, which, with the speed guaranteed, would bring a better class of fruit to Boston from foreign ports at least six days earlier than ever before.

JAMES G. BLAINE.

A Friend of the Statesman Declares that he is Out of all Presidental Calculations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Ramsdell, who is known to be a special friend of Mr. Blaine, makes the statement that Mr. Blaine is positively out of all Presidental estimates, and is not and will not be a candidate. Ramsdell says: "As to the question of his own candiacy for the Presidency, he was absolutely impatient at the suggestion. He has always said that he was never so happy and contented in his life; that he had not a care in the world, and that he never wanted to enter public life again. In the face of the fact, which cannot be denied, namely, that Mr. Blaine has more friends than any public man in the country, he will not allow a delegate to be elected in his name, nor will he discuss the question of his candidacy at all. He is absolutely and truly a private citizen; yet one can scarcely pick up a paper in which the name of Blaine does not appear. The old newspaper enemies of Blaine, possibly appreciating the popularity he maintains all over the country, are fearful that he may break loose suddenly and overrun the country. They may hold their peace and let the Sage of Augusta alone. He is not a candidate for office and does not intend to be, and no power can change his determination. It would be foolish to say that Mr. Blaine does not longer take an interest in public affairs and in politics. He has not lost his faith in the Republican party and is confident of its success next year. His case of mind on this point has never for one moment been shaken. He simply thinks he is not the man, and he does not give the subject of himself a thought. Mr. Blaine, unless I am greatly wrong, believes that the next Republican candidate for President should come from the West, Ohio of course not being any longer regarded as a Western State."

An Ordinance to aid in Preserving the Health of the City of Vicksburg.

Section 1. Be it ordered by the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Vicksburg, That no steamboat or other water craft coming up the Mississippi river shall land at the city of Vicksburg without having first landed at the Inspection Station of the State Board of Health at Fort Adams and submitted to inspection according to law and the rules of said Board, and received from the proper officer at said station a certificate in the nature of a Clean Bill of Health, and without having first landed at Kleinston, below this city, or at such other point or points as may hereafter be designated by this Board and exhibited said certificate to the City Inspector at such point or points, and submitted to another complete and full examination and inspection by such City Inspector.

Sec. 2. Be it further ordained, That said City Inspector, appointed or to be appointed by the Mayor and City Physician, shall, at said Kleinston or other designated point, board each steamboat or other water craft coming up the said river to land at said point, and examine said certificate, and make a complete inspection of said steamboat or craft; and he shall immediately report to the City Marshal any steamboat or other water craft passing up by his station without having exhibited said certificate and submitted to such inspection by him. And if upon such inspection, he shall find, or have cause to believe, that there is any sickness on board, he shall detain said boat or other craft at said station, and immediately notify the Mayor and the City Physician thereof, and the same shall not proceed to Vicksburg until permission given by Mayor or City Physician.

Sec. 3. Be it further ordained, That for any violation of the first section or last clause of the second section hereof, the Pilot or Captain or other person in charge of such steamboat or other water craft shall be immediately arrested and fined by the City Court in a sum not less than One Hundred Dollars and not exceeding Five Hundred Dollars, and that, for any neglect of the duties imposed by the Second Section hereof, the said City Inspector shall be fined by said Court in a sum not less than Twenty-five Dollars and not exceeding One Hundred Dollars.

Sec. 4. Be it further ordained, That the provisions of this ordinance shall apply to all railroad trains coming into this city whenever this Board shall so direct by an order entered on its minutes.

Sec. 5. Be it further ordained, That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

Ordained this 19th day of July, 1883.

H. J. TROWBRIDGE.
City Clerk.

Approved, this 20th day of July, 1883.

T. G. BIRCHETT,
Mayor

VICKSBURG, Miss., July 20, 1883.

The Station is located at Kleinston, about two miles below the city, where all water craft from points south of Fort Adams, intending to land within the corporate limits of the city of Vicksburg, are required to land, have their papers inspected and approved by the officer in charge of Station, before they will be permitted to land at this city. The station will be designated by a yellow flag in the day, and a red light at night.

It is hoped that steamboats will comply with this order and ordinance to avoid delays.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 22, 1883

The Louisville Courier-Journal heads an editorial article: "The late Mr. Hendricks."

YALOBUSHA county has so many candidates and political parties that it will not be easy for the average citizens to vote straight.—Avalanche.

SOME of the Republican newspapers are taking great comfort from the fact that these is dissension and discord among the Democracy in Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Louisiana.

A WESTERN paper says that "ex-Representative Murch of Maine is about to leave politics and engage in the saloon business in this city." If he locates in Ohio he will be more intimately connected with politics than ever before.

THE New York Sun devotes one page of its valuable space to the record of Representative Holman of Indiana as a candidate for president. The object of this is quite evident. The Sun is Mr. Tilden's organ and its object in booming Holman is to defeat Mr. McDonald in the interests of Mr. Tilden. There is method in the apparent nonsense of the Sun.—Boston Journal.

THE cry of "go West young man," is about ended. An Albuquerque correspondent of a Deleware paper says: "Let me tell the young man of the East that the cry of 'Young man, go West!' is played out, unless he wants to take a pick and shovel and work for two dollars per day and live on almost nothing. The West is now well stocked with men of all trades and professions strivingto get their daily bread."

SOME of the "tariff for revenue only" "down with Sam Randall" newspapers, print pieces to show that wages are high and the cost of living low in free-trade England. Somehow or other the laborers and mechanics that leave European [illegible] to England, but all come to America where they have to pay high prices for everything. And a goodly number of the English mechanics come over to America too, notwithstanding the blissful state of affairs in their own country. We believe the immigrants know what they are doing.

THE following, in regard to a Mississippi invention, is going the rounds. If the gun could occasionly be turned loose on the Mississippi Press Association, it would, no doubt, come up to the expectations of its inventor in "filling a want long felt:" Mr. F. M. Shields, of Coopwood, Miss., is the inventor of a big gun just patented, which he calls the "Mississippi Sweepstakes," and describes as follows: The gun shoots 4000 balls at the explosion of one cap. It will wound and kill 800 out of a regiment of 1000 men at a distance of 100 yards. It has 40 barrels combined into one, and each barrel shoots one degree and twelve minutes on a horizontal plain from the others. Shooting a distance of twelve yards, it will cover a space of 100 yards, filling a want long felt."

THE State Fair is certainly deserving of encouragement, and the people of every county in the Commonwealth should do something to make it successful. The Philadelphia Times thus speaks of the benefit of county Fairs, and we think it may well be applied to State Fairs: "The county Fair has done more to diffuse good stock among the farmers; to introduce new implements; to improve the products of the dairy; to beautify the homes; to make deeper plowing, more intelligent use of fertilizers, and better crops with less labor than any other method of education among our industries; and it has also made the wives and daughters of industry more skillful and more proud of their vocation."

Cotton Premium.

$100 in special premiums for cotton is offered by the Capital State Bank of this city, for our next fair, as follows: For the best three bales cotton, long staple, raised by one person, $40; best three bales short staple, raised by one person, $30; best one bale long staple, $20; best one bale, short staple, $10. Entries to be made by parties raising the cotton. No one bale allowed to contend for two of these premiums.—Clarion.

O'Donnell Disgusted.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—It is stated that O'Donnell has expressed his disgust at the fact that there have been no steps taken in Ireland to procure funds for his defense. He is reported as saying bitterly: "It is just like those Dublin Irishmen." He said also, that if necessary, £30,000 could be collected within a week to save the life of a man who had committed the most popular murder since [illegible]

Hold Your Cotton.

We do not think we could do our cotton planters a better service than by printing the following circular issued by C. P. Hunt & Co., of Memphis, a firm that is considered excellent authority on crop matters. This firm have exceptionable facilities for obtaining information, and have their own men out examining the crops, therefore what they say concerning the decreased yield of cotton as compared with last year, and the figures and estimates they give may be considered very nearly correct:

"MEMPHIS, TENN., Sept. 20, 1883.

"The commercial season of 1883-1884 scarcely promises the same prosperous results to Southern planters and merchants as did its predecessor. In the first place, the price of our principal staple is very low, and the crop almost unprecedentedly short. Our Mr. Kirkman, an experienced statistician, who has been with us for years, and travels exclusively for information as to the condition of the cotton crop, has just completed a tour of the cotton States, including all principal points, and extending from Wilmington to San Antonio. He reports that this crop cannot possibly exceed 5,600,000 bales. Below we give an estimate by States, and as compared with 1882-1883. This estimate is based on Mr. Kirkman's exhaustive personal research, supplemented by constant telegrams and letters from the most reliable authorities in every section of the cotton States:

	CROP 1882-1883.	ESTIMATED CROP 1883-1884.
Alabama	825,000 less 20 per c..	660,000
Georgia	875,000 less 20 per c..	700,000
S. Carolina..	600,000 less 20 per c..	480,000
N. Carolina..	425,000 less 15 per c..	357,250
Mississippi..	1,000,000 less 17½ p c..	825,000
Louisiana....	550,000 less 20 per c..	440,000
Texas	1,175,000 less 20 per c..	1,032,500
Arkansas....	750,000 less 15 per c..	637,500
Florida.....	60,000 less 20 per c..	48,000
Tennessee ...	330,000 about same	330,000
All others...	60,000 less 20 per c..	48,000
	6,950,000	5,558,250

"We know that this is earlier than any estimate of the crop is usually made, but owing to the extreme drouth and consequent early maturity, we do not think that either an early or a late frost would produce any material change in the result. When we reflect that the weight of bales this season are 3 per cent. less than last, and the spinning capacity of the cotton itself fully 2 per cent. less, it will practically reduce this crop, as compared with last, to 5,250,000.

"To our friends and patrons we say, hold your cotton. Do not be influenced by bad Manchester reports. They always are bad and gotton up in the interest of the harpies who prey upon the misfortunes of the Southern people. Prices will almost surely be higher. Trade in this country is good. Money, provisions cheap, and there are no serious or financial troubles anywhere.

"Trusting that the timely observations may be of some value to you, we remain,

"Yours truly,
C. P. HUNT & CO."

A Plan for Having Good Roads.

If our people would quit talking so much about railroad supervision, and talk more about the supervision of our dirt roads, they would find it more profitable. We are in favor of railroad supervision to a certain extent, but we are not in favor of such supervisions as will stop capitalists from building them. But we are decidedly in favor of some change in our dirt road laws that will give us better roads at less cost. If our present law was rigidly enforced it might answer the purpose, but it is not enforced, and therefore our roads are generally in a wretched condition. If our overseers would do their duty, and compel road hands to do theirs, the roads might be kept in good condition, but they don't do it, and when brought before the Courts for neglect, the juries in nine cases out of ten, let them off. Our plan is to lay off the roads in sections of five or ten miles, and then on a certain day of the year let out the working of these sections to the lowest bidder, to men who could give good security for the faithful performance of his duty. One man might bid off five, ten or fifteen sections, then purchase the necessary tools, hire the necessary hands, and then superintend the work. He should ride over his road every few days, and whenever he finds a place getting bad have it repaired at once. The present law compels all men subject to road duty to work ten days during the year. Now, is there a man in the country who would not rather pay a road tax of say two dollars per year, and would not that two dollars per head keep our roads in much better condition than they are now. We believe a tax of one dollar would do it. This plan works well in many of the Northern States, and we believe it would work well here.

Railroad Supervision might save the farmer a few cents on each bale of cotton from Brandon to New Orleans, but a good dirt road from here to Polkville, Dobsonville, Floyd's Bridge, Westville, Fannin, Goshen, and other points, would save them five hundred per cent more. Let our candidates for the Legislature discuss the dirt road question more, and the railroad supervision question less; the legislature pass a law against extortion and discriminations, and all other common carriers, with severe penalties for violating the law, and then let the Courts settle the matter. We are not in favor of the appointment of commissioners to travel round, wine and dine with railroad officials, have a good time generally, and draw eight or ten dollars each per day out of the State Treasury. We want more railroads and better dirt roads.—Brandon Republican.

THE Brookhaven Leader very naturally reported as dead a young man whose head was caught between two cars which he was coupling at Bogue Chitto. It is now able, thanks to a hard head, to state that this young gentleman is recovering.

To the Friends of the Natchez Protestant Orphan Asylum.

Our first and last appeal to the public at large, issued May 1, 1881, met with such a generous response at the hands of the public that it has enabled us to support the orphans from that day to this. In the interim we have received handsome donations from the Grand Lodge of Masons of Mississippi, the Lodge of Natchez, as well as other organizations. Now, however, our funds are very low, and therefore we feel constrained to appeal to the generous sentiments of the friends of the orphans. While we feel that the season is not far enough advanced to make money more plentiful than it is, yet we cannot overlook the fact that our inmates must suffer if prompt returns are not made to this our appeal.

We would therefore request you to take action at as early a day as possible, and through your Churches, Sunday Schools, Societies and Lodges, collect such money as you may be able to get, and remit same to Mrs. John Fleming, Treasurer Natchez Protestant Orphan Asylum, Natchez, Miss.

The Late Judge Furman.

The Savannah News says of him: "The death of Mr. Farish Furman causes sorrow throughout the State. He was a useful man. Nothing more eulogistic need be said of any man. He tried to make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, and he succeeded. His aim in life was to make the farmers understand how to make their farms valuable and profitable. His efforts in that direction were productive of results of which he had good reason to be proud. There are hundreds of farmers in Georgia who are prosperous to-day because they followed his advice. His plan was to feed the land with that which the crops took from it, and to give it each year more than it lost. Under this treatment farms increased in productiveness, and, consequently, in value. A fewer, which was not at first regarded as dangerous, rapidly grew more serious until it robbed the strong man of his life. His disposition was kindly, and he made friends rapidly. He left the law to devote himself to agriculture, and his achievements in farming will cause him to be long remembered in Georgia."

The Corn Crop.

The New York Chronicle, commenting on the reports of the Agricultural Department showing the condition and acreage of the corn crop, says:

We have not the space here to enlarge upon the significance of these figures. If however, they are a correct indication of acreage and production in past years and acreage and condition this year, they certainly hold out the promise on the 1st of September of a larger crop in the States named than was raised there even in 1880. And this inference accords with the general reports at that time prevalent, the common belief being that, notwithstanding the loss from drouth in the Southern States, the country has perfected the largest corn crop on record. As to the harm by frost since then, the latest advices show that the early reports were gross exaggerations. The greatest damage was in Michigan and Wisconsin where, as we have seen, the acreage is very small. In Northern Illinois and Indiana harm was also done, but the section affected rises only a small portion of the crop of those States; on the average probably not over 20 per cent. of the production of that section was injured. Mr. Dodge, of the Agricultural Department, is reported to have said that the total loss of the corn crop of the United States from this cause does not exceed 5 per cent. Altogether, then, the fair inference seems to be that the public can still believe the country has raised a very abundant corn crop.

As to Mr. Justice Field, we think his bid for a nomination to the Presidency will be occupying a seat on the Supreme Bench, by no means the proper thing. He may be a "gentleman," but his sense of propriety is decidedly dull.

Moreover, we don't want for President the only member of the Supreme Court who always decided in favor of the clique of rapacious speculators and monopolists, of which his big brother, Cyrus, is a chief leader, with Gould, Sage, Jim Keene & Co. Field alone dissented from the decision which declared the Thurman railroad bill constitutional, and which decision prevented the people from being robbed of $2,000,000.

If to be a "gentleman" is to lean toward the longest purse, then Field is a thorough specimen; but we shall prefer almost any plain man to a professional railroad wrecker, or a tool of millionaires.—Chattanooga Times.

Jefferson County Fair.

Every endeavor is being made to make the ensuing fair one of the grandest exhibitions in the history of the Association. To the regular programme has been added two extra races with handsome purses, a glass ball match, and fireworks on every day. The management propose to spare no pains or expense in this exhibition. Enterprising, liberal gentlemen have it in charge, and they are going ahead with vim and untiring energy to advance its interests. We can promise to the citizens of our own and adjoining counties a splendid entertainment in October, and ask everybody to pay us a visit, feeling confident that they will be more than satisfied with what they see.—Fayette Chronicle.

A WORK that cannot fail to attract wide attention will soon be published by Messrs Lee and Shepard. It is entitled "What shall we do with our Daughters?—Superfluous Women and Other Lectures," and the author is Mrs. Mary A. CLIPPINGS.

N. Orleans Picayune: The chamhippers of Cotton Centre passed yesterday from Plaquemine with ads of rough rice—the largest cargo of the kind ever carried on a steamboat. Two seasons ago the Whisper brought down 6620 sacks of rice, which was the blue-ribbon trip up to that time. The Whisper is one of the best boats of the Red River and Coast Line, and her officers are among the most popular on the river. * * * Capt. Jas. F. Muse, a well-known steamboatman, formerly clerk of the Natchez, is now chief clerk of the St. John. Mr. John Heno has charge of the freight department of the St. John.

Seasonable Rhymes.

The year is wearing old,
The weather's growing cold,
And soon will hasten southward geese in flocks, flocks, flocks;
And people weather-wise
Now gaze upon the skies,
And speak of the autumnal equinox, nox, nox.

And now the parlor stove,
Dumb witness of true love
Exchanged and rattled by kisses sweet, sweet, sweet,
Is to its place restored,
Once more in sweet accord,
Before it youthful lovers soon will meet, meet, meet.

The winter's coal lay in,
And fill up every bin
Before the rise in prices has begun, 'gun 'gun;
For when the weather's cold,
The dealer groweth bold,
And adds a couple of dollars to the ton, ton, ton.

Again the season's come
When married men go home,
And try to play the old familiar dodge, dodge, dodge,
By saying, "Yes, my dear,
I'll very late, I fear.
But then we've had a meeting of the lodge, lodge, lodge."

HELL AND TEXAS.

How Gen. Sheridan Came to Express His Preference of the Two, and How he was "Called" by a Texas Editor.

On the Presidential trip back from the Yellowstone country Gen. Sheridan was asked the origin of the saying attributed to him: "If I owned hell and Texas I'd rent Texas out and live in hell." "It's true," he said, laughing heartily; "and I'll tell you how I came to say it. I was in Texas when civil war was raging between the Mexicans under Juraez and the French under Maximilian. I went down on the Rio Grande with an understanding with the American authorities to scout the French. I was there engaged in strategetic movements to frighten the French, for some days. Then we rode to Galveston. Arriving there, hot, dusty and dirty, after a long day's ride, having had no change of clothes for a week, I was disgusted with everything in the world. I stepped up to the hotel register, wrote my name, and just then a man spoke to me and said: 'General, how do you like Texas?' and in the testiness of disgust I gave him an answer that you have quoted. Next morning it was in a Galveston paper—the shortest interview you ever read. The man I had talked so frankly to was a newspaper reporter."

"But there was one fellow," continued Sheridan, "who got even with me for it. He was the editor of a hardly little country paper in a border county. He copied the saying:

"'If I owned hell and Texas I would rent Texas out and live in hell.—Phil. Sheridan.'

"And added the comment: 'Well, damn a man anyhow who won't stick up for his own country!' He did not neglect to send me a copy of his paper."

Gen. Grant's Horse Talk.

"I once asked Gen. Grant," said Gen. Sherman at a dinner given him in San Francisco the other day, "why he always started to talk horse when any one tried to engage him in a political conversation, and he replied: 'Well, I don't care about talking politics, and I have got to say talking politics, so I choose horse for a hobby, something that I can talk about and that I stick to that. It does as well as anything for the occasion. I advise you to get a hobby, too.' It comes handy." I have ever since deliberated," continued Gen. Sherman, "what to choose for a hobby, that I might have something to talk about. But I haven't found it yet. I am a soldier and I have tried to be a lawyer, but neither profession has furnished me with the desired hobby."

THE people of the Mississippi Delta have the poorest mail facilities of any people on the globe except those in the jungles of Africa. The Government is slighting us. A better system must be had.—Mayersville Spectator.

IT is of no use to kick John Kelly out of a party so long as he has the sly ability to kick himself in again and hurt somebody in the kicking.—Picayune.

LOCAL ITEMS.

COMMODORE PARISOT arrived home this morning.

MR. JOHN MCGINTY, a railroad contractor, arrived this morning from New Orleans.

MAJ. HELM, Engineer of the Levee Board of Mississippi, arrived by the steamer Key West this morning.

MR. JOHN CLACK, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Vallie Clack, who has been on a visit to the Misses Harrison, departed this morning for Greenville.

MRS. W. C. WILLIAMS, of Yazoo City came in this morning on the mail train, and leaves for home on the Carroll this evening.

The work contracted for by O'Hara & Thompson, on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., has been commenced by these gentlemen. This places the whole line between here and Memphis under construction.

W. H. WOODRUFF'S bookstore has been connected with the Telephone Exchange, No. 155. Subscribers will please add the the name and number to their lists.

MR. W. A. GIRTON, who has been spending the Summer with relatives in Illinois, is home again, and has resumed his position with Francis Smith & Co.

MR. W. A. WESTBROOK, conductor on the street railroad, who has been confined to his home for a few days by sickness, is out again, and resumed his position this morning.

THE alarm of fire about 6:30 last evening was caused by some dry cedar when they were in power.

bunches in Smith's Hall, on Cherry street, near Clay, catching fire from one of the lamps. The flames were extinguished before the fire engines reached the scene.

AMONG the arrivals by the train from Port Gibson this morning were Dr. Wm. Myles, F. F. Myles, Miss Mallie Myles, Mrs. J. W. Person and two daughters, from Port Gibson; Mr. B. H. Morehead, from Morehead Station.

THE locomotive R. E. Lee, formerly of the Port Gibson and Grand Gulf Railroad, was loaded on a barge at Kleinston yesterday and shipped up to Anthony's Ferry, where it will be put on the road across Yazoo river, and used to run a construction train.

A FLOATER was found yesterday afternoon just below Kleinston. There was nothing but the trunk of the body, the head and legs being gone. It is supposed to be the body of George Washington, who was drowned some time since off the ice barge.

ATTENTION is directed to the new and seasonable goods offered at Mrs. R. Bloom's bargain store. First-class goods, low prices, and polite attention, are the characteristics of this house and Mrs. Bloom has established a genuine claim to the appellation of the "genuine bargain store."

SERVICES will be held as usual at Christ church every Sunday morning, during the rector's absence at the general convention of the Episcopal church, at 11 o'clock, but the evening and week-day services will be omitted until his return. The Sunday school hour is changed from 8:30 to 9 o'clock, commencing with tomorrow morning.

Cotton Seed Men in Town.

Mr. Henry Marx, Secretary of the New Orleans Cotton Seed Association, arrived in this city this morning. There is also in town to-day Capt. Jas. Jackson, of the steamer Chambers, Capt. B. B. Hotchkiss, P. R. Fowler, and a few other cotton seed men. Our reporter met Mr. Marx and asked him what was in the wind that so many cotton seed men should gather here at one time, and what effect the Memphis mills paying a higher price for seed than that set in New Orleans recently, would have.

Mr. Marx said he was not here to purchase seed, and his Association did not care to buy at all. He further said they would only purchase seed at $8 on the river bank and $11 delivered at New Orleans, as there was no money in paying higher prices for seed. He denied that the oil mills had formed a pool to force prices down, or that he had anything to do with more than one mill. He said he was here to see the agents of New Orleans Cotton Seed Crushers Association. Also, that there was nothing more in his trip. He and the other gentlemen mentioned left on the Ed. Richardson for Greenville.

The Railroad Injunction Suit.

The injunction suit against the Memphis & Vicksburg road about which so much has been telegraphed and published throughout the country, is that the parties edjoying the raod do so to enforce certain agreements made between them and R. T. Wilson & Co., of New York. The road would have been consolidated with the Vicksburg & Ship Island on the 15th, but for a change of programmee ordered by Wilson & Co., from New York. The parties enjoining seem to object to the name of the road and claim that it was to have been known as the New Orleans and Northeastern road. The bonds cannot be issued until the road consolidates, and the parties to the suit object to the name under which it is proposed to consolidate and claims that the railroad company was to have issued bonds as it completed its track, which has not been done.

Messrs Martin and Pittman, representing the parties enjoining the road, are now in New York, and it is supposed that the matter may be settled and the injunction withdrawn. The injunction has not effected the work on the road at all, as the telegrams would lead one to infer.

As to the last records, they were known to be lost a year ago, and was claimed to have been destroyed by the Republicans when they were in power.

Mississippi's Wonder and Pride.

There was a very fair audience out last night to witness the performance of the little prodigies. All present were highly delighted with the entertainment. These little ones are excellent in all characters or roles, but their greatest success last night was when they sang "Dem Golden Slippers." Their personation of the various sentiments contained in the songs is perfect, and it is rare that you will find in the juvenile wonders of the stage such a clear perception of character as these little ones have. While they won the loudest applause in "Dem Golden Slippers," their singing and acting in the "Gobble Song," from Mascotte, was the most artistic and finished portion of the evening's entertainment. They are perfect in this piece. The Twins certainly deserve crowded houses wherever they may go, and all who see them will be delighted with their performances.

As we go to press the matinee at Magnolia Hall is in progress, and a well-filled house is present, whose applause reaches us, showing that the big and little ones are enjoying themselves.

The Post Job Printing Office.

It affords us pleasure to announce that we have added to our establishment one of the best Job Printing Offices in the South.

The Post Job Printing Company has purchased what was known as the "Commercial Job Office," and will continue the business at the old stand, corner Crawford and Washington streets.

Mr. J. C. Pannell, one of the most competent, skillful and tasty printers in the country, will be in charge of the office; and we are sure he can give satisfaction to the most critical and exacting.

Mr. A. J. Conklin, who has been identified with the printing business in Vicksburg for the last twenty years, will solicit orders, give estimates and information, and generally endeavor to advance the interests of the establishment and to please customers.

THE POST will receive orders for job work, and guarantee prompt and faithful performance of work and as low prices as can be obtained anywhere in this section.

Do not send orders for job printing away from Vicksburg until you get the estimates of the "Post job Printing Company. We feel satisfied our facilities will enable us to fill all requirements in the way of good work and moderate prices.

Postponed.

A telegram was received this morning from Cincinnati, by the Rev. H. A. Pichcrit, which states that the Pallium sent by the Pope has not yet reached Bishop Elder. The ceremony of bestowing the Pallium on the Bishop is therefore postponed. This will be a temporary disappointment to the Vicksburg delegation that expected to go to Cincinnati and take part in the ceremonies.

THE VICKSBURG

Evening Post,

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY) BY

J. G. CASHMAN & CO.

No. 154 Washington Street,
UP-STAIRS.

The Publishers of THE POST will endeavor to make it

A Live, Progressive and Enterprising

NEWSPAPER.

It will be truthful in its statements of news and events, and unprejudiced in its comments on current topics.

THE POST is absolutely free and untrammeled, is subject to no influence from any special interest or capital, and is therefore at liberty to advocate or oppose men and measures as its best judgment may dictate to be for the good or ill of this community and section.

THE POST will favor the enforcement of the laws for the protection of life and property, and the building up of a public sentiment averse to the taking of human life.

Our Louisiana neighbors will also receive a due share of attention. We expect to cultivate friendly relations with the people across the river, and to foster and encourage their business intercourse with Vicksburg. Louisiana news and interests will therefore be carefully considered.

THE POST will endeavor to keep its readers informed as to the general news of the day, and to present to the public a readable, reliable, and correct newspaper.

The appearance of THE POST will speak for itself, and no words are necessary as to its mechanical execution.

It depends alone for support upon the good-will and encouragement of the business interests and citizens of Vicksburg, and the people generally, and will endeavor to merit and deserve a continuance of that good-will and encouragement which has been so freely bestowed upon the enterprise at the outset.

It will be the aim of THE EVENING POST to advocate and assist in building up local enterprises, to further the growth of the city, to encourage the building of railroads and factories, the improvement of our harbor and river front, and everything that will tend to the development of this city and section and to promote the material welfare of the people. We expect to make the EVENING POST a good newspaper, and to give subscribers full value for their money.

JOB PRINTING.

Orders for Job Printing will receive prompt attention, and be executed in the finer style attainable in this section, and at prices that will compete with any establishment in the South.

A Break in the Friction Match Ring.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—The Diamond Match Company, the largest concern of the kind in the country, owning factories at Oshkosk and elsewhere, has issued price-lists making sweeping reductions in the wholesale prices of matches. The reduction is over fifty per cent. Those which had been selling at $5.10 per case will sell for $2.50 to $2.55 with discounts to large purchasers. The conclusion reached is that the great match combination is broken.

Union Veterans Welcomed on Virginia Battle Fields.

WASHINGTON Sept. 20.—A letter to the Republican gives an account of the reception tendered the United Army of Veterans from New England while are visiting their old battle fields in the Shenandoah Valley by the citizens, militia and Confederate Veteran's Association of Winchester, Va., at this place yesterday. The correspondent writes that the citizens turned out en masse to receive the Union veterans and escorted them to the Court-house, where they were welcomed by the Mayor and hand somely entertained. The courts and many private dwellings were decorated.

New Mexico Fracas.

DENVER, Sept. 20.—A Tribune's special from Las Carro, New Mexico, says: At one of the big four cattle company's ranches near here, on Monday, Joel Fowler, a large cattle dealer, met Panly Forrest and Bill Childs, with whom he had had previous trouble, and Childs commenced firing at Fowler, who returned the fire, killing Childs. Forrest ran into a house occupied by Mr. McGee. McGee went to the door and asked Forrest to come out, instead of which he fired, killing McGee. Forrest then set fire to the house rather than take chances in shooting with Fowler, and put a ball through his own heart. All three were buried in the same grave.

Poisoned Her Husband.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Emma Fischer was arrested last night charged with murdering her husband, Adam Fischer, poison. Fischer died suddenly at his home north of the city Saturday night, Sept. 8th. The family said it was heart disease. A post mortem showed a different cause. An analysis of the stomach showed the presence of strychnine. Suspicion was directed against his wife, because of quarrels between the two and alleged infatuation of his wife with Henry Kaiser, formerly an employee of Fischer's. Kaiser surrendered himself this morning, and both are held without bail till the 26th, when a preliminary examination will take place.

Republicans Figuring on the Fall Elections.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Republicans claim that they will carry Maryland and New Jersey this fall, and is said by the best informed politicians to be unfounded. In respect to Virginia, the Chairman of the Democratic State Committee says that his information is that there has been a complete revolution in the southwest, where Mahone, not long ago, controlled every county. It is here that he has his chief white support. East of the Blue Ridge he depends chiefly on negroes.

A Member of Buchanan's Cabinet Interviewed.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Joseph Holt, who has figured as a member of the Buchanan Cabinet, a hangman to Stanton, Chief of the Bureau of Military Justice, and one of those who helped to murder Mrs. Surrat, is out in an interview in this evening's Star, in which he honors the Hon. Jacob Thompson, his Cabinet associate, with his abuse and damages the memory of Judge Black with his praise.

The interview is long and malignant, but is not calculated to produce an impression except on those whose appetite for slander of the secession leaders is unappeasable. In the course of his talk Holt makes an onslaught on Gen. Owe's memory. Probably no man who ever figured prominently in public affairs has been so completely dropped and tabooed as Holt and the memory of that unenviable period will not be affected by anything he may say on the subject.

Last Night's Entertainment.

Owing to the rainy weather, there was not as large an audience out last night to see the twin prodigies, Delia and Maggie Bridges, as the little wonders deserved, but those who were present were perfectly delighted with the entertainment, and the hall re-echoed again and again with applause. Never has it been our fortune to witness juvenile performances equal to last night's. The expectations of the entire audience were far surpassed by these little beauties. All present will no doubt be on hand again to-night, and the excellence of the performance last night, and the fame of the little ones will be so spread abroad to-day that there will certainly be a crowded house to-night, as the weather is now propitious.

It is impossible to go into details of the performance, or to say in what particular the little ones excelled, for they were very near perfect in all their presentations. If there was any representation that excelled it was where they sang a selection from Mascotte. We can conscientiously recommend pleasure-seekers to see these little genuine artists to-night.

Cotton Exchange Meeting.

A meeting of the members of the Cotton Exchange was held at noon today to take some action in regard to entertaining the delegates to the Levee Convention which is to be held in this city on the first of October. President Halpin asked the members present to express themseles as to what they thought would be best for them to do in the premises. On motion, the President of the Exchange was asked to confer with the President of the Board of Trade and wake arrangements for a meeting of the two organization next Monday evening. A motion was also made and carried instructing the Secretary to write to Senator Lamar and request him to be the guest of the Cotton Exchange during the session of the Levee Convention. The meeting then adjourned.

No More Arctic Nonsense.

There was solid sense in old Simon Cameron's saying that we should not know what to do with the North Pole if we had it. The only question now to answer is how to extricate Lieutenant Greely and his men from danger. If nothing can be done to release them this Winter, their fate is virtually sealed, though every effort should be made for their safety next Spring. But the next man that proposes an expedition to the North Pole on any pretext whatever ought to be kept on ice till the fever is taken out of him and then committed to the penitentiary for life. One acre of the poorest land between the St. Croix and the Rio Grande is worth more to science and humanity than of all the Arctic zone yet undiscovered. A gang of convicts breaking stone in the public highway would render a better service to the public than any exploring expedition that can be sent out to perish in Arctic ice-floes.—N. Y. Star.

We are in receipt of a communication from Col. Calvin Wells, to whom we alluded last week as chargeable with the Hinds county lynching, in which he fully explains his connection with that affair. Meantime we ask that no one make him the subject of further criticism until he has had a hearing.—Brookhaven Leader.

The Democracy of Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20.—The Democratic State Convention met at noon yesterday. Ex-Gov. Philip Francis Thomas was chosen temporary Chairman.

Mr. Thomas addressed the Convention, counseling forbearance, wisdom and a sole regard for public interests in its deliberations.

Committees on credentials, permanent organizations and resolutions were appointed, and the Convention took a recess for half a hour.

The convention reassembling, the following ticket was nominated: Robert M. McLane, for Governor; Charles B. Roberts, for Attorney General; J. Frank Turner, for Comptroller.

Louisiana Letter.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]
BUCK RIDGE, LA., Sept. 17, 1883.

After a period of about ten weeks, during which time scarcely enongh rain fell to wet a newspaper, we were visited on Saturday last by one of the most refreshing, and at the same time one of the most needed rains that we can recollect of through the long reign of our present existence. Up to a short time previous to the rain there had been no perceptible indication of an end to the long continued drouth. The rain, though so much needed for domestic purposes, will have no good effect on the crops, as all hopes in that respect had vanished long since.

The cotton fields are looking white, while the foliage looks drooping and withered. Picking has become general, and cotton and gin-houses are being filled up fast. The machinery on nearly every plantation is in daily motion; wagons loaded with the fleecy staple are constantly on move to the river, bringing back in return bagging and ties—occasionally a barrel of pork, accompanied some times with a barrel of whisky, the latter article used in place of water during the dry spell. Our merchants are yet alive to the wants of the country, and always keep a supply of "pink-eye," "pie-root" and "scratch-em-quick," and all the inducements necessary for customers in a first class establishment, over the office doors in the rear of which might be seen a notice "Cash orders solicited and promptly filled, highest cash prices paid for cotton."

Such is life—and yet the Nation still exists. Not more than a five million bale crop can be expected, and 8 cents paid for cotton, and perhaps $20 for pork in the next six months, is something that requires deep thought and serious meditation.

The recent decline in provisions and grain is not due entirely to heavy receipts, etc., but mostly to the fact, as reports show, that the demand from the South for certain Northern products has almost entirely ceased. Why? Is it on account of high prices paid, or the difficulty of transportation; or is it that the Southern people have awakened from one of Rip Van Winkle's naps under the conclusion that they have dealt long enough away from home.

Large corn-fields, high pig-pens, vast quantities of pea-vines, with an average crop of cotton, will evidently reduce things to a proper consistency. Cotton factories springing up all through the South give credence to the fact that home production is the watchword, and home spun goods are as cheap as foreign goods. Cotton seed oil mills are home institutions, and are taking the lead in the manufacture of some of the most important articles of the age. W.

Petition for Liquor License.

To the Board of Supervisors of Warren County, Miss.:

WE THE UNDERSIGNED VOTERS and petitioners of District No. Two, do respectfully petition your body to grant Mrs. L. M. Davis, retail liquor license to sell spirituous and vinous liquors in quantities less than one quart at her place of business, situated at Atoor Plantation, Mississippi, in Vicksburg and District aforesaid. Said Mrs. L. M. Davis, being known to us as a proper person to receive such license, we ask that your body grant her license to sell the same for one year from issuance of license. We your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray, &c.:

VICKSBURG, MISS., SEPT. 21, 1883

THE Clarion says Gov. Lowry has been sick since Thursday, but is now much better.

SOME of the leading New York newspapers have reduced their prices. The Times will hereafter be sold for two cents and the Tribune for three cents.

THE Mayersville Spectator, edited and published by a Negro, says: "The Negro has enough politics already. He needs more science and less ward bummer-ism."

THE Baltimore American says that there is no such good luck in store for the Republican party as to have Gov. Butler the Democratic candidate for President next year.

THE Massachusetts Republican Convention has nominated Congressman Geo. D. Robinson for Governor, and Oliver Ames for Lieutenant-Governor. The Convention endorsed President Arthurs administration.

POETRY AND POLITICS.—The Mayersville Spectator thus blends them:
"Men of thought be up and running
The bolters are working still.
Opposing the work of the last convention,
Held at Mayersville."

A JACKSON special to the N. O. Picayune says: "Mrs. Mary R. Lester, a most estimable Christian woman and aunt of Maj. Barksdale, died yesterday at her residence near this city, and was buried from the Baptist Church this evening."

THE New Jersey Republicans have nominated Judge Jonathan Dixon for Governor. Among other things, the resolutions indorse President Arthur's administration, oppose monopolies, call for the protection of American industries and demand an equitable system of State taxation.

THE Cincinnati Commercial Gazette says that Governor Butler's courtesy to Southern visitors will not count against Judge Field's suggestion to refund the $70,000,000 cotton tax.—Ex.

Neither Gov. Butler's courtesy nor Judge Field's taffy will be likely to catch the South this time.

THERE will be an Excursion to the Mississippi State Fair given by Farmers and others looking for homes in the South from Michigan and other Western States. This will be a grand attraction to our Fair and ought to induce a large attendance by those wishing to mix with the outside world.

CAPT. T. J. HANES sends us a copy of the Providence Sunday Star, which is filled with an interesting history of Odd Fellowship, called forth by the assembling of the fifty-ninth annual session of the soverign Grand Lodge in that city. The Mississippi representatives are: Thomas J. Haines, of Vicksburg; J. L. Power and W. Q. Lowd of Jackson. Saturday the members of the Grand Lodge were treated to an excursion to the celebrated Rocky Point and a genuine Rhode Island clambake.

MRS. STONEWALL JACKSON and her laughter, Miss Julia, are the guests of Gov. B. F. Butler. Thus it is that the bitter feeling between the sections is passing away, and we are glad to see it. However, the North has always delighted to honor the family of General Jackson. Immediately after the war his widow and little daughter were the recipients of frequent evidence of highest regard for the sake of the dead hero.

The writer has not seen Mrs. Jackson or her daughter for many years, but he recollects the mother as a lovely woman, and the child as a sprightly girl of eight or ten, in attendance upon the annual commencement of Davidson College, North Carolina. Mrs. Jackson's father, the Rev. Dr. Morrison, was the first President of this old Presbyterian institution.—Clarion.

A LITERARY friend calls our attention to the French phrase "Cela s'en va ira dire," a literal translation of which is pretty nearly the phrase "it goes without saying," to which we yesterday stated our objections. This may be a very expressive French idiom, but its literal translation into English gives us a very unmeaning and expressionless phrase. Our friend whose literary taste is acknowledged, does not hesitate to agree with us that leaving off the well understood and expressive words of the English language to adopt those of a foreign tongue which are far less forcible, is a straining after originality at the expense of both good sense and good taste.—Natchez Democrat.

BOLIVAR County is the scene of one of the fiercest local struggles ever witnessed in the State. They have had two Conventions at Rosedale and the war between the factions is bitter, with no prospect of an end before the election.—Mayersville Spectator.

What is Wanted in the South.

It may not be well to "go away from home to hear the news," but it may be a good idea to take advice from a distance as we can then "see ourself as others see us." A Northern journal indulges in the following truthful and pertinent observations and tells us what is wanted in the South:

"In the event of a trial for carrying concealed weapons in a Southern State is it not probable that the counsel on either side, and possibly the Court itself, if a careful search was made, would be found to be as well "heeled" as the defendant?

"It is the practice of shooting on sight, rather than that of duelling, which is the curse of Southern society. Where there is one regularly-arranged duel in a Southern community; there are fifty street affrays between esteemed citizens each of whom is anxious to get "the drop" on some other. Promiscuous firing on the street between heated individuals of this description may almost be said to be a feature of Southern life, and natives to the manor born are apt to take in the situation, and to get out of the way as soon as possible, when a fusilade begins between two chivalric gentlemen who are out gunning for each other.

"What is wanted in the South to make human life safe and to discourage the habit of private vengeance for every real of fancied wrong, is not dead-letter statutes, whose rigid phrasing is mocked by a lax enforcement, but a change in the temper of the public mind, which shall make it demand the punishment, as murderers, of the high-toned citizens who shoot their enemies in the streets. Nowadays, when Col. Blank shoots down the Hon. Mr. So-and-so, the brief dispatch which describes the encounter states that both citizens were "highly-esteemed," and that the result of their "difficulty" has been to "cast a gloom over the community." It would be a great deal more satisfactory to learn that Col. Blank had been arrested, promptly tried and hanged with all reasonable dispatch. Until we do begin to get intelligence of that kind—until Southern juries and communities treat murder as murder, whether done by eminent respectabilies and gentlemen with military titles or by ignorant negroes, no citations of statutes will suffice to make the country believe that the South has rid itself of the habit of shooting at sight. A few hangings would be worth cords of moralizing."

The Presidential Candidacy.

One of the questions which the Louisville Courier-Journal circular, mentioned by us yesterday, propounded to "the leading Democrats throughout the Union," was, "Name the most available man for the Democratic Presidential nomination."

The question of availability being brought forward, every politician tainted with the undemocratic free trade heresies of the Courier-Journal is peremptorily excluded from consideration.

The New York Sun, in replying to the Courier-Journal, omits the name of the Courier-Journal's chronic candidate, Samuel J. Tilden, and substitutes therefor ten names of statesmen of national fame of whom two (Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, and John M. Palmer, of Illinois,) fairly earned their great political reputations in the service of the Republican party, and another (Roswell P. Flower of New York) is a wealthy railroad magnate, a co-director of Jay Gould and Sidney Dillon in the Chicago and Northwestern and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, whose political history consists in his having measured purses with another millionaire amateur in politics (W. W. Astor) and beaten him in a contest for a vacancy in the Forty-Seventh Congress. Casting out these, we have left in the Sun's list the following seven wise men:

Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware.
Abram S. Hewitt, of New York.
Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio.
Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana.
William S. Holman, of Indiana.
Joseph E. McDonald, of Indiana.
Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania.

The Sun prefers Mr. Holman. Notwithstanding the Judge's unquestionable ability, there is one thing which will make him unpalatable to the Mississippi Valley—his opposition to the improvement of the Mississippi River. The Democracy cannot win without the Mississippi Valley States, and Judge Holman must wait. Besides that, Indiana is more prolific of Democratic candidates than of Democratic victories—although if we had incomparable Tom Hendricks at the fore perhaps a different return might be made. Judge Holman is a Republican State, we suppose old Judge Thurman is out of question, though his ability is equaled by his integrity, which is more than can be said of every Ohio Democratic candidate. N. O. Picayune.

Edison's Electric Railroad.

A large party of prominent railroad men and electricians visited Menlo Park, N. J., on Tuesday to witness the operation of Edison's Electric Railroad. Mr. C. W. Rogers, Vice-President of the Electric Railway Company of the United States, took the party in charge. They were shown the preliminary engine affording the motive power, and then, taking seats in a car, made a successful trip around the track, a stretch of two miles and a half. In reply to the favorable comments of the railroad men, Mr. Rogers said he hoped to them them the system much more complete in two months —the system as the company desired to use it. The engine would then pick up the current from a third rail, laid between the others.

Randall's Example.

Ex-Speaker Randall shows that he don't believe in prominent men skulking when they are drawn upon a jury by serving as a juror himself. Our jury system would be elevated if more business men followed Mr. Randall's example.—Boston Journal.

SLAVERY IN BRAZIL

The Last of the Civilized Countries in Which Slavery Exists.

A correspondent of the London Times at Jundihy, San Paulo, writes: "Brazil is the last remaining civilized land where slavery exists, and not only this, it owns more slaves than any other civilized land ever had that freed its slaves by peaceable measures. [The serfs of Russia are not here included.] Slavery has existed in Brazil since the first colonization of South America by the Portuguese in 1531, the first slaves being the aboriginal races found peaceably living on this wonderful continent. These, however, proved to be too physically weak and indolent a race to bear the iron yoke of oppression, so for them were substituted the stronger but more unfortunate African, the Caboclo, or aboriginal, becoming thenceforth incorporated with the dominant Portuguese colonist.

From very early days a regular trade in slaves was carried on between Africa and Brazil down to the year 1830, when the Brazilian Government declared it to be piratical. That it was not thoroughly stopped for many years afterward is well known; in fact, it was still going on clandestinely in 1854, so that even to-day more than 50 years after the Governmental declaration, there are to be found here and there African born slaves. It may be easily understood why the abandonment of the trafficking in slaves was but gradual, because with a cargo so lucrative the slave dealer could afford to risk the loss of his ship and human freight and be incarcerated in a fortress for a few years, seeing that a successful trip would make him a wealthy man.

Since the year 1830 many and various endeavors have been made to do away with the system, but it was not until the 28th of September, 1871, that the first note of total abolition was sounded by the passing of the now famous law declaring all children born of slave mothers after that date to be considered free born, with the only condition that the child should serve the mother's owner as an apprentice until 21 years of age, after which he should be absolutely free.

More than 11 years have rolled away since the promulgation of the law, and still things seem very much as they were. The slaves, perhaps, are treated more humanely; the young negroes, however, running their term of apprenticeship of 21 years, in little seem to differ with their fathers and mothers, being equally instructed in nothing but rude labor; they cringe and crawl to their temporary owners just as the unfortunate outand-out slave does, who has no bright light of coming freedom to stimulate him to the end of his time of bondage, and who has no rays of sweet expectation to gild his dark life.

At the same time as the passing of the law giving freedom from birth to all children born of slave mothers, and as part of the same measure, was created an annual emancipation fund, to be formed of certain imposts for the freeing of the slave fathers and mothers of the free born child, or for giving freedom to the slaves who would never be able to purchase that blessing. Since the date of this law the following results have been obtained: First there are about 150,000 free-born children serving their apprenticeship; secondly, 13,000 slaves have been freed by the emancipation fund. This latter cannot be considered as a very satisfactory state of things as the result of 11 years, but it is in part explained by the fact that some politicians have gone so far as to apply part of the money toward the education of the young negroes serving their apprenticeship, instead of using it for giving freedom to so many slaves. Much diversity of opinion exists as to the wisdom of this application of the funds voted by the Chambers. The chief difficulty, however, seems to be that it is contrary to the express spirit and disposition of the law of 1871; therefore, it cannot but frighten thoughtful men to see a ministerial interpretation of a law at variance with its evident meaning. In other respects, if the money were properly used for educational purposes, (a thing most difficult to do) then not much objection could be raised.

Although the official emancipation of 11,000 in 11 years cannot be considered as satisfactory, that representing only about 1 per cent. of the slave population, to this number must be added the manumissions by private individuals—a noble practice which has become the fashionable way of showing any extraordinary rejoicing, at which time one or more slaves are freed. Many owners at their death leave freedom as a legacy to some of their slaves; and, lastly, many truly generous people free theirs from motives of pure charity. The number of private manumissions amounts to about 30,000 for the past eleven years, making, with the official, 40,000 in all, or less than 4 per cent. of the whole slave population. From this it is evident that, even were the unfortunate slaves to have abnormally long lives, the present rate of freeing would allow some hundreds of thousands to reach very advanced ages and still die in bondage.

After the birth emancipation law had been in force a few years the planters of the Southern Provinces, finding that the Northern men were sending their slaves down South to be sold, commenced to talk of provincial duties on all slaves taken for sale from one Province to another. After being regected in the Provincial Assembles for a year or two the law passed creating prohibitive taxes of £150 to £200 on inter-provincial slave bargaining, which has been the means of virtually stopping the trade. The Northern Provinces, however, managed to get rid of so large a proportion that now there is but one-third of the total number of slaves in the Northern Provinces, whereas in former days things were the reverse, the South having but few."

MR. GEORGE said Northern farmers don't come South because they don't want to come. The Atlanta Constitution says they don't come on account of their dislike to the negro. The Post-Dispatch says it is the abundance of cheap prairie land that is the superior attraction in the northwest, and that negroes do not stop anybody from going to Texas. There is a basis of truth in the explanation of the F.-D., but there is an end to the prairies, and it will soon be reached. The migratory tribes are even now looking toward the South, and they will wander hither in no long time hence.—Memphis Avalanche.

The Bridges Twins.

The Bridges twins will give a couple of entertainments in Vicksburg. In speaking of them the VICKSBURG POST says their entertainment given in this city last week for the benefit of the Protestant orphans took place under the auspices of the Masons. In this our contemporary is mistaken. While the fraternity have ever been ready to lend a helping hand to the needy orphans and have contributed much to their support, the recent entertainment was given under the auspices of the Trinity Sunday School Guild. Although it is a small matter as to whether the performance was given under the auspices of one society or another, so the orphans received the benefit of it, yet the Guild claims the honor this time. We can assure our Vicksburg friends that they will have a phenomenal treat in the exhibition of the famous little Bridges twins.—Natchez Democrat.

A SOMEWHAT singular story about a younger son of the Duke of Argyll is going the rounds. It seems he wished to marry an untitled lady, and not unnaturally asked his father's consent to that step. The Duke replied that personally he had no objection to the match; but, in view of the fact that his eldest son had espoused a daughter of the Queen, he thought it right to take Her Majesty's pleasure on the subject before expressing his formal approval. Her Majesty, thus appealed to, observed that since the death of the Prince Consort she had been in the habit of consulting the Duke of Saxe-Coburg on all family affairs. The matter was therefore referred to Duke Ernest, who replied that since the unification of Germany he had made it a rule to ask for the Emperor's opinion on all important questions. The case now came before the Kaiser, who decided that, as a constitutional sovereign, he was bound to ascertain the views of his Prince Minister. Happily for the now anxious pair of lovers the Iron Chancellor had no wish to consult anybody, and decided that the marriage might take place.

Pedestrianism.

Mrs. Willis, of Vicksburg; Miss Martin, of Port Gibson; Miss Henry Schwartz, and Miss Elise Carlisle, accompanied by Mr. McRae, of Wisconsin, walked from the Natural Bridge Springs Hotel to the foot of the mountain yesterday in fifty minutes. Their record from the start to the time they reached the street cars was one hour and twenty-one minutes.—Chattanooga Times.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger: The Anchor Line steamer Commonwealth, bound from St. Louis to Vicksburg, ran on a barge of rock recently sunk by the Government steamer Mississippi; a few miles above the city, and was lightened by the Billy Ezell and pulled off by the Vidalia. This barge of rock is a great obstruction to the passage of steamers, and the officers of the Commonwealth have placed a barrel buoy over the sunken barge. The Commonwealth proceeded to Vicksburg, after adding nearly 100 tons of freight.

The bank at Tiptonville is said to be caving badly, and the channel is thrown a long way from its bed. Only six feet is reported in the channel at that point, and boats have to go slow in making the passage. * * * Reports from above show no improvement in navigation. No rise reported anywhere. At all points the rivers are stationary or falling, and the prospects of continued low water for several weeks to come are very favorable. The Cumberland and Tennessee rivers are down to their lowest notch, and will take several hard, steady rains to raise those streams to a good navigable condition.

The United States Commissioners Hunt and Quintero on yesterday gave a very just and righteous decision in favor of the steamer Clinton. It was the case of sixteen roustabouts who tried at St. Louis to come to New Orleans and perform all the work required of them in the way of discharging and taking on board freight on the route. All went well until the boat landed at Evergreen plantation, below Plaquemine, to take on rice. After taking on board about 90 sacks rain came up, and the mate very kindly and considerately stopped work until the rain ceased, and then the men refused to go to work again, resulting in the boat losing the freight, and the men were refused payment of wages on that account. They sued before the Boards of Commissioners, who both gave decided judgments in favor of the boat, refusing the men's claims, and such should be the result in all such cases.

Natchez Democrat: Ten car loads of miscellaneous freight was what the "Big 6" brought in last evening. Amongst the freight was a lot of pork, onions, potatoes, etc., that seemed to have "Natchez by boat, but on account of the low stage of water above, and high rates, was shipped by rail.

Parting.
(AFTER HEINRICH HEINE.)

You know when friends are parting.
And hearts must say good-bye,
How oft they kiss, long linger,
And how they weep and sigh.

You know when we two parted;
With jest and idle laughter,
The sadness and the tears
Came to us long years after.

When sickness and when sorrow
Stole half our lives away;
Ah, then we still remembered
Our laughing, loving day.

Then came a thrill of gladness,
Like gleaming from above,
If half our life bore sadness
One-half at least was love.

Sensible Colored Men.

From a special to the VICKSBURG EVENING POST, we learn that the State convention of colored men which assembled at Jackson on Saturday last, elected a delegation to Louisville convention, but at the same time adopted a resolution condemning the practice of calling these periodical gatherings. They instructed their delegates to use their best exertions to prevent the Louisville convention from falling into the hands of the chronic office-seekers who hang about Washington City.

The convention appointed a State committee, whose duty it shall be to look after the educational and industrial interests of the colored race. The convention also fully endorsed John R. Lynch in his efforts to throttle Chalmersism.

In all these resolution there is shown an evident disposition on the part of the convention to assert their independence of intriguing politicians who would use the colored man only as their own stepping-stones to office. It is plain that the members of the convention have also seen clearly that other things besides politics are necessary for the elevation of the colored race, and their disposition to pay attention to education as the surest method of elevation, is wise, and deserves the highest commendation and encouragement.

It is a fact too evident to be denied that the colored men of the South are fast attaining a more correct knowledge of their duties and responsibilities as citizens, and the effect of this is to produce greater individuality of thought and action. The time has passed when they can be held in a gregarious mass subject to the dictation of ambitious leaders. They have recognized the fact that as citizens they have interests identical with their white fellow-citizens, and that there can be no legislation for the interest of any particular class of the population. The South is to be congratulated on this advance in the political views of so large a part of its population. It is a proof that the vexed question of race antagonism will soon meet with a satisfactory solution.—Natchez Democrat.

THE English papers speak of an extraordinary discovery which Dr. Brown-Sequard claims to have made. It is an anæsthetic which suspends sensation without affecting either consciousness or activity, and may be used for an entire day or for a longer period with impunity. In other words, he has "invented" a drug which will enable a sick person to perform all the natural functions and to assist in his own cure without enduring any pain. The exhaustion which comes of intense suffering will be put an end to; but there will be no suspension of those activities the exercise of which are favorable to recovery. The announcement seems too remarkable to be true, but the wonders of science are not yet exhausted.

To Bridge Contractors.
THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF Warren County, Mississippi, will let out contracts for repairing Willow Bayou bridge, West of United States Cemetery; the building of a bridge over Big Bayou, 4 miles from Vicksburg, on Baldwin Ferry road; and the building of a Bridge over Chickasaw Bayou, on Benton road. Plans, etc., of work can be seen at Clerk's Office, or on application to the members of said Board. The work will be let out at public outcry on the ground, to the lowest bidder, at cash prices, to be paid out of special levy: the Willow Bayou bridge by Will Mcjee, Esq., member of Second District, on Tuesday, 25th of September, 1883; the Baldwin Ferry road, 4 miles bridge, by H. M. Goff, Esq., of Fourth District, on Friday, 28th of September, 1883; and the Benton road bridge, near Dick Harris', by R. B. Jones, Esq., of Fifth District, on Saturday, 29th of September, 1883. Each of these gentlemen will explain the work they will require bond and security to be given the Board for the faithful performance of each contract.
