THE SATISFACTION
Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay for the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg property than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 1, 1884.

The Railroad Shops.

By all means the Board of Mayor and Aldermen should close the contract on any reasonable proposition that will guarantee the location of the GENERAL SHOPS of Mr. Wilson's railroad at Vicksburg. This opportunity must not be allowed to pass. The future of Vicksburg will be greatly affected by proper action on this important matter.

THE YAZOO County Democratic Convention nominated Mr. Sim Harrison for Sheriff to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sheriff-elect Robt. Day.

THE Kentucky Senatorial contest remains practically unchanged. It is likely the deadlock will be broken in a day or two, and, in our opinion, Mr. Carlisle will be the winning dark horse.

JUDGE COWAN overruled the motion of McKenna's counsel for a new trial, and sentenced the prisoner to be hung on the 27th of March. Judge Cowan is doing his duty, and if juries will only follow his example we will soon have a reign of peace and law and order.

THE name of ex-Governor Stone is being favorably mentioned as one of the Railroad Commissioners. In our judgment he would be very acceptable to the railroads and to the people.—Clarion.

In our judgment it would be a great deal better to make him Governor. Probably he would put a stop to the Railroad Commission foolishness.

A North Carolina Exposition.

RALEIGH, N. C., Jan. 31.—The North Carolina State Exposition has been organized here, with a capital stock of $50,000. Wm. Primrose, of Raleigh, was elected President, and Hy G. Fries, of Salem, Secretary. The exposition will be held during the month of October.—Press dispatch.

Here is an example for Mississippi. If our Legislature thinks an appropriation can be spared from the Treasury for exposition purposes, let it be devoted to a Mississippi Exposition. That will be putting the money where it will do the most good. Col. Morehead has cheek enough to pull the New Orleans Cotton Exposition through without any assistance from our poor State. If an appropriation is made for a Mississippi Exposition, however, let it not be a COTTON exposition.

A COMMITTEE of "visiting statesman" may soon be expected at Hazlehurst, with John Sherman and his dirty shirt, Chalmers and Malone accompanying the caravan. We suppose they will attend to Danville also.

The resolution of Sherman ought to have been amended so as to reopen the theft of the Presidency in 1877. The Committee ought to call by Marshall Lamar to examine into the frauds committed in the Chalmers-Manning contest. The majority for Chalmers was too large there by many hundreds.—Clarion.

The Committee should also drop into the Secretary of State's office, and see how votes on the tally-sheet from Tate county were counted for J. R. Chambless, and those for J. R. Chalmers thrown out against the dictates of reason. Congress can not have much respect for a certificate of election issued on such flimsy pretexts as were assigned by the Mississippi officials in giving the certificate to Mr. Manning. Indeed, the House Committee on Elections decided that Manning had no prima facie evidence of a claim on the seat.

The Gulf and Ship Island Railroad.

Yesterday the National House took up the bill declaring forfeited certain grants of lands made to several States to aid in the construction of railroads. Van Eaton, Singleton and Barksdale endeavored to have excepted from the provisions of this bill the Gulf & Ship Island Railroad grant, Van Eaton offering an amendment to that effect, but without avail, and the bill passed as reported.

We very much regret this action of the House, but had hoped for no other result. A railroad should be built from the State Capital to the Gulf. The building of this road may offer a present solution to the Penitentiary and convict problem. If the convict labor is properly utilized a road can be built, and the legislature will then have one road upon which to exercise a little supervision.

MR. MCDONALD, an alleged free trade candidate for the Presidency, said to the Indiana Legislature that the power of a nation was always judged by the extent and character of its commerce. He need not despair of the American republic. He somewhat left out what does Mr. McDonald and our inland commerce carried on by 7,000 steamboats and 100,000 miles of railroads? Is that the power of a nation was always judged by the extent and character of its commerce. He need not despair of the American republic. He somewhat left out what does Mr. McDonald and our inland commerce carried on by 7,000 steamboats and 100,000 miles of railroads? Is that the power of a nation

MR. JOHN J. DOHERTY, city editor of the Vicksburg Herald, died in Vicksburg on the 29th of pneumonia. He was a native of Jackson, and thirty years old. The Post places its local items of Mr. Doherty, says a feeling tribute, with which we cordially join.

Another Commission Wanted.

THE VICKSBURG POST is strongly attached to the word "commission." Not satisfied with the Election Commissioner, the Railroad Commission, the Taxing District Commissioner, the Levee Commissioner, etc., it now wants a Printing Commissioner to supervise the printing if the Legislature adopts the suggestion of the Governor and lets the work out to the lowest bidder.—State Ledger.

We were disposed to get along without any of the various Commissions and Commissioners proposed by the Governor and the present Legislature; in fact we think the State would be better off without most if not all, of them.

But as the Legislature seems bent on having Commissioners, we believe it will be well to have enough of these officials; give the people a big dose of Commissions and Commissioners, sarfeit them, and they will not again desire the luxury.

Now, in all earnestness, we submit a proposition, and we challenge discussion on the matter, for the appointment of another and a needed Commission. If a set of Commissioners is needed to supervise the railroads of the State because of the abuses of power and mistakes made by these corporations, we think, on the same principle, and for the same reason, a Commission should be appointed to supervise and restrain the Legislature itself. At every session some unwise and unnecessary measures are passed; a great deal of time is wasted and expense entailed by needless discussion and a desire to air the oratorical powers of members; defective laws are passed, and other defective laws are not remedied; not near enough attention is given to practical questions, but time and energy is devoted to the consideration of abstract theories and questions out of which political capital can be made, and the members thus go back to the people with a demand for re-election or promotion.

These are only a few of the principal reasons why a Commission should be appointed to supervise the Legislature. The Commissioners will also be "servants of the people," as the legislators are fond of terming themselves; and there will be no trouble in arranging details for the regulation and restraint of the latter.

A Commission to supervise the Legislature is now in order.

"Personal Politics."

A scene is reported to have taken place in a recent executive session of the Senate between Edmunds and Lamar. The confirmation of Emory Speer was before the Senate, and the debate was rather tame until Senator Edmunds left the chair and commenced to wave the bloody shirt. His remarks were caustic and cutting, and at last he said something Mr. Lamar regarded as personal. He replied in kind, and Mr. Edmunds again spoke, holding the Southern people responsible for what he termed "a terrible, unlawful and iniquitous condition of political persecution in the South." Mr. Lamar retorted, closing as follows: "If it is the purpose of the Senator from Vermont to make himself personally offensive to every Senator from the South, he has succeeded, so far as I am concerned, to the extent that all personal relations between us must cease."—Exchange.

There is no need for Mr. Lamar, or other Southern Senators, to get on a "high horse" or wrap themselves up in "personal" dignity when the Northern Senators say bitter things in debate. Let the Southern Senators meet argument with argument, logic with logic, and present facts to sustain their position and refute charges. We believe the Northern Senators and Representatives, as a rule, keep their temper better than the Southerners, and this gives them a decided advantage. It looks as though Edmunds got the best of the debate, when Mr. Lamar concluded to cease "personal relations" with him.

WHEN the people of the South wake up they will commence to kuklux the turpentine-gatherers, who are destroying millions of trees, which will be worth millions of money before men who are now living die. All the minerals of the South combined have not as great prospective value as her fine timber, which is being every year ruthlessly destroyed for a mere gallon or two of turpentine for each tree. Much the same thing was done in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky. The walnut timber that was made into fence rails and firewood, if it had been protected thirty years ago, would to-day sell for three times as much as the entire farms and implements. Many an old curled, knotty tree that was burned in the log-pile would sell readily at from $250 to $500 delivered in market to-day.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

CAPT. SIM HARRISON, the nominee for Sheriff, is one of the best men of Yazoo county, and his nomination over his excellent competitors shows the esteem and confidence in which he is held by his fellow-citizens. He is entirely competent to discharge the duties of the important office, to which he will be elected without opposition. A better man for the place could not have been nominated.—Yazoo Sentinel.

The Cotton Crop.

Mr. Ellison, of Liverpool, in his annual cotton review for 1883, issued this week, assumes that the American crop of cotton will turn out as reported by the Agricultural Department, and on that basis he reaches a total supply of 6,491,000 bales. The consumption in the states at about 137,000 bales per week, leaving the stock on the 30th of next September, in ports and at mills, 999,000 bales of ordinary weights.

A Great Constitutional Lawyer.

Senator Jones, of Florida, who is only fifty years old, and almost without schooling, having picked up his learning as best he could, is serving his ninth year in the Senate, and is distinguishing himself for qualities more rare in that body than they were when he was born. His consort, Senator Call, of Florida, last Friday opened a legal assault on a portion of a bill providing a city government for Alaska, which the Senate was laboriously discussing. His ground was that Congress has no right to prohibit any commerce which would be a lawful commerce, or the transportation of any property which would be a lawful property, under our constitution and laws, from one State into another. He held that the case of the Indian Territory was exceptional, and did not resemble that of Alaska or any other territory, but rested on its own peculiar ground, being the reservation of a territory the Indian title to which was extinguished on certain conditions.

To make the question clear to the non-legal mind, let it be particularized: It is held that Congress had no more right to prohibit the introduction of intoxicants into Alaska than into (for example) Louisiana.

So great a lawyer as Senator Bayard, of Delaware, fell into the legal net woven by the ingenious Floridian, who had quoted from the Supreme Court decisions and from Story on the Constitution in his able argument. Mr. Bayard's remarks were so compact, so clear and so excellent, that we regret not having space for them. But we must quote a couple of sentences:

It is for the purpose of simply preserving due and constant regard for the limitations of the constitution that I was disposed to give my assent to the suggestion of the Senator from Florida, that you do by this section of the bill evade the principle of absolute equality and unity which must exist in the commerce of the United States, for there is but one commerce, and the laws affecting that commerce must be uniform all over the United States. Different rates of duties cannot be imposed, nor can preference be given to one port over another, nor can you prohibit importation at one port and not at another.

The keen mind of Senator Jones saw the weak point in the subtle armor of Call and Bayard, and instantly pointed it out. "We are not exercising," said he, "the power of general legislation in respect to this matter, but we are exercising a power that appertains to local authority alone."

In other words, Congress, which in legislation concerning the States exercises powers limited by express grant of the constitution, in legislation concerning the Territories exercises the powers of an absolutely sovereign Legislature. Consequently it has as much right to prohibit the introduction of intoxicants into Alaska (for example) as the Legislature of Louisiana would have to prohibit it into this State.

Senator Jones quoted from Webster, in a debate thirty years ago, which argument was unanswerable, and no answer was attempted. The bill was immediately ordered to a third reading, read the third time, and passed.—N. O. Picayune.

How Mr. Barksdale Was Defeated for U. S. Senator.

A correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, who draws quite largely upon his own and the imagination of others for the "facts" contained in his entertaining letters, says that Major Barksdale lacked only three votes of a nomination for U. S. Senator in the Democratic caucus of 1880, and undertakes to give the reason why he was not nominated. It is no use to scratch old sores and we always avoid it; but truth is justice, and it is well sometimes to vindicate the truth of history. Mr. Barksdale was defeated, not by the votes of the Democrats proper, but by the votes of five Republicans and Independents who were admitted into the caucus, viz: Senator Spears, Robt. Mitchell and Lem. Moore, (Republican), and McNeil and Buffkin, of Copiah, (Independents).—Clarion.

AN exchange aptly remarks that while so many people are complaining of the miserable weather that has prevailed during almost the entire month of January, it is well for them to recall the old adage, "Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good." The rainfalls of the month, accompanied as they have been by freezing weather, have been among the best fertilizers that the soil could have had. The long drought of last fall and the early Winter had hardened the surface of the earth and made it comparatively sterile, and it is fortunate that the land has been softened by the late rains and the particles disintegrated by the action of frosts that followed the rains. It is only to be regretted that the land which will be put in cultivation the present year had not been plowed up so as to have received the full benefit of the extraordinary freezes which have occurred.

The Convict Leasing System.

The special committee appointed by the Speaker to investigate the condition and treatment of convicts under the present leasing system in Mississippi has been busily at work, examining witnesses and sending for persons and papers throughout the State. The developments so far are anything but savory. From all parts of the State come cases of unexampled cruelty. In the name of humanity and justice let the leasing system be abolished. It brutalizes both prisoners and keepers and defeats one of the objects of imprisonment, reformation of the criminal. Men condemned to the penitentiary ought to be made to work, but they should be treated with common humanity. The abuses now complained of are the results of employing brutal and callous overseers.—YAZOO Sentinel.

Good Roads.

A friend informs us that while Judge Chrisman was expatiating so extensively in his charge to the Grand Jury last Monday on the beauties of good roads, and how important it was that overseers should have a good ditch cut on either side of the public thoroughfare to carry off the water, a well known old brother of the cloth who resides in the county might have been heard to remark sotto voce: "I wish the best the Judge's plan cut our way. Our plan is to have a big ditch in the middle of the road that answers for both, and it carries off all the water with as much thoroughness."—Leader.

Shall Yerger.

During the latter part of last week the numerous friends and relatives of Mr. Shall Yerger were made aware of his death, and that his uncle, Alex. Yerger, of Bolivar county, was en route to the city with his remains. Every preparation was made to receive them, and close kinsmen and warm personal friends awaited their arrival on the Monday morning train, and conveyed the same at once to St. Peter's (Catholic) Church. From this place at 10 o'clock after the celebration of the solemn rites of this Catholic burial by the Rev. Father Oberfeld, the body was interred in the city cemetery, beside the grave of the late Judge William Yerger.

Mr. Shall Yerger's life was comparatively a brief one; he was born at Clearfield, on the suburbs of this city, on May 25th, 1853, and had consequently just passed his thirtieth year. He was the eighth child and fourth son of Judge William Yerger, deceased, and Mrs. Malvina H. Yerger. His health from early manhood had been very delicate and precarious and at each one of numerous severe attacks to which he had been subjected, his family have trembled for his fate. He was afflicted with that constitution-sapping disease—chronic diarrhea, commingled with terrible acute attacks of chronic gastritis, intensified at times with mortal agony, and his immediate dissolution was the consequence of an attack of this latter character. He was conscious of his approaching death, and died with the quiet bravery of a naturally courageous heart, and with Christian fortitude. In the latter years of his life Mr. Yerger was engaged in business in Bolivar county, and had just received a few days before his dissolution the appointment as Deputy Sheriff from his warm personal friend and relative, Mr. George Scott, the recently elected Sheriff of Bolivar county. Shall Yerger made friends, and warm ones, wherever he lived. He received in his last moments the same great attention which those of his kinsmen in Bolivar county had so profusely shed over all the years of his invalid existence in that locality.—Jackson Ledger, Jan. 29th.

NOTES.

The U. S. mail steamer Capt. Miller came up from Natchez last night, and turned again at 10 o'clock this morning.

There are 100 barrels cotton seed oil and 10 tons of junk awaiting the Belle Shreveport, which passes up this evening for Cincinnati.

The David R. Powell arrived from New Orleans at 9 o'clock this morning and left at 10 for St. Louis. She has engagements in the Bends for sale.

The palatial steamer J. M. White, from New Orleans for Greenville and Bends, passes up at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning. Holmes is master, and James and Lewis clerks. W. C. O'Hara agent.

The steamer W. P. Thompson will be due this evening from Ashton, and returns to-morrow at 4 o'clock p.m. for all points below Ashton. Capt. Nelson master, and Denio clerk.

The steamer Ed. Richardson having been detained by fog, arrived here at 10 o'clock this morning. She leaves this evening at 5 o'clock, Campbell master and Leon clerk and W. C. O'Hara passenger agent.

The steamer Will S. Hays arrived last night at 8 o'clock with a big list of passengers, 170 bales reshipped cotton and 30 packages miscellaneous freight. She left at noon to-day with a good shewing of freight and passengers.

The Anchor Line City of Providence arrived in to-night from Arkansas City, and returns to-morrow for all points as far as Arkansas City at 11 a.m., connecting there with the railroad for Little Rock. Hot Springs and all points in Texas and Texas. Lenox is master, and Perkins clerk.

The steamer E. W. Cole arrived here this morning from Greenville and the Bends, with a cabin full of passengers, some of whom were crowded on deck. She had 190 bales of cotton, 320 sacks seed and a big lot of freight for Yazoo, this place and other points. She left for Memphis promptly at noon, with a good list of freight and passengers.

The P. Line steamer DeSnet arrived last night at 10 o'clock from the Yazoo and Mississippi rivers, with 638 bales of cotton and 1,114 sacks seed for New Orleans, 170 bales cotton for town, and 831 bales for the Warren Mills. She left this morning at 10 o'clock for Greenville, and will be back in a few days on her regular trip. The DeSnet is doing a big business on the Yazoo river, and is a favorite with shippers. Capt. Bryan, one of the most popular steamboat men on the river, is master, Harper, Kain and Johnson clerks.

The R. E. Lee arrived at 10 o'clock this morning from Natchez, and left at 11 for Yazoo river points. She had a big list of passengers, and a large amount of freight. Capt. Bryan, one of the most popular steamboat men on the river, is master, Harper, Kain and Johnson clerks.

The Futures of Lumber.

It is probable that ten years from this time the lumber industry will be transferred from the Northern Lake region to the South. It is an enormous interest. In 1880 there were 25,708 lumber establishments in the county, employing $181,000,000 capital and 146,000 hands, distributing $81,845,000 a year in wages, using $1,000,000,000 worth of material, and turning out an annual product of $285,000,000. Michigan stands first, with a product of $62,000,000; next comes Pennsylvania, with $22,457,000; Wisconsin, with $17,952,000; New York, with $14,356,000; Indiana, with $14,260,000; Ohio, with $13,564,000; Minnesota, with $7,366,000; Maine, with $7,900,000. The Southern States made a very small showing, few of them reaching a product of over $14,000,000. But Michigan is consuming its lumber material at a frightful rate. Under the stimulus of a protective tariff, which prevents the importation of Canadian lumber and offers a premium on the destruction of American forests, the magnificent pineries of Michigan and other States in the Lake region are disappearing before the pioneer's axe and sawed into boards for building farmhouses and towns in the prairie regions of the West. In a few years they will either have been destroyed entirely or so greatly impaired as to ruin the vast industry and trade of which they are the basis. But the whole South is the great region, and its gigantic pineries, cedar, hardwood, cypress and oak districts are still almost untouched; and when the lumber supply in the Lake region shall begin to fail, as it must in a few years, the great sawmills of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Northern Ohio and Northern Indiana will be removed to the Southern forests, and these will become the new centres of the industry.

Fence Cutting in Texas.

The "barbed-wire fence war" which has broken out in Texas seems to be in part, if not wholly, a result of the sudden ownership of the State by a great influx of population from a thinly-settled community with land of little or no value and used for grazing purposes very much in common, into a populous modern community, with land constantly increasing in value, and with exclusive private ownership becoming more and more attractive. The fence-cutters, or "blue-devils," as they are called, represent the primitive Texas of the antebellum period, when horses and cattle were the only property of much consequence in the State, and before the idea of fencing in lands held on a great scale in the open parts of the country sprang up. The sudden development of property in land (which always comes later in civilization than that in cattle) would probably not have caused so much trouble had it not been for the great "fencing facilities" afforded by the barbed-wire fence. No one has ever seen this sort of fencing but has felt that it suggests capital and economy much more than the plain old rail, or even the board fence, universally used by all citizens fifty years ago; and it is evident that the blue devils or fence-cutters are endeavoring to give the fence war the air of a struggle between poverty and bonded wealth. They represent the fences as invariably being put up by aliens, Northerners, monopolists, bloated capitalists, and as being torn down by the Texans in the interest of the people—Texas yeoman. At one point the blue devils seem to be nearly in the right. The fencing in of the State has resulted apparently in some instances in blocking up roads; and had the devils confined themselves exclusively to reopening these ways by violence, they would probably have been in the right. But even in Texas need not be more than a few hundred feet wide. Yet when the Texas fences are cut they run for several miles of fence. To those not actually engaged in the war it will be suggestive to learn that the authority of Henry George has been appealed to to settle the dispute, on the ground that if land is by nature the common property of all men alike, a fence is "agin nater." Henry George, however, has never, we believe, advised a general desruction of fences in any of his work.—Columbus Index.

Removal of the Dead at Mumfordville.

The Joint Resolution, introduced by Mr. Sykes in the Senate, and which passed that body last week, for the disinterment and removal of the remains of members of the Tenth and other Mississippi regiments who fell at Munfordville, passed the House yesterday, after considerable discussion. Our clerk and W. C. O'Hara passenger agent will remember that Mr. James Smith, of Grayson county, Kentucky, pointed the ground where our soldiers fell and is having the same enclosed, and an immense marble shaft erected thereon, and the object of the Joint Resolution is to provide for the removal of the dead, scattered over the field, to the enclosure. The objections urged to the measure were that the State could not do like wise for all who died in her defense, and a precedent should not established that could not be followed up. But there is a peculiar case, where nearly all the expense is incurred by an individual, and is not likely to be duplicated, but should it be, the State will do honor to herself and her brave dead by making similar provisions.—Clarion.

A WRITER employed in a restaurant says: "If a customer can prove the honesty of her grocer or his butter by melting it. Pure butter melted produces a pure, limpid, golden oil, and it retains the butter flavor. Melt oleomargarine and the oil smells like tallow and looks like tallow, and a scum rises to the surface. Butterine is a mixture of dairy butter and fats. Melt this and the butter will rise to the top. Pour this off and you will find the fats at the bottom, which in color giving off a disagreeable smell."

Beyond the terrible disaster at Gay Head brought them into public notice not one man in ten among newspapers readers knows that there were any Indians living on the island of Martha's Vineyard. Their brave and skillful work at the wreck in which they risking and earing for the dead has earned them the thanks of the Massachusetts Legislature. They ought to be rewarded. Some of them are half-breed Indians still living on Long Island, and a remnant of the Penobscot tribe remains by the waters of Maine. The Indians are fishermen, and are mainly employed in the fisheries. They are skilled in the management of boats, and are daring and

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree says the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to those that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can almost make a comsoncement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

COL. PHIL. G. COX, of Yazoo county, is in the city.

THE steamer W. P. Thompson arrived last night from the upper bends with a good trip.

MISS FLORENCE BOWMAR is now organist at the Holy Trinity Church in this city.

MAJOR T. G. BIRCHETT returned from New Orleans by the early train this morning.

MR. JULIUS HOERNER, SR., of St. Louis, arrived by ealry train this morning on a visit to his sons in this city.

MRS. JNO. H. HANNA mother of Mrs. Julius Hoerner, arrived by the early train from New Orleans to-day.

GEN. B. S. RICKS arrived by the steamer DeSmet this morning from Yazoo City and left on the steamer W. S. Hays to-day for Memphis.

MR. ALLEN BUCKINGHAM, of this city, departed for Memphis to-day by steamer W. S. Hays. He intends making that city his future home so we learn.

THE steamer E. W. Cole, leaving for Memphis to-day, had 119 bales of cotton for Messrs. Fader Frank & Co., Memphis. The cotton was out of Sunflower river.

ATTENTION is directed to the announcement of Hon. H. C. Carter as a candidate for the State Senate. "Ham," as he is familiarly called, is well-known to the people of both races in this city and county.

MR. N. VIENNE, whose hands were severely burned last Saturday morning while saving his wife from being burned, (her clothing having accidently caught on fire), we are pleased to learn is able to be about again. Most fortunately for Mrs. Vienne she escaped unharmed.

ONE of our best citizens has a communication in to-day's paper on the subject of "tramps." We agree with him entirely as to the propriety and duty of affording some relief to the men who have been thrown out of employment by willing to work. We do not consider these tramps at all, and our remarks to-day were not intended to apply to them.

MR. AL. ROBBINS, one of the principal engineers of the bridge work at Anthony's Ferry, met with a painful accident recently in his zeal towards the performance of his duties. Al. has a frozen foot, but he has lost no time on that account. His services are always valuable and nothing deters him.

THE clerical force in the office of Capt. W. L. Marshall, in this city, has been considerably reduced, the change taking place to-day. Messrs. Julius Lehman, C. B. Duke, and S. F. Pegues being the only scribes retained. This has been caused by the appropriation made not having been allotted. It is expected that the River Commission will hold a meeting in New York at an early date when the recent appropriation of $1,000,-000 will be allotted, and the work at Wilson's Point and Providence Reach will be resumed.

IF Warren county does not have an exceptionally good Senator from the special election on the 7th of February, it will not be because there is not an excellent list of candidates to select from. Among the last to be announced is Hon. Martin Marshall, who, in obedience to a very complimentary request signed by a number of our best citizens, has consented to be a candidate. Mr. Marshall has served this county in the lower house, his ability as a lawyer and orator is conceded by all, and his ripe experience would make him a most valuable Senator.

Tramps.

Editor Evening Post:

In your article yesterday on the subject of Tramps, I think you are entirely wrong. Ninety-nine out of every hundred of the idle strangers now in this city are working men, and not tramps. They were induced to come here by the numerous advertisements for laborers published during the several months past. They want work and are willing to work. On account of the bad weather this Winter and the River Commission having lately discharged about one thousand laborers in this vicinity, there is no work for them. Now what are they to do? They have no money—they can neither get work nor get away—are the people of this town going to let them starve. They are from the Northern and Western States; and, if our citizens will call to mind how lavishly the money flowed into Vicksburg during our epidemic a few years since from the people of those States, I think they will not let them suffer.

Shooting on Board Steamer Ed. Richardson.

To-day about 12 o'clock while the steamer Ed. Richardson was lying at the Refuge Mill taking on cotton seed meal, a difficulty occured between one Buck, a white man captain of the watch, and Jessy Davis one of the rousters. Davis was shot three times, once in the left shoulder, and twice in the hips. The wounded man was taken to Dr. Robbin's office. His wounds thought to be not necessarly fatal.

Mr. Martin Marshall's Acceptance.

Messrs. Laz. Lindsey and others:

In reply to your too flattering call upon me to become a candidate for the State Senate from this county, published in the Vicksburg EVENING POST of the 30th ult., I have to say that, thanking each of you, as well as all others who have shown themselves to be my friends in this matter, I do not feel at liberty to decline, at least the attempt, to be (as far as my ability enables me), to be of service to the community.

If the people of this city and county see fit to elect me to that position I shall be deeply sensible of the honor, and shall strive to so discharge the trust as to be creditable to those who selected me and advantageous to the best interest of the people. Very respectfully,
M. MARSHALL.

Steamboat Repairs.

The steamer Golden Era, plying between Yazoo City and points above that place, is here having some repairs done to her. She is having a new boiler put in and her wheel repaired. We do not know who is doing the work on the wheel, but our live and energetic foundryman, Adam Fox, is doing the work on the boiler and the machinery. It is thought that all the work will be completed by next week, when the boat will leave for Yazoo river. We give this item of news more particularly to show to what extent our foundry men are possessed of facilities to execute skillful and complicated steamboat work.

Bevbed City Charter.

A meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen is notified at the City Hall this evening at 8 o'clock, to consider the revised charter as reported by the committee of the Board, Messrs. Dunn, Worsell and Trowbridge.

McKENNA MUST GO.

Judge Cowan Overrules the Motion for a New Trial.

McKenna Sentenced to be Hung on the 21st of March.

What the Prisoner Said—The Judge's Remarks.

In regard to the motion for a new trial in the McKenna case, the Court stated that while certain of the State's instructions were faulty, other instructions had covered their discrepancies. The testimony of Tom Wilson showed that defendant bore malice against the deceased. It was certain that the prejudices of the citizens had not entered the jury box and from the evidence the jury were justified in bringing in the verdict which they did. The motion was discussed by Col. Booth, but was eventually overruled.

The prisoner was asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him. He replied that he had nothing to say, only that he had not had a fair and impartial trial.

Judge Cowan, in a few remarks to the prisoner, said that it was his duty under the law to sentence him to death. He would advise him to give up all hope of obtaining a reversal of that sentence, and prepare himself to face the tribunal of God, where justice would be certain. He had best prepare himself in the little time that yet remained to him on this earth, for the ordeal through which he must pass.

"I have a clear conscience," said the prisoner, "as I did it in self-defence. I am prepared to die, and I believe God will forgive me."

"I am glad," said the Judge, "that you believe that."

"I do," replied the prisoner.

The Court said it remained for him to pronounce the sentence, which was spoken in low tones, as follows:

"It is the sentence of this Court that you be remanded to the county jail there to remain until the twenty-first day of March, 1884, to be taken thence to the gallows by the proper officer, the Sheriff, and be hanged by the neck until dead, and may God have mercy on your soul."

There was a deep hush in the Court-room during the reading of the sentence. The prisoner passed through the ceremony in the coolest manner, and accompanied the bailiff from the Court-room with an unconcern that it would be difficult to say whether it was affected or real.

His counsel will carry the case to the Supreme Court.

After the disposal of the above case two or three cases of minor importance were disposed of, and Court adjourned sine die.

The balance of our Childs' and Boys' Suits must be closed out regardless of what they cost, before moving to our new store.

A Circus.

French & Co.'s Great Southern Circus, now organizing in this city, will exhibit here on Saturday, Feb. 28, and the heart of the small boy will rejoice. A number of saw-dust artists of high reputation have been engaged, several of whom will arrive soon, for the purpose of rehearsal. A number of horses are being trained while here, and preparations are being made for a grand opening at the above date. Mr. Lee French is the principal owner, and Mr. Billy Monroe, formerly connected with W. W. Cole's circus, is the general manager. The company is at present on the steamer Nellie, lying below the Compress.

The Fire.

A fire broke out in the ceiling over the composing room of the VICKSBURG POST, Monday night, which came near destroying the office of the POST and the Job Office of Rogers & Groome. The shoe store of our friend Teagosky was damaged by water, but the damage was covered by insurance.—Brandon Republican.

The fire broke out on the floor occupied by Messrs. Rogers & Groome, and was caused by coals from their steam engine burning through the floor over the POST composing room, and down through the ceiling. It did not break out in the ceiling.

Thieves and Tramps.

The city is infested with thieves, burglars and tramps, and the record of crimes is growing astonishingly large. It is very true that we are subject to visitations of an infamous class every Winter, but the invasion this time has been unparalelled. It is about time for the police force and the magistrates to show what can be done in dealing with this class. Let a good start be made at getting rid of them before the Carnival season.—Picayune, 31st.

Leavitt's Gigantean.

A full house greeted the above minstrel company last night. They set an excellent first part, and their olio offered some pleasing specialties. In the first part Barny Kin and John Flynn sang the end-songs, "Colored Fancy Ball" and "Oh, I'll Meet You," very cleverly. Stanley Grey sang "The Fisherman and his Child," exhibiting a good voice, and Robert J. Tyrell sang "Little Darling, Dream of Me." Cool Burgess sang "They Stole My Child Away," and was heartily creored, as were also the end songs of Kine and Flynn. Mr. Burgess is a burnt-cork artist of rare ability, and his appearance on the stage was always a signal for laughter. The first part ended with a rousing finale entitled "The Salvation Army."

The tripple-tongue cornet solo by Prof. J. A. Cressville was executed in a style of which Levy might not have been ashamed. Prof. Cresvell proved himself a master of his instrument, his articulation, execution, tempo and style being that of an artist. His higher tones were clear and strong, and those of the lower register were as deep and sonorous as those of a trombone, and he was loudly applauded.

The Kine Brothers, in their neat banjo song and dance and their bone "duets" were very pleasing and were encored.

Cool Burgess appeared again in a budget of comicalities, and kept the audience in a continual roar of laughter. His imitations of a drunken man were very laughable. He took occasion to thank the audience for his reception, it being his first appearance here, and said that he hoped to soon appear before them again.

Keating and Flynn, as an acrobatic song and dance team, probably have no superiors, and as a high-kicker Mr. Flynn takes the bakery.

"The "Dude's Picnic Party" was rather tame, but it brought laughter from the gallery.

Bert. Kimball is a very clever ventriloquist, and his performances received an encore.

The after-piece, "Sullivan's Arrival, or Which is Which?" is very amusing. John L. Sullivan, an unsophisticated granger, is taken for Boston's pet, the great slugger, and the hotel keeper and his employees show him great honor; much to the countryman's surprise.

Mr. Burgess, as the green Mr. Sullivan, made the greater part of the fun in the farce.

The band and orchestra are composed of excellent musicians and in the latter accompaniments to the singing they displayed their ability as such. The entertainment gave great satisfaction and we feel safe in saying that they will always receive a full house in Vicksburg.

The ten Shares in eight years will have cost.....$720
Making a profit, on an investment averaging four years, of.....$280
Which is equal to 77 per cent. or 19¼ per cent. per annum.

The Association Cashes its Stock at any Time According to Equitable Rule

Persons having small amounts monthly to spare, say from $1 to $15, cannot do better than invest in this stock.

Capitalists will find it a profitable investment, realizing 18 to 20 per cent. per annum.

Property owners will increase the value of their property by subscribing to this stock, for it insures its profit to actual builders, and every new house built increases the value of property in its neighborhood.

Persons of moderate means who desire to build houses can borrow the money from the Association and pay it back in

Rice's Pleasure Party.

Mr. Harry D. Graham, business manager of Rice's Pleasure Party, dropped in on us to-day. He is here making arrangements for the appearance of his troupe next Friday and Saturday, Feb. 9th and 10th. Rice's Pleasure Party are playing "Our Goblins" this season, "a musical extravaganza" full of versatile specialities; it is interspersed with a large number of the most popular songs, and snatches from operas. There is nothing in the performance to offend the most fastidious.

They will also give a matinee on Saturday the 9th.

This troupe is first-class and it is going to meet with the reception here it is in every sense entitled to. To come to our little city to give a performance is a decided digression from their general mode of doing business, as they have been generally only playing in the larger cities.

The citizens of the second ward are complaining of the failure of the lamplighters to light certain of the street lamps in that ward. They say that it is the duty of the lamplighter to report any failure to light these lamps, and that this has not been done.

Forfeiting the Land Grants.

[Picayune Special.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The House summarily disposed of the land grants of the Texas Pacific and a number of other roads this afternoon. There was no opposition, except from the Mississippi delegation, who wanted to except the Gulf and Ship Island grant from forfeiture, chiefly on the ground that the intervention of the civil war prevented the beneficiaries from availing themselves of the grant. Representative Van Zatdt and Barksdale made stormy speeches in support of the equity of their claim; but the House is in a temper to forfeit all grants that have lapsed. Only one man, Barr, of Pennsylvania, a personal and political friend of the late railroad king, Tom Scott, voted against the forfeiture of the Texas Pacific grant, but there was a good deal of dodging.

Another Sawmill Burned.

The saw mill of Mr. J. H. Sutton, between this place and Bovina Chitto, was destroyed by fire on last Wednesday night The loss will not be less than $2,000, or $2,500, the engine being about all that was saved, and that in an injured condition. The fire we understand, was the result of accident, and Mr. Sutton, who is advanced in years, can ill sustain the low thus entailed.—Brookhaven Leader.

From a private letter composed by a gentleman in this city from Hon. E. T. Sykes, our State Senator, we are permitted to make the following extracts: "I think you can safely count on a railroad bill of some sort passing but I am sure no ultra and extravagant bill will ever become the law by the action of this Legislature. My views remain unchanged and hence my memorial. I consider Congress alone has the power to legislate as to inter-State freights, and the State sole power to regulate domestic traffic. I prefer a general law fixing maximum rates reasonable to both shipper and carrier and allowing roads to charge as much less to any point as they may choose."—Columbus Dispatch.

"I FIND one thing in America which impresses me. It is the tendency of the people to flock to the cities and to seek an education that will fit them for clerical rather than manual labor. This is and is to be regretted, as the demands of the country are more for manual labor than for such duties as the people generally are anxious to prepare themselves for. It is a great mistake that the tendency of the young people especially is for city life."—Matthew Arnold.

To Encourage Manufactures.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

In these piping times of the general depression in manufacturing interests in the North and East, of the general curtailment of manufactures and the general despondency resulting from the very meager returns from the spindles and looms in New England and the East and the manufacturing boom in the South, all combine to point the manufacturing capitalists southward for a location near the cotton-field, by which to cheapen manufacturing and to insure greater returns for the investment. It is even predicted that in the near future cotton manufacturing in New England and the East generally will be a thing of the past. With these thoughts crowding through my mind on this subject, I have thought it wise to hold out some slight inducement that might possibly direct the attention of some of those seeking new fields for their industries to consider the very many advantages clustering around and centering in our city and vicinity, particularly for cotton manufacturing. I have suggested the following amendment to our City Charter (as this is the age of amendments) for the consideration of our City Fathers, and it is to be hoped that they will make haste slow in their deliberations, and think well before acting. All rights are well guarded. Respectfully, JUNIUS.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, That upon the application of the President and Board of Directors, or in the absence of the President, the Vice-President and Board of Directors of any corporation organized for manufacturing purposes within the corporate limits of the city of Vicksburg, the capital stock of which shall not be less than one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars, the Mayor may subscribe to the capital stock of any such manufacturing company an amount not exceeding twenty per cent of the entire capital stock of any such company, provided always that no such subscription shall be made until the question of subscription or no subscription shall have been submitted to a vote of the legally qualified voters of said city, (being tax payers) said vote to be cast at a special election called for that special purpose, and at which no irrelevant matter shall be considered, provided a notice of such election shall have been published at least once a week for four consecutive weeks in one or more newspapers published in said city, and if two-thirds of the legally qualified voters, being tax payers, shall vote for such subscription of stock in such or any manufacturing company, the Mayor shall, if the Board of Mayor and Aldermen shall so determine, subscribe for stock in any such manufacturing company to an amount not exceeding twenty per cent of the gross capital stock of any such manufacturing company in the name of the city of Vicksburg; such stock to be paid for in the bonds of the city of Vicksburg, maturing twenty years after date and bearing interest at the rate of five per cent per annum evidenced by coupons attached payable yearly, and receivable for all taxes except as already provided for by law.

Sec. 2. And provided further, That no such manufacturing company bonds shall be issued for a less sum than one thousand (1,000) dollars nor until the entire capital stock of any such company shall have been paid up and such manufactory put in running order within the corporate limits of said city; and provided further, that, as a prerequisite to the delivery of any such manufacturing bonds, the said President and Board of Directors of such manufacturing company shall have executed, signed, sealed and delivered in due form of law to the Mayor certificates of stocks for the full amount of such stock as so subscribed for; and provided further, that such shares of stock shall represent not less than one hundred (100) dollars each.

Sec. 3. And provided further, That the Board of Mayor and Aldermen shall elect a commissioner, who shall be styled a Commissioner on Manufactories of the city of Vicksburg; he shall give bond in such amount as the Board of Mayor and Aldermen shall determine, conditioned for a faithful performance of all the duties that may devolve upon him or result from his office; he shall attend all meetings of all manufacturing companies in which said city shall be a stockholder; vote on all questions involving the interests of said company and of the city of Vicksburg, and do all things and acts for the interest of said city connected with such manufacturing company.

Sec. 4. And provided further, That such certificate of stock shall be transferable by a three-fourths majority vote of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, be endorsed by the Mayor, signed by the Commissioner on Manufactories, and countersigned by the City Clerk, and be posted on the books of such company. And such manufacturing company shall be exempt from all of its stock from city taxes for ten years succeeding the date of its organization.

Three Reasons.

FIRST.

Ask't she where the harp I once was wont to touch?
'Tis silent as the moments that are fled!
The soul that voiced it hath been task'd o'ermuch.
The hand that swept it might as well be dead!
As the sweet strains awakened by the dawn
From Nature's worshippers, die with the day,
So with the morning of my life hath gone
The spirit that inspired my simple lay!

SECOND.

I would not have the loud voice of the bird,
That screams its song incessant on the ear:
I would not be the minstrel that is heard
To touch his harp, and yet not those who hear.
Then why should I, a bard alone at heart,
Without such gifts to grace withal my song,
Essay to sing without grand choir of art,
Where the soft lyre is silenced by the Gong?

THIRD.

The poet piles no palaces of stone,
To garnish with the glitterings of gold,
And people with lewd lemans, where, alone,
Forbid indulgence may be uncontrolled.
His structures are of richest feelings wrought,
Furnished with fancies that are chaste and good;
His households are creations of his thought,
With whom he dwells in vestal solitude!

Tributes to our Deceased Friend.

The sad news comes from Vicksburg of the death of Mr. John J. Doherty on Tuesday of typhoid-pneumonia in the 31st year of his age. Mr. Doherty was well known in Yazoo City, and was at one time a typo in the Sentinel office. He afterwards went to Vicksburg and worked on the Herald, and when THE EVENING POST was started, became one of its proprietors, and was at the time of his death its local and river editor. In the words of THE EVENING POST, "he was indefatigable in the discharge of his duties, and faithful and true to every trust." He was one of the most genial companions we ever met, and those who knew him best mourn him the most. Peace to the ashes of a dear friend, one in whom we reposed the confidence of a brother, and may his freed spirit find rest on the happier shore of the spirit land.—Yazoo Sentinel.

The painful intelligence of the death of Mr. John J. Doherty, city and river editor of THE VICKSBURG EVENING POST, which occurred at that place on Tuesday, was received here yesterday through the medium of our special telegram. Mr. Doherty was one of the proprietors of THE POST, and his industry, talent and popularity imparted to that paper a zest, spice and editorial value which, in the case of less fortunate journals, is the result only of years of patient labor. There was no department of his business with which he was not familiar. An incessant, earnest toiler, and genial, generous and warm-hearted withal, he has crossed over into that land within whose mystic confines there is perfect rest, leaving in the hearts of those who knew and loved him best a memory that will grow greener and more beautiful as the years grow on apace.—Times-Democrat.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 2, 1884.

SHERMAN'S resolution for an investigation of the election troubles in Mississippi and Virginia, was passed Wednesday by a vote of 33 to 29.

WE are in receipt of the Winona Times, published and edited by John W. Ward and B. H. Wear. It is well edited and well printed, and is a credit to the town from which it is issued.

THE Masonic Grand Lodge of this State will hold its sixty-sixth annual Communication in Jackson, commencing on Wednesday, the 13th day of February. The Grand Chapter will meet on the Monday preceding.

THE Macon Telegraph and Messenger remarks: "The three men who constitute the Georgia Railroad Commission can by a sweep of the pen bankrupt any road in the State, and there is no higher authority to grant relief."

Meeting of the River Commission.

From a telegram received in this city to-day from Washington, we learn that the River Commission will meet in St. Louis on the 13th of February to make an allotment of the recent appropriation of $1,000,000 for the improvement of the Mississippi river. A large portion of this money will no doubt be assigned to the work at Wilson's Point and other works under the direction of Capt. W. L. Marshall.

Will the city of Jackson give $25,000 to repair and keep in repair the old State House? Will she give any sum? No. She never has given, but has always received.

This is no buncombe business. We are in earnest. The city of Meridian is in earnest. She will give $100,000. What say the Legislature.—Meridian Mercury.

The above is the tail end of the Mercury's long article advocating the removal of the State Capital from Jackson to Meridian.

* State Legislatures are not in the habit of calling upon the cities which are State Capitals to repair the public buildings. So the Mercury's question is perfectly ridiculous.

We are glad the city of Meridian is so "flush" that it can afford to give $100,000 as an inducement to remove the Capital to that place. We can suggest a very appropriate way for the city to get rid of a big part of its money, and at the same time secure a public building that is probably much needed in that section. There is a piece of a Lunatic Asylum at that city which remains unfinished because the Meridian influence wanted a larger building than the State appropriation called for. Now let that city take its $100,000 and complete the Asylum. Our State is rather hampered in its resources, and if any further appropriation is required for insane Asylum purposes it will be a measure of economy to apply it to increasing the facilities of the excellent institution at Jackson.

Martial Glory.

It is to be feared that our present Governor is not as thoroughly imbued with the principles of civil government and as appreciative of its beauties as compared with military rule as might be desired in the head and front of a Democratic State. In two instances now he has exposed himself to the charge of paying undue attention to the military interests, and exhibiting a marked partiality to the military department of a peaceful and peace loving commonwealth. We say this as those in favor of discouraging the practice of giving preference, and applying our brightest talent, to the augmentation of our military power and glory. There may be those who favor this policy, and if there are, whatever they have to say against the Governor on account of his silence on the Levee question, or his ambiguous position on Railroad Supervision, or his silence on the Capiah and Yazoo outrages, or his affection for the New Orleans Cotton Exposition, they have glorious reason to lift their voices and shout in praise of our warlike Executive on his last selection of F. C. Morehead as a Colonel of militia and a staff officer of the Governor. The Governor's appointment of General W. N. Munroe, of Columbus, has always been looked upon by his military inclined constituents—and especially those who were acquainted with the latter's war record—as a happy inspiration, and the last appointment will commend itself as an example of judgment and discrimination, worthy of Napoleon.

It is suggested to us that the Governor intends to conduct his campaign for re-election slightly on the big-game-in-search plan, and has taken Morehead with him for that purpose. We wish him success in all his wide domain.

Campaign Material for the Republicans.

We reprint an article from the Meridian Mercury which compliments THE POST, after a fashion, and charges that it is manufacturing campaign material for the Republicans at the North. The Mercury devotes most of its attention to two other independent Southern papers, and to a definition of its own position, taking THE POST as a text for its sermon.

The Mercury says it has not applauded the Copiah and Yazoo county outrages but acknowledges that it has not condemned them. We think there is no doubt, and the Mercury cannot deny, that it has defended these outrages, which amounts to the same thing as if it had applauded them.

The United States Senate has passed Mr. Sherman's resolution to investigate the Copiah county election murder and the Danville riot. It is generally believed that Mr. Sherman's object is to gather efficient campaign material for his party to use in the coming Presidential election. That he will succeed in a degree that will no doubt be gratifying to him is also reasonably sure.

The mere face of the killing of Matthews at the polls on election day would not have furnished political material for the Republicans of the Nation if the Copiah county Democrats had not passed their foolish resolutions, sanctioning the bloody deed. These resolutions would not have furnished efficient material to the Republicans if they had not been defended and sanctioned by enough newspapers in different sections of the State to warrant the Republicans in asserting that there is a large sentiment in Mississippi in favor of political murder and outrage. Notable among these newspapers were the Meridian Mercury, the Brandon Republican, the Vicksburg Herald, the Jackson Clarion by its silence, and the Port Gibson Reveille.

THE POST has claimed that these journals have not properly represented the true sentiment of a majority of the people of the State in thus defending outrage. We defy the Republicans to make any capital out of a single utterance of THE POST, and we defy the Mississippi outrage papers to point out a single sentence in our paper in reference to these outrages that can afford any aid or comfort to the Republicans.

If it can be demonstrated that the people of this State do not sanction political murders and outrages, the Republicans cannot make much capital out of the Copiah affair. The only attempt Northern Republican journals have made to utilize it, is by quoting the Copiah resolutions, and the commendatory utterances of such extreme journals as the Vicksburg Herald and Meridian Mercury. The utterances of THE POST are never quoted in the North to show that there is a bad public sentiment in Mississippi.

To show that these extreme Mississippi journals do not properly represent the true sentiments of our people, and to offer any material Sherman may pick up, we propose to begin with the Meridian Mercury. That journal has been published at Meridian for years, and has always been consistent in its extreme views. It has eked out a subsistence, but we think cannot be said to have prospered. But the principal fact to which we desire to call attention, is that its editor has several times been a candidate for office in his county (for State Senator we believe) and has always been signally defeated. At one time he was a candidate for Clerk of the Mississippi House of Representatives, but even a Mississippi Legislature could not stand his extreme and violent views, and he was again defeated. These defeats, however, have not changed the people of his own county, and a Mississippi Legislature, do not and did not long ago approve the course of the Mercury on the public questions of the day. So Mr. Sherman must make due allowance for the utterances of the editor of the Mercury; they are repudiated by his own people in a fair test—an election where he was a candidate for an important position for which he was no doubt qualified otherwise than that the people could not indorse his violent views and vagaries on political questions.

A Thought.

In 1860 the South had human slavery as its peculiar institution, and the moral sentiment of the civilized world burned all around it a cordon of fire that decreed its destruction. The South ignored the moral convictions of all the rest of Christendom, and clung to its institution with the energy of despair. It made a great quarrel, and a bloody war, and the freedom of the slave came with the victors' bayonets of the North.

In 1884 it is especially reserved for the South to have another institution that seems to have come from that former institution, known as the convict leasing and sub-leasing system, and this institution is bounded on the North by the Ohio river.

THE Washington Post (Dem.) warns the Democracy of the country that unless they repudiate the policy of the Ohio Democrats and the views of Senator-elect Payne the party will neither gain nor deserve success next year.

It is not until the 4th of next November that the world is coming to an end.

PAYNE, the leader of the "Young Democracy" of Ohio has a son fifty years. They have discovered the fountain of perpetual youth in the Buckeye State.—Exchange.

Yes; it is said to be in a barrel.

COPIAH COUNTY.

Another Letter from "Fair Play."

COPIAH COUNTY, MISS., Feb. 1, 1884.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

In my former articles I have tried to give the good people a chance to exonerate themselves from the foul murder of J. P. Matthews. I must confess that I am somewhat at a loss to understand why a majority of the voters of Hazlehurst should elect Wheeler Marshal of their town. Can it be possible that he was elected to the position as a reward for the killing of Matthews? If such is the case, how long will it be before some one else goes in the same way? I appeal to the Fathers of the town of Hazlehurst to consider well this matter. We are taught in the good book whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap. If you teach your boys that it is right to kill men like dogs, that differ with you politically, what may you expect when the political status of the South changes; which in the course of time will surely come? "Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord, and he will repay." Now mark you that some of your boys will die with their boots on. If such things as the killing of Matthews are endorsed by our old men, what may we expect of our young men? Can we expect a high standard of moral worth from our young men, when the old men teach by example that it is right to kill, steal, cheat and swindle in elections.

A man that will steal in elections will steal in other things when presented in the same way. I call upon the philanthropists of North and South to rise up in their might and put a stop to it. I have become disgusted with the tone of the press both North and South in regard to our political troubles. I think it best to do away with the farce of elections in the South, for it is a farce and nothing else. In our last election for State officers the whole Fusion ticket was elected from Governor down; Col. Ben King was elected beyond a doubt Governor of the State—a man above reproach; a man of fine executive ability; second to none in the State for legal ability; so far as honesty is concerned, he has no peers in the State; a man acknowledged as the mud-sills of Democracy. Why then should he be counted out and another in: because he saw fit to differ with Bourbon Democracy. The policy of Bourbon Democracy has ever been, and I greatly fear ever will be, to rule or ruin.

Our papers, or at least the most of them, declare that they are in favor of a free vote, and an honest count. But alas, away with such stuff, for it is all bosh. The only time the little game took was ever elected was this last time when he ran for Congress. Mark my word, he never will smell his seat as his own. There is no man that lives that I have as little use for as the little game cock; yet he was elected, and ought to have his seat.

Now I think, as I have said in my former articles, that the Republican party ought to be in favor of the disfranchisement of the negro and his colonization. If the Republican party will move off in this direction and the Democratic party should oppose it, then let the General Government see to it that every vote that is cast be honestly counted, though the voter be as black as the ace of spades.

FAIR PLAY.

The Vicksburg Post and Other Papers.

It seems to us, the VICKSBURG POST, having better advantages, or more aptitude and better pluck and enterprise, went into the business of manufacturing ready-made bloody-shirts for consumption in Northern sections where there is a demand for accounts of wrongs to the poor negro. The POST, since it started the business, seems to be much encouraged by Southern journals who want to stand well with the shirt-shriekers. It has great reason to be encouraged at the success of its business and persevere. THE POST has got to adding ornaments to its goods and making them perfectly attractive. It has attracted the attention of two sage and influential journals, the Mobile Register and the Memphis Avalanche.

In their remarks they allude to the Mercury and suggest a falsehood as to the Mercury's position upon lynching bad and dangerous negroes in the South. They allude to the Mercury as encouraging such deeds as the Yazoo lynching. This is wholly untrue. The Mercury, in nothing it has uttered, has done any such thing. It has not applauded the actors in the tragedy, but could not condemn them for resorting to such summary methods of self-protection, and pointed out reasons why they must and will resort again and again. We showed that it was in the nature of the negro's moral constitution differing so essentially from the white man's that they will continue to occur. No amount of homilies about obeying the law will ever prevent the evil, if evil it is. They are apt to say, these demoralizing philosophers, that a whole State, or whole county, ought not to be blamed for what a few members have done. That is correct. This whole idea underlies the other, that Northern sentiment must be propitiated, whereas, if they would take the bull rightly by the horns, they would throw the whole North in the blame for all the outrages upon negroes that occur. It was the whole North, Democrats and all, that have thrown upon the Southern States the duty and responsibility of governing the people rightly by such laws as they may wisely adopt from time to time, and it has been a solid North that has imposed a condition which renders it impossible they can ever succeed to prevent the disorders complained of. In the very essence of the reconstruction measures, it is impossible. And that casts the blame where it properly belongs—on the solid North. "No discrimination on account of race, color or previous condition." There is where the mischief is and where it will remain to breed Yazoo tragedies while it remains. The Southern people accepted it, not in wisdom, but at the point of the bayonet. So hampered, it is impossible that they can enact judicious laws suitable to their situation for protection of life and preservation of order. The case demands discrimination on account of race. The negro needs discriminating laws to keep him orderly in his proper place in his relation to the white man, as for instance, a whipping post for the negro that needn't be for the white man. The idea that all men are free and equal is utopian and gives the negro the big-head, puffs him to importance, and stimulates to numerous villainous deeds that the white man can't stand. The Legislature of '65 was the wisest body that ever sat in Jackson. They went about making laws discriminative with freedom and abandon that was refreshing. The solid North looked on with amazement and grew in unanimity for the amendments, which they forced on the South. When they had forced those amendments upon the South, they took up the foolish idea that we were reconstructed and turned the South over to themselves, and said, go now and govern yourselves. The disgrace diversity wisely and well. Hampered thus by a constitution over and above the State authority, they are undertaking a job that never was done and never can be done. There is where the mischief lies. If you want to blame anybody, blame the fools and fanatics of the North who put the incongruous Federal constitutional provision over and above the State. These are the people who are to blame for the Yazoo tragedy. Let them brush away the negro amendment and turn the State over to the time honored principle of constitutional self-government and it will all go right, the negro will respect the white man's rights and have a decent respect for the white man himself, and the white man will respect the negro's rights. The white liveried gentlemen of the press may call this treason. Then call it treason and make the most of it, and cringe and fawn according to their several natures; they are the words of truth and soberness.—Meridian Mercury.

NOTES.

The steamer Headlight is due early on Monday from the Sunflower river.

The steamer W. P. Halliday will pass up Monday evening from New Orleans bound for St. Louis.

The U. S. mail steamer Capt. Miller will be up Sunday night and returns to same place Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

The steamer Ed. Richardson got away at 8 o'clock last night for New Orleans with 450 bales of cotton and 3000 sacks seed and meal.

The P. Line steamer City of Yazoo will be in this morning and return to New Orleans as soon as discharged and loaded.

She has a big trip awaiting her here.

The steamer W. P. Thompson is receiving to leave at 4 o'clock for Bunch's Bend and other points as high as Ashton.

Nelon master, H. Denio clerk.

The big Natchez will be up on Monday from New Orleans and returns again Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock. Capt. T. P. Leathers in command, and Entrickin clerk.

The steamer DeSmet got away last night for Greenville, with a big trip. She returns again Monday to leave Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock going as high as Belzoni.

Capt. E. C. Carroll received a telegram from Capt. Kaiser at St. Louis announcing the opening of navigation. Steamers will leave there hereafter for all points south in regular order.

The P. Line steamer E. C. Carroll, Jr., leaving Monday evening at 5 o'clock for Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers going as high as Sharkeys through Tehula Lake.

The T. R. Smith master, and Charley Wallace clerk.

The steamer J. M. White passed up from New Orleans to-day with a good list of freight and passengers. She will be down again on Monday for New Orleans, and all lower coast landings, will leave here Monday at 5 p.m.

The steamer Hard Cash is due from Tallahatchie river Sunday evening and will leave again Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, going as high as Sharkey's. Capt. B. S. Leathers master, and Scott Phillips clerk.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Providence arrived this morning at 1 o'clock from Arkansas City with a good list of passengers and freight. She will be down again on Monday for Arkansas City.

The Belle of the Bends Issaquena will be in on time to-night from Greenville, and leaving at 5 o'clock Monday evening for all upper bend landings as high as Greenville. Capt. Marionneaux master, Steinhagan, Hendrickson and Sartorius clerks.

CLIPPINGS.

The Memphis Avalanche of Friday 1st says: "There is a party in Cincinnati to contract for a new boat to run from New Orleans to Arkansas City, and connect at the latter point with the Little Rock, Mississippi River and Texas Railroad. She is to be a cotton carrier with 8 feet depth of hold. The contract has not yet been let, and the Marine Railway and Dry Dock Company is in possession of the specifications and will probably build the boat."

New Orleans Times-Democrat: We are informed that, notwithstanding the decision of the Supreme Court, enjoining Capt. S. H. Parisot from "managing, controlling, directing or assisting in any way, through his own act, or through the acts of those whom he controls, in the running of any steamboat on the Mississippi river and the city of New Orleans," the Parisot Line of boats will continue their regular trips between the points indicated as heretofore. The Parisot Line City of Yazoo left as usual last evening.

Memphis Ledger, 31st: The ice the harbor at St. Louis moved two or three times last evening and did some damage to various crafts along the shore. The wrecking steamer Salvor No. 2 was cut down and sunk. The steamer Minneapolis had a hole stove in her hull, and one or two barges badly damaged. These vessels were lying in the lower part of the city, between the arsenal and wood house. The steamers nearer the center of the city so far have suffered no damage, but it is feared that when the ice goes out there will be considerable destruction of property.

Outrageous Demagoguery.
Mississippi is at present afflicted with a species of demagoguery that is likely to become epidemic and spread over other States in the Union within the next decade. This is more likely when we consider that no State is wholly exempt from that element which affords the demagogue opportunities to come prominently before the people in such a capacity.

The species of demagoguery we allude to is the attempt on the part of several members of the legislature to secure the passage of a bill prohibiting all county and State officials together with the public printers and their employers, from accepting, or traveling on, free railroads passes.

Aside from the fact that legislatures have nothing to do with the private affairs of individuals, the mere offering of such a resolution is an insult to every person in the employ of the State, for no one has a right to presume against the integrity of officers against whom no charge has ever been lodged, much less to formulate a law on the supposition that certain temptations cannot be withstood and then proceed to punish the ones against whom this law is directed in the same as if they had really been overtaken in guilt. If railroad passes are used in that State to bribe people with, let the guilty ones be hunted out and punished severely at the law allows, but which can as easily be done as the work of investigation entrusted to private citizens in the capacity of Grand Jurors. To say that a man shall not accept any courtesy that one individual, or a dozen individuals in a corporate capacity, may see fit to tender him, is a privilege not delegated to any legislative body under the heavens, and the assuming of which no amount of demagoguery can justify.—Mexia-Texas Ledger.

Drawn Blank.
[All the Year Round.]

The passionate grief beside the dying bed;
The passionate longing for the vanished bliss;
The passionate yearning for the glory fled;
Of each we ask: "Can life bear worse than this?"
Aye—answer weary lips and tired eyes,
To violent sorrows, solace nature grants;
Worse than the world's supremest agonies,
Are all its empty blanks—its hopeless wants.

When vivid lightnings flame and thunders crash,
When the fierce winds lash the fierce sea to storm,
We see the beacons by the lurid flash,
The tossing spray clouds glittering rainbows form;
But when below the sullen drip of rain,
The waters sob along the hollow shore,
'Tis hard to think the sun can shine again,
The dull waves gleam to living light once more.

When time saps slowly strength and hope away,
And the black gulf yawns by the lonely path,
When the dumb night creeps on the empty day,
And the one clue of all is held by death;
Look not to Solid Joy or lingering love,
To wake the power youth and faith had given,
Take patiently the lot we all must prove,
Till the great bar swings back and shows us Heaven.

A New Departure in Literature.

It will not be very long before the first writers of this country will sell their pens to advertisers. Just now more attention is paid to the newspaper and other ads., to space and style of type used; but I see indications that before long the matter itself will receive first attention. The idea is being worked by some houses now, who publish a few lines of interesting matter with a taking head, ahead of their ads., but their ventures are only the pioneers. You mark my words, the advertising columns of your newspapers will presently be filled with stories and poems from the first pens in this and other countries, which will hold the reader's attention to the end, and still be advertisements."

"Do you think then that Alfred Tennyson would write an advertisement for a clothing house?"

"I do. He sold some verses on 'Spring' to an Eastern juvenile publication last month, not because he cared for the journal at all, but merely because they desired the verses as an advertisement and were willing to pay a stiff price for them. Why, one of our Cincinnati soap manufacturers has one of the first artists in this country at work turning out picture advertisements for him, and artists as a class are quite as proud as literary men. When the time comes the new departure will put money into the pockets as well of the advertisers as the writers."

A French Translation of Longfellow's Great Poem.

Tell me not in disconsolate rhymes:
"Life is a dream void of sense, for the soul is dead when it goes to sleep and the things are not what they appear to us to be."

Life is real; life is serious; death is not its term. "Dust, thou shalt return to dust." The word has not been said of our soul.

Neither joy nor sorrow is our destiny. Our lot is to act; in order that each next day may find us more advanced than the day before.

Art is long; time flies; our hearts, so courageous, so strong as they can be, beat often a funeral march as their pulses

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a Building Society's stock, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

"BARMISVAH."

An Interesting Jewish Ceremonial.

The interesting Jewish ceremony, called, in the Hebrew language, "Bar-mis-vah," was performed in the Cherry Street Synagogue this morning, Rabbi Bien officiating. This is the confirmation, and the candidate in this instance was Master Max Isaacs, a son of Mr. Isaacs of the firm of Rubman & Co. After an anthem by the choir, Master Max repeated the following prayer and address:

PRAYER.

Heavenly Father! from the deep recess of my youthful heart I direct my words and my hands upward to Thee. Thou hath lead me kindly and lovingly to this day; thanks, thanks my God and maker for the most precious, most dearly beloved parents, for the many friends and relatives whom Thou hath vouchsafed to me; by whose guidance, counsels and affections, I have been led from infancy to the steps of Thy throne here this day, where they place me before this assembled congregation, to join as a Barmitvah the great community of Israel, taking upon myself all the responsibilities, duties and privileges granted by the time hallowed religion of our forefathers. May there be acceptable the words of my mouth, the thoughts of my mind and the feelings of my heart. Oh! my Rock and Savior. Amen.

Beloved friends: This days' portion read from our holy Tora institutes our Passover Commemoration. It commands among other ceremonials:

Unazos al m'rourim youch luhu Mazos and bitter herbs shall be partaken of at the feast meal. Our ages teach: whoever does not observe these three Pesach-symbols has not fulfilled his Jewish duty. These ceremonials represent the fundamental laws of the Mosaic religion: God, Revelation and final judgement. These three cardinal principles form humanity, create Israel and give destiny to every individual. They give me on this day of my Bar-mitsvah the parole for the successful course of my future life.

There is a God—one only God!

With this banner word have we crowned the great and glorious history of our people. Under its protection have we conquered and are yet conquering the world, in spite of all the hardships, persecution and trials that were the fate of our people. It is deeply written in our hearts and entwined with every thought of our mind. Upon this we rest the whole basis of life, and, I therefore choose it as the main prop for all my future days.

Next to the knowledge that there is but one God we have by His love and wisdom the revelation of his holy will. It has pleased our heavenly Father to make known to us, His people, and through us to all the world His love, by which we may walk through life as His children, and among ourselves as a covenant of brothers. His will is not in Heaven, that we may climb up there, to obtain it; or in the depth of the sea that we are requested to dive down to possess it; but it is written down for us in our inheritance forever, the holy Bible. What can there be more precious than the knowledge, that therein, we can find all that is true, righteous, good and noble? What can I do better than to resolve this day, to make God's word my guide and directory, by which I may attain a life which shall be an honor and pride to myself, my dear parents, teachers and friends?

Lastly there is given to us the undisputed knowledge of Final Judgment. It is the unerring dial on the face of time. Often and often do we see in this world, the wicked flourish and the righteous suffer. Often do we see wrong and sin prevailing over right and virtue. But here is not the end; this life is but preparatory to another, where all these inequalities and mysteries will and must be solved. Let this thought then be the fulcrum which shall direct my course in life; let me prepare with the certainty, that God knows all, weighs all and judges all in His good time and I shall not stumble nor go astray. Thus will I be led to the end by these grand principles of our holy Jewish Religion: One God! One revelation of his unsettled will, one final judgment of the good and the wicked, the right and the wrong, the holy and the profane. Unanoel.

CLOSING PRAYER.

Once more Heavenly Father I direct my eyes, my hands and heart to Thee in devout prayer. Grant me the fulfilment of wishes and hopes. Let me grow up and rise to the development of my faculties, with which Thou in Thy goodness and mercy has endowed me. Let every expectation of all those who so tenderly love me be realized; restore soon to us all my beloved brother, (which is the cause of anxiety of her heart to see her youngest child dedicated and consecrated to Thy service), has for a long time been absent, her enfeebled health ventured forth to this temple, to unite her prayers with mine and bless me as true Jewish mothers are wont to. Bless my dearly cherished father, brother, sister and friends, and on this day be a memorial in their and my life. Lead me in Thy ways that my future days are all to be crowned by the halo of Thy light, and when I finally shall be called home, to end my days here, and through the aveune of death begin the great Hereafter, let me part hence with the last proclamation of a true Israelite.

Shinah Israel Adony Elohaim Adony Echod. Hear Oh Israel, God is our Lord, God is but One. Amen! Amen.

The young man delivered the address in a distinct voice and in excellent style. After it was finished, Rabbi Bien read the service and the choir sang responses. Master Max was then congratulated by his relatives and the ceremony was over.

REV. MR. CUMMINS, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this city, leaves on the train to-night for Brandon, whither he goes to participate in the ceremonies attending the installation of Rev. Mr. Williams, the pastor-elect of the Presbyterian church at that point. Consequently there will be no service in his own church to-morrow.

WHILE Baking Powders largely advertised as being absolutely pure are found to be enlivened by the presence of "Ammonia," and others betray "Alum," as an item of composition, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder is found to be free from every trace of improper or harmful ingredients. Dr. Price's Cream is the most perfect powder made.

MR. W. E. FOLKES, of Hall's Landing, came in on the early train this morning. He represents that while at Jackson last night waiting for the Vicksburg train, he was robbed of some thirty dollars by some three-card monte men. He had one old loan who came in on the same train arrested as one of the parties. Nothing mighted after as investigations that did not seem was lacquer, he had lots of wind.

CITY CHARTER DISCUSSION.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen Meet to Discuss the new Charter, and Have More Fun than Anybody.

The special meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen to consider the adoption of the revised City Charter, failed to materialize yesterday afternoon until about four o'clock. Aldermen present: Loyd, Trowbridge, Worrell, Baum, Polk, Anderson, Ehrman, Crayton, Clerk Trowbridge and City Attorney Gilland. Alderman Trowbridge became President pro tem, and the reading of the revised Charter was begun.

The first section, touching the boundaries of the city, specified that they should be as changed as to include all property situated north of a direct line which should be run from the residence of Mr. Wm. Hennessee west to the river. Alderman Polk moved to amend the section so as to make the line run about 300 yards north of the Refuge Oil Mill, and include Kleinston. The motion was seconded in a speech by Alderman Loyd. It was then put and unanimously carried.

The next section, specified that the election of Board of Mayor and Aldermen should take place on the second Tuesday in December, and that they assume the duties of office on the second Tuesday in January, and that one Alderman be elected for a term of one year, and one be elected for a term of two years. Alderman Loyd moved that the candidate receiving the highest number of votes be elected for the long term, and that the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes be elected for the short term.

Alderman Anderson arose and objected. He said that the trouble with Vicksburg now was that she had too many election. He then offered as a substitute for the motion that the section relating to the election of Aldermen be allowed to remain as in the old Charter, and was seconded by Alderman Ehrman. It was debated at some length by the members, and a vote upon it defeated the substitute. Ayes 2, nays 5. The original motion was then put and carried. Ayes 5, nays 2.

Sec. 5. Relating to voting places, contained no changes, and was adopted as read.

Sec. 6 contained no material changes and was adopted as read.

Sec. 7 related to the power of the Board to elect the following city officers: Clerk, Marshal, Assessor and Collector, Market Master, Physician, Wharf and Harbor Master, and fixed their term of office at one year.

Alderman Loyd moved that a President pro. tem. should receive the pay of Mayor. The question was seconed, put and carried.

Alderman Anderson moved that the term of service in the city offices be made two instead of one year, and that the City Marshal be elected by the people instead of by the Board, as was provided in the proposed section. He was ruled in the proposed section. He was ruled it was virtually disfranchising the people. The motion was lost.

Alderman Crayton moved that the Clerk and Marshal be elected for two years unless sooner removed by the Board, and was seconded by Alderman Loyd. The motion was lost. Ayes 3, nays 4.

It was then moved that section 7, as amended by Alderman Loyd, be adopted. Carried by a vote of 5 to 1.

Sections 8 and 9 were adopted as read.

Section 10 provides that the Mayor shall receive a salary of not more than $1,500 nor less than $1,200 per annum.

Mr. Loyd moved that the section be amended so as to make the Mayor subject to a fine of $10 for missing a meeting of the Board without a reasonable excuse. It was seconded, put and carried. Ayes 5, nays 3. During the debate upon the above Mr. Anderson vehemently opposed the motion, and said that the Mayor was under bonds for the faithful performance of his duty, and it did not look well for them to make that official subject to a fine, but his sweetness was wasted on a desert air.

The President then ordered a recess of five minutes, at the end of which time the Board was again called to order.

Sec. 11, regarding the jurisdiction of the Mayor in petty offences, was amended so as to allow the Mayor to impose a sentence of imprisonment as well as fines. Adopted. Ayes 4, nays 3.

Sec. 12 related to the power of the Mayor to fix bonds in petty cases. It was moved that it be so amended as to allow the bonds to be fixed at not more than $150 nor less than $50. Amendment was lost, and the section was adopted as read, fixing limits for such bonds at not more than $500 nor less than $50.

Sec 13 related to the salary of the City Clerk, and fixed same at not less than $100 nor more than $125 per month. Adopted. Ayes 4, nays 3. This section also provided the City Clerk be City Registrar ex officio. This was warmly advocated by some, and as warmly opposed by others, the Board being about equally divided on the question. It was cussed and discussed for over an hour, and enough eloquence was wasted upon the subject to have moved a cast-iron statue. The section was adopted, however, as originally read.

Sections 14 and 15 were adopted as read.

Section 16, relating to warrants, was adopted immaterially changed.

Sec. 17 provided that the City Marshal should receive not less than $75 nor more than $100 per month, and was adopted.

A motion to adjourn was lost.

Sec. 18, which is the same as in the old charter, was adopted as read.

Sec. 19 related to the appointment of a City Registrar. Alderman Anderson moved that it be allowed to stand as in the old charter. He said the new one was unjust to the poor and more ignorant classes of voters, both white and colored, as many of them would not know enough to come to the City Hall and register, whereas they would register if they had an opportunity in their various wards. He said it placed them in the hands of politicians, and would make the elections anything but an expression of the people. He was promptly sat down on by the Board. Mr. Ehrman then became President pro tem., and Mr. Trowbridge took the floor in reply to Mr. Anderson. At the end of his remarks he resumed the chair.

Another motion to adjourn was lost. The President then asked Mr. Crayton's opinion upon the matter. Mr. Crayton responded with a short talk, wherein he agreed with Mr. Anderson, in regard to the unfairness of the adoption of the proposed section. He moved that in addition to keeping the registration books at the City Hall, they also be kept open in each ward for one day preceding the election. His motion was carried, and the section was adopted as amended.

Sec. 20, which relates to the city cemeteries, was adopted as read; as was also Sec. 21, which relates to the Market-master and the Market-house.

Sec. 22, relating to the duties of the City Physician, was adopted as read.

Sec. 23 provided that Aldermen should receive no pay. It was amended so as to allow Aldermen $5 for each meeting, to take effect when a new Board goes in. The amendment was carried by a vote of 4 ayes to 3 nays.

Sec. 24 was in regard to the reports of the city officers. It was adopted as read.

Sec. 25, in regard to contracts and sealed proposals, was adopted as read, as was also Sec. 26.

Sec. 27, related to claims, and was adopted as read.

Sec. 28, contained over thirty-five articles, relating of the power of the Board, to regulate the sanitary condition of the city;

To levy privileg: taxes on various mercantile pursuits;

To license hacks, and other vehicles;

To regulate the license of circus and theatrical exhibitions, or to suppress them;

To regulate and suppress gambling houses, houses of ill-fame and houses of prostitution;

To restrain and punish vagrancy;

To regulate the work-house;

To confine State prisoners in the county jail;

To regulate the cemeteries;

To regulate slaughter and hide houses;

To regulate and restrain the running loose of cattle upon the streets;

To provide for the punishment of misdemeanors;

To regulate and improve roads leading to the City Cemetery;

To provide for the building of sidewalks or to compel property owners to build them;

To establish regulations for the protection of streets and sidewalks;

To regulate the running loose and muzzling of dogs;

To grant right of way to railroads;

To purchase real estate for public purposes;

To regulate warrants;

To regulate wharf matters;

To regulate the Fire Department;

To regulate the storage of gunpowder and other explosive substances;

To regulate the speed of horses within the city limits;

To regulate public drainage;

To regulate paving of public streets;

To regulate health;

To authorize the city to appropriate $3,000 per annum for the City Hospital;

To regulate assessments;

To place the taxing limit at 2 per cent.

Articles 26 and 27 were stricken out, and articles 31, 32 and 34 contained no changes. Article 35 provided that the tax sales be changed to read alike the State laws. The above embraces all the articles of importance in this section.

A petition from Mrs. Richard King, praying for a reduction of taxes, read and granted.

A petition for more gas lamps in the Second Ward was read.

Alderman Crayton moved that the President appoint a Committee of two to present the revised charter to the Legislature. It was carried. It was afterwards moved that the President be one of above Committee, which was also carried.

The Board then adjourned to meet at 3 o'clock this evening.

No action was taken in regard to the proposition of the L., N. O. & T. R. R., relating to the locating of their shops here.

And the end is not yet!

At last we are resigned. Let the weather come as it may, it cannot be worse than we have had.—Times-Star.

GALVESTON, Feb. 2.—A News Skerman special says: George Belk, who for a long time was the terror of the Delaware Bend country, has been captured in Indian Territory by the sheriff of this county. Burrell Elmore, a member of Belk's band of desperadoes, was also captured, in a different locality.

Belk's latest devilry was the shooting of an inoffensive negro at Forsheer on the plantation burning of a church and schoolhouse at the same place. The sheriff and his deputies by a stratagem got between Belk and his horse, to which his Winchester was strapped, and having the drop on the outlaw, he surrendered quietly.

The Kentucky Senatorship.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 2.—In the Democratic caucus at Frankfort, the selection of a candidate for Senator, was postponed until Monday. Mr. Carlisle's name will be a member of his henchmen left Frankfort for home. He abandons the field. His name will be withdrawn in proper form on the first ballot Monday night, and half of his supporters are voluntarily working up Carlisle's candidacy. Some of them, in conference with Blackburn's friends, found ready supporters of the movement. A great deal depends upon Mr. Hallam's course. Mr. Carlisle's withdrawal can be made or marred very easily. When the members return they will bring back the assurances of their constituents that no election must be had immediately, and they will remain all night in caucus if necessary to do it. Some of Sweeny's friends will go to Williams, but inevitable defeat stares Blackburn and Williams in the face.

A Sheriff Taken for Regulators and One of Them Shot and Seriously Injured.

[Special to the Picayune.]

OSYKA, MISS., Feb. 1.—Last night, Deputy Sheriff W. R. Thompson, of Tangipahoa parish, La., with a posse of men, called at the house of Steve Coney, living one mile east of Chatawa, Pike county, Miss., to search for one of the Amite City jail breakers, whom they thought to be in Coney's house. The house was surrounded and admittance demanded. Coney, who took them for a band of Regulators, responded that he would comply, but instead loaded his gun, and when the demand to let the party in was reiterated, he quietly unbarred the door and thrusting the muzzle of the gun out, fired into the right jaw of Mr. R. Sanders, a prominent merchant of Tangipahoa, tearing away the bone and producing a painful wound, from which he may not recover.

The Railroad Shops.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

"The diligent hand maketh rich—says the Wise Man."

Why aleep our citizens while the golden moments are flitting? Why slumber our city fathers while the rich fruits of the hour are ready to fall? The golden apples of progress and prosperity are crying: "come and pluck us; nay open your laps and let us fall therein." "Why don't you beg?" was asked of a poor, forlorn, pitiable object sitting by the wayside. "Och, murther! isn't it begging that I am all over?" So are now held out to our citizens this golden fruit of rich returns for a little energy and timely action; but that action must be prompt and earnest, for this opportunity once passed by returns not again.

—The general shops of the L., N. O. & T. R. R. are seeking a place for location, and they will most assuredly be located within the next sixty days. Memphis wants them, and will bid high for them; but she is at one end of the line of road. New Orleans wants them, but she is at the other end. Does Vicksburg want them? She is central; more than two hundred miles of road stretch north and south of her; an unsurpassed location for the shops; the advantages of our grand old river at the doors of the shops, and bearing upon its bosom the untold wealth of the Nation. All these advantages speaking trumpet-toned in her favor, with advantages of timber unequaled. Will our citizens sit supinely, with folded hands and let this opportunity pass? IT WILL NEVER RETURN! Vicksburg has claims on the road, but it will require the passage by the Legislature of an enabling Act to empower her Board of Mayor and Aldermen to compromise her matter with the road.

JUSTY.

Miss Josie Kearney Takes the White Veil.

On last Saturday evening, at the Convent of the Sisters of Mercy, on Crawford street, Miss Josephine Kearney, daughter of P. A. and Mrs. Catherine Kearney, and a sister of Mr. John C. Kearney, took the white veil of the above order. The relatives and friends of the candidate gathered in the Convent Chapel, and at about half-past six the procession, consisting of a cross-bearer, little girls in white, representing Angels, the Sisters of Mercy, and the candidate escorted by the Mother Superior and Sister Superior, entered and passed down the aisle to the Altar. Miss Lucy Kearney acted as cross-bearer, and the little girls were Misses Hortense Ferguson, Mary White, Gracie Forbes and Katie Formoski. Rev. Father Pichcrit then delivered an excellent sermon of advice on woman's length. This young lady he said, had given up the world—and consecrated her life to the service of the church and to the discharge of a labor of love and mercy among the afflicted and unfortunate. When the infirmities of age should come upon her, she could look back upon a life devoted to works of mercy. The memories of a happier past or of blighted affections could then cluster around her. Hers would be a life of faith. After the sermon was concluded the beautiful and impressive ceremony of blessing the veil took place. In company with two of the sisters the candidate then withdrew from the Chapel, soon returning, dressed in the habit of the order. And after the chants and responses from the excellent convent choir the ceremony was concluded. Miss Josephine, who will be known as Sister Margaret Mary, pronounced to be taking the habit of the sisterhood wore a beautiful costume of white, and presented an elegant appearance.

Freight for the Natchez.

On account of an accident to the machinery of the steamer Natchez on her way up from New Orleans, she turned back from Baton Rouge.

2,000 bales of cotton and 4,000 sacks seed, which were awaiting her here, will go forward this evening to New Orleans on the steamer J. M. White, now due down.

Meeting of Board of Mayor and Aldermen.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen were to have had a meeting at half past three o'clock to-day, but out of respect to Mr. John A. Klein, whose death is announced elsewhere, the meeting was postponed until half past seven o'clock this evening.

The Congressional Inquiry into the Virginia and Mississippi Election.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—All members of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections were present at the meeting this morning, the Mississippi election being under consideration.

Senator Hoar, Chairman, was directed to ask the Senate for authority to send for witnesses. The opinion was expressed, and met favor, that Virginia investigation should take place in Washington and that a sub-committee be sent to Mississippi.

Fine Valentines.

The finest display of valentines we have ever beheld is now to be seen at the store of J. F. Baum & Co. We cannot fail to mention one we noticed, which, for artistic design and beauty of finish it would seem impossible to excel. It is a rich satin print on an elegant plush mount. The design is a reproduction of F. S. Church's important work, called "Lion in Love," the poetry is by J. V. Cheney, and the valentine comes from the celebrated house of Prang & Co., of Boston. The fact that this souvenir is retailed at $10 each may prevent some young men from sending one to their "duckey darling," but there is also a full assortment of very beautiful and elegant ones to be found in their extensive stock that are less expensive. There is no reason why any one should fail to find what he wants in that line at the above place, and there are plenty of accommodating clerks to wait upon you. Young man, if you have made up your mind and saved up your salary in order to please your girl with a valentine, you can find no better place to purchase it than J. F. Baum & Co's.

P. S.—The twenty-dollar valentines have arrived, but were not opened in time to be interviewed by our reporter.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB 4, 1884.

THE Hon. Ben King, of Copiah, is lying dangerously ill of pneumonia.

THE National Cotton Planters' Association of America has a petition before the Legislature asking for $50,000 for the centennial show. Pass the bill if you see proper, but forever after seal your lips against any abuse of the Ames dynasty.—Port Gibson Reveille.

THE Fitz John Porter bill passed the House last Friday. It is a refreshing thought that Congress is at last free to turn its attention to business. It would probably have been best for the Democratic House to let this case alone.

WANT OF HARMONY.—A Picayune special from Baton Rouge says:

"The misunderstandings existing between the rival factions of the Democratic party of East Baton Rouge appear to widen rather than close, as no compromise or conciliatory propositions have been made on either side."

MR. KEIFER, of Ohio, Speaker of the last House of Representatives, is being "investigated" on a charge of accepting a bribe while occupying the Chair. The evidence is very damaging—or would be in most instances, but in this case to say the evidence is "conclusive," covers the ground.

AN election was held at Beauregard, Miss., February 2d, resulting in the selection of the following gentlemen: H. Moody, Mayor; Sam Moody, E. F. Pierce, Ed. Cotten, Le O. Bridewell, Wm. Biggs, Sr., Aldermen; J. F. Bridewell, Marshal. The Mayor was unanimously elected. There was an exciting contest for the Marshal's office between D. M. Mabney and Mr. Bridewell, the latter having a majority of fifteen. The town of Beauregard is in Copiah county.

A GENTLEMAN just from Meridian says the people of "the mighty East" are dissatisfied with Gov. Lowry's course in regard to Railroad supervision; and that if he vetoes the Railroad supervision bill he will not incur their displeasure to any greater degree than he has already done. We have strong hopes yet that the Senate will not pass the House bill, but if it does the Governor may as well know the "mighty East" is not to be propitiated by an approval of it. A good, strong veto would do him mighty well from the Governor if the bill slips through the Senate.

Northern and Southern Senators.

The Southern members surpass their sectional colleagues, not only in their easy elocution and broad statesmanship and mastery of all the subjects brought before the body, but in their practical familiarity with the details of legislation. Lamar, Morgan, West, Jones of Florida, Beck, Jones, Gibson, Pugh, Garland, and other Southern Senators, do not find in the ranks of the Northern members "formers worthy of their steel." John Sherman ranks as their ablest leader and his ability is that of cunning partisanship and adroit bloodshed cheering. He has no elocution, cannot even read his speeches with sufficient distinctness and intonation to be heard by more than a dozen Senators. This cannot be said of John Logan, whose tones and vocal range only serve to expose more conspicuously the artistic disregard of that venerated apostle Lindley Murray. Ingalls, of Kansas, is a sharp, bitter and epigrammatic talker, the effect of whose tart rejoinders and palable hits, to friends and foes, is greatly impaired by the nasal twang and drawling tones of his delivery. Edmunds, Hoar and the rest are of the same class of bloodless, sing-song speakers. In justice to the millionaire squad of the nouveaux reckless class, who compose one-sixth of the political force in the Senate, it should be conceded that they bear themselves with the modesty and silence befitting their position and calibres. They make no speeches, but are powerful in committees and in the lobby, and in grand and costly receptions.—Cor. N. O. States.

THE riots in Danville, and in Copiah county, will be investigated; but it is not likely that the report will excite much public attention. The recent decision of the Supreme Court has defined the right of Federal interference, and that decision has been accepted as final by the people of all sections. It is understood now that the negro has been a citizen long enough to take care of himself. Majorities ought to be strong enough to protect themselves, and the energy of the national life cannot be eternally devoted to the maintenance of a race issue.

The wise heads of the Republican party quite comprehend that they must depend for the future upon the living issues of the day. They are, above all, anxious to get to the windward of the Democracy on the tariff and other industrial issues. They see clearly enough that if the session is to be passed in sectional debate that the country will be disgusted, and that a change of parties will be generally welcomed as a relief from the evil. The truth is, that neither party can now take the initiative in the race question without putting itself at a disadvantage.—N. O. Picayune.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. John J. Doherty, local editor of the VICKSBURG EVENING POST. He was buried in Lorman Wednesday afternoon.—Brookhaven Leader-Rise.

Some Interesting Facts.

Placed upon the desk of each member of the Mississippi Legislature is a little pamphlet called a "Biennial Report of the Superintendent and Physician of the Mississippi Penitentiary," for the years 1882-83. It is addressed "To the Legislature of Mississippi." We wonder how many of these honorable gentlemen have read the real story written between the lines of this little book; how many of them have comprehended the history of sickness, sorrow and death written in the columns of figures compiled by Superintendent McQuiston.

His pamphlet tells the Legislature that in December 1883 there were 771 names on the prison register (page 3.)

And his recapitulation of deaths, pardons, etc., shows that in the years 1882 and 1883 the total number of deaths amounted to 217 (page 140.) This is verified by an itemized death roll (page 140.)

Taking 771 as the average number on the prison register for the two years—there being 108 deaths each year—the annual death rate reaches the extraordinary per centage of a fraction over 14 per cent.

Of these 217 deaths only 38 occurred within the walls. So there were 179 deaths in the camps during these two years.

But as the physician reports only 38 deaths—being all that occurred in the prison—and explains that this number of deaths is accounted for by the fact that sick convicts were sent to the prison hospital, it may be fairly assumed that the greater number of these 38 deaths can be charged to the camps—say 25 of them—and this number added to the 179 will give 204 as the probable total of deaths of the convicts worked outside the prison. This shows a death rate among the convicts in the camps higher than 15 per cent.

Some idea of this fearful record may be had by reference to the fact that the average death rate of the entire population of the State is about one and one-half of 1 per cent. And after making all allowance for the artificial character of prison life, this death rate is simply appalling. Mr. Cable declares that it is worse than any pestilence that ever swept over the continent of Europe.

Within the prison walls the showing is satisfactory enough; but this only deepens the horrors of the outside part of this wretched business.

Between one-sixth and one-seventh of the whole number of these unfortunate and miserable beings are swept into eternity each year; and how, and by what means? How is it to be explained? How are they lodged and clothed and fed and worked and beaten? In the name of humanity, let us discover the sum total of all the horrors and all the brutalities that must combine themselves to thus more than decimate their sorrowful ranks. Stop this one moment because of what might be thought abroad of these revelations; let us think only of the crime of defying the justice of a full and complete remedy.

The River Convention.

The Mississippi River Convention at Washington bids fair to call the attention of Congress forcibly to the importance of the works of navigation improvement now in progress. Various interests will doubtless be represented in the gathering. Those to whom a side issue—the construction of levees—appears more important than the deepening of the low-water channel, are likely to make themselves heard. But, if practical results are to be accomplished, two principles ought to be kept steadily in view: 1, that the appropriations for the Mississippi should be made in an independent bill; 2, that the plans of the River Commission must be adhered to. Where these rules have been disregarded it has proved entirely successful. The board may well be left to deal with the subject of levees according to their own judgment. The improvement of navigation, not the reclamation of land, is the business in hand.—Globe-Democrat.

Wise words, indeed—words of soberness and truth, containing a true and practical statement of the question. If the Convention will adhere to the work here outlined, great good will be accomplished.

A word as to the first of these propositions: That the appropriations for the Mississippi river should be reported in a separate bill. Surely this mighty river is of sufficient National importance —is an artery of commerce, an adjunct to trade, the most efficient and powerful promoter of the commercial wealth of this country—to entitle it to a separate and distinct report in a separate bill.

Now as to the second of these propositions, probably the most important of the two: That the plans of the River Commission must be adhered to. It is strange that there are men, who would be leaders in the matter—who put themselves forward and parade their manifold views and theories, and shout aloud their experience, all to the detriment of River Improvement—and yet fail to comprehend that the only possible method, under existing circumstances, to obtain appropriations for the improvement of the Mississippi river is that the appropriations shall be spent under the supervision and in accordance with the plans of the River Commission.

How useless is it for any other methods of expenditure or improvement to be advocated by the friends of the river! Without those adopted by the Old Commission. The body has been created by law to take charge of the work, and it is strange that every one cannot understand that there is no other body known to the laws that has any authority in the premises. With the Convention support the Commission? We believe it will.

On this subject the New Orleans Times-Democrat says:

"We caution those who participate in the Mississippi River Improvement Convention, to be held at Washington soon, not to injure its cause by making too much, by demanding what may frighten and offend a very friendly Congress. Congress will very carefully carry out the Commission's scheme, which, as we know, embodies the idea of the construction of levees as incidental to the work of increasing the depth of the river, but we hardly think it is disposed to embark in any new projects; nor do we think the convention will ask this of it."

The Matter of County Roads.

When the Mississippi Legislature succeeds in supervising the warm-roads of the State and making good roads throughout her limits, we may be willing for the Solons to tackle the railroads and supervise them awhile. But the condition of the highways of the State, which have been under the supervision of the Legislature for many years, does not speak very well for the competency of Supervisors in the way of making laws that will insure good roads.—Vicksburg Post.

The Post hits the nail squarely on the head in the above paragraph. Years ago the Examiner appealed to the Legislature to impose upon each county surveyor the additional duties of road master and bridge inspector for his county, allowing him, of course, a reasonable compensation for the work, and holding him responsible for its faithful performance. In this way each county would be enabled to secure good bridges at actual cost of construction, built of material bought by the county, by mechanics employed by the county, and superintended by an officer competent to plan and execute good work. The saving to every county that is pierced by important creeks or sloughs in the mere matter of contract-supplies, would more than reimburse the county if it paid its surveyor as good a salary as the railroads pay their civil engineers.

So far as our present plan of working common roads is concerned, it is simply miserable, and if the counties that are entirely without railroads and are making the larger amount of outcry in favor of "Legislative Supervision of corporations," would only direct their attention to this important matter, much good could be accomplished.

The road work in this State is chiefly done with plows and hoes, the only implements that the average road hand possesses except an ax, whereas the tools mainly needed are scrapers, picks and shovels; implements seldom at hand on a cotton plantation. Now if the Legislature is unwilling to aid the "dirt road" builders to any greater extent, we appeal to it to compel each county to purchase and keep at least one scraper, five shovels and two picks—in the custody of the road overseer—on every road within its jurisdiction. This will at least assure full and better work in the event of a rain, and to

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold.

A Reply from Mr. Marshall.

TO X. Y. Z:

If you mean by your curt inquiry to ascertain whether if elected to the State Senate I will favor or support any legislation towards supervising the tariff or rates of railroads in Mississippi, I unhesitatingly reply that I WILL NOT.

I deem it unnecessary to state the reasons for opposing such legislation, as our local newspapers have set them forth with a clearness and force not to be improved upon. Summed up they amount to this, it is not to our interest to embarrass the development of the country.
Yours respectfully,
M. MARSHALL.

Death of Mr. John A. Klein.

Mr. John A. Klein, one of the oldest and best known of our citizens, died yesterday at 1½ o'clock in the 72d year of his age, of general debility.

Mr. Klein settled in Vicksburg about the year 1830, and since that time up to within the last three years, has been foremost in every business enterprise.

Mr. Klein first commenced business as a jeweler, and after a few years embarked in the sawmill and lumber business—and when the war broke out had accumulated a handsome estate. At the close of the war, he went into the banking business, and was one of the founders of the Vicksburg Bank—but after a few years, in connection with others, started the Mississippi Valley Bank, whose disastrous failure startled this community in November last.

Mr. Klein had been in failing health for the last three years, and had ceased to have anything to do with business. He did not know at the time of his death anything of the failure of the Valley Bank.

John A. Klein was one of the most charitable men that ever lived in this or any other community, and no one will ever know of the countless deeds of charity done by him.

He had a great passion for building, and had erected more buildings in this city than any other one man that ever lived in it. He also promoted and largely assisted in the building of the Vicksburg & Meridian Railroad, and was one of the original promoters of the Memphis & Vicksburg Railroad Company and invested fifteen thousand dollars in the stock of the Company in 1872 when it was first started.

His funeral will take place from the Holy Trinity Church at half-past 3 o'clock this evening. He will be buried in the family burying ground.

Burglars Arrested.

Officers Grimes and McKenna this morning arrested two white men who arrived on the seven o'clock train from Jackson. They had committed a burglary in that city last night, and walked to Clinton, where they boarded the train for this city. Conductor McElroy, who was in charge of the train, had been notified to keep a lookout for them, and when they boarded his train he sent a dispatch to this city to have officers at the depot to arrest them. It is claimed that they burglarized the West Jackson Bakery, taking several hundred dollars. They gave their names as John Smith and Jacob Linderman, and are both Germans.

When searched, some jewelry, a pistol, and $8 in money were found upon Smith. He admitted robbing the bakery but said he only took the $8, leaving the remainder in the drawer. Linderman denies having had anything to do with the burglary, but he had some jewelry in his possession, and he admitted that he did not come honestly by it. Smith is twenty-five years old, a baker by trade, and has been in Jackson for almost four months. Linderman is a man of perhaps forty-five years of age, and his right arm is paralyzed. They are at present confined in the city work-house.

LATER.—The two men were taken to Jackson this evening on the 2:15 train, and will be delivered to the authorities of that city.

An Extraordinary Trip.

The steamer Hard Cash arrived yesterday morning from the Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers, with 800 bales of cotton and 3,000 sacks of seed. She also carried twenty two cabin passengers. A photograph of the steamer, as she lies with her cargo at the foot of China street, was being taken by Mr. A. L. Blanks the artist this morning. She will reship this evening on the J. M. White.

Special Trains for Mardi Gras.

Mr. Hardy, General Freight and Passenger agent of the Vicksburg & Meridian, and Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific divisions of railroads, in order to accommodate those who desire to visit New Orleans during Mardi-Gras, has made arrangements for a special train composed entirely of Pullman sleeping cars which will leave here on Sunday evening, the 24th inst., at 6 o'clock, arriving at New Orleans Monday morning, at 9 o'clock. This train will go via Meridian by way of the New Orleans & Northeastern division of the Queen & Crescent line. Mr. Hardy has further arranged for a sleeper to be attached to each train from New Orleans to this city for the four or five days following Mardi-Gras.

Two Fires.

About twelve o'clock last night an alarm of fire was sounded, the cause of which was the burning of the residence of Mrs. A. M. Webster, formerly Mrs. Zolleoger, a widow lady residing near the city cemetery. We were unable to learn how the fire originated, but understood that the building and its entire contents were destroyed. The building and furniture were insured in the Agency of W. M. Chamberlin for $1,500.

Another alarm was turned in at 10 minutes past 3 o'clock this morning. The alarm was first given by the bell of the steamboat Cherokee, rung by the watchman of the boat, Mr. Henry Williams, as soon as he discovered the fire. He gave the alarm and ran over to the boat on fire (the Ferryboat Aglia) and found the watchman—a white man—sound asleep. The fire broke out in the pilot-house which was entirely destroyed together with the pilot-wheel. Considerable damage was also done to the cabin roof. Parties got the pumps of the boat to work and by this means the boat was saved from entire destruction. The damage was fully insured. It will require some day's to repair the boat, but there will be no delay in the transportation of mails, freight and passengers as Capt. Mattingly has already provided for same.

For Lake Washington.

The steamer Tributary leaves for Lake Washington at 5 o'clock this evening. 1

Capt. E. J. Carroll, Supt. Parisot Line, Vicksburg, Miss.:

Will arrive Tuesday; full load, boat and barges.
J. W. SMITH,
Master str. He -dlight.

The Steamer Tributary and the Lake Washington Trade.

The light-draft, substantial and reliable little steamer TRIBUTARY, Captain J. L. Mulholland in command, arrived at 12 o'clock yesterday from Lake Washington with 395 bales cotton, 390 of which were for New Orleans and 5 for town; also 1,000 sacks seed for town. The Tributary got into Lake Washington early in the day, and Captain Mulholland had the pleasure of seeing all the people living on the Lake. The people were delighted to see the little steamer, and the officers of the boat are highly pleased with the reception they met with and the very flattering promises of patronage and business extended to them. Captain Mulholland brought down a large number of orders from the Lake, all of which will be filled here by our own merchants. It is to the interest of our merchants to sustain the Tributary and Captain Mulholland in his efforts to bring this valuable trade here. The Tributary being the first boat, or the pioneer in that trade, she should also be sustained by all the planters and people living on Lake Washington or in that vicinity.

She leaves promptly at 5 o'clock this evening for Lake Washington. Captain Mulholland informs us that all the C. O. D. bills of the steamer Tributary will hereafter be paid on board the boat the day of her leaving.

Editor of the Post:

In answer to the question in your paper of February 2d, in regard to Railroad Supervision, I am in favor of limited supervision, and the election of Commissioners by the people. And further, Of submitting the amended City Charter to a vote of the citizens for its adoption or rejection.

Respectfully,
H. C. CARTER.

South Carolina in a Properous Condition.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 5.—The News and Courier yesterday published an elaborate report on the condition of the agricultural, manufacturing and mining industries of every county in South Carolina, and remarks: "Despite the terrible losses of sixteen years of war and negro rule, South Carolina has a year derived from agriculture, manufacturing and mining $22,000,000 more than in 1876. The advance in agriculture is due to the labors of the white people of the State. Colored labor was less efficient last year than five years ago, and the available supply is constantly less than the demand.

The colored farmers, as a rule, are not making progress; are not saving money, and are not acquiring land. They succeed better as land owners than tenants, and as a body are valuable as laborers only so far as they are directed and controlled by white men. The number of immigrants in this State are insignificant. It is the native white farmers who have lifted South Carolina out of the slough and who make it progressive and profitable."

ACCIDENT ON THE NATCHEZ.

Explosion of a Steam Pipe—One Man Killed and Another Badly Scalded—Two Staterooms Wrecked.

[Special to the Picayune.]

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 3.—Delayed by a fog the steamer Natchez did not reach the landing this morning until 12 M., with a good freight aboard. She ascended the river, meeting with a serious accident five miles above town. The connecting steam pipe under the gangway exploded, doing considerable damage. Staterooms Nos. 6 and 7 were blown to atoms. A passenger in room 3, William Adams, of Baton Rouge, had his face and hands badly scalded. One of the cooks, while passing the gangway at the time of the explosion, was killed.

At the time of the accident the Natchez had in tow a barge of coal, and was running quite near the right bank. Being disabled, the pilot steered to the starboard, making a hasty landing and sinking the barge.

The tug of Messrs. Wood, Widney & Co., immediately repaired to the scene of the accident, with Drs. Reynaud and Darrington of this city, who administered to the suffering.

Mr. Adams was removed to the residence of Col. Favrot, of West Baton Rouge, after receiving medical attention. It is not supposed that his wounds are dangerous

The explosion occurred at 1 o'clock, and at dark the Natchez was still landed at the point where the trouble happened.

The Richardson is expected to tow the disabled boat to this city, where, after some few hours' work, the "Big Indian" will retrace her steps to New Orleans by working one wheel.

This is the first accident that has happened to the Natchez.

The commissions, making a total of $37,474.14, all of which were examined and found correct, cancelled audited and ordered to be recorded.

The Board then adjourned to meet at 12 o'clock this morning.

The Kentucky Senatorial Caucus.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 4.—Interest in the Senatorial contest is at white heart, and will remain so until the nomination is made. With Sweeney's withdrawal it was thought the deadlock would be broken; but the indications are that Carlisle will take his place, with a probable deadlock as the result.

There is much talk of Carlisle. His chances appear better than ever before. Sweeney thinks that Blackburn will win. The caucus meets again to-night.

JOHN KELLY has been keeping quiet lately. He is not dead, but sleeping. He will wake up in time for the November cruise.—Times Star.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 5, 1884.

WENDELL PHILLIPS, the distinguished old school Abolitionist, orator and writer, died in Boston Saturday afternoon, the 2d inst., 6 o'clock, after an illness of just one week.

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "Democratic candidates for Governor of Missouri are multiplying with such rapidity that it is difficult to keep track or count of them. The office is not seeking the men to any extent that we know of but about twenty men are seeking the office."

THROUGH the efforts of Hon. T. M. Miller, of this county, a bill has been passed to empower the city of Vicksburg to make a contract to secure the location of the shops of the Wilson road. Now let our city officials act prudently and promptly, and close the contract on any reasonable proposition that will insure the location of the general shops of the road in our midst.

THE brief prepared by Thos. W. Harris and J. T. Hull in Chalmers' interest in the contested election case has been forwarded us, which seems to be a plain presentation of the facts so far as many of the particulars are concerned. It is a plain case that Chalmers received a majority of the votes cast; there is not a shadow of doubt about that, and the contest does no credit to Manning and promises no good to the Democratic party.—Corinth Herald.

A CHICAGO journal modestly suggests that the celebration of the fourth centennial of the discovery of America should be held in that city, because it "is the pivot city of the United States," and best suited to the purposes of such a celebration. "Let the achievements of Columbus be celebrated where the best fruits of his adventure are growing, the heart city of the country," concludes the ambitious editor.

Is there not some way to blend the fourth centennial of Christopher Columbus with the "great New Orleans Cotton Exposition," and then ask the Mississippi Legislature to make a little larger appropriation on account of the combined attraction?

A NUMBER of Mississippi papers are copying the Vicksburg Herald correspondent's letter ridiculing Put Darden's "model farm." The correspondent invited himself to Mr. Darden's town, accepted Mr. Darden's hospitality, and then wrote a letter ridiculing his farm and surroundings. Many people will consider this in bad taste.

No matter what the condition of Mr. Darden's farm and live stock, it neither adds to nor detracts from the strength or weakness of any of the propositions advocated by the gentleman for the farmers, unless, indeed, Mr. Darden should claim it was the result of some of the evils which he complains of. Mississippi papers are hard up for arguments when they resort to such letters as that of the Herald correspondent to refute the assertions of Mr. Darden.

IT was with regret that we heard of the death of Mr. John J. Doherty, on Tuesday last in Vicksburg. When connected with the Sentinel office at this place Mr. Doherty made many friends, who will hear of his loss with sorrow. He was for some time a member of the branch here of the Catholic Knights of America. An excellent newspaper man, he was a great assistance to the VICKSBURG POST, of which he was one of the proprietors and city editor.—Yazoo Herald.

THE Vicksburg papers record the death of Mr. John J. Doherty, local editor of THE POST. Mr. Doherty was, a few years ago an employee of the Revellle. He was an industrious, intelligent and worthy young man.—Port Gibson Reveille.

What Mr. Manning Admits.

That Mr. Chalmers was elected is clearly admitted in Mr. Manning's answer, which reads as follows:—

"I admit that the inspectors and clerks of the several election precincts did certify to the county Commissioners of election in their respective counties that you received a majority of the votes cast, and I further admit that the 1,472 votes which the Commissioners of Tate county returned as cast for J. R. Chamblies were, in fact, cast for you, and that the name Chalmers was inserted in the return by clerical error instead of your name."

NOT one of the six Congressmen from California was born in that State. Tully is a native of Tennessee, Glascock of Mississippi, Hanley of Indiana, Rosecrans of Ohio, Budd of Wisconsin and Sumner of Massachusetts.

IT is said that not more that one-half of the cotton made last year by planters on Deer Creek has been shipped to the cotton factories, and that the balance of the entire crop is still in seed.—Yazoo Herald.

Our Convicts.

We of the South are sometimes inclined to pride ourselves upon our civilization and refinement, and it is not uncommonly assumed that possibly we are especially favored in this respect.

What is a civilization? There are many types and phases, but what of the best and highest?

And what is any civilization worth to humanity, however much it may boast itself, that does not manifest a sacred reverence for human life, and a just regard for all the rights of each human creature, however humble or unfortunate.

The "convict" has not ceased to be a human being, with feelings and emotions and a soul in his body. He is still one of the component parts of society, a citizen of the State, and he has not lost all his rights and all his claims upon humanity because he has broken a law on the statute books.

He is entitled to his life and his health, and he has a right to be exempt from pullings and stretchings, and thumb screwings and lashing, from overwork, and from all manner of brutal treatment.

We talk about reforms! Party organs prate about the tariff and free trade, and the silver dollar, and reforming the judiciary and regenerating the Nation. These things will take care of themselves. Little do the people of this continent know or care what we think of free trade or eighty-six cents worth of silver crammed into a coin called a dollar.

Let us do the duty that lies at OUR OWN DOORS. Let us find out what we do with our convicts.

If this subject has been treated from the standpoint of the humanitarian, or apart from the sordid inquiry of a few dollars of expense to the State, it has escaped our notice.

If anybody in authority, until Gov. Lowry's recent message, has proclaimed that the poor devil who puts on his stripes and leaves home behind, has rights that merit recognition, grievances that invite investigation, or wrongs that demand redress, the whisper was so gentle that it never reached the public ear.

The public now knows enough to demand that this subject shall have a full, fearless and intelligent inquiry, and the Democratic Legislature cannot afford to postpone or ignore it.

Monopolies to be Broken.

The following contains some encouragement to those who desire to see the Western Union Telgraph monopoly broken up. It is not probable that the present Congress will establish a Government postal telegraph, therefore our people will have to look to private enterprise for the desired relief, and in fact we would prefer to see it come from this source.

There is another and a worse monopoly than the Western Union that will be affected and broken by the completion of a new telegraph system throughout the country, and that is the New York Associated Press monopoly. This latter concern will not mind news to all those who want it except upon such conditions and by imposing such exactions as debar many newspapers from purchasing. The policy of the New York Association seems to be to foster one or more newspapers in the various cities of the country, and to assist these papers to prevent new enterprises from being started by depriving them of the Associated Press dispatches. In some cities a new paper cannot get the dispatches at all unless the papers that already enjoy the franchise are willing for the new comer to buy them. In this respect there is a great difference between the Telegraph and Press monopolies, as the former will sell its services and serve promptly all who choose to patronize it.

The Associated Press monopoly will not sell its noon dispatches to a new paper in this city, because "the only paper in Vicksburg taking the press dispatches" has made a contract with it, thus looking to shut out competition.

There are already some excellent Press Associations at the North which furnish news in competition with the New York Association. Lack of telegraph facilities prevent, many Southern newspapers from enjoying the benefits of this competition. But it will not be a great while before new lines will permeate the South to the great advantage of both people and newspapers. And that is why we take comfort from the following:

Robert Garrett, Vice-President of the Baltimore and Ohio Company, in an interview in Baltimore declares it to be the purpose of that company to extend its telegraph service so as to make it a formidable and successful rival to the Western Union. The purchase of the National Telegraph Company from New York to Chicago, on the Pickett Plank Road, he says, is only one indication of the extensive plans of the company. The purpose of this new telegraph organization, Mr. Garrett says, will be to attempt to secure the commercial business of the country by extending lines as rapidly as possible between the commercial centres. The inference is that money will not be wasted in extending lines to localities the business of which is not likely to prove remunerative. He also says that in addition to the recent inconsistencies of Western Union officials, services of other telegraph companies that company have been secured. Mr. Garrett also makes this statement: "I may as well add that when Pickett Plank monopoly is broken, as the course of proceedings in the Courts indicates it will be, an expensive telephone business will be established." The telephone is the same crop is still in seed.—Tunica Banner.

Amusements of the Blind.

"What are the amusements of the blind?" This was asked of Superintendent William B. Wait, who has been in the New York Institution for the Blind for more than thirty years.

"The amusements of the blind," Mr. Wait replied, "vary like those of persons who have sight, according to the tastes and capacities of the individual. They are always circumscribed by the absence of sight, and are necessarily made difficult by the necessity of substituting the use of one faculty for another. Education will, of course, change the general character and capacity of the blind in about the same degree as it does persons with sight. But a blind person is always afraid to move unless he has learned the ground. He is, as you would be in the dark, on his guard. He must move cautiously until he is certain that he can move with safety. Many persons wonder at the outdoor sport of our inmates, but it must be remembered that many of them are not totally blind. Many have faint glimmerings of light which enable them to guide one another by voice and touch. So you may see them in the yard wrestle, jump, from a line, and play games. They can play leapfrog, because that depends mainly on the touch, but they cannot play hopscotch. They cannot play ball or marbles or billiards, but they can jump the rope and swing. They can skate and swim with a guide, they can row a boat or dance, because these require chiefly the sense of touch. The dancing is easily managed, because but a small space is required, and they can easily keep within that, guide each other or be guided by one two in the set who can see. It is, of course, more difficult for them than for persons with sight to learn the steps, but some of them, especially the the females, learn to dance gracefully. I have known them to be fond of fishing, but they must go with a guide.

"At indoor games the blind are often very expert. Checkers or draughts is a favorite game. They play on a board that has alternate squares depressed. Instead of white and black pieces, they have round and square, which are easily distinguished by the touch. Some of them are very expert checker players, but they are always hampered by the necessity for feeling of the pieces to keep the position in mind. I have known blind persons to play chess; but very few. The mental process is somewhat the same that persons with sight use who play what are called blindfold games; but the blind chess players have the advantage of fingering the pieces to keep their positions in mind. The pieces are usually distinguished by numbers. But they are seldom good players of chess, because, unlike most blindfolded players, they never see the board, and must practice with difficulty. It is a common thing for the blind to play cards, and they can learn all games of cards. It is easy to mark the cards with cut corners, or with needless which prick up burrs, as is sometimes done with card cards by card sharpers. They play with the same qualities of mind that sighted persons have. Blind persons are very fond of dominoes. They can as easily count the spots as they can read raised letters. I have seen the blind roll ninepins; but, although they use the ordinary implements, it is very much a game of chance.

"The difficulty of teaching the blind arises from the fact that most of those who come to us are not of the most favorable age to learn. I find that 13 per cent are between the ages of ten and twenty; about 30 per cent are between the ages of 20 and 50, 7 per cent are below 10, and one-half are more than 50. It is easier to learn in the lower decades. I should say that about 15 per cent are of schoolable age. The old have first to unlearn old habits before they can learn new ones. I estimate that there are now in New York City about 1,000 blind persons. Music is undoubtedly the chief amusement of the blind. Handel, the great composer, was blind, but he was a great musician before blindness came upon him. McFarren, also a composer of eminence, was blind. Everybody has heard of Blind Tom, the pianist. It is almost universally the case that the blind find great amusement and consolation in music, and many become proficient enough to teach music. I have devoted sixteen years to the musical education of the blind, and now have a system of musical notation, combined with point writing and printing, that makes it possible to teach music, not only in the lower, but in the higher branches, to all the blind. They take hold of it with eagerness, they learn rapidly, and are able to read and write music and compose it.

What we call the New York system of point writing has been adopted in all the institutions for the blind in this country except those of Boston and Philadelphia. I found by experience that the old system of making raised letters by type composed of straight lines was with difficulty acquired by the blind, and that but a small proportion could learn to read with facility. This has been remedied by the substitution of points for lines. These points are embossed and can readily be learned, not only by those whose sense of touch is exquisitely nice, but by the great masses of blind persons without selection. The experiment of taking whole classes has been successfully tried. The new system has been proved beyond question to be adaptable for writing or printing every melodic, dynamic, rhythmic and harmonic design found in the whole notation. First, pupils are taught to read the literary point system with facility. Then they learn to write it. They begin music by reading the musical design, the first formation and use. Then they write music from dictation, a little at a time, continually extending what they have written. Thus they can put down their lessons in their own handwriting, and memorize them at their leisure, without depending on constant iteration and reiteration by the teacher. The result is that the process of learning becomes a source of perpetual employment and amusement to the pupils. The music lesson becomes an object lesson. They learn to memorize from finger reading a few bars at a time until they play correctly. One of the beauties of the system is that they can take their lessons away, and constantly refresh their memories by reference. The study of music in this way becomes an intellectual development, and it counteracts the tendency to pervert the faculty by mere mechanical and figuring purposes."—N. Y. Sun.

The Lien Law.

It would no doubt be well if the days of the crop lien law were numbered—the time set in the future for it to cease, that all might prepare for the change, but still it appears that many get no nearer ready to abandon it. It is like many other evils or rather abused blessings; its use causes a demand for its continuance, and so far himself should resolve to cut its acquaintance at the earliest possible moment he can consistently do so. Every one should strive to rise independent of it, and if he needs to have credit, make his honor or promise his bond and security.—Corinth Herald.

A Vicious System.

The Committee appointed by the House of Representatives of the Mississippi Legislature to investigate the condition and treatment of convicts under the leasing system, has been actively at work, and it is said that developments have been anything but creditable to the humanity of those under whose charge these unfortunates have been. We hope the investigation will be close and searching, and that the cases of cruelty if there have been any, will be fully exposed. The leasing system is always among the convicts of the State is, we think, prima facie evidence of bad management, and the very bottom facts should be brought out and exposed. We think it will be clearly shown that the system of hiring out convicts is essentially a vicious one.—Natchez Democrat.

ONE reason why so many thousands of private bills are introduced into Congress, clogging legislation, is that a large number of members are merely attorneys on the door for their constituents, the latter in reality, being merely clients. If the member succeeds in obtaining the passage of a bill which takes a few thousand dollars out of the Treasury to be given some "heeler" in his district, it adds greatly to the importance of the honorable gentleman and makes him solid. Besides, there is a suspicion that the member himself enriches his exchequer by very often by a certain percentage.—Boston Star.

A LEADING Northern physican says that when pneumonia attacks the stondy, square drinker, one who carries regularly his pint to a quart of whisky daily, the treatment comes exclusively under the domain of the undertaker, as the first case of recovery has yet to be reported.

NOTES.

Capt. Mattingly's big tug Joe Seay is due from New Orleans to-day.

The DeSmet leaves this evening at o'clock for New Orleans with a full load.

The Capt. Miller, carrying the mails, is due from Natchez to-night. She returns to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The steamer J. F. Halpin is due this evening from Davis Bend and returns again on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock a.m.

The steamer Thos. Sherlock leaves New Orleans to-morrow (Wednesday) evening for Cincinnati and will pass here some time Friday night.

The Anchor Line steamer City of New Orleans is due down bound for New Orleans. She landed at Cairo. She will pass down during the night.

The steamer Thos. Hedlight, from Sunflower river, will be in to-day with an immense trip on boat and barge. She will return to-morrow at 5 p.m.

The P. Line sends out the steamer Belzer this evening at 5 o'clock for Greenwood in place of the steamer Desmet which has gone to New Orleans.

Capt. Paris C. Brown is expected up this evening some time from New Orleans to Cincinnati. She will connect with the L. N. O. & T. R. R. Co. Her tobacco trade is made and the building of it will show a spirit of enterprise on the part of Mr. Richardson that other capitalists might emulate.—Exchange.

It seems Mr. Randall has fully made up his mind to antagonize the "reformers" in the House from the moment they attempted to dictate the subject which he believes should remain closed. The ex-Speaker is quoted as saying: "We have had a pension already to show that the people of this country want the tariff question let alone, and I am determined, so far as I am concerned, to do all in my power to that end." Threats to "read him out of the party" appear to have had no effect on the Pennsylvania war-horse.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

WHATEVER Congress does with the pension question it will be sure to shut down the rates for the transportation of merchandise. At the present rates it is a paying business, and with the business of letter distribution. The rates on newspapers, which now fall on the publishers, would be reduced if change is going to be made.

A CERTAIN poetess is said to "make good jellies as well as good poetry." The compliment that she also makes a new departue, i. e., send her jellies to newspaper offices and can her poems. Jellies discount poetry as "readable matter" every time.—Norristown Herald.

WILLIAM M. EVARTS briefly observes that Mr. J. Edmunds would make an acceptable candidate for President. The country, it may be added, endorses Mr. Evarts's view fully and without reserve.—Philadelphia Press.

THE way some of the Jackson people want to scheanegan McGill out of office sounds very much like reconstruction times. If there were no other argument against such political legerdemain than the establishment of such a precedent, that ought to damn it. Such short-cuts to office are dangerous to all of the people besides of the electoral commission farce, we have no trouble in denouncing the Gibson-Woods succession proposition.—Port Gibson Reveille.

The City of Providence left for Arkansas City with a fine list of passengers. She will return to-morrow night and leave again for Arkansas City Thursday at 11 a.m. On leaving Saturday she will doubtless go through to St. Louis, as the river is now open.

The steamer J. M. White arrived here last night down from Greenville. She departed to-day at noon. She took on here the steamer Hard Cash's trip and other cotton and freight awaiting the steamer Natchez. She left here with 3,200 bales cotton, 4,000 sacks seed, 1,463 sacks cake and 35 cabin passengers. She went over to Delta, after leaving here, to take on a lot of railroad cotton.

A FACT reaches us, indirectly, pleasing to reflect upon. At the beginning of the present cold spell it occurred to a railroad man of the Georgia Pacific to gather up a quantity of rejected and refused crossties lying along the track and run the same down to Columbus. The whole was put subject to the order of Mayor Dancy, for charitable distribution, and quite a number of the sufferers poor of our city were made to rejoice in the present of a load of excellent firewood with which to help out against this terrible spell of weather. This act of genuine charity to man, and service to God, proves to some who may have thought that "corporations have no souls," that corporation employees have; at least the same is true in this instance. The chief benefactor in the case enjoined that no public mention be made of the matter, but his name is Capt. Parish.—Columbus Index.

MR. MATHIEU WILLIAMS says that 20 pounds of cheese contain as much nutriment as there is in a whole sheep weighing 60 pounds. Except as Welsh rarebit, maccaroni au gratin and the fancies in cheese pastry for dessert, the valuable "cascin" is little used in cooking, although cheese porridge, cheese rice, and the addition of cheese to mashed potato, to baked potato and to beef pudding, are all known to be appetizing. Now all of there preparations are said to be equal in food-value to beef and mutton, which should certainly help to make them popular. In his cooking lectures Mr. Williams dissolves his cheese in milk or water, and adds a little saleratus to it (bi-carbonate of potash,) which brings it back to its original soluble form.

IT is beginning to be observed that the South is the richest agricultural country in the world. Besides its enormous production of cotton, sugar, rice and sorghum the census reports for 1880 show that during that year the Southern States produced 573,000,000 bushels corn, 75,500,000 bushels wheat, 2,500,000 bushels rye, 63,000,000 bushels oats, 709,000 bushels buckwheat, 750,000 bushels barley. Or a total of 916,000,000 bushels of grain. And comparatively speaking the rich soil of these States has been only scratched. What the future harvest will be may be safely predicted when it is known that the increase in grain production in the 10 years from 1870 to 1880 in those States was over 70 per cent.

WE may look for nothing but extreme measures from the men who are in a majority in the Mississippi Legislature, men of ability, equality and experience in both branches, but they are unable to control the more ignorant, who are in a majority, and who are determined on having their own way. The Representatives of the interior, or the cow counties, are emphatically in the ascendency, and are plying the mischief generally.—Columbus Index.

AFTER the dead body of Delmonico had been found by two boys the Detectives hastened to the spot immediately. At the request of the detectives, as usual in such cases, the facts connected with the disappearance were kept for a time from the newspapers. Had they been published immediately everybody would have been on the lookout for the unfortunate man, and his life might have been saved.—Picayune.

COL. ED. RICHARDSON having more money than he knows what to do with, is talking of building a branch to the railroad, which he will build and equip himself, to be 16 miles long and run from Carolina Landing on the Mississippi to Lake Washington to John Wills place on Deer Creek, where it will connect with the L. N. O. & T. R. R. Col. Richardson is the kind of a man, and the building of it will show a spirit of enterprise on the part of Mr. Richardson that other capitalists might emulate. —Exchange.

A SCRIBNER correspondent says that Speaker Carlisle, on being asked if the sentiments which his private secretary telegraphed to the Boston Post were his, answered in the affirmative, but when asked if they were made public by his direction, answered in the negative.

A YOUNG doctor of twenty-six, but who looked scarcely twenty, was presented in a saloon. "What, monsieur, so young and already a doctor!" said the lady of the house. "Yes, madam," replied the young physician, "but I only attend very little children as yet!"—Le Figaro.

FORTRAGE, not to be outdone by Barnum, has exhibited a white elephant, and it will be strange if each of the 27 "greatest shows" on the road next season doesn't advertise "the only white elephant in America." Barnum, it is said, is now negotiating for a red, white and blue elephant a very rare brand of the pachydermatous animal, found only in the wilds of Buzwawzie, Borjurnea.—Norristown Herald.

A DISTINGUISHED free trade orator on the stump in Tennessee used to say that he was tired of paying $5 for an American blanket when a British blanket could be bought for $2—if there were no protective duty on the imported article. Having had a good deal about the blanket argument a New England manufacurer recently tested the matter. He imported a pair of 10 pound blankets. The wholesale price in England was $4.45 on which the import duty and custom-house fees was $4.80, making the total cost $9.35, while American blankets of precisely the same weight and quality are selling at $5.20 per pair, showing that the American price of the article is less than the English price with the import duties added.—Avalanche.

SEALSKIN sacques are made smaller than formerly, but the bills hurt just as much.

THE SATISFACTION

of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. DONALD CAMPBELL is seriously ill.

MRS. D. HUTCHINSON arrived from St. Louis.

GEN. B. S. RICKS, of Yazoo City, arrived in this city yesterday.

COL. B. G. KIGER, of Brunswick, spent yesterday in this city.

M. H. HUNOLDSTEIN, of New Orleans departs for Yazoo City this evening on the steamer Hard Cash.

The Vicksburg Rifles held a meeting last night. They are attaining great proficiency in the manual of arms and military tactics.

THE Board of Mayor and Alderman held no meeting last night, as there was not a quorum present. They will meet at 3:30 this afternoon.

THE U. S. Postal Guide for 1884 is now ready for delivery at our Post-office. Every business and professional man should have one.

AMONG the many notable people in town this morning, we noticed Governor Robert Lowry of Jackson, Gen. W. R. Miles and wife of Yazoo, Col. W. A. Percy, Maj. G. M. Helm and Col. H. T. Blanton of Greenville.

CAPT. W. S. JONES received a telegram from Natchez this morning, announcing that the Paris C. Brown would be here some time this evening, en route to Cincinnati. W. C. O'Hara is her passenger agent.

COL. W. A. PERCY, of Greenville, passed through this city to-day on his way home. He was on his way to Washington as a delegate to the Mississippi River Improvement Convention when called home by the serious sickness of his son.

THE remains of Mr. E. W. Castleman, who died at Rodney on last Saturday, arrived in this city this morning on the steamer Halliday. Mr. Castleman represented the Globe Planters' Manufacturing Company, of Atlanta, and was well-known in this section. Mr. S. D. Castleman, a brother of deceased, will accompany the remains to Gainesville, Ga.

THE following were the departures by the steamer City of Providence to-day: W. Thornton, H. T. Blanton, W. D. Hardy, W. N. Hood, B. Burdette, Chas. Brodnax, Mrs. Jennie Sauk, Col. Geo. Col. W. A. Percy, Maj. G. M. Helm, M. Loewenstine, Mrs. J. C. Abbott, J. McDonough, Greenville; G. Utz and daughter, Miss Carpenter, M. Parker, Nebraska Landing; J. S. Kinnard, Hays; A. T. Lacey, S. W. Benquire, Arkansas City; J. J. Ryan, Halpino; Mr. Vanss, Arcadia; Mr. Elkas, Leota; J. S. Dickson, Wilton; A. J. Bartou, S. P. Brown, Ben Lemond; Mrs. Foster, Miss Sanderson, J. H. Kent, Providence.

Funeral of Mr. John A. Klein, Sr.

The funeral of the late John A. Klein was held yesterday afternoon at half-past three o'clock, from the church of the Holy Trinity, the deceased having been one of the vestrymen of that church.

On the arrival of the procession at the church, the coffin, covered with beautiful floral tributes, was borne to the altar, preceded by Bishop Adams reading the beautiful funeral service of the Episcopalian church, while the choir sang the funeral chant. A hymn was then sung, and after a prayer by the officiating minister and another chant by the choir, the remains were replaced in the hearse and the procession wended its sorrowful way to the family burying ground, at the residence. Here the final service for the dead was read, and all that was mortal of the lamented husband, father and citizen was laid away to await the resurrection.

The following gentlemen acted as pallbearers: Joseph Podesta, E. C. Carroll, Murray F. Smith, George Irving, A. Kuhn, R. F. Beck, A. B. Pittman, and G. G. Pegram.

Delta Gauge Board Moved to this Side of the River.

Mr. Harry P. Raworth, who is in charge of the gauge erected at this point by the United States Engineer Department, has received official instruction from Capt. A. M. Miller, United States Engineer, at Natchez, to have the bulletin board now located at Delta, moved to this side of the river. The reason of this is that there is no one at Delta to attend to the board, and the figures placed on it are very irregular and unreliable. The change will no doubt be greatly appreciated by steamboat men doing business here and passing this point. Mr. Raworth has always given careful attention to this part of his duties, and the change in this respect gives general satisfaction.

Dancing Academy.

Mr. H. C. Lippard will open his Academy Friday the 8th inst., at Klein's Hall, at 8 p.m. for ladies and children, and 8 p.m. for gentlemen. For full particulars see circulars. Call on or address Mr. H. C. Lippard, at the La Madrid House. f4-5t

An Impostor.

Yesterday a stranger, representing himself to be a deputy of the Sheriff, arrested one of our leading business men on a trumped-up charge, and started with him towards the Court-house. When they got to the Trowbridge House corner the imposter said that he would be able to compromise the matter for a ten-dollar bill. The merchant refused, and the bogus Deputy Sheriff then offered to let him go for a dollar. The business man then "smelt a mouse," and when his custodian offered to make it square if he would set up the drinks, he lost his respect for the law, and cast about him that he might discover a policeman to take the so-called Deputy in.

The Deputy became alarmed at his earnestness, skipped down to the landing, and hid in the hold of a steamer, while the irate business man sought him in all other parts of the vessel. He was certainly a very cheeky stranger, and he had better make his visits to this city very scarce in the future.

"The Progress."

We have before us the first number of this Southern magazine. Its contents, replete with original and highly interesting matter, shows the hand of the experienced editor. We have not room to discriminate among the various articles, and since a large edition will be distributed among our people all over the South we desire not to forestall their judgment. The typographical part is certainly a great credit to the publishers, and we hereby urge upon all who love to have a fine family paper, a home production, that commends itself to the circle for which it is intended, to at once encourage the enterprise by sending in their subscription, and thereby secure its existence upon a firm financial basis. Dr. Bies, the editor, is too well known among us as a literary author and writer to need compliments at our hands, and his many and influential friends will certainly evince their regard for him by encouraging and fostering his efforts in this direction. We welcome him among the fraternity of the press.

ANOTHER VISIT

From Members of the Legislature in Regard to the Hospital—A Pleasant Time.

In response to a telegram received last evening stating that a delegation from the State Legislature would be here this morning to take a look at the Hospital, Mr. W. L. Trowbridge, representing the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, was at the depot this morning awaiting their arrival. They came on the 9:45 train, and were at once driven to the City Hospital, accompanied by Mr. Trowbridge, Hon. Martin Marshall and the reporters of the city papers. Soon after their arrival at the Hospital, they were joined by Judge Arthur and Mayor Birchett. After lunch was served the Legislators took a look through the various wards of the Hospital and over the grounds. Some time was occupied in this, and the party was invited into the dining room, where an elegant spread awaited them, and, after thanks by the Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth, it was done ample justice. A number of toasts were proposed and responded to and an exceedingly pleasant time passed.

The Legislators expressed themselves much pleased with the developments their visit brought. After the banquet the gentlemen adjourned to the parlor and discussed the matters relating to the Hospital.

Dr. Robbins was among the arrivals on the train, and Dr. Balfour's presence helped to make the occasion agreeable.

The following members of the Legislature were present:

Senate—Dr. Hyer and Mr. Dickson.

House—Messrs. Powe, Sanders, Gordon, Williamson, Crawford, Dickerson, Applewhite and Rev. Mr. Hollingsworth. Dr. Applewhite was accompanied by his little son Hugh.

About noon the party left the Hospital and drove to the National Cemetery, which was greatly admired.

Gov. Robert Lowry accompanied the party to this city, but owing to important business was unable to be with them during their visit to the Hospital and Cemetery.

The members of the legislative committee left for Jackson on the 2:15 train. We regret that such affable and distinguished gentlemen could not have longer remained the guests of the city.

Rice's Pleasure Party.

Rice's Pleasure Party at the Grand Opera-house on Saturday evening scored a hit. The company is composed of some superior talent. William Henry Rice, the famous female impersonator, appeared as the "Black Princess." Mr. J. H. Stuart is a good comedian and vocalist, Mr. Frank Wadworth a fine song and dance man. Miss Agnes Hallock had the leading female part and has become a finished commedienne since her first appearance here in 'Fun on the Bristol' Miss Zita Gaines has an excellent soprano voice and sang a number of selections to applause. There is a different five hundred dollars would be added the improvement probably five hundred more—thus paying taxes on one thousand instead of the five hundred.

THE Manchester Guardian, the Pall Mall Gazette and other English newspapers are enthusiastically in favor of British free trade in America. So are their echoes on this side of the water. The Guardian says: "Reduce their present barriers, and we will shut up every one of their cotton mills in less than two years." The late Mr. Macdonald, M. P., said that "if our (British) iron was admitted duty free into America we should shut up every iron works east of Pittsburg in six months."

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[Special to THE EVENING POST.]

FROM JACKSON.

Biennial Elections—The Railroad Bill—Discussion of the Liquor Question.

Senate.

JACKSON, Feb. 6.—The Committee recommends the passage of the bill providing for biennial elections.

The Committee fails to recommend the passage of the bill incorporating the Trustees of the Presbyterian church of Vicksburg.

The railroad bill is still being fondly nursed in the committee room.

House.

Bill leaving it optional with electors of each county to prohibit the sale or regulate the traffic of liquors, engaged the morning session, and discussion was quite hot.

This is a general bill, the aim of which is to leave it discretionary with the people to prohibit the sale of whisky without any further legislative act in each county.

MARKET REPORTS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 6.—Spots: Uplands, 5 15-16d; Orleans, 6 1-16d. Futures quiet.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6, noon.—Spots dull, Middling, 10 12-16.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6, noon.—Middling, 10 1-16, quiet. Futures quiet.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—Wheat and corn 1 cent higher.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6.—Clear ribs firm, 9.20; Pork $18; Lard 9.50; Meal $2.50, steady; Flour steady. Market firmer and prices running higher.

New Orleans River Report.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—The weather is cloudy, warm and threatening.

Business is rather bright. No arrivals.

Leaving this evening: City of St. Louis for St. Louis; Thos. Sherlock for Cincinnati.

The Natchez will be in perfect order for Saturday.

Memphis River Report.

FLOOD IN THE OHIO.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Feb. 6.—The river rose two feet and is rising rapidly.

The Ohio is above the danger line at Louisville, Cincinnati and Pittsburg. Signals are out for a general flood as far south as Cairo. Hard rains are general throughout the country.

Nothing down.

The Proposition to Impose an Export Tax on Cotton.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Representative Robinson, of New York, says in explanation of the joint resolution introduced today proposing an amendment to the constitution an amendment to permit an export tax on cotton, that should the amendment be adopted it will be followed by a proposition to fix a tax of one cent per pound, which, he estimates, will bring in an annual revenue to the Government of $13,000,000.

Carlisle Leading the Contest for the Kentucky Senatorship.

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 4.—The Senatorial situation is unchanged. The result of one ballot taken in the joint assembly was: Carlisle 22, Williams 14, Blackburn 9, and the remainder scattering.

The caucus held a secret session tonight and discussed the question of dropping the hindmost candidate. No decision was reached and the caucus adjourned without taking a ballot until Tuesday.

The Missouri River Commission Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The bill introduced by Representative Graves relative to the Missouri River Commission, provides that the Commission shall be composed of three members, one from the Engineer Corps of the army, one from the Coast and Geodetic survey and three from civil life, one of whom shall be a civil engineer. The work of the commission shall be to prepare plans and estimates for permanently deepening and locating a channel and protecting the banks of the Missouri River from its mouth to the headwaters.

An appropriation of $100,000 is provided for.

The Parnell Conference.

DUBLIN, Feb. 6.—At the Parnell conference nineteen members of Parliament were present. Edmund Dwyer Gray, member for Carlow county, presided. The session was held with closed doors.

John E. Redmond and Edward Thell were appointed whips for the Irish party.

It was decided to oppose the Lord-mayoral bill unless a similar bill for Dublin was introduced.

It was decided to introduce bills amending the acts which relate to land and to laborers. These will deal with county government, municipal franchise, fisheries, the reclamation of land, the poor laws, national teachers and the registration of voters.

It was agreed that during the debate on the address in reply to the Queen's speech the Parnellites should call attention to the recent course of the Irish executive—especially on the stoppage of public meetings. The conference further decided to introduce bills providing for technical education and the planting of trees, and to move for a commission to inquire into the disposition of property held by the suppressed trade guilds, London. They declared further that any Government bill dealing with the property of London companies in Ireland should be devoted to works of public utility in Ireland.

Expressions of regret at the death of Wendell Phillips were adopted.

Resolutions were also passed warning the people of America and Australia against placing reliance on Irish news telegraphed by the England news agencies, and expressing profound sorrow at the death of Father Walsh, Treasurer of the National League in America.

MAYOR AND ALDERMEN.

Regular Monthly Meeting—Some Interesting City Statistics.

A regular meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen was held in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. Present—Mayor Birchett, City Clerk Trowbridge, City Attorney Gilland, and Aldermen Trowbridge, Worrell, Loyd, Crayton, Polk.

After roll call the City Clerk read the minutes of a number of previous meetings, which were adopted.

REPORTS OF THE OFFICERS.

The Wharf and Harbor Master presented his report. It showed his collections during the month of January to have been $625.26.

The City Marshal reported amount of fines imposed by Mayor's Court during the month of January at $1,007.75. $157.75 of this had been collected, and $620.50 worked out, while $129.50 had been remitted, leaving a balance due the city of $605.

The Market Master reported that he had collected $80.60 during January.

A bill for $60.50 from Mattingly, Son & Co., was referred to the Landing Committee.

A bill from Chas Wheeler of $15 for hacks used during the visit of the Senate Committee was allowed.

A bill from Ehrman & Bro., were referred to the Committee on Claims.

The Street Committee was allowed more time to report on the petition of Margaret Hall. Chairman Polk reported that no action was necessary in regard to the petition of G. S. Record in regard to the repair of certain sidewalks. Also that no action had been taken in regard to the stone wall of the LaMadrid House, as it would be repaired at once.

A bill of $190.50 from the Vicksburg Herald which had been referred to the Claims Committee, was reported upon and allowed.

The Committee appointed to report upon the rubber paint matter was granted further time.

The Police, Finance and Gas Committees asked and were granted further time.

A petition from the Firemen's Association, asking that 1,500 feet of new hose be purchased for the Departments, was read.

Alderman Crayton said immediate action should be taken in this matter as the Department were evidently in need of it.

Alderman Loyd wanted to purchase 900 feet, and paying the manufacturers cash in the future, even if interest was charged on the debt. He said this would be cheaper than to borrow money for the purpose and pay the exorbitant rates of interests charged by Vicksburg capitalists.

Marshal Groom said that there was not a foot of good hose in the city, and that 900 feet would not be enough.

Alderman Loyd moved to amend his previous motion, and purchase 3000 feet. No second.

Alderman Polk moved that the Fire Committee communicate with the manufacturers of hose, and get their lowest terms. Motion was carried.

Officer Jerry McKenna was allowed pay for five days lost by sickness.

Officer E. G. Carrington was allowed pay for five days lost by sickness and three days he was suspended, having been proven that he was suspended without cause.

B. J. Donnell, who pointed out George Westmoreland the murderer of Thos. Cox, to the officers over in Arkansaw, presented by letter a claim for $200 reward offered by the city of Vicksburg for the arrest. It was laid on the table after being discussed at some length, and a motion from Mayor Engelhardt, asking a reduction of taxes, was granted.

Alderman Crayton then moved that no more petitions asking for reduction of taxes be entertained by the Board. The motion was carried.

The bond of W. L. Trowbridge as Clerk of the Board was presented and approved.

The Vicksburg Bank, through its officers, was offered upon its bond as city depositary. It was refused and referred back with instructions to offer bonds secured by real estate.

The City Marshal was authorized to collect $40 from J. C. McCalloway for a horse purchased by him from the city.

A resolution that property-owners on the south side on Main street, between Farmer and Third North streets, be required to put down fine sidewalks within the next twenty days, was passed.

An ordinance to make it unlawful for any person to empty paper, ashes or rubbish of any kind on the streets, was passed.

Mr. R. F. Beck appeared before the Board and asked a reduction of taxes on the Miller property. He said that property much more desirable had been appraised far below this property.

The resolution of the petition of a few minutes previous was reconsidered and suspended and the petition of Mr. Beck was granted. Alderman Crayton's motion was then re-adopted.

The sealed proposals to do the City Printing were opened and read, and the contract was awarded to the Herald.

THE REVISED CHARTER

was then again brought before the Board.

Alderman Polk moved to amend his motion made at the last meeting allowing Aldermen $5 per regular meeting, so as to make that amount payable only to those members who should be in attendance at roll-call. His amendment was adopted.

Alderman Loyd moved that the section relating to the elections be amended so that elections be held on the second Tuesday in November, instead of the second Tuesday in December. The motion was carried.

Alderman Crayton moved to amend it so as to have four Aldermen elected for two years, and four for four years. This amendment was also adopted.

A motion to adjourn was made, but received no second.

Alderman Trowbridge moved that the new charter be amended so as to have the City Marshal elected by the people.

Alderman Loyd moved that it be amended so as to have the City Clerk elected by the people.

Alderman Loyd's motion failed to carry and the motion of Alderman Trowbridge was adopted.

There were further discussions in regard to the office of City Register, but the Board adjourned without taking any further action in the matter.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 6, 1884.

PEOPLE along the Ohio river are again apprehensive of another disastrous flood.

MORRISON has introduced his tariff bill. There will soon be "music in the air."

THE Humane Society of Massachusetts has made awards of money and medals to all concerned in saving life at the wreck of the steamer City of Columbus.

THE Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, has appointed the following sub-Committees, under Sherman's resolution, to investigate the election outrages in Mississippi and Virginia: For Mississippi—Messrs. Hoar, Cameron of Wisconsin, Frye, Saulsbury and Jones; for Virginia—Messrs. Sherman, Lapham and Vance.

THERE never was a Congress before in American history which entered the third month of its first or any other session with so little actually accomplished as this Forty-Eighth Congress. No matter how much steam is on the machine won't go till they get ready. There's going to be fun before the farce is played out.—Picayune.

SENATOR LAMAR does not get "riled" often but when his people are slandered, he disposes of the slanderers in a very summary way—as Edmunds found out the other day. Lamar mashed him as flat as a pancake.—New Mississippian.

John Sullivan, Esq., of Boston, generally mashes opponents "as flat as a pancake" also. If his way of "disposing" of opponents is the correct one, Mr. Sullivan is the greatest man in the United States.

THE Picayune's Jackson special says it is safe to say the Senate will not pass the Railroad supervision bill. The thinking people of Mississipi now look to the Senate to conserve the best interests of the State, as that body has done in years past when this identical question was before it. Practical results have demonstrated the wisdom of the policy of the Senate in letting the railroads alone. Several hundred miles of railroad have been built in this State during the last few years, and some is now in course construction. Why interfere with this good and needed work?

Over-issue of School Warrants.

The Superintendent of Education of Hinds county in the last few years has issued about $75,000 more of school warrants than the law allows. A bill is now before the Legislature to authorize the county to fund these warrants, looking to their payment. There is considerable opposition to this scheme, and the matter is attracting more attention than the proposition to abolish the charter of Jackson from the fact that the whole county is interested in it. No doubt the Legislature will thoroughly investigate the subject before taking final action.

The Election.

Our citizens should remember that a special election for a State Senator from Warren county takes place to-morrow. It is important to our interests, and the interests of the people of the State, that Warren county should have a good and able man to represent her in the State Senate. Some of the candidates have defined their position on leading questions; all of the candidates are well-known. Let all good citizens take an interest in the election and vote. It will not do to stay away from the polls, and then complain of the result if it is not satisfactory.

SENATOR LAMAR can endure almost anything but the slander of his sovereign State. If there is one spot in Senator Lamar's heart more sensitive than another, it is the love of the soil, swamp though it be, and saturated with the malaria of the Yazoo, of the proud and delicate State of Mississippi. When the sensibilities of the Senator allow him to survey that portion of mankind between Siberia and Peru, located in his own State, his attention should be called to the use of the shot gun at the polls, and the approval of the same by public meetings. Let him read the resolutions indorsing the murder of Sheriff Mathews, and the promotion of his murderer to an official situation, and explain their relations to the alleged honor of Mississippi. —Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Singleton Says.

General Singleton, of Illinois, arrived here to-day. He thinks Mr. Morrison and Mr. McDonald will be strong enough to destroy each other by the time the Convention meets, and that the Republicans will come East for candidates. No man would please him better than Bayard. He believes the Republicans will nominate Mr. Arthur, this reason is based upon information that Mr. Conkling and Mr. Grant have made up their minds to help the President in New York.

In the Old Ruts.

Mississippi needs no abler or more patriotic defender than Senator Lamar. He is one of those who speak only when occasion demands, but when the cause of the country or of his State brings him to his feet on the floor of the Senate, his heavy blade is very apt to penetrate the thickest skin or the hardest skull at which his blows are directed. His rebuke to the Vermont Senator was demanded by the respect that was due to his State and to himself, and the way in which the jealous old president pro tem. of the Senate quailed under his well merited castigation, showed the strength of Mr. Lamar as well as the justice of his cause. —Natchez Democrat.

Mr. Lamar charged Mr. Edmunds with a deliberate attempt to insult the representatives of the Southern people on the floor of the Senate. Mr. Edmunds promptly disclaimed any such intention, but notwithstanding the explanation of the Vermont Senator, Mr. Lamar persisted that as far as he was "personally concerned" he was insulted, and would cease personal relations with Mr. Edmunds.

It will be remembered that Mr. Lamar delivered a splendid eulogy upon Senator Sumner when that distinguished Northern Senator died; it will also be remembered that some Mississippi newspapers denounced Lamar for his kindly words.

In the stormy days before the war, when prejudice and excitement ran high, Mr. Sumner made a speech in the U. S. Senate which some of the Southerners considered as "grossly insulting" to their section, and one of them, Brooks of South Carolina, came up to the Senator from Massachusetts who was in his seat, in the Senate Chamber, and brutally beat him over the head with a heavy cane.

Now has not Mr. Lamar set the initiative for some hat-headed and thoughtless Representative, to take a big club and give the Vermont Senator a beating for the language used by him in debate? Would not that be the logic of his course in insisting that he was "insulted" and ceasing "personal relations," and will not the next step be a resort to "personal violence?"

We are not of those who think Mr. Lamar has defended his State or his own honor by this course. Mr. Lamar has the ability to defend his State and himself in the Senate forum, and if he has not the facts to back his cause it is his misfortune and not his fault.

Personal denunciation does not prove anything; a resort to personal violence to settle disputes is now relegated to the lowest order of society, and we trust Southern Senators and Representatives will hereafter rely upon their brains—upon argument and logic and facts—to defend their section and to prove the strength of their position.

If Lamar can demonstrate by argument and facts, and point out where Mr. Edmunds has deliberately intended to insult representatives of the Southern States, this will weaken Mr. Edmunds's position and strengthen that of Mr. Lamar and his constituents. But to simply make assertions, to get in the sulks, and to resolve "not to speak to him again," will not have this good effect.

Benefits of Competition.

Last year the "conscientious" Herald and the manuscript Commercial formed a little "pool" by which the former was the only bidder for the printing and advertising of the city of Vicksburg.

This year the Herald has a good, live competitor in the EVENING POST, and the city has reaped the benefit of this competition. Last night the bids for doing the city printing were opened, and it was found that the HERALD had made the lowest bid. This is all right, and we have no complaint to make.

But we simply desire to show the benefit of competition by calling attention to the fact that the bid of the conscientious Herald for printing the city advertisements is FOUR HUNDRED PER CENT. LOWER this year than it was last year, when the printing pool was formed. Advertisements that the Herald charged the city $100 for last year will now cost the city only $20—that is, what the Herald was wont to charge $1 for it will now do for the moderate sum of 20 cents.

We commend this circumstance to our friends in the Legislature as a solution of the question of railroad supervision. If they will encourage the building of new roads, instead of discouraging them, the competition afforded by the new roads will regulate the evil complained of. Just think, if the charges of all the railroads in the State could be reduced 400 per cent. there would certainly be no more complaint on account of high rates.

And suppose the other expenses of the city of Vicksburg could be reduced 400 per cent., like the advertising expenses? We would have the most economical city government in the world. THE POST can claim some credit as a reformer. Before its existence the conscientious Herald—the same Herald that recently wanted a Taxing District so as to reduce the city expenses—charged the poor, tax-ridden city FIVE TIMES as much for printing its advertisements as it now proposes to do the same work for.

The Legislature might also consider this matter in connection with the question of letting out the public printing to the lowest bidder.

The good John never make the vulgar laugh.—Picayune.

The Railroad Shops.

NO. III.

Editor Vicksburg Post:

I closed my last with a very imperfect consideration of the benefits that would result to Vicksburg directly from the location of the shops of the L., N. O. & T. Railroad within her limits. Now let us consider the benefits to result to her remotely—to the county, and that portion of the State contiguous by railroad connection. The fifteen hundred to two thousand additional mouths to be supplied with eggs, butter, milk, poultry, vegetables of all kinds, fruits, and all garden truck must all be supplied from the county. Our vegetable gardens would multiply, thus enhancing the value of our lands near the city, putting money into the hands of the industrious and thrifty, increasing the number of our dairies. Every additional cow, horse or mule is another demand for provender and feed. The demand for oak, pine, and hickory lumber that would be required at the shops to be worked up into cars, and for repairs, that must come from the mills in the interior by rail, will increase the demands on the mills; on our merchants for greater supplies, for most assuredly when they sell their lumber will they get their supplies, and thus, Mr. Editor, you perceive that the benefits that will result from the location of the railroad shops in our community will be like the blood in the human system, permeate the arteries of the entire community in its remotest parts. Like the beneficent sun, they will send their revivifying and glad influence throughout the city, county and State.

Now, I know nothing of the enabling act recently passed by the lower house of the Legislature, but if not so drawn as to cover the ground, it will fail of its object. Bonds may be required, claims to be released, existing agreements to be canceled or changed, etc. Again, the railroad company wishes county bonds as a part of the consideration. She should not hold back; she is as much interested as the city, for if the shops are located here the man who, in 1882, living eight miles from the city, in the county, sold $1,800 worth of watermelons, may, in 1885, sell $3,000 worth; and thus expands the benefits. But to the point: To-day is the 5th; a resolution is before the House to adjourn on the 29th, and if county bonds are to be had an enabling act must also be had for the county. To get this the Board of Supervisors must assemble and petition the Legislature for the necessary authority. And there remains but twenty-three days, including to-morrow and the 29th, the day contemplated for adjournment. An enabling act does not necessarily compel action; it only gives the power. If, upon mature consideration, we find the whistle too dear, we can let it pass, but it is well to be prepared to pluck the apple if it is determined that the price does not make it too bitter. JUNIUS.

LYNCH law must be a force of circumstances, become a settled though not a statutory, or even criminal usage. If the negro, as in the brute, it is the fear only of instant punishment at the hands of the mob that must know and feel that there is a power ever him and around him ready at the moment to take bloody vengeance. This and this only awes and restrains him.—Meridian (Miss.) Mercury.

This is as grevious a mistake as the ancient idea that slavery was a divine institution to be cherished with our other religious beliefs. Happily for the South the Mercury's plan of inoculating the Senegambian mind with the principles of United States law and justice will not extend far beyond the borders of Yazoo and Copiah. The law is respected and feared by all classes of citizens wherever it is fearlessly and impartially enforced by the regular courts and it is so enforced quite as extensively and effectually in southern as in northern communities. The savage bigotry in Yazoo and Copiah that would doom one class of citizens to the tender mercies of lynch law for all time to come is indorsed by the Mercury, but it is a sentiment that finds no favor with the great body people of the south generally. And the white people of the south should no more be held responsible for Copiah and Yazoo than the whole people of the north should be held responsible for the cruel deeds of a savage mob in their midst.—Memphis Avalanche.

The Supervision Bill.

Surprise is being expressed that the Railroad Supervision Bill, that passed the House on Monday night of last week, has not yet been heard from in the Senate. It must be remembered that the Senate was not in session two days last week, and that other important questions had been made special orders for that body. We understand that the friends of the measure, in the Senate, will move to make it a special order for Friday next. Its consideration should certainly not be longer delayed. It is the one measure, above all others, by which the people feel a deep interest, and if by any possibility this Legislature shall disappoint their expectations, it is the one question that must remain in the front until it is decided substantially in the form that it passed the House. We believe the Senate will pass the bill, and that it will be approved and become a law.—Clarion, 6th.

We had the pleasure on Friday of meeting Mr. G. A. Crichet, of Bismarck, Dakota, who is in the city of Vicksburg for the purpose of viewing the country with the prospect of investing in lands and using his endeavors in introducing immigration to our section from the Northwest. He is confident that he can secure many "settlers" for Warren county, if our people and railroad companies will give him the proper co-operation and encouragement, which they will certainly do, if easy section hands and low rates of transportation will avail anything.—Aberdeen Examiner.

The Advantage of Protection.

The Philadelphia Evening Call, in its able articles on the tariff question says: "Competition is the great cheapener. The larger the number who enter a given line of business the sharper the competition, and the lower the prices. This is a universal law. The time was when railroads in this country were monopolies and charged high rates. When they became abundant the monopolies were broken and rates cheapened until now freighters will quite as much to say about freight rates as the railroad companies. The exact object of our tariff is to encourage capital to engage in manufactures and so produce competition. When England manufactured for the world she charged her own prices, and only cheapened them when competition threatened. We propose to keep them by maintaining competition."

The Call then refers to the fact that England charged us $150 per ton for steel rails before we made them. Now these rails sell at $35 per ton; the price at which we can make a full supply. England can make them for even less than this; but if they charged $150 when we had to buy, would they not do so again? Remove the tariff and they will drive our manufacturers to the wall by undersselling them, and then at once jump up in price. And this rod they would hold over us, that whenever any of our works would start up they would reduce prices and compel them to close again. Goods of which we can make a full supply will be cheaper, and prices keep most uniform by having a high protective tariff. Home competition will bring them as low as they can be made here.

A Governor Who Said Damn.

Governor Crittenden was met on the street yesterday by a representative of this journal. The reporter suggested that perhaps the Governor would like to say something on the subject of the unpleasant charges as to his traveling on a family pass made out in the name of Mrs. Crittenden. The Governor's lips curled with an expression of the most intense scorn as he replied: "If some paper does not making charges against me, I should scarcely feel as if were doing my duty. To tell the truth, I don't care a damn what they say." It does not bother me at all. Good day."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The bill to remove the State capital to Meridian was introduced in the House Thursday. It is hardly time yet to put up the price of corner lots.—Meridian Observer.

ELECTION NOTICE.

OFFICE OF COMMISSIONERS OF ELECTION OF WARREN COUNTY, MISS.,
January 31, 1884.

THE VOTERS OF WARREN COUNTY, Mississippi, are hereby notified that a special election will be held in this county, on Thursday, the 7th day of February, A. D., 1884, for the election of a State Senator from this Twenty-fifth Senatorial District, consisting of the county of Warren, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Hon. W. R. Sparks, for the term ending December 31, 1884.

The voting precincts, Inspectors and Peace Officers are as follows:

For Greenville—Issaquena, 5 p.m.

NOTES.

The mail steamer Capt. Miller departed for Natchez at 10 a.m.

The Paris C. Brown passed up last night with a good freight and passenger trip.

Pilots Lyons and Conklin went down on the steamer DeSmet to New Orleans.

The City of New Orleans arrived at Vicksburg this morning, stopping at Ashton to take on coal.

The steamer Hard Cash left promptly at 4 o'clock yesterday evening for Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers, with a fair freight and good list of passengers.

The big Ed. Richardson will be up tomorrow night and returns again Friday at 4 o'clock p. m. for New Orleans.

The steamers J. M. White, DeSmet, and City of Yazoo yesterday took 8,222 bales of cotton from this port to New Orleans.

Mr. H. Denio, clerk of the steamer W. P. Thompson, will stop off this trip and look after the interests of the boat in this city.

Capt. J. P. Jackson, master of the steamer Henry Marx, left by train last night for New Orleans to come out on the boat.

The W. P. Thompson is receiving at the foot of City street to-day, and leaves for Ashton and the bends this evening at 4 o'clock.

The steamer Issaquena will be in this evening on time, and leave to-morrow promptly at 5 p.m. for Greenville and all bend landings.

The City of Providence will be in from Arkansas City to-night, and will leave on her return to that place tomorrow at 11 a. m.

Capt. Harry Rook went out last night in command of the steamer DeSmet in place of Capt. M. L. Johnson who stepped down on account of illness.

The steamer Joe Seay left last night for the Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers with a big trip. She will return to-morrow night, and leave again Friday.

The steamer Paris C. Brown and her consignee, bound for Cincinnati, took on 50 barrels of oil here last night, brought out of Yazoo by the steamer DeSmet.

Capt. Mattingly with his mammoth Joe Seay, arrived last night at 9 o'clock from New Orleans making lightning time. She is now as good as she ever was, and as beautiful as a swan.

The steamer John F. Halpin came in last night about 12 o'clock from Davis Bend, with a good trip. She returns to the Bend to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. She receives at the foot of Crawford street.

The P. Line steamer DeSmet departed for New Orleans last night, with a large list of miscellaneous freight, 857 bales cotton, 1648 sacks seed, 2 mules 60 cubic feet machinery, 1 barrels cotton seed oil—all going through to New Orleans. She had also a large lot of fish plates for the L., N. O. & T. R. R. to be put off at Baton Rouge.

The work of repair on the steamer Aglia is progressing rapidly. The old pilot wheel of the Issaquena is being put in, in place of the one burned. She will be ready again in a few days to resume her trips between this place and Delta.

There are 30 feet and six inches of water on the gauge. There are only 6 feet in front of Ryan's Mill up the shore. In the west pass the deepest water found there by the pilots of the J. M. White yesterday was 13 feet. They were of the opinion that the channel over there was narrowing very rapidly.

The steamer Headlight arrived from Sunflower river this morning at 4 o'clock with 548 bales of cotton for New Orleans and 122 bales and 1,700 sacks of seed for town. Town cotton consigned as follows: August Bernheim & Bauer 2, J. Shlenker 5, McCutchen & Co. 13, J. M. Hunt 12, A. P. Sauer 35, S. H. Parisot & Co. 1, Willis Moore & Co. 44.

The through Anchor Line steamer City of New Orleans for New Orleans, passed down this morning, having loaded at Cairo. She was down to the guards in the water, having on board 1350 tons of freight. She came in to the lower landing and coaled. She put off some freight for this city at Delta which was brought over by the steamer Deer Creek now running in place of the ferry.

Capt. W. H. Wrigley, of the steamer Dryersburg now lying at Monroe, (La.,) arrived in this city by train yesterday with broken shaft of that boat. The Dryersburg was in tow of the Queen City coming up from New Orleans when her propeller struck a snag at Manche Bend breaking her shaft and causing her to lose her wheel. The shaft is now at Fox's foundry and Capt. Wrigley thinks he will be able to return with it to-morrow, to Monroe. The Dryersburg will run in tributary streames of the Ouachita river connecting with the Queen City.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger, 5th: The E. W. Cole, from Vicksburg, brought in 172 bales cotton and 837 sacks cotton seed, and a large number of orders, which will be filled and sent down on the Will. S. Hays. The owners of the Cole are having sold out the boat and good will, she will go to the bank. Capt. Ellison and Clerk Baldwin are settling their outstanding business to-day. * * Peace and rumors of peace prevail in marine circles. There are rumors afloat, and but some of them are of a conflicting nature. What we do know is that the Arkansas river packet Ida Darragh and the Memphis and Vicksburg packet E. W. Cole have paid off their crews, and the Cole has made her last trip in the trade. What we have been told is that Col. Ed. Richardson, owner of the E. W. Cole, has sold the boat and good will for $10,000 to Capt. Will. S. Hays, and the interested in the Will. S. Hays, and the latter will continue to run from this port to Vicksburg, making weekly trips. Capt. Ike Kate Adams will hereafter extend her trips to Vicksburg, thus forming a through packet line. The E. W. Cole has been repurchased by Col. Richardson; that the Adams Line steamer R. L. Cobb has been purchased by the Memphis and Arkansas River Packet Company; that the Cole party is a few thousand dollars better off than they were a few days ago. What we do not know is how much of the above is true and how much false.

Pic'yune, 5th: The P. Line steamer Cherokee has been temporarily withdrawn from the Vicksburg trade, and will run in the Cincinnati line, will hereafter leave here every Friday.

The steamer Natchez, which exploded one of her steam pipes Sunday near Baton Rouge, reported as one of which appeared in the telegraphic columns of yesterday's Picayune, returned to the city yesterday morning in tow of the Ed. Richardson. The damage to the Natchez will amount to something like $1,000. All the perishable freight on board the boat at the time the accident occurred was transferred to the Anchor Line steamer, W. T. Halliday.

ENGLAND has enjoyed a foreign market —the world's market—for 40 years. She has, during that time, been mining more tons of coal and iron ore, smelting more tons of iron, spinning more pounds of yarn and weaving more yards of cloth than any country on earth. In short, she has had the full benefit of a foreign market. But what profit is it to a country that can gain the world and lose its own? During the decade ending in 1880, the population of the United States increased 30 per cent. Manufacturing industries, upon the whole, were prosperous during the 10 years ending in 1880, yet the increase in those employed, capital and value of products was a trifle less than 30 per cent. With the prospect of a similar increase during the coming decade, is it wise to reach out for that which the economic history of England shows is uncertain and jeopardize that which our own economic history has shown is certain? Perhaps intelligent men may differ on these points, but before deciding that the possibilities of a foreign market are boundless.—Philadelphia Press.

Morrison on Randall.

Morrison stated in conversation to-day that he did not believe the reports of Randall's purpose to antagonize the tariff revision by means of his position on the Appropriation Committee. "If he tries to defeat the bill," said he, "he will vote for it. If he doesn't like it he will speak and vote against it. He will not resort to any underhand means to defeat it."

IT is now being found out that the terrible volcanic eruptions which took place recently in Java were not as to the mixed evil as the enormous masses of ashes hurled out of the craters are exhausted of the fertilizing elements of treatment, may make Java bloom again.

Protection for the South.

We have had occasion to refer repeatedly to the fact that, whatever other persons might think, all the proprietors and employes of manufacturing establishments, with whom we have ever conversed, firmly believe that "protection" does "protect."

"So, also, as we have had occasion to say, the Louisiana sugar-planters favor a protective tariff on sugar; the South Carolina rice-growers, one on rice; the zinc-bed owners of Missouri, one on zinc; the hemp-raisers of Kentucky, one on hemp; and the tobacco manufacturers and planters, and the sumac gatherers of Virginia, one on tobacco and sumac. The owners of mines and furnaces and foundries, etc., etc., everywhere demand protective duties on iron, steel, glass, or whatever else they make or mine.—Richmond (Va.) Dispatch.

We dislike to take issue with Mr. Hadden, because we believe him to be a faithful, honest and generally a discreet official. But his appointment of Capt. John Cowdon to represent this city as a delegate to the Washington convention, is a very grave mistake, and one which he should not have made, in view of the frequent publication by Cowdon of his opposition to the methods of Mississipi river improvement which have been impressed upon the public mind by thoughtful men as the best that the highest engineering, skill and experience can devise. Cowdon is the enemy of the river interests of the Mississipi Valley, and his opposition, though feeble, had so far thwarted, in a measure, less mischievous in so far as it has prompted the stupid and malevolent opposition of certain Western newspapers, whose most noteworthy achievements in the last seventeen years have been the advocacy of every species of legislation calculated to injure the South and retard its development. Mr. Hadden has made a grave mistake in appointing Capt. Cowdon.—Memphis Appeal.

MR. GIFFORD, of Nashville, who attended the Sorghum Convention at St. Louis, told an American reporter that it was demonstrated that sorghum sugar can be made with great profit and that Honduras cane can be safely grown in Tennessee. It is three times more prolific and productive of saccharine matter than any kind of cane which can be grown north of the Ohio river. The western sugar mills made a net profit of 25 per cent. last year. Prof. Wiley, the Government chemist, says that sugar making from sorghum is no longer an experiment. It is a pronounced success. It will be a very profitable industry in Tennessee. A stock company with a capital of $100,000 will be organized at Nashville to manufacture sugar from sorghum. In the Convention the question was discussed whether the cane extracted the soil more than other crops and it was shown that if the cane be topped 90 per cent. of the soil exhaustion could be saved, and even when this is not done it exhausts the soil less than corn. In a cane crop nothing goes to waste as the best of wrapping paper can be manufactured from the fibre.

A Lady Captain.

Now that Secretary of the Treasury Folger has ordered the local inspectors here to give Mrs. Mary Miller, of the Saline, a master's license, we presume she will receive it to-day and go out to-morrow in charge of her boat for Macon and Tensas. When she obtains a captain's privilege she can claim all the rights usually accorded those individuals, who feel like cursing the mates, pilots, deckhands, roustabouts and even the chambermaid. Success to Captain Mrs. Mary Miller.—New Orleans States, 4th.

The Mississipi River Convention which meets in Washington on the 5th will be composed of a large number of delegates from nearly every section of the Mississippi Valley. Twenty States will be represented, and the proceedings will be looked forward to with great interest. It will be the first Convention of a national character ever held east of the Alleganies devoted to the improvement of a Western river. This Convention will no doubt have an important bearing on the future improvement of this great highway.—Birmingham Age.

THE SATISFACTION of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and say the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

Large Purchase of Valuable Plantations.

The following contiguous plantations on Silver Creek, Yazoo county, Miss., "Grand Oak," "Valley Home," "Grosvenor," "Wildwood," "Alluvia," consisting altogether of seven thousand acres, thirty-two hundred of which is open land, were sold Monday under foreclosure. Col. S. L. Wooldridge, a big capitalist of Lexington, Ky., bought them all for ten thousand dollars cash, the only bid made. The plantations are said to be well worth seventy-five thousand. The sale, however, was subject to pending litigation between the heirs of L. A. Campbell. Col. Wooldridge is considered to have got a great bargain, no matter how said litigation may terminate.

No doubt Col. Wooldridge will place these valuable lands under thorough cultivation.

It is needless to say we are gratified to see substantial citizens like Col. Wooldridge making investments in our midst, and trust they will yield him handsome returns.

Railroad Bridge Building.

Capt. George Adgate, of Baltimore, is here representing Gen. W. Sooy Smith. Capt. Adgate is superintending the shipment of all the air pumps, pile drivers, air locks, engines and much other machinery and implements that were used in the construction of the piers of the L., N. O. & T. R. R. bridge at Anthony's Ferry. The transfer of the machinery is being made from barges to cars of the V. & M. R. R. at Kleinston. It will require some 8 or 10 cars to hold it. We learn that Gen. Sooy Smith has the contract for putting in the foundations for the piers of a bridge on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Havre DeGrace near the mouth of the Susquehanna river and about 30 miles from Baltimore. This bridge will be an immense structure; the foundations will go about 90 feet below the bed of the river, and the spans of the bridge when completed will be about 90 feet above the high water mark of the river.

FATAL SHOOTING

Of Wm. Phillips, Engineer of the Steamboat Harry, by Capt. John Sargent, Master of the Boat.
At Rolling Fork.

From passengers who came down on the steamer Headlight last night we learn the following particulars regarding the serious and no doubt fatal shooting of Engineer Wm. Phillips, of the steamer Harry, by Capt. John Sargent, Master of the boat:

On Monday last while the boat was tied up at Rolling Fork, Sunflower river, the fireman reported to the Captain that the engineer was drinking, and that there was scarcely any water in the boiler and the engineer was compelling him to keep up a big fire in the furnace, thus endangering the boat and the lives of those on board.

Capt. Sargent immediately went below, found the boiler nearly dry, the pumps not working, and a heavy fire in the furnace. He ordered the fires put out, and went back to the engineroom, to disconnect the pump from the boiler, so as to prevent the cold water from going into the dry boiler, and thus prevent an explosion. This enraged Phillips, who seizd a large monkey-wrench and started toward Captain Sargent. The latter then drew his pistol and fired, the ball taking effect in the bowels of the former. When the Headlight left Rolling Fork yesterday Phillips was thought to be dying, and no hopes were entertained for his recovery. He is from Pomeroy, Ohio.

LATER.—Since writing the above we learn that Phillips died last night. Capt. Sargent surrendered himself to the authorities at Rolling Fork.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

We have since learned that Mr. Phillips, the engineer, was not drinking at the time of the difficulty, and that the fireman did not report to Capt. Sargent that he was; in fact, the fireman did not report anything to Capt. Sargent. The Captain himself discovered the condition of the boiler and seeing a terrific explosion was imminent, went into the engine room to prevent the threatened danger, when he was cursed by Phillips, who seized the monkey-wrench and made at Sargent.

Capt. Sargent had an examination at Rolling Fork and was acquitted, the evidence being that he had acted purely in self defense. Capt. Jno. Sargent is a brother of Capt. W. H. Sargent of the steamers Jno. F. Halpin and Ike Bonham.

A New Line of Steamers.

The telegram received from Memphis yesterday announcing the purchase of the steamer E. W. Cole by the owners of the steamer W. S. Hays was not a surprise to us, as there had been a rumor on our streets for some days that negotiations to that affect were pending. It was also rumored that the Cole would be withdrawn from her present trade and placed in White river, and that the new Kate Adams, now plying between Memphis and Arkansas City, would run to Vicksburg in connection with the W. S. Hays. This scheme is said to have been inaugurated by the Memphis merchants, who are making strenuous efforts to control the trade of the back country this point and Memphis, putting forth as an inducement and a reason, that their arrangements at Arkansas City for handling grain and all other kinds of western products give them advantages in this section superior to those of the St. Louis merchants.

What They Say of "Our Goblins."

Rice's Pleasure Party scored a decided success at our Opera-house last evening, by their presentation of that bundle of nonsense entitled "Our Goblins." The piece is just of the kind that cannot be rendered satisfactorily by any other than competent actors, and the Pleasure Party is composed of such. There is not a poor performer in the troupe. J. H. Stuart as "Cuff" and "Daffy", was deservedly applauded. Miss Agnes Hallock played her part well, and the rest of the characters were properly sustained. Mr. W. H. Rice made a hit as the Black Princess. We hope the pleasure party may soon visit us again.—Daily Argus.

L., N. O. & T. R. R.

The work of repairing the damage done by the slide on the L., N. O. & T. R. R. between this place and the National Cemetery is about completed, and it is thought that the trains will go through to-morrow, leaving the depot at the foot of Depot street for Anthony's Ferry as usual.

The trestling over Bayou Pierre has been completed, and the iron laid. The road is now in first-class condition between here and Port Gibson, except a small piece of unfinished work at Big Black which will be finished in the next day or two. The trains will run on regular schedule from Fort Gibson to Anthony's Ferry not later than Saturday, and possibly they may commence to-morrow.

To reached of the L., N. O. & T. road from this place to Hushpuckna river, north of here 124 miles, is all completed with the exception of a small patch of work at one point, which will be finished by next week. There has been fifty nine miles of iron laid north of here. It is expected that the entire road will be completed by the first of May.

A State Hospital.

Gov. Lowry sent to the Legislature a few days ago a special message in reference to a State Hospital. Subsequently a Joint Committee was appointed by the Legislature to take the matter in consideration, and investigate specially the proposition made by the authorities of Vicksburg. This Committee went over to Vicksburg Wednesday, and it is understood their report will be favorable. We consider it highly probable that the recommendations of the Governor will be adopted, and that a State Hospital will be provided for. Such an institution located, Vicksburg is the place for it, and if the Legislature decides upon favorable action its course will be endorsed by the people of the State generally.—Columbus Index.

The Gallows to Reap Its Fruit.

The State Supreme Court has recently confirmed the judgment of the Monroe county Circuit Court, rendered at the October term, 1883, convicting John Nelson, colored, of murder in the first degree. It will be remembered that Nelson killed his wife on Col. W. W. Troup's plantation, on the east side of the river in 1880, if we are correct as to date. The Supreme Court has fixed Tuesday, the 18th of March for the execution, and unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Supervisors, it will occur in the jail yard as provided by statute. The Examiner has always advocated private executions of those whom the law condemns to the gallows, and we hope that policy will be observed in this instance, at least to the extent of hanging Nelson within the enclosure around the jail.—Aberdeen Examiner.

Murdered at Church.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—As the congregation was leaving Sparta church, near Randolph, McLean county, Ill., yesterday, Lavoy Smith shot Wm. Thompson, an old well-known Justice of the Peace, through the left breast, inflicting a mortal wound. Cause—an old grudge, occasioned by Thompson refusing to allow Smith to visit his daughter.

The Cardinals Convoked to Provide for the Missions.

ROME, Feb. 5.—The Pope convoked the Cardinals, to-day, to make provisions for the interests of foreign missionaries owing to the threatened conversion of the property of Propaganda Fide by the Courts into rentes.

The Court of Cassation has already decided that this must be done.

Praise for American Officials.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—At a meeting of mechanics yesterday, citizen Dumay gave an account of his visit to America, and drew a comparison between American and French officials, much to the advantage of the former. He also said that the American workmen were better paid, but not better off than the French artisans. The French machine work was better than the American for the reason that it was not so rapid. The Frenchmen were free to come and go from shop to shop than the Americans. It was not unusual for American shops to forbid trades unionists, which was a violation of personal liberty.

Baker Pasha's Force Routed.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Advices from Suakim report rumors to the effect that Baker Pasha has been defeated and suffered great losses.

In the lobbies of the House of Commons the rumor that Gen. Baker's army has been annihilated is considered authentic.

Another report says that Baker lost 2,000 men, but has escaped.

Later dispatches reiterate the previous reports that Baker Pasha has met with a serious defeat.

Baker Pasha had with him 8,500 men and was advancing when he was attacked. The loss in killed and wounded amounts to 2,000 men. Baker Pasha with the remnants of his force, succeeded in reaching Trinkitat, where the gunboat Bonger is lying.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER CONVENTION.

Assembling of the Delegates in Lincoln Hall, Washington.

Ex-Gov. Washburne, of Minnesota, Selected as Temporary Chairman.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Mississippi River Convention assembled this afternoon in Lincoln Hall.

About 500 hundred delegates were present when the chairman of the Executive Committee, B. D. Wood, of New Orleans, called the Convention to order.

Gov. W. D. Washburne, of Minnesota was elected temporary chairman. He thanked the convention for the honor bestowed, and delivered an address setting forth the desirability and importance of improving the Mississippi river. He declared that in no manner had the proviedent care of the Creator for the ideal Republic been so manifested as in the location of the Mississippi river. The great empire in the west now demanded the full improvement of that river so that it will not only benefit the commerce of the country, but remain a bond of good will and fellowship between the sections.

Commissioner West, of the District of Columbia, welcomed the delegates in a brief address. He said that the convention stood pre-eminent in importance among the conventions held here. It concerned the welfare of the whole people. Strike the Missippi river or obstruct its flow, and decay and deterioration will rapidly spread itself throughout the life of the whole country.

The Committee on Permanent Organization presented the following names, and the nominees were unanimously elected: President, E. O. Stanard, of St. Louis; Vice-Presidents—C. C. Sheets, of Alabama; H. G. McPike, of Illinois; Gen. G. M. Dodge, of Iowa; A. Y. Shoop, of Kansas; Gen. C. Waddill, of Louisiana; H. C. Waite, of Minnesota; J. R. Lynch, of Mississippi; Hon. J. T. Vanhorn, of Missouri; Hon. Frank Ransome; Geo. H. Anderson, of Pennsylvania; A. S. Colyar, of Tennessee; J. McClure, of West Virginia; Wm. Wilson, of Wisconsin; Jas. M. Freeman, of Colorado; and J. H. King, of Dakota; Secretary, Geo. L. Wright, of New Orleans; D. F. Wilcox, of Illinois; S. L. McHenry, of Pennsylvania, and C. A. Lovnsberry, of Dakota.

Mr. Stanard then addressed the Convention. He said that the delegates were neither Republicans nor Democrats but both, when the subject of this Convention were in view. They were not here to button-hole Congressmen, but to express their sentiments in favor of cheap transportation, and to see that these great national waterways were made the means of transfer for the products of the country. He believed that the West was interested in the matter equally with the West, for were not the freights as important to the consumer as to the producer?

If this country repeated its history and doubled its population in the next fifty years, we would have 110,000,000 of people, and how could their freight be handled? Supposing that the railroads were quadrupled, what guarantee was there that they would not pool their receipts and maintain the present prices? The maintenance and improvement of the waterways of the country were the only checks upon railroads. If New York State spent over $70,000,000 on her canals, was it not proper that this great nation should spend what was neccessary in the improvement of the Mississippi—an improvement that would benefit directly 50,000,000 of people?

Since the creation of the Missippi River Commision Congress has placed at its disposal about $6,000,000. He believed the only way to get adequate improvement of the Mississippi River was through the Commission. (Applause.)

Mr. Standard read extracts from the report of the Senate special Missisippi River Committee concerning the work done on the river by Government engineers as valuable and important. He recommended the attention of delegates to that part of the report concerning the Jetties, and said it was fresh and official.

While we would not recommend appropriations for rivers not now navigable and which never could be made navigable, he earnestly hoped to see the day when the Government would improve all the vast waterways of the West that they would be navigable from the Gulf to the lakes and the seaboard. [Continued applause.]

A number of resolutions concerning river improvement were introduced and referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

The Convention received with applause a resolution favoring the continuance of the improvement of the Mississippi now in progress under the direction of the Secretary of War.

A motion was adopted thanking the President for his two special messages to Congress embodying his broad and statesmanlike views upon the improvement of the Mississippi, and the Convention adjourned.

The delegates have accepted an invitation to call on the President to-morrow morning.

A PHENOMENON.

A Pile is Carried Sixty-two Feet Down the Mississippi River Erect and Firmly Imbedded in the Sand.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—A remarkable physical phenomenon has been observed by Capt. A. L. Marshall, of the United States Engineers, stationed at Vicksburg, and in charge of the river improvement work at Lake Providence, La., for the Mississippi River Commission. In his report to the Commission he states: a few piles have washed out of the five row dike at Mercedes, Miss. There was a thick foot mat and a cubic yard of stone per running foot of dike. A remarkable phenomenon is shown here: A pile, five feet lower than the rest, marked to indicate the front of the dike at high water, still remains standing upright and firm sixty-two feet below the lower row. The drift is arched across the opening and there is no pressure upon this pile. It has traveled sixty-two feet down stream erect and firmly imbedded in the sand. Such cases have been reported heretofore, but not credited by me. This case I observed myself.

It can only be accounted for on the supposition of a bodily movement of sand foundation. In other words, it would seem as if all the material in the trough or bed of the river were in motion. In no startling way, as it appears, can this pile maintaining its solid hold in the mud and sand, and its perpendicular position, be accounted for.

Telegraph Wires Going Under the Ground.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—City Electrician Barrett, who has been examining the underground system of telegraph wires in our Eastern cities, is convinced of its practicability, and has contracted for forty miles of wires to be used as a basis for the new fire alarm system, all of which will be put under ground, removing all poles in the centre of the city.

The Election To-day.

Remember the election for State Senator to-day. Although a great part of the day will have elapsed before this reaches our readers, we will suggest that there yet remains ample time to vote and to elect a good Senator. The great Napoleon, on one occasion, when the day was drawing to a close upon an undecided battle, said there was yet time to win a victory. Let all good citizens bear this in mind; and upon those who have not yet voted we urge the importance of going to the polls and casting their votes. By electing a good man to the Senate a victory will be won for their best interests.

A PRESS dispatch announces the nomination of Hon. J. S. Blackburn for U. S. Senator by the Kentucky Legislature Democratic caucus.

Quick Work.

The materials having been gotten out and all in readiness to be put together, eight men built a freight car, trucks and all, painted it, and rolled it out of the shops at Water Valley in two hours and six minutes !—Clarion.

And yet the Clarion wants the Legislature to "supervise" this sort of work.

AN article in another column, under the heading "The Southern States," contains some most interesting facts plainly set forth. No unbiased person can fail to see the benefit to the country, and to the farmers probably more than any other class, by the establishment of manufacturing industries. The "protection policy" of the American Government has certainly redounded to the welfare and prosperity of the people. The State of Mississippi has recognized the benefit of "protection" by exempting manufactories from taxation for a term of years.

Republicans in Council.

We give our readers as a matter of news, the official call for a State Convention of the Republican party. The time fixed for the meeting is April 22, 1884—and Jackson the place. John R. Lynch signs the call as Chairman, and H. R. Ware as Secretary. The call is, in accordance with the resolution of the National Republican Convention, quite broad. The Republican state machinery is valuable as a political stock, and we shall watch with interest to see who will capture it at the April meeting:

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION CALLED

In accordance with a resolution unanimously adopted by the Republican State Executive Committee, at a regular meeting of said Committee, held at Jackson on Wednesday, January 30, 1884, a delegate Convention of the Republican voters of the State is hereby called to meet at Jackson on Tuesday, April 22, 1884, at 12 m., for the purpose of electing delegates and alternates to the National Republican Convention which meets at Chicago June 3, 1884.

The Republican electors of the several counties, and all other voters, without regard to past political differences, who are in favor of elevating and dignifying American labor, protecting and extending home industries, giving free popular education to the masses of the people, securing free suffrage and an honest counting of ballots, effectually protecting all human rights in every section of our common country, and who desire to promote friendly feeling and permanent harmony throughout the land by maintaining a National Government pledged to those objects and principles, are cordially invited to participate in the selection of delegates.

The basis of representation shall be as heretofore—double the number of delegates that such county has representatives in the lower branch of the State Legislature. The delegates to the State Convention from each Congressional District, will meet in separate District Conventions, in such rooms as may be secured by the Chairman and Secretary of this committee, at 10 o'clock on the morning of April 22d, for the purpose of choosing two delegates and two alternates from their respective districts to the National Republican Convention, and also to choose two persons in their respective districts to serve in the State Convention, on each of the following committees: Credentials, permanent organization, to recommend the names of four delegates and four alternates to the National Republican Convention from the State at large, platform and resolutions, and on the reorganization of the State Executive Committee.

The temporary Chairman of the Convention shall appoint one person from the State at large to serve on the Committee on Credentials and one to serve on the Committee on Permanent reorganization.

The permanent Chairman of the Convention shall appoint one person from the State at large to serve on each of the Committees. The credentials of the delegates to the State Convention from the various counties should be forwarded to the Chairman or Secretary of this Committee at Jackson, at least five days before the meeting of the State Convention, together with all notices of contest, if any, so that the roll of delegates may be prepared by the Committee before the meeting of the Convention.

J. R. LYNCH, Chairman.
H. R. WARE, Secretary.

Our Prison Death Rate.

When Mr. Cable wrote his essay upon the Southern Convict Leasing System, he had before him the report of the Superintendent of the Mississippi Penitentiary for the years 1880 and 1881 and we now have that report before us, and also the report of 1882 and 1883. In the first two years, '80 and '81, the convicts on hand are reported at 876, and the deaths in the two years at 136.

Now in two years, 1882 and 1883, the convicts on hand are reported at 771—a decrease of 105; and yet the increase in the death rate is startling. It has run up to 217 (see page 140)—an increase in the death rate of '81, with a decreased number of prisoners.

What causes that? IT MUST EVIDENTLY BE THE RAILROAD WORK, to which the prisoners are subjected. Mr. Superintendent McQuiston tells us in his report of '82 and '83 (page 4) that "more hardships are experienced and greater fatality has existed on railroads than on plantations." We are glad to know that the Mississippi Prison System is undergoing investigation at the hands of the Legislature, and we hope that the report will give the true facts as to the treatment of convicts and the causes of their deaths.

The convicts are held in very few hands (see Mr. McQuiston's report page 4.) Mr. Hemingway, State Treasurer, and his partner Townsend, have a lot. Mr. Gwin, State Auditor, and his partner, another lot. Then the lessees, Messrs. Hamilton, Hoskins & Allen, and Col. Nugent and Mr. W. H. H. Green, of Jackson, with their partners, take another lot, and a dozen other firms and persons the residue.

The death rate of these convicts is so enormously great, and such horrible tales of brutality and inhumanity in their treatment is shocking the ear of the public, that we trust each particular camp will be exhaustively overhauled. Take the 217 deaths for 1882 and 1883, let a committee from the Legislature publish the names of these men, state the date of their commitment and the cause of their death, and especially in whose camp the individual was when he died. Recollect, gentlemen of the Legislature, that the Coroner cannot get into the convict camp to report the cause of death, and that either you or the public must attend to the matter.

What Railroad Shops and Factories Will Do.

Some years ago—not more than twelve or fifteen—H. S. McComb, then general manager of the Great Jackson Railroad, selected the spot now known as McComb City as the location for the shops of the southern division of that line of road, and at once proceeded to carry out the designs of that work. At that time the place was a dense forest of pine, uninhabited, and perhaps up to the date of the commencement of the building of the railroad shops had never been regarded as a desirable or likely spot for even a squatter's hut. The space had to be cleared of the trees before the erection of the buildings could commence, and for a time a tent was a residence there was like living in the woods. Today McComb City is a thriving and prosperous place of over two thousand inhabitants, with handsome churches, flourishing schools, first-class mercantile establishments, and in fact every convenience to be found in any superior—to the average "country town. The railroad shops support it; give almost the sole employment to its citizens, and maintain the stores, churches, schools and whatever other institutions the place may contain. She does little business outside, and relies on little else other than these shops for existence—yet its citizens are prosperous, and doubtless contented and happy.

The town of Wesson—the location of the famous Wesson Cotton and Woolen Mills—a place of over two thousand inhabitants, was founded in '68 or '69 by Col. J. M. Wesson. At that time there was not a house near the site of the present live and enterprising place—then Beauregard. It, like McComb City, was built in the heart of a forest, with the railroad near by the only evidence of civilization. To-day, like McComb City, it has its trade, churches, schools, etc., and undoubtedly supports as industrious, thriving and prosperous a population as any town in Mississippi; and its existence depends on the Wesson Mills and kindred institutions that these mills have attracted.

Both of these places have grown out of the forests in a remarkable short time, each by the aid of a solid and permanent manufacturing enterprise. There are countless places on the same road that sprung up near the same dates but with no such assistance and no such foundation for their prosperous existence, have never grown above the importance of a puny cross-road station, and some are already gone and forgotten. Summit, three miles above McComb City, of two or three times the age, and with a monopoly of the trade of the surrounding farming section, has only 1,700 people.

These facts show what manufactories will do. They are unassailable proof that such are an unfailing and generous source of prosperity, even when surrounded by no other dissimilar enterprises. Wherever there is healthy manufacturing enterprise, there is to be found a healthy and vigorous progress.

Such an establishment as either the McComb City Car Works or the Wesson Mills in Vicksburg, would be worth in two years 2,000 addition to her population and an addition of industrious, intelligent citizens and skilled and valuable artisans. With so many more people to occupy our houses and tenements, what would be the increase to the value of our property; what would be the advantage accruing to our mercantile, mechanical and professional interests?

Vicksburg has an opportunity to secure these advantages; and anxiety to know what her authorities will do with it, is at the highest tension. A mass-meeting of citizens, as a means of learning the predominant sentiment in regard to the matter, might bring to an earlier settlement the question: Is Vicksburg to have the railroad shops?

THE SOUTHERN STATES.

And the Vigorous Growth of New Enterprises Springing Up All Over Them.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The new South is attracting a good deal of attention here now. The vigorous growth of new enterprises in all the Southern States, particularly those east of the Mississippi, is very gratifying to every body. Reports coming from many of these States show a steady and gratifying influx of Northern capital, and with it Northern energy. A gentleman just arrived here from Key West, in Florida, and his partner Townsend, have a lot. Mr. Gwin, State Auditor, and his partner, another lot. Then the lessees, Messrs. Hamilton, Hoskins & Allen, and Col. Nugent and Mr. W. H. H. Green, of Jackson, with their partners, take another lot, and a dozen other firms and persons the residue.

The death rate of these convicts is so enormously great, and such horrible tales of brutality and inhumanity in their treatment is shocking the ear of the public, that we trust each particular camp will be exhaustively overhauled. Unconsciousness of Dying Persons.

"A dying man may be burned with a red-hot iron and not feel pain," Dr. Crawford said to a reporter of the Mail. Consciousness may remain to the dying almost to the dissolution, but generally they lose the power of thought long before actual death. In cases of death in which there seems to be suffering, the writhing and spasms are due to reflex muscular action. Fear reaches the nervous system and consequently hastens, and the reverse of fear may prolong life." The doctor cited a medical report concerning a Methodist minister. He lay on the verge of death, cold and pulseless, and friends around his bed sang his favorite hymn. As they ceased, and while the physicians stood timing the death, the minister's hands moved and he whispered "Glory!" Restoratives were administered and an hour later he had recovered. He lived many years after that. He said he understood every word spoken at his bedside. Under the nervous excitement and enthusiasm wrought by the hymn he had exerted his muscular strength and lived.—Stockton Mail.

A CABLE from Rome of Friday last contains the following: "It has been stated that the Pope shall nominate at the Consistory in the month of March, only one American bishop—Father Pacifico, of the Capistrano, a Capuchin brother, who will be named Bishop of Cardona, in the Argentine Republic. The judgment of the Supreme Court of Cassation, establishing allegorization and suppression of the property of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, is highly criticised. Nearly $15,000,000 worth of real estate belonging to the Propaganda will be sold and invested in Italian funds in trust for the Propaganda. The Pope has decided to communicate the fact to all Catholic powers as a new attack against his independence.

Wealth and Intellect.

The aggregate wealth of the seventy-six United States Senators is said to be $181,000,000, while four of the number are comparatively poor men. It is another sort of body from the Senate of thirty-five years ago, when Clay, Calhoun, Webster, Davis, Douglas, Benton, Cass, Crittenden, Bell and Wright were Senators. It was then as rich in intellect and as poor in dollars as it is now rich in dollars and poor in intellect.—Memphis Avalanche.

Vicissitudes of Life in Texas.

How time flies. The first month of the new year is nearly half gone; the Times busted, the Lone Star is advertised for sale and three lush houses closed up yesterday. Whither are we drifting? In the midst of life we are in debt.—El Paso Herald.

NOTES.

The steamer Headlight is going out and might had a fine trip.

The landing in about as disagreeable as could possibly be, on account of the mud.

The City of Providence, Issaquena and Jno. F. Halpin, were the only boats leaving at the landing to-day.

The Issaquena, Capt. Jno. Lewis, in command, has been overflowing with steamboatmen ever since leaving Vicksburg, constantly awaiting the resumption of navigation.

The steamer Jno. F. Halpin received finally this morning of both freight and passengers, and departed for Davis bend at 11 a.m.

The City of Providence will be in Saturday morning early, and will leave at 11 a.m. the same day, going through to Louis.

The U. S. mail steamer Capt. Miller be found at the landing in the morning and will leave at 11 a.m. for all points as far south as Natchez.

Capt. El. Nowland's fine steamer Will Hays will be in to-night from Monday and returns to-morrow at 12 m. G. Floyd is in charge of the office.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg will be in Sunday night or early Monday morning, and will be the finest mail boat, leaving at 11 a.m. for St. Louis.

Passengers and shippers for all points on the Yazoo river, will have the P. P. steamer Lefore leaving to-morrow morning at 5 o'clock, going as high as Greenwood.

Capt. Dan'l Able, of the Anchor Line steamer City of St. Louis, telegraphed to Capt. Carroll to-day that this excellent steamer would pass up at noon to-morrow and call for St. Louis.

Capt. Campbells splendid steamer Edwardson will be up this evening from Orleans and will leave again tomorrow evening for New Orleans at 5 o'clock p.m.

The steamer Issaquena came in last night with a big trip of freight and passengers.

She is receiving to-day and will leave again at 5 o'clock this evening as high as Greenville.

The officers of the City of Providence are passing the Golden Crown at Arcadia City at 11 a.m. yesterday. The crown has a big freight and will no doubt pass down this evening.

The steamer W. P. Thompson left at 5 o'clock yesterday evening for Ashton, with a fair showing of freight and passengers. She will return to-morrow night, and leave again for Ashton on Friday at 4 p.m.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Providence from Arkansas City this morning at 9 o'clock and departed for New Orleans at 11 o'clock this morning. A good trip of freight returns for the boats.

Capt. Lefore on the shaft of the steamer bearing his name at Adam Fox's foundry is completed to-day, and Capt. Lefore of the Doyersburg will leave with the shaft by the 8 o'clock train to-morrow morning for Monroe, (La.,) where the boat is at present.

The steamer Harry arrived from Sunflower river this morning with about 50 bales of cotton. She also brought down the remains of engineer Phillips who was shot at Rolling Fork, an account of whose shooting appeard in yesterday's Post.

The Times-Democrat says Commodore S. H. Parisot has gone to Louisville, it is said, for the purpose of letting out the contract for another steamboat for the P Line. She will be larger and handsomer than the ill-fated S. H. Parisot; will be ready for the Fall trade and will run between Vicksburg and New Orleans, in connection with the City of Yazoo. The Howards will build her.

CLIPPINGS.

Picayune, 6th: Through having been misinformed we erred in stating in yesterday's Picayune that the damage to the Natchez would amount to $2,000. Capt. Leathers says $200 will cover the expense of repairing the boat. * * We are informed that a new boat will soon be placed in the Red River trade to make connection with the Chas. C. Carroll.

Memphis Ledger, 6th: One of the rumors afloat in our city during the past few days was that the Kate Adams would extend her trips to Vicksburg. But Major Adams said yesterday that the steamer Kate Adams was built expressly for the Memphis and Arkansas City trade and his friends and patrons can depend on her remaining there until she wears out.

TOTAL DAMAGE TO STEAMER NATCHEZ.

The total damage done to the steamer Natchez by last Sunday's explosion near Baton Rouge will not exceed $200.—Times-Democrat.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Opening of Parliament and the Queen's Speech.

The text of the Queen's speech is as follows:

"My Lords and Gentlemen: I continue to hold friendly and harmonious relations with all foreign powers. My communications with the President of the French Republic, arising out of the special incidents in Madagascar, have closed, as I anticipated, in a manner such as tends to confirm the cordial understanding between the two countries.

I have likewise, in conjunction with the French government, appointed a commission, now sitting in Paris, to discuss a basis of arrangement for the future regulation of the Newfoundland fisheries and for the avoidance of disputes.

An agreement has been arrived at with Portugal respecting the Congo and adjacent territories, which will be presented to you forthwith.

Arrangements are in progress for a resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico and special envoys have been dispatched by each Government to promote that end.

Negotiations for a treaty of commerce with Turkey have commenced. The agreement or commercial arrangements with Spain has been signed, and now awaits the sanction of the Cortes. The revision of the commercial treaty with Italy has been generally agreed to by the treaty of the powers, is nearly completed. A treaty of commerce and friendship has been signed with Corea.

Having had every reason to be satisfied with the tranquility of Egypt and the progress made in the establishment of order in the country, I gave, during the autumn, instructions for the evacuation of Cairo, a further reduction of my military forces and their concentration mainly in Alexandria. But in November the Egyptian army appointed to maintain the rule of the Khedive in Soudan was defeated and broken up with heavy loss. Upon the occurrence of this defeat I deemed it wise to recall the orders I had given, and to postpone

MR. OTTO METTZ, of St. Louis, is in the city to-day.

MR. I. T. DILLON, of Milliken's Bend, is at the Pacific House.

THE vote to-day will no doubt be a light one, owing to the rain.

MR. and MRS. J. B. HAMNER, of Glenora, Miss., are in the city.

MESSRS AGNES HALLECK and Zita Gaines are Miss Alice's Roman Party.

MR. JAMES P. ROACH, Cashier of the Vicksburg Bank, is in New Orleans.

S. M. SHELTON, Esq., left yesterday evening for Raymond to attend Court.

REV. THOS. CUMMINS, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, returned home yesterday.

REV. C. K. MARSHALL, D.D., will preach at the Methodist Church in this city on next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

MISS KATE TRIPHARD, of Pearl street, entertained a number of friends last evening, with a social dance.

THE ladies of Holy Trinity Church will give entertainments in Magnolia Hall on the evenings of February 13th and 14th.

THE Issaquena, arriving last night, brought 1,200 sacks of seed, and 19 bales cotton for town; and 32 bales cotton for New Orleans.

MR. THOMAS F. DUFFIN, of the firm Duffin Bros., is in the city. He will take his departure this evening by steamer Issaquena for his new home.

IT was found necessary to shoot the fine horse belonging to Capt. Mulholland, which yesterday ran away and broke a leg. It was thus put out of its agony.

MR. FRANK HOLLANDER, formerly with Ruhman & Co., this city, but now of Topeka, Kansas, is spending a few days among his Vicksburg friends.

THE Revised Charter was taken to Jackson yesterday on the 2:15 train by Aldermen Worrell and Polk. It will be submitted to the Legislature by Hon. Marshall Miller.

The Election.

Reports from the Second Ward polls say that the contest in that ward is principally between Marshall and Gibson.

As we go to press we learn that there have been 83 votes polled in the First Ward. Carter came in for a share, but Marshall and Gibson both seem to be ahead of him.

In the Fourth Ward a good vote is being polled. Marshall and Gibson seem to be running about equally.

Reports from the third ward are very similar to those from the first.

It is the opinion that a very light vote will be polled. We have no news from the county.

The Dead Engineer.

The remains of Wm. Phillips, who was killed at Rolling Fork Monday, arrived on the steamer Harry this morning, and are now at the undertaking establishment of J. Q. Arnold, on Monroe street. The deceased was a native of Ohio, and it was supposed that he had relatives in that State, but as yet no word has been received from them in regard to the disposition of the remains. Unless his friends are heard from to-day Mr. Phillips' remains will be interred here.

Hymeneal.

Married, on Wednesday, February 6, 1884, at 6½ o'clock p.m., at the residence of Mrs. Virginia Thomas, of Vicksburg, by Bishop W. F. Adams, MR. N. H. THOMAS to MISS. BESSIE C. SHIELDS, both of this city.

The wedding was very private, the party being composed of relatives and a few special friends. The bride and bridegroom were unattended; were dressed in traveling costume, and departed by the 8 o'clock train last night for a bridal tour, which will extend as far as to that land of fruits and flowers, Florida.

The best wishes of a host of friends attend the young couple in their wedding tour as well as in the tour of life.

"Therefore the maid was given unto the priest
A willing spoil; and when the stars were good—
Mesha, the Red Ram, being lord of heaven—
The marriage feast was kept, as Sakyas use,
The golden spell set, the carpets spread,
The wedding garlands hung, the arm-threads tied,
The sweet cake broke; the rice and attar thrown,
The two straws floated on the reddened milk,
Which, coming close, betokened "love till death;"
The seven steps taken thrice around the fire,
The gifts bestowed on holy men, the alms
And temple offerings made, the mantras sung,
The garments of the bride and bridegroom tied,
Then the gray father spake: "Worshipful spouse,
She that was ours henceforth is only thine;
Be good to her, who hath her life in thee."
Wherewith they brought home sweet Yasodhara,
With songs and trumpets, to the prince's arms,
And love was all in all."

Water Works.

It looks at present as if the North American Improvement and Construction Company would soon be ready to begin work upon the new water works. The charter under which the company expects to do the work has passed the Lower House of the State Legislature, and stands an excellent chance of passing the Senate, when it will lack only the signature of the Governor to complete its validity. It will be remembered that the Board of Mayor and Aldermen only a few days since cancelled their contract with the former company, and it will be necessary for them to renew it before the work can be begun.

SERIOUS RAILROAD ACCIDENT.

On the L., N. O. & T. R. R. at Big Divide—Eleven Men Injured and a Number of Cars Derailed.

A serious accident to a construction train on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., at Big Divide, twenty-one miles south of this city, occurred about a quarter after 11 o'clock yesterday morning. About a dozen men were injured, two of whom were at first supposed to have received fatal wounds, but a report from the Hospital about noon stated that they have fair chances for recovery.

Train Dispatcher Birdsong, this morning made the following statement to a POST reporter in regard to the accident:

"Engine No. 2 was at the time in charge of Engineer Isgrig, and in the service of Jas. P. McDonald, contractor, and the train was hauling material from the Big Divide to Big Black swamp. The train consisted of the engine and thirteen flat-cars, and had been to Big Black with a load and was returning empty. The engine was in the rear, as was necessary, and was backing the train, which was ahead of it. The place where the accident occurred was on the heaviest and only 60-degree curve on the line. The foreman in charge of the train was on the front car, but owing to the fact that the curve was partly in a heavy cut, the engineer could not see him until the engine was nearly out of the cut. The train was on a down grade, and the engineer had shut off steam and was rolling down the grade at the rate of about ten or twelve miles an hour, when as he was emerging from the cut he saw a cow on the track, and the conductor gave the signal to stop. He immediately whistled for brakes, and reversed his engine, but was so close upon the cow he could not stop before striking her.

"There were a hundred or more men on the train, sitting or standing on the cars. Several of the front cars were knocked off the track, and about a dozen men were more or less injured. These were brought up last night under charge of Mr. McDonald, the foreman, and taken by him to the City Hospital. The Herald was widely mistaken in its statement that the engineer had to take to the woods to avoid being lynched by the workmen. When the accident occurred he started towards the cars that were off the track, but was threatened violence by the excited Irishmen. He then went back to his engine where he remained until his foreman ordered him to carry his engine to Big Black in order to telegraph the news of the accident here. He remained at the telegraph office until the engine arrived from Vicksburg, and then returned to the wreck.

"The injured men arrived in this city about nine o'clock last night and are now at the City Hospital. The following are their names and a description of their injuries: Pat Conroy, internal injuries; John Boyle, collar-bone broken; Mike Higgens, back sprained; John Farrell, right shoulder dislocated; Wm. Harvey, right shoulder dislocated; Wm. Walsh, elbow injured; Mike Reagan, patella fractured; Anderson Johnson, (colored) thigh bruised; Mike Murphy, bruised and shocked; Dan Dugan, knee injured.

"The first named two were the only ones whose injuries were considered dangerous. The others are comparatively slightly injured, and will soon be all right.

"The men were wrong in becoming angry at the engineer, as it is certain he was not to blame. These workmen, the officers of the road inform us, have frequently become unruly, and on one or two occasions have attempted to burn the train. The railroad company is in no way to blame for the accident, as the train was not in their hands, but was under the sole supervision of the contractor in charge of the work.

"A CLEAN GIVE-AWAY."

Bids of the Post and Herald for City Advertising and Job Printing.

The City Clerk read the bids offered for doing the job work and printing of the city during the ensuing year. The bid of the Vicksburg Herald being much the lowest, was accepted, the difference in the bids of the Herald and POST being $84.65 in favor of the Herald—Herald, Feb. 6.

The above is giving information to the public with a vengeance. The bids were made on the job work per thousand, and advertising per square, so that it is a matter of impossibility to tell the difference in the bids until the end of the time for which the bids were made, and all the job work and advertising for the city has been performed. Then and then only can the difference be estimated.

For the information of our over-taxed and debt-ridden community and as a specimen of what was and what would have been the result if an UNDIVIDED newspaper patronage we will state that the Herald charged the city for advertising for the year 1883—50 cents per square for each insertion. In the bid of the Herald for the coming year of 1884, the Herald agrees to do the same advertising for 10 cents per square for each insertion, which is 80 PER CENT LESS than the price it exacted from the city last year. THE POST'S bid Tuesday was 18 cent per square for advertising. As THE POST'S bid for job printing Tuesday was from 25 to 30 per cent. lower than what the Herald charged the city last year, and the Herald's bid of Tuesday being necessarily lower than THE POST'S bid, the difference between what the Herald charged the city when it had the monopoly of the printing and advertising and what it is willing and able to do the same for now is absolutely startling!

Although THE POST did not get the city advertising and printing, it has the consolation of knowing it has effected an ENORMOUS AND SWEEPING reduction in the advertising and job printing expense of the city, for which it is confident the people thus benefited will not fail to give it due credit.

The following amounts bid by the two offices on the different items of job work, by the thousand copies, will show how conscientious the Herald has become by reason of healthy competition:

$12,500 for Humbug and Cheek—the Railroad Bill up in the Senate.

Reynolds Making a Powerful Speech Against it.

Senate.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 8.—A bill passed appropriating $12,500 to the New Orleans Cotton Exposition.

The Railroad bill is being hotly discussed. Senator R. O. Reynolds is now speaking in opposition to it, and says before he gets through he will show plainly why the bill should not pass. His points are clear and unanswereable. He is being listened to with the utmost attention.

If the bill passes it will be by a small majority, and with many amendments.

Too Much Speculation.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Liverpool cotton brokers and Lancashire spinners are holding a conference for the purpose of adopting rules to check the undue speculation in cotton futures.

Lowell on Wendell Phillips.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—United States Minister Lowell was to-day interviewed by a correspondent on the subject of Wendell Phillips. Mr. Lowell said the announcement of his death had caused him much surprise, owing to the fact that Mr. Phillips had belonged to a long lived family. He had often had occasion to disagree with Mr. Phillips in many of the views entertained and advocated by that gentleman, but had always greatly admired his talent, his moral sentiment and his steady and constant advocacy of the cause of the weak and oppressed. He had never been actuated by personal animosity.

Lowell considered him the best orator who had appeared during recent years, although he had perhaps yielded too often to the temptation to make allusions for the epigram's sake. As illustrating his power to influence and convert to his views large audiences, Mr. Lowell recalled the occasion in which Mr. Phillips spoke at Harvard College on the subject of the secession of Texas. Many students who had come from the Southern States were present with the intention of creating a disturbance, but were so moved by the power of his oratory and the clearness of his reasoning that they remained to applaud. The only survivor of the great abolitionists now remaining is the poet J. F. Whittier. Wendell Phillips has been much interested in the political affairs of Ireland since he met O'Connell in London, forty years ago. Mr. Lowell wrote a sonnet on Wendell Phillips and said that now he would write another.

In an interview had with Mr. John Bright, the famous leader of the Liberal party in England, that gentleman expressed himself as feeling the deepest sympathy with the American people for the loss of one of their most distinguished citizens. He had never met Wendell Phillips in person, but for many years past had watched his career carefully, and watched it with the keenest interest. His death was something to be greatly deplored.

MR. JOHN A. KLEIN, a native of London county, Virginia, but for fifty years past a prominent citizen of Vicksburg, died Sunday morning at his residence, in the seventy-second year, full of honors and surrounded by a devoted family.—Memphis Ledger.

END OF THE JENKINS TRIAL.

Ned Jenkins Found not Guilty—Ben Jenkins Guilty, Without Capital Punishment.

[Special to the Picayune.]

MANSFIELD, Feb. 6.—The court met this morning at the usual hour to proceed with the argument in the Jenkins brothers case, which has increased in interest every day, as evidenced by the thronged condition of the large court-room. The weather has been quite warm, and with the crowded court-room became rather uncomfortable to the audience, but it is endured rather than miss the speeche. In this case, which have been made by some of the best legal talent of the State.

Judge William H. Jack, of the Natchitoches bar, proceeded on the opening of court this morning to discuss the case as to the merits of the defence. He first addressed himself to the point of conspiracy between defendants, calling the attention of the jury to the fact that no evidence on this point had been introduced, except as to Ned leaving his rifle at the stable, which it was explained had been left there for Church Mathews, who had contracted to purchase it. He showed that the jury of inquest failed to censure him.

He recited to the jury that Edgard Sutherland testified that Ned Jenkins came onto the sidewalk just in front of his father's store and returned when his brother and Borden were at Holgood & Williams', thirty feet distant; that Burns and Mayo said he was only three feet from his father's rear door when Ben fired the fatal shot, which was something like fifteen steps farther from the door, which, he argued, was evidence against his participation. There was evidence of only six shots. Ben's pistol was freshly emptied of six chambers, which precluded Ned's firing; that the first declarations in such cases was a part of res gesta, and that Ned first exclaimed, "Run Ben, run," and when asked by three witnesses, who met him first, what was the matter, said that Ben had killed Borden. This he regarded as the best evidence of the truth, though he subsequently, when he found, by the yell and clapping of hands of his brother, his distressed condition, comforted him with claiming the fatal shot as the work of his pistol. This, he insisted, was to soothe and comfort his brother, rather than to establish his own guilt, which was contradicted by all other circumstances. He presented these facts to contradict conspiracy and preparation before the killing, and that no act, word or deed was done by him at the time of the killing which would show that he was justly included in the charge, for which reason he asked that Ned be discharged. He referred to the existence of the exciting cause for affective insanity in Ben as being ——, given by strong inference, ascertained in Miss Butler's letter when she said that, never hearing such an expression before; she was too broad in her language in saying Borden had made improper advances to her, and of course he had drawn his own conclusions. This, he argued, was sufficient evidence for such an exciting cause, which medical experts said was necessary to produce a delusion in affective insanity. Judge Jack not only argued that he was crazy from the influence of himself and surrounding circumstances show that he was no less irrational now.

District Attorney Hall replied, and closed the case for the defense. He is said to be one of the best prosecuting attorneys in the State, and his argument was looked to with much interest. He reviewed the testimony and the circumstances of the killing and the surrounding circumstances with great clearness and ability, touching upon all features of the case, as far as complicity in the act or preconcerted arrangement on the part of Ned and the insanity plea for Ben, which is regarded as being very thorough and exhaustive on these points. He spoke three hours.

Judge Logan then charged the jury for an hour, covering all the points in the case, when he adjourned Court till 8 o'clock.

On the meeting of the Court the prisoners were brought in, and the jury in a few minutes filed into the jury box. Everyone was in breathless silence, waiting the result of their deliberations to be made known. The foreman then handed the clerk the verdict, which was read as follows:

"We, the jury, find Ned Jenkins not guilty in the manner and form, as charged, in the manner and form, as charged, without capital punishment.

T. C. ATKINSON, Foreman."

Judge Logan ordered the Sheriff not to adjourn Court for some time, when the friends of the prisoners approached the room to express their feelings at the result. The aged father clasped the young men to his heart, expressing his feelings in a manner better imagined than can be told. The Judge told the jury they were relieved, that their duties were ended, and if he was in the Legislature he would introduce an act for their special benefit to exempt them from jury service for eight years.

A Waiting Race in Washington.

One of the severest tests of a bicycle rider is an ability to go slow; and the waiting races, where each competitor tries to excel by coming in last, are looked on as showing perfect proofs of skill that the contests of speed. It is such a race as this that two experts Randall and Morrison, are now engaged in. The Republicans form the interested crowd of spectators, and bets are freely made among them that one or both of the riders will fall off their machines before the line is reached.

GRAVE FEARS OF OVERFLOW.

The Lowlands in the Garden About Memphis Threatened—Warning to the People.

[Special to The Times-Democrat.]

MEMPHIS, Feb. 6.—The floods that are pouring out of the interior rivers are giving great concern to the people in this section of the Mississippi Valley, who cannot see any possibility of avoiding one of the most serious overflows that have devastated the lowlands.

The railroads to the West and South which are the Memphis and Little Rock; Kansas City, Springfield and Memphis, and the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas, must suffer, but to what extent cannot be foretold. Warning has been sent to the planters below to remove their stock to a place of safety, which if heeded, will save them thousands of dollars. It has been raining almost steadily for the past thirty six hours, which will swell all the interior streams and add to the disaster which is almost upon the people below this city.

VICKSBURG will secure the State Hospital. The Legislative Committee favors our city, and the Legislature will undoubtedly sanction its recommendation.

HAM CARTER, as usual, is after an office. He is a candidate for Senator for the county of Warren.—Yazoo Sentinel.

And as usual, of late years, he has been defeated.

THE trial of the Jenkins brothers for the murder of the Rev. J. Lane Borden, at Mansfield, La., has been finished. Ben. Jenkins was adjudged "guilty, without capital punishment," and Ned Jenkins was acquitted.

WE hear that the Congressional Districts are to be upset. When will the beginning be. "They say" that Panola is to be "shifted." Where is she to be dropped ?—New Mississippian.

THE State Senators who are "holding the fort" in behalf of the progress and development of the State, will receive an able accession to their ranks when the Hon. Martin Marshall, the newly elected Senator from this county, takes his seat.

WE learn that Mr. J. G. McGuire, formerly of the Oxford Falcorn, has purchased an interest in the Yazoo Herald, and will take up his residence in Yazoo. We wish Messrs. Roach and McGuire great success with the Herald.

SENATOR SYKES, of Lowndes county, knows the extremists have a majority in the Mississippi House, and is afraid they also have a majority in the Senate, and that consequently some sort of a Railroad supervision bill will be passed. We will pin our faith to the Senate for awhile longer, notwithstanding Mr. Sykes's probably well-grounded fears. But if the Senate does give way, then we will see what stuff Gov. Lowry is made of.

THE Meridian-Mercury says a movement is on foot in that city to organize a joint stock printing company, with a view to the publication of a daily paper, taking the Mercury as the foundation for the enterprise. The plan is all right, provided there is not too much dilution of the stock. We know of a printing and publishing company not a hundred thousand miles from this city, which proposes to have a stock company to the extent of a cool $100,000. The proportion of water now coming out of the Ohio is not a circumstance to this.

A NOTICEABLE feature of the election yesterday was the fact that many Republicans supported and voted for the candidate who is an avowed Democrat, notwithstanding his opponents are avowed Republicans. In fact, we are informed that Sheriff Beck, who is the acknowledged leader of the Republicans in this county, used his best endeavors in favor of the election of Mr. Marshall. On the other hand we are informed that some prominent Democrats voted for Mr. Gibson.

Probably it is an encouraging feature of our present political situation that the parties are thus divided, and that Republicans and Democrats support whom they think "the best" and most suitable man for an important office, regardless of his politics.

"THE Vicksburg Herald has a juicy correspondent, in the State capital," says Mississippi exchange.

Well, we did not know what was the matter, nor what caused the Herald man first to endeavor to "run" the Speaker of the House and the Legislature, and then to bitterly attack and ridicule the Speaker and other members. But that word "juicy" explains it.

By the way the aforesaid correspondent seems to have subsided. No more does he violently denounce and ridicule Speaker Inge; there is a general "let up" in the tone of his criticisms, and he become gentle and mild compared to his former diatribes. We wonder what has caused this sudden change of heart, or of pencil. It will be well for all correspondents hereafter to beware of too much juice.

THE many friends in this city of Mr. J. S. Cameron were shocked to hear of his terrible death—by Railroad Commissioners. But about 900 went home last night. The forty who came in five off the telegraph lines, and hadn't learned that the bill would in all probability be indefinitely postponed in the Senate. The 860 who went home, left with the vestige but full of vexation and disgust.—Washington Dispatch.

The Election Yesterday.

We congratulate the people of Warren County upon the result of yesterday's election. We accept congratulatioas for ourselves also, for while THE POST did not by name, advocate Martin Marshall's election, it advocated the principles expressed and embodied by him, and the principles which dominated in the county to the result of his election.

Our people are fortunate in securing the election of Martin Marshall because he can and we believe will do the county good service in the Senate. Being of the majority of that body, and in harmony with the best element of that majority, he can do the State good service at this particular time. His legislative experience, his known ability as a lawyer and a man, his knowledge of the legislative needs of the people, and above all, his views on railroad supervision and other important public questions, will make him an acceptable and efficient Senator.

In a political aspect also the election gives good signs for the future. Party lines were not drawn, race prejudice was not appealed to, and we have a right to presume that thought, independence and individuality characterized the ballots cast.

The Amended Charter.

The amended charter of Vicksburg, as prepared by our Board of Mayor and Aldermen, has been sent to the Legislature at Jackson, and that body will no doubt soon "make it the law of the land" or of this city. We are informed that the Board of Mayor and Aldermen had agreed to publish the Charter as amended, before asking the Legislature to pass upon it, so that our citizens could see what changes have been made, whether they are satisfactory, and if others are necessary. Whether the card agreed to do this or not, we think it would have been an excellent thing for them to have done, or it would be a good thing to do now. The question of expense need not deter the Board, as THE POST will print it as a matter of news and for the information of our citizens, without charge. By the way, THE POST is the only paper that ever printed the last amended Charter, notwithstanding the great conscientious and the nondescript Commercial were in existence when it was passed.

There may be decided objections to some of the amendments as now proposed by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen. For instance, the proviso that the Aldermen shall be elected to serve four years will hardly suit the people.

There is ample time yet to examine the Charter, scrutinize and perfect it, and then send it to the Legislature to be passed.

Let the people see what is proposed for their government they are some what interested in it.

A Violent Death.

A dead man was discovered near the railroad track about 2 miles south of town last Sunday morning by some railroad employees, and the fact being reported to Coroner Patrick, he summoned a jury of inquest and made an examination of the corpse. The jury decided that deceased came to his death by a violent fall from a freight train the night previous.

The body was identified as that of H. H. Varnado, a telegraph operator from Oayka. We have since learned these particulars: Varnado had been ordered to Hazlehurst to take charge of the office there as night operator. Saturday night while on the train thither, he became very drunk and got off here, thinking he had reached his destination. He was soon convinced of his mistake by our night operator, Mr. Chambers, by laboring under the bewilderment of drink, caught on to the ladder of a passing north-bound freight train, and fell on reaching Hazlehurst. When last seen by Mr. Chambers he was clinging to the ladder of the moving train, and it is supposed that he finally lost his hold and was thrown to the ground with the fatal result already stated. A whisky flask, with most of its contents gone, was found by the Coroner in one of his coat pockets.

A brother of the unfortunate young man was telegraphed for and came up and carried his remains to Oayka Sunday for interment. He leaves a sorrowing wife and a little girl three years old. The moral is only one of many that is being furnished all over this country daily of the evils of drink.—Brookhaven Leader.

THE Republicans are getting into trouble about the election of delegates to Chicago. Their last National Convention determined to give the Republicans of each Congressional District the right to elect their own delegates to the Convention of 1884 without interference by State Conventions, and directed the National Committee to adopt suitable rules for carrying the new method into effect. This was intended to be a death blow at the bosses which had grown up under the old method of election by State Conventions, and especially the practice of instructing the entire delegation to vote as a unit and support a particular candidate.—New York Sun.

THE marriage of Commander Frederick Pearson, of the navy, to Miss Ayer, in New York, to-day, is a social sensation of considerable magnitude here. Some titled Englishmen, visiting this country within the past two or three years, learning that Miss Ayer was to be worth at least ten millions in her own right, set to work to capture her, but failed. That a naval Commander should have won the prize and carried off the millions is a subject of congratulations to Pearson.—Miss Ayer is a daughter of Dr. Ayer, the patent medicine man.—Washington Dispatch.

LETTER FROM JACKSON.

Discussion of the Election Law in the Senate.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]
JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 7, '84

The Senate to-day had under consideration the most important matter for general legislation that has been brought before it this session—the election law. Senator Hyer, of Marshall, reported a bill which had been carefully digested by its friends, and with all of its obnoxious features came within an ace of passing. I think that I am not mistaken in believing that public sentiment, during the past few years, has traveled upon the broad highway of liberality and individual and political tolerance of opinion. The desire has been steadily growing among the people of all shades of politics to modify the election laws, but to modify them so as to remove the possibility of tampering with the ballot-box. It was hence a surprise to hear grave and venerable Senators indulging in the rhetoric of pot-house partisans, and fighting with all their energy to take away what little guarantee of fairness there is to be found in the election laws as they now exist. The bill to-day offered by Senator Hyer, as amendatory of the laws of 1880, entirely dismembered the old Act of its popular features. Referring to the appointment by the State Board of Commissioners, of County Commissioners of Election, it struck out the words of "competent and suitable persons," and extended the extraordinary discretion now assumed by that body. It gave them a license to appoint any one they might choose from the parishs of society. It did not prescribe a tally sheet to be kept by the Clerk of Election, nor the keeping of the list of parties voting at the election. It struck out the word "publicly" where the existing laws require the box to be opened publicly. It went still a step further, and invested the Board of Commissioners with judicial powers to consider charges of frauds and irregularities, and to throw out the boxes at libitum.

In the Committee of the whole, this bill was taken up section by section, and passed by a vote of 15 ayes to 13 nays. But when it was reported to the Senate and the ayes and nays called up on it, amendment after amendment, the vote was reversed. As the bill now stands, two important amendments offered by Senator Roané, of Webster, have been passed by a vote of 15 ayes to 13 nays. First: Giving the two challengers, allowed each party, the right to "see the vote honestly counted"; and second: Declaring that the votes shall be published. The last, and more startling innovation of conferring judicial powers upon a political body, always recognized as ministerial, will be taken up to-morrow. Senator Roane, of Webster, has led the friends of honest elections with singular ability and success. Defeated in the Committee of the whole, he renewed the struggle in the Senate. Senators could be recorded, and came off victorious. In his efforts he was ably supported by Senators Jeffords, Walker, Gayles and others.

Senator Hyer, of Marshall, in advocating his pet scheme, threw off all reserve as to his intentions. "I confess," he said, "to being a partisan." And then continuing, in a burst of classic oratory: "I am one of them fellers, who are for my fellers against every body else's fellers."

It is not a very encouraging sign of the times to find a majority of the Democratic Senators favoring measures to further restrict and curtail the right of popular elections. But it is encouraging to find the Senators from the white counties, who have no cloud upon their title, standing up for an honest count. And so I close this chapter. * * *

The Ohio Blunder.

A Democratic contemporary thinks that no censure should be cast upon the Democratic party for electing a Standard oil man Senator from Ohio, because the Republican side of the Senate is full of agents and attorneys of kindred monopolies. If it is right and proper for Republicans to the Senate to represent monopolies, it is equally right and proper to elect Democrats for the same purpose. But the best and soundest plank in the Democratic platform has been that it was not right and proper to elect Republicans who have other masters than the people. The election of Mr. Payne in Ohio is an abandment of this position. We have no hesitation in say Mr. Payne is as indepenlent of corporations as are numbers of Republican Senators. In fact, many things have occurred indicated on that side of the Senate whose record in relation to monopolies is no better than that of Mr. Payne. But the party that sets itself up as a reform party should do better than the party to be reformed. If it falls in the same evil courses before it gains power, what is to be expected afterward? The Democrats had at their disposal one of the ablest and purest men who have in recent years graced the Senate. He was the leader of the Senate until the expiration of his second term, when the corporation he had opposed succeeded in throwing the State into the hands of the other party. Last year the Democrats again succeeded in carrying the Legislature, upon which devolved the duty of electing a United States Senator. Admitting that the incumbent, Senator Pendleton, had become objectionable to a portion of his party on account of his advocacy of civil service reform, the Democrat to take his place was conspicuously Thurman. The election of Thurman would have given point to the issue supposed to exist between the Democrats and Republicans to the power and duty of the Government to hold organized capital in check. But the Democrats declined to make this issue. On the contrary, they elected a Senator who, if the issue is made, must appear on the other side. Under these circumstances the Democrats of Ohio cannot excuse themselves for electing a Standard oil man Senator because the Republican had elected Senators supposed to be friendly to other monopolies.—San Francisco Call.

Southern Cotton Mills.

A dispatch from New York, Feb. 1, to the Louisville Courier-Journal says: To-day brings the first emphatic and disastrous proof that the establishment of cotton mills in the home of the raw material will drive the cotton mills of New England into bankruptcy. The growing losses of the Eastern manufacturers culminated yesterday when the operatives at Fall River, 30,000 strong, were called to decide between discharge or ruinous reductions in wages. Under the proposed reduction it was shown that the men would be unable to make more than $8 per week. After deliberating the matter for two hours a ballot was taken and resulted 4,000 in favor of a strike and 81 against it.

A resolution passed empowering Secretary Howard to select twenty-five men as a Committee to devise the best means of securing assistance for the strikers, and to adopt a course on which the strike shall be conducted. This Committee will report at a meeting to be held Saturday night. Secretary Howard is instructed to inform the manufacturers of the action of the meeting, expressing regret that the circumstances demanded it.

During the discussion several important facts were learned, one of which was that since 1873 the cotton operatives here have been reduced 41 per cent., and in only one instance has the reduction been restored. No notices are to be served by the operatives, but they are to leave work Saturday afternoon and not return until authorized by the Committee in charge. The strike will be general, taking effect in every mill in the city, thereby putting about 30,000 persons out of employment.

Reports received here to-day state, in addition to the Columbus Manufacturing Co., of Greenville, Mass., the Boston Duck Company, Cordis Mills, Palmer Mills, and Otis & Co., Palmer, Mass.; the Warren Cotton Mills, Warren, Mass., and the Nashua Cotton Mills, Nashua, N. H., orders have been issued to stop a large portion of the looms in the Lawrence Cotton Mills, Massachusetts Cotton Mills, and the Tremont and Suffolk Mills, of Lowell, Mass., and the York Manufacturing Company, Saco, Me. These include some of the largest cotton mills in the country, and represent over 500,000 spindles. They have been compelled to curtail production because of the low prices at which their goods are being sold and the heavy losses incurred. Others are expected to adopt the same course as soon as their warps and looms are run out.

In regard to this question, a cotton dealer from Georgia to-day said to the Courier-Journal correspondent:

"I'm not all surprised at the result, and my only wonder is that we have not had it before. It seems to be an economic problem, which any one can understand. So long as New England had a monopoly of cotton mills of this country it made no difference to that section how much they had to pay in the way of freight to get the raw material in their possession. How considerable an item this was did not appear until the cotton mills were started on the ground where the cotton grew, and with the same facilities for perfect work. Only one result was inevitable. By degrees the New England men have been driven from point to point by the competition, until now they are practically out of the field. Until the cotton prints of the South are made they stood no show with Manchester, but now we are driving English goodsout of the Chinese, Japan and Australian ports. It looks to me as if this was the beginning of the end of New England cotton goods."

The S. O. & N. E. Workshops at Meridian.

Through the kindness of M. J. Whinery, Engineer of the S. O. & N. E. Railroad we have had the opportunity to see the maps and drawings of the workshops now in course of erection at the western border of the city, one-half mile from the passenger depot. Few people in Meridian have any idea of the magnitude of the proposed work. More than 50,000 yards of cubic earth have already been removed in preparing the foundations for the numerous vast buildings and the spacious yards necessary. To give some idea of what is to be done we give the following buildings with dimensions. All in one group are:

Principal workshop	120x60 feet
Blacksmith shop	112x60 "
Engine and boilershop	84x60 "
Tin shop	33x60 "
Carpenter shop	160x60 "
Coal room	20x22 "
Second engine and boiler shop	40x22 "
Coal room	20x50 "

Detached from above are:

Sand house	20x20 "
Oil house	20x20 "

Wool.

The wool-growers in various parts of the United States are awaking to a realization done that industry by the last Congress in abolishing ad valorem duties on wool. The tariff of 1867 was the result of a compromise between wool-growers and wool-manufacturers. Its good results are thus stated:

"At that time (1867) the number of sheep in the United States was about twenty-two millions, and the annual product of fleece was about sixty millions of pounds. Under the influence of this law sheep husbandry rapidly advanced, until the number of sheep is now over fifty millions, and the annual product of wool is over three hundred millions of pounds. With this increase the price of wool has steadily receded from fifty-one cents a pound in 1867 to forty-one cents prior to the tariff of last Congress. The stability of the home market, prior to the act of 1867, accounts for this rapid increase of production and the rapid decrease of price.

A judicious tariff has had the same effect in this business of husbandry as in the manufactures. Protection to home interests by building up home enterprises has in many cases reduced the prices of products to consumers. Many of the agricultural productions of the United States do not need protection. So long as we can export our surplus grain and cattle to Europe, and undersell Europeans in their own markets, we do not need to protect our wheat-growers with a tariff. Other nations which export grain will send their surplus to markets that import rather than those that export. But wool is exposed to greater competition than grain or cattle. Its high value in proportion to its weight renders it exportable where grain would not be. For example, Australia has eighty millions of sheep and is our most formidable competitor in the wool market, but has not made much progress yet toward supplying the world with grain. There is a good deal of blending about free raw material and protected manufactured goods. The tariff should be placed upon either with a view to compensate the American producer for the greater cost of production in this country than in competing countries.—San Francisco Call.

NOTES.

Capt. Charles Pare is now in command of the P. Line steamer Leflore.

The P. Line steamer E. C. Carroll goes to Tallahatchie next Monday leaving at noon.

The steamer Sherlock is due to pass Vicksburg at 5 o'clock p.m. for Cincinnati.

The City of Yazoo, of the P. Line, leaves New Orleans this evening for Vicksburg.

The Henry Marx, en route to Mayersville, will be up to-morrow on a cotton cruise.

The P. Line steamer DeSmet leaves New Orleans Saturday for Vicksburg and Yazoo river.

W. J. J. Cowan ships 400 bales of pressed cotton this evening on the Richardson.

The fine steamer Will S. Hays arrived at 11 o'clock this morning from Memphis with about 1,000 packages of miscellaneous freight and 112 bales cotton. The cotton will go forward on the steamer Ed. Richardson. Capt. G. Wash Floyd is in charge of the Hays's office. She left again to-day at 12 m. for Memphis with a fair trip of passengers.

The steamer City of Providence will be due to-night, and leaves again at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, going through to St. Louis, all the boats of the Anchor Line having resumed their trips. This steamer has been a great convenience to our merchants during the interruption of navigation, making three trips every week to Arkansas City; in fact, she was continually going. She attended to all business, carried the mails, etc., with the regularity of a first-class railroad. Her officers—Capt. Geo. W. Lenox, master; Mr. Frank Perkins, in charge of the office, with McMeehan and Moore in charge of the freight department, and the popular Billy Maxwell, in charge of the cabin, have established themselves high up and most substantially in the estimation of not only all who have had business with them in our city, but with the people all along the river.

CLIPPINGS.

The total shipments of cotton from Natchez, Miss., during January last footed up to 305 bales. For the corresponding month last year the total shipments amounted to 6606 bales—a falling off this season of 5201 bales.

The new law prohibiting passengers from visiting the pilot-house while the boat is under way seems to have had its inspiration and origin in the terrible disaster which occurred at Wheeling over a year ago, when it is said the ladies in the pilot-house so thoroughly absorbed the attention of the pilot on watch that he failed to properly discharge the duty of the hour, and the result of this neglect is too well known to require further mention here.

Several boats on the Ohio river are kept busy moving corn, stock and families out of the way of the flood. There is said to be 1,000,000 bushels of corn on the banks between Evansville and Cairo. Much of this will be destroyed. A big flood is expected also in the Wabash river.

Export Tax on Raw Cotton.

The eccentricities of this Congress are enough to make one question whether the Representatives are sane. If the House is to be turned into a bedlam, the people will hold those who are guilty of inflicting the shameful spectacle on the country responsible for it, and in that aspect the case is worth consideration by the Democratic party.

The Hon. W. E. Robinson, of the second district of New York, is not only an old man—seventy—and a lawyer and ex-revenue official, and a Congressman of some previous experience, but an old journalist. The only Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune more than forty years ago, and correspondent, associate and chief editor of various papers, one of considerable prominence in their day, ought to have received a liberal education, and he had the advantage of travel in Europe. He is not a careful, prudent statesman by this time the case is hopeless.

Mr. Robinson yesterday introduced an amendment to the United States constitution, authorizing an export tax on raw cotton, for the protection of manufactures!

The only danger to cotton manufactures is that which they incur from the presence in Congress of a large and unique portion of free trade doctrinaires. If this class of political theorists can afford to throw away a century's experience in practical legislation, and, in our place all the burdens of taxation on agriculture, they are stronger than we believe them to be.—Picayune.

AS GOING to show the temper, or character, neither of the members controlling the Legislature, we cite one of the numerous instances of proposed legislation, viz: The last Legislature, it will be remembered, was asked to tax railroads in contemplation and course of construction from taxation. This action it is now proposed to rescind. A fair branch of faith is involved of course, but these ignoramuses take no account of that. They propose to set aside the solemn pledge of a former Legislature, under which pledge considerable foreign capital has been brought to this State and invested in railroads, no matter what the consequences may be. Well-informed men about Jackson, Gov. Lowry included, are opposed to this proposed step, as we learn, and are doing all they can to prevent its consummation. If taken serious injury will be done to the credit and prosperity of the State. Gov. Lowry possesses the veto and should be prepared to exercise it when a measure of this character reaches him.—Columbus Index.

The bills offered in the Legislature for the prohibition of the sale or giving away liquor in certain localities are so numerous that it would fill as long as it goes one general bill and "make it uniform."—Cornish Herald.

The "Personal" Iniquity.

In the crusade it has undertaken against the Herald "personals" the New York Star is entitled to the support, not only of the New York press, but the press of the entire country. These infamously indecent notices make the newspaper column an exchange through which the worst foes of social purity carry on their nefarious business. They are as disgraceful to journalism as they are demoralizing to the community. The press everywhere suffers in the public estimate for the transgressions in this respect of a few leading papers, and it is time for the decent, cleanly press of the country to join with The Star in earnest protest against such prostitution of the power that newspapers have affecting public opinion and morals.

So far as the Herald's dereliction is concerned, it can be reached most effectively by the combined action of the other New York papers. It is singular that they have permitted this plague spot to exist so long without any attempt to eradicate it. They have nerved the arm and strengthened the heart and patted the back of Anthony Comstock for his war upon vicious publications. But for the Herald's "personals," which cover—very lightly—more real indecency and vice than any of the publications which Comstock has assailed, the press of the city has had no word of remonstrance until The Star raised its voice in earnest and denunciation.—Detroit Free Press.

A Mule and Drummer Story.

Quite a sensation was created in front of F. A. Dicks' Commerce street drug store, on a recent afternoon. Two young ladies, belles of our city, together with a Cincinnati drummer, were out driving. Their animal was a fiery, untamed mule, around whose body it looked to be necessary to wrap a blanket to keep the oats and hay (if he ever had any,) from coming out between his ribs. The drummer got out of the buggy to go into the drug store to make a purchase, when the young ladies concluded it would be a good joke to drive away and leave him. So far as the young ladies were concerned, it was all right, but the mule had no idea of leaving his drummer friend, to whom he seemed to have become attached. So when he felt the lines slacken, he suddenly, instead of prancing up Commerce street and leaving the drummer in the lurch, boldly took the bit between his teeth, stepped across the gutter, and was entering the drug store when a police took him in charge, the young ladies meanwhile vanishing the buggy. The animal proved intractable until the smiling drummer re-appeared on the scene and took charge of him. Mules are singular animals and form strange attachments, but this is the first one that we ever heard of that formed an attachment to a drummer.—Natchez Democrat.

Old Times.

Some of our exchanges are endeavoring most strenuously to break down the barriers of a sentiment which has existed since the world began. They are trying to convince themselves and every body else that all the talk about "the good old times" is bosh; that the good old times were just as bad, if not worse, than the bad new times. The effort is a foolish one. The old times were better than the present times because we were all younger, because our troubles were childish ones, and because we had fewer responsibilities. We had no telephones to buzz and siz in our ears. We had no telegraph to say with friendly key letters. We had no insane chatter about science and evolution to sour the mild gossip of the tea table. We had little or no speculation. We had more honesty in public affairs, and everything was better. Our earnest exchanges should find some subject with which they are acquainted. They should bear in mind that presently these times will become the good old times, and who will dare to run them down?—Atlanta Constitution.

They Sold Him a Hole.

He was telling the story in the billiard room of a Denver hotel. Said he:

"There were three of us, you see, and Nevada was a cold climate for us. We were dead broke, half starved and clear out of money, when along came a New Yorker. He wouldn't play cards, wouldn't be robbed, and we couldn't stick him with forged land patents or bogus pre-emptions. One day we traveled out and dug a hole into a hill and salted it a bit, and rushed back and offered the New Yorker the big discovery for $3,000 cash down."

"And he bit?"

"Took right hold like a pair of pincers. Why he never even stopped to beat us down. We got a cool thousand apiece and started for Frisco."

"Pretty cool that was."

"Well, I dunno. If there was anything cool about that transaction it was the way that New Yorker banged up a pard, set miners to work, bought machinery, and took over $750,000 out that 'ar hole inside of eight months! Maybe we got over feeling flat, but I guess not."—Wall Street News.

A New Use For Cotton Seed Oil.

The Atlanta, Ga, Constitution says: Mr. W. B. Crosby tells me that a new use has been found for cotton seed oil. He says: "While at Graniteville a few days since, Mr. S. W. THE SATISFACTION
Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.
If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

Swamp vs. Hills.

Heretofore plantation hands for the swamp lands have been coming from Alabama and Georgia, but now they seem to be coming entirely from the hills of our own State. Why so many negroes are leaving the hills and going to the swamp, is splendidly illustrated by the reply of one of the hands to a query put to him by our reporter to-day. He said he was tired of scratching over three acres of land in the hills trying to make a bale of cotton when he could easily make two bales to the acre in the swamp.

Silas Lane.

Silas Lane (col.,) who was sentenced to be hung for rape, at Rolling Fork, on the 21st of December last, and respited on that day for thirty days by a telegram from Gov. Lowry to Sheriff Joor, and further respited for 30 days more, is still under sentence. A reporter of the Post met Sheriff Joor this morning, who is in the city, and who says he is going to Jackson to-day, when he will get definite instructions as to what disposition is to be made with Lane—that is, whether his sentence will be commuted or not. Lane is at present in the Warren county jail.

A singular circumstance in connection with the last respite of Silas Lane was that the telegram announcing the respite was received only five minutes before the time appointed for the hanging. The telegram was sent to this city to be transmitted over the telegraph line of the L., N. O. & T. R. R., to Rolling Fork. Mr. Jno. E. White, one of the Western Union operators in the Vicksburg office, was at the instrument at the time and seeing by the nature of the telegram that a life was in jeopardy did not wait for a messenger boy to come in, all of them being out at the time, but called up Maj. Edwards's office by telephone and had the message transmitted at once to Rolling Fork and just in time, as in a few minutes more the execution would have taken place.

Rex on Board the Steamer Ed. Richardson.

The big steamer Ed. Richardson will make a grand Mardi-Gras trip from here on Friday the 22nd February. Several parties have already engaged staterooms for the round trip. There is no such but a splendid party will go down from here—and the trip will be the most delightful one that was ever made from this point. The Richardson is the steamer engaged by the Committee of Arrangements of the Carnival, to go down from New Orleans and meet Rex and his staff coming up from below. The order of Cincinnatus will be formally received on board the steamer Richardson Monday Feb. 25th, at New Orleans. We are all going.

The "Roasters" on the Richardson.

The negro roasters who participated in the shooting on the Ed. Richardson a week ago to-day, are being tried this morning before Justice Mackey. All day has been occupied in examining witnesses, and no decision has so far been rendered.

Later.—Geo. Coleman was committed to jail in default of $1000 bail. Geo. Bill and Robt. Duncan were released on giving bond in the sum of $100 each for their appearance at the next term of Court.

Miss. J. P. Matthews and family, of Oxford, were in this city this week en route to John R. Matthews, who is quite low, being afflicted with paralysis.—Yazoo Sentinel.

DOUBLE MURDER.

Colored Woman and Child Killed Near Edwards Depot.

Passengers who arrived on the V. & M. train this morning, report the finding of the bodies of a colored woman and little child near the railroad track, at Baker's Creek, about 25 miles east of this city. We are unable to learn in what manner they came to their death, the passengers from whom our information was received not being able to inform us on that point, and the particulars are necessarily very meagre.

Later.—Passengers arriving on the 10 o'clock train are able to give the following further particulars regarding the woman and child:

They were evidently murdered, as the skull of the woman had been crushed, and also that of the child. The bodies were found in a cotton-house on the plantation of Mr. E. Matthews, covered with flooring. Some tramps who were taking refuge from the rain, saw the foot of the woman protruding from under the boards, and further examination resulted in the finding of the bodies. The Coroner left Edwards Depot this morning to hold an inquest on the bodies. The motive for the murder is unknown, but some parties are under suspicion, and will be arrested. Appearances indicate that they had been dead two days. The woman had been cooking in the neighborhood of Edwards, where she was well known.

The Ohio.

The Ohio river report this morning at 6 o'clock was as follows:

Pittsburg, 28 feet 1 inch, and rising; Cincinnati, 62 feet 2 inches, and rising; Louisville, 40 feet, and rising; Cairo, 42 feet 3 inches, and rising.

The river at Cincinnati is now thought to be at its highest, and it is believed that it will commence to fall to-morrow.

An Alleged Fakir.

A stranger of genteel appearance, by the name of J. Spencer, called upon us yesterday evening, and stated that he was the party alluded to in the Herald as a "fakir." He showed us a license from the City Clerk and one from the City Collector, by which he is allowed to dispose of his wares upon the streets, and stated that his business is perfectly legitimate and fair. He was very indignant at the manner in which the Herald has spoken of him, and requested us to say that the reason he had not been molested by the police was because they examined his papers and found them correct.

We think, however, the police should examine the business he conducts, as well as his papers.

What the Jacksonians Say of Rice's Pleasure Party.

The following notice is clipped from this morning's State Ledger of Jackson, and but one of the similar notices this excellent company have received:

Rice's Pleasure Party amused our theater-going people Wednesday and Thursday nights, at the Opera-house. In the musical absurdity entitled "Our Goblins." The fun commences at the rising of the curtain, and it continues until the end of the piece. In addition to any amount of lively, popular music of the day, solos and concerted pieces are introduced, which are magnificently rendered. Miss Agnes Hallock and Miss Alice Gleason are especially attractive, and fine vocalists. W. M. Johnson as the valet, was most amusing and ridiculous, and the other members are good. Nothing is said during the piece to shock the taste of any one.

Ladies First.

"Now," said the irate mother to her family of one boy and four sons, who had been misbehaving themselves, "I am going to whip you all," and she seized on Jimmy to receive the first installment of chastisement. "Mother," said Jimmy, "ladies first, always." The order was so struck with the application of her own instruction that she did not strike any of the children, but let them off that time.

THE ELECTION

Results in Favor of Hon. Martin Marshall.

The special election held yesterday to fill the vacancy in the State Senate caused by the death of Hon. W. R. Speare, was an unusually quiet one. The rain, which scarcely ceased falling during the entire day, no doubt was the cause of so few votes being polled. In the city Mr. Marshall has a majority of 38 votes over Mr. Gibson, and a majority of 66 over Mr. Carter. We append the following count, showing the votes cast for each candidate in the various wards:

FIRST WARD.

Martin Marshall	70
James M. Gibson	44
H. C. Carter	21
Scattering	2
Total	137

SECOND WARD.

Martin Marshall	76
James M. Gibson	98
H. C. Carter	57
Total	231

THIRD WARD.

Martin Marshall	112
James M. Gibson	57
H. C. Carter	39
Total	208

FOURTH WARD.

Martin Marshall	112
James M. Gibson	43
H. C. Carter	69
Total	224

This gives the following result in the city:

Marshall	370
Gibson	222
Carter	244

The result of the election will not be officially announced before to-morrow, as there are still some precincts to be heard from up to the time of our going to press. It is announced, however, unofficially, that Mr. Marshall has a majority of 150 or 200 votes in the county, and it is safe to predict that he is elected.

Whatever croakers may say to the contrary, our State seems to be in a prosperous condition. The assessed value of property shows an increase of ten million dollars in one year. More railroads were built in Mississippi last year, than in any State in the United States.—Ex.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[Special to The Evening Post.]

FROM JACKSON.

Passage of the Railroad Bill—The Pressure on the Governor.

Applicants for Commissioner—Miscellaneous Business.

Senate.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 9.—The Williamson Railroad bill passed yesterday by a vote of 24 to 10.

The pressure is so great the Governor will approve it.

The city is flooded with applicants for position as Commissioners.

An Act to require the Governor to appoint a Superintendent of the Asylum at Meridian, was referred.

An Act to establish a White Normal School, was referred.

House.

An Act to amend the Canton City Charter, was passed.

An Act to provide for the payment of the bonded debt of Hinds county, was passed.

This is local bill day, and no general bills were introduced.

Rise in the Rivers.

Memphis, Feb. 9.—The St. Francis and Lungville rivers rose 4 feet yesterday; the Cumberland 5 feet; the Arkansas 3 feet.

Cincinnati, Feb. 9, noon.—The river is now 64 feet on the gauge and rising rapidly. The outlook is gloomy.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool, Feb. 9.—Spots: Uplands, 5 13-16d; Orleans, 5 15-16d. Futures dull.

New York, Feb. 9, noon.—Spots dull; Middling, 10 12-16.

New Orleans, Feb. 9, noon.—Middling, 10 5-16, quiet. Fftures dull.

St. Louis, Feb. 9.—Clear ribs firm, 9.20; Pork $18; Lard 9.50; Meal $2.50.

New Orleans River Report.

New Orleans, Feb. 9.—The weather is clear and warm.

Business is fairly active.

Arrivals: City of New Orleans, from St. Louis; Future City, from St. Louis. Leaving this evening: Natchez, for Vicksburg; DeSmet, for Vicksburg; Henry Frank, for Memphis; Annie P. Silver, for St. Louis; Future City, for St. Louis.

Memphis River Report.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 9.—The river rose 26 inches, and is rising slowly.

The City of Cairo is due down at dark.

The Redistricting of Ohio.

Columbus, O., Feb. 9.—The bill redistricting the State for Congressional purposes, which became a law to-day, gives the Republicans 9 and the Democrats 12 districts.

The Suppression of Gambling in the London Clubs.

London, Feb. 9.—The trial of fifty-two members of the Park Club, charged with gambling in playing baccarat at the rooms of the club, has terminated. The proprietor of the club and the members of the committee were fined £500 each and the players £100.

Not Reconstructed Yet.

Louisville, Feb. 9.—The nomination of Hutchins is a curious fulfillment of the wishes of the people of Hart county in this State, as published by Judge J. B. Curle in an interview published in the Louisville Commercial six months since. "Our people are rebels, and I for one am not ashamed to confess it. We are for Joe Blackburn for Senator because he was a rebel soldier. We are for Mrs. Gen. Roger Hanson for Librarian because she is the widow of a rebel soldier. We are for Charles Offut for Speaker of the House because he is the descendant of a rebel family." Each of the candidates mentioned has now been chosen.

Terrible Collision on the Mobile and Ohio Road.

[Special to the Picayune.]

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 7.—This morning a collision occurred on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad almost unparalleled in destructiveness of freights. Eleven or twelve cars came together at full tilt. A spectator says he saw the trains approaching, both going like a flash, the big train coming down the grade. Then came the crash and he saw the splinters flying in the air lifted up by a cloud of white steam, supported upon a bank of dense smoke. Then the cars ran upon each other like rabbits, and there was a continuous crash which shook the earth. It was such an awful sight, he says, he could not do anything for a while but stand looking with eyes and mouth open and arms stretched up in the air.

When the collision was inevitable the employes jumped. Engineer Davidson says he folded his arms, tucked his head down to his shoulder and threw himself out. Where he struck the bank he ploughed up the earth for several yards. It is remarkable that he escaped with slight injuries. The other engineer, Thomas Darling, tried to stop the train, and jumped just as the collision occurred and was injured internally. Two other employees were hurt, one a brakeman, Thomas Austin, of Meridian, Miss., but his hurt was not serious. It was amputated.

"Our Goblins" Last Night.

Rice's Pleasure Party appeared last night at the Opera-house, and were greeted by a good house. "Our Goblins" is a pretty and funny musical extravaganza, and its rendition by the Company gave eminent satisfaction to the audience.

Miss Alice Gleason, as "Tillie St. Aubyn," was very clever. Miss Gleason is a pleasing soubrette, and all her acting is characterized by the original ideas and conceptions of the parts she plays. Although a little hoarse she sang "My Nellie's Blue Eyes" in a manner that was so highly satisfactory to the audience that they insisted on an encore. She also sang a number of other songs, and never failed to please the audience.

Miss Agnes Hallock, who played Mrs. Eliza Cobb, is an excellent actress and songstress. The echo song "ship ahoy" was roundly applauded and encored. As the "society wife" she did some good acting, and as the "Countess Von Smithers" she did equally well.

W. Henry Rice, as a female impersonator, has few equals, and no superiors.

As the "Black Princess" he took the house by storm. His "Italian opera" singing is inimitable, and as a burlesque artist he is certainly great.

The "Benjamin Franklin Cobb" of J. H. Stuart furnishes any amount of fun, and so does his impersonation of the "little girl." Mr. Stuart has a pleasing bass voice and uses it well. He sang "The Last Chord," and was encored.

Mr. Budworth played the part of "Mr Silverware" and the "society husband" in an excellent manner. His "Chinaman's Song" received an encore, and his dancing was highly admired.

The "Valet," with J. M. Johnson in the part, was quite amusing, and his dancing was good.

Chas. W. Allison as "Mr. Warbler," sustained his part well.

The company give a matinee this evening, and to-night they make their last appearance here for this season.

Chancery Court.

Judge Cowan yesterday signed a decree for the sale of the property conveyed by Stanton & McKenna to George M. Klein, in the case of S. L. Woolridge vs. George M. Klein, J. F. Halpin and T. E. Crutcher. The conveyance of the property was not recorded until last November, after the Mississippi Valley Bank had failed, and so did not go with the bank's funds.

STARTLING STATEMENT.

The Queen of England Said to Have Been Married to "Gilly" Brown.

New York, Feb. 9.—The World says that a literary gentlemen in this city is on a book which is tolerably certain to create a stir when it appears. The author claims to have proof that Queen Victoria was secretly married to John Brown shortly after the death of the royal consort. He claims that Disraeli discovered the fact, and through threatening to disclose it secured his advancement. The collected evidence in support of this remarkable theory is all to appear in this book.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular meeting of Gem Fire Company No. 2, of the city of Jackson, held on the 5th day of February, 1884, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in His divine wisdom, to take from our midst, in the prime of his manhood, our friend and brother fireman J. J. Doherty.

Resolved, That in the demise of J. J. Doherty, Gem Fire Company No. 2, has lost one of its best and most efficient members. Although exempt for years, his deeds well shine as fired, and his wise counsel in debates during his active membership, stand out boldly on the record and will remain green in the memory of his fellow-firemen.

Resolved, That in this the hour of their bereavement, we tender our heartfelt sympathies to the family of the deceased, and that the Secretary be instructed to furnish them a copy of these resolutions; and,

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and also published in the city papers.

The Democratic Convention.

Washington City, Feb. 9.—Ex-Congressman Singleton, who, with Mr. John Oberly, of Bloomington, is laboring zealously to secure the Democratic convention for Chicago, says that a majority vote had already been secured, and that, barring accidents, there was no doubt of its going there. He finds after a careful canvass that the sentiments of twenty-one delegations in Congress is favorable to the late city, and it is not considered likely that the members of the Committee from those States will oppose their wishes. Gen. Singleton believes that Chicago will continue to grow in popularity until the day of the meeting, when, after a complimentary vote for the contesting cities, Chicago will be chosen on the second or third ballot.

Firemen Killed and Crushed.

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 7.—While firemen were working on a fire in the factory of Klessner & Kluchper, the walls collapsed, killing five and seriously injuring eleven firemen.

Col. J. L. McCullum, who has for years been the distinguished editor of the Yazoo City Herald, is no longer connected with that interesting journal. Probably no man in Mississippi is better or more favorably or more widely known as an editor than Col. McCullum, and we, in common with our brethren of the press generally, regret his retiring from the tripod. We are not advised as to the colonel's future course, but trust his lines will fall in pleasant places. Mr. A. M. Roach is now editor of the Herald and will perform the work with the energy and judgment characteristic of the man.—Yazoo Sentinel.

The Water-works Charter.

We are informed that the North American Construction Company has a bill before the Legislature giving it the EXCLUSIVE privilege of erecting water-works in Vicksburg. As this is a foreign company, and as the city has cancelled its contract with the company because it did not comply with its terms, we see no reason why it should be given a charter at all to build water works in this city, much less the exclusive privilege.

If our information is correct, there is evidently something wrong about this waterworks charter business. We call upon our newly-elected Senator, and upon our Representatives, to investigate the matter. If we are to have water-works in Vicksburg, our people desire all the companies in the United States to have an opportunity to bid on their construction. We want nothing "exclusive."

GOV. SHERMAN, of Iowa, thinks his State favors Blaine for President.

CHIEF ENGINEER WRIGHT says that the Hard Times and Hard Scrabble levees, in Tensas parish, La., will be completed before the work on them can be stopped by the high water.

THE Committee on Benevolent Institutions have agreed to report unanimously in favor of the acceptance by the State of the Vicksburg Hospital for a State Charity Hospital.—New Mississippian.

THE New Jersey Democrats favor a tariff so adjusted as to give "home protection." Notwithstanding all the Democratic newspaper abuse of "protection," when it comes to making party platforms the Democrats are wise and discreet enough to favor protection of home industries.

THE New York Tribune says Mr. Tilden is in fair health, his voice is somewhat weak. The sage of Gramercy haunts the Republicans. They all remember how the Presidency was stolen from him.—Clarion.

Probably they also have a faint recollection of Cronin and the Oregon vote, of the cypher dispatches, and of the famous old "barl."

Our Convicts Again.

That the present condition of our convicts is horrible enough to shock the moral sensibilities of any human being above the level of the brute creation; that the whole wretched business is a burning shame and disgrace, and a blot on the civilization of any people, are propositions that we venture to say are by this time pretty well established by the House Investigating Committee.

It is no use to talk about who established the system originally in Mississippi or in the South for that matter. It is a living fact that the Democratic party has done nothing to palliate its evils or decrease its brutalities, much less to change the system.

When all the revolting details shall have been given to the public, and the thing we call public sentiment—that is often slow to believe, but always quick with its generous sympathy—does take hold of this abomination, there will be a storm of indignation and protest that will sweep the whole thing from the sight of men.

We are regaled now and then with the question whether the Democratic party can afford to do this, or that, or the other thing—what is wise and what is impolitic. But if the men who run the Democratic party and direct its course can believe that the perpetuation of this convict system is a wise and politic thing for the party; that it is not a great octopus that will entwine in its sinuous and slimy arms everything that is within reach and carry it down to the innermost depths, and out of sight forever, then they are blessed with a spirit of blindness or indifference not given to ordinary mortals.

We do not propose to indefinitely postpone this subject, or cease to call attention to it. And we now serve formal notice on the Mississippi Legislature that this issue is irrepressible, and is here to stay.

What in the name of humanity and common sense is the use of talking about the railroads, the Grange, selecting judges, reforming the public printing, new election rules guaranteed to grind the grist as desired, with this convict skeleton grinning at us from its little closet, with its eyeless face turned to the one ray of light that has penetrated its little niche?

Sham reform, sham virtue, take off your mask! Ye who make such prentensions, and talk of popular rights and the people, and all that sort of sordid stuff, come down from your high seats and protect the miserable, the defenseless ones who are dying before your eyes at the rate of one hundred and fifty in one thousand every year! Face the facts; see how loathsome is the disease; and like the fearless surgeon, have the courage to apply the knife.

The Supervision Bill Passed the Senate--24 to 10.

The House Railroad Supervision Bill was passed substantially the bill prepared by Mr. Williamson, of Carroll—passed the Senate yesterday by a vote of 24 to 10. The yeas and nays will be found in the regular report of Senate proceedings. Mr. Reynolds made a lengthy and very earnest and able argument in opposition and Mr. Hyer acquitted himself with great credit in advocacy of the measure. The bill, as soon as enrolled will be submitted to the Governor.

A point has been raised that the bill will be inoperative because it fails to state when it goes into effect. The Constitution—section 9 of article 12, says: "No laws of a general nature, unless otherwise provided for, shall be enforced until sixty days after the passage thereof." Section 9 of the bill says that "a Commission is hereby created," and that the Legislature shall elect same in Joint Convention; and section 45 provides that the election of Commissioners, as provided for in this act, shall be at such time as may be determined by the Legislature, and that the provisions of this act shall not be enforced against the railroads in this State before the first day of May, A. D. 1884." We think these references ought to remove all doubt as to the sufficiency of the bill for the election of the Commissioners at any time it may suit the Legislature, after the Governor's approval. If however, there is the least shadow of doubt as to the completeness of the bill, a supplemental act would remedy any defect.—Clarion, 9th.

The Williamson Railroad Supervision bill passed the State Senate yesterday by a vote of 24 to 10. It will be remembered that the bill also passed the House by a like decided majority. These figures give the friends of progress nothing to be hoped for from the present Legislature. We will acknowledge that we have been sadly disappointed by the vote of the Senate. These "grave and reverend" Senators ought to know better than to take any action that will discourage the investment of capital in railroads in this State; but perhaps they will claim that the bill they have passed will not necessarily do this. There is no doubt in our mind, however, that any supervision bill will be considered discouraging by the railroad men; and we regret the Legislature did not allow the supervision question to remain in abeyance. No matter what the evils complained of by the people in portions of the State, those that have railroad facilities are better off in every respect than those who do not have such facilities. None of the people would be willing to give up the railroads they have, and return to their old wagon roads for freight and transportation.

It is a matter of great doubt also whether many of the evils complained of can be properly regulated by law.

Steamboats make similar discriminations to those of railroads in the matter of through freights and passage; merchants make discriminations in the matter of wholesale and retail bills of goods; the railroads are run upon the same business principles that control the steamboatmen and the merchants, and it is just about as proper and feasible to regulate by law the business of one as the other.

We are afraid the Legislature has been too much influenced by what is termed a "popular clamor" in favor of supervision. This popular clamor was probably aroused by astute politicians who were ambitious of promotion. In 1860 there was a "popular clamor" for war, but the politicians of that day had instilled this desire into the minds of the people, and the popular clamor was only the fruits of the seed they had sown. The war that ensued was the very worst thing that could have happened to the true interests of the people; and this railroad supervision measure now may also result in injury to their welfare and in retarding the progress, and growth and development of the State.

WENDELL PHILLIPS,

A Sketch of the Life of the Great Agitator and Orator.

Wendell Phillips was born in Boston, November 29, 1811. His father was John Phillips, the first Mayor of Boston. Wendell graduated at Harvard college in 1831, at the law school in 1833, and was admitted to the bar in 1834. Three years after beginning the practice of his profession in his native city he became known to the public as an eloquent advocate of the anti-slavery, temperance, and woman's-right reforms, then being earnestly agitated, and continued his indefatigable labors during the conflict of opinion on the slavery question which preceded the civil war. In 1836 he became a Garrison abolitionist, having been a warm admirer of Garrison and an enthusiast on the anti-slavery question for many years. So strong were his convictions on the slavery question that in 1839 he relinquished law practice from unwillingness to observe the oath of fealty to the federal constitution.

His first notable speech was made in Faneuil hall, in December, 1837. E. P. Lovejoy had been murdered by a mob at Alton, Ills., where he was publishing a paper of the most radical anti-slavery opinions. Dr. Channing, of Boston, had called an indignation meeting at Faneuil hall. James T. Austin, the Attorney General of the State of Massachusetts, apologized for the bloody deed of the mob, and said that Lovejoy's own presumptuous and imprudent, and that "he died as the fool dieth." Wendell Phillips, then a young man fresh from college, replied to the vindicator of mob violence. "Fellow citizens," said he, "is this Faneuil hall doctrine? The mob at Alton were met to wrest from a citizen his just rights—met to resist the laws. We have been told that our fathers did the same, and the glorious mantle of revolutionary precedent has been thrown over the mobs of our day. But when I heard the gentleman lay down principles which place the murderers of Alton side by side with Otis and Hancock and Quincy and Adams, I thought those pictured lips [pointing to the portraits in the hall] would have broken into voice to rebuke the recreant. Anarchists, the slanderer of the dead. [Great sensation and applause.] The gentleman said that he should sink into significance if he dared to gainsay the principles of these resolutions. Sir, for the sentiments he has uttered on said consecrated by the prayers of Puritans and the blood of patriots, the earth should have yawned and swallowed him. James Otis thundered in this hall, when the writ touched his pocket. Imagine, if you can, his indignant eloquence had England offered to put a gag upon his lips."

From that time till 1861 Mr. Phillips was a prominent leader and the most popular orator of the Abolitionists. He advocated disunion as the only means of abolition until the opening of the civil war, after which he sustained the Government for a similar reason. In 1865-4 he advocated arming, educating, and enfranchising the freedmen, and for the two latter purposes procured the assistance of the Anti-Slavery society till after the adoption of the fifteenth amendment in 1869.

As a prominent member of the Anti-Slavery society, he was the victim of considerable persecution. On one occasion he was mobbed by fellow-citizens of Boston. During the early stage of the war he continued to advocate the emancipation of the slaves in a wonderfully energetic manner. At a meeting held in Cincinnati during this period of intense excitement, he spoke for an hour amid jeers and hisses, and a running salute of eggs and others missiles, when the owner of the hall, fearing serious mischief to his property, desired his withdrawal. He succeeded William Lloyd Garrison as President of the Anti-Slavery society, and continued his membership in that association until its dissolution in 1870.

In 1870 he was the temperance and labor-reform candidate for Governor of Massachusetts, receiving nearly 30,000 votes. At a meeting in Faneuil hall in January, 1875, called to denounce the Louisiana policy of Gen. Grant, Mr. Phillips made a powerful speech in favor of that policy. He long advocated woman suffrage, prohibitory liquor laws, prison reform, and opposed capital punishment. His financial views were set forth in a speech delivered in Boston, in March, 1878. The subject of his lectures and addresses have included earnest appeals on behalf of Ireland. He has, in addition to his work as an advocate of reforms, delivered numerous popular lectures in most of the Northern States, the more notable being those on "The Lost Arts" and "Toussaint L'Ouverture," and funeral eulogies on Theodore Parker and John Brown. There is no complete edition of his speeches; several of them have been published as pamphlets and widely circulated both in the United States and in England. Mr. Phillips was one of the most polished, graceful and eloquent orators in the United States.

The Fourth Senator.

The fourth Senator elected for the term ending in 1891 is a typical Kentuckian. Beck is a Scotchman, and really a typical Scot. Williams, although born in the State, is but a good-natured farmer, a stout-hearted soldier, and a jolly good fellow, as fairly representative of one State as another. The Blackburns are all men of mark. Everybody in the South knows the old Governor, who abandoned his canvass for Governor when the yellow fever invaded the lower end of Kentucky, and went down there and rode day and night, declaring that no one should want a doctor while he could get to them. It is a wonder it didn't kill the old man; it did kill the local practitioners, and all the volunteers except one other and Blackburn, and the people made Blackburn Governor for it, giving him a two-to-one old-Bourbon majority. Joseph Clay, the new Senator, is only 45 years old, but he has represented the Lexington district nearly ten years with continually increasing reputation. That district is fond of famous men, and it sticks to them. It kept Henry Clay in the House, of which he was the Speaker thirteen years, till he went into John Quincy Adams's Cabinet, and it elected John C. Breckinridge twice.

It was at one time a question whether the free traders in the House would select Blackburn or Carlisle as their candidate for Speaker. Randall, the latter, Carlisle was finally chosen because his scholarship is fuller and riper; but it was agreed that Blackburn should be elected Senator as a compensation. Carlisle is a quiet, studious man, and would have made the strongest Senator Kentucky has had for a quarter of a century; he would have grown greater every year, and will grow greater where he is. Blackburn, on the other hand, will be the same ten or twenty years hence that he is now—a physical giant with a brilliant intellect, who will do best. He is fitter to rule the turbulent House than to shine in the solid Senate—in fact, if the positions of the two could be exchanged, Kentucky would be just as the slang phrase goes, where she could do the most good.—N. O. Picayune.

Appeal to the South.

RICHMOND, VA., Feb. 2, 1884.

Robt. E. Lee Camp No. 1, Confederate veterans, an Association embracing the Grand Army of the Republic, formed in Richmond, Va., April, 1883, for the purpose of assisting their sick and disabled comrades of the late Confederate Army, and their families, many of whom are in dire need, to establish a Soldier's Home for the disabled and infirm Confederate Veterans, proposes holding a Grand Fair the latter part of February and during the month of March, in order to raise a fund to carry out their benevolent mission.

We have had kindly greetings from the people of the Southern States, from "the Boys in Blue"—and we now call upon the people of the South and "the Boys in Gray," who may be disposed and able, to contribute in money or merchandise so as to make our laudable efforts a success.

Donations can be sent to to R. H. Fox, Chairman Committee on Fair, R. E. Lee Camp No. 1, C. V., No. 1512 Main street, Richmond, Va., and will be duly acknowledged and gratefully accepted.

Protection for a Southern Industry.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company lately received for their shops seventeen tons of pig iron from Alabama. Also, the freight being over $6 a ton.—Baltimore Manufacturers Record.

And yet there are those in this State, and out of it, who insist that iron can be made in Alabama so cheap as not to need the encouragement of the tariff. There is no home market for our iron, and this iron bought by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad had to come in competition at Baltimore with the English. It cost about $12 or $12.50 to make this iron, and with $6 freight added, the actual cost was $18. Had the Baltimore would be compelled to pay $18 or $18.50. English pig, which was quoted free on board steamship at $10.53, now suppose we add the duty, $6.92, and freight, which is quoted at 3s.6d from Glasgow to New York, and we have Scotch or English iron ready to be laid down at Baltimore for $18 more or at about $18.30. Does it take a blind man to see that the Alabama furnaces could not run a day without the assistance of the tariff. Suppose the duty on pig iron was only $5 instead of $6.90, this would have given the English pig the advantage in the Baltimore market by $2 or $250. Certainly it is not the interest of any citizen in Alabama to have the tariff on iron reduced so as to give the foreign market an advantage over the home market.

Over-issue of School Warrants.

The Superintendent of Education of Hinds county in the last few years has issued about $75,000 more school warrants than the law allows. A bill is now before the Legislature to authorize the county to fund these warrants, looking to their payment. There is considerable opposition to this scheme, and the matter is attracting more attention than the appropriation to abolish the charter of Jackson from the fact that the whole matter is involved in it. No doubt the Legislature will thoroughly investigate the subject before taking final action.—Vicksburg Herald.

It is possible that more school warrants have been issued than the law allows, but we do not believe any issued fraudulently, as the above might imply, or not for a moment believe. The school law admits of several construc-tions. It is made the duty of the Board of Supervisors, in conjunction with the Superintendent, to locate and determine the number of school districts. By what means too many have been organized, and for six or seven years the school fund has been gradually falling behind. When we read the statement that Raymond Gazette of the large school debt, we remarked that explanations were in order. Only a few months ago and so far as we can understand them, the County Superintendent is not in fault, except so far as he may have failed to exert an influence of restraining the Board from locating a greater number of schools than could be supported by the tax provided. The error ages on the several years, together with a loss of about ten thousand dollars to the county by an imperfect examination of the educable children, and other losses, for which Capt. Wolfe is in no manner responsible, amount to about $75,000. We understand that the County Superintendent will, unsolicited, take his books to the Grand Jury, now in session at Raymond, and demand a searching investigation. We are satisfied that this will completely exonerate that officer; but we trust that such legislation may be had as will insure the maintainance of a reasonable number of public schools, a certain fund for their support, and the issuance of no other promises to pay beyond the ability of the treasury to honor.—Jackson Clarion.

LORD SALISBURY writes learnedly in the Quarterly Review to protest that the English Monarchy is growing weaker, if not failing to pieces. He says the House of Commons, once the ruling power, is "by its lofty about to precipitate disintegration, not only in politics but in society." His lordship avers that the United States possesses a more stable government than that of England, because we have "a real second chamber (the Senate) which draws to act." It is very true that the American Senate is a far more powerful body than the English House of Lords.

The steamer City of St. Louis, of the Anchor Line, passed up yesterday from New Orleans for St. Louis, with a fine trip.

The steamer Henry Marx and barges are up from New Orleans to Mayersville where she gets a big shipment of cotton seed.

The big steamer Natchez will be up Monday evening as usual and leave again on Tuesday evening for New Orleans at 5 o'clock p.m.

The steamer W. P. Thompson came in last night with a good trip. She is receiving to-day, and leaves promptly at 4 p.m. for Ashton.

The City of Cairo, of the Anchor Line, will be here Sunday evening, and will be the regular Anchor Line steamer for St. Louis, leaving at 11 a.m. Tuesday, the 24th.

The steamer City of Yazoo, of the Parisot Line, will be up to-morrow evening from New Orleans, and will have a full load to leave with Tuesday at 11 a.m. for the Crescent City.

The steamer E. C. Carroll of the P Line will be in to-morrow evening (Sunday) and leaves Monday evening at 5 p.m. for Yazoo and Tallahatchie, going through Tchula Lake and as high as Sharkeys.

The Thompson paid C. O. D bills today to our merchants amounting to $497, and brought in C. O. D. bills for our merchants of over $500. She is a valuable acquisition to our river trade from the bends.

The big J. M. White arrived this morning from New Orleans at 10 o'clock with a good passenger list and big freight for the upper bends. She got quite a number of people here. She will pass down Monday evening at 5 o'clock for New Orleans.

The steamer Leflore arrived last night at 12 o'clock from Yazoo river, with 59 bales cotton for New Orleans, 101 bales cotton and 70 sacks seed for Warren Mills. She is receiving to-day, and leaves at 4 o'clock this evening for Greenwood. Capt. Chas. Pare is master.

The steamer Ed. Richardson got away last night at 11 o'clock from the Refuge Oil Mill with 1045 bales cotton and 5220 sacks cotton seed meal, 2000 sacks from the Warren Mill and the remainder from the Refuge Mill. Besides this, she had a large list of both freight and passengers.

The steamer Issaquena will be in on time to-night and leaves again Monday evening at 5 o'clock for Greenville and all the bend landings. Capt. Marionneaux master, Sedgeman, Hendrickson, and Sartorius clerks. This boat is a bonanza to our merchants, and don't you forget it.

The steamer Hard Cash will be in from Yazoo and Tallahatchie river to-morrow (Sunday) and will leave again at 4 o'clock Tuesday evening for Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers going through Tchula Lake and as high as Sharkeys. The Hard Cash connects with Capt. T. P. Leather's big steamer Natchez.

A Branch Road to Natchez.

We learn with his Honor Mayor Lowenburg that during his late visit to New Orleans, he met Capt. John A. Grant, the Vice-President and Chief Engineer of the N. O., B. R. & M. (Wilson) road. Capt. Grant informed Mayor Lowenburg that he expected to visit Natchez in the course of a couple of weeks, for the purpose of meeting our people and inquiring into the feasibility of constructing a branch road from this city to tap the line of which he is Vice-President and Chief Engineer. Mayor Lowenburg is desirous of the Wilson railroad folks to have a connection with Natchez, and Mr. Lowenburg informs us that from what Capt. Grant talked that it is likely that the branch or tap road may be placed under contract at an early day. The branch will be a fat investment, be constructed on a perfectly straight line, and will doubtless be projected to strike the main line of road at or near Hamburg, in Franklin county. While there some are of our citizens who do not think that a branch line to Natchez will be of any benefit to them, we are of the opinion otherwise, think it will, and who are anxious for such a road to be built as speedily as possible.—Democrat.

The Colored Member.

The colored man in the present Congress is J. E. O'Hara, from North Carolina. He has been placed on by the Republicans on their Congressional Campaign Committee. He is said to have a commanding figure, and to define which term is left to the reader. He is well educated and is represented to be "a fluent speaker; a hard worker, straight-forward and honest in his qualifications to recommend any man, but are especially noticeable in one who belongs to the race that has been unjustly and deprived it of the opportunities to become conspicuous for learning.

Ladies First.

"Now," said the irate mother to her family of one boy and four sons, who had been misbehaving themselves, "I am going to whip you all," and she seized on Jimmy to receive the first installment of chastisement. "Mother," said Jimmy, "ladies first always." The old lady was so struck with the application of her own instruction that she did not strike any of the children, but let them off that time.

We learn that it is quite likely that a joint committee from the Mississippi Legislature, together with a number of citizens of that body, will on Friday of this week visit our city and inspect the marine hospital building, in which our State authorities desire to locate the State Hospital established. The Board of Aldermen, at its meeting on Thursday afternoon will take the necessary steps for the reception and entertainment of the visitors, and will doubtless succeed in sending them away well pleased with Natchez, even if they are not in favor of establishing a State Hospital here. It is expected there will be fifteen or sixteen of the members of the Senate and House among the representatives.—Natchez Democrat.

Logan Showing his Hand.

The rejection of the nominations of Steebach for Marshal in Alabama, and Keogh for Marshal in North Carolina, is interpreted to mean that Logan intends to cripple the Arthur machine in the South. Logan expects to control by the aid of the Democrats of Radical delegates from the South to the Chicago Convention.—Washington special.

The Song of the Blind.

Dark—forever dark, I go
Through this world of want and woe,
Imploring thy sweet charity,
Stay, hurrying feet; O pity me!

No morning ray dispels my night;
I may not see the blessed light;
A dateless dark—a settled gloom,
A foretaste of the coming tomb.

No glory of a setting sun
Paints my heaven when day is done;
Morn, noon, or eve no solace bring;
Night brooding folds her sable wing.

For me no moon, for me no star
Send their greeting from afar;
I grope to find a friendly hand
To guide me through this weary land.

I lay me down in darksome night;
My dreams are of heavenly light;
I wake to find that dreams bestow
My only comfort here below.

No more shall manhood's form divine,
Or woman's softer beauties shine;
Childhood's grace, decrepit eld,
From my sightless eyes withheld.

The smile of joy, the tear of woe,
Alike to me may come and go;
The dear old faces' now they pass
Unmirrored o'er my darkened glass.

To help the weary in their strife;
To ease the burden of this life,
No gift from me, for while I live,
Alas! I take, but cannot give.

Dark—forever dark, I go
Through this world of want and woe,
Imploring thy sweet charity,
Stay, hurrying feet; O pity me!

The River Convention.

The preliminary proceedings of the great Convention of the Mississippi Valley which assembled at Washington yesterday appear in our dispatches, and are felicitous. The shoals upon which the River Craft could be run by unskillful steering may easily be avoided. They are known as protection levees—levees for the protection of the alluvial region. The Picayune has frequently exposed the danger which accompanies any instances on the building of levees for other purposes than true protection, and SAYS NOW that we have little fear of the meeting to-day. Only a presteremined the Valley Convention would be formed per se can do no harm now. If the Convention is guided by the wise leaders who are on the ground, its resolutions will eminently represent the necessities of the people, and in bonding the people in the attitude of applicants for national aid for protection from calamities overflow. If we obtain national means for national work, we can add the local work ourselves, and strengthen our banks until they will resist every flood. The work which concerns the nation is that which is needful for the security of commerce.—N. O. Picayune.

The Hays and Cole.

It is stated on pretty good authority that a compromise was effected yesterday between the Adams Line, Memphis and Arkansas River Packet Company, and the Memphis and Vicksburg Packet Company, (steamer Will S. Hays). How the matter was settled is not exactly known. An Avalanche reporter spent several hours last night trying to get the bottom facts, but, though hearing a great deal, was unable to find the right parties. It was reported that the Kate Adams and Will S. Hays would form a line between this point and Vicksburg, each boat to make one trip per week; also that the steamer R. L. Cobb, at present the Kate Adams' Arkansas river connection, had been purchased by the Arkansas River Packet Company, and that she would continue to run in that stream and connect with the Hays and Adams for this point.—Memphis Avalanche.

The Mississippi Appropriation.

Congressman Willis, of Kentucky, chairman of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, is decidedly opposed to the policy of the Mississippi appropriation of $5,000,000 for the improvement of the river and harbor bill. He says there is more opposition to this appropriation than to any other part of the river and harbor bill. —Picayune special.

A Painful Accident.

THE SATISFACTION
Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.
If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. J. P. PARKER, a wealthy Louisianian, was in the city yesterday.

THE big fine wax doll at Clarke & Co's. will be raffled to-night at 7½ o'clock.

COL. THOS. DUFFIN leaves this evening by steamer City of Provinence for Longworth.

EX-SENATOR Spencer was in this city to-day. He left on the J. M. White for Skipwith's.

THE condition of Mr. Donald Campbell, who has been very ill for several days, is thought to be worse to-day.

DR. ROBBINS returned last night from Jackson. He informs us that the State Hospital bill is coming out all right.

MR. A. D. SHEPHERD, a special agent of the Pension Department, is in the city, on business connected with his office.

THERE will be a meeting of the Juvenile Social Club, Sunday evening at 3 o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Isaac B loomenstiel.

S. C. BROOKS and wife and A. Bigelow, of Cleveland Ohio, are in the city. They go south on the steamer J. M. White Monday.

THE official count of the election in this county shows that Martin Marshall received a majority of 199 votes. He has received the certificate of election.

FOR a few days past the V. & M. trains have arrived promptly on time, and the mail has not been delayed. This is highly appreciated by our citizens.

MESSRS. Chas. Smith, of Greenville, Geo. Foster, of Pecan Grove, and Major Gray, a railroad contractor, were also among the departures by the White.

MR. R. W. BARTON, special traveling agent of the Times Democrat, is in the city and leaves by the 2:15 train for the eastern portion of the State. He is just from a trip overland the Yazoo Delta in the insterest of his paper.

MAJOR H. B. RICHARDSON, Chief Engineer, and Capt. H. B. Thompson Assistant Engineer of the Louisiana State Board, were in the city this morning and left on the White for points above, to inspect the Louisiana Levee.

JOHN BOYLE, who was internally injured in the accident at Big Divide, is lying very low at the Hospital and no hopes are entertained for his recovery. The others are all improving, one having been discharged from the institution this morning.

JUDGE MONTGOMERY, an old and prominent citizen and planter of East Carroll parish, La., came down on the steamer W. P. Thompson last evening, and returns this evening by the same steamer. The Judge ships by the steamer Thompson quite a large amount of freight.

DURING performances in the Opera-house it has been the habit of a number of boys to annoy the patrons of the house by smoking in the entrance and otherwise making themselves obnoxious. Last night a colored boy named Henry Banks, and some companions closed and fastened the outside doors of the main entrance so that some difficulty was experienced in opening them. Banks was arrested by officer Stevenson and the Mayor this morning fined him $3 and costs.

The Raging Ohio.

The following is the report of the condition of the Ohio river, received at the signal office in this city at 7 o'clock this morning:

Cincinnati, 63 feet, 5 inches, a rise of 1 foot and 3 inches in the past 24 hours. This makes the river at Cincinnati 13 feet and 3 inches above the danger line, and only 2 feet and 7 inches below the high water of 1882. Weather warm and rainy.

At Louisville the river marks on the gauge 40 feet and 3 inches. This is 12 feet and 3 inches above the danger line, and the river is still rising.

At Cairo the water marks on the gauge 43 feet and 5 inches, a rise of 1 foot and 8 inches during the past 28 hours. The water has not yet reached the danger line, but is still rising.

At Pittsburg the water marks on the gauge 22 feet and 6 inches, a fall of 5 feet and 7 inches during the past 24 hours. Weather warm and rainy.

A Notable Wedding.

A telegram from New Orleans announces the marriage yesterday of Mr. Edgar W. West, of the firm of West, West & Son, to Miss Terrille Jumel, daughter of the State Auditor of Louisiana.

The happy couple, accompanied by a party of friends, will make this city the terminal point of their bridal tour, which will be made on the steamer Natchez. The party will remain on board the boat during her stay here, after taking in the sights of the city. A bridal trip of this kind is much more sensible, and perhaps equally as enjoyable as a long and wearisome journey over the North.

THE CHARTER AMENDMENTS.

A Letter to Representative Miller, and His Reply.

We give below a copy of a letter, signed by some of our most prominent citizens, to Representative T. M. Miller, in regard to the proposed amendments to the city charter, and that gentleman's dispatch in reply.

It is reported in Vicksburg that some changes have been made in the charter since it was carried to Jackson. The Board of Alderman here made some changes during the absence of Alderman Baum, and there seems to have been a disposition to hurry the document out to Jackson. There is no question but what it would have been best for the Board to publish the proposed amendments and changes here, so that our citizens could see what is contemplated. It is not too late to do it yet; and there is yet ample time to make such other changes and modifications as may be needed, and to ascertain the best sentiment of the community upon this important matter:

VICKSBURG, M ss., Feb. 8, 1884.

Hon. T. Marshall Miller:

SIR—We, the undersigned, in behalf of our citizens, pray you that you resist any action by the Legislature on our city charter amendments until they are published for their inspection and approval as amendments, as was agreed by the Alcdermanic committee with the citizens who interested themselves with said committee. Our citizens feel that they have the right to judge of the supreme law by which they are to be governed.

Very respectfully,

Geo. H. Dorsey,	G. L. Record,

Death of John Hartigan.

The announcement upon our streets this morning of the death of Mr. John Hartigan, was so unexpected and startling in its nature that scarcely any one would believe it at first. But a few days since Mr. Hardigan was upon our streets looking the very picture of health. He was taken ill with typhoid-pneumonia last Tuesday, and died at half-past five o'clock this morning. Mr. Hartigan was born in the county of Limerick, Ireland, June 21, 1835. He first came to Vicksburg in 1853, for the purpose of accepting the position of bookkeeper in the large cotton and grocery house of Thomas Whaley, one of the most extensive business houses of Vicksburg's palmiest days. He afterwards became a partner in the large firm of Butler & Hartigan, which ranked at that time as one of the largest houses in this section.

Since the war Mr. Hartigan has been a partner in various prominent business houses of this city, among which were North & Hartigan and Hartigan & Irving. Mr. Hartigan was also for a number of years Superintendent of the Vicksburg and St. Louis Anchor Line Elevator at this place and agent for the Anchor Line of boats. As a business man his qualifications were of the highest type, and he was also an accomplished and expert accountant. Mr. Hartigan's most prominent feature of character, however, was his interest in and devotion to his native land, Ireland. His long residence in America had had no effect whatever towards diminishing his affections in this respect. He was truly a patriotic Irishman, and it would have been the fulfillment of his fondest, most cherished dream could he have lived to have seen the day of Ireland's liberation.

Mr. Hartigan was married in 1868 to Miss Mary Ann Condon of this city, who has been to him in all these years a most devoted and loving wife, and to her, upon whom the blow falls heavliest, we tender our sincere sympathy in this the hour of her first great sorrow.

The funeral will take place from St. Paul's Catholic Church to-morrow (Sunday) morning at a quarter of 9 o'clock.

Death of an Aged Mother.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Maria Eva Ulm, which and event occurred at New Orleans last Thursday, Feb. 7, at 41 p.m. Mrs. Ulm has been a resident of New Orleans for the last forty years, and had won the respect, love and veneration of the large circle of friends by her Christian and blameless life. Her remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of friends. The deceased lady was the mother of Mrs. Lawrence Ulm of this city, and of Mrs. Margaret France of New Orleans. She was, also, the eldest sister of Mrs. R. Dohler of this city. These relatives now mourn the loss of a loving mother and sister.

The State School Fund.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Feb. 9, 1884.

Editor of the Post:

I send you an extract from a communication from H. J. McLaurin, county, Superintendent of Sharkey county, to certain interrogatoris sent him, last Summer, by Gen. Smith, which I think, are worthy of a place in your paper. The first inquiry in regard to the manner of collecting funds is partly answered thus:

"It is good, except that the revenue, derived from liquor licenses should be paid, directly, into the county Treasury, to constitute a portion of the local county school fund, instead of being paid into the State Treasury, to go into the make up of the $300,000 State school fund. Those who bear the evils of the whisky traffic should reap the benefits of the taxes therefor.

The State School Fund of $300,000, should be increased $100,000 by the Legislature of 1884."

CAIRO, Feb. 11.—At noon to-day the Ohio river was rising at all points.

Funeral of George Gilbert.

Mr. George Gilbert, who died Saturday night, was buried at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remains were followed to their last resting place by the Knights of Pythias in a body, the various fire companies of the city, relatives of the deceased, and numerous friends. The funeral took place from the family residence on Pearl street.

A New Bridge.

The new bridge over the Big Black, on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., has been completed, and on day at 12 o'clock the first train of cars was to have passed over it. Work is being pushed rapidly forward on the road, and the gap between here and Memphis grows shorter every day. It will not be many more weeks before trains will be running all the way between the two cities. The track between Glass Bayou and the National Cemetery, however is still in a condition that renders it impassable by trains.

Mardi Gras Excursion.

Attention is called to the Mardi Gras Excursion advertisement of the V. & M. R. R. A special train of Pullman sleepers will leave here for New Orleans Sunday evening, February 24 at 6 o'clock, and will run through without change to that city, via the New Orleans & Northeastern railroad, crossing Lake Ponchartrain in daylight over the finest bridge in the world. Sleeping car berths may be engaged at any time by applying to or addressing the ticket agent at the LaMadrid House, both city and without effect.

The names of the prisoners now confined in the jail are: S. D. Doran, Dan'l and Robert Pruitt, Harry Lanning, Ed. Howell, J. Lucius and John Allison.

The excitement is still intense. Hall is not dead, as first reported, though he cannot live, and William Flynn's condition is critical as well as Hargrove's. Craig's wounds are not considered dangerous.

GAMBLERS' GUNS.

A Fatal Fight at Hot Springs, in Which a Gang Ambuscade and Shoot the Flynn Family of Gamblers and Several Lookers-on.

A Strong Sentiment in Favor of Lynching the Party.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Feb. 10.—A terrible tragedy was enacted on Main street yesterday morning about 11 o'clock.

Three brothers, Frank, Jack and William Flynn, were proceeding home in a hack when a party of seven men, armed with double-barrelled shot-guns and Winchesters stepped out from the door of a saloon and opened fire. The Flynns were armed, but the attack was totally unexpected.

Jack Flynn was shot through the forehead by a ball from a Winchester, and died in a few minutes. William Flynn was shot through the breast with a Winchester, and the wound will probably prove fatal. Frank Flynn received a shot through the hand, inflicting a slight wound. The driver of the hack was shot in the back of the neck and died in a hour afterward. Hargrave, a bystander, was shot through the breast and will probably die.

J. H. Craig, a prominent lumber man, received a charge of buckshot through the back. His condition is considered precarious.

The difficulty originated some weeks ago on account of Frank Flynn endeavoring to prevent Major Doran from opening a gambling house. It culminated at the time in Doran making a cowardly attempt to assassinate Flynn, failing in which he fled the city, but returned secretly a few nights ago. Flynn was unaware of his presence in the city until the fatal volley was opened on him.

Intense excitement prevails and strong threats of mobbing the prisoners are heard. The citizens are loud in their condemnation of the murderous and cowardly act.

Judge Wood has been telegraphed to by leading citizens, requesting him to adjourn Court at Malvern and return here and hold a special session to try the murderers.

If he consents, the law will probably be allowed to take its course. If he does not, the citizens boldly threaten to burn the jail and hang the prisoners.

Some two years ago Frank Flynn, Jas. Lane, Charles Watson and Louis Goodman were engaged as partners in a gambling house. Dissentions arose and the firm was dissolved. Lane continued the business, while Flynn and Goodman opened a rival house.

Lane was jealous of its growing popularity and began to circulate rumors affecting its character. Flynn remonstrated with him and threatened to break him up unless he closed. Lane, however, continued to circulate his reports until Flynn and Goodman closed their houses. Flynn then took steps to close Lane's house and succeeded so well as to financially ruin him. Lane left the city and went to New York, still retaining his interests here.

About six months ago he returned and openly boasted that he would soon have a man here who would open his house or would have Flynn's blood.

It was soon discovered that this man was one S. Alex Doran, a man whose record has been one of blood and crime in Tennessee, in Texas and elsewhere. He has murdered men in cold blood and through pure wantonness; he is, in short, a human hyena, who has fed upon gore. He was never so happy as when inhaling his hands in the blood of his fellowmen.

Doran arrived here some three months ago, penniless. It was known to Flynn that he was a desperate man.

Doran, with two of the brothers Pruitt, opened a gambling house. Flynn, through legal measures, endeavored to suppress it. A few days afterwards Doran met Flynn, and without a word drew a pistol and began to shoot. Flynn's right arm was crippled and he retreated to a neighboring store. Drawing his pistol he advanced on Doran, who in turn retreated. Officers interfered and both parties were arrested. Subsequently Flynn was placed under a peace bond of $5000.

Doran left the city and returned surreptitiously on Tuesday, accompanied by two or three companions. His presence has been kept concealed. Flynn was unaware of his presence until the fatal volley was poured in.

As soon as the hack was fired into, Frank and William Flynn jumped from the vehicle and opened fire on the assailants, but without effect.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 11, 1884.

AN old New Orleans lawyer named Graham, shot and killed his wife, last Friday, and then killed himself by cutting his throat with a razor.

WE copy from the Picayune an article in reference to the State of Louisiana and its convicts. It will apply with equal force to the State of Mississippi.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL, engineer in charge of the Government works in this District, and a gentleman who makes it a business to keep posted in such matters, predicts higher water than in 1882.

THE Mississippi House can yet redeem itself, to some extent, by defeating the bill establishing a Cotton Exposition Bureau, and appropriating $12,500 therefor. The members from the cow counties and the levee districts, can, no doubt, find much more pressing needs for the money.

THE prospects for high water and destructive overflows of the Mississippi, are rather alarming. The Ohio is still rising at Louisville and Cincinnati. An article on our local page gives full and interesting information in regard to the condition of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana levees.

THE Legislature might now try its hand at a little high water legislation. The rains have descended and the floods are coming. The representatives of the Levee districts will soon have practical evidence of the dangers which their section is subject to, and can use it before the "assembled wisdom" at Jackson to forward measures for their relief.

☞ We do not see how those who are opposed to Railroad Supervision can take any comfort from the fact that the bill passed by the Mississippi Legislature has no enforcing clause. The same big majority that passed the bill, will have no trouble in rushing a supplemental bill through. And yet some newspaper correspondents are cackling loudly over the eggs they think they have found in this "mare's nest."

A LETTER from Col. Booth, in another column, explains the character of the charter asked for by the Water-works Company of which he is the attorney. The contract of the city with this Company (which we believe has been annulled by the city) did give the Company exclusive privileges for a long term of years, and our informant probably got the contract and charter blended in his ideas.

THE sub-committee of the Privileges and Elections Committee, appointed to investigate the causes which led to the death of Matthews, in Copiah county, Miss., held a meeting Saturday, and decided upon a plan of action. They leave Washington on Tuesday morning for Hazlehurst, the county seat of Copiah county, and will decide further proceedings upon ther arrival. Sessions will be held at New Orleans and Jackson, Miss.

Senator Sherman's Views on the Iron Tariff—Protection in Danger from its Friends.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 11.—Senator Sherman has written a letter to the Iron Trade Review upon the movement originating here and culminating in the organization in New York of an association of capitalists to secure reciprocity with Canada in the matter of a reduction of duty on coal and iron ore. He writes:

The subject of a treaty of reciprocity with Canada in respect to coal and iron ore has not been brought to my attention, but my first view is entirely against such a treaty. We have plenty of coal and iron ore in this country, produced with a comparatively low rate of duty, and I see no reason to disturb it. Indeed, the whole protective system is now in more danger from its friends than its enemies. The manufacturing interests are beginning to regard coal and iron ore, pig iron, wool and other articles of domestic production as raw articles not to be protected by duty. If this new doctrine should get a foothold it would destroy the whole protective policy of the Government.

The rule of protection must extend to all labor alike; to the labor of the farmer in producing wool and to the labor of the miner in digging coal, and if it is denied to the farmer and miner, it cannot justly be maintained in favor of the manufacturer. It is labor that is to be protected, and not capital. It is indeed more important to develop the natural resources of the country in production, mining, and the manufacture of such articles as wool, iron and coal, than to secure the higher forms of production, where cheap labor is indispensable.

THE Legislative committee that is to visit Natchez for the purpose of investigating the offer that the city makes to secure the establishment of a State hospital here, will come down, it is expected on the "de jure" steamer Natchez on the 15th inst.—Natchez Democrat, 10th.

The Public Printing.

The Clarion has had very little to say on this subject. Its proprietor is content to leave the matter to the investigation of the capable Committees of the Legislature and to the wisdom of that body. We have the satisfaction of being able to state that the average annual cost of the printing has been less since our connection with it than at any time in the previous twenty-five years, and we cheerfully admit that in several classes of work a still further reduction can be made and a saving thus effected without entering upon the experiment of letting the work out to the lowest bidder.—Jackson Clarion.

It is quite true that the Clarion has had very little to say, heretofore, in regard to the public printing, but it has accidentally said a good deal in the above paragraph. It is a considerable chunk of information that, that "in several classes of work a still further reduction" of the prices charged by the Clarion ever since it has been doing the State work "can be made," and the still further implied information that the Clarion is willing to make this reduction rather than allow the State printing to go to the lowest bidder is of the most interesting and cheering nature.

The Clarion might extend this little entertainment of its rapt and eager audience by telling us why this "still further reduction" of the prices of "several classes of work" have not been made before. Such a fact would stand in luminous contrast to the one that the Clarion has charged prices which, according to its own statement, could have very justly been reduced. The Clarion has made a very unique bid for a continuation of the present system, but its proposition is based on rather vague conditions. It would also be interesting to know upon what classes of work these fascinating and enticing reductions are to be made, and how much prices are to be reduced. The Clarion might also tell us how long the system of letting public work out to the lowest bidder became an "experiment" again. We were under the ignorant impression that even "the oldest inhabitant" could hardly relate a well authenticated reminiscence of its origin and beginning. The Clarion has evidently forgotten that nearly all public work is let out to the lowest bidder, and we have never heard a single objection to the system. The Clarion has had little to say, but it may have said too much, nevertheless.

In opposition to the proposition to let the work out to the lowest bidder, the very old man of the Port Gibson Reveille chimes in with the following "wooden" quotation from the back of Webster's blue spelling book:

The State wants fairness—justice in the fulfillment of contracts—not cheapness. In the purchase of commodities the best is the cheapest, at a higher price, and so in building a house, the best workmen and the best material are always the cheapest, though costing more money. * * * * To sum up the whole matter, we have to say that the publication of the laws without the possible danger of mistakes or delays, is too important to be hazarded at auction.

Why don't the State wan't cheapness? And does grand-pa Mason know that it is to secure "fairness" in the cost of the public printing that it is proposed to let it out to the lowest bidder? It may be true that "the best is the cheapest," and then again it may be true that the costliest is not the cheapest—by a considerable "reduction on several classes of work." And why is the work of the Public Printer any better than the work of any other printer? or less liable to "delays" or "mistakes?" If the antediluvian editor of the Reveille would go abroad occasionally he might discover that the State contains a number of as competent and reliable printers as are to be found in the Clarion office. The construction of public bridges involves the safety of human lives, but we never heard any objection from the Reveille to their being "hazarded at auction."

The Vicksburg Water-works.

Editor Evening Post:

Your editorial on the above subject, which appeared in the Post last Saturday evening, shows that you have been inadvertently led into an error.

As the attorney of the North American Construction and Improvement Company, I prepared the charter of the Vicksburg Water-works, and your informant is mistaken when he states that it confers on the Company EXCLUSIVE privileges. I have in my office a rough memorandum of the charter as I wrote it, and there is nothing EXCLUSIVE in it. I understood, however, that the contract made with them by the city, which I have never seen, DOES grant them the EXCLUSIVE right for thirty years.

I know nothing of this Company except from my correspondence with them as their attorney. In a letter from the President to me under date Jan. 28th, he says so soon as the charter is obtained he is ready to proceed with the work; and I have no reason to doubt the truthfulness of his statement. Yours truly,

R. V. BOOTH.

THERE are two petitions being circulated among the citizens, one asking the Legislature to refer the election of the City Marshal back to the people, and the other asking that Honorable body not to do any such thing. The latter petition will come down, it is expected, with "the right number of signers" on the 15th inst.—Natchez Democrat, 10th.

The State and its Prisoners.

Returning to the discussion of the Louisiana Penitentiary lease, we submit the proposition that the State cannot divest itself of responsibility for the protection of the prisoners whom it has deprived of liberty. The relation subsisting between the State and its convicts is sacred, and to a certain extent parental. It is true that in forfeiting his liberty the criminal has not thereby escaped the obligation of self-support; but, on the other hand, it is equally clear that the State has no authority to inflict a penalty beyond the contemplation of the law. A man condemned to ten years imprisonment and involuntary labor is not a man condemned to labor under conditions perilous to life and limb. His life is still just as much under guardianship of the State as that of the most exemplary citizen.

It ought to be unnecessary to argue this point elaborately, and there is no excuse for referring to it at all except that its moral urgency has been persistently overlooked. It is evident that as a matter of fact the State does not feel that the life and health of its prisoners are matters over which it is bound to exercise a zealous supervision; for if it did it would not delegate its authority wholly to persons to whom those considerations are of secondary importance. The contractor will always enter into the bargain, for his part, purely from motives of self-interest. He will rarely be able, or willing, to superintend the work of the convicts personally. He will intrust that duty to subordinates, and they are, from the very nature of the case, not likely to be men of particularly fine feelings and humane instincts. They will content themselves, at the best, with seeing, first, that the prisoners do not escape, and, second, that they do a full share of work. In the great majority of cases, they will go further and exercise a discipline untempered either with wisdom or with mercy.

That this has been the result of the lease system in Louisiana will hardly be denied. The statement is so probable on its face that no one doubts it. We have never known a man in private life to attempt the slightest defense of the lease system. Nay, we have never even known one to fail to speak of it in terms of abhorrence. If there were any skepticism on the subject it would be dissipated by the bare mention of the terrible rate of mortality prevailing among the convicts under that system. An enlightened jury when it finds a man guilty of larceny or arson will remember, that he will be condemned, not to confinement within the walls of the Penitentiary but to all the extreme hardships, dangers and cruelties of the convict camp. They will remember too, that if the sentence is a long one, the condemned person will not be likely to survive its term, and that, nine times out of ten, a sentence to a prolonged confinement amounts to condemnation to capital punishment after torture.

The subordinate in charge of a convict camp is for the time being an absolute despot. His authority is as supreme over the lives as over the liberty of his prisoners. He may for the slightest cause, or upon any pretext, subject them to the most intolerable punishments, and if they attempt to escape he may shoot them down like dogs, and nothing will be said of it. From time to time vague stories reach the public ear; but there is no active sympathy in behalf of the criminal under drums, and investigation is invariably futile. The convict cannot speak for himself; or, if he speaks, he is not believed. The contractor and lessee of the State has abandoned him, and he has no rights which may conflict with the interests of his master, the contractor.

Under such conditions it is obviously extremely difficult to illustrate the argument with specific examples. We must perforce rely upon the general conclusions deducible from the statistics that may be at hand. But it is enough to indicate the disgraceful possibilities of the lease system—or rather its all but inevitable consequences. What these consequences are need not be again explicitly stated. The subject is a very painful one, and we would prefer, if that might be sufficient, to rest the whole case on our original proposition that the State cannot divest itself of its responsibility for the protection of those persons whom it has deprived of liberty and protected by themselves. There are other phases of the question, however, to which it will be necessary hereafter to recur. We have still to consider more specifically the origin of the convict lease contract; its legal value, the extent to which the contractor has been faithful to it, the degree of its profitableness or unprofitableness to the State, and the process by which it is voidable.—N. O. Picayune.

A New Judicial District.

The Bar of Meridian held a meeting yesterday evening in Capt. Fewell's office, to take steps to get a new district established out of the counties of Kemper, Lauderdale, Clark, Wayne, Jasper, Newton and Neshoba, with four terms of court in Lauderdale. The two-term system has proved insufficient to clear the dockets and prisoners lie in our jail from term to term awaiting trial, and the delay is unjust to them and expensive to the county.

Capt. Fewell, Senator Walker and Representative Bell were made a committee to frame the bill and Capt. F. will leave for Jackson this evening for that purpose.—Meridian Mercury.

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE Southrons meet to-night.

MR. S. G. PEEBLES, of Memphis, is in the city to-day.

JUDGE H. F. SIMRALL came up on the Capt. Miller this morning.

JOHN BOYLE, who was so seriously injured in the Big Divide wreck, is still alive.

WE learn that Supervisor H. M. Goff has been very sick at his residence in the county.

CAPT. J. W. CLINGAN, the popular agent for the V. & M. R. R., at Jackson, is in the city.

THE Royal Arch Chapter hold a meeting at their rooms this evening, when two degrees will be conferred.

HARVEY BROOKS, colored, was fined $5 and costs this morning, for assaulting a colored woman Saturday night.

MRS. C. J. BURRUS, formerly of Yazoo City, leaves on the E. C. Carroll, to-day for that place on a visit to relatives.

THE next attraction at the Opera-house will be Flora Moore's "Bunch of Keys" Co., which will be here Feb. 21 and 22.

MISS MINNIE WHITEHEAD, of Edwards Depot, was a passenger yesterday on the Thos. Sherlock to Friars Point.

MRS. LORAINE J. PITKINS, of Chicago, Ill., arrived in the city on the morning train, on a visit of several weeks to N. W. and Mrs. H. Holstlander.

HON MARTIN MARSHALL, Senatorelect, left for Jackson last night to take his seat in the Senate. This will add to the strength of the Warren county delegation.

THE trade in mules is assuming important proportions. Three car-loads of these very useful animals arrived here on one day last week, consigned to dealers in this city.

DR. GEORGE O. JUNY, who has been absent in Kentucky, returned to this city to-day by the early train, and will be found at his office by those needing his services professionally.

L. W. MAGRUDER, Esq., left for Jackson last night, taking with him the bill of exceptions in the Hawthorne case, to be signed by Judge A. G. Mayers, who presided at the trial of the case.

WE learn from pretty reliable authority that if the weather continues good the L., N. O. & T. Railroad bridge across the Yazoo river, at Chifflon's Ferry, will be completed this week.

ISAAC NEWTON—not the Isaac who wondered why the apple did not fall upwards—was fined $10 and cost in the Mayor's Court this morning, for being drunk and disorderly and resisting the officers.

WORK has been commenced on the new residence of Mr. Dave Herman, on Cherry street. When completed it will be an elegant cottage, and an ornament to the part of the city in which it is situated.

MR. WM. MONROE, of French & Co.'s circus, arrived to-day from Cincinnati. The circus has been consolidated with Howes, Pullmans & Co.'s United States circus, by which name it will hereafter be known. They exhibit here on Saturday, February 23.

A TELEGRAM received by Mr. W. H. Stowers announces the death near Atlanta of Mr. John Stowers, formerly of Stowers & Co., of this city. Mr. Stowers left for the S'outh on last night for Atlanta, where the funeral takes place to-day.

PROF. LIPPARD opened his dancing school on Saturday night under favorable circumstances. The second lesson will be given to-morrow evening, at 4 o'clock for ladies and children, and at 8 o'clock for gentlemen. The Professor has a fine class, and his instructions are giving great satisfaction.

ONE of the men injured in the Big Divide wreck, having been discharged from the Hospital on Saturday, indulged in a little too much liquor, and about half-past four o'clock he was arrested in front of Ruhman & Co's. store on Washington street, by Officer McKenna. He was in number to walk, and it was necessary to haul him to the Work-house in a cab. This morning he was fined $5 and costs.

Owing to the bad weather but a small crowd was in attendance at the matinee of "Our Goblins," Saturday afternoon. For the same reason the house was not very well filled at what the last performance was given, but the audience, though small, was appreciative, and exacting young men enjoyed it. We regret that the weather should have been so unfavorable, and trust that the coming matinee may draw an opportunity of enjoying the excellent company again.

Condition of the Louisiana and Mississippi Levees.

'Possum Fork Levee Uncompleted—Mississippi Levees in Fine Order.

Most Interesting Official Information.

A telegram was received at the U. S. Engineer's office in this city, from the Chief Engineer's office at Washington inquiring concerning the approaching flood, and asking the condition of the Louisiana levees from the State line to the Red river and the expected hight of the flood.

It was answered that, it is feared the water will attain such a hight as to seriously threaten the safety of the levees, but that all gaps in the Louisiana levees from Ashton to Vicksburg are closed except a gap formed by a cave at Judge Montgomery's, four miles below Lake Providence. Here a "run around" is being built by the State of Louisiana, but it is rather backward.

The U. S. Engineer in charge of this district states that if the State authorities are not prevented by contracts from receiving such assistance, that he would take the responsibility of at once placing a force upon this crevasse if needed.

The 'Possum Fork levee in Arkansas, for want of sufficient means, will not, it is understood, be in a condition to withstand as high water as last year, and 200,000 cubic yards being still required to complete that levee to one foot above the high water of 1882. The main gaps in that levee are about knee-deep, will be closed, and the quantity of water inundating northern Louisiana will be much reduced.

The levees in the several Mississippi districts are in better condition than ever before in the history of the Mississippi levees, but the head of the Yazoo basin is still open in the upper Mississippi district.

The water is now flowing into the Saint Francis basin, and will begin to inundate the low lands in the upper Mississippi District at about 33 feet on the Memphis gauge, at Lewis swamp in Coahoma county below Friars Point, and at numerous places above in Coahoma, Desoto and Tunica counties about the same gauge at present rates, it will be several days or a week before the river will begin to inflict any damage, as the rise will not reach the upper Mississippi district much before that time.

For Lake Washington.

The Steamer TRIBUTARY will receive freight to-morrow at foot of China street, for Lake Washington, and will leave that point Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Marriage of Mr. Ovid M. Bell.

For the information of the many friends of the above named gentleman, we clip his marriage notice from the New Orleans Picayune of the 10th inst. We would have liked to have said something nice on the subject but the excellent journal the "Picayune" has so fully expressed what we would have said that we take pleasure in repeating it to our readers.

BELL—MCWATERS.

On Thursday last Mr. Ovid M. Bell and Miss Maggie McWaters were united in marriage at the residence of the bride's parents on Troudore plantation, West Feliciana parish. Mr. Bell is one of the finest and most popular clerks on the river. He has been engaged at different times on some of the grandest steamers in the South, and is at present second clerk on the Vicksburg packet Ed. Richardson. His chosen wife is a very pretty young lady, and possesses of rare intelligence and many accomplishments. We tender the fortunate pair our congratulations and wish them a long life of happiness.

THE HOT SPRINGS TRAGEDY.

The Flynn Faction Wiped out by Doran's Gang—Six Men Shot and Seven in Jail.

The Hot Springs Gazette of yesterday has a three column report of the whole affair, from which we gather the following main points:

About a year ago Frank Flynn and Jim Lane, the keeper of a gambling house in Hot Springs, had a difficulty. It arose, it is said, over the refusal of Lane to put up money for the Flynn gang. The result was that there was an open rupture between the two men. Lane, at this time, had a partner named Lou Goodman, who sold out to Lane and left Hot Springs. About three months ago, just before Lane went to New York, Doran arrived at Hot Springs. He made arrangements to open a gambling house in one of Lane's places opposite the Arlington Hotel, and the latter left for the East. It is understood that Flynn sent him word that he had no objection to him personally, but that he could not carry on business in one of Lane's houses, the whole animus in the matter being the personal antipathy between Flynn and Lane. Doran opened at both of Lane's places. Soon after Frank Flynn was walking down Central avenue, and a joint occasion to meet a Research saloon when Doran met him and began shooting at him. Flynn retreated into a hallway, and drew a revolver and pistol in hand. Flynn asked Doran to give him a chance. Doran told him to take one. Officers then interfered and the matter lies over for the time being. It was claimed that Flynn was hit; but that he wore a coat of mail that turned the ball. He did not fire a shot. The city was greatly excited over the affair, and it was believed that there would be a terrible fusilade. Doran, however, appeared in a few days. It is not known that he left in disguise, and it is believed he went to New Orleans. The Flynns remained, and Doran's return was a surprise to everybody.

A BLOODY RECORD.

A. S. Doran has had a bloody career. Originally a Kentuckian, he was a brave and daring Confederate soldier during the war in General Breckinridge's command. His life has been one long career of crime. He has killed several men and been engaged in the most outrageous lawlessness. About 1869 he was in Memphis, where he killed Eugene Whitfield, a young man of prominence in that city. Whitfield was managing some property, and in the course of his business rented rooms to Doran. He had trouble with him about the rent. Doran wrote a card which was published in the Avalanche, calling Whitfield a liar, and using other villifying adjectives. Whitfield sought him in his room the next morning, bursting open the door and found Doran lying in bed with a prostitute. When the door was thrown open Doran jerked out a pistol from under his pillow and shot Whitfield, killing him instantly. For this killing he was acquitted.

Not long before the public at Malvern, Ark., during Governor Garland's administration. Here he and a gang of men as desperate as himself, among whom were Sherman and McCan, held the whole community in abject terror. They committed robberies on visitors going to Hot Springs with impunity, and their crimes became notorious throughout the country. Governor Garland finally was compelled to send Gen. R. C. Newton there with authority to use the militia and rid the State of such a villainous gang. How the General accomplished his mission is a matter of history. Brave as a lion himself, he saw Doran and had a personal interview with him. He told him he had to leave, and Doran, recognizing the situation, departed with his gang.

From there he went to Sherman, Tex., where he shot and killed a policeman.

He also spent some time in New Orleans. In appearance Doran is a perfect specimen of physical manhood. Tall and well-proportioned, he is a fine looking man. He knows not what fear is.

THE FLYNNS.

The Flynn boys, Frank, Fred, John and Will, are well known at Little Rock, having all lived here at various times. Frank Flynn was in Anglo Marre's billiard hall when the first trouble between Frank Flynn and Doran took place. He went to Hot Springs and remained there a few days, when he came back. He was a miner by trade, and finished his trade with Fones Brothers. He first got interested in gambling by trading a roulette wheel. He never been successful as a gambler. Frank Flynn left Little Rock in 1871 for Hot Springs, and was in the habit, until the last year or two, of spending the winter in Little Rock with his mother. Will Flynn was a boy when he lived in Little Rock. He was in the old Anthony House billiard hall. He went to Texas and married at Fort Worth, afterward going to Denver. Fred, another brother, died in Little Rock last year of consumption. Jack and Will both went to Hot Springs, being summoned there a few weeks ago by telegrams from Frank.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 12, 1884.

THE Grand Masonic bodies are in session at Jackson.

IN advocating the necessity of a National bankruptcy law, the Galveston (Tex.) News (Dem.) says: "The lack of it is this State has been disastrous in many instances within the past two years—a fact which will be recognized, and certainly not disputed, in business circles generally."

THE list of Republican candidates for the Governorship of Indiana daily grows in size. Among those most frequently mentioned as anxious for the office are Pension Agent Dudley, A. D. Straight, Congressman Calkins, Congressman Peele, W. Q. Gresham, Rily McKeeu, of the Vandalia road, and John M. Butler.

THE Democratic managers in Louisiana fear that the Republicans in that State may be engaged in a still hunt. The plan, as it is whispered about, is for the Republicans to nominate a conservative man for Governor, with the understanding that the disaffected Democrats are to support him. The Republican State Convention meets March 5.

REV. LEONARD WOOLSEY BACON created a sensation by recently preaching in a Worcester Unitarian pulpit. He preached a sermon in which it is alleged he emphatically declared, in referring by way of illustration to the history of Jacob and Esau, that he considered Jacob a hypocrite and sneak, and Esau by nature much the best man of the two, and Rachel a designing, scheming, unjust woman.

"LOOK out below!" may now well be given in warning to the people of the Mississippi Valley from Cairo down. The Ohio river is reported by the Signal Office to-day to be higher than ever before known, and still rising. The water is also rising at Louisville and Cairo. Planters on the lower Mississippi should prepare to remove their stock, etc., to places of safety.

THE Herald is the only paper in Vicksburg not in possession of the Associated Press dispatches.—Vicksburg Herald.

Well, then if they are received why are they not printed? It don't give the Herald readers any satisfaction to have dispatches "received;" they want to have them published. For instance, one of most terrible tragedies of the year—a regular sensation—occurred at Hot Springs, Ark., a day or two since, and the Herald has not printed a word about it. We don't know what the people of Vicksburg would do for the news of the day if THE POST did not keep them posted.

WHEN the Congressional Committee to investigate the Copiah affair meets at Hazlehurst we hope it will be with the editor of the Brookhaven Leader and the editor of the VICKSBURG POST summoned as witnesses. Wheeler will no doubt attend to that. Gentlemen you must face the music.—Port Gibson Reveille.

The Reveille claims that there is political and personal freedom in the South—freedom of speech and of the press—and yet this is the second time he has threatened THE POST with Wheeler. We will wait and see what the Senate committee will have to say in regard to the matter, but now predict that the Democrats on the committee will neither palliate or justify Wheeler's bloody deed nor the course of the Copiah county Democracy.

THE Senate sub-committee to investigate the Copiah county election murder leaves Washington to-day en route to Jackson, from whence they will proceed to Copiah county, and then go to New Orleans, which they will make their headquarters for the examination of witnesses. The committee is composed of Senators Hoar of Massachusetts, Cameron of Wisconsin, Frye of Maine, Saulsbury of Delaware, and Jonas of Louisiana—all able men. The Republicans evidently attach great importance to this investigation, as evidenced by the prominent men they have put on the committee. Senator Sherman, in his speech upon the resolution for investigation, charged the outrages expressly on the Democratic party, and used the following language:

"No man should be allowed to hold a seat in either house of Congress on whose election was obtained by such means. Every one should be equally protected by law. Neither race nor political creed should act as a reason to overthrow the rights of citizenship. The American people have waited with great forbearance for the time when the constitutional rights were guarded in the South without respect to color, creed or party. The time is ripe for this investigation. The war is a failure if such things as are reported from Danville and Copiah county are allowed to go unquestioned."

The State Hospital.

A committee of the Legislature is now at Natchez to investigate the advantages and claims of that city for the location of a State Hospital.

Without wishing to detract from the merits of our sister city, we assert that Vicksburg is the most suitable and accessible place, by reason of its railroad facilities and contiguity to the navigable streams of the State; that it offers decided advantages in the matter of already having a hospital in operation; and we also think it has a claim upon Mississippi that no other city in the State can equal. This claim is, that for over a quarter of a century our city has borne the burden of sustaining a hospital for the care and treatment of any and all the afflicted of the State who came to its doors. Very few of the citizens of Vicksburg have been benefitted by our Hospital for the reason that they are treated and nursed at their homes when sick. It has been the "stranger within our gates," the residents of other towns and communities, the weary travelers and transient people without homes in our city, who have had the advantages and benefits in their time of sickness and suffering that have been dispensed by the hospital which has been kept up and sustained by Vicksburg for so many years past.

If all other things were equal this claim of Vicksburg should decide the location of the State Hospital at this point. But, as we have stated, all the other advantages are in our favor. We trust the Legislature will consider them, and we are sure the selection of Vicksburg for the State Hospital will please the vast majority of the people of the Commonwealth.

Speaker Inge's Speech.

It affords us pleasure to reproduce, from the Tupelo Journal, the following tribute to the fidelity of our Jackson correspondent, Mr. John F. Brady, of the Herald staff. The Journal says:

"The Jackson correspondent of the Vicksburg Herald makes the following report of Col. Inge's speech in support of the Railroad Supervision bill. Those who know the Colonel best will be least inclined to question the correctness and fidelity of the report."—Vicksburg Herald.

The Herald correspondent made a characteristic report of Mr. Inge's speech on the railroad supervision bill several days since. The Herald man ridiculed Mr. Inge's personal appearance and style of oratory, charged that he revamped an old campaign speech, and that his effort contained neither argument or logic; in fact that it was the poorest speech made on either side during the session of the Legislature. The correspondent made a long, labored, and futile, effort to be witty and sarcastic at the Speaker's expense, and now that some of the patent outside country papers have commended this foolishness, his journal is supremely happy.

But now for the other side: After Mr. Inge's very poor speech, as it was called by the Herald, a vote was taken by the House upon the railroad bill, and the side that Mr. Inge so weakly represented came to the front with over a two-thirds majority—a majority sufficient to pass the bill over the Governor's veto should the latter exercise that power. We are thus led to believe that had Mr. Inge made one more weak, and illogical and incompetent speech, as alleged by the Herald, the railroad bill would have been passed by a unanimous vote.

The Herald correspondent gave high praise to one or two members who opposed the bill, but somehow these speeches did not win votes. They remind us of the story of a lawyer who read a dull book to them: Hon. M. Talkloud defended the prisoner, and he was sent to the penitentiary.

It is the fashion with some of the Mississippi papers to abuse our Legislature. In contrast, we give the following complimentary words from the New Orleans Picayune, which ought to be impartial:

MISSISSIPPI LEGISLATURE GOOD.

The Mississippi Legislature deserves much credit for the excellence of its work. It will probably accomplish all that is really necessary to be done within a very reasonable session, although we believe there is no constitutional limitation preventing it from sitting as long as it likes. It has passed a number of acts of judicious nature relating to the liquor traffic, and a general act is projected whereby local option elections can be held biennially in any county. Education and other subjects have not been neglected. The most important act of the session is that providing for supervision of railroads, some of whose principal features were pointed out in the Picayune of Jan. 31. The assault on this bill was continued energetically after its passage by the House, and was participated in by some of the strongest papers in the State; yet it passed the Senate by the marked vote of 24 to 10. This result was due to the sound sense of the Senators and also to the good work for the bill by the Jackson Clarion and the Chickasaw Messenger. We ought to mention the Union County Courier in this connection; its editor is a man of clear judgment. If Mississippi had more such it would be her welfare.

On the whole, we feel like saying that the State has not had so good a Legislature for a long time, and we shall rejoice if Louisiana's shall prove equally useful for the common good.

THE New Jersey Legislature is wrestling with the prison labor contract, or lease, system, and the indications are that its abolition is sured.

LETTER FROM JACKSON.

The Convict Leasing Iniquity—Politicians' Railroad Supervision.

The Greedy "Mighty East"—The New Orleans Advertising Exposition.

How Local Bills Are Passed—Etc.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]
JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 11, '84.

Something is stirring up the people and attracting the attention of members of the Legislature in regard to "our convicts." It may be your editorials on the subject; at any rate the shadow is darkly shadowed, and some, while they do not say much, want to know why this is thus. This morning your correspondent met a Representative and asked "What kind of a report will the committee of investigation make?"

"Black! with a big B."

"What is the general opinion in the House, so far as you know, concerning the treatment of convicts?"

"Nearly all believe that convicts that have been hired out to private individuals have been more or less badly treated, in some cases causing death. The matter will be thoroughly investigated and the abuse stopped by proper legislation."

The passage of the railroad bill was not a surprise to any one. While it does not particularly hurt members of the Senate, at the same time it creates four offices at good salaries for their friends—and their friends are here by a large majority. This will work charmingly for a year or two, or until the next session of the Legislature, when, as it has been stated, sugar-coated supplemental Acts can be wedged in, thus making Railroad Supervision satisfactory to the people, profitable to friends and all right with the railroads. The so-called clamor of the people for Railroad Supervision is only a bubble on the top of very deep pool; and in his remarks Senator Reynolds indirectly exploded the whole matter. Four years of civil war very effectually satisfied this State that while it had the right and was brave enough to exercise the privilege of splitting off from the Union, it did not return slowly when the order was given, and would not hasten to split off again. I think two years of Railroad Supervision will satisfy them on this subject also. Put it down in bold type—it is not the people—it is the office-seeking politician.

The East is a little hard to please. Besides an additional appropriation of $50,000 for the Meridian Insane Asylum, which will be given as soon as the bill is introduced, a very prominent legal gentlemen from Meridian is here armed with a bill making a separate judicial district out of six or eight of the Eastern counties, including Lauderdale, Kemper, Newton, Clarke, Wayne, and others. This new district will have to be equipped, as it were, with officers, and of course, their names have been pigeon-holed. On top of this it wants the capital. This is not said in disrespect to east Mississippi. We like pride and ambition, but, you know, these little items have to be paid for by the people: that's all.

As stated in a former communication, there is not any great desire on the part of the House to make a large appropriation to the World's Cotton Exposition. It was reiterated in the ear of your correspondent to-day, by several that, notwithstanding the Senate bill appropriating $12,500, the House was not in favor of giving over $10,000 and some of the members do not want to appropriate anything. This brings to mind another point connected with the subject. A member of the House said:

"I am opposed to the Department of Immigration. Let us abolish that unnecessary office, and take the money expended for that purpose and appropriate it to a better use—to build a charity hospital at Vicksburg would do. But I am more decidedly opposed to it because the Legislature is asked to make appropriations to Exposition, thereby paying for advertising the State—the very thing the Department of Immigration was created for and is supposed to do. It is one of the most unnecessary offices the State has ever created."

The watchful eye and listening ear can find out many amusing things that take place in the House during a week's session, especially on Friday. A few days ago a member introduced a bill prohibiting the sale or giving away of liquors in the county he represented. To make sure doubly sure he solicited the support of several members by a private canvass of the House, promising to support some local bill any one of them might introduce. The bill was passed. It was only a few days after when a bill of the same nature was introduced, and true to his promise the member voted to allow liquors to be sold. It cannot be said that this member clings very closely to the old maxim that what is good for the goose is good for the gander. S.

A LOUISVILLE, KY., special says that the Senatorial contest has been of a shameless and corrupt character. Money has been freely used and it is well understood among the workers that a number of members were paid for their votes, not only for Williams but for Blackburn. Most of the delay was really caused by dickering with purchased members who had sold themselves to one side and were offered larger sums by the other. In one case, it is said, a Williams man who received $700 was offered $2,000 by friends of Blackburn.

The River Improvement Convention

The River Improvement Convention, lately in session in Washington, did its work well. It undoubtedly made the proper impression on Congress and on the country, and it presented to the mind of the valley in the strongest possible manner. Not too much was demanded, but only what the people of the Mississippi Valley have clearly a right to ask for.

The interior commerce of the United States, it was shown, was more than great as its foreign trade. Anything that will have a tendency to reduce freight rates will be of material advantage to the entire country. And this, the improvement of the Mississippi will bring about. The jetties, and what little work has already been done on the river, has reduced the rates on all produce to the East, and saved the farmers, it is estimated, as much as $100,000 in freights. With the Mississippi properly improved the gain to the farmers will be far greater.

For these reasons the Convention demands the improvement of the Mississippi, under the plans proposed by the River Commission, whose system they cordially approve. They ask also that the Missouri and Ohio be similarly improved under the same general plan, and that the Mississippi be connected with the great lakes by some navigable canal.

These are the main features of the resolutions they adopted. Again these moderate demands, backed up and supported as they are by such a strong array of arguments as were presented, can not be objected to, and must soon be made. The Convention must have convinced Congress that it was only asking for what the people of the Valley are clearly entitled to.—Times-Democrat.

General Grant's Condition.

General Grant will never be a well man again. I doubt if he will ever again go out of the house. I called yesterday by previous arrangement, but found him quite unable to see anybody. I walked through the great marble-floored hall, while waiting for the message, into the library of a reception room, with its elegant table and ivory-carved ornaments, a great bronze Japanese kettle on the shelf, an enormous tinge elimbing up the wall—no closer inspection shows him hung there by the under shell, the upper shell polished like a mirror, the creature's claw at the side formed into a painted and bestrung with ribbons, while the vital creature himself has been dug out and turned into barrels and hung in his place now stick the latest newspapers; into the long drawing room, jeweled with lovely silver backed mirrors, stands from Canstantinople, enormous vases of bronze, large enough to cook a calf, from Yokahama, faience vases, and also of enormous size, and trinkets from around the welcoming world. Then comes the servant again: Mr. — is sick, and did not sleep a minute last night. The only sleep he gets now is like cat-naps in the daytime. It is mostly pain that keeps him awake. His diet has become rigidly simple. Indeed he has little appetite for anything. I am seriously afraid that our most distinguished citizen has been seen in public for the last time.—Groffal's letter to Boston Globe.

More Work and Less Snobbery Needed.

We like the Yankee idea best: that every man and woman ought to work, and that all kinds of common labor is honorable. What disgrace should there be in cooking, sewing, running a shop, keeping a stall in the market house, driving a hack, carrying horses, or even blacking boots? Why should society outlaw those honest people who work enough to have a clean dress on Sunday, and to owe no man anything but love. If it there were more labor and less snobbery, we would have better fences, neater yards, more productive gardens, fatter hogs and better children. The whole South needs overhauling. The fence rows need cleaning out, the gullies need filling, the houses need painting, the churches and parsonages need repairing, the numerous debts need liquidating; and nothing but hard work will do these things. There should be a stampede from the parlors into the kitchens and workshops and fields.—Holston, Tenn., Methodist.

"The Hot Water Mania."

In dealing with physical ills which mankind is heir to, as in everything else, particular remedies, outside of those prescribed by regular physicians, have their season. Just now it is said to be hot water; and it is so much in vogue that the Medical News calls it the "hot water mania." People are taking hot water for every sort of ailment and disease. There are thousands of quacks who do not devote themselves several times a day to the irrigation of the stomachs by the use of hot water as a beverage. If people must be doing, it is far to be desired that hot water, if its purity is assured, is a more innocent remedy than many which are indulged in. It is certainly a remedy at hand for which those must be thankful who are either poor in purse or reside a distance from physician and drug store. But there may be a thing as too much hot water, as there is of very many things which have more character. And this is what the Medical News says. It says that the physical effect of hot water taken into the stomach is to wash out that organ and prepare it for better work, but he warns those who are after health in hot water that too much hot water injures instead of helps. Therefore it should be taken either before the process of digestion is begun or after it is completed. That is, the person who is seeking after health by this remedy must devote his days to the drinking of hot water. It is fair to assume that, like other remedies, the hot water cure will have its day and the ailing public will turn to the remedy then held to be the popular one. May it be as simple, harmless and above all as cheap as hot water.

"BARNUM'S new elephant is called white because it is of a light ashen color, with pink splashes." Those persons who supposed a white elephant was a pale green hue, with purple and gold spots, will be apt to be disappointed in the animal. If Mr. Barnum wants to excel all his previous exhibitions of enterprise he should secure the Republican or Democratic "dark horse" in the Presidential race. The "dark horse" is white, with perhaps one red splotch just above his upper lip.—Norristown Herald.

NOTES.

The Henry Frank is due up from New Orleans en route to Memphis.

The steamer Headlight arrived this morning at 3 o'clock from Sunflower river.

The Capt. Miller will be found at the landing to-morrow and leave for Natchez at 10 a.m. sharp.

The Golden Rule of the O. Line is up down out of the Ohio river bound for New Orleans.

The Naomi and barges departed yesterday evening for Yazoo river on a big cotton seed cruise.

The Issaquena left yesterday evening on line for Greenville with her usual large trip of freight and people.

The through Anchor Line steamer Silver passed up at 4 o'clock for St. Louis, without landing.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Helena will be the Thursday boat leaving here at 11 a.m. for St. Louis.

The Ike Bonham will be in to-night from Davis Bend. She will leave again for Davis Bend Thursday morning.

The W. P. Thompson arrived to-day and leaves again to-morrow for all points high as Ashton, leaving at 4 p.m.

The big P. Line steamer City of Yazoo is receiving to-day, and will have a full load leaving this evening at 5 o'clock for New Orleans.

The Chouteau passed down from Memphis to New Orleans this morning without landing. The cotton was tiered up to her roof.

The through Anchor Line steamer City of Baton Rouge passed down this morning for New Orleans, without landing, with guards in the water.

The ever reliable Issaquena will be again receiving to-morrow night from Greenville, and leaves again for all land landings Thursday evening at 5 o'clock.

Capt. Mattingly's mammoth tug Joe Kay will depart to-morrow for New Orleans with one of the biggest rafts of timber that ever went down the river.

The F. C. Carroll, owing to her very large trip, laid over until 10 o'clock this morning when she left with the largest trip that has gone up Yazoo this season.

The P. Line steamer DeSuet arrived this morning from New Orleans with a good freight for both town and Yazoo river. She leaves this evening at 5 o'clock for Belzoni.

The Hazlehurst is receiving to-day and leaves promptly at 4 p.m. this evening for Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers, going through Tehula Lake. She takes up a large freight from the Natchez.

Capt. Shep. Lightner, of the Anchor line steamer City of St. Louis, telegraphs from Louis that his boat has been detained by fog; that she has an immense trip, and will be here to-day and will leave again to-night for St. Louis.

The J. M. White went down at 7 o'clock this morning. She carried 1,500 bales of cotton, 700 sacks of seed, 1,000 sacks of oil cake, and a good list of passengers.

The Tributary, Capt. J. I. Mulholland, master, leaves promptly to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock for Lake Washington. She is receiving to-day at the foot of China street. She is having a good many orders filled here for Lake Washington.

The big Natchez arrived this morning early, at Delta, with a big freight for points on the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific road. She took on her cotton at Delta, and came over with a big freight for Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers and town. She turned over her Yazoo and Tallahatchie freight to her connecting boat, Hard Cash, and leaves for New Orleans this evening at 5 o'clock.

Opposed to Funding the Hinds County School Warrants.

On Monday last a public meeting was held at the Court-house in Raymond, presided over by Hon. M. Delaney, and without a single dissenting voice resolutions were passed instructing the Representatives from this county to oppose the passage of any bill looking to the recognition of a legal liability for the over-issue of school warrants over and above the county, and to further oppose the passage of any funding bill, having this object in view. In addition to this the members of the Board of Supervisors were requested to take all necessary steps required to oppose any measure inaugurated by the holders of these warrants with the view of coercing the payment of the same through the machinery of the courts.

We understand that the Board of Supervisors, now in session, concur in the views of the public meeting, and we now have hope of having the number of our schools limited to such a reasonable number as we can pay for, and more than this, of having the issue of the ensuing year applied to their support.—Jackson Ledger.

A Plea for Law.

The conviction of two men, in separate cases, at Vicksburg, charged with murder, and the sentence of one to death and the other to life imprisonment, has produced a wholesome reaction of public sentiment in that community. The city papers have commented favorably as to the better enforcement of law against criminals. There is no estimating the moral forces of a rigid, impartial criminal Court. When the law becomes a terror to evil doers, the peace of a community is assured. The law's administration is another matter of crime. It is license to wrong doing. After the first shock of an awful tragedy has passed or too often before, a sickly sentimentality toward offenders that secures their escape from just legal penalty. Better make an example of the first murderer, than by excusing his crime encourage a dozen others. We plead for the majesty and integrity of the law.—N. O. Christian Advocate.

JUDGING from the letters of the Vicksburg Herald reporter, it is a part of the plan of that journal to aid the railroad monopolies by belittling Capt. Put Darden, Speaker Inge and Mr. Williamson, but those gentlemen are too well known and their position too thoroughly endorsed by the people for the writer's puny irony, and silly attempts at ridicule to affect them.—Chickasaw Messenger.

A servant girl in New Haven stole her mistress' Silver and set teeth. The woman told a policeman that "sheesh cosh shwensky soollarsh, ansh she shwash wosh shushh ansh shdoh shteesh fawsh sheesh—" "Wait till I find an interpreter," interrupted the policeman, thinking the woman was a newly arrived Swede, but she was an American and when her teeth were in could talk the head off him.

The Mobile Register admits that the tariff issue, if introduced into the politics of the Southern States, will pretty surely split the white vote. Any such question that has had much of colored ascendency has invariably had this result. And it adds: "The tariff issue will not get across the black side of the line. The blacks will vote as a body for the faction that is not so near free trade as the other faction."

THE Republicans of Louisiana have called a convention, and will, it is thought, put a State ticket in the field in opposition to McEnery. Of course the Democratic ticket will be elected, but there exists much dissatisfaction over the nomination of McEnery. The State Convention refused to make his nomination unanimous, and nothing but the whisper in the woodpile" keeps the machine ticket from being smashed.

From Jackson to Yazoo.

The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley Railroad, from Jackson to Yazoo City is now completed within 24 miles of the latter city. Several days ago a freshet washed away three spans of the bridge at the present terminus of the road and retarded work somewhat. The damage has, however, been repaired and with a continuance of the present favorable weather the road will be completed in a very short time.

Small-pox at Wesson.

Inasmuch as the small-pox is reported to exist amongst the factory hands at Wesson, Miss., and there is said to be a case in Natchez, the Natchez Democrat-Courier has directed City Marshal Benbrook to place a guard at the depot of the N., J. & C. railroad to prevent any of the operatives from that place getting off the cars in this city. It was supposed by his honor that Natchez would be one of the objective points of the factory hands leaving Wesson, hence his action in the premises. His promptness in the matter is commendable and will doubtless meet the approval of all good citizens who do not desire to have Natchez again involved by this loathsome disease.—Natchez Democrat, 10th.

The Everglades of Florida.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat prints a detailed account of its Florida Everglades Expedition. The report is written by Major A. P. Williams, commander of the expedition.

We only give the last part of the report as it shows the result of the expedition. The expedition established the fact that the Everlades from Okeechobee to Cape Sable are worthless for any purpose of cultivation; that they contain no large tracts of land above water; that they cannot be successfully drained, and that the establishment and maintenance of telegraph lines along the route traversed would be impossible. The Everglades, and especially the Southern Glades, are a vast swamp, irreclaimable and useless for any purpose. The only cultivable portions of the Southern Peninsula lie on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts, with this vast morass between them.

Working Towards Vicksburg.

According to the report of the amounts of earthwork done on the Mississippi Valley Railroad during the month of January on the Baton Rouge and Port Gibson Division, about 220,000 yards were excavated. Seventy-five miles of track remains to be completed in order to make connection with Vicksburg.—Picayune.

New Orleans and Northeastern.

Postmaster Merchant informed a Times-Democrat reporter Saturday that on the 20th inst a mail service would be established on the Northeastern road between that city and Meridian, Miss. Quite a large number of important towns have sprung into existence since the completion of the road, consequently the demand for mail service is imperative.

The Legislature.

It is the belief of quite a number, capable of forming an intelligent opinion, that the present session of the Legislature will work more of positive injury to the State than any session of any Legislature that ever convened at Jackson. Most of the members of the lower house, all but about twenty-eight, we believe, are new men, that is, they are in the Legislature for the first time. Their average intelligence is considerably below mediocrity, and reflecting the passions and prejudices, rather than the real interests of the sections of the State they represent, their power to do mischief is controlled only by their opportunities. The Vicksburg Herald of last week referred to the fact that the "rail" was having things their own way, which meant, as we take it, that what is known as the cow counties dominate in the Legislature.

Hectofore, to a great extent at least, the Representatives of the interior counties have deferred to the Representatives of the more civilized portions of the State. They have not asserted their power. But this is evidently not the case during the present session. These men from Choctaw, Jones, Neshoba and Jasper, are pretty well in the front, and are giving the rest of the world to understand that, having the numbers they propose to do some of the "legislating" themselves.

We haven't far to go to find the cause of this bold course on the part of the Representatives of the cow counties. It lies in the fact that the constituents they represent have for several years past been listening to, and imposed upon by, self-seeking demagogues who have been carrying about supervision and prohibition. They carried with them to Jackson the local passions and prejudices enkindled by these demagogues, and it is not at all a matter of surprise that, when they got together and discovered that they were in a majority, they became rampant, and are having things generally their own way.

The Legislature dominated thus, the Executive becomes the only hope of the State. We may look for nothing but radical legislation—extreme measures—from these men from the interior, and such being the case, it is incumbent on Gov. Lowry to exert all the power he possesses in the interests of good government than menaced. He is an intelligent man, and we believe can be relied upon in an emergency like the present. He knows what is needed and what is not needed in the way of legislation, and if, when he has occasion, as he will have, he will interpose his power to check, or stay, this tide of passion and prejudice, and ignorance, which has become so threatening, he will be of great service to the people he represents.—Columbus Index.

A Tale of Two Juries.

The Mansfield trial is ended. For many days it has occupied the attention of the people of Louisiana, and been watched with interest in neighboring States. The extraordinary nature of the case gave the trial a significance that has not attached to any criminal proceedings of late years in Louisiana.

A minister of the gospel deliberately murdered a man in his own sacred calling. The victim was the head of one of the finest female colleges in the State, and the alleged cause was such as to lend a deeper interest to the tragedy. The ablest lawyers of the section were employed to defend and to prosecute the case, and all that money, influence, sympathy and social solicitation could do had entered into the trial. The plea of insanity was set up for the defense of the slayer, and all the pleading of Southern chivalry was invoked in his behalf upon the ground that he had avenged the injured virtue of a lady he loved.

The facts of the case were certainly extraordinary. While it is evident from the testimony that Ben Jenkins became inflamed to the degree of committing murder by the careless remarks of a school girl that he admired, and that the act was at variance with all his former record among young men, there was no case of insanity made out beyond the insanity engendered when the worst passions of the human breats are left to run riot. There is indeed scarcely a parallel case in the annals of criminal jurisprudence.

But the jury heard the story. The testimony on both sides was exhaustive. They listened to the splendid arguments of the counsel for the defense. There was all that could appeal to their sympathies. The young clergyman, whose life had been blameless before this horrible deed, sat before them with a halo of stare in his eyes. His aged father took the witness stand. The bereaved wife of the slain college president spoke of the affecting meeting with the parents of the slayer of her husband.

But the Court and jury did their whole duty, and obeyed the law. The verdict is such as will reflect credit upon each and every one of them and upon the State.

Contrast this verdict with that of the Sykes' case right here in New Orleans. Here the pimp of an abandoned woman brought her from the hand the knife which he plunges into her body no less than eleven times; confesses it all before the jury and makes self-defense. And this too when that unfortunate and fallen woman had supported him for years, and crowded her attachment for the pimp into making a will bequeathing to him her large fortune of something like $150,000. Our people indeed should be ashamed of so foul a perversion of law and of justice, especially when brought into contrast with the proceedings of the Mansfield Court.—N. O. Picayune.

It appears that there is to be in the next campaign a mighty effort to dodge issues. —Cincinnati Times-Star.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speel's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

Riches we wish to get,
Yet remain spendthrifts still;
We would have healthih, and yet
Still use our bodies ill;
Authors of our own prayers, from youth to life's last scenes.

We would have inward peace,
Yet will not look within;
We would have misery cease,
Yet will not cease from sin:
We want all pleasant ends, but will use no harsh means.

We do not what we ought,
What we ought not, we do,
And lean upon the thought
That chance will bring us through;
But our own acts, for good or ill, are mighter powers.

But next, we would reverse
The schemes ourselves have spun,
And what we make to curse
We now would lean upon.

The Gulf and Ship Island Railroad Grant.

The House of Representatives on Thursday the 31st of January, passed a bill revoking the land grant to the Gulf and Ship Island Railroad in Mississippi, embracing some five hundred thousand acres. This bill was stoutly fought by the members of our delegation Messrs. Van Eaton and Barksdale—through whose districts the projected road would run—making strong speeches, and Messrs. Muldrow and Singleton participating in the debate in its behalf.

This grant as stated in the remarks of Judge Van Eaton, was made in 1856, conditioned upon the road being completed in ten years. The grant was at once accepted by the Legislature on behalf of the road, and in November 1860 the plat of the located line and lands was deposited according to law with the Secretary of the Interior.

The war of course put a stop to all railroad building in the State, and the grant expired in August 1866, just after we had emerged from a four years war and at a time when our resources were so much crippled that negotiations looking to building new roads were hardly to be thought of. But the Legislatures of 1870 and 1876 both memorialized Congress on the subject of renewing the grant or rather extending the time for completion, and so did the Legislature of 1882, if we are not mistaken.

Bills were introduced in the House of Representatives looking to that object by Hon. O. R. Singleton and Hon. H. L. Muldrow in the 44th and 45th Congress, and in the Senate by Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar; each of these bills recognizing the rights and titles of all persons who had obtained homesteads or other legal locations on said lands after August 1866, but it was impossible to obtain consideration for these bills.

At any time since 1870 it would have been an easy matter to have secured the building of this road if the land grant had been regarded as solvent, and to-day there are many capitalists ready and eager to take hold of the project if renewal of the grant can be secured.

Messrs. Van Eaton and Barksdale inform us that since the passage of the revocation bill they have received many sympathetic assurances from Congressmen who voted for it; and they believe that if it can be saved in the Senate a favorable reconsideration in the House may be had.

The great fight before the country is upon the question of the enormous unearned grants of the various Pacific Railroads, and if those matters were adjusted and out of the way, we think it quite likely that the Gulf and Ship Island grant might be saved, for in this case there is not the slightest allegation of fraud, but the failure to earn the grant is based solely and entirely upon the delays incident to war and the prostration that immediately succeeded it.

Mr. Barksdale's bill which is still pending, simply asks an extension of this grant for six years, and guarantees the rights of all settlers who have obtained homes upon those lands since the expiration of the old grant in 1866.—Aberdeen Examiner.

The Trade Dollar.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures has ordered a favorable report to be made to the House on the bill providing for the exchange of trade dollars at par after January 1, 1885. The bill provides that standard dollars shall be used in making the exchange.

The Irish and Wendell Phillips.

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—The Irish societies in Boston met, and in consequence of the remarks of Wendell Phillips, voted to reconsider the vote to parade on St. Patrick's day, and to celebrate St. Patrick's day by a lecture on Sunday, March 16th, the proceeds to be devoted to the erection of a monument or a statue to the memory of Wendell Phillips.

The Work of the Session in Congress

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—More than 4,500 bills, most of them of a private nature, have been introduced into the House during the present session. Less than 200 have been acted upon by committees and reported to the House. To-morrow another opportunity will be offered to increase the number of pending legislative measures.

The Ways and Means Committee will hear arguments of business men on the various clauses of the proposed tariff legislation. It is believed by the members of the committee that Mr. Morrison's bill will not be reported to the House for three or four weeks.

The Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee will probably report the bill providing for the withdrawal of the trade dollar from circulation.

The Foreign Affairs Committee has resolved to insist that the House shall refer to it the correspondence received from the State Department last week relative to the prohibition of American pork in foreign countries on the ground that the question is one of treaty obligation.

The Commerce and Agricultural Committees, however, both claim jurisdiction of the same subject, and the question of reference will probably give rise to a spirited discussion.

JAY GOULD should change his residence to Cincinnati. He could water his stock without trouble or expense.—Chicago Telegram.

A WELL-KNOWN locomotive engineer recently remarked: "I wonder why it is that our railway companies are giving up the old-fashioned method of laying curves. Formerly the outer rail on a curve was laid on a grade two or three inches higher than the inner rail. This was done for the purpose of overcoming the centrifugal force which the train would have in turning the curve. Within a few years I have noticed that many roads are laid on the same level, thus increasing the danger of the trains leaving the track. When an express train flies over the track at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour its centrifugal force in turning a curve is enormous."

THE HOT SPRINGS TRAGEDY.

The Excitement Created by the Gamblers' Affray at Hot Springs Dying Out, and the Citizens Resolve to Let the Law Take Its Course.

HOT SPRINGS, Feb. 11.—The funeral of John Flynn, one of the victims of Saturday's tragedy, took place yesterday, and was largely attended. The condition of the wounded is about the same, with the exception of Hall, the hackdriver, who is rapidly sinking.

The citizens held a meeting on Saturday and adopted the following:

Resolved, That a committee of twelve citizens be appointed by the chairman to investigate the recent killing and all matters connected therewith, and to call upon other citizens for such assistance as they might need to enforce the laws with full power to act.

The Chair appointed R. G. Davies, chairman; G. G. Latta, G. M. Baxter, C. M. Rix, W. K. Little, J. J. Sumpter, L. Farmer, L. D. Cain, John Laughran, W. J. McCloskey, D. H. Ferguson, C. N. Lockafellow and A. G. Dow.

The Committee met this morning and ordered Hugh Behan, James Fahan and Dock Nagles, friends of Flynn's, to leave the city, which they declined to do. The Sheriff has guaranteed them protection and they are now under his charge.

The prisoners are confined in the Court-House under guard. They were originally in charge of the Sheriff, but the question having arisen as to the right of the Sheriff to take charge of the prisoners before their examination when the arrest was made by the city authorities, the matter was referred to Judge Wood, who advised that they be remanded to the custody of the city officials. Sheriff Nichols consequently turned them over to Chief of Police Tolar. The jury at the inquest has not yet returned a verdict in the case of the death of John Flynn.

Intense excitement prevails in the city, but no further trouble is anticipated.

Both factions have many sympathizers, who champion the county of the respective sides.

Frank Flynn is at home surrounded by friends.

All threats of lynching died out, and the law will be able to take its course.

Resolved, That the citizens are hereby notified that the Committee has taken steps to punish all parties connected with the late shooting affair, and to rid the town of suspicious characters, and that it will report to the citizens its action at the proper time, and if necessary, will call on them for assistance.

The Floods.

It is sure that history repeats itself, more particularly in physical phenomena. Last year there was the greatest inundation of the Ohio Valley that had been known for over half a century. The season was such as to conduce these results. The melting of the ice and snow, and heavy rains following these accumulated waters, have again swollen the Ohio to an abnormal height. The record of last year is surpassed already, and there are sure indications that the Ohio River will now send down to us on the Lower Mississippi more water even than last year.

There are cycles of rainfall and snowfall, and the belt is shifting constantly around the globe on lines of longitude. The Ohio Valley is yet the seat of the maximum spring disturbance. The valley of that stream is now in mourning. There can be no question but that immense losses will be sustained there. A vast wave is coming down between the high bluffs that border that plateau, carrying death and desolation in its path.

But it is a narrow valley. It is a prosperous valley, and the banks of this great tributary are lined with wealthy and populous towns, farms and settlements. Wealthy city now upon its banks, Cincinnati, is in tremor; it may be in darkness, and without water for culinary purposes, after a large extent of the surrounding country, and is free from any danger from malarial influences. The building is one suited in every way for giving comfort to its inmates, and is surrounded by a country noted for its salubrity. In short, if the State were canvassed from one end to the other no more favorable point could be selected for hospital purposes.

It may be contended that Vicksburg is more centrally located as far as disease is concerned, and that its river and railroad connections will bring to that point more patients needing treatment. This may be so. But the object of a hospital is not to collect patients in a vitiated atmosphere, but to have them in a place where circumstances are favorable to recover. Those we can claim for the hospital at this point, and as it is as easy to bring patients to this point as to any other, we hope the Legislature will give the advantage of Natchez due consideration.

Whatever may be their determination, however, in regard to the location of a hospital, we hope the necessity of such an institution may appear patent to all, and the State be relieved from the imputation of being regardless of the care of those of its citizens who in sickness are unable to take care of themselves.—Natchez Democrat, 12th.

The Post.

We would call the attention of our people to the fact that the POST is now sent out to subscribers every evening from one to one and a half hours earlier than heretofore. We have also increased the number of our carriers in order that the paper may be delivered quickly. We want this fact to be known, because when it is known we are sure there will not be a family in Vicksburg that will not subscribe for the POST Even now there is not a family here but reads it; but it is much more satisfactory to subscribe and have the paper left at the house than to depend upon borrowing a neighbor's or catching a newsboy.

In regard to the latter, we are positively certain that neither the Times-Democrat or the Picayune, of New Orleans, can beat the POST in the number of newsboys. It is equivalent to pandemonium itself every evening around the EVENING POST's office when these boys collect there to get their papers. The services of a policeman are required every day to keep the boys in some kind of order. If there are any who doubt this, we refer them to our friend, Squire Lindsey, whose office is just across the hall from us. However, the boys mean no harm; they are just full of life and spirit, and get a little restive, like wild young colts, while waiting for the POST.

Natchez and the State Hospital.

It was with much pleasure the people of Natchez received a visit from the Governor of the State, Hon. Robert Lowry, and a delegation of the members of the Legislature, who visited our city in the interest of the proposed State Hospital. We are sure that all who composed this delegation left our city with pleasant impressions in regard to the hospitality of the people of Natchez, and we think they saw enough to convince them that the organized benevolence of this old city has been productive of good results to the people of the State.

It has been, we think we can claim, the object of the benevolent people of Natchez to "do good by stealth," and we think we can safely say they have "blushed to find it fame." For over three-quarters of a century there have been in our midst institutions in which that helpless class of humanity, the orphan, has been cared for and educated in habits of industry and usefulness. This charity has not been confined to the helpless ones of our own community, but has been extended to the orphans of every portion of the State and some of the adjacent States.

In the hospital establishment of this city, too supported entirely by the generosity of the people of Natchez, no suffering invalid has been turned away. Hundreds of indigent sick have been cared for who had no claim but those of common humanity upon the benevolence of this city. The building provided by the city for this purpose is one of the best in the South, and is capable of comfortably caring for probably all the sick who may be sent to it from other parts of the State. Its advantages have all been shown to the visiting delegation from the State capital, and it remains for them to decide upon its comparative merits with other points in the State.

We have in what we have said taken it for granted that the Legislature of Mississippi will determine that the indigent sick of the State shall no longer be dependent upon the charity of other States for the attention called for by ordinary humanity, and that a State Hospital will be established. We have facilities for transportation that will make it easy to

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 13, 1884.

ONE of the triple murderers at Dallas, Lafayette county, Miss., was arrested in Monre county, last week, by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Mosby, and is now in jail.

A WELL-INFORMED gentleman states that while we may have higher water this year than in 1882, there will be less overflow owing to the better condition of the levees.

THE Houston Light Guards and Mobile Rifles have decided to enter the State drill at Houston, Texas, next May, at which a prize of $5,000 is offered. The Vicksburg companies should make a note of this.

"If."

If Lowry stands up straight the people will stand up to him.—Vicksburg Herald.

"If 'ifs' and 'ands' were pots and pans, there would be no need of tinkers."

THE citizens of Aberdeen held a large meeting last Saturday at which resolutions were passed to the effect that the passage of the Railroad Supervision bill is a calamity to the State, and requesting Governor Lowry to veto it.

THE Louisville Courier-Journal says that States rights has yet a vital force and meaning with the Democratic party, and it is that doctrine that marks broadly and irreconcilably the difference between the Republican and Democratic parties.

COL. W. A. PERCY, of Greenville, is in the city to-day. He goes to Jackson to-night, to look after the levee interests in the Legislature. We trust he will be successful in getting some State legislation that will be for the benefit of the people in the levee districts.

PERSONAL attacks upon and ridicule of members of the Legislature do not convince any one that the legislators are wrong. Indeed these sort of attacks will lead thinking people to believe that their authors have no arguments—or lack the sense to make arguments—against the measures passed by the Legislature.

SENATOR VAN WYCK'S resolution instructing the Senate Committee on Postoffices to inquire whether, within twelve months, there has been any contract between the Western Union and the Baltimore and Ohio Companies looking to a consolidation, was a surprise to the Senate and was adopted without a dissenting voice last Monday.

These telegraph combinations may make a Government postal telegraph possible.

THE Washington Post (Dem.) warns the Democrats of the country that unless they repudiate the policy of the Ohio Democrats and the views of Senator-elect Payne the party will neither gain nor deserve success next year.—Vicksburg Post.

Yes, but who pays any attention to what the Washington Post says? * * * The endorsement of one such man as Dan Voorhees, will balance the denunciations of a thousand such sheets as the Washington Post.—Aberdeen Examiner.

Will the Examiner please inform us if the Washington Post is not considered the organ of the Democratic party at the National capital?

A DESTRUCTIVE flood is, with good reason, apprehended. In 1882 the people along the Mississippi and its tributaries in this State, suffered great loss and privations by the overflow. The Legislature, then in session, appropriated $15,000 for their relief, and trusted to the General Government to minister to the wants and necessities of our people. The Government was not found wanting, and made most liberal appropriations for the relief of the overflow sufferers. Troubles never come singly," and the Legislature is again in session and another overflow coming. The State Senate has appropriated $12,500 for a scheme that has been boomed and worked up from nothing, after the manner and method of a circus and menagerie combination; nearly as much as was given by the Legislature of 1882 for its destitute overflowed citizens in that year.

Now we rise to suggest that the present Legislature do as well as its predecessor, and divert this $12,500 from the New Orleans Cotton Exposition to the people and districts that may be overflowed. It is not a good idea to be calling upon the General Government to FEED our citizens, when we have money to throw away upon humbug schemes.

COL. J. L. MCCULLUM, in a graceful valedictory, retires from the YAZOO CITY Herald. Mr. Roach succeeds as editor, and has associated with him as co-proprietor and business manager, Mr. J. G. McGuire, for the past eight years connected with the Oxford Falcon. The Herald has for many years been one of the leading journals of the State, and, under the new arrangement, will add to its well earned prestige.—Liberty Herald.

Following the Leader.

They had to raise the third term cry and double team on Stone, and then they couldn't beat him until they took up Lowry. But there is not a man in the State with whom they can beat Lowry.—Vicksburg Herald.

It is generally believed that the Hon. E. Barksdale—Catharine Cole's "political Warwick of Mississippi"—whom the Herald has been so fond of denouncing, had a great deal to do with securing the nomination for Lowry and beating Stone. It was Mr. Barksdale, in the Clarion, who harped upon the "third term," and it was Mr. Barksdale that afterward led the hosts that defeated Stone in the State Convention. It is generally believed that when Mr. Barksdale became convinced that he could not secure the nomination for himself, he "named" Robert Lowry for Governor of Mississippi. The praise for this move to flank and defeat Gov. Stone was universally accorded to Mr. Barksdale at the time by his friends; and the friends of Gov. Stone blamed Mr. Barksdale for his defeat.

This little bit of history to show how nice it is now for Barksdale's candidate for Governor to be the Herald's candidate also.

During the war the soldiers and subordinates would sometimes curse and denounce their commanders, but when the time for action came they would obey orders and follow their leadership. The Herald has had the satisfaction of denouncing the great leader of the Democratic hosts of Mississippi, but is evidently supporting his plans and following his leadership in the most thorough manner that that gentleman could desire.

Another evidence of the Herald's following Barksdale's leadership may be seen in its support of Carlisle. Yesterday the Herald ridiculed the small strength of Mr. Barksdale's candidate for President, Mr. Carlisle, as shown by a canvass of the Legislature, in which the Kentucky statesman received only two votes. Mr. Barksdale, however, can claim that in addition to the two members of the Legislature following his lead in the support of Carlisle, the Herald may be found bringing up the rear of this solid phalanx with unwavering fidelity. The files of the Herald will show that it is a staunch supporter of Carlisle, and in this, as in the Governorship matter, faithfully and loyally follows the lead of Mr. Barksdale.

WE sneeringly refer the last number of Puck to the Southern Radical sheets. Puck contains a cartoon representing the Radical Senators in the attempt to put the "Bloody Shirt" machine in working order. The "machine" looks like a fire engine. Senator Hoar is tossing the engine, Senator Sherman is Pipeman, and all the other Senators are firemen. The Senators are trying to "play" on the Republican castle, which is on fire from a high tariff and a sham civil service reform. Sherman is directing the pipe to the blazing Radical castle, but alas! the hose is full of several places, beginning at 1876, 1880 and other years, and all the water is escaping, so that Sherman cannot put any on the fire. Puck thinks the Radical castle will be destroyed as the Bloody Shirt machine will work no more.—Vicksburg Herald.

From the accurate description of the picture, one of the sneeringly Radical sheets seems to have taken a pretty good sneeringly look at it.

Some of the ex-Radical Southern ex-Postmasters might also take a good look at the beautiful picture. Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—"which was P. M.," as Petroleum V. Nasby would say.

The Attorney-General in Bad Company.

The Governor and Attorney-General are talking over the railroad Bill together. The Governor is well advised, for it is well known that the Attorney-General agrees with the Herald on constitutional questions.—Vicksburg Herald.

Railroad Supervision.

This measure is certainly of doutful policy, as it will antagonize a great interest, one that is commensurate with the railroad system throughout the length and breadth of the State, and we think much beyond this limit, and that, too, without benefitting any one in proportion to the loss sustained by the public in consequence of the passage of the bill for railroad supervision. This bill like many others, must have been rushed through the House of Representatives in very great haste, and without that thought so important a measure demands. When we cast about for causes that tend to the growth and prosperity of our State, as the whole World knows, the first great object to which the mind adverts, after the agriculture of the country, is the railroads, and no class of our people are so much interested in railroads so the farmers themselves. Without them the great cotton marts and centers could not be reached by the planters without incurring an expense that would be too great to justify the continued production of Mississippi's greatest staple, and one of the largest moneyed products of the South. To oppose railroads at this age of the world betrays a profound ignorance of the causes that have brought about the present prosperity of our people. The evil sought to be corrected or averted by the passage of this bill will not be reached by legislation, and this effort will augment the burden of expenses to a fearful extent in the legal creation of a batch of new officials, whose salaries and clerks hire will in the end have to be paid by the people directly or indirectly. This thing will not be much for a mere experiment. We believe that the competition among railroads will do more towards correcting the present alleged evils than all the legislation that any of our present Legislature can devise, and at the same time continue to develop the resources of our State.—Liberty Herald.

The Stage of the Rivers.

The Ohio rose yesterday at Cincinnati above the high water of 1883, the highest ever known there. As the river is still rising, the present will undoubtedly be the greatest flood known upon the Ohio. It is to be hoped that, thanks to the precautions taken, there will be no such loss of life or property as occurred last year.

This rise is watched with the greatest interest by our people, as it affects us more or less. It was hoped until a very short time ago that we would escape any considerable rise at all this year, but the late rains in the West and the flood in the Ohio and its tributaries render high water certain. Just how high will it be? is the question that everybody is asking.

The experience of the past two years renders it comparatively easy to predict the course of the Mississippi. Last year, when the Ohio rose very rapidly, inundated Cincinnati and flooded all the Ohio river towns, it was freely predicted by the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette that the lower country would be completely inundated and New Orleans almost swept away into the Gulf; and when the water passed by us without doing damage it was very much astonished at it. Its mistake lay in thinking that a flood from the Ohio can cause a flood in the lower Mississippi. The former stream is but one of a dozen tributaries of one great river, by no means the largest of them. Of the water that passes by New Orleans not more than one-seventh is contributed by the Ohio; and as we know that a six-foot rise here doubles the outpour of the river, it will be seen that it requires several floods such as the Ohio pours into overflow our levees.

The flood of 1882 shows the condition of affairs of which our people have reason to be frightened. The heavy rains began early that year, January 1 throughout the Valley. On January 14 the Cumberland was out of its banks and a large portion of Nashville was under water. The Arkansas commenced booming about that time, as did also all the swollen streams pouring into the Mississippi. On January 15 the Signal Service predicted an overflow, and the situation looked unpromising indeed. Fresh-ets were reported throughout Mississippi, on the Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and other rivers. On February 1st the water was within two feet eight inches of the high water mark at this city; two feet six inches higher than it is to-day. This early rise prevented work on the levees, and as a consequence they were not in proper condition to receive the high water when it came; and as early as January 22 a crevasse had occurred in this State. The entire month of January was one of the rainiest ever known in this country, and without an exception every tributary of the river rose. The river was thus kept constantly brimful. About the middle of February a second rise occurred, and to this the whole lower country succumbed.

A consideration of the overflow of that year shows that the damage in the lower Mississippi was due to a combination of two causes: To the simultaneous rising of the Missouri, upper Mississippi, Ohio, Arkansas, Red and all the smaller streams; to the unusually early rising of the river, which prevented the proper work on the levees from being done, and to the following of a second flood on top of the first and before it had time to run off. Not even with this combination of circumstances would the overflow have been so bad as it was in Louisiana but for the more munificent and more a testimonial of God's bounty than his one life. We can, then, spare him here, for his mission is completed. He has been a bright and shining light for this generation, and this nation has steered by it so as to reach the harbor of peace. May he be it fitting that the light should shine more brightly in another sphere."

WOMEN'S RIGHTS	MEN'S RIGHTS.

BY AN OLD BACHELOR.

The right to do pretty much as they please.

The right to make a fuss when a fellow stays out late.

The right to blame everything on their husband's moneyloving or money-making propensities, just as it happens.

The right to turn a house topsy-turvy for three weeks every six months and call it house-cleaning.

The right to make the old man vote any way they want him to.

The right to a home, a husband and a baby.

Beecher's Tribute to Phillips.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher lectured in Tremont Temple, Boston, recently, before a large audience on the subject, "A Circuit of the Continent." He was introduced by the Rev. Wm. Burnet Wright with a few humorous words relating to the case of mistaken identity by which Mr. Beecher was reported to be listening to a play in New York Tuesday night when in reality he was resting at the Parker House in Boston. Rev. Mr. Wright said he thought the gentleman on the platform was Mr. Beecher; at any rate he would introduce him as such and leave the audience to determine.

"Yes," slowly responded the Brooklyn preacher as he walked to the front, "it is I. I am rejoiced to get back to my own identity once more. I thought I was familiar with one man in this world at any rate, and was much surprised to find that man had given me the slip and gone to New York while I was waiting here in Boston. But all's well that ends well. Now, I have been asked to give a sort of prelude to my lecture, after the style of another eminent lecturer, on the solemn yet radiant theme which at this time interests the whole country. I must not undertake it. It remains now that nothing should be said except that studious and well-balanced discourse which should give fitly the whole life of the eminent man. I would speak of the sweetness, grace and accomplishments with which his conversation was endowed. I have heard this incomparable companion, who was a lamb until he trod the platform, slay an audience and hold up certain men for public detestation, and yet the next morning, as I travelled with him on the same train, I have heard him speak most kindly and with such comments that one could never believe it was the same man who had stirred the passions of an audience. But one by one the lights go out. And yet one death begets scores of lives. When the sickle cuts the ripened grain of wheat that grain falls, but the ripened wheat scatters the seed of a hundred new heads. No one ever will have all the characteristics of Wendell Phillips. But though there be no one life equal to his, yet there will be one thousand more munificent and more a testimonial of God's bounty than his one life. We can, then, spare him here, for his mission is completed. He has been a bright and shining light for this generation, and this nation has steered by it so as to reach the harbor of peace. May he be it fitting that the light should shine more brightly in another sphere."

Thriving On One Meal a Day.

Editor of the Boston Journal:

Whether it is from the desire to follow the example and illustrate the theory of Dr. George Fordyce, the English advocate of one meal a day, or to reduce expenses, or from an honest conviction that one meal a day is all that is good for them, two men in Auburn are and have been for some time living on one meal a day. The marked difference in the physical make-up and habits of the two men and their excellent health speaks well for the theory. Holman Smith, the genial Sheriff of Androscoggin county, weighs 240 pounds. His cheeks are rosy and his eyes are always brim full of fun. He is the picture of perfect health, and looks like a man of vigorous man in the county, and yet he eats only a moderate meal and never drinks liquor of any kind. He says the habit agrees with him, and he feels better than when he ate three meals a day. Mr. Silver, the inventor of the water motor, is a tall, spare man, rather pale, and it can be seen that he would not eat nothing till between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening. His opinion is that his general health is better than when he ate three meals a day, and that he is as strong. His long experience has given him ample time to test the effect on himself, and he is a firm believer in the doctrine of one meal a day.

The Supreme Court of Tennessee has decided that a juror who had formed an opinion from rumor, but stated he could divest himself of the opinion and from the evidence decide the fair and impartial justice between the State and the prisoner, that he did not know whether the persons who talked to him were witnesses or not, nor that he knew whether they heard the evidence, that his opinion was fixed from rumor, and it would take evidence favorable to the prisoner to remove it, etc.
The Court held that he was a competent juror. Who does not hear some version of the killing of a human being? Everybody. THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 36 monthly installments. No better opportunity to obtain a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

MR. AND MRS. JULIUS HOERNER, of Vicksburg, accompanied Mrs. John H. Hanna to this city, arriving here yesterday.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TRAINS on the V., S. & P. Railroad continue to run on schedule time, but it is feared that the high water may prevent their running in a few days.

A LARGE shipment of goods was received by the Anchor Line steamer City of Cairo this morning, consigned to E. A. Forbes & Co., the new grocery house.

MR. J. I. BARNES and wife, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jaquith, of this city, departed for St. Louis this morning on the Anchor Line steamer City of Cairo.

THE price of admission to the interesting St. Valentine's Fete, at Magnolia Hall to-night and to-morrow night, has been reduced to the very moderate sum of 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. The Hall should be crowded.

THE best sewing machine in the world for families is the celebrated Wheeler & Wilson No. 8, of which Mr. C. Edwards is agent in Vicksburg. Mr. Edwards is a gentleman who knows how to deal with his customers, and they are always glad to see him. He has the best machine in this or any other market.

WM. H. BUTLER, who goes under a number of aliases, was arrested a few days since at Rayville, La., by Special Officer Price. He is wanted in various places, one of which is Memphis, on the charges of forgery and obtaining money under false pretenses. He represented himself to be a detective at Rayville, having played that dodge successfully at other places.

TO-MORROW is St. Valentine's Day—a day that is looked forward to with more interest than any other in the year by those whose hearts have been touched with the tender passion. J. F. Baum & Co., have an immense assortment of beautiful and appropriate missives—some of them of extraordinary magnificence, and all of them suitable for the happy day.

WE learn that Bruce Banks, Esq. is preparing a bill to be introduced in the Legislature in a few days, to reorganize, remodel and reform the criminal laws of the State. Such mooted subjects as "malice expressed and implied," "the presumptions from the use of a deadly weapon," "inherent probabilities," etc. will be elucidated and explained. Mr. Banks is among our most prominent young criminal lawyers, and no doubt his bill will be well considered.

No housekeeper who has flavored a cake, pudding or cream with Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts, will ever return to the use of the cheap Flavoring Extracts that flood the market. One trial will satisfy that for purity and delicious natural flavor Dr. Price's are alone in the market.

Our Sidewalks.

It is not generally the case that towns of any size ever pattern after smaller places, but if our city authorities were to appoint some one from the street and sidewalk Committee to visit our little neighboring town Yazoo City, and investigate the mode of making sidewalks up there, an idea might be "caught on to" that would prove greatly beneficial to Vicksburg.

Maj. P. M. Doherty is the Chairman of the Yazoo City Street and Sidewalk Committee. If we had such a man as he is on our Street Committee, we would have both streets and sidewalks that would not be as our's are, a disgrace to common sense and civilization itself.

Vicksburg Building Association

There will be a regular monthly meeting of the Directors and Stockholders of the Vicksburg Building Association to be held at their Hall, over the Washington Engine House this (Wednesday) evening, Feb. 13th, 1884, at 7:30 o'clock.

Saint Valentine's Fete,

Commencing to-night, promises to be one of the most interesting entertainments given here this season. It has been gotten up by the ladies of Holy Trinity Church, and this fact alone assures its success. The price of admission is only 25 cents; children 10 cents. The Fete opens to-night, and will continue two nights. Don't fail to attend.

The Mad Ohio.

The Signal Office reports give the following as the condition of the Ohio river at 7 o'clock this morning:

Cincinnati, 69 feet 4 inches.
Louisville, 45 feet 4 inches.
Cairo, 47 feet 7 inches.

The river continues to rise at all of the above points, and is now three feet higher at Cincinnati than ever known.

Timber Capitalists Coming to this Section.

Mr. M. S. Baldwin, of Chicago, a large dealer in timber lands, who owns a large quantity of land on Sunflower river, and who was with the party of timber men that passed through our city not long since, writes to Commodore H. Parisot, from Chicago, under date of February 19th, that there are about two hundred persons from Chicago and a number from other points on route to this place by the Illinois Central railroad. They are going up the Sunflower river to look at the lands with a view to investing. Mr. Baldwin accompanies the party. They were to leave Chicago on the 12th inst., and are expected to reach this city on the 14th. Mr. Baldwin wrote Commodore Parisot to try and have the steamer Headlight wait over for them.

Attempted Bridge-Cutting on the L., N. O. & T. R. R.

A dastardly and cowardly attempt to destroy the L., N. O. & T. Railroad bridge over Rolling Fork, at Rolling Fork Station, was made about 2 o'clock Monday morning. The particulars, as gathered from the reports received at the L., N. O. & T. office here, are as follows:

At the hour above mentioned the bridge watchman discovered a man trying to saw away the piles supporting the new bridge. He was taken charge of by the watchman before he had done any serious damage. From the nature of the attempt it seems that the culprit desired to saw the bridge timbers in such a manner that the structure would fall when a train should run upon it. The man, whose name is Henry Booth, was arrested and put under a $250 bond for his appearance before the Court next Monday.

It is the impression that the man was instigated by interested parties who claim that the bridge obstructs navigation.

The railroad company is determined to prosecute this and all similar cases to the full extent of the law.

Had the culprit succeeded in his designs, not only would the bridge have been destroyed but in all probability some lives would have been lost, and he certainly richly deserves severe punishment.

On Monday the case will come before the authorities at Rolling Fork, when some interesting developments may be expected.

Coming to the Front.

That is what men best fitted for important duties, whether it be in peace or war, are continually doing. And in business matters it is the same way—those who have the capacity and experience, and nerve, and laudable ambition, are coming to the front and carrying on the great business enterprises of the day. We are led to these reflections by the remarkable success that has attended the new and sterling firm of Switzer, Newwitter & Co., in the dry goods business of Vicksburg. Only a year or so ago this firm of energetic young men started the New York store in a modest way, but every one could see that they meant "business," and they had the capital, and experience gained by long years of service in the leading dry goods houses of Vicksburg, to render them formidable competitors. Some people said their store was rather too far up town, but somehow or other the ladies, and the public generally, flocked there, because they were sure of prompt, intelligent and polite attention, and that they would have a new and complete stock of goods to select from. That business of the firm has gone on increasing from day to day until now they are compelled to secure a larger store to accommodate it. This they have secured—the fine store erected by the celebrated firm of Scharff Bros. especially for a retail dry goods establishment, and at present occupied by Tonella & Brennan. The latter firm will move out in a short time, and then the fine building will be thoroughly over hauled, painted, plastered and fitted up for the dry goods business of Switzer, Newwitter & Co.

Preparatory to moving within the next few weeks, it may be naturally expected that the firm will desire to move as few of their goods a possible and therefore will offer bargains that in their line that are never obtainable in Vicksburg except in cases of removal, fire, or failure.

We take pleasure in calling attention to their large advertisement on the first page of this issue. We like to advertise such solid and substantial firms, because it shows that our paper is appreciated by the live business men of this community. And now mark what we say: Switzer, Newwitter & Co. are going to the front as the leading dry good house of Vicksburg.

New Ginghams at ARTHUR JACOB'S. f12

Hardscrabble Levee.

Mr. J. P. Kennedy, late manager of the Kemp Levee, is in the city to-day, and he brings the following news in regard to the levee at Hardscrabble:

Three hundred and fifty convicts are now at work on the Hardscrabble Levee, and about three hundred other laborers. The hired laborers are quitting as fast as they can be paid off, and the force is very inadequate. Mr. Kennedy says that the water will be over the bank by to-morrow, and it cannot be prevented. There is 1,500 feet that has not yet been worked upon. The residents of the country thereabout have a sorrowful outlook before them, and they certainly are in a very bad predicament. The laborers struck for higher wages on Monday, and their demands being refused is the reason of their quitting work. At Kemp a great portion of the new works are under water, but the old levee is still intact. The laborers intended striking at that point also, and the levee will be left in a bad fix. The Government officers are doing all in their power to influence the laborers to remain and finish their work; with poor success however. It is to be hoped that the men will return to work as otherwise they leave the country unprotected.

The Rothschild Case.

Mr. S. Rothschild, of Memphis, who was sentenced a few days since to three years imprisonment for obtaining goods on false pretenses, is well known in Vicksburg, having resided here for many years and carried on the auction and clothing business at different times. The following are the particulars of the case:

On the 22d of last November Rothschild made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, but was indicted on the testimony of the traveling salesman of Hess & Schleisser, of New York, for obtaining goods under false pretenses. The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and fixed the term of imprisonment in the penitentiary at three years. The testimony adduced at the trial was to the effect that Rothschild purchased about $1,200 worth of diamonds from the salesman of Hess & Schleisser on the 16th of November, only six days previous to the assignment, but on taking an inventory of the stock, the diamonds were not found, they having been disposed of in a manner not made satisfactory to the jury. A motion for a new trial and arrest of sentence was made by the defendant's counsel, which will be argued on Saturday.

House Bill to prevent scalcage of baled cotton, was referred.

House.

An Act to stereotype the Supreme Court Reports and fix the salary of the Reporter thereof passed.

An Act to prevent the sale of toy pistols, passed

An Act to pay the expenses of prisoners to the place of trial, passed.

The penitentiary question is before the House. Some want to increase the salary of the management, while others are throwing hot shot into them. McLeod, of Hinds, says wholesale murder has been going on among the prisoners during the past two years. Many hint of very foul play, and in one instance impeachment was talked of.

The Government Plan for the Relief of the Flood Sufferers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The Secretary of War is taking active measures looking to the immediate relief of the sufferers from the overflow of the Ohio and its tributaries in accordance with the act appropriating $300,000 for that purpose.

Orders have been issued to-day for Gen. Amos Beckwith, Assistant Commissary General, stationed at St. Louis, to proceed at once to Cincinnati, where he will have general charge of the distribution of the supplies. He will establish his headquarters at Cincinnati, and act directly under orders from the Secretary of War.

Orders were also issued for the purchase of supplies and the charter of a sufficient number of boats, to distribute them where most needed. It has also been arranged that an officer of the army shall accompany each boat and superintend the issue of supplies. The general plan of relief depended upon is the same as that pursued in affording relief to the sufferers from the overflow in the Mississippi River last year. In order to give personal attention to this subject Secretary Lincoln has abandoned his proposed trip to Chicago.

A Railroad that Offers Prizes to its Employees.

Among the neatest section-houses in the country are those situated along the line of the Morgan Louisiana and Texas Railroad between New Orleans and Vermillionville. The buildings are not only neat, compact and well built, but considerable pains have been taken to render them as ornamental as paint and tasty architecture could make them. In order to render the properties of the country still more attractive, the company has been in the habit of awarding a prize to the section-house having the prettiest surroundings, and the consequence is that nearly every one of them is surrounded by flower garden, some of them very beautiful.

The section bosses, and even the hands, manifest great pride in their various sections to gain the prize which is awarded every year, exists among the various gangs.

The best track is also made the subject of competition, a prize being also given for this. The company also offer a premium to the section on whose section the least number of cattle have been killed. Some of the other roads offer similar prizes.—Pitayune.

ABUSE OF CONVICTS.

Report of House Committee on Penitentiary.

Mr. Speaker—Your Committee on Penitentiary have had under consideration the present system of punishing and imprisoning the convicts in the State of Mississipi, the prison houses, leasing system and treatment of the same, and while they have been able in some instances to trace the results of the management in some of the camps, want of time and disposition on the part of the guards at the different points to evade process and of sub-lessees to retard thorough investigation and even examination, have done much to delay and even prevent your Committee from making as full and perfect an investigation as we had hoped could be done, and the necessities of the case demands. They beg leave to report as follows:

The number of convicts for 1882-3 on hand are 771, not including county convicts in the walls, and of this number we have to report the startling fact that 217 have died and are reported as dead, a list of the names of whom and at what camps they died is hereto annexed, and marked exhibit "A," for your information, which means a death rate of 15 7-12 per cent. per annum. This includes the death rate of all convicts from one year to life, but when you eliminate the shorter terms and take the per cent. of the long sentenced men, there are about 65 in each 100 who die and never live out their time.

A thorough examination has been made of the penitentiary and all of its buildings, workings, etc., in the State capital, and we report the same neat in all of its compartments and well kept; the buildings and grounds in good condition, save some repairs for machinery and a more commodious hospital needed, if the leasing system is to be kept up, inasmuch as the convicts, when sick, are returned in great numbers to the walls by the sublessees for attention.

The prisoners confined in the walls are well fed and cared for, comfortably clad and doing as well as men in confinement well could do, the cases of acute diseases being very few and the death rate remarkable small; the guards and officers seem to be very humane and much beloved by the prisoners.

This committee has taken quite an amount of testimony on the leasing system, sub-letting, etc., as now adopted by the laws of the State; and we have deliberately concluded our system is even worse than the old English plan of letting out prisoners as a franchise, and that crimes have been committed in the name of our laws, more cruel and offensive than in Fleet and Marshalsea by Huggins, Bainbridge, Corbett and Acton under this English system. While we admit that the State prison has been run without expense to the State and in fact at a profit of $——, yet we but say that this has been done at the expense of human lives—the lives of helpless, manacled human beings and this money can only be regarded, as it is due the State, or lies in her Treasury, as blood money, and can but recommend its expenditure in a manner to relieve the present convict system of this State and removing this cursed, blotted page from our State history, and to relieve our convict system of this just reproach; that the punishment of common larceny or the small felonies is equal to capital punishment, and this penalty imposed by the hand of the law is administered by irresponsible and dastardly cowards of the worst character and meanest instincts without the least semblance of law.

Investigation shows the lessees to be humane and generous men, who, upon occasions when the cruelties of their underlings have come to their ears, have promptly punished or discharged them; but this committee is compelled to say that as a general rule the officers under their sub-leases as carefully as they might have done; and that a close examination into the treatment of the prisoners at law and their lease required, would have caused them to annul and cancel many of their sub-leases.

Those having control and charge of our convict labor, both on farms and public works, have used the most inhuman and uncommon modes of punishment and totally without authority of law, often "spuling" the prisoner until he would faint, by the lash used on the naked back, while the sufferer was held by four strong men, holding each a hand or a foot, stretched out over the frozen ground or over stumps and logs and beaten often with 300 stripes at a time, which more than once it is thought resulted in the death of the convict; men unable to work have been driven to the death and have even died when fettered in the chain gang.

The question of food for these men is not one of the numbered crimes generally, as the rule seems to be to feed well, and then run them as long as they could stand up. But when working in the swamps or fields they were refused pure water and were driven to drink out of the sloughs or plow furrows in the fields in which they labored.

One instance of this being on the N. O. & N. E. R. R. where the owners were unable to get contractors to work at a given point known as Casey swamp, un commonly hard work and unhealthy. They hired from the sub-lessees the labor of the convicts at $1.75 per head per day, to do this work. They were placed in this swamp, in water ranging to their knees in almost a nude state, spading in canoy and roofy ground in bare feet, chained together by chains that fretted into the flesh, compelled to attend to the calls of nature, in this line as they stood chained day in and day out, and their food in this and them to drink the water in which they were compelled to deposit their excrement.

The cages on both public works and on plantations are of the rudest and most unhealthy character, made by setting wooden posts into the ground on end and covered by some matched—usually third floor is size, and in the structure from seventy-five to one hundred convicts, wet cold and dirty were huddled together, and the stench from the filth accumulations so offensive as in more instances than one the buzzard and carrion crows constantly hovered over them.

In other instances many convicts who were sub-leased in lots, from exposure and ill-treatment have been badly crippled, and it is feared in many instances their hurts are permanent by losing toes and contracting foot maladies, chilblains or arising from frost bite. In fact the system of leasing out the convicts under the laws of this State has opened the gate so wide for crimes to be committed against this class of people, that in many instances it has been taken advantage of, in fact the subletting system is so utterly horrible that the Committee regard it as improper to place before this honorable body any more of its horrors than the results of this system and to recommend such legislation as it may deem proper.

As a committee we recommend that for the present there be a law passed increasing the salary of the Superintendent and adding to his duties by requiring him to visit each of the camps monthly or oftener if necessity requires, or the Governor of this State—also giving him power to annul and cancel sub-contracts and report and prosecute to conviction, all inhuman, barbarous or cruel and unusual treatment of said prisoners by the guards or lessee and the passage of a law prescribing the pains and penalties to be visited upon them upon conviction. They recommend a law be passed requiring the State to purchase lands in at least two others places in the State for the erection of prisons and farms in different portions of the State and the working of the convicts on the State plantations under the eye and supervision of bonded State officers, and that the money now on hand belonging to the Penitentiary fund, and the amount required to be paid in and now due be used that end. They advise that certain penalties prescribed for minor offences be so fixed that while they will still remain effective and certain our Penitentiary may not be filled with crimes minor in their nature.

They have been informed that the firm of Hamilton, Allen & Co., the original lessees, has been dissolved by mutual consent, and that the senior member of said firm has bought out his said partner and they deem it important that a new bond should be executed to this behalf.

Respectfully,

JEFF. WILSON, Chairman.

The Queen's Diary.

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The Queen's new book has been distributed to the press. It consists of a disconnected diary from Aug. 21, 1863, to September, 1878, with a long gap from October, 1879, to the final date, covering the period of transition from the administration of Beaconsfield to that of Gladstone.

The entire book is devoted to domestic and family affairs, and the political allusions are only incidental. The illustrations are numerous and include portraits of the Queen and the Princesses Eleanor, Louise and Beatrice. There are also portraits of Grant, the Queen's body servant, and John Brown, her attendant. The Queen's collies, "Sharp" and "Noble," and several views of scenes in the Highlands from sketches by the Princess Beatrice are included.

The book is dedicated to the "Loyal Highlanders" and especially to the memory of her "faithful friend and attendant, John Brown."

The Queen reviews events and impressions with great distinctness. She records the building of the memorial cairn to Prince Albert, the engagement of the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise, the receipt of the news of the death in Zululand of the Prince Imperial of France. Her grief at this occurrence is strongly marked, as is also the apprehension she experienced for the safety of the Duke of Connaught, Prince Arthur, during the Egyptian campaign.

The Queen closes the book with an eloquent and touching tribute to Brown.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 14, 1884.

THOMAS KINSELLA, the editor of the Brooklyn Eagle, died last Monday after a sickness of three months.

WE print to-day the very interesting report of the House committee of investigation on the treatment of leased convicts. It shows a horrible state of affairs, which the Legislature should promptly remedy.

A BILL has passed the Mississippi Senate to continue the office of Commissioner of Immigration and Agriculture, with a salary of $2250, and $250 for traveling expenses, and instruct the Commissioner to work to every advantage in the interest of the World's Cotton Exposition at New Orleans.

A DEMOCRATIC organ in Maine declares that the Democracy of that State is a unit, "in demanding a purely revenue tariff." To this an independent journal replies that it has yet to see the first Democrat engaged in lumbering, manufacturing or any industrial pursuit who is not in favor of protection. It concludes that "the blundering and cussedness of the Democratic leaders are likely to give that party another twenty-five years of defeat in which they can talk of 'effersonian principle."

IT seems to us that Hon. J. Floyd King seriously misunderstands the position occupied by the Valley States in general and Louisiana in particular, relative to the question of river improvement.—Times-Democrat.

And yet Speaker Carlisle appointed this newspaper statesman to be chairman of an important committee. The Times-Democrat makes the broad assertion that Gen. King does not know the wishes of his own State in regard to river improvement. This is the statesman the Vicksburg Herald has been booming into prominence for years. Speaker Carlisle is not entitled to a great deal of credit for judgment and discrimination.

THE Manning-Chalmers case is still hanging over the country. The more light is shed on the subject the more palpable grow the reasons for an immediate recognition by the House of Gen. Chalmers' claim. —Evening Post.

If so-called Democratic papers would give the new 'light' which they have discovered, instead of pronouncing in favor of Chalmers and judging for Congress, they would at least appear more respectably. By the way, is Chalmers still editing a Vicksburg paper?—Holly Springs South.

We give some new light on the subject in another article. We cannot answer for the whole city as to whether Chalmers is still editing a paper in Vicksburg. We do know that he is not editing this one, and never has edited it. Gen. Chalmers did edit a nondescript paper called the Commercial, in this city some years ago, and infused a little life into it. Chalmers may be an excellent Congressman, but he could never get up a newspaper as good as the VICKSBURG POST, and the South knows it.

The Mississippi Contested Case.

The Chalmers-Manning case was up in the House yesterday. The majority report of the Committee on Elections declared that on the prima facie case neither of the contestants was entitled to the seat. Turner, of Georgia, chairman of the Committee, said it was the duty of the Committee to inquire into the allegations made by Chalmers denying Manning's prima facie right. This inquiry satisfied the majority of the Committee that Manning had no right to the seat notwithstanding he held the certificate of election, and, so far, it is a victory for Chalmers. The minority of the Committee reported in favor of "not going behind the Governor's certificate." The case went over until to-day.

Many Democrats in Congress were very anxious to "go behind the returns" in the Presidential election of 1876. Now, some of them desire to consider the Governor's certificate of election unassailable.

It seems strange to us that the Democratic majority in the House should hesitate and blunder on this plain case—their hesitation is in itself a blunder. Manning acknowledges that Chalmers received a majority of votes, and that the certificate or election was given to him by the worst sort of chicanery. Manning alleges, however, that Chalmers received financial aid from Federal officials to secure his election. But here comes along Springer, of Illinois, who avers that he and other Democratic Congressmen gave money to secure Manning's election.

There is a very bad odor about this case; it is discreditable to Mississippi, and the sooner the House sets the matter right the better it will be for the National Democratic party.

The Lien Law.

Our dispatch from Jackson yesterday noted that the bill in reference to the Lien Law had been brought to life again in the House. If our memory is correct this bill to repeal the law passed the Senate by a decided majority, and was lost in the House by a tie vote. We are glad to see that the House will consider this question again, for it is a very important one. The repeal of the law, giving one or two years for the repeal to go into effect, would conduce to the welfare, prosperity and best interest of all classes.

The evils and disadvantages of the law are numerous and important. Its operations tend to anything but a prosperous condition of affairs among the farming class, although it may and does often afford temporary relief to those embarrassed and in need of assistance. But only in occasional instances is this relief of a permanent benefit.

By the very nature of a mortgage deed of trust contract—involving risks on good seasons, health, labor troubles, and a thousand other minor matters of more or less importance to the final settlement, not to include the probable dishonesty of one party to the contract, which, on account of our numerous irresponsible colored population, is of itself no slight consideration—it is impossible to sustain the system under ordinary and common business rules and maintain an equal degree of justice—calculating and considering the ultimate results—to both parties. To be more explicit, the merchant takes too many risks in advancing supplies to a farmer on a mortgage deed of trust to permit him to furnish his goods at an ordinary per cent. of profit. He advances money on a something that does not exist; and besides the too general, and we may say almost universal, disposition to make the most out of any advantageous circumstance, he must necessarily demand an enormous per cent. of profit to balance the extraordinary risk he takes. And every one who pays his account at the end of the year pays a pro rata of an estimated loss to the merchant on bad debts, calculated at the beginning of the season, and apportioned and added to the general rate of profit. It may be said that this is an unfair assumption; but it is perfectly natural that the merchant should sustain losses; that he should look for and calculate on such, and that he should take advantage of the opportunity to secure himself against them by a general advance on supplies furnished. It may be contended that this rule holds good in other business, and therefore loses its potency as an argument against the lien law. But such is not the case. In other classes of trade those only are trusted who are known to be honest, or not known to be dishonest, while under the lien law any and all classes, with a prospect of making a crop, can get advances, under, of course, certain conditions of assurety; and here occurs a manifest injustice and unfairness of the system. One who is known to be perfectly honest and reliable is put upon the same plane and made to pay the exorbitant interest and profit as one on whose trade the enormous risk is involved, and whose dishonesty creates the risks for which the honest farmer is compelled to pay. And thus by every rule of trade by which business must be conducted under this law, prices are placed higher and higher, and a rate of profit and interest established which no farmer can pay and prosper. Ten per cent. is good interest, but there is not a farmer in Mississippi procuring his supplies by deed of trust on his crop who pays less than twenty-five per cent. No class can thrive under such circumstances, and no law is beneficial that encourages and maintains such a system. The too frequent consequence is that the farmer goes deeper in debt each year until his home, farm, stock, and everything he possesses is absorbed by the fearful cost of the deed of trust credit.

The accumulation of large quantities of land by single individuals and firms is one of the dangerous results of the system. The hope of the great mass of agriculturists in this country is small farms, and it is no slight cause of uneasiness to see the land of the State gradually concentrating in the possession of capitalists and men who hold it for purely speculative purposes, as it is surely doing under the operations of the lien law.

One of the greatest injustices inflicted by the law is the disadvantageous position in which it places the day laborers on the farms. The day laborer is compelled to wait until the end of the season for his pay, and whatever he needs during the year he, having neither money nor credit, is compelled to procure on his employer's account, and is thus forced to pay an exorbitant credit price for goods for which he has already paid in labor—the ready equivalent of cash. The farmer is compelled to secure himself by charging the laborer such prices as the merchant charges him, and the laborer is powerless to protect himself by reason of his inability to procure what he needs from any other source. Thus the system visits its iniquities upon every one with any connection with a farm on which a crop is made under the mortgage law.

To-morrow we will discuss the subject from another standpoint.

ENGLAND ought to take some one of her size when she gets up a fight.—Picayune.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New Mississippian nominates Maj. Inge for Governor. Under all the circumstances in the case we think him a suitable candidate, and believe that he could be elected triumphantly.—Greenville Review.

Mr. Inge does seem to be looming up in the gubernatorial horizon. If Governor Lowry should veto the supervision bill there will be a square issue between them. If the Governor approves it Inge can claim the most credit by reason of his emphatic and decided course in contrast with the rather non-committal way Mr. Lowry treated the subject in his message. Inge's friends may, and no doubt will, assert, if the Governor approves the bill, that he could not withstand the pressure of the big majority in the Legislature, led by the Speaker of the House.

Now we are utterly opposed to Mr. Inge's course in regard to railroad supervision, but will suggest if he puts his foot firmly down on the New Orleans Cotton Exposition scheme to filch money from the State Treasury, he will take a big step in the right direction. Gov. Lowry made a mistake, under the circumstances, in championing this scheme and recommending an appropriation for it.

Mr. Inge has also an opportunity to make an excellent record on the Penitentiary question, by pushing measures looking to a radical reform in the convict leasing system.

THE VICKSBURG POST is booming against the convict system and its abuses. Some of its articles concerning convict treatment are hot as pepper and cutting as a two-edged sword. Let reform be the watchword.—State Ledger.

Judge Reagan's Defeat.

In the House Committee on Commerce Judge Reagan is defeated on the general principles which should govern the projected legislation for the regulation of interstate commerce. The points are briefly summarized by our Washington correspondent this morning.

The views of the fifteen members of the Committee were widely divergent. They have worked faithfully, designing to evolve something, if possible. The Republican members of the Committee include Judge Peters of Kansas, Gov. Stewart of Vermont, and Gov. Long of Massachusetts, all experienced lawyers, and O'Neill of Pennsylvania, whose congressional experience covers almost twenty years. All six of the Republicans favored a commission, and were supported by three of the Democrats, probably Woodward of Wisconsin, Seymour of Connecticut, and possibly Turner of Kentucky—the details have not yet reached us. All the members of the Committee are lawyers except Barksdale of Mississippi, who is a journalist, and Dunn of Arkansas, who is a planter.

Reagan's bill was stringent—not too stringent—but considerable opposition was invoked by some of its features, most by the provision giving to the former or prosecutor of a case half the amount recovered for violation of the law. This was perhaps injudicious, as calculated to provoke unjust accusations. But opposition was also visited on provisions of Reagan's bill which were good —for instance, the prohibition of a greater charge for a short haul than for a long one. No one would advocate a charge proportioned to distance—there are solid reasons why a car should be run from New York 1,000 miles west as cheaply as one should be run 200 miles west, but the railroad magnates are accustomed to make non-competing points pay the expenses of cut-throat wars of rates at competing points, and that game can be blocked by prohibition proposed by Reagan.

The Judge desired to prohibit pooling between competing points; how this proposition fared in committee we cannot say, but suppose it is not yet settled.

Judge Reagan's hostility to the commission plan probably rests on the Texas theory (and practice) that fixed legislation is better. It is only fair to say that the commission plan, which has achieved great success, is yet on trial, and there are plenty of reasons in favor of the Texas plan. The Judge said in Congress a couple of years ago that the railroads can always combine their influence either directly or indirectly, to influence the making of the appointment of commissioners, by whomsoever appointed. We are not ready, however, to concede the question entirely. In Mississippi we do not anticipate such a complaisant commission as California, Illinois and Wisconsin have complained of; nor have the commissioners of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama proved recreant duty.

But the main course is to inaugurate a course of practical experimentation. The constitution forbids the regulation of interstate commerce by the States, and Congress cannot forever remain inactive in the premises without incurring the odium of suspicion. It is more important that some law be passed than that any particular plan be embodied in it. If Judge Reagan is beaten on certain points, and if hereafter he shall be justified by experience, execution of the law will follow. Meantime he is not beaten on the question in general; much is due to him for the ability and zeal with which he has pursued the subject in the face of every obstacle.—Picayune.

THE Governor recommends that the public printing be let out to the lowest bidder. Are his suggestions to be entirely disregarded? The public printing in Ohio has been let out to the lowest bidder for ten years, and has given great satisfaction. It would be no experiment to try it in this State, as there are at least a dozen offices that can do the work as well as the public printer.—State Ledger.

THERE is good promise that corn, oats and hogs will be scarce and dear next Fall. Southern farmers should make a note of this before it is too late and plant a fair breadth of land with corn and oats and look out for hogs. This is good advice every year and is likely to prove especially wholesome advice this year.—Avalanche.

The Free Pass Bill.

An Act to prohibit officers from riding on Railroads without paying the usual fare.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, That it shall be a misdemeanor for any person holding an office of honor, trust or profit in this State, to travel upon any railroad in this State, without paying, absolutely and without any guise, trick, subterfuge, or evasion whatever, the same fare required of passengers generally, and further, that it shall be a like misdemeanor for any officer or employee, or for any person acting for them, or any railroad, to permit any such officer in his State, to travel upon any such railroad in this State, without paying fare as herein provided.

Be it further provided, That any person found guilty, under this Act, shall be punished as follows, to-wit: For the first offence, by a fine not less than twenty-five dollars; for the second offence, by a fine not less than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not less than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonments; and for the third such offence by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, and by imprisonment in the county jail not less than thirty days.

Provided, nothing herein contained shall prevent any railroad company from transporting freight or persons free of charge, or at reduced rates, for any religious, charitable or benevolent purpose, or for any industrial exposition of a public nature.

Medical Codes of Ethics.

The meeting of the State Medical Society at Albany this week has revived the trite controversy of the old and new codes in medical practice. According to the old code no member of the so-called reorganized school of medicine—that of the Allopaths—is allowed to meet in consultation with a physician of the newer curative school. Should he do so he would be ostracised by his brethren. The new code holds that a physician should be entitled to consult with any other physician from whom he can glean any new ideas or any more intelligent diagnosis of the case.

There can be only one side to the question in the mind of the public. The paramount duty of the physician is to heal and cure. When the life of a human being is in danger, it is not a matter of "schools" as to how that life may, possibly, be saved. When a man is suffering from a wound, it matters not how the wound is healed, whether by Allopathy, Homeopathy, Hydropathy, or any other of the "thys," so long as it is cured. There is a case on record in this city where a man died in one room while two Allopathic physicians were discussing with a Homœopathist in the next room as to the right of the latter to act in consultation with them.

All this is wrong—totally and absolutely wrong. In all branches of surgical and medical knowledge great strides have been made. It should be the duty of every intelligent physician to avail of every discovery that may be made, no matter to what "schools" the credit of it belongs. There was a time when bleeding was the universal panacea for all ills. In that lusty age it was necessary to reduce a patient's vitality. Now, with the constant physical and mental-strain that is put upon men, it is found necessary not to reduce but to improve the system. Although the fogies may adhere to the old methods, common sense says that they are exploded. A man lying in a bed of sickness, does not give the turn of his finger for the pro and con of it. He wants to get well. The curative art should be eclectic. It should take all good wherever it can be found. While these doctors have been coupling in Albany over their codes and their formulas, there has been sickness in New York. The weather of the past week will increase this sickness. These doctors are undoubtedly honest and conscientious men. They mean well after their own lights. But they seem to lack the light of common sense, which should teach them that dogma is not doctrinal and that bodily cure is not effected by bigoted obtuseness.—N. Y. Star.

A Suggestion.

It is understood that there will be a proposition before the Legislature to provide by law that all the Judges of the Circuit Court of this State rotate once at alternate all around and over the State. That is, requiring them each to hold one term of court in each district, until they have each presided at one term of every county. The Judge of the first district to preside in the second; the Judge of the second, in like manner, in the third, and so on until they all get round again to their own respective districts; then again to hold one term in each county and then go again as before.

It will, in the first place, be very equitable to the Judges, giving each a term at the hardest and most laborious district, and each a term at the easy one. It will enable them to become acquainted all over the State, so that if any of them have ambition for future promotion, as doubtless some have, they may get acquainted with the bar and people. It will be equitable to the people, by requiring every county to bear equally the evils of any Judge who may be ignorant or inattentive, and allowing it the benefit of any blessings. It will take the Judges away from their local and personal prejudices and partialities. It will put them all on their good behavior. In short the reasons why such a system might exist are numerous. Some may think it would be hard on the Judges in some respects. But not so. There is scarcely any place to which they may go in the State, not accessible to telegraph, nor from which the Judge cannot get home, no matter in what county he may be, in 24 or 36 hours.—State Ledger.

HOT Springs has been for years terrorized by a gang of ruffians under the leadership of the Flynns and the civilized world will agree with the News in its opinion that these thugs should be convinced of the errors of their ways.—Avalanche.

LET Judge Brien's jury law have a careful investigation—no law on the Statute books needs overhauling so much as the present law. Its abuse is the thing complained of—not its proper use. Grand and petty juries have great power, and all the safe guards that can be devised should be thrown around them in their selection and while engaged on duty in the Courts.—Clarion.

NOTES.

Owing to a large freight and bad weather the Hard Cash did not get off until 12 o'clock to-day.

The elegant electric light side-wheel packet Will S. Hays, will leave to-morrow at 10 a.m. for Memphis and all way landings.

Owing to the high water the landing at Skipwith's is removed to the old resting point immediately in front of Smith's.

The City of Vicksburg will be the Anchor Line boat in. She will return to St. Louis leaving Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

The DeSmet will be in to-night, and will receive freight and passengers for points as high as Greenwood to-morrow until 5 p.m., her leaving hour.

The new steamer Ed. Richardson will leave this evening, and leaves to-morrow p.m. for Natchez, New Orleans and all way landings. W. C. O'Hara is her agent.

Owing to a very big trip, and also a big steamboman asking her to wait for a large number of passenger from Chicago, the Delight did not leave here until this evening.

Capts. Riddle and Moffett, U. S. Inspectors of boilers and hulls, gave papers to the steamer Capt. Miller and Golden Rule. They will inspect the steamer Deer Creek to-day.

The Deer Creek is receiving to-day, and will leave this evening at 4 o'clock, for all points on Yazoo river and Tobula river.

She will take several barges and tow back a big load of seed.

The City of Helena arrived this morning from St. Louis, with 3,600 packages of freight and a good list of passengers. She returns this evening, leaving as soon as freight is discharged.

The big Ed. Richardson will be in to-night from New Orleans, and will leave to-morrow for the Crescent City and all intermediate points. On February 22nd the Richardson will leave here on a big Washington Grand Excursion trip and will visit the sights in New Orleans one day, to give excursionists ample time to see and enjoy the Mardi Gras festivities. W. C. O'Hara is her agent.

Capt. Chas. D. Shaw arrived early this morning from Natchez, and returned to that city leaving at 8 a.m. Capt. Chas. D. Shaw, who is in command, says that his is a regular fixture now is the trade. She will leave here every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and will make close connections with boats going north and south, for Memphis, St. Louis and all points above.

The Josephine arrived at 6 o'clock this morning with an immense trip, leaving the entire Iowa outfit of C. C. Clark & Co, which includes 50 head of stock. She had also brought down a lot of freight for Lake Washington which will be transferred to the Tribune at this place. She also had 50 tons of cotton for New Orleans, and 9 for Natchez, also a lot of seed for town. She returns to-day, going as high as Greenville, leaving a 5 o'clock this evening.

CLIPPINGS.

N. O. Picayune, 12th: The sale of the shares of stock in the steamers John W. Cannon and Ed. Richardson, belonging to the estate of the late Capt. John W. Cannon, took place yesterday at the St. Charles Auction Exchange. The interest in the Cannon was bid in by E. Conery for John S. Cannon for the sum of $800, and the interest in the Richardson was knocked down to Capt. John W. Tobin for W. L. Cannon for the sum of $2,000.

The New Albany Ledger says: "Mrs. Mary Miller, who has recently received license from the Government as a steamboat captain, and who resides at New Orleans, was formerly a resident of New Albany. She is the wife of Capt. Geo. Miller, familiary known as "Natural" Miller. Her maiden name was Mary M. Gretchen, and she was the second wife of Capt. Miller. They were married in New Albany, Aug. 2, 1865, and Mrs. Miller had a number of relatives here. She is generally regarded as a woman of fine business qualities, high character, and comes from an old and honored family."

The Regulation of Interstate Commerce by Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The House Committee on Commerce voted to-day on several propositions designed to test the members upon the general question respecting the advisability of providing by congressional legislation for the regulation of interstate commence. It was decided by a vote of 14 to 1 that there ought to be a remedy by legislation of some kind. Mr. O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, cast the negative vote.

Upon the proposition to deal with the matter by commission there were nine affirmative and six negative votes, as follows: Nays—Seymour, Woodward, Barksdale, Davis, of Illinois, O'Neill, of Pennsylvania, Wardsworth, Long, Stewart and Peters. Nays—Regan, Clarly, Turner, of Kentuckey, Glascock, Dunn and Boyle.

Upon the propositon to extend such legislation to water-ways the vote was: Yeas, 2,(Boyle and O'Neill); nays, 13.

Presidential Possibilities.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—There is beginning to be a great deal of talk in reference to the Republican nomination for President. Both the friends and opponents of Mr. Arthur argue that he will get a decided majority of the New York delegation—probably two-thirds. The office-holders are working everywhere and claim the Southern Republican vote is solid for Arthur.

On the other hand, I hear from a reliable source that Don Cameron, ere he left here for Europe, was opposed to Arthur, and he is now said to be for John Sherman.

Edmunds has considerable strength to the eastward, but Logan is evincing great popularity among the Westward Republicans, and he is not losing a single point in the game.

Among the Democrats it is now well understood that Indiana will be for McDonald, Pennsylvania for Randall and New York for Flower. The excitement, however, is all among the Republicans. —Picayune special.

Ex-President Grant Says that He Will Support "Black Jack" for President.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 13.—The Capital claims to have conversed with Gen. Grant, in his sick-room, on politics, and says: The ex-President considers Gen. John A. Logan as the most available candidate of all those named, and that no one whom he would not support himself, but a candidate whom he would ask all his friends to support. He remarked that he had known Logan from the beginning of the war, and he could testify that he possessed the ability, courage, obedience, and endurance of the citizen-soldier of our great country to as eminent a degree as the most distinguished on its brilliant roll. "In public affairs" he said, "Logan has the courage of his convictions. He asserts the individuality of his own character even in political matters, and that could not always be said of men in political life. And in private life," he added, "there is not a man in my knowledge who stands out so notably the type of honesty of purpose, simplicity of life, and virtue."

The general further observed that there were also who would fill the office with great ability, men like Edmunds, of Vermont. But his idea seemed to be that Logan was more a man of the people. It was evident that there were those whom the ex-President thought it would be suicidal to nominate, and who, in fact, would not receive his support. He did not wish to be specific, but could only say it might be wise for the convention to regard the harmony of the party.

The meeting of the State central Committee in Chicago this week will be a genuine Republican, or, more properly speaking, John Logan love-fest. Green B. Raum was at the capital Friday and Saturday of last week trying to discover how many Illinois politicans would attend from this point. Gen. Raum is a Logan man, he is anxious that Logan shall be elected to the Presidency, for in that event he will endeavor to succeed him in the Senate. Clever politicans here wonder at Logan's imprudence in allowing his name to be so freely used in connection with the Presidency.

The Officers of the Democratic Caucus

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The Democratic members of the House met yesterday afternoon for the purpose of electing caucus officials.

S. S. Cox was chosen Chairman, and Messrs. Post, Lamb, Maybury and Breckenridge, Secretaries.

A joint caucus of Senators and Representatives will be held on Wednesday afternoon, the 21st inst., to select a Congressional Campaign Committee.

THE FALL OF SINKAT.

Tewfik Bey and His Entire Force Massacred by the Rebels After a Valiant Defense of the Town.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—A correspondent at Suakim telegraphs that at last the heroic garrison of Sinkat has been butchered. For a fortnight they have been eating roots and leaves. It was a feeble band indeed that made a sortie to die amidst the rebel hordes.

Tewfik Bey had harangued his men, saying that by fighting they might save themselves, but by remaining inactive they must die from hunger within a few days. Flight was impossible.

The men thus animated with Tewfik Bey's spirit, destroyed the military stores, exploded the magazine, filled their pouches with cartridges, and issued forth six hundred strong against the rebels.

Osman Digma's hordes rushed to the attack. Tewfik Bey and his men fought nobly. For a long time they repulsed every attempt to break their ranks, but finally superior numbers prevailed, and with a tremendous rush the rebels burst through one of the sides of the Egyptians' square. A general massacre ensued, and not a soul escaped.

According to the latest reports only four sick men, unable to take part in the sortie, the Cadi of Sinkat and thirty women were spared by the rebels.

Before the sortie a rebel sheikh approached Sinkat and summoned Tewfik Bey to surrender, saying that his life would be spared. The garrison answered defiantly, reviling the rebels.

During the sortie the women and children followed in the rear of the soldiers. A large number of rebels were killed. The rebels are now massing in the vicinity of Suakim. The Sinkat contingent have joined the main body. An attack on Suakim is believed to be imminent.

Quadrennial Elections.

That capable and trustworthy Representative, the Hon. N. B. Crawford, of Chickasaw, has introduced a joint Resolution providing for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the people under which, elections can be held in this State for State and county officials only once in every four years. The resolution is understood to meet with the favorable report of the committee to which it was referred and already been approved by many leading members both in the House and Senate in advance of any action by either body. Such a change in the organic law of the State is greatly needed. The measure proposed meets a popular demand from every part of the land. The frequent recurrence of elections begets indifference on the part of those who ought to vote, entails expense on the tax-payers and has very many inconveniences to all concerned. Let the resolution pass and we believe it will be adopted almost unanimously.—Clarion.

Government Relief.

The introduction of the bill appropriating $300,000 for the relief of the flood sufferers along the Ohio gave rise to an interesting debate in the House yesterday. Mr. Hiscock thought his State rights friends would oppose the appropriation on account of its invasion of the sacred Democratic doctrine. Mr. Cox questioned the constitutionality of the measure and said they should vote for it in silence trusting that the Almighty would forgive them for this deed of charity. Messrs. Cannon, Bayne, Howe, Goff, Taylor and others could discover no constitutional difficulty in the way of an appropriation. Mr. Belford said he was happy because the measure furnished an opportunity to open the treasury vaults and to relieve the government of its surplus money so diligently hoarded by a secretary of the treasury from New York. Mr. Eaton's head declared the appropriation unconstitutional but his heart voted for it. The bill finally passed by yeas 233, nays 12. It is doubtful if the money of the people's government could be more judiciously appropriated than for the relief of the victims of great calamities by flood or pestilence. There may be no specific warrant in the constitution for these appropriations but as Mr. Follet said "necessity knew neither the law nor the constitution." There is no doubt of the great need of immediate relief for thousands who have been driven from their homes in the Ohio valley and who are now in a destitute condition. —Avalanche.

A Deserved Compliment.

Mr. T. M. Kelley, of Yazoo county, who has been for some time a student at the Jackson Collegiate Academy, has received the appointment to the cadetship at West Point for the Fifth Congressional District.

This young gentleman, according to his own statement, could not have selected a more thorough school in which to prepare for the rigid requirements of the United States Military Academy. He speaks in the highest terms of both the management and methods of instruction to be found in our academy.

The people of Mississippi owe a debt of gratitude to the few enterprising citizens of Jackson for their efforts in establishing this training school. They are not only secured a good school at home, but have given a practical example of what other communities can accomplish in raising the standard of education by a little effort and self-denial. —State Ledger.

HOM-MADE oatmeal crackers are so nice, and it is really so little trouble to make them, that almost any mother or cook can afford to try this rule: Wet one pint of fine oatmeal with one gill of water; after mixing as well as you can take it out of the dish on the kneading board, on which you have scattered plenty of dry meal, roll out and cut in squares with a sharp knife. The crackers should be rolled very thin; these should be baked in a slow oven, and after you are sure they are done leave the door open to allow them to dry. Salt should not be omitted.

"Cut-offs."

By direction of Capt. Marshall, Major Starling is now engaged in examining Carter's and other points in the bends above Greenville, where "cut-offs" may reasonably be apprehended. This action shows that the River Commission, through Capt. Marshall, is upon the right track for the "improvement of navigation." As a factor in that problem, prevention of cut-offs is most essential.—Greenville Times.

A Valentine.

BY JOSEPHINE POLLARD.

A Valentine! Ah, can it be
That some one has addressed to me
These lines, so sweet and tender?
Name or initial is not set
Upon the page, and yet—and yet
I think I know the sender.

What though the writing be disguised,
And many a little trick devised
To aid the fond deception;
St. Valentine provides the key
That spoils the little mystery
The moment of reception.

We may be right, we may be wrong;
For lack of confirmation strong
We give the rein to fancy,
And let her wander at her will,
And her bright destiny fulfill
In fields of necromancy.

And Valentines would lose their charm
If they at once and doubt disarm
Ere yet the seal was broken;
And so the deeper the disguise,
The more delightful the surprise,
And sweeter is the token.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. A better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY.

MR. J. Y. SAGE, of Atlanta, is at the Pacific.

BISHOP JANSSENS arrived this morning by the Issaquena.

THE minuet will be danced to-night at the St. Valentine Fete.

SENATOR S. M. SPENCER, of Washington county, is in the city.

MR. THOMAS W. WILCOX, of Memphis, is in the city to-day.

THE "Bunch of Keys" Company have up some beautiful lithographs.

DON'T forget the St. Valentine's entertainment at Magnolia Hall to-night.

THE Howe, Pullman & Co. Circus will exhibit here on Saturday, February 23.

THE charter of the John F. Halpin Company will be found in another column.

A NEW schedule went into effect on the New Orleans & Mississippi Valley Railroad last Sunday.

THE new Board of Fire Delegates met last night, but no business of general importance was transacted.

MARTHA GRIFFIN was yesterday adjudged insane. She will be taken to the State Asylum for the Insane.

THIS is the last night of St. Valentine's Fete at Magnolia Hall. You will miss a most delightful time if you fail to attend.

MR. D. G. PEPPER, special agent for Col. Ed. Richardson, is in the city. He leaves by the Anchor Line boat for Greenville.

MR. ARTHUR HIDER, for some months past in charge of the Government works at Wilson's Point, is in the city. He leaves on the Issaquena this evening.

THE cold snap to-day will be gratifying to the people along the Ohio. The river is 71 feet 6 inches above low water mark at Cincinnati, and is the highest point ever reached.

MR. JOHN C. CALHOUN, President of the Calhoun Land Company and a prominent planter of Arkansas and Mississippi, is at the LaMadrid, and leaves this evening on the Anchor Line boat.

THE POST returns thanks to the lady managers of St. Valentine's Fete for their kind remembrance to-day in the shape of delicious oyster stew, turkey, salads, celery, cake, and cream.

MAJ. H. B. RICHARDSON, Chief Engineer, and Mr. B. F. Thompson, Assistant, of the Louisiana Levee Board, arrived in this city to-day. They leave on the 8 o'clock train for New Orleans.

MR. J. P. COLEMAN, who has been running the river department of the Times-Democrat during Mr. J. W. Bryant's absence, has accepted a position on the reportorial staff of the Daily States.

AS YET there have been no further developments in regard to the murder of the colored woman and child near Redwoods. The perpetrators of the crime should not be allowed to go unpunished.

MUSIC, dancing, quail on toast, and plenty of good things to eat, at Magnolia Hall to-night. Don't fail to go.

A CORONER'S inquest was held yesterday on the remains of an unknown man who died over O'Shea's saloon, on the levee. The verdict was that the deceased came to his death from unknown causes.

DELICIOUS oyster stew, turkey, salads, celery, cakes, sherbert and cream at the Fete to-night.

"ABOUT 7 o'clock last night two bootblacks indulged in a set-to in front of Kory's store, on Washington street. A great deal of bad language was used, and one of the combatants attempted to cut the other with a hatchet. No lives lost.

MR. F. LOYD was elected Treasurer of the Firemen's Chritable Association last night, by a very complimentary vote. Mr. Loyd filed his bond this morning, with Commodore S. H. Parisot and Capt. E. C. Carroll as sureties. This is a deserved compliment to a good citizen.

THREE negro deck-hands appeared before Squire Mackey this morning and tried to get out a warrant for the arrest for assault and battery of the mate of the Leflore, whose name they could not give. They stated that he had beaten two of them and cut the other. An officer was sent down to the landing to find out the name of the mate, so that a warrant could be issued, when it was discovered that the Leflore was not at the landing. From this it seems evident that the roasters made a mistake in the name of the boat. The officers are investigating the affair, and whoever committed the assault will no doubt soon be arrested.

St. Valentine's Fete.

The Fair given by the ladies of Trinity church last night was a success, in every respect. A goodly crowd was present, notwithstanding the unpleasantness of the weather, and a very enjoyable evening was passed. The ladies give another to-night, when the minuet—that graceful, beautiful and dignified dance, to whose music the young ladies of long ago kept time—will be given. The dancers will wear the costumes in vogue in the days when the minuet was the only "racquet" known to the young folkes, and it will be something well-worth seeing.

"A Bunch of Keys."

This very amusing musical drama, which will be presented by Flora Moore's Company at the Opera-house on the 21st and 22d, is one of the great successes of the day. It has pleased the critics, the press and the people, never failing to amuse and instruct an audience, and we do not doubt but that they will receive a full house here. The Company will play here one week from Thursday and Friday nights, going from here to Jackson, and from that place direct to New Orleans. This is the first time the play has ever been presented here, and we trust that our amusement-loving public will appreciate the opportunity thus offered.

C. O. D. Bills of the Steamer Tributary.

The C. O. D. bills of the steamer Tributary will hereafter be paid on board the boat on the day of leaving.

The Landing at Skipwiths.

A note from S. W. Lachs & Co. informs us that owing to the high water the landing at Skipwiths has been moved to the old receiving point immediately in front of Skipwiths.

Cheap Travel in Texas.

One of the neatest folders issued is that entitled "Texas Welcomes the Lone Star," which is being distributed by the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroad at Houston, Texas. The folder gives the reduced rates of fare to New Orleans over the G., H. & S. A., the Sunset, Star and Crescent routes, during Mardi Gras.

The Erlanger System.

The combination of roads known as the Erlanger System, controlling an aggregate road amounting to 1,185 miles. The Cincinnati Southern, extending from Cincinnati to Chattanooga, 336; Alabama Great Southern, from Chattanooga to Meridian, 295; New Orleans & Northeastern, from Meridian to New Orleans, 136 miles; Vicksburg and Meridian, 140, and the Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific, from Vicksburg to Shreveport, 169 miles. The last mentioned branch will soon be finished, 96 miles being now in course of construction.

A BROKEN rail was struck by the train on the Great Southern railroad, eight miles from Eutah, on Monday night. Two coaches the ladies car and sleeper went off the embankment turning completely over. The train was crowded. No lives lost, and no serious injuries, though some slight bruises and big scares. It was a wonderful escape.—Clarion.

A Good Example.

The Houston & Texas Central earned 7 per cent. on its stock last year, but instead of declaring a dividend the money was expended in improvements. The wise course might well be followed by many railroad companies.

BY DOB M'GEE.

'Tis said you're very handsome,
Thou dainty, busy sprite,
With hair as dark as storm clouds,
And eyes as black as night;
Complexion clear as noonday,
With now and then a tint
Akin to blushing sunset,
And teeth of pearly flint.

But how about your TEMPER?
Be pleased to let us know;
We're told its simply AWFUL,
When once you "set 'er go!"
Ah! Dispositions kindly
Are tender, sweet find true,
Adorn the pleasant faces
And fading charms renew.

But, child, (to change the subject,)
That "dude" you must decline;
His legs are just roo spindly
For any VALENTINE!

REX

On Board the Steamer Ed Richardson.

The big steamer Ed Richardson will make a grand Mardi Gras excursion trip from this place to New Orleans on Friday, Feb. 22d. Now is the time to engage staterooms. A splendid party will go down from here. Such an opportunity to have such a delight'ul time may not occur again for many years.

The steamer Ed Richardson has been chartered by the Committee in charge of the Carnival at New Orleans to go down and meet Rex coming up from the Belize, and he will be taken on board the Richardson and brought to New Orleans the day preceding Mardi Gras.

All who are going should see about their staterooms as soon as possible. See W. C. O'Hara, her agent.

Another Church.

VICKSBURG, MISS., Feb. 13, 1883.

To the Lovers of Humanity and the advancement of the Redeemer's Kingdom:

Being appointed to Vicksburg Mission of the A. M. E. Church for the purpose of erecting a second charge for the African Methodists, I appeal to the charitable public for aid.

The first thing I want you to consider is this: Do you think that we need another church in Vicksburg? This question is largely to be considered by those living on the south side of South street, as the Committee on Circuit and Stations recommended all the territory lying south of South street, including Lane School-house, be known as Vicksburg Mission. Now those belonging to the A. M. E. Church in the part of the city mentioned must decide the question.

The Conference says we need another church, but have given nothing to build it with. Now what do you say? Do you not think that there are people enough here that do not go to any church to fill up another church to its utmost capacity? Do you not know that there are people in the city of Vicksburg starving for the bread of life? I await your decison.

Through the kindness of W. W. Edwards we will have the use of the National Hall, on the corner of Levee and Depot streets, for the present. Don't criticise the place; we are compelled to make a start somewhere. This is the best we can do for the present.

Any one having anything to donate, or wanting any information on the subject can address me at this city.

There will be service at the National Hall next Sunday at 3 p.m., and also 7:30 p.m.

The Levees.

Maj. H. B. Richardson informs us that he received the works at Ashton Levee yesterday. He says that no overflow need be expected at the run-around at Montgomery place near Lake Providence. The Opossum Levee, on the Arkansas, though not completed will turn the water back. The force of hands is being increased as fast as possible, and no serious overflow may be looked for at those places.

The Signal office reports as follows in regard to the Ohio river this morning:

Cincinnati, 70 feet and 10 inches.
Louisville, 45 feet and 2 inches.
Cairo, 48 feet and 2 inches.

The river is risiag at all of the above places. According to the figures the water is four and one-half feet higher at Cincinnati than during the flood of last year.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wellheimina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 28 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders' or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers executed at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to any the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call in a newspaper three days in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet top ther and elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no defect or informality in organization shall expose any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

Sec. 8. No doing in the foregoing Charter violative of the laws or constitution of the State.

Rumors that the Railroad Bill Will Be Vetoed.

Disposition of Some Proposed Constitutional Amendments.

Passage of a Bill for a Penitentiary Commission.

SENATE.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 15.—An Act to amend the Act changing the name of the Warren Cotton Mills Company to "Warren Mills," was referred.

It is rumored in the Senate that the Railroad bill will be vetoed. The rumor also prevails over town.

House.

A joint resolution to amend the Constitution by providing for the election of Judges was lost.

A resolution to elect Chancellors by the House, to be confirmed by the Senate, was lost.

The Committee recommends the passage of an amendment to the Constitution making the age of edueable children between seven and seventeen years. The bill is now before the House with a prospect of its passage.

An Act creating a Penitentiary Commission of three, to visit the several penitentiaries with a view of improving the management of ours, was passed.

Death of Hon. Benjamin King.

[Special to the Picayune.]

BEAUREGARD, Miss, Feb. 13.—At ten minutes past 1 to-day Hon. Benjamin King breathed his last. His death was expected hourly, but his great mental and nerve powers succumbed, and quietly and without a struggle his life fled to realms beyond. His remains will be interred in the family garden grounds at this place to-morrow morning.

The Reduced Price of Nails.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 15.—The Western Nail Association met this afternoon and reduced the card rate from $3 40 to $2 60. The stocks were reported light and trade unsatisfactory.

The question of prolonging the suspension of mill machines was not discussed and as the six weeks shut-down expired on the 11th instant, all are at liberty to resume. Owing to the flood, but few factories in the West are in operation.

Doran and his Gang Arraigned for the Hot Springs Assassination.

HOT SPRINGS, Feb. 14.—There has been no change for the worse in the condition of the victims of Saturday's tragedy. Wall is still very low, with no chances for recovery. The others are doing well.

The Governor has commissioned a company of military, who will preserve the peace.

Doran and the rest of the murderers were brought before Judge Wood to-day, but got a continuance until to-morrow. The prisoners have been turned over to the Sheriff, and everything is quiet.

The Coroner's jury returned a verdict to-day that John Flynn came to his death at the hands of Doran, the two Pruitts, Allison, Howell, Lucius Fanning and Tom Dale.

A Compromise on the State Hospital

By a telegram received by Mayor Lowenburg yesterday from Jackson, it was learned that Senator Brenham and the Mayor of Vicksburg had had a] conference at which it was agreed that a State hospital would not be pressed at this session, but a compromise was arrived at by which it was agreed that a bill would be introduced for a joint appropriation for the Natchez and Vicksburg hospitals, under which Natchez will get $3,000 per annum, or $10,000 for the next two years. We doubt not that this compromise will be perfectly satisfactory both to the Board of Aldermen and to our citizens at large, and we sincerely trust that the bill may be agreed to by both branches of the Legislature.—Natchez Democrat, 13th.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Result of the Annual Inspection.

The annual inspection of the Fire Department took place last night, when Chief Fisher retired and Capt. Gill, the newly elected Chief, assumed the duties of the office. Chief Fisher retires with the thanks of all our citizens, having made an excellent officer and discharged his duties with marked ability. He possesses advanced ideas and methods and has shown his ability to impress them upon the firemen. It was through his efforts that the fine Ahrens engine in use by the Washington, was purchased; and in the discharge of his duties he has always looked to the welfare of the city and of the Department.

The following is an inventory of the property belonging to each company, according to the reports of the various Foremen:

The Catholic Knights' Appeal.

LEBANON, KY., Feb. 13.—Wm. E. Russell, Supreme President of the Catholic Knights of America, has issued the following address to the Catholic Knights of America:

Brethren, an exceptionally destructive flood in the Ohio river is remorselessly destroying the habitations of many good and deserving people.

As executive of your order I call on the fraternity to send at once to B. G. Everlarge, supreme trustee, at Cincinnati, and to express to Wm. Smith, at Louisville, such contributions as you may desire to make, that our organization may assist in relieving the suffering.

This is sent to the press of the country as the quickest way of informing the knights, who cannot refrain from aiding the helpless indigent in the distress produced by the act of God.

WM. E. RUSSELL.

The Rivers.

The accounts of the floods in the Ohio shows increasing destruction of property and steady rising water. The crest of the flood wave, however, is nearly down to Cincinnati, and the maximum of the damage will be probably reached there in the next forty-eight hours. The Tennessee continues to swell, and there is no doubt that a much larger volume of water will come out of the Ohio than last season. Both the Upper Mississipi and the Missouri are yet locked in the embrace of Winter, and the state of the thermometer in the valleys of both these streams is such as not to indicate an early release from their icy fetters.

The only unfavorable indication outside the Ohio Valley is the rapid rise of the Arkansas and its tributaries. Heavy rains have swollen those streams until they are greatly beyond the stage last year at this date. The Red River is also beginning to rise, but is by no means dangerous as yet. Should that tributary now send down upon us unusual floods, the situation would be very critical. As it is, the Lower Mississippi ought to accommodate the Ohio floods without disaster.

But the strictest vigilance should be exercised in regard to the levees. The work of repairing and raising should be pushed by the local authorities with vigor. If our people can withstand the floods this season ere another Spring sets in, with National aid supplementing State work, the entire levees can be so heightened and fortified as to insure amprotection.—Picayune, 14th.

Small-Pox on the Increase at Wesson.

Mr. W. W. Robeson, who was at Wesson, Monday last, reported to us on his return the following fresh cases of smallpox just developed, all white: Miss Cora Frazier, Hill Dodds, John Batliff. These cases are within the corporate limits, and Mr. Robeson informs us that many families were preparing to leave in anticipation of a further spread of this dread disease.

A negro is also down with small-pox on the place of Dr. Attiss, near Mississippi.

Slow Digestion and Acid Dyspepsia.

This, the simple and most common form of the malady, is sometimes called simple dyspepsia. It is more common in men than in women, and especially affects sedentary persons, and those nervous individuals who eat rapidly, swallowing their food without proper mastication. It is also common in persons whose teeth are defective. Its immediate cause is deficient activity in the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, and also deficient quantity or quality of gastric juice. The symptoms are much the same as those which follow the taking an excess of food, but are felt only when a moderate amount has been taken. An hour or two after eating a sensation of weight and oppression is felt. The discomfort continues for some hours, gradually wearing off before the next meal. The appetite is usually pretty good, but often will not be prepared for the reception of food at meal time, as the work of digesting the previous meal has not been accomplished. Sometimes there is considerable flatulence of the stomach, the eructations being tasteless, however never offensive. Often pain between the shoulders and beneath one shoulder blade, and not infrequently in the region of the heart. Palpitation of the heart often occurs in the night, causing great alarm on the part of the patient and his friends, who entertain fears of his sudden death. Sleep is disturbed and unrefreshing. The tongue is often foul in the morning, with a bad taste in the mouth. All the symptoms mentioned are greatly exaggerated by a late supper, or by an unusual excess in quantity or quality of food. The bowels are usually constipated, but may be regular. When the difficulty has been long continued there will be observed a marked disposition to sleep after meals, or unnatural sleepiness at other times, and a decided loss of natural vivacity and energy. Acid diapepsia is that form of indigestion in which the slowness of digestion is such that the food undergoes fermentation, forming acids which irritate the stomach and give rise to the same symptoms, much exaggerated, which have been mentioned as attending slowness of digestion with several others, the principal of which are heartburn, regurgitation of more or less quantities of sour liquid from the stomach, acid eructations, a white tongue, frequently with transverse fissures, often flabby and indented at the edges, acid breath, causing decay of the teeth, bowels likely to be either constipated or unnaturally loose, grinding of the teeth at night and a reddish sediment in the urine. No one patient presents all the symptoms, but more or less of them. There is quite likely also to be pain at the pit of the stomach, with soreness on pressure. On account of the extreme slowness of digestion the food does not always aggravates this form of dyspepsia. Starch food, sugar, fruits, and especially vegetables of all kinds, cause great increase of acidity and heartburn. In some cases even bread and all sorts of preparations from grain will disagree. Sugar, or any food containing it, will give rise to great distress. A meal consisting of animal food almost entirely may be digested without difficulty, though milk frequently sours. The digestion being very slow portions of fermenting food remain in the stomach from meal to another, so that acidity becomes habitual. Patients suffering with this form of dyspepsia are usually very thin and bloodless. Occasionally, however, we meet with a case of

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 15, 1884.

STEPHEN W. DORSEY, ex-Secretary of the National Republican Committee, thinks Logan stands a good chance for the Republican nomination for President.

"SCOLDS" never accomplish anything." Some imitation newspapers that are now engaged in the delectable business of scolding the Legislature might profit by the axiom at the beginning of this paragraph.

THE VICKSBURG POST predicts that the Governor will approve the Supervision bill as passed both Houses of the Legislature. We predict the Post is wrong, and further predict that the Governor will veto the bill, as we think he should. We have already pointed out some of its unconstitutional provisions.—State Ledger.

We will soon see which is the best prophet.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BLACK, of Pennsylvania, says: "In my opinion the destiny of the Democratic party not only in Pennsylvania, but I might say in the United States, is just now in the hands of the Democratic Representatives in Congress." Whether the destiny of the party is in good hands is yet to be determined. We believe, however, the Democrats in the House made a bad beginning in the very important matter of selecting a Speaker.

WE very much regret to learn that Mr. John F. Brady has severed his connection with the Vicksburg Herald. The Herald makes the sad announcement this morning. Mr. Brady has been the Jackson correspondent of the Herald ever since the Legislature assembled, and has been principally engaged in burlesquing and ridiculing that body. He varied his performance by invading Mr. Put Darden's home, and ridiculing it. The correspondent that writes such stuff, however, is not to blame; the paper that prints it has to stand the responsibility.

A COMMITTEE of the Ohio Legislature has been visiting different prison institutions with a view of reforming the system of their own State. They found the Elmira (N. Y.) Reformatory the model prison of the world. The Mississippi Legislature might get some information from Elmira.

Managers of various celebrated prisons unite in declaring "there can be no successful prison management from a humane and reformatory standpoint WHERE THE CONVICT CONTRACT SYSTEM EXISTS."

THE Chalmers-Manning contest was up again in the House yesterday. There was a spirited discussion, and, as might have been expected, the argument was all against Manning; the only claim the latter's friends made for him was that he had the Governor's certificate. To show how plainly the other side talked, we give the following remarks of Mr. Hart of Ohio:

He considered the doctrine which the minority upheld, that only certificates must be accepted, even though it was dripping with fraud, as insulting to the intelligence of the American people. He would never vote to seat a man under a certificate when that certificate was issued in disregard of a court and by trampling under foot every sense of equity, decency and justice.

A Death-blow to Railroad Development.

The main question to consider in regard to the supervision bill passed by the Mississippi Legislature is, whether it will not prove a death-blow to railroad development in this State. Many people think, and with good reason, that it will have this effect. There is no doubt that the development of the State by the building of railroads is of far more importance to the welfare and true interests of the people, than is the present supervision by the Legislature of the railroads already built. To show the effect of the Railroad Commission in Georgia, we give the following significant statement from a letter in the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph:

"But for the Commission at least 1,000 miles of railroad would be built in 1884 and 1885. With the Commission, never!

Now let the Governor and the members of the Legislature calmly and dispassionately consider this statement. If a Commission will have a similar effect in Mississippi, and we fear it will, our people certainly do not need and ought not have a commission. Look ahead and consider the effects of a Railroad Commission in Mississippi.

We advance the proposition that one mile of new railroad will be of more practical benefit to the State and the people than two years service of a Railroad Commission.

The Lien Law.

We discussed the question yesterday in the practical, direct and immediate working of the system, maintaining that, economically it is a bad system, and worse in its resultant effects for the class for whose special benefit it was adopted than could have been anticipated. In fact, practically it has worked as though it had been a trap set to catch the unwary; as though "an enemy" had done it.

But aside from this practical and near view of the question, we think there is a remoter one, and yet hardly less practical, which bears upon the general welfare and touches the broader principles of public policy. The interests of labor ever have been and ever will be subordinate to the interests of property, for the simple reason that the one is fixed and permanent and imperishable, if it be landed property, while the other is movable, liable to disability, and perishable. In all agricultural countries where the relations of landed property and labor are rightly adjusted, and where there has been prosperity, land and not labor has been the basis of credit. Labor has value only as it is expended, while land has value though it be idle.

Now the effect of our present lien law is to make labór, and not land, the basis of credit—to make that which has no permanent or intrinsic value (except as it is expended) the dependence of the country for capital on which to conduct its business. With the capacity of labor to disorganize itself, or to change its locality, or to become disabled, or to perish, see what an unsubstantial basis the credit of the country is resting upon.

The fatal consequences of the system are seen in the deterioration of the value of landed property, and the lessening of the value of labor for the reason of the false position it is made to occupy—a position which we showed yesterday in every way more harmful than helpful to the laborer.

In all other countries than this labor is simply labor, and not the basis of credit. Laborers in our towns and cities, even those who are skilled, whether white or black, cannot get advances on labor to be performed months hence, or even a few weeks hence, except in rare cases and for special reasons, but never as a matter of course.

All of our social and economic relations, when they take on the form of law, should rest upon some solid philosophic basis, and not be the sport of circumstances, or the creature of a mere expediency.

HON. BEN. KING died at his home in Copiah county day before yesterday.

Invading the Sanctity of a Man's Home.

It is a pity that some papers are so hard up for something to fill their columns, that they have to resort to the measure of criticising a man's private affairs in order to refute the policy which he advocates. Capt. Put. Darden, in opposing the encroachments of monopoly and advocating the principles of the Grange, has elicited some very severe comments from several papers in the State. When he "cornered" the Supreme Judges, a great hue and cry went up, but when he put the question to them squarely they were compelled to 'acknowledge the corn,' and 'all with one accord began to make excuses' as to why they had accepted the 'compliments' to their official positions'. For sustaining the assertions which he made he was abused beyond measure, but was satisfied with the vile slanders which were heaped upon him in this connection, they have now invaded his household and endeavored to carry to the world the condition of his private affairs in an article which bears the indelible mark of malignant falsehood. When the principles which a man advocates cannot be refuted in any other way than by an abortive attempt at witty criticism upon his home, then we think it time to 'hand in the checks' and concede the question to him. In manufacturing certain editors in this State the Lord certainly intended to make wasps, but unfortunately for them left out the sting.—Vaiden Watchman.

WHO are the slanderers of Virginia? Are they the men who insist that the late murders at Danville shall be inquired into until the guilty parties are found and the crime brought home to them? Or, are they the men who insist that these guilty men shall be shielded by the State? Shall the murderers be exposed and the State be vindicated, or the murderers protected and the State made guilty? Is this grand old party to be made a party to political murders to save the exposure of a few political desperadoes? Never!—Richmond Whig.

MANY inquiries have been made of us to know what has become of the Railroad Supervision bill which passed both Houses last week. We are not in charge of the bill, but have a right to presume from the legitimate course of business, that it was placed in the hands of the Governor after its immediate enrollment by the clerk. As the Vicksburg Herald seems to be bossing the Legislature, the railway interests and the Governor, perhaps the information as to the whereabouts of the bill can be had of that knowing sheet.—Clarion, 16th.

SEVERAL papers in the State are in favor of the passage of a bill providing for the appointment of an advisory board of pardons. The argument advanced in its favor is that the pardoning power has been abused, and if a board were appointed it would relieve the Governor of the responsibility and also make it less easy for pardons to be obtained.—Vaiden Watchman.

AN English writer has just discovered that Shakespeare disliked dogs, looking upon them all more or less as curs, especially those shaggy, wolf-like dogs that pass half a shilling a piece. Lord George Gordon stated on information that there is no more unfortunate animal than a dog, and that the British corps in the colonies than there were in Washington's army. Gen. Robertson, who had lived in the colonies twenty-four years, and been quarter-master, with excellent opportunity for knowing the personnel of the "rebel" army, when asked how that army was composed, whether mostly natives or emigrants, answered that Gen. Lee told him that "half the noncommissioned army was from Ireland"—emigrants, not natives of the colonies. Gen. Lee had excellent opportunity for knowing the truth about the army; and so highly did Congress value him, that, when captured by the English, six English field officers were offered as an equivalent for his exchange. If, then, half the revolutionary army was composed of Irish immigrants born in Ireland, and in the other half were the sons of earlier Irish immigrants, it is within good taste for Americans of Irish descent or of Irish birth to remind their fellow-Americans of other races that this is our republic quite as well as theirs; and that in its maintenance and perpetuation we propose to follow the example left by our countrymen who participated in its foundation.—Sullivan's article in the North American Review.

Fashions.

Green is to be a fashionable color this spring. Many of the new shades of this goods now arriving are of shades in this color.

Handkerchief embroidery continues to be a popular occupation. The finest hemstitch and the daintest embroidery make these handkerchiefs works of art. The initials are now very small in size. The unbleached and coffee-colored batiste is used for novelties.

Overskirts have now an appearance of squareness, and often have a plain black breadth, gathered slightly, and formed in a single poul.

Young ladies' costumes still resemble the appearance of a calyx with the loug, close Newmarket coats. With brown cloaks beaver collars and muffs are worn; with gray cloaks and suits the furs are astrachan and chinchilla.

SPRING STYLES.

According to precedent, the first hopes of the spring fashions in the matter of our dry goods establishments, preceding even the early bird, in announcing the change of seasons. "Spring importations" are a familiar feature of advertisements, and in agreeable weather buyers are thronging around counters almost as eagerly as if in pressing need of the thin fabrics. This year their ardor is increased by the unusually low prices upon lawns, calicos and satines; for guests of Northern manufacturers are pleased with state of the market, the retail buyers find this condition advantageous. When one can procure a calico at 3 cents a yard there seems to be opportunity for every woman to dress nearly freshly.

The great variety of cotton goods displayed makes the choice the most fashionable difficult, but the chief importations seem to be sateens, percales, cotton ottomans and ginghams. A new thin material of wool called Tolle de Princesse is very designing being delicate of tint and durable, and found in the most attractive colors and patterns. For those who wish a change from the "wash goods" it will be acceptable. It is difficult to say what color will be most worn, though gray, brown, pink and blue are offered in especially handsome tinties. The clear, white grounds with colored plaids, strips and flowers in almost all designs possible, are very refreshing. Large blue and red polka dots on a white ground form a fashionable combination. Rings interlaced, squares, balls and other geometrical designs are found in profusion. In sateens plain and figured are combined, though satine as a favorite material will probably have a close contest with these luminous combinations. In white goods mull, nainsook and linen lawn appear as usual, and the embroidered white curtain muslins are more beautiful and more in demand than ever. According to the best fashion authorities cotton dressings will be made bouffant. The skirts will be trimmed with several narrow ruffles. Draperies will be full and long, and waists round or pointed, the sleeves reaching high at the shoulder and finished puffs. The grandmother dress, with tucked skirt and round waist gathered into a belt, will be worn again this morning. Polonaises of figured satine will be worn over velvet skirts. Basques for cotton dresses will be unlined.

India silks and foulards have appeared in full assortments at most reasonable prices. Black and white, bronze, dark red, electric blue and navy blue are popular colors, and appear in stripes and small brocade figures. A bit of velvet is added to the silk costumes to give character to the costume.

In woolen goods plaids will be much worn. Those are very pretty in soft colors of red, brown, green and blue, shading delicately and harmoniously. The large plaids are preferred. Almost all materials will be combined with another of different variety in the costume, this fancy giving opportunity for originality and taste to display itself.—Boston Journal.

The Coming Potato.

In the Old World they are raging on improved potatoes. There, as here, they are fond of getting for speakers on great occasions, some one who poses chief claims as an orator for the occasion is the great ignorance he exhibits of the subject that he talks about. In one of these public occasions the great speaker delighted his auditors by expressing the opinion that the time would yet come when a potato would be raised worthy of the human race! If he had spoken this of the coming cook it would have been very commendable. Not one in a hundred of the cooks of our day knows how to cook a potato, and thus it is that the tame water-sogged things are not worthy of the human race! With a little salt and cold water, and the potato brought to a boil, then the water poured off and the potato dried off, it is the best nature to drive off the surplus steam, and the potato may be made to rank closely with an orchard fruit.—Gardener's Monthly.

THE Anchor Line steamer W. P. Halliday, which was totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning, was one of the largest boats of the line, a propeller, established, and valued at $75,000, and is reported to have had a fire insurance of $50,000. She arrived at St. Louis Tuesday night, discharged her cargo, and had dropped down to the cotton press for a short retirement. The origin of the fire is unknown.

St. Richardson is receiving to-ssely of oil meal and cake, and ge of about 300 tons of freight for points below that was brought down by the Anchor Line steamer City of Helena from St. Louis.

The U. S. Inspectors Biddell and Moffatt left for New Orleans by rail last night. While here they inspected the steamers Golden Era, Capt. Miller and Dew Drop, and issued the necessary papers to the said boats.

We are glad to see Capt. Henry Keith in command of his magnificent steamer, the Anchor Line-City of Vicksburg again. It will be remembered he was very ill some time since in St. Louis, but he is all right again.

The P. Line sends out the big side-wheel steamer DeSmet for all points on the Yazoo river going as high as Greenwood. She leaves promptly at 5 o'clock this evening. Capt. M. L. Johnson master, Harper and Kain clerks.

Mr. Wirt Ashby, one of the pilots of the Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg, which arrived here last night, is seriously ill. He has been sick for several days. It is more than probable that he will have to get off here, as his condition is considered critical.

The Jno. F. Halpin, owing to an unusual big trip of freight, was delayed until 10 o'clock last night, when she departed with the largest cargo of freight that has gone from here to that place in many years. She also had a good passenger list.

The W. P. Thompson will be found at the landing in the morning receiving for all points as far up as Grand Lake for which place she will leave to-morrow afternoon promptly at 4 o'clock. Capt. Nelon master, Davison clerk, and Mr. Heman Denio her polite, affable and popular agent.

The big boss boat of the Mississippi river, the J. M. White, will be here to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, en route to Greenville and the upper bends, and will be down again Monday evening, en route to New Orleans. Look out for her at 5 o'clock Monday evening. Capt. W. C. O'Hara is her agent.

The elegant electric light side-wheel steamer Will S. Hays arrived this morning at 11:30 from up the river. She had unloaded three levee "camps," including live stock and everything belonging to a camp, at as many points up the river. She brought twenty-six passengers for Vicksburg and a good freight trip. She left at 10 o'clock for Memphis.

The big Ed Richardson arrived at 2 o'clock this morning, with a good, list of freight and people. She is receiving to-day, and leaves promptly for New Orleans this evening at 5 o'clock. Don't forget that this boat will leave here next Friday, the 22nd inst., on an excursion to the Mardi Gras excursion.

W. C. O'Hara is a live and enterprising agent.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Vicksburg arrived from St. Louis last night, with 3,520 packages freight and a good list of passengers. She returns to St. Louis to-morrow (Saturday) at 11 a.m., connecting at Arkansas City with the railroad for all points in Arkansas and Texas. Capt. Henry Keith, master, and Geo. O. Walton, clerk.

The P. Line steamer DeSmet arrived at 10 o'clock a.m., with 278 bales cotton for New Orleans, and 59 bales for town, 856 sacks oil cake, 360 sacks of meal, 900 sacks cotton seed, and 500 barrels oil. The oil goes to Louisville by the DeSmet returns to the Yazoo river to-night. She returns to the Yazoo river to-night, going as high as Greenwood.

Garret Opens on Gould.

The assertion made by Mr. Jay Gould that in buying the Nickle Plate Telegraph line the "Baltimore and Ohio people got nothing for their money," has called forth from Mr. Robert Garrett a vigorous reply, in which he tells some striking things about Mr. Gould and his dealings with Western Union and other telegraph corporations in which he has been concerned. Mr. Garrett says that very recently Mr. Gould refused to let get possession of the Nickle Plate line and was prepared to pay a large sum for it. It was not until Mr. Garrett had succeeded in accomplishing for the Baltimore and Ohio what Mr. Gould had failed to achieve for the Western Union that the latter, like the disappointed fox in the fable, discovered that the grapes were sour.

Mr. Garrett goes on to make some further interesting revelations "about telegraph properties in this country" with the view of showing that "if the public's attack were based on Gould's relations in these matters they may be financially left." "I was asked by Mr. Gould," says Mr. Garrett, "to join with the Atlantic and Pacific property, and before deciding not to become one I went carefully over the whole ground, and I will probably surprise the public to know that the total purchase amount of cash put into the Atlantic and Pacific by Gould and his friends was less than a million dollars. Mr. Gould afterward sold this property to the Western Union for, I believe, nine million dollars. Later Mr. Garrett did become a director in the American Union, and presumably made as profitable an examination into that property as he had in the case of the Atlantic and Pacific. He puts the cost of the American Union at four million dollars, and says that it was turned over to the Western Union for fifteen millions. On the strength of these two acquisitions the Western Union inflated its stock from the eighty million dollars. "In other words, about forty millions of Western Union capital took to represented by a purchase price of five million dollars." It has been a matter of common notoriety that when these two lines were absorbed by the Western Union a fictitious value four or five times greater than the actual worth was put upon both properties, and the consequence is that they come from one who, having carefully examined the matter at the instance of Mr. Gould, can speak with knowledge and authority.

The above remarks apply to the notorious consolidation made early in 1881. Since that time, as Mr. Garrett believes, the Western Union has guaranteed, besides the stock of the Mutual Union, some ten million dollars of the bonds of that company, and he has "never heard it asserted that the face of those bonds went into the property." It has also guaranteed five per cent on fourteen million dollars of cable stock—a sum double its real value—"thus throwing on the Western Union the burden of paying the interest on seven or eight millions of unexpended money." "I know about the cables, explains Mr. Garrett, "because I was interested in them."

Mr. Garrett then proceeds to "handle" his adversary in a lively way, that must prove entertaining and instructive to the public, however little it may be to the liking of the great speculator. He says:

Mr. Gould stated, when the Atlantic and Pacific was started, through his agencies, that the Western Union Telegraph was the most vulnerable property in the United States. He further said, later on, that a mistake had been made about the Atlantic and Pacific lines, that they were inferior, and for this reason he had sold out; but, he said, at a price which puts Western Union in a still more vulnerable position than it was ever before. Now, I say it was vulnerable and proved to be so, for by the organization of about four or five millions Mr. Gould added about thirty-one additional millions to the stock of the Western Union. I do not understand how to-day, after a lapse of a very brief period, everything considerably for the growth of the telegraph business in this country, the Western Union is, as Mr. Gould says, the strongest telegraph company in the world. While Mr. Gould is running down the value of properties, I suggest he should be asked how much of the debt of the Wabash he has wedged in ahead of the stock, and if he was not a short time ago advising people to buy Wabash stocks, which have since depreciated so enormously, with just as much energy and activity as he now displays in advising people throughout the country to buy Western Union. This stock is as weak as water can make it, and, instead of being the strongest property, I agree with Mr. Gould's logic that it is the weakest property of the kind in the United States.

When the first started the Atlantic and Pacific and American Union companies he announced through his agents and officers that he intended to give the public the benefit of cheap telegraph, but when he consolidated the American Union with the Western Union he wrote to me saying it would be unwise to educate the people to use cheap telegraphy."

I have only this to add, that if the public interest is important to Mr. Gould's opinions in these matters they may be financially "left."

In this controversy Mr. Garrett undertakes to show simply what the public has generally believed—namely, that an enormous amount of water has been injected into the Weston Union on various pretexts, and that in order to pay a big dividend on this watered stock the policy of the company has been persistently to oppose competition, and thereby to exact from the people high tolls for telegraphic service. The company has evidently adopted the theory to which Mr. Gould tried to convert Mr. Garrett, that "it would be unwise to educate the people to too cheap telegraphy." But the people are not fools. They know very well that cheap telegraphy would be entirely practicable if the telegraph business were not largely controlled by a grasping monopoly and the public heavily taxed to pay dividends on an enormous quantity of water. A strong and healthy competition must result in a more efficient service at much lower rates. Such a competition Congress can bring about by establishing a Government telegraphic service. The statements made by Mr. Garrett have a most significant bearing on the question now before Congress, and deserve to be carefully considered and weighed by that body.—N. Y. Herald.

John Bull's Defences.

England's intention to spend ten million dollars for the "additional defence" of everything she owns, from the Bristol Channel to St. Helena, is approved by the London Times, which finds in this and in a proposition to increase the army "the best proof that the government is alive to its responsibilities in Egypt." Is it thought in England that the assumption of proper responsibility in Egypt will justify the Lords and the Mercy, and is that why England wants to give up the Soudan?—N. Y. Herald.

How high will the river go? is a question heard on all sides, not only among mariners, but business men, who feel a deep interest in the matter. It is a question no one can now properly answer. It has been raining all over the country for ten days or more. The flood in the upper Ohio river is higher that was ever known, and if the upper Missouri and its tributaries were to swell just now it would give the Mississippi Valley the worst flood ever heard of. Even if the upper Mississippi does not swell much the water now in sight will cause considerable damage to property.—Memphis Ledger.

It looks now as if the steamers of the Southern Transportation line will not be able to make their usual Mardi Gras trips from Cincinnati, the water being too high to allow them to get below the suspension bridge, and navigation almost entirely suspended on the Ohio river.—Memphis Ledger.

The American Queen says: "The life of Mr. Henry Villard is a lesson to reporters. Mr. Villard used to be a reporter on the Tribune. In a thoughtless moment he left that worthy journal, and now look at him! He has had to give up his million-dollar house to his creditors. No reporter who sticks to his work need ever fear that he will have to make such a sacrifice."

MEMPHIS can stand a good many more "monopolies" (as they are styled by the free trade organs) in the shape of cotton mills, iron mills, woolen mills, etc. The people of Shelby can also stand the racket of these "monopolies," because there's millions in the home market they furnish for country produce.—Avalanche.

THE New York Times and the Chicago Tribune, two of the ablest Republican journals in the country, are persistently advising the Democratic party to stand firm for free trade. The London Times and other British journals give the Democracy similar counsel.—Avalanche.

Two Roses.

O brilliant, blooming, bright-red rose,
Whose scented odor heavenward goes,
I love thy beauty, color, size,
Thou sweetest flower beneath the skies!
But greater far than I love thee
I love the love who gav'st me thee.

Though she with thee might well commune,
As thou with her couldst truly vie,
Thou hast a richness in thy bloom,
And she has beauty in her eye;
Her look inspires eternal bliss,
Thine breathes forth Nature's loveliness.

Thou art a rose, and so is she;
Each blossoms in the bright to-day.
Pure as thou art may her life be,
Until it shed its parting ray!
E'en as at night the portals close,
So shall her eyelids find repose.
—Thomas Hardy, in London Society.

The late Baron James Rothschild, it is said, generally dined at home upon a slice of roast beef or mutton, and a head of cabbage, well tied up and boiled gently for seven or eight hours in a pot au feu.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in 48 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

The St. Valentine Fete.

Last night an increased crowd was present at the St. Valentine Fete given by the ladies of the Holy Trinity Church at Magnolia Hall, and many a young man left his sho3ls in the keeping of the good ladies, who knew where to put them where they would do the most good. The entertainments were successful beyond the hopes of the most sanguine, which fact we are pleased to chronicle. The Minuet was danced last evening by a number of young folks dressed in the costumes of the "days of 76," and it was certainly an interesting sight. The oyster-soup (and who can appreciate such a thing better than a reporter) was a wonderful improvement on the usual church-fair article, and the Fete was a great improvement on the usual church fair. The ladies can rest assured that anything with which they are in the future connected will be well patronized.

"A Bunch of Keys."

Of this funny play, which is to be produced at the Opera-house on Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, the Boston Globe says:

"A Bunch of Keys," which was produced for the first time in Boston last evening, on the stage of the Globe Theater, is a light, amusing piece—"a collection of incidents," as Mr. Hoyt aptly characterizes it—which serves perfectly its purpose, to amuse the public. Original in one respect, certainly "A Bunch of Keys" must be conceded to be. The hotel scenes, with the lawyer proprietor, the much summoned "Front" and the array of guests, wonderful to behold, present a new phase of stage life; and they are made extremely funny. There is just enough plot to keep the action of the piece reasonably well connected; and, what with songs, dances, surprises and mirth-provoking happenings, the interest of an audience is never suffered to flag. A great variety of music, drawn from Harrigan and Hart's latest success, "A Muddy day," among other sources, is introduced in the piece. The audience, very enthusiastic in its reception of a "Bunch of Keys," in a very large size, and the attraction is likely to prove one of the best of the season.

An Overflow.

Private advices received in this city last night stated that the water was flowing into Lewis swamp, in Coahoma county. The levee at that place has been in bad condition for some time. Should the overflow continue, the Sunflower valley, and much of the surface of Issaquena and Sharkey counties is likely to be submerged.

Four Hundred Per Cent.

In answer to the Lexington Bulletin in regard to the recent reduction in the price of our city printing and advertising, we would state that the city was charged 50 cents per square for each insertion under last year's contract, while done for 10 cents per square. That is, the city was charged last year 400 per cent. more than it is charged this year. If there had been no competition, no doubt the city would have had to pay the same old price, 50 cents per square, whereas THE POST claims the credit of being the cause of the work being reduced to 10 cents. If it had not been for THE POST the city would no doubt be paying 60 cents, which is 400 per cent. more than 10 cents, and consequently a saving to the city of 400 per cent.

We had the pleasure to-day of examining an excellent portrait in oil of Commodore S. H. Parisot, at the studio of Capt. J. C. Brain, 31 Clay street. The portrait is life-size, and is painted upon a 7x4 foot canvass. It is the work of Capt. Brain and Mr. L. Spottswood, and is an exact likeness of the well-known Commodore, being so pronounced by all of his friends who have seen it. Capt. Brain extends a cordial invitation to Commodore Parisot's friends to call at the studio and examine the portrait.

The Lady Employees of the Post-office.

We cheerfully give place to the following, and will add our testimony as to the worth and ability of the ladies at the Vicksburg post-office, who so faithfully and constantly and patiently and politely serve the public. That their duties are of a most arduous and exacting nature can readily be understood. The Northern mail (by the V. & M. R. R.) arrives at 6 o'clock in the morning and departs at 8 o'clock in the evening; it can thus be seen what long and unseasonable hours the post-office employees are compelled to be at their places. Post-office duties are the most exacting in the world, except, perhaps, those that pertain to a daily newspaper. The work of each must go on regularly and promptly, no matter what happens or who suffers, and the employees in these establishments can never postpone their work until the rain ceases or the weather moderates. The post-office employees certainly earn their money, and we trust Uncle Sam's reward for their faithful and efficient toil is commensurate with their deserts:

VICKSBURG, Miss., Feb 14, 1882.

Editor Evening Post:

You have frequently, and justly, too, called the attention of the community to the fine business qualifications and conscientious discharge of duty by the employees in certain public offices, but I cannot remember ever a kind a word for the lady employees at the post office. Did you ever think of the life they lead? In the early morning hours, when many of our people are sleeping comfortably at home, they are plodding through our streets going to the office; while their old associates are coolly sitting around pleasant firesides, long after dark, they can be seen returning home. No matter how inclement the weather—through rain and mud and cold and sleet, they must go, and be promptly at their posts.

Watch their nimble fingers as they manipulate the mail matter! See how pleasantly they deliver it to, sometimes, rude men and women; how politely they answer all questions propounded to them!

Theirs is a hard life, but they meet the issue cheerfully, and this is most wonderful, when they think of the past, of the luxuries which at one time surrounded them.

A Fresco Artist.

Mr. Wm. A. Lay, a fresco artist of Cincinnati, O., arrived here to-day. He came here for the purpose of frescoing the inside of the Presbyterian church of this place, having been engaged by the congregation of that church to do the same.

During Mr. Lay's sojourn here, it would be a splended idea for some of the other churches to get him to do some of the same kind of work for them, as the beautiful appearance of the inside of a church will sometimes impress those upon whom the more solemn features of religion at first have but little effect.

The Uncertainty of Life.

The following communication was received by this paper a day or two since from Mr. I. W. Waiblinger, of Edwards, Miss., but for want of space we were not able to give it a place until to-day. Wonderfully strange, however, in the very same issue, also appears an account of Mr. Waiblinger's own death—he having died very suddenly at Edwards yesterday morning:

JOHN HARTIGAN.

No nationality on earth surpasses that of Ireland. An Englishman by birth, I would prefer being that of Ireland, where I have lived and loved from boyhood to manhood. No people have poured out their blood more freely for this country than Irishmen. To-day they are a power in the land. Their unfortunate classes have been forced hither by cruel landlords. But go with me to the Irish metropolitan cities, and I will make you blush, comparatively, with the education and etiquette thereof. The subject of this notice was a noble yeomen of the Irish race. I met him in 1866, or about that time. He was from the historic city of Limerick, the scene of the "broken treaty" during the military career of Lord Clare. May the clay lie light on John Hartigan, a true type of his country; brave, generous, light-hearted, and a devoted son of the "Emerald Isle." I have often clasped his hand on St. Patrick's Day, and shared the bounty of his big heart. "Requiescat in pace.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884. ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Mercer and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any responsible banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is transacted.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act amending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and to bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the person dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; and no such stockholder is liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicile of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders' or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts may be executed at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days, in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet, they shall elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no defect or informality in organization shall expose any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

I find nothing in the foregoing Charter violative of the laws or Constitution of the State.

Unfavorable Report Upon a Warren County Bill.

The Governor Vetoes Williamson's Railroad Supervision Bill.

Senate.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 16.—The committee do not recommend the passage of the bill for the relief of Montgomery and sureties, of Warren county.

House.

The Governor this morning sent to the Speaker's desk the Railroad bill to provide for the regulation of freight and passenger rates of railroads, and for the taxation of property of railroad companies, with his veto of the same and reasons therefor. The veto message was made the special order for Monday night.

Arrival of Frank James, the Criminal Hero of Missouri.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Feb. 14.—A special to the Age announces the arrival, at Huntsville this afternoon, from Missouri, of Frank James, under guard of Deputy Marshals McGhee and Elliott, of Kansas City. He will be tried in April, at the United States term of Court, for the murder of Paymaster Smith, at Muscle Shoals, about two years and a half ago.

The interviewer reports him by no means a wreck. It is reported on the contrary that he is in fair health and spirits. He claims he could make a bond if he wished.

The Education Lobby.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14.—A new lobby has just made its appearance in Washington bound on furthering Mr. Belford's proposition to open the vaults of the plethoric Treasury. This lobby is in the interests of the educational bill and is composed of the Interstate Commission and Federal Aid to Education. Its last meeting was held in New York last summer, at which time it was agreed that the Committee should present to Congress at its approaching session a bill providing a fund of some $60,000,000 to be distributed in twelve years among the States according to illiteracy. The Committee appointed by the Interstate Commission had a preliminary meeting here to-day and to-morrow will perfect a bill for introduction into both houses. It will not be exactly the same as that adopted last summer, but will contain somewhat the same provisions. That bill was read to-day, and it was agreed that some modification was necessary to give it any show of success. It provides that for twenty years after the passage of the act there shall be apportioned for each illiterate person between the ages of 10 and 20 years, inclusive, in the several States of the Union as shown by the census, and for each person inclusive of the ages of 6 to 20, as shown by the last census, the following amounts: First, second and third years, each year $4; fourth, fifth and sixth years, each $3; seventh, eighth and ninth years, each $2; tenth, eleventh and twelfth year, each $1 —at which time the appropriation under this act shall cease. The whole amount contemplated under this great scheme aggregates about $60,000,000. As soon as this bill comes up in either house a lobby of educational gentlemen will be on hand to push it to a successful conclusion.

GEN. STONE, the late chief of staff to the Egyptian army, is of the opinion that England will be obliged to use an army of 100,000 men to cope with Mahomet Ahmed.

Veto of the Railroad Bill.

Our special dispatch from Jackson brings the gratifying news that Gov. Lowry has vetoed the Railroad Supervision bill. This, at least, will give the Supervisionists a set back and throw a damper upon them; it may also give time for returning reason to resume its sway. The Governor's reasons are not indicated in the dispatch, but it is fair to suppose that portions of the bill were deemed by the Attorney-General of the State to be unconstitutional.

We predicted that the Governor would approve the Supervision bill, but of course that prediction was predicated upon the idea that the provisions of the bill were not in conflict with the Constitution.* We still predict that the Governor will approve the Railroad Supervision bill when shorn of its unconstitutional features. The programme of the Supervisionists now seems to be to pass a bill of this sort.

We will now see how the redoubtable Speaker of the House will handle his forces. At any rate, the breach between Inge and Lowry is widened.

The Partition of the Government Relief Fund.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Secretary Lincoln estimates that the purchase of supplies by the Mayors of the various towns along the Ohio River, and the expenditures by the sufferers from Patchez and Lounsville, will aggregate $180,000 leaving $120,000 of the appropriation to be expended by Gen. Beckwith, who is in charge at Cincinnati.

Michigan Railways to Lose their Land Grants.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The House Committee on Public Lands has unanimously agreed to report bills declaring the forfeiture of all unpatented lands granted by the Government to the Marietta, Houghton & Ontonagon; the State Line, and the Ontonagan & Brule river railroads in Michigan. A clause in the bill affecting the latter will protects homesteaders and cash purchasers.

Cockerill Takes a Tumble.

WASHINGTON CITY, Feb. 15.—The Senate continues to furnish sensations. Cockerill, of Missouri, tilted back in his chair swinging his legs. Suddenly he went over backward with a fearful crash. The unfortunate man was caught between the arms of the chair and the desk, and could not recover himself. He kicked for a moment, greatly to the delight of the galleries, but it was not until Coke and Garland came to the rescue that he was extricated from his humiliating position.

The Session of the Educational Convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—The final session of the Educational Convention opened this morning. After the discussion of several papers the association took a recess to call upon the President and the Secretary of the Interior.

At the White House a special reception was accorded the members by the President. Gen. Eaton, Commissioner of the Bureau of Education, introduced Hon. B. L. Butcher, who in turn introduced the delegates to the President.

Gen. Eaton spoke of the delegates as representing 5,000,000 of children, and of the President's experience as a teacher.

The President responded, saying that among the pleasantest recollections of his life were the remembrances connected with the time of his school teaching. He felt that the greatest help to the administrative functions of the Government came from the educators of the people. He also said that the permanency of our institutions depended upon the education of the youth of the nation.

Capt. Darden's Address.

The audience that greeted Capt. Put Darden at the Capitol last night was well worthy the speaker, the occasion and because he represented. Every seat in the house was occupied, and quite a number of ladies graced the occasion by their presence. Capt. Darden spoke for about an hour and a half, and in fluent, eloquent and logical style submitted his several propositions. He spoke as the representative of the State Grange, and he placed the members of the Legislature who were present in full possession of the wishes of that organization touching the material and educational interests of the State. The hour at which we go to press prevents even a synopsis of his address. The farmers wanted the legislative protection afforded all other callings and professions; they wanted to be protected from monopolies; they they were in favor of a repeal of the lien law; they wanted railroad supervision under a commission; equal taxation; the election of educational and judicial officers so that the decisions of the latter might be in harmony and in sympathy with the people; they wanted all the established educational institutions maintained, and in addition, an industrial school for girls. What the women want is works, and we should have a school in which to prepare them for business, where they could learn stenography, telegraphy, book-keeping, etc. Altogether, the address was listened to with the most profound attention, and it was evident that the great mass of his hearers were in hearty sympathy with the speaker.—Clarion, 16th.

Removal of the Capital.

At a meeting to be held on Tuesday night next in the interest of the proposed daily paper, a motion will be made with a few to some action on the part of the city in response to the bill before the Legislature for removing the capital. A full attendence of our citizens is desired. —Meridian Mercury.

As a rule everything eatable at table should be eaten with spoon or fork. Stewed prunes, however, may be taken with a pruning knife.—Picayune.

THE World's Exposition, at New Orleans, will have a speaking, freshly-made Mississippi Colonel as a new curiosity.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SENATOR SHERMAN
Interviewed on the Tariff Question —Thinks Congress Should Let it Alone, and That Nothing Will be Done This Session—Considers the Democrats Free Traders.
NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Mail and Express prints an interview with Senator Sherman on the proposed tariff legislation, from which the following is a synopsis:
In reply to the question as to the coming action of Congress, he said he did not believe the result could be more than guessed at: "In tariff discussion it is the unexpected which always happens, but I can tell you just what Congress ought to do, and that is, to let the subject severely alone during the present Congress.
"There is no queseion that the business interests of the country generally were somewhat injured by passing the last tariff bill, but more so by the sensitive and uncertain state of the money market. While the revenue law of last Winter gave great relief in reducing taxes, yet it was very injurious to the iron and woolen industries. Ohio and Pennsylvania have suffered severely through the operations of last year's bill. While it was true the wool growers had suffered severely, yet the full effect of the recent law is not yet known. It would be very unwise, by any fresh disturbance of the tariff, to prevent the country finding out the whole effect of the last law.
"Congress is in no condition to pass a harmonious and well-considered tariff law. Not only are the two houses not in harmony with each other, but there are differences of opinion among the members of the same parties in the same house."
He said a proper tariff law could only be made when only one party has power and responsibility. In the present Congress responsibility would be divided between the Democratic House and Republican Senate and Executive. Even if another tariff should become a law, the people would not know whom to hold responsible. It was probable that hereafter party lines would be drawn on financial questions and he thought it would be a happy day for his country when this is the case, so that popular opinion might decide for or against protective duties.
That the Republican party has been from the beginning, and is, in favor of such protective duties, with a view to diversifying our industries, is shown by the laws it has enacted for the twenty-four years past. It is almost certain that were the Democratic party in power it would take ground against all systems of protection, and frame laws simply with a view to revenue.
I believe that the issue is made portions of the South will favor protective duties, and portions of the East will favor free trade. He said he had observed a growing feeling in certain States in favor of free raw materials, but did not believe this would stand the ordeal of a popular election. Protective duties must be extended to all forms of labor, and need not extend to capital, which is at this period almost as cheap and abundant as in Europe. He had always thought the development of raw material one of the chief objects of protective laws, as when raw materials are judiciously developed, manufactures will inevitably follow.
He however, he did not think any industry which cannot be reasonably expected in the lapse of time to be self-sustaining should be protected. The consumer should get the full benefit of protection by cheapening of home productions, which will follow from home competition. The protections of the farm will have the advantage of the home market, caused by the diversity of home manufactures.
He expressed the opinion that free trade, as advocated by some college professors and political theorists, would be utterly destructive to the business interests of the country, and produce the same stagnation in trade and financial ruin that followed the tendency to free trade in 1857 and 1857.
"What we want," said Senator Sherman, in conclusion, "is a system of protective duties, moderate in degree, but stable and certain. This last is a great point, and one which should obtain consideration. Then we want marked changes in commercial laws, to encourage American ship building and to encourage American ship building and commerce on the high seas."

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 16, 1884.

WE acknowledge an invitation to attend the Commencement Exercises of the celebrated Louisville Medical College, at Masonic Temple Monday evening, February 26th, 1884.

MR. WM. POPE, a wealthy miner of Mexico, has invented a machine which has been worked successfully in the Mexican mines, by which gold and silver are separated by electricity.

THE farmers of Virginia are calling for the adoption by the Legislature of that State of the New Jersey road law. They have found out that good turnpikes are as essential to their welfare as railroads.

THE Senate sub-Committee to investigate the Copiah county outrages, is now in session at New Orleans and is busily engaged taking testimony. L. J. Mabry, Chewe and A. W. Barnett were examined yesterday, and Mrs. J. P. Matthews, wife of the murdered man, will give her testimony to-day.

THERE is considerable talk of Sam. Randall receiving the Democratic nomination for President. This would probably be the very best selection the Democrats could make. Randall has a most excellent personal and private record, and his views on the tariff and other leading questions are the only ones upon which the party can win a National victory.

Supervision Bill.

Late reliable Jackson advices assure us of the early passage of a supervision bill which will be shorn of its constitutional objections, and meet all the demands of "the friends of the bill." It is also confidently believed this bill will meet with the Governor's approval and settle this important and vexatious question.—Meridian Mercury, 16th.

WE greatly regret the death of MR. JOHN J. DOHERTY, City Editor of THE VICKSBURG EVENING POST, which occurred in that city last week. Our acquaintance with this excellent young gentleman and journalist was not of long duration—we met him in Vicksburg last Fall, and during our brief stay in the Historic City had occasion to see much of him and to learn by experience and observation how true he was to the profession that engrossed his time and talent, and how valuable he was to a city that in this important era of her existence needs the aid of hand and brain of all who are endowed by nature with the instincts of the guide. Peace to his ashes and consolation to those who mourn him. —Aberdeen Examiner.

The Governor's Staff.

Gen. F. C. Morehead has received a Commission as Colonel on Gov. Lowry's staff. The appointment was a fit and proper one for Governor to make. The public have realized the existence of a hiatus some where in the State Government, but were at a loss to locate it. They will draw a breath of relief, now that they know that it was caused by the absence of a Colonel from the Governor's staff and that the long felt want has been supplied.—Tupelo Journal.

During the war a pompous Confederate General entered a passenger car on a railroad and demanded of the brakeman (who happened to be an Irishman) seats for himself and staff. The brakeman politely pointed to a seat, with the remark: "There's a seat for ye, Gineral, and ye can put yer staff out av the window." The Governor would do well to put his staff out of the back door.

Mr. Baker on an Elective Judiciary.

On the consideration of the adoption of the joint resolution submitting the question of the election of the judiciary to the people, Mr. Baker, in explaining his vote in favor of the resolution, said that he voted for it because he believed that the people should have an opportunity to express their opinion at the ballot box upon a question of so grave a nature as the election of their judges, and because in doing so he was giving expression to the will of his constituents as he fully believed, and as a representative of the people he felt it his duty to express their views by his vote, even though it conflicted with his own views.

He said that at the ballot-box his ballot was his individual expression and not as a representative, and that as a voter at the polls he would have voted against the ratification of the amendment because of the fact that a large class of the timely educated voters can be manipulated by bad and designing men, and in that way incompetent persons might be elected to fill these most important offices known to our people.—Clarion.

The Special Committee on the Penitentiary.

The House did well in thanking this committee for its fearless investigation of the convict system horror and abomination.

For several years whispers and rumors of barbarities and brutalities have been floating about the State; a shadowy suspicion of the truth has haunted the public mind; but the sources of definite information have been so few, that the avenues of approach to the soul-sickening truth have been no thoroughfare to the few kind hearts who desired an exploration. Indeed this special committee in their report speak of the impediments and obstacles placed in the march of their investigation. They may readily conceive how the brutes that lash the poor fellows who are in their power and at their mercy, would wish to disarm inquiry and strangle the truth. We may well be thankful that we know the truth, or enough of it at all events to follow the way our duty points us.

We may well thank Almighty God that it is given to the State of Mississippi to know the truth, and to have an opportunity given to her in the good year eighteen hundred and eighty-four to make amends and restitution for this great and grievous wrong, to wash her hands of the sin of carelessness and indifference in the past, and to avoid the deeper crime of withholding the full measure of prompt and full relief.

Thanks to the gentlemen in the Legislature who have promoted or aided in this work of mercy and humanity; thanks to the courage and humanity of this committee. Their names should be written in letters of gold on the walls of the capitol that they may never fade from the memory of men.

Two reflections come uppermost to the mind in this great tragedy that is now unfolded to the people of Mississippi.

One is that Mississippi, of all the Southern States, has for two years past had the most appalling death rate in its prison system, reaching in that time the almost incredible percentage of seventeen and seven-twelfths per centum. This being one and seven-twelfths per cent. higher than the Louisiana prison death of fourteen per cent., characterized by Mr. Cable as the worst. But he then did not have before him the Mississippi statistics for 1882 and 1883.

The other idea is one that we may rejoice in and be thankful for, that Mississippi, of all the Southern States, has been the first to fearlessly examine into conscience and take account of her shortcomings and sins of omission, and is to take the lead in this work of humanity, mercy and true reform.

Gentlemen of the Legislature, do not imagine you have accomplished your duty until you have prepared and set on foot a practical plan by which these poor convicts shall, just as soon as a place can be prepared for them, be taken back under the auspices and direct protection of the State. Minor and detailed internal prison reforms will come later. Begin now, and without delay, the work of preparing for a sweeping and permanent change to be put into practical operation at the earliest possible moment.

There is no duty that lies nearer to our hands.

The Lien Law.

The Lien Law was enacted as a desperate expedient—for the temporary relief of the farming class from what was regarded as an intolerable condition of poverty and bankruptcy. The primary object of the law was to furnish an artificial and abnormal means of credit and support until that class had recovered sufficiently from the disastrous effects of the war to enable them to return to fixed and standard business methods, created and governed by the natural necessities and requirements of commerce. It was contended that the farming class was in a condition of such utter helplessness that unless some special temporary measure was adopted for their relief they would be powerless to pursue their operations and the State would be compelled to suffer the baneful results. Without questioning the correctness of this extreme view of the situation, we may look at how the Lien Law has performed the office for which it was created. It has now been in operation a sufficient length of time, reason would teach us, for its mission to be accomplished, and the country should now have derived enough strength from its favors and advantages, if it furnishes half claimed by its supporters, to be independent of its existence or non-existence. On the contrary, we are told that the class for which it was to work such salutary results are no richer and possess no greater inherent strength than at the time of its passage; that now, the same as at the time of the enactment of the law, they stand in desperate need of its protection, and that to repeal it would place the farmers in the same condition in which they were when the law was passed. By all rules of reasoning, this is plain, unimpeachable evidence that the law has failed to accomplish its mission; that it is not capable of imparting the smallest degree of permanent vigor and strength to the farmer, and that it is therefore based on an erroneous business principle, and worthless. On the other hand, it is undoubtedly true that just so many farms as the evils, in the way of high prices and a tendency to extravagance, nurtured by a credit system, which has followed the law, have driven into the hands of the merchants, just that much damage and injury has the law inflicted upon the country. Thus by the most potent arguments in favor of it, the measure is proved to have been of no permanent or general benefit, but to many a positive and serious injury. If on one hand the law is building up no lasting strength and prosperity; is bringing the farmers no nearer independence, or to any better condition than when they began to operate under it; but on the other hand, is in one way working an undoubted injury by—we may grant even occasional—acquisitions of farms by the merchants through its results, then what reason is there for continuing it? No other class in Mississippi has been protected by such legislation, and yet to-day no other class in the State is less independent. If at the end of the war any class possessed advantages over the others, that was the farming class, for they had their lands—on which to begin the struggle, while in the other departments of life the great majority had nothing to start with but their energy and judgment. To continue the Lien Law in force, is simply to postpone what must finally be done. This fictitious and baseless credit cannot be continued always. The farmer must, and will eventually be thrown upon his own resources without special privileges and the aid of special laws, and the quicker it is done and he is forced to work out his own redemption, with no favor but the natural and honest laws of trade, the quicker will the State bloom into fresh and lasting prosperity. If in fifteen years the Lien law has not removed the farmer from the condition of helplessness and dependence in which it found him, the conclusion is inevitable that it is powerless to do so. Repeal it and throw every farmer on his own resources; put him on his merits as an honest man and business manager; compel him to bring into use some other faculties besides a simple ability to plow and hoe, and at the end of the season haul his crop to town and deliver over to his supply-merchant, and a few years will see the beneficial results. That for a short time it will entail hardships on a large number, there is no doubt, but judgment and energy will surmount all obstacles; and when the farmer once works away from immediate wants, without the assistance of, and obligations to, the mortgage law, he will be on the high road to independence. No person who would work ever starved to death in Mississippi, and few, very few, ever felt actual want. The repeal of the law will compel those farmers who now live by it to do that which they cannot and will not do now—live at home. A farmer without the opportunity to mortgage a year's crop of cotton for enough meat and bread to live on through the season, will see the necessity of raising such things at home; and the necessity will be great enough to compel him to act upon it.

It may be expedient to graduate the effects of the repeal of the law by having the bill take effect a year or two after its passage. A better plan might be to allow the farmer to mortgage half his crop the year previous to the final obliteration of the mistaken measure.

Bankruptcy Legislation.

No National bankrupt law, with its endless delays and vexations and expenses, in its present and proposed form would be needed, if each State would perfect its own insolvent laws, and the business men in the other States could soon place the entire country beyond a general bankrupt law. Such a law invites failures and dishonesty in business. The dishonest are thus permitted to buy and sell recklessly, having the bankruptcy mill in view, from which they hope to emerge with fresh credit. The honest and unfortunate debtor does not need such a law, for he can always secure a discharge by the surrender in perfect faith and in full view of all his assets. It is the dishonest that thrive under a bankrupt law. We need no such laws. But such law will be enacted unless each State changes its laws so as to prevent unjust preferences and fraudulent conveyances. If the Boards of Trade in Georgia would move in this matter there would be no difficulty in procuring the right kind of State legislation. All other States should do likewise, if for no other reason, than for the advoidance of a national bankrupt law. We will soon be compelled to choose between such a course and an overhauling of our assignment and collection laws. But there is not a State that will not promptly come into line if the business men who are most deeply interested will press the subject fairly and fully.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Valley Roadroad Let into the City.

Now that the ordinance granting the right of way to the Mississippi Valley Railroad is over their grounds has been passed the whole matter will be submitted to the board of directors of the road, and when accepted by them work will be immediately commenced at the depot, a portion of which, according to the terms of the sales are held under a previous lease. The planters along the coast and the citizens of the First District express considerable satisfaction at the consummation of the efforts of this company, which will redound to their benefit.—Picayune.

THE Cincinnati News-Journal says it was Gen. A. T. Warner, and not Mr. Payne, who was the author of the tariff plank in the Ohio platform.

Chalmers and Manning Again.

The following interesting report of the proceedings in the House yesterday shows that Mr. Manning has not only been "sat down upon," but has allowed himself to be made ridiculous. He must have felt supremely mortified when he marched up to the Speaker's desk with his little certificate, accompanied by Representative Curtin, of Pennsylvania, and then marched back again, amid the derisive laughter, without being allowed to take the oath of office. That "certificate" was properly treated by the House. We are pleased to see that Mr. Barksdale made a sensible effort to have the case go back to the Committee to be decided upon its merits. However, it has been pretty well settled already by the Committee that Mr. Manning has no merits, as they went into the merits of the case far enough to find that out. Chalmers will now certainly get his seat:

Mr. Turner, of Georgia, called up the Chalmers-Manning election case. Its consideration was antagonized by McMillen, of Tennessee, in favor of the private calendar, but he was unsuccessful and Miller, of Tennessee took the floor in opposition to the claims of Manning.

Tucker, of Virginia, made a brief and very forcible legal argument in behalf of the right of Manning to the seat, on the prima facie case, contending that the House would set a very dangerous precedent if it now laid down the doctrine that in deciding such a case it could go behind members' certificates, take a piece of evidence tending to impeach the correctness of the certificate, refuse to allow a man bearing proper credentials to be sworn in, and thus deprive the people of the whole district of the right of representation.

A long debate ensued, participated in by Broadhead, Singleton, of Mississippi, G. D. Wise, Van Eaton of Mississippi, and Bennett, of Missouri, in support of the minority resolutions; by Potter, Ranney and Mason, of Iowa, in favor of the resolutions of the majority, and by Barksdale in advocacy of the proposed amendment directing the Committee on Elections to immediately decide the case upon its merits. The dreary monotony of the discussion was not interrupted by any noteworthy incident until 5:30 o'clock, when the previous question was ordered. Then Curtin, of Pennsylvania, took the floor for the purpose of withdrawing his resolution for re-committal, and he wound up the recital of the reason which led to this action with these words: "With Gen. Manning's full consent and approbation, I bring him to the Speaker's desk and ask that the oath be administered to him on the certificate of the Governor of Mississippi." Suiting his action to his words, he took Manning by the arm; together they stood before the Speaker, where Curtin presented him and demanded he be sworn in as the representative, under the certificate of the Governor of a loyal and great State.

Immediately the House woke up, and Calkins, of Indiana, rose and made a point of order that the House had referred the case to a committee and that committee had reported to the House, and that report was now under consideration.

The Speaker said that he didn't think that there was any necessity to decide the question of order, because the question whether or not Manning was entitled to take the oath of office was the very question the House was then considering and on which the House was about to take a vote. The chair would not undertake to administer the oath of office to a person claiming to be a member-elect when the House itself was considering his right to a seat.

Manning and Curtin thereupon returned to their seats amid the derisive laughte. of the Republican side, which was increased at the remark of Belford: "Ring down the curtain; the play is over."

The debate was closed by Rogers, of Arkansas, in support of the majority recommendations, and Turner of Georgia, in support of the minority resolution. The question then recurred on substituting the minority resolutions for those of the majority and a division of the resolutions being demanded, the vote was taken on the first, declaring that Manning holds perfect credentials. This was rejected, yeas 106, nays 140. The announcement was received with applause on the Republican side.

Cook, of Iowa, said that it was evident that it would be useless to waste time of the House by further vote. He therefore asked to withdraw the other resolution, but Warner, of Ohio, objected. The second resolution declaring Manning entitled to the seat was defeated by 92 to 157. The majority resolutions were then adopted by 130 to 56.

These discharge the Committee on election from the prima facie case, and leaves the seat vacant until the case is decided on its merits.

The Levee System.

When the Legislature of Mississippi was in session two years ago, it dismissed the thought of devising a plan for protecting the Yazoo delta by a charitable bestowal of a few thousand dollars for relief purposes. But we now suggest, that if a like disaster overwhelms that sume section of the State, that the present Legislature either take instantly the levee subject or adjourn to some set time and then exhaustively determine upon the true plan, which the State should adopt to facilitate and guarantee protection from overflow to that part of the State.

It is thought by many persons that the entire State should be brought more completely in connection with the Delta Levee system, and that the corporation of which it is composed should have a part of its members appointed by the State and a report of the management of its finances and general management made direct to the Legislature.—State Ledger.

HINDS COUNTY is getting famous for excitement. Last Summer fusion and anti-fusion agitated her people, then the municipal election of Jackson, then the amendment to the charter, and now the question of funding the outstanding school warrants, which amount to about $75,000.

NOTES.

The John A. Scudder will pass south on Monday from St. Louis.

Mr. Sprig Magruder is the new discharging clerk at the Elevator.

Capt. A. Auter is now at the wheel of the mail steamer Capt. Miller.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton, U. S. Mail agent, and charge of the mail matter on board the Shaw.

The Chas. D. Shaw will be in on time to leave Monday morning with the mail for Natchez.

The Issaquena, from Greenville, will arrive to-night, and return Monday evening at 4 o'clock.

The Natchez will be up Monday, returning to New Orleans Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock.

The Arkansas City will be the next anchor Line steamer for St. Louis. She will depart at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The E. C. Carroll will be in to-morrow from the Tallahatchie and will depart promptly at 5 o'clock Monday.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Baton Rouge left at 11 o'clock this morning for St. Louis, with a good trip of people.

The Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City is due and will leave on time Tuesday morning at 11 a.m. for St. Louis.

Capt. Auter, who came up in charge of Capt. Miller's broken rudder, says that the accident will cause the Miller to be one or two more trips.

The E. C. Carroll will be in from Tallahatchie river to-morrow evening, and leaves on her return for that stream and the Yalu lake Monday evening.

The Golden Crown, for Cincinnati, had 250 barrels of oil and a large lot of lard here. Commodore Shinkle and family were among her passengers.

The Line steamer Golden Crown arrived this morning at 11 o'clock and docked at noon with a fine up river trip. She had about fifty passengers aboard.

The W. P. Thompson landed at 6 last night with a good freight and passenger trip. She leaves at 4 this evening for Eagle Bend, Bunche's Bend and Ashton.

The Hard Cash will arrive from Tallahatchie river Sunday evening, connect with the Natchez, and will return on Monday at 4 p.m. W. C. O'Hara is up for both boats.

The P. Line steamer DeSmet, left today at noon for Greenwood with both cabins and barge loaded down with freight. She will return in time to leave again Monday at 5 p.m.

The W. P. Thompson is receiving freight and leaves promptly, at 4 o'clock this evening for Grand Lake, Capt. Nelson master, and Heman Denio freight and passenger agent.

The Ed. Richardson got off late on account of a very large lot of oil-cake and meal she had to take on here. She went away with 420 bales cotton 632 sacks oil cake and 6,500 sacks cotton seed meal.

The P. Line steamer City of Yazoo will be up to-morrow evening from New Orleans, will receive Monday and leave Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for New Orleans and way landings.

The Nellie, Howe, Pullman & Co.'s advance boat, started yesterday for up the Yazoo with a large supply of show printing and a bill-posting brigade in charge of Mr. Rox Moore. Mr. Walter Garrett is at the wheel.

The big tow boat Joe Williams arrived at the coal fleet above the city at 9 o'clock last night with 22 coal boats and 4 flats for Mattingly, Son & Co. Capt. John Williams is her master, and Captains Patterson and O'Rafferty are her pilots.

In response to telegrams stating that a large consignment of freight and a number of passengers would arrive for her this morning, the DeSmet overlaid until noon to-day. She was busy taking freight all the morning, and had a big trip. She goes to Greenwood.

The Chas. D. Shaw arrived at 4 o'clock this morning, bringing the mail in place of the Capt. Miller, which met with an accident above Natchez, in the breaking of her rudder. The disabled rudder was brought up on the Shaw, and is being repaired at Adam Fox's foundry, on the levee. She departed at 8 this morning.

The J. M. White arrived from New Orleans this morning at 9 o'clock with a big bends freight and full of people. She left for Greenville and all intermediate points above at 10 a.m. Col. Matt Johnson and family of Lake Washington went up on her, Sheriff Powell of Madison parish and City Marshal McGuire of Lake Providence went up on her to Lake Providence. The White will pass down again at 5 o'clock Monday evening for New Orleans.

CLIPPINGS.

Memphis Ledger: Capt. Leathers has built and run seven steamboats bearing the name of Natchez. The Captain has been a commander of steamboats on the Mississippi river for the period of forty-seven years, and we understand the failure of the present Natchez last week to complete her regular trip in the Vicksburg trade was the first misfortune of that kind that has ever occurred to him. And even on this occasion the Captain was absent from the boat, being confined at home with a severe cold. * * * The Belle Shreveport, with a big cargo, and bound for Cincinnati, ran into the pier of the bridge at Louisville yesterday, and was damaged to the extent of $1,000. She has laid up at the foot of the canal for repairs, and may turn back from there and make a Mardi Gras trip to New Orleans, or await the falling of the waters.

The Defeat of 'Cerro Gordo' Williams.

The failure of "Cerro Gordo" Williams to secure re-election to the United States Senate from Kentucky, had been foreshadowed in the caucus contest for some days before the nomination. The gallant old chieftain was assured of more than enough votes to nominate him, months ago, but a number of men who were pledged to his support, were won from their allegiance by the introduction of a third candidate, and the breach widened as the contest was prolonged until some of these men became his active opponents and even enemies. His loss to the farming interests of the South and West will be keenly felt, for he was more essentially the representative of the farming interests than any other man in Congress.

Joe Blackburn, who will succeed him, is a man of talent and brilliant parts, but the Mexican war veterans and the Confederate soldiers have lost a faithful friend and champion in the defeat of Gen. Williams.—Aberdeen Examiner.

Wanted to be Counted In.

"Oh! I think it must be so nice to be connected with a newspaper,' said Miss McFlynn to young Quillidriver, as they sat together one evening.

"Yes, it is, so-so," he replied, "but why do you think it is?"

"Why, it has so many advantages. I should think you would glory in the freedom, the power, the liberty, and all the privileges of the press."

"Certainly, I do. It's a pity with all your enthusiasm on the subject that you are not a journalist."

"I think so too; but you know it is hard for a woman to obtain recognition. I should be delighted to feel that the press embraced me."

"Oh, you would, would you? Great Scott! wait till I turn down the gas."—Texas Siftings.

THE Heber Newton controversy goes on, and there is no certainty as to when it will end. Rev. Newton is an Episcopal minister of New York, who has been delivering lectures on the Bible, into which his religious doctrines find their Potter regards as heretical. Rev. Newton holds that the scriptures contain the word of God, "but are not from beginning to end that word." The feeling against him among a large body of men in the Episcopal church appears to be quite strong, and it is now quite probable that the squabble will result in a trial of Rev. Newton for heresy. Bishop Potter requests a discontinuance of the lectures, but hesitates to do anything more in the matter at present, but it is doubtful if he can resist the pressure of opinion from the church people. The trial, if it comes to that, will attract wide attention in religious circles.—Times-Star.

IT is particularly unfortunate that the meeting of the Cotton Exposition has fallen into the hands of the people one egotistical wise bibber who runs the Planters Journal.—Chicago Mail.

Postal Telegraphy.

Are we to have a National postal telegraph, or is the Western Union Company to continue to handle the telegraph business of the country? is a question which now presents itself to the business men of the United States, and is one well worth their attention. We mention business men, for they are, from their regular demands for telegraphic service, especially able to judge which is the most expedient policy. No one can judge better than they whether the Union Company that now serves them performs the work efficiently and whether the prices it charges can be considered satisfactory. A proposition is made that a telegraph department be added to the present postal service, the Government on its business independent and carrying on business independent of any existing company so far as it lines extend. If there was no telegraphic system existing in the country, that such a system should be added to the postal service would, without doubt, be a popular demand. Another question is, therefore whether the corporative arrangement now carrying on the business is performing its work so as to make a postal telegraph system necessary. As far as the rights of any existing corporation are concerned, they are not of a nature to forbid the institution of such a postal telegraph. This is well shown by the New York Post, which says that every stockholder of the Western Union bought his stock subject to the risk of competition from any quarter, public or private, and must have known that he so bought it. The extent to which the Government shall undertake to serve the public is something which must always be determined by the interest or conscience of the whole people, and not of any portion of the people. If, in receiving any work or function, it causes loss to any man, it owes him no compensation unless it takes his property. If it took the Western Union lines it would have to pay the stock holders a just compensation; but if it simply started competing lines it would owe them nothing, and ought not to give them anything whatever." Here is the just principle of the matter, and whether the country is to have its own telegraphic service, or depend for that service upon the corporation at present performing it, it is for the country to decide. The business portion of the country is competent to judge whether that corporation, for the future as well as the present, does or is likely to do its business with a fidelity, a liberality and a correctness that make it a preferable instrument of communication to lines operated by the same system that now carries the country's letters. Should it be decided in favor of a national other than a corporation system, that decision should be expressed clearly and openly.—Memphis Appeal.

Superintendent East Mississippi Asylum.

The majority of the Senate have expressed the wish in petition to the Governor that Dr. D. J. McCormick of this place be appointed Superintendent of the East Mississippi Insane Asylum, and in so doing have shown good judgment and sound discretion and that they have at heart the welfare of those who will be confined therein. The appointment of Dr. McCormick is a most fit one to be made. Considerable money has been spent in the construction of the building and considerable more will have to be spent to complete it, and the Governor owes it to himself, the people and unfortunate class who will be the inmates of the Asylum, to place one over it in every way qualified to discharge the important duties of the office of Superintendent. And this he will do, and that his selection will be Dr. McCormick we confidently believe.—Yazoo Sentinel, 14th.

THE Hon. Benjamin King died yesterday at his home, in Beauregard. He had been in low state of health for the past two years, and his death was not unexpected. He was about sixty years of age. Up to the time of his retirement from the practice he was justly regarded as one of the leading lawyers of South Mississippi. He had by his ability and energy, coupled with the strictest integrity in all his business relations, accumulated quite a competency. His convictions were always strong, and he always defended his principles aggressively. He was a man of strong brain power. Peace to his ashes.—New Mississippian.

Dawning Womanhood.

The gift of years, womanhood
Thou art. Thou wilt thy kingdom rule,
As Life's great mysteries their school
Of work unfold, for ill or good.
Years may bring to thy livehood
The wealth of Love, or slowly cool
Thy heart into tempered tool
Of Hate whose edge is scarce withstood;
And in the fickle game of fate,
A single move put thee in pawn
Whence no reprieve comes upon or late;
And yet beyond the hills, a dawn
Breaks clear, whose glory may create
The fairest horoscope e'er drawn.

The Sugar Interests.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—Mr. Henry O. Minor and Judge Beattie, representing the sugar interests Louisiana of were at the Capitol to confer with Senator Gibson and the Louisiana representatives.

The prospect of this interest in the Ways and Means Committee is not at all encouraging, and the best hope for it lies is the defeat of the Morrison tariff oill as a whole. These delegates from Louisiana and the delegation are to meet to morrow for conference.—Picayune special.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance, it is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

MR. D. B. WILSON, of Brandon, is at the Pacific to-day.

MR. L. SCHLESINGER, of Greenville, is at the LaMadrid.

LOOK out for Howe, Pullman & Co.'s ad. in Monday's Post.

THE Ed. Richardson took 100 laborers to Kemp's levee this morning.

THE Hook and Ladder Company will meet at half-past three to-morrow afternoon.

MAJOR KENNEDY, a prominent oil merchant of Pittsburg, is in the city today. He departs on the Joe Williams.

SEE call for meeting of the Hebrew Relief Society to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock at the Hall of the Enrogel Lodge.

CAPT. H. M. MARTIN, a former resident of this city, but now a prominent cotton broker of New Orleans, is in the city.

THE D. C. Fogel arrived from New Orleans early this morning, and will probably go up Sunflower river after a tow of staves.

THE members of the Vicksburg Baptist Church are requested to meet in the lecture room to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 11 o'clock.

CLARKE & Co., at the Blue-front Bookstore, have the latest literary treasures always on hand. Give them a call when procuring your Sunday supply.

FOR Sunday reading give Baum's bookstore a call. The latest periodicals, magazines, illustrated papers, etc., may always be found on their well-filled tables.

MR. ALLEN D. SMITH, of the Headlight, Capt. J. W. Smith, of the Headlight, died last night at the residence of his mother-in-law. The funeral will take place to-morrow.

THE landing was so muddy yesterday as to be almost impassable, either by pedestrians or vehicles. It is time the proper authorities should take some steps in regard to the matter.

THERE will be a meeting of the Juvenile Social Club Sunday evening at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Isaac Bloomenstiel. All members are requested to be present, as business of importance will be transacted.

ON to-morrow Rev. Father Pichereit will solemnize the nuptials of Mr. Charles Howard, principal clown of Howe, Pullman & Co.'s Circus, and Miss Katie Sheehan, of South Washington street.

WE desire to call especial attention to the schedule and notice of the big Ed. Richardson, published in another column, in regard to her grand excursion to the New Orleans Mardi Gras. The steamer is a dandy, and don't you forget it. W. C. O'HARA is her agent.

MR. BEN GASKILL, for a number of years in the employ of the Grand Lake Coal Company, is on the big towboat Joe Williams. He was shaking hands with his numerous friends here this morning, who were pleased to see him looking so hearty. Ben is a prince among caterers.

IN response to an invitation from the L., N. O. & T. R. R. the Board of Mayor and Aldermen and representatives of the city press boarded a train to-day for Anthony's Ferry, to witness the testing of the new draw bridge over the Yazoo river at that point.

THE draw-span of the new L., N. O. & T. R. R. bridge over the Yazoo river, which was completed yesterday, was to have been tested this morning. The Company deserves much credit for the enterprising manner in which they are carrying forward the work of construction.

AN alarm of fire was sounded about half-past seven last evening, the cause of which was a blaze in the chimney of the Bond building, opposite the Synagogue, on Cherry street. The damage to the building, which is used as a tenement and occupied by a number of colored familes, was trifling.

THE steamer Chas. D. Shaw this morning, instead of leaving at 8 o'clock her usual hour, laid over until about 9 o'clock in order to wait for the mail and a number of passengers. This disposition on the part of Capt. D. Shaw, master of the boat, to accommodate the public and the people between here and Natchez, will not fail to meet with its merited reward in due course of time.

IF house-wives will make sweeter, lighter, and more digestible biscuit, cakes, etc., with Dr. Price's Powder, than can be made with other kinds, is it 'not an incontestible proof of its purity and greater excellence? Give Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder a trial in the oven and we will warrant it to give perfect satisfaction.

A Big Trip.

The steamer Ed. Richardson this trip in addition to a large lot of cotton, oil cake and cotton seed meal, got 100 tons of freight from the Elevator for points below.

Hebrew Relief Society.

The annual meeting of the Hebrew Relief Society will be held at the hall of Enregel Lodge, to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 11 o'clock. Members are earnestly requested to attend.

"A Bunch of Keys."

The Evansville (Indiana) News speaks as follows in regard to Flora Moore's "Bunch of Keys" Company:

An audience of extraordinary taste and elegance witnessed the performance of "A Bunch of Keys," at the Opera house last night, and no better pleased people ever sat an intertainment out in an Evansville Theater. For dyspepsia "A Bunch of Keys" is a specific. The vocal solos, selections and concerted work were excellingly rendered and encores were plentiful. The star, Miss Flora Moore, was excellent. The lady is full of animation and evinced a versatility for character and dialect astonishing to a degree. The support is splendid throughout.

Cato, the Jackson Druggist.

Call on Cato, the Druggist, when you visit Jackson and want anything usually kept by a first-class drug establishment. He has a nicely fitted up consultation room for the use of physicians and their patients, which is connected by telephone with every doctor's office in the city. Next door to the Post-office, Capitol street.—Brookhaven Leader.

Mr. Cato has one of the neatest and most conveniently located drug-stores in the capital city—next door to the Post-office and only a few steps from the capitol building. He has a fine and complete stock of medicines, and all articles pertaining to a first-class drugstore; is a thoroughly competent pharmaceutist, and one of the most polite and accommodating gentlemen in the land.

Particulars of a Fatal Affray at Anthony's Ferry—Self-defense.

ANTHONY'S FERRY, Feb. 16, 1884.

Editor Evening Post:

Yesterday about 6 p.m., James Faggart, foreman on section No. 2 of L., N. O. & T. R. R., while on the trading boat of Tucker & Hopper, of this place, engaged in a quarrel with the boat's cook, Alex. Brisco. A few words had passed when Brisco seized a butcher or cheese knife, which was on the counter, and struck Faggart across the head, making an ugly gash. Faggart then began defending himself with his pocket-knife, stabbing Brisco several times, killing him almost instantly.

Faggart then stepped out and gave himself up to Officer McCarthy. The substance of the verdict of the jury was James Faggart killed Alexander Brisco in self-defense. R.

The Shortest Swim.

Yesterday a prospective traveler called on genial Col. Bob Garrett, of the Northeastern Railroad, and inquired which was the shortest swim to the Opera House—whether it was from the Queen and Crescent bridge or from the opposition line termini. Col. Bob didn't answer the conundrum.

A telegram was received yesterday conveying the reassuring intelligence that the Queen and Crescent line was still uninterrupted by the floods, and that at present there was no likelihood that the high water in the Ohio river would cause any interruption to travel on this route. —Picayune.

The Valley Road.

The Mississippi Valley railroad terminal south of Vicksburg is being pushed rapidly towards Port Kilbourn, and the Baton Rouge terminus of the line from New Orleans. The damage recently incurred by the broken bridges has been repaired, and within the next ten days Vicksburg will be connected by rail with the Little J. road, extending from Jackson, Miss, to Natchez.—Picayune.

Ring Rule in Louisiana.

It met yesterday. It was called the State Central Committee of the Democratic party.

Perhaps it was. It might have been anyhow.

We remember the origin of it though —the nest egg, as it were. The delegates at large, the old mother hens around which the young birds should nestle for warmth and comfort. Of course it meant "hominy in the party" and pretty near the "whole hog."

There was one anti-Ring man in the list of small, large delegates. He was left like Dundreary's bird if we wished to hold a caucus. Read the list and see. As Dundreary might have put it, "you know there must be 'hominy' in the party, and no bird is going to be fool enough to go and stand in a corner by himself."

But the machine is now beginning to work. It has started off puffing and blowing like a mudscow in a morass. The Ring have control of it, and not the Democracy of Louisiana.—Picayune.

MRS. J. R. SHARKEY, a Mississippi lady and a writer of some ability, has presented a bill to the Mississippi Legislature asking to be reimbursed for the loss of a cotton crop which claimant represents was sacrificed for the good of the State a year ago. The small pox broke out on the plantation near Mrs. Sharkey's and spread to her place, which the State Board of Health put under rigid quarantine, and her crop wasted in the fields, she being unable to have it picked. The Board of Health aver that they saved the State $200,000 by their action, and for this the lady asks to be recompensed to the extent of $8,000, Mrs. Sharkey's merchants in New Orleans had advanced her half the value of her crop. CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Willie Imina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 28 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the laws extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in like manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicile of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders; and stockholders' and directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers executed at any point out of this State when duly designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days, in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet together and elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no defect or informality in organization shall expose any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

I find nothing in the foregoing Charter violative of the laws or constitution of this State. T. C. CATCHINGS, fe14-3w Attorney-General.

The Belle Memphis, John A Scudder and Henry Frank passed down late yesterday; the Gould to-day. The Hays arrived.

The Rising Waters.

The officers the P. Line steamer E. C. Carroll, which arrived this morning, report that the Tallahatchie and upper Yazoo are banked up full as far down as Greenville.

From Captain C. C. Cordill of Concordia parish (La.,) who was a passenger to this city by the City of Yazoo last night, we learn that all work on the Vidersdeale levee, in Tensas parish, above St. Joe La., has been abandoned, the contractors having failed to complete the levee. A large body of water is now going through the gap which is about a mile wide; much of the new work recently put up there is washing rapidly.

At the Kemp levee the outlook is more favorable. Major Stickney is there in person with a force of over five hundred men and he feels satisfied that he will be able to keep the work on the levee ahead of the water, and that the levee will be made sufficiently strong to hold.

At Hard Times, the levee is in better condition. The protection levee is completed and will easily stand a raise of three feet.

Rumors were current in town last night that the levee at Longwood (Miss.,) and the lower part of Washington county, had given way, but dispatches from Mayersville this morning contradict the rumor, but announce that the levee is caving a great deal, and that the caving had reached a point within about 70 feet of the old levee, and it feared if the levee caves in that the new levee being built in the rear of the old one will not be able to hold against the water coming, it being not yet completed. Assistant Hampton left Mayersville last night for the danger points and will meet Major Helm there to-day.

T. J. Duffin and Bro., contractors on the Longwood levee telegraphed last night to contractor McGinty at Lake Providence to send them 100 men with outfit to assist them on the new levee, and these men will go forward on the Issaquena to-night. Gen. Ferguson who is in the city at present and who is very familiar with the levees in this State and thoroughly posted in such matters is of the opinion that with this increased force, the levee will be made sufficiently strong to avert the threatened danger.

A break in the levee at Longwood would be very disastrous, as it would overflow the land about Lake Washington, a great deal of Issaquena and a great portion of the lands west of Deer Creek.

From General Ferguson a reporter gained the following additional high water news: On his recent trip to Washington he went via Little Rock and St. Louis. The rain water covered the track in places between Arkansas City and Pine Bluff. The Mississippi river was not anywhere out of its banks when he left home, but there were great apprehensions of a general overflow from the Arkansas and the rivers above. He believed that the levees on the Mississippi side, from the Northern line of Bolivar county will be held intact, and the country dependent upon them protected. That includes Bolivar, Washington, Issaquena and Sharkey counties. On the Arkansas side of the river the levees are broken in places, leaving gaps through which the water can go and inundate the whole country.

MISSISSIPPI IMPROVEMENT.

Meeting of the River Commission at St. Louis—Allotment of the Appropriation.

Gen. S. W. Ferguson, of Greenville, arrived in this city by Sunday morning's train, coming direct from St. Louis, having been called to that city to attend a meeting of the Mississippi River Commission, of which he is a member, and which convened at St. Louis last Thursday. From Gen. Ferguson it was learned that there were present Gen. C. B. Comstock, of New York, President; Lieut. Smith S. Leach, of St. Louis, Secretary, and the following members: Judge R. S. Taylor, of Fort Wayne, Ind.; Maj. Suter and Prof. Mitchell, of the St. Louis district; Gen. S. W. Ferguson, of Greenville, Miss., and Maj. B. M. Harod, of New Orleans. Capt. W. L. Marshall, Engineer in charge of this district, and Capt. Knight, in charge of the improvement works at Plum Point reach, were also present.

The object of the meeting was for the purpose of making an allotment of the million dollar appropriation made by the Act of Congress of January 19, 1884.

The amounts alloted for the various points are as follows: Plum Point reach, $400,000; Lake Providence reach, $400,000; Memphis, $90,000; for general service, $30,000; for work at Opossum Point levee, $10,000; at Tarpley Neck, $3,000; at Hardscrabble levee, Tensas parish, La., $5,000. This leaves a balance of about $42,000 which has not been allocated. Beyond the examination of reports and general routine business there was little else accomplished.

Capt. W. L. Marshall, Engineer in charge of the Government works in this the second district, asked to be relieved and transferred to some other point. The Commission as a body urged the Captain to continue in charge, but he insisted on being relieved, which was finally agreed to. A request was made to Chief of Engineers Wright to have Maj. Turtle, now on duty at New Orleans, assigned to this district.

Young Men's Catholic Benevolent Society.

The initial step of forming the young Men's Catholic Benevolent Society was taken yesterday evening, when fourteen boys assembled in the Temperance Hall. Rev. Father Picherit was called to the chair, and Wm. Mulcahy made temporary Secretary. Bishop Janssen was present, and made a very beautiful and telling address to the boys, defining to them the disastrous effect of being away from their church, associating with bad company, and showing the benefits to be derived from such a society, having a library, a place to come together, and attending each other when sick.

The following were selected to draft Constitution and By-Laws, the Committee to meet next Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at Temperance Hall:

Rev. Father Pitcherit, F. Dohler, Ed. Myers, Michael Murphy, John O'Neal and W. R. Mulcahy. The next meeting of the society will be held next Sunday week, when the Constitution will be submitted, and an election of officers take place.

The purpose of the society is to take care of the boys when sick, encourage them in religious and moral duties, and assist them, when worthy, in getting employment.

The Rivers.

The water at Cincinnati marked 64 feet and 2 inches this morning, and falling.

At Louisville 44 feet 11 inches falling.

At Cairo 50 feet and 8 inches, rising.

At Little Rock 25 feet 1 inch, falling.

At Nashville 47 feet 7 inches, falling.

The above figures are taken from reports received at the Signal Office in this city at 7 o'clock this morning.

The Loan Warrants Paid.

The outstanding loan warrants issued by the city to the Mississippi Valley Bank in turning over the $45,000, were on Saturday paid by Mr. R. T. Wilson, through the Fourth National Bank, of New York.

An account of the trip of the officials of the L., N. O. & T. R. R. and others to Anthony's Ferry on Saturday, is crowded out until to-morrow.

THE EVENING POST

PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CASHMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 18, 1884.

We print Gov. Lowry's veto message to-day ahead of any other paper in Vicksburg.

As we have said before—about this time of year look out for Gov. Lowry to approve a bill for Railroad supervision.

Speaker Inge is still a little in the lead in the Railroad Supervision race. "Dear Bob" appears to be closing up the gap, however.

A cow-catcher would be a good emblem for the banner of the Railroad Supervisionists. It would take immensely in what are called the "cow counties."

The Post will continue to oppose railroad supervision as inexpedient and ill-advised. We cannot stand upon the same platform with Gov. Lowry on this question.

The Mode of Selecting Commissioners.

In conclusion, it is proper for me to say that I cannot approve the mode of selecting Commissioners for which this bill provides. It is a departure without cause, so far as I can see, and certainly without gain from the three legal and customary modes which have heretofore obtained among us, viz: Election by the people, elected by the Legislature in joint assembly, and appointment by the Governor and with the advice and consent of the Senate.—Gov. Lowry's veto message.

The Governor will no doubt be satisfied if the Legislature will select the last mentioned mode. The Governor, and the Legislature and the Vicksburg Herald can then all stand upon the same ground without too much crowding. As the Picayune says, "there must be hominy in the party."

No matter how disagreeable the fact may be, there is no use denying that the Supervisionists have scored a victory in the conversion of the Governor from a nervous neutrality to a pronounced, emphatic supporter, his veto of the railroad bill to the contrary, notwithstanding. The wording of the vagueness and ambiguity characteristic of the Governor's treatment of the subject in his first message to be found in the following extract from his veto communication. The most popular theatrical play in Chicago at present is called "7-20-8;" The Mississippi Legislative Tragedy Combination have a "drawing" attraction called "68 to 18, or 24 to 10." The railroads are the victims in the plot. The real villains, Prejudice and Ignorance, are "starring" in the engagement:

> It will be seen that my objection to this bill extends to its unconstitutional features, and it is fortunate for the cause of railroad supervision that these have been discovered thus early while there is yet time for their elimination and the passage of another bill. We are pledged to the supervision of corporations of every description within constitutional limits in the interest and for the protection of the people, and this time has come when this pledge is to be redeemed.

There is no use nursing the delusion that the Supervisionists' wild clamor for "regulation" can be overcome. It is settled that we are to have a Railroad Commission, and with such prospects in front it would appear to be the part of wisdom opposed to the measure to divert their efforts to eliminating from it as many of the objectionable features as possible.

"Endorsing" Each Other.

"Dear Bob" has squarely endorsed the Vicksburg Herald.

If the Legislature will now act wisely and conservatively perhaps some ground can be found on which the Governor, the Vicksburg Herald and the Legislature can stand. But there must'nt be any crowding.—Vicksburg Herald, 17th.

Below can be seen the manner in which "Dear Bob" has endorsed the Herald, and the "ground" upon which they will stand together. The Governor comes squarely out in favor of railroad supervision, thus verifying the prediction of The Post. The Herald has been ostensibly opposing supervision; but as the supervision of railroads has been one of Mr. Barksdale's pet measures, and as Inge drew his pocket-knife with the other, and stabbed Brisco several times in the region of the heart, though not until he (Pagger) had been nearly scalped with the cheese-knife. Brisco died almost instantly, and Faggert went ashore and gave himself up to or was arrested by Officer McCarthy.

Justice Fossett immediately summoned a jury, and after an examination of the case they brought in a verdict to the effect that Alex. Brisco came to his death from wounds inflicted by a knife in the hands of James Faggert, used in self-defense.

The prisoner was then discharged, and the body of the dead negro was buried soon after.

Acquitted.

John Williams (colored), who was arrested in this city some time since by Squire Mackey on a charge of murder, and who it will be remembered was refused bail by Judge Cowan, was tried in Jackson last Thursday and discharged on Saturday.

A Reflection on the Judiciary.

In an article entitled "Supervision," published in the Clarion of the 13th instant, we find the following remarkable paragraph, attacking the Judiciary of this State:

> If you sue, as is the case generally; the Judges will not allow the verdict of a jury to stand if the amount of damages is large; he usurps the right of the jury and decides law and fact; and generally in favor of the railway. Let these facts be denied and instances will be brought forward to establish our position.

The Ledger denies this assertion as a fact and calls upon the Clarion to cite a single instance. If it has one single instance we will join in any measure looking to the impeachment of any Judge guilty of thus usurping the functions of the jury. There is precisely twelve judicial districts in this State. Is the Judas who betrays the people to be found in this twelve, or is he in the narrow limits of the three Supreme Judges?

If the Clarion is in earnest in advocating the motto "everything for principle—nothing for men," an assertion also appearing in the issue of the 13th, then let it name the special corrupt men referred to and vindicate the principle.—State Ledger.

"The Judges will not allow," etc., he usurps the right of the jury."

The grammar is questionable, but this is not a matter of any serious consequence; it is rather the peculiar ideas conveyed that attract attention and invite comment.

The charge that the Judges "generally" decide "in favor of the railway" contains necessarily one of two ideas—either that the railways have generally the right on their side in their litigations, or that the Judges generally decide in favor of the railways without reference to the right and justice of their cause. We do not understand that the Clarion intends to pay a compliment to either the railroads or the Judges, but rather to make some charge or raise a clamor against the latter.

The course from an organ that has been advocating the election of Judges and Chancellors by the People; and in the same connection the supervision of railroads. The idea has been pretty well filtered out through the columns of the Clarion that the supervision question has assumed the form of an issue of railroad corporations vs. against the People and popular rights; and laid in with this, quite snugly, is the latest implication that the Judiciary has ranged itself alongside of the railroads in this interesting contest. So that we may now regale ourselves with the idea that the battle of popular rights and free government is to be fought under the name of the Railroads and the Judiciary vs. The People.

We not only do not believe that the Judges of the State are corruptly or improperly biased and influenced in railroad cases, but we quite confidently express the opinion that the people of the State are not going to accept any such insinuation as true.

If we have anything in Mississippi that is just and pure and fearless and high-toned it is the State Judiciary.

Col. C. E. Hooker is in the city today. Col. Hooker was, for years, a distinguished, efficient and influential member of Congress, but Mr. E. Barksdale—the "political Warwick of Mississippi"—laid a plan to defeat him and secure the position for himself. Mr. Barksdale succeeded, and it is needless to say that in this plan he had the co-operation and aid of the Vicksburg Herald. The Herald opposed the gallant Hooker and supported the astute Barksdale. Wherever Barksdale is in the lead, look out for the Herald to bring up the rear.

THE KILLING AT ANTHONY'S FERRY.

Further Particulars in Regard to the Affray.

A representative of The Post visited the scene of the Anthony's Ferry tragedy on Saturday evening, and gleaned the following particulars in regard to the happenings of the previous night:

About 6 o'clock on Friday evening James Faggert, a section boss on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., went aboard the Cash, a trading boat lying at the landing, to get a bottle filled with whisky. The barkeeper being busy, asked the boat's cook, a colored man named Alexander Briscoe, to fill the bottle. Briscoe, who was slightly under the influence of liquor, refused to do so, and also refused to lend bar while the keeper could fill the bottle. Faggert then ordered Brisco to fill the bottle, when he again refused, and said Faggert could not make him do it. Faggert struck Brisco in the face, and broke his cane over the head of the negro, who ran the length of the bar and procured a cheese-knife. They met, and while Faggert struck Brisco off with one hand he drew his pocket-knife with the other, and stabbed Brisco several times in the region of the heart, though not until he (Faggert) had been nearly scalped with the cheese-knife. Brisco died almost instantly, and Faggert went ashore and gave himself up to or was arrested by Officer McCarthy.

Justice Fossett immediately summoned a jury, and after an examination of the case they brought in a verdict to the effect that Alex. Brisco came to his death from wounds inflicted by a knife in the hands of James Faggert, used in self-defense.

The prisoner was then discharged, and the body of the dead negro was buried soon after.

GOV. LOWRY'S VETO

Of the Railroad Supervision Bill.

Executive Department,
Jackson, Miss., Feb. 15th, 1884.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives:

I return you herewith without my approval House Bill No. 175, entitled "An Act to provide for the regulation of freight and passenger rates on railroad, and for the taxation of the property of railroad companies in this State, and for other purposes."

It is proper, in view of the importance of the subject matter of the Bill, and of the serious character of my objections thereto, that I should give you in detail the reasons which constrain me to withhold my approval.

By section 1 of the Bill, it is declared that, "any person or corporation engaged in the business of transporting passengers or freight on any railroad in this State, who shall exact or receive for any such transportation more than just compensation for the service rendered, or demand more than the rates specified in any bill of lading issued by such person or corporation, or who for his or its advantage, or for the advantage of any connecting line, or of any person or locality, shall make any unjust discrimination in transportation against any individual, locality or corporation, shall be guilty of extortion, and in every case it shall be for the jury to determine, from all the evidence, whether more than just compensation has been exacted and received, or whether any discrimination in transportation, which may be established by the evidence against individual, locality or corporation, as the case may be, was made for the benefit or advantage of the person or corporation operating such railroad, or of any person or locality."

This is the sole definition of extortion contained in the Bill. There is no provision making the tariff to be prescribed by the Commission obligatory upon either railroad companies or those dealing with them. That tariff is to be deemed prima facie evidence of the justice of its provisions, but is not conclusive in any sense whatever. If a shipper is not satisfied with the rates fixed by the Commission, and has been compelled to pay them, he can recover of the corporation receiving them, if he can establish that the rates so demanded and received were unjust, save an annoyance to railroad companies and disappointment and failure to those resorting to the remedies attempted to be provided.

Section 41 provides that if any railroad company shall violate any of the provisions of the act, or any of the rules or regulations prescribed by said Commissioners, and if after due notice of such violation, during given to such company, it shall not, within thirty days thereafter, make full recompense for the wrong and injury done thereby to any person or corporation, as may be directed by said Commissioners, such company shall incur a penalty of not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars.

This section, it will be seen, confers upon the Commission the power to determine what injury has been done by the violation referred to, and the manner in which recompense therefor shall be made to the party injured, and that, too, without affording the company an opportunity to be heard.

To maintain an action for the penalty prescribed, it would be only necessary to prove:

1. That the corporation had violated some provision of the Act or some regulation of the Commission.

2. That notice thereof had been given to the company.

3. That the Commission had fixed the amount of compensation to be made to the injured party and the manner in which it should be made; and

4. That the compensation so directed to be made had not been made within thirty days.

These facts being established, there would be no escape for the Company. It would not be heard as to whether any injury or wrong had in fact been done to any person or corporation, by such violation, or if so, what compensation should be made therefor. It would be absolutely concluded by the finding of the Commission, and could not appeal therefrom directly to the courts.

It is declared by the Bill of Rights, that "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property, except by due process of law," and by section 1, article 6, of the Constitution, "That the Judicial power of the State shall be vested in a Supreme Court and such other courts and of law equity, as are hereinafter provided for in this Constitution."

The section of the bill in question directly violates both of these fundamental principles.

It attempts to confer judicial power upon a tribunal unknown to the Constitution, by empowering it to sit in judgment upon the question as to the liability of the company for a violation of law, and to fix the damages it shall pay therefor, and it imposes severe penalties upon the company if it shall fail to yield prompt obedience to its unlawful commands; and it condemns the company without due process of law by subjecting it to the control of an unauthorized tribunal, and denying it the privilege of being heard.

I am sure that such legislation as this would not have received your countenance had you been apprised of its harsh and unconstitutional features, and its passage emphasizes the importance of what I have before said that the grave subject of legislation should be treated with the utmost caution and moderation.

This section of the bill is also unconstitutional, because it confers upon the commission the power to prescribe rates and regulations, for the violation of which severe penalties are denounced. Section 1, Art. 4 of the Constitution declares that "the legislative power of this State shall be vested in the Legislature which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives." The power to make laws cannot be exercised by any other body than the Legislature itself. In Cooley's Constitutional Limitations, page 139, it is said: "One of the settled maxims in constitutional law is that the power conferred upon the Legislature to make laws cannot be delegated to any other branch or to any other body or authority; where the authority there it must remain; and by the constitutional agency alone must the power be exercised. The constitution itself is changed. The power to whose judgment, discretion and good faith this high prerogative has been intrusted cannot relieve itself of responsibility by choosing other agencies upon which the power may be devolved, nor can it substitute the judgment, wisdom and patriotism of another body for its own." Many other high principles have been fit to confide this sovereign power."

The enactment of penal laws is one of the gravest powers which a Legislature is ever required to exercise, and should always be executed with exceeding caution. That such power should be delegated to any other body is to be by this section of the bill attempted, enabling it to create new and additional offences, is in my view in plain violation of the Constitution, but is well calculated to excite in the mind of every thoughtful citizen the gravest apprehension and alarm. I am glad to say that such legislation is without a precedent in the history of Mississippi.

Sections 35 and 36 empower the Commission and a sufficient number of the sheriffs of the several counties are vested with the same authority to collect taxes, and that this power cannot be taken from them and conferred upon other persons.

Inasmuch as the power to assess is also a constitutional officer, the same process of reasoning would lead to the conclusion that the assessors of the counties are vested with the sole power to assess property for taxation, and that this power cannot be conferred upon other persons. The precise point is announced in Borroughs on Taxation, and in the following cases which are other States having similar constitutional provisions.

It is beyond question, therefore, that the sections cited are unconstitutional and void.

By section 40 of the bill the chapter of the Code of 1880, regulating railroad taxation, is repealed.

The effort by this bill to tax by a different method, being unconstitutional, and, therefore, incapable of enforcement, and the same not having been in force at once destroyed, it might be a serious question if this bill should become a law whether railroads would be subject to taxation at all. It might be that they would be left in the power of the tax payer or property; if so, it would be manifestly unjustly done to put on the other hand it might be claimed with great force that the general law as to the assessment of property was not repealed as to railroads, because special laws have always existed as to them, and that the repeal of these special laws would have the effect to subjecting them to the general law.

If this result should follow the failure of the particular acts intended to be condemned; otherwise no man could tell when he was or was not committing a wrong, and the law would be but a cruel snare unto men's feet.

As in an indictment, the Constitution entitles every man to have the nature of the accusation against him clearly set forth, so no man can be convicted of violating a statute, unless the statute has clearly informed him what acts he may not lawfully perform. These observations are equally applicable to section two of the Bill.

I am satisfied, that the Bill in so far as it attempts to create the offence of extortion is utterly null and void, and I, therefore, invite the bringing of numerous vexatious suits, which could yield no result, save an annoyance to railroad companies and disappointment and failure to those resorting to the remedies attempted to be provided.

Section 41 provides that if any railroad company shall violate any of the provisions of the act, or any of the rules or regulations prescribed by said Commissioners, and if after due notice of such violation, during given to such company, it shall not, within thirty days thereafter, make full recompense for the wrong and injury done thereby to any person or corporation, as may be directed by said Commissioners, such company shall incur a penalty of not less than one thousand nor more than five thousand dollars.

The enactment of penal laws is one of the gravest powers which a Legislature is ever required to exercise, and should always be executed with exceeding caution. That such power should be delegated to any other body is to be by this section of the bill attempted, enabling it to create new and additional offences, is in my view in plain violation of the Constitution, but is well calculated to excite in the mind of every thoughtful citizen the gravest apprehension and alarm. I am glad to say that such legislation is without a precedent in the history of Mississippi.

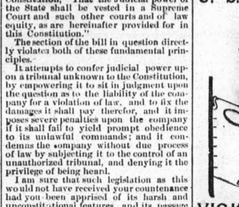

The Supreme Court of this State has declared that "there is a desire reasonable in which will be satisfactory to the public and just, to the railroads, and that they would entrust to him the responsibility of a bill of any other character.

In conclusion, it is proper for me to say that I cannot approve the mode of selecting Commissioners for which this bill provides. It is departure without cause, so far as I can see, and certainly without gain from the three legal and customary modes which have heretofore obtained among us, viz: Election by the people, elected by the Legislature in joint assembly, and appointment by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

MR. CLEM DAVIS, an old Vicksburger and one of the popular typos of former times, but now of Atlanta (Ga.), is in the city.

THE steamer Harry and barges leaves to-morrow at 4 o'clock p.m. for Rolling Fork. Shippers and passengers please take notice.

THE ever prompt, reliable, safe and accommodating Issaquena leaves for Greenville and the Bends this evening at 5 o'clock. Passengers and shippers take note.

HON. C. E. HOOKER, Judge Luke Lea, United States Attorney, and Capt. W. C. Raun United States Marshal for Southern District of Mississippi, are in the city.

MRS. E. L. HALL, formerly of this city but now of St. Louis, and the mother of Mr. Eddie Hall, was a passenger on the Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City this morning, on a visit to her son.

THE Fourth National Bank of New York received $45,000 on Saturday the 16th, in redemption of city loan warrants. What does our little tiny sister Natchez think of this?

CAPT. CHRIS SHARP, formerly a popular and well known Anchor Line clerk, arrived to-day by the Arkansas City. He is now a partner in the large grocery and cotton factor firm of Hewitt, Sharp & Co., of St. Louis.

WE ARE in receipt of an invitation to the wedding of Mr. Louis Demarest and Miss Katie Mullin, which will take place at St. Paul's Catholic Church, at 3:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, Rev. Father Vichiconing officiating.

HOWE, PULLMAN & CO. have an advertisement in this issue. Now the small boy begineth to hoard up his shekels, for on Saturday the circus will show here. They are making big preparations for the grand opening at this place.

THE following is a list of the arrivals by the E. C. Carroll this morning: Messrs. Johnson, J. F. Graves, Frank Franklin, McCowan, Stein, Carrington, B. F. Sayer, Lenon, Phillips, Joe Weis, Samuel Childress and Mr. Shrumpt and wife and five children.

MAJ. R. H. GARRATT, of New Orleans, General Agent of the Queen and Crescent railroad line, was in the city yesterday, and left for New Orleans by the night train. Major Garratt states that the line is doing a fine business and that the carnival this season will far excel that of any previous year.

THE Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City arrived at noon to-day from St. Louis with about 35 cabin passengers and 5000 packages of freight. Capt. Brolaski reported seven miles of ice in fact, with large forces working at all the weak points, and says that nothing serious is apprehended by those in charge of the works. Major Heine, Chief Engineer of the Mississippi Levee, came down on the Arkansas City from Greenville to Longwood, where he is now in charge.

THE merchants packet the freight steamer Issaquena, came in early Sunday morning crowded with people and a big freight. In addition to 2,000 sacks of seed for the Refuge Oil Mills she had the levee outfits of Hughes & McGregor from Ashton, and Barnes and McRae from Longwood, which included 42 head of mules. The Issaquena returns to all upper coast landings to-day, leaving at 5 p.m. going as far as Greenville. Marionneaux, master, Steigleman, Hendrickson and Sarsfield, clerks.

MR. HENRY DENIO, who has rendered efficient service to the W. P. Thompson as her freight and passenger agent, no longer represents that steamer, but is now in a larger field of usefulness and activity. Mr. Denio hereafter will devote his best energies to the patrons of the Issaquena, the Tributary, the Naomi, and whatever boats the Mollie McDowell may be interested in. The old reliable Issaquena —the Belle of the Bends—is a good boat to be agent for; she gives a man something to do, and he feels like he is earning his money. We have no doubt Mr. Denio will prove a valuable acquisition to the Mulholland line.

TO CONSUMERS.

Remember, there are seven different styles and quality of "Cheroots" sold by Wright Bros. Ask for Imperial Cheroots.

High Water.

The mixed train of the L., N. O. & T. railroad was stopped about half a mile north of Anthony's Ferry at noon yesterday by the water flowing over the track. It was caused by the water backing up from the Mississippi and Old rivers through Steel's bayou, and not by any breakage in the levees. This is the same point which was overflowed last year. Passengers had to walk to the Ferry, and freight was transferred by means of push-cars. This will be a great inconvenience to the people of Sharkey county, as the road runs through the beautiful Deer creek valley the entire length of the county. Trains will continue to run as close to the Ferry as possible, and nothing more serious is apprehended.

Death of E. F. Owens.

It becomes our sad duty to chronicle the death of another well-known citizen, Mr. Owens, who has been sick but a very short time, died yesterday morning with typhoid pneumonia. He leaves a wife and eight children.

Mr. Owens was born in Philadelphia Aug 6, 1839, and consequently was 44 years of age at the time of his death. On Dec. 29, 1863, he married Miss Lizzie, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Alice Condon, of this city. At the breaking out of the war he enlisted in the 22d Mississippi Regiment, in which regiment he was a commissioned officer. He was, however, compelled to leave the army on account of bad health and weak eyes. He was very well known here, and had a large number of friends and acquaintances. He has been intimately associated with the Vicksburg Building Association of this city since its origin, and was its Assistant Secretary at the time of his death.

The most prominent trait of Mr. Owens's character was his devotion to his wife and family. He was a faithful and devoted husband, and a fond and affectionate father.

Mr. Owens recently become a member of the Catholic Knights of America, having joined this association only five weeks prior to his death. He had his life insured in the same for $2,000.

This makes three deaths in Mrs. Condon's family since Dec. 22d—Mrs. Dr. O'Leary, Mr. John Hartigan and Mr. E. F. Owens.

The funeral of Mr. Owens took place from his residence on South Cherry street this evening at half-past 2, and from St. Paul's Catholic Church at 3 o'clock.

Hushpuckna Levee.

From a gentleman who arrived this morning on the Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City, right from the Hushpuckna Levee, it is learned that there is no possible fear or danger of a break at that place, as the levee has a base of 100 feet and a cap of 10 feet and has been raised two feet above the high water of 1882.

Some fears were expected when the water was coming up in the Big Black that the railroad between here and Port Gibson might be interfered with, but the water came to a stand yesterday lacking several feet of being as high as last year's rise.

Death of Mr. John B. Harris.

After a very long confinement to his room, Mr. John B. Harris died of general debility at 4 o'clock Saturday evening, Feb. 16th. Mr. Harris had been all his life a bookkeeper, and as he had been wont to do in his regular business—straighten up and balance his accounts each Saturday evening—on this particular evening he drew down his balances and closed his accounts in the book of his worldly affairs for all time and forever. But we must all die, and the sooner we look the inevitable truth comes nearer home every hour and moment. We were once all little children; we grow up into manhood and womanhood, then age and time and disease begin to leave their impressions and blight, and one by one we pass away, following each other in succession.

We can truly say that "another landmark has gone." Mr. Harris was an elegant and refined gentleman. The gentleman was inherent in him—the man mistaken signs of pure and genteel ancestry. Adversity, which demoralizes even the most delicately reared, was powerless in effacing the instincts and bearings of the gentleman as possessed by him. He is a man who can never be entirely forgotten by those who knew him, and those who knew him well and best cannot but hold his memory in the deepest and most respectful recollection.

Deaths in the City.

From City Sexton Arnold, we learn the following are the deaths occurring in the city during the week ending to-day at 12 m:

Feb. 12—White man, name unknown, died over P. C. O'Shea's saloon.

Feb. 13—John Smith, 60 years old, at City Hospital.

Feb. 14—Thaddeus Butler, 21 years old, consumption, at City Hospital.

Feb. 15—Thos. Hillman, 67 years 7 mos. old, of pneumonia.

Feb. 16—John Cooper, at City Hospital.

Feb. 16—John L. Harris. 61 years 9 mos. old, of general debility.

Feb. 16—Edward F. Owens, 44 years old, of pneumonia.

In the county:

Feb. 15—Allen D. Smith, 29 years old, of inflammation of the lungs.

Feb. 17—Infant child of Mrs. C. Bogie, 2 hours old.

Cane Poles.

The steamer D. C. Fogel leaves to-morrow for Big Black. She goes there for a large consignment of cane poles which she will tow to this place. One-half of these poles go to Chicago, and the other half to St. Louis. They will be shipped from here by the Anchor Line steamer Baton Rouge. This makes the fourth season for the owner, Mr. Kurzey, in this business which he has made a success, realizing a handsome profit each time.

Solid Meldoon.

The genial, jolly Charlie Muldoon, arrived in the city yesterday from a business trip in the Washington country; Mr. Muldoon has made a most enviable reputation among the planters of the South, and his name is as well known to that section as is the "Star and Crescent" to the "Queen City."

NOTES.

The Centennial passed down Saturday bound for New Orleans.

The new pilot-house on the Ferry steamer Ida, is about completed.

The City of Yazoo brought up about 125 deckers from the Hardscrabble levee.

The John F. Halpin of the Sargent line departed for Davis' Bend to-day with a good trip.

The Ida Darrah, will do the summer business for the Will S. Hays in the Vicksburg and Memphis trade.

The David R. Powell left St. Louis Saturday for Vicksburg, making a trip for the Providence which is laying over one trip to make some repairs.

The Headlight will be in to-morrow from the Sunflower river with a big trip. She will return to that stream Wednesday leaving at 4 p.m.

The Chas. D. Shaw from Natchez arrived this morning with a good list of people and returning, leaving at 9 a.m., with a good showing of people.

In addition to the 2,000 sacks of seed for the Refuge Mills, the Issaquena had 179 bales of cotton for New Orleans, and 7 for this city.

The work of repairing the broken shaft of the rudder to the propellor Capt. Miller, was completed at Fox's foundry last night. It will go to Natchez by the first boat.

The great steamer J. M. White will pass south to-day bound for New Orleans and will leave promptly at 5 o'clock this evening. Captain Curt Holmes master, Calhoun and Levi clerks.

The big sidewheel steamer DeSmet of the P. Line will be in to-night and leave Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock for all points on the Yazoo river as high as Belzoni. Capt. M. L. Johnson master, Harper, Kain and Goosey clerks.

The steamer Harry with barge arrived at 9 o'clock this morning with a good trip. She is out of the Sunflower river and has on boat and barge 1200 sacks of seed for the Warren Mills and 152 bales of cotton, including 21 for this city.

The Tributary, Capt. J. I. Mulholland, will be in to-day from Lake Washington, with a barge in tow. On boat and barge there are 1,200 sacks of seed, and 402 bales of cotton. The Tributary returns to Lake Washington Wednesday.

Mr. John Willanks, one of the most capable and popular clerks on the river, arrived from Memphis by the Sunday morning's train. He will have charge of the freight department of the Elevator during the absence of Mr. Harry P. Raworth who is in New Orleans for the purpose of having his eyes treated.

Passengers and shippers will have the fast and reliable Pool Line steamer Hard Cash leaving to-morrow (Tuesday) at 4 p.m. for all points on the Yazoo and Tallahatchie rivers going through Tchula Lake. Capt. Tom Young master, Scott Phillips and Joe Dent clerks. For further information apply on board or to W. C. O'Hara agent.

The P. Line steamer E. C. Carroll arrived at 11 o'clock to-day from the Tallahatchie river, with 692 bales of cotton and 397 sacks of seed for New Orleans, and 10 bales of cotton for this city. Also, 574 sacks of seed for the Warren Mills. She returns to the Tallahatchie river to-night.

The big P Line steamer City of Yazoo arrived from New Orleans at 9 o'clock last night with 2,900 packages of freight including 1,000 sacks of seed for the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Sunflower rivers. She is receiving to return to New Orleans Tuesday and will leave at 10 a.m. Ledbetter master, Frank Beel, Jr. and Henry Andre, clerks.

Capt. T. P. Leathers, great Natchez will be up early this evening from New Orleans and return to-morrow (Tuesday) leaving promptly at 5 p.m. making all landings on the southern coast. The Natchez offers inducements second to no boat in the Mississippi trade. Come up on the Natchez and you will have a good time, a pleasant trip and the cuisine is "first rate."

Captain Harry W. Brolaski's elegant Anchor Line steamer Arkansas City, arrived from St. Louis early this morning with a big freight and a large number of cabin and deck passengers. This fine steamer returns to St. Louis to-morrow (Tuesday) leaving promptly at 11 a.m., making close connections at Arkansas City with the L. R. railroad for all points in Texas, also at Memphis, Cairo and St. Louis for all points North and South.

The steamer Henry Marx, came up Sunday morning from Warrenton where she left her tow of 4 barges which contained about 25,000 sacks of seed. She left at 10 a.m. Sunday for Anthony's Ferry with a barge which will be landed at that point with seed which she will bring down and add to her fleet at Warrenton, when all will be taken to New Orleans.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to limit and to incorporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders' or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers exercised at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet together and elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no defect or informality in organization, shall release any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

I find nothing in the foregoing Charter violative of the laws or constitution of the State of Mississippi.

T. C. CATCHINGS,
Attorney-General.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

[Special to The Evening Post.]

FROM JACKSON.

The House Unable to Pass the Supervision Bill Over the Veto.

Numerous Supervision Bills Ready to be Introduced.

Senate.

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 19.—A bill to regulate the pay of County Superintendents of Education was made the special order for Thursday.

A bill to require Boards of Supervisors to equalize assessment of taxes, was referred.

House.

The Williamson Railroad Supervision bill failed to pass over the Governor's veto last night by a vote of 66 to 41. Another bill will be introduced to-morrow.

The House and Senate are a little at loggerheads on the subject. A dozen or more members in each house want the credit of introducing the bill. The Senate already has one, and thinks by a little patching it will do.

MARKET REPORTS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 18.—Spots steady. Uplands, 5 12-16d; Orleans, 5 15-16d.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18, noon.—Spots steady. Middling, 10 12-16.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18, noon.—Cotton steady. Middling, 10 5-16.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.—Clear ribs lower; Lard lower; Meal $2.65; Pork $18.30; Flour unchanged. Market dull.

DEMOCRATS AND THE TARIFF.

Morrison in a Ticklish Position—Decided Stand by the Louisiana Sugar Producers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The indications are that the Democratic trouble on the tariff is just beginning. The delegation of the Louisiana sugar planters arrived here to-day and had a conference with the Senators and Representatives from that State. The delegation is a Committee of the sugar planters of the State duly elected. If they say to the Ways and Means Committee what they say to-night that they will say, they will make a sensation in Democratic politics. Their Chairman says: All there is about it, the people of Louisiana are tired of this thing. We are worn out with being harried to death with this tinkering with the tariff. Sugar is our principal industry, and we want it protected. We have passed out of the sensational era of politics. We have become very practical. We want to be let alone with the existing tariff. The Morrison bill would destroy us, and we tell the Committee and all Democrats that if they insist in passing the bill they need not rely on the vote of Louisiana for a Democratic President. We have determined to work for that party that will have consideration for our interests. That is our position, and that is what we will tell the Ways and Means Committee.

Supreme Court Decisions.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 18, 1884.

4356—DeSoto county vs. T. M. Jones; affirmed.

4442—W. P. Davis vs. C. H. Foster; reversed in part and affirmed in part.

4471—Mobile Savings Bank vs. Murdock & Parchman; reversed in part and affirmed in part.

4473—James Madison Simmons vs. the State; reversed and new trial granted.

4471—J. Pollock & Co. vs. Okolona Savings Institute; affirmed and remanded and sixty days to answer.

4437—J. L. Lenoir vs. Rittenhouse Moore; reversed and judgment here.

Cooper's Well.

Mr. S. Spengler went out last night to Jackson to confer with his brother Hubert Spengler, who is a full partner with him in the Cooper's Well property near Raymond.

The material for an ornamental house to be placed over the Well is now at Mr. Spengler's factory in this city and ready for shipment. This celebrated Summer resort has at length fallen into good hands, and the day is not far distant when Cooper's Well will be one of the very best, most attractive and popular Summer resorts in the South. The Spenglers not only have the capital, but also the enterprise, business sense and energy to make it just such a place as the whole country has long known it could be made and have earnestly desired should be made.

The relief afforded to invalids at various and numerous times by the wonderful curative powers of the Cooper's well water has, in some instances been almost akin to the miraculous, and we predict in this enterprise of the Spengler brothers a "Bonanza" that will be almost equal to a gold mine in the not far distant future.

Levee and Fence Bills.

We learn from our Jackson correspondent that the Levee Bill will come up in the Legislature to-day. Col. W. A. Percy is there in the interest of same.

We also learn that a fence law in regard to railroads has been agreed upon by the Railroads and Legislative Committee to whom the matter had been referred.

The Masonic Grand Lodge, in session here last week, ordered three hundred dollars to be sent to the relief of the sufferers at Anthens. The amount was forwarded yesterday to the Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, at Clarion, 1848.

THE LEVEES AND THE FLOOD.

What the Engineers and the River Men Say About the High Water.

Among the arrivals last night on the Natchez were Maj. H. R. Thompson, Assistant Engineer of the Louisiana Levee Board, and Mr. W. W. January, a prominent levee contractor. They were interviewed by a Post reporter in regard to the high water and the condition of the levees, and from them the reporter learned the following:

They left Tensas parish yesterday afternoon. The levee from Buck Ridge to Hard Times is in a condition that may be considered safe against the floods this year. Mr. January has just completed the work of raising and strengthening a point in Shipp's Bayou levee, where danger was apprehended from the sloughing or sinking of the levee. It is now about seven feet above the present water, and no signs of sloughing have been noticed for the past three days.

Mr. Hugh Caskey, contractor on the Hardtimes levee, not being able to entirely complete his work on account of the sinking of a portion of the levee where it crosses the river bed at the foot of Lake St. Joseph, has placed one hundred men to work raising and strengthening the lower wing of the Shipp's bayou levee, and the protection levee built by P. J. Meath last year. This will prevent the water coming against his new work, and thus prevent a crevasse at that point this season.

The levee from Hard Times to Upper Hardscrabble is in a pretty fair condition, and no breaks are feared this year. At Hardscrabble the water is running through the incomplete portion of the Government work for a distance of fifteen hundred feet, three feet deep. This will put a large amount of back water over the lower lands of Tensas and Concordia parishes, but to what extent the gentlemen were unable to say. Mr. Thompson thinks that the flood will not begin to compare with that of last year.

The work on Kemp levee, above Waterproof, La., is being vigorously pushed to completion by the United States and State authorities at work there. It is probable that work on this levee may be stopped in fifteen days by back-water coming through Hardscrabble crevasse. But as the old front levee is still intact, and with a slight raise on the Government protection levee of last year, Mr. Thompson apprehends no danger at that point, even should work be stopped.

Capt. Young, of the Hard Cash, said that the water in the Tallahatchie valley is all the result of local rains, and not of the high water of up the river. Should there be no higher water above than at present, he thinks the Tallahatchie crevasse will not be seriously flooded.

Capt Lamb, who handles the wheel on the Natchez, reports the water pretty high at all points below and rising, but thinks there have been no serious overflows thus far, although at some lower places the water is running over the banks.

Altogether the high water does not bear so serious an aspect as at first, which fact we are pleased to state. Meanwhile the levees are watched with much interest by the residents of the lowland and it is well enough for them to be prepared for any emergency.

Major Thompson returns this evening to Hardscrabble, and Mr. January to Hardtimes, in Tensas parish.

THE NEW BRIDGE

Over the Yazoo River at Anthony's Ferry.

On Saturday afternoon, in response to an invitation from the company, a delegation from the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, a number of prominent citizens and other invited guests, boarded a train on the L., N. O. & T. railroad, and soon found themselves at Anthony's Ferry. The design was to witness the first turning of the draw span of the new railroad bridge over the Yazoo river at that point. A number of officials accompanied the party, to whom THE POST is under obligations for courtesies extended.

Upon the arrival of the party at the Ferry the first span of the bridge was crossed and examined, after which, learning that it would be some time before the bridge would be ready to turn, the party passed an hour's time in discussing the bridge, skiff riding and other pastimes. During this time the Post's representative took advantage of the opportunity, and procuring an Indian dugout, the only available water-craft, crossed the river and visited the scene of the tragedy of the previous night, the particulars of which were given yesterday.

At the end of that time Maj. Richards, engineer in charge of the work, announced that it would be impossible to turn the bridge on that evening, as it would require a great deal of adjusting. The party would, therefore, have to go before beheld the big iron span turn for the first time, but the disappointment that may have been felt in regard to this was dispelled under the hospitality of the road's officials.

The bridge has two abutments of brick and stone, besides the one upon which the draw-span is built. The draw-span is 275 feet long, and when completed the other spans will measure 300 feet each. This makes the bridge, exclusive of its approaches, 875 feet long. From the lowest point in the bed of the river to the level of the bridge is 86 feet, and from the water to the top iron-work of the draw-span is 99 feet. Work was first begun upon the bridge in September, 1882, but was suspended all last year. The company expects to have trains running over it by March 1, and by the enterprising manner in which the work is being pushed forward there is no reason to presume that they will do so. The bridge, which when completed will have cost $250,000 and possibly more, will be a lasting monument to those under whose supervision it is being erected.

THE EVENING POST

PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CASHMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 19, 1884.

We are in receipt of the first number of the Utica Comet, published by Mr. J. H. Martin.

Mr. Greeley's specific for an unhealthy surplus of laborers was, "Go West." Changing the direction of advice, it is evidently now the proper thing for the Fall River employers and employees to "Go South." They are too far away from their base of supplies.—Philadelphia Record.

Kentucky's Able Senators.

When Mr. Blackburn takes his seat alongside of Mr. Beck in 1885 Kentucky will be more ably represented in the Senate than any other State in the Union.—Philadelphia Record.

Has the Record never heard of our Lamar and our George?

In Two Months.

It is stated on trustworthy authority that Congress has already passed two bills.—Rochester Chronicle.

In about the same length of time the Missisippi Legislature has passed one bill that we know of, the Railroad supervision bill, and that has been declared unconstitutional.

They are talking in Washington of making poker-players contribute to the support of the poor. The idea is to tax every "pot" (whatever that is) ten cents. It is estimated that the revenue thus obtained will supply all charitable needs. —Meridian Observer.

In other words, this method will "make the pot boil" in the houses of the poor and needy.

An Exposition at Louisville this year seems to be among the shadowy improbabilities. The financial failure of last year's show, coupled with what the Post of that city calls "the unpopularity of certain persons connected with that enterprise," stand in the spaces in the way of the guarantee fund.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

"The unpopularity of certain persons connected with the Louisville Exposition" probably made it a financial failure last year. Is not the New Orleans Cotton Exposition in great danger from a similar source?

The bloody-shirt mill is still grinding out the Copiah case. The Sherman Committee hold their session at the Custom-House in New Orleans. The Mathews friends have been before them and testified. The case is bad enough, but is a State, or any other people than those wild men of the mob to be held responsible for their actions?—Clarion.

O most sajntly Clarion! thou art improving. We did not suspect before that the Clarion even wanted "those wild men of the mob" to be held responsible for the terrible deeds in Copiah.

Progress.

Prisoners to be hired out in Panola county first Monday in March. They will be let to the highest responsible bidder. The former lessee, Mr. Owen, of Tate county, being in arrears to the county $600, his contract was rescinded. —Clarion.

What sort of progress is it? We are inclined to believe the Clarion has not, by its exposures or denunciation, helped to retard the Progress of the abuses toward the leased convicts of the Mississippi penitentiary.

The Governor has vetoed the railroad supervision bill. It is now in order for the Solomon of The Vicksburg Post to predict something else.—New Mississippian.

The Post still sticks to its prediction, and the Governor, in his message, has verified its correctness. The gist of The Post's prediction was that the Governor would favor railroad supervision, and the correctness of our surmise is amply demonstrated by the veto message. The Governor says he will approve a supervision bill shorn of constitutional objections.

Now, as the New Mississippian wants another prediction we will give it: Look out for the New Mississippian to be a Lowry partisan.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Times says respecting the talk about Republican Presidential candidates:

While the friends of Presidential aspirants have suddenly awakened to the serious candidacy of Logan and the assiduity of his friends, the President's friends have not relaxed their efforts owing to the danger to their favorite, menaced by a combination against his strength in the South. Mr. Blaine alone appears to abstain from interference with the plans of the Administration. Messrs. Sherman, Logan, Hawley, Edmunds, and to a mild extent Allison, are the Senators sometimes alluded to by the President's friends as being most actively engaged in counteracting a Southern movement for Arthur. While there is no Senator who avills himself as an anti-Administration man, there is a strong body of Senators, probably more than a majority, who are opposed to Arthur's nomination. It may be said that Blaine is talked of freely in every conversation about candidates. His addresses are more numerous than those of any of the other popular men; yet it is believed that he will not be nominated. He would be glad to see Arthur defeated, but would not like to see Logan succeed. Anti-Arthur men say that Logan's nomination would be a defeat for the Administration, and that Logan would be the strongest candidate the Democrats could put forward.

Prince Bismarck does not think Herr Lasker was in life a man of sufficient consequence in Germany to justify a resolution of condolence by the American Congress, and returned a curt reply to the German minister at Washington. Uncle Sam has but one proper answer to make to Bismarck's message and that is "Thank you." Bismarck is a man of a good deal of power, and it is well enough to keep on the right side of him.

A Double Crime.

The Post was the first newspaper in the State to denounce the killing of Print Matthews and to protest against the Copiah county resolutions. We asserted that the deed and the action of the mass meeting did not meet with the approbation of a majority of the people of the State, and that neither could be justified. Unfortunately for our State a number of newspapers—probably enough to warrant the assertion that there was a large sentiment in favor of political murder—took issue with The Post, and defended or condoned the dreadful Copiah business. Among these were the Vicksburg Herald, the Brandon Republican, the Port Gibson Reveille and the Jackson Clarion. The Post was found fault with by some of these sheets, and threatened and denounced by others.

The Memphis Appeal, one of the most orthodox Democratic papers in the country, and generally extremely Southern in its views, now gives expression to the following sentiments in connection with the Copiah tragedy, that are identical with those we expressed when the tragedy occurred, and for which we were traduced by several of the so-called Democratic Mississippi newspapers:

An investigation of the Copiah county outrage was begun yesterday at New Orleans by a sub-committee of the committee appointed for that purpose by the Senate, on the resolution of John Sherman. The testimony of Leon Matthews, brother of Print Matthews, the man who was shot dead at the polls, was very direct, and so far has been corroborated by other witnesses. His story is one which no man can read without a feeling of shame that in a free country and in this nineteenth century so brutal and ruffianly a spirit—one so illiberal and unjust—should, under any pretext of political stress, be permitted to assert itself. He tells of other outrages besides that of the murder of his brother, which was at the time condemned by the Appeal and a majority of the Democratic papers of Mississippi. Of these we have never heard before, but that which is the cause of the Congressional inquiry was absolutely confessed to by the cold-blooded resolutions adopted, as we believe, by a few men in the name of the Democrats of Copiah county. To take a human life is an awful crime, and one that sooner or later overtakes the perpetrator, unless it is justified in the plainest way by the plea of self-defense. To take a life because a man differs with another politically, and like a free man dares to make that difference known at the ballot-box, is to commit a double crime, the most dreadful in the calendar. The Democrats of the South have condemned this double crime at Hazlehurst and denounced the criminal, his aiders and abettors. The same policy

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

WE are reliably informed that the Valley Road from Jackson to Yazoo City will be completed this week, and regular trains will commence running.

MR. M. T. ENRIGHT, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is reported as a great deal better to-day, but Mr. Pat. Ring, who is also down with pneumonia, is said to be still very sick.

A PHOTOGRAPH of the "little papoose," the steamer Hard Cash, taken when loaded with cotton and lying at the foot of China street, is on exhibition at the bookstore of J. F. Baum & Co. It is the work of Mr. A. L. Blanks, and reflects credit upon him as an artist.

THE very high wind of this morning has caused the crossing of a great many of the telephone lines, and as the same wind makes it unsafe for the workmen to go upon the roofs and readjust them some slight inconvenience may be caused to subscribers to-day. They will be straightened out as soon as possible.

A NUMBER of performers arrived in this city to-day for Howe, Pullman & Co's circus. Practice continues at the training tent, and a good show may be expected on Saturday. Among the fine actors are the Masters Howard and Macoit, as equestrians, Miss Nellie Moore in a menage act, and the wonderful feats of Signor Dock on the balancing trapeze.

Railroad Matters.

Col. J. W. Johnson, President, and J. Y. Sage, General Superintendent of the Georgia Pacific Railroad, were in the city yesterday, and left by last night's train for Birmingham, Ala., their home. The gentlemen have been to Greenville for the purpose of inspecting or looking after the Greenville road, the Mississippi division of the Georgia Pacific. Their road is now in running order from Birmingham to Atlanta, a distance of 169 miles, and from Columbus, Miss., seventy miles east, which leaves a gap of forty miles to be completed in order to connect the eastern division with the Columbus division. The road is also built to Coleburg, a place 12 miles west of Birmingham, in the direction of Columbus, (Miss). Several large coal mines have been opened and are now being worked in that section. The road is handling from these mines from 900 to 1000 tons daily, and the amount is daily increasing.

On the 25th of this month the company will commence to transport coal over the Columbus division. The distance from the Eastern terminus of the Greenville or Mississippi Division to Columbus, is 137 miles.

These gentlemen are very much exercised over the proposed Railroad Supervision bill and it is their opinion that if a bill in any manner similar to the one now in the hands of the Legislature is passed it will be a death blow to Railroad progress and development in this State, and that not another line of new Railroad will be built except some small portions not yet complete and which are portions of roads now nearly finished.

In connection with this subject, our correspondent writes that during the discussion in the House at Jackson, of the Supervision bill after the Governor's veto, the interest was intense. Col. J. W. C. Watson made a very lengthy and exhaustive speech in favor of the passage of the bill over the Governor's veto, but our representative, Mr. T. Marshall Miller, made a magnificent and telling speech against it, the effects of which was that the Governor's veto was sustained. The galleries were crowded, and when the vote was announced the excitement was very great indeed. Mr. Marshall Miller has rendered a splendid account of himself, and the friends of progress and the true interests of our State have just cause to be proud of him.

So They All Say.

The Atlanta Constitution of the 13th speaks as follows of the performance of "A Bunch of Keys" by the Flora Moore Company:

DeGive's was packed last night with one of the best audiences of the season. "A Bunch of Keys" is a burlesque on modern hotels, and in some points is not very far from the beaten tracks of everyday experience. As a musical comedy, a roaring farce and a rollicking extravaganza "Bunch of Keys" is a success. Miss Flora Moore makes a jolly "Teddy Keys," and the other female characters are pretty and spirited. In fact the entire company seem to fit the play to a dot. The matinee this afternoon, and the performance to-night will doubtless draw crowded houses. We have had nothing so laughable and really good in its way for a long time as, "Bunch of Keys," and the beauty of it is that while the fun is broad, it is just as side-splitting as any comedy now on the stage.

From the number of such opinions it seems that the Vicksburg public have an extraordinary treat in store for Thursday and Friday nights.

FOUND DROWNED.

Mr. Menthrope Discovered Dead in a Bayou.

On yesterday Mr. E. W. Menthrope, who resided about six miles from this city on the Hall's Ferry road, came to town on horseback, to transact some business. After dark the family were very much alarmed to see the riderless horse come home, and a search was instituted which resulted in the finding of the body of Mr. Menthrope about daylight.

The body was lying about thirty feet below the bridge, and in about two feet of water. The supposition is that on the way home he became thirsty, and got off at that place to get a drink out of the bayou, when he was attacked with vertigo, to which he was subject, and fell into the stream.

Mr. Menthrope was four years in the Confederate army, and, in the words of a comrade, "no braver man ever fired a gun; and no better soldier ever carried one; there were no hardships he could not cheerfully endure, he never shirked a duty, and he knew not what fear was."

He was about 43 years of age, and a native of Germany. He leaves a wife and children to bemoan his death. He was a member of the Knights of Honor in this city.

A Coroner's inquest was to have been held to-day, but up to the hour of our going to press we have been unable to learn the verdict.

The Mardi Gras Trip.

Persons contemplating a visit to New Orleans during the carnival should not forget that the big, elegant Ed. Richardson leaves Vicksburg next Friday, the 22d, at 5 o'clock p.m. The Richardson will pass the lower coast in day-light, giving her passengers an opportunity of seeing the picturesque residences and fine cotton, sugar and rice plantations situated on the banks of the "Father of Waters." No scenery offers to the pleasure-seeker or to visitors a more interesting aspect than does that of the historic regions through which the mighty river winds its way, and those who fail to go down on the Ed. Richardson will miss an opportunity that is not offered every day. Capt. W. C. O'Hara, the Richardson's agent whose office is in the basement of the LaMadrid House, will be pleased to show to any who may desire to see it, a diagram of the cabin and staterooms of that majestic steamer, so that passengers can choose staterooms to their liking. It may be well to also state that the Richardson will have the honor of bearing His Majesty Rex to the city of New Orleans, which will be something well worth seeing.

Art Treasures.

The proudest man in town this morning was our esteemed Rabbi, Dr. H. M. Bien, who has received by mail, from our celebrated American sculptor, Ezekiel, of Rome, Italy, a complete set of photos, about 50 in number, complete copies of all that eminent artist's works which he has produced in now world-celebrated marbles. Such a collection of art treasures have never yet been seen in Vicksburg, or, perhaps, in the South, and are an heirloom, which the Doctor prizes very highly. They were sent in acknowledgement and appreciation of the poetical works which the Rabbi has written. We sincerely congratulate him on this, his great and valuable acquisition.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, Miss.

THIS is to certify that the within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.

HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of the John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of the JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Miss., but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers executed at any place out of this State which may be authorized by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days, in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet they shall elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no defect in informality in organization shall expose any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

I find nothing in the foregoing Charter violative of the laws or constitution of the State. T. C. CATCHINGS, fe14-2w Attorney-General.

R. F. BECK, President, THOS. MOUNT, Vice-President.

A FARCE IN THE HOUSE.

An Incident in the Manning Case—Mr. Curtin's Efforts to have him Sworn in—a Fatal Point of Order.

[By Telegraph to the N. Y. Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—A novel farce was played before a large and appreciative audience in the House of Representatives late this afternoon. The performance was highly successful, as well as extremely enjoyable, but it will not be repeated. The chief actors were Mr. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Manning. Mr. Manning's surprise and disgust, he learned this morning that the House, having taken him at his word, was likely to decide that it could not afford to do a thing which he had virtuously explained was too mean for him to do. This was so different a prospect from the one Manning had mentally bargained for that he became not only exasperated, but desperate. Messrs. Curtin, Blackburn, Tucker and a few others who sympathized with him laid a plot to circumvent the House, and by a grand coup d, etat have Manning placed in the seat which he is anxious to occupy, although it is generally believed to belong to another man. Mr. Manning was delighted with the scheme and at once consented to play his part. The Speaker, it seems, was not let into the plot, but it was known several hours beforehand by a great many Republicans.

As the last hour of the debate approached, Messrs. Curtin, Manning, Blackburn and several other Democrats were observed in close consultation at the rear of the hall. When the Chairman of the Elections Committee rose to put the previous question the group suddenly broke up. Mr. Curtin hastily came forward, followed by Manning, who sank into a vacant seat midway down the aisle leading toward the Speaker's desk. Mr. Curtin claimed the floor, as he said, to withdraw a resolution offered by him on Wednesday to recommit the case with instructions. He seemed considerably agitated, and Manning, who sat a few feet a away, looked flushed and anxious, not to say sheepish.

MR. CURTIN APPEALS FOR MANNING.

Mr. Curtin had only five minutes in which to play his part in the farce. He spoke with great energy of the authority and potency of a certificate of election "under the broad seal of a sovereign State," and denounced as outrageous the proposition to "deny the right of representation" to the people of a Congressional District. After speaking in this strain about three minutes, Mr. Curtin's excitement increased and raising his voice as he strode toward the open area in front of the Speaker he exclaimed that he now presented General Manning at the bar of the House, bearing the certificate of his election to honor under the broad seal of a great State and demanded that the oath be administered to him. Manning was still seated, and he seemed rather reluctant to move. "Gen. Manning, come forward," shouted Mr. Curtin, with a dramatic gesture. Manning obeyed, attended by Blackburn and Tucker. He soon stood beside Mr. Curtin, his face flushed and his hands twitching nervously. "Produce the certificate," said Curtin impatiently, with another gesture. The poor self-stultified Mississippian fumbled in his pockets awkwardly and at last drew forth the "certificate, which three months ago he said he would scorn to offer as evidence of his title to a seat in the House.

THE PLAY INTERRUPTED

The once despised but now precious document was handed to the Clerk but at that point the proceedings were interrupted. Mr. Curtin's remarks had been received with bursts of derisive laughter by the Republicans, but a time had come to put a stop to the farce. Major Calkins made the point of order that the house was at that very time engaged in the consideration of the question whether General Manning was entitled to be sworn and until that question was decided no other business was in order. Mr. Curtin scowled, stammered and defiance. The Speaker, who had been watching the whole performance with apparent contempt, here interposed. He quite remarked that of course he should not undertake to admonster the oath to a man whose title to a seat he House was about to decide. Mr. Curtin was nonplussed and Manning was crushed. He covered visibly under the cool and cutting words of the Speaker, and after a moment of irresolution he retreated and dropped into the first vacant seat he could find. Mr. Curtin also retired in high dudgeon, followed by derisive applause and laughter from the Republicans. As he did so the irrepressible Belford exclaimed "Ring down the curtain!" The Republicans and a good many Democrats were in a mood to be amused and the pun threw them into convulsions of laughter. Messrs. Blackburn and Tucker and their ground manfully, and covered the retreat of the leading actors in the farce.

WHEN AND WHERE

The National Democratic Convention is to be Held.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—There are a number of the members of the National Democratic Committee already in the city, and there is naturally considerable discussion respecting the place where the Convention shall be held and the time. The Eastern cities have made no fight for the Convention. If an effort had been made for Saratoga, there is every probability that its admirable hotel accommodations and salubrious climate would have secured for it a very favorable consideration, and it would very likely have borne off the prize. The fight seems to be confined to St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati.

Each one of these cities is making a great effort to get the convention held there. The usual fair promises are made of moderate prices, etc.—promises which in the past have rarely if ever been faithfully kept. There is a very sore feeling in respect to Cincinnati on account of the prices and bad treatment extended them in 1880. The prices charged by the hotels were simply enormous. There is also vivid recollection of the heat and discomfort which prevailed at St. Louis in 1876.

But quite as much as these things are political causes which seem to be making a drift in favor of Chicago out of the three Western cities. St. Louis is but a step from Mr. Morrison's home in Illinois, and the friends of the other candidates are not disposed to give him such a good send-off for his boom. On the other hand, the McDonald men are afraid of Cincinnati because they suppose that to have it there would help Mr. Payne, of Ohio, the mention of whose name causes them no little disturbance.

The friends of the Eastern candidates have no special objection to Chicago. They do not regard the blandishments of the Iroquios Club as very dangerous, and are willing to trust it to the tender mercies of Mayor Carter Harrison.

The result of all this is that Chicago, with its admirable hotels, is now in the front, leading both of its Western rivals. There is no serious talk of Louisville or Indianapolis.

In respect to the time of holding the convention, there is nothing apparently settled, but there is a strong sentiment in favor of a short, sharp and decisive campaign, and of holding the convention in July or August, instead of the middle of June as heretofore. One advantage of this policy is that it gives sufficient time to estimate the strength and the weakness of the Republican nominations and plan of campaign, and to prepare for the best counterwork.

There is also an understanding of political gossip based on much more reliable sources than most of what is usually published. The New England talk is that Greenbackism in Maine is to be formally and forever repudiated, and an old-fashioned Democrat put up for Governor who will have about him no taint of this playedout dogma.

Some of the old guard that supported Mr. Tilden in 1876 and 1880 say that they would gladly go for him again but are satisfied that his health is too feeble to allow him to enter the field. They have direct information that under no circumstance would he accept the nomination. They are, therefore, carefully and cautiously examining the records and availability of other names. Morrison and McDonald are regarded as unsafe by reason of their extreme free trade position, which, it is held, endangers the only Northern States likely to go Democratic.

Flower of New York, and Payne of Ohio, are spoken of with more favor, and it is undestood that each will get the vote of his respective State in the national convention. Up to this time, however, there is no evidence of any general concentration.

Morrison and McDonald have been pushed to the front. Each has a patent on the tariff idea and neither is willing to wait on the other or yield the step.

Mr. Menthrope's Death.

VICKSBURG, MISS., Feb. 20, 1884.

Editor Evening Post:

I am truly sorry to read from your issue of yesterday evening of the unfortunate drowning of Mr. Menthrope. Last night the family and friends of the unfortunate man may think he was foully dealt with, I will state that for the first time in his life Mr. Menthrope came in my drugstore on Saturday last, I think it was, and purchased from me twenty-five cents worth of morphine, which was ten grains. On day before yesterday (Monday), the day on which he met with the drowning, he came again to my store and called for twenty-five cents worth of morphine, which I wrapped in a paper and put in a small white envelope and gave him.

Now, Sir, I do not pretend to say who took the morphine, but I do pretend to say that morphine will produce death. I am thus particular in describing the paper in which I put the morphine, that his family may find it in his pocket and know the cause of his death, provided he had taken the morphine, and also that an innocent person may not be suspected of murder.

When the unfortunate man was in my drugstore only a few days ago, he looked the very picture of health, and that he had a long lease on life.

Respectfully, R. S. PRYOR

YESTERDAY'S BREEZES.

Some of the Trouble Caused by the Wind—Sinking of the Exchange.

Yesterday's wind did a vast amount of damage both on land and water. The Signal Officers report it as blowing sixty miles per hour, which is a pretty stiff wind. It caused the crossing of many telephone wires in the city, and blew down telegraph wires and poles all through the country.

A barge loaded with wood and moored a short distance below the Elevator was swamped and wrecked. There were about 200 cords of wood on the barge at the time, and much of it was lost by the accident.

The flat A. J. F. No. 1, lying near the Elevator, had a narrow escape from being lost yesterday evening. Her canvas covering was blown off, but she was towed between two steamers, where no further damage was done.

The most serious result of the wind yesterday was the sinking of the steamer Exchange. She broke her line at Delta, where she had been tied up, and went adrift down the stream. She was pursued by the D. C. Fogel, but went ashore near the Refuge Oil Mills with such force as to have her bow thrown upon the bank, which caused her stern to sink in the water. The D. C. Fogel made several attempts to pull her off, but owing to the continued high wind was unable to do anything for her. The Exchange was the property of the Warren Oil Mills, and was built at a cost of $40,000, though she is not worth that sum at present.

The Belle Memphis arrived at 11 o'clock this morning, and from her pilot, Capt. Carroll, we learn the following in regard to the further damage by the wind:

They encountered a severe storm yesterday while at Lomond, near Vista. The steamer was blown over until three feet of the guards were under water, and the escape from a serious catastrophe was very narrow. No damage was done but the boat lay at Lomond all day yesterday, and until 3 o'clock this morning on account of the wind.

It was reported at Lake Providence by some steamers that the Issaquena had been seen lying at Shipland Light during the night, minus a portion of her smokestacks. No other damage was reported, and she will be ready to leave tomorrow at her usual hour.

The Big Natchez was unable to get away on account of the high wind until 11 o'clock last night. Her genial master, the old vetran, Capt. Leathers, said he had not known so severe a wind to last so long since in '53 or '4 when such a wind continued without abatement for twenty-four hours. It is probable that only a small portion of the damages caused by the wind of last night are as yet known. It was certainly one of the most severe storms experienced in this section for a long time.

The Circus.

The band and a number of performers are to arrive for Howe, Pullman & Co's circus this evening. The canvas will be stretched on the Americen bottom on Saturday, which will be a grand gala-day.

Bismarck Will Explain.

Berlin, Feb. 20.—It is stated that Bismarck's reasons for returning to the American Congress the resolution of condolence upon the death of Lasker will shortly be published. A claim is made that a high political principle formed the basis of his action.

THE EVENING POST

PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CASHMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB., 20, 1884.

A VERY significant and important suggestion in regard to an investigation by the Legislature of the sale of State lands will be found in this issue. Gentlemen of the Legislature, do your duty.

MR. PINCKNEY C. BETHELL, a millionaire planter, died of heart disease in New Orleans day before yesterday. Mr. Bethell was a native of North Carolina, but emigrated to Louisiana when quite young. Of late years he had been a resident of Memphis. Mr. Bethell was 68 years old; he leaves a fortune of ovver $1,000,000.

HON. MARSHALL MILLER'S speech in defense of the Governor's veto and against the passage of the supervision bill in the House last night, was one of the ablest, and most logical, as well as one of the most brilliant speeches we ever heard. He replied to Judge Watson's speech in favor of the bill and against the veto.—New Mississippian.

MR. JEFFERSON DAVIS, in reply to an invitation to address the Mississippi Legislature on the life of S. S. Prentiss, thanks the Legislature for its consideration, says the subject would be agreeable, but his health is so uncertain as to prevent him from fixing a date to deliver the address, and he suggests the Legislature select some one else for the purpose.

By his veto yesterday, no matter what reason influenced him, Gov. Lowry has aligned himself with the progressive and wide-awake element of our people, those who are in favor of building up the State rather than retarding its growth. We congratulate the Governor upon his wise decision in the matter.—Columbus Dispatch.

The Dispatch will sing a different tune when it reads the veto message and finds that the Governor got down on the other side of the fence.

THE cotton manufacturing interests of the Eastern States are opposed to Morrison's tariff bill, as demonstrated by testimony before the Ways and Means Committee. The South expects to have a great many cotton factories in the near future, and Morrison's bill will be detrimental to our section. The Southern sugar producers are already on the warpath against Morrison's bill, and if Mr. Morrison, Mr. Carlisle, and other free trade Presidential aspirants think they are going to gain strength in the South on this issue, they are sadly mistaken.

MRS. MATTHEWS, her son Meredith, and others, charge that Congressman Barksdale made a speech at Hazlehurst the day before the killing of Matthews, that was calculated to incite and encourage violence. Mr. Barksdale denies these charges. It will be well enough for the Democratic Senators on the subcommittee to take testimony on this point. If it can be proven that Mr. Barksdale did not incite violence and political murder, and no doubt it can be, it is doubtful if the Vicksburg Herald will follow his leadership any longer.

The Copiah Investigation.

The following testimony is significant and severe upon the Copiah county Democracy:

HOW MATTHEWS WAS KILLED.

Geo. B. Hamilton, white, lives in Hazlehurst. Was clerk at the last election. His duty was to keep a record of votes. J. P. Matthews came into the poll a little after half past 8 o'clock on the morning of the election. Erasmus Wheeler was there. We were arranging the tables and talking. Mr. Matthews talked with Wheeler and others. Everybody was ordered out and the poll was opened. Matthews said he would vote and go away. He voted and was shot down. He had just voted and stepped back from the table when he was shot. He was standing about six feet from witness when he was shot. When the smoke was dispelled witness saw the clerks and Mr. Wheeler in the room. Mr. Wheeler was standing about eighteen feet from Matthews. He had a pistol in his hand, unloading and replacing cartridges. Witness was a Democratic clerk.

WHEELER ADMITTED HE GOT TOO DO IT.

Dr. A. B. Pitts, of Hazlehurst, testified that he attended Burnett after he was shot; had conversation with Ras Wheeler after Matthews was killed; we were speaking an account of the killing in a newspaper; Wheeler explained the position that he and Matthews occupied in the room; think he mentioned the shooting of Matthews; said he and Matthews were friendly; requested Matthews not to vote; Wheeler didn't say they had an altercation.

Question by Mr. Frye: "Did you inform Burnett, when he called to pay your bill, that Wheeler told you he had nothing against Matthews, that he killed him only because he could not help it; that, he Wheeler, had been selected by lot to do it and had to."

Answer—"Yes."

Question—"Did Wheeler so tell you?"

Answer—"He did."

After the murder Wheeler was favorably mentioned for the office of Mayor of Hazlehurst, and was actually elected town Marshal. The Clarion says only "the still men of the mob" should be held responsible.

The "One" Black Sheep.

The Washington Republican furnishes a table exhibiting the number of Democratic and Republican journals, respectively, in the Southern States, and says:

In Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee the Democratic journals out number the Republican journals about six to one; in Kentucky ten to one; in Arkansas and Louisiana twelve to one; in Florida and Texas fifteen to one; in Georgia twenty-seven to one; in South Carolina, thirty to one; in Alabama, forty-four to one; and in Mississippi ninety to one.

If the question is not considered impertinent, we should like to know from which of our Mississippi cotemporaries has the honer to be the "one" black sheep in the press gang of this State?—Vicksburg Herald.

If the answer is not considered impertinent, we may be permitted to suggest that it is hardly necessary for the Herald to make this inquiry. One of its editors received the nomination for State Senator from the blackest sort of a negro Republican convention, and that too, according to our recollection, under a resolution pledging the Senatorial nominee to support the Republican candidate for Congress and U. S. Grant for President at the ensuing elections.

Another of the Herald editors, if we mistake not, has openly and boldly advocated the support of Grant in preference to Tilden.

Æsop tells of a jackass that donned a dead lion's skin and then sallied forth into the forests. The ass keenly enjoyed seeing the other animals flee from him in terror, as all of them were afraid of a lion. To add to their fright, the ass thought he would roar like a lion. He made the attempt, but a miserable and very loud bray was the result. As soon as the frightened animals heard the familiar sound, they stopped and investigated the source, and finding it was only a jackass clothed with a dead lion's skin, they jeered and mocked him for his pretense.

The Herald can play "big Injun Democrat heap," but it must not roar.

Public Printing.

The construction of public bridges involves the safety of human lives, but we never heard any objection from the Reveille to their being "hazarded at auction."—Vicksburg Post.

The fact that the construction of public bridges involves the safety of human lives is an unanswerable argument against the lowest bidder principle, and if you read the Reveille you will find its board objections from it against hazarding the building of bridges at auction. As a member of the Board of Police years ago, and of the Board of Supervisors subsequently, we held to the rule that the most responsible and most reasonable bidder was the safest one to take. When the Grand Gulf & Port Gibson Railroad was being built we were of the Directory. That body gave the contract for building the road to the lowest bidder, and, after much vexatious delay and a heavy loss of money, the Directory had to contract with the parties who were the highest bidders in the first instance, to take the job and finish it.

Men, as public agents, should contract for public work with the care and caution that governs them in their private transactions. The lowest bidder principle is simply nonsense, unless taken in connection with the safest and best bidder.

THE VICKSBURG POST failed, we believe, to get the city printing, and after it thinks the lowest bidder should always be the elected one. If the Vicksburg Herald has a circulation of ten to one it would have to be the lowest bidder at any amount, no matter how great, as against its city contemerary.

If the Clarion office should take the public printing (the publishing) at ten thousand dollars it would be, in view of its large circulation, a lower bidder than THE VICKSBURG POST at one thousand. The difference in material and in responsibility, its capacity to do what it undertakes to do, must be considered. As a bidder for the public printing the Clarion office has no equal competitor in the State, and for that reason and others the Legislature, for many sessions, has given that office the printing over lower bidders in figures, but higher bidders in fact. It did so recently, although the Governor's message held to the stupid idea that the lowest bidder is to be the chosen bidder.

THE VICKSBURG POST has a very unfair way of discussing questions with the press. It rarely reprints the article to which it replies, hence we are compelled, in this instance, to pursure the same course with that journal. If THE POST will reprint the article in the Clarion, from the Reveille, we will cheerfully abide the issue.

"In this instance" it is peculiarly fortunate that THE POST's way of discussing matters justifies the Reveille in replying to our article without printing it. After taking advantage of the opportunity that "way" offered to vacate his original untenable position the editor of the Reveille should not advance any objections to it.

We repeat our request for the Reveille to tell us in what way the Clarion possesses such wonderful advantages over other printing establishments of Mississippi; why the State does not want cheapness in the charges for the public printing; and also what the circulation of the Clarion newspaper has to do with the book and job work of the public printing. Does the Reveille consider its circulation in estimating the charges for a poster or bill-head? At first the Reveille was violently opposed to abolishing the office of Public Printer, but it has veered around from that position now, and is willing to let the work out to the highest, and very naturally assumes that the Clarion will be that bidder, on account of its superior ability. There are other printers in the State just as competent as the men conducting the Clarion office; there are other offices as well equipped for doing any and all classes of printing, and they are managed by responsible men, too. Now will Col. Mason tell us where the Clarion's superior claims come in? The Reveille seems to be "stuck" on the Clarion. Perhaps it is on the same principle that its editor hangs to all old ideas and old methods that he seeks to perpetuate the present expensive system by bracing up the Clarion on a groundless claim of superiority. The Reveille seems determined that the Clarion must remain in office on some pretext or other if it has to successively test and abandon every reason in existence. The Reveille appears to be wading around blindly in the hope of eventually finding something on which to base its advocacy of maintaining the office of Public Printer for the benefit of the Clarion, but at last accounts it was still wading. How is the Reveille to excuse the over-charges the Clarion admits it has been making? And yet the Reveille endorses them by advocating continuing them. Perhaps the Reveille will explain these overcharges on job printing by referring to the Clarion's circulation.

The Reveille will have to "wade" a while longer; it has not yet reached a sound bottom. That "the Clarion has no equal competitor in the State," is true so long as the Legislature closes the doors against all other publishers, and refuses to allow them equal chances. But where the Clarion has any advantages in "the difference of material and responsibility" and "capacity to do what it undertakes," we cannot discern. Perhaps the Clarion's presses and workmen have some supernatural gift that endows them with this towering superiority.

The Reveille says we failed to get the city printing, and are therefore in favor of the lowest bidder. We cannot see where the remark is applicable, as, by the Reveille's plan, we would have been elected. The Reveille's tenacity in advocating its theory against reason and custom, might lead any one suspicious of sinister motives to believe that it was making a labored defense of the action of certain Mississippi Board of Supervisors.

"The Governor be Damned."

"The public be damned!" was the gentle remark attributed to Wm. H. Vanderbilt, the railroad millionaire. "The Governor be damned!" was what the railroad regulators thought when, under the lash of the caucus these supient "statesmen" rushed their supervision bill through the Legislature. They are experiencing a change of mind, if not of heart. They are growing apprehensive that the supervisionists are in a fair way to be "damned."—Vicksburg Herald, 20th.

The Governor is now a pronounced "railroad supervisionist," and is heartily in accord with the "sapient statesmen." The only difference between them is one of detail. We do not see how any one truly opposed to the policy of railroad supervision can take any comfort from Gov. Lowry's course. He says the Democratic party of Mississippi is pledged to the supervision of corporations, and the time has arrived to supervise. When the matter is intelligently and thoroughly discussed before the people, perhaps it will result in the manner indicated by the heading of this article.

EIGHT companies from different parts of the Union have signified their intention of taking part in the Houston (Texas) prize drill. Ex-Governor Ben Butler, of Massachusetts has been invited to deliver an address at the opening of the exercises.

LETTER FROM JACKSON.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 19, 1884.

This morning I asked a prominent Senator who would have the honor of introducing the railroad bill (learning another would be introduced to-morrow) and he replied:

"I do not know. We have a bill which, if patched up so as to suit the constitutional ideas of the doubting Thomases, might be introduced and all the time required for a new bill to pass through the hands of committees saved. But the House wants the honor of introducing the bill, and I understand has one prepared which will be introduced to-morrow."

So you see the two houses are somewhat at loggerheads.

Last night the Governor's veto message came up for consideration in the House. By a vote of 53 to 41 the railroad bill was quietly laid in the shade. Excellent speeches were made on both sides, one in support of the views of the Governor by your very faithful Representative Mr. Miller. I am sorry I cannot give you a synopsis of his speech.

It is believed that the Legislature will continue in session until about the 12th or 15th of March, but some of the members look quite home-sick, and seem to be willing to turn loose now.

S.

MISS GRACE GREENAWAY, whose charming illustrations have made her name a household word, is another lady with her artistic talent to home-building. She has purchased a piece of land at Hampstead, England, on which she intends to build herself a characteristic dwelling. She paid a thousand pounds for the site, and will probably expend two thousand more on the building and furnishing of a home which, though limited in its proportions, will be unique in its quaint and picturesque beauty.

STATE LANDS.

A Fine Opportunity for Investigation.

Editor Evening Post:

It appears from Gov. Lowry's message to the Legislature at the commencement of its present session, that the Commissioner of Swamp and Overflowed Lands has recently sold a large quantity of the most valuable pine lands in the State for the paltry price of 25 cents an acre! In what manner, to whom, and under what circumstances was this sale made? If the Committee charged with the duty of examining the office of the land Commissioner are sincere and earnest in seeking to discover crookedness and fraud, let them take hold of this clandestine sale and subject it to a thorough investigation. Mr. Commissioner Smiley should be required to "make a clean breast of it," and tell all he knows in relation to the matter. And it would be instructive in this connection, for the Committee to inquire into the history of a curious case lately decided by the Supreme Court of the State, namely: "the case of Foote, District Attorney; on the relation of Frank Martin against Myers, Secretary of State". What was the object of this suit? To what end did the Attorney General take a hand in getting it up? Having been on both sides of the case, he was singularly unfortunate in failing to get a judgment to suit him. But the Supreme Court, it is known, "will not do a vain thing." Will the Committee do its duty, or, is it organized for whitewashing purposes? None verons.

BREVIS.

The Ignorant Juror.

The Supreme Court of Tennessee has recently rendered a decision on the subject of jurors that will be welcomed by all, as it is certainly in accord with the spirit of the law and with the public sentiment and the practical good sense of the age.

Heretofore, the law has placed a premium on ignorant jurors. The man who read newspapers or books, who mixed with the world, and consequently, knew the current news of the day, was regarded as an improper juror, and one that could not serve; while the ideal juryman was deemed to be the man who was illiterate and uneducated, could not read or write, and knew nothing of the crime, or, indeed, of anything else.

The issue in this case, presented in Tennessee, was as follows: A juror upon a trial for murder declared that he had read a full account of the crime in the papers, and had formed an opinion regarding it, but believed that this would yield to evidence. This juror, the Supreme Court decided, was a good one.

This decision is very similar to one recently rendered by the Supreme Court of Indiana, which declared that reading an account of a crime in a newspaper was no good reason why a juror should be unfit to serve in that case. This is manifestly the drift of judicial decisions of late, and numerous other courts have held that knowledge of the details of a crime is not incompatible with jury service, and the principle is now being recognized in our own courts.

The ignorant juror, the man who cannot read and judge himself on the events of the day, should be excluded from service instead of encouraged, as he has been. Intelligence rules in everything except the jury box, where, hitherto, a premium has been placed on illiteracy.

We hope to see all of the courts follow in the footsteps of the Tennessee tribunal. It will be in the interest of good verdicts and will do much to prevent the escape and secure the punishment of criminals.

N. O. Times-Democrat.

Cheap or Dear Fame, as the Case May Be.

There is a bright, brisk, amiable little lady here from somewhere in Tennessee, who is engaged in the queerest, but most profitable sort of business, which she herself explained to me as if she enjoyed the funny side of it to the fullest extent. She buys a space in some newspaper, visits a town, writes up its leading citizens, about who they are, where they came from, political, commercial, social standing, and these same gentlemen pay her for it. She is writing up certain members of the Legislature here. She assures me she makes $30 a day, and I can quite believe it. The member of the House says he paid two dollars and a half; of course he can only get two dollars and a half's worth of praise. Others value their services at from $5 to $25. Her letters are to appear in a Memphis paper, the wise little correspondent tells me, and I dare say when the issues of that little evening paper reach Lucknow it will have such a sale as never had paper before.—Catherine Cole's Jackson letter in N. O. Picayune.

Not a Good Index.

The Presidential preferences of 77 Democratic members of the Mississippi House of Representatives reached as follows: Tilden 40, McDonald 23, Bayard 4, Hancock 3, Carlisle 5, scattering 5. This vote is rather an astonishing one. There is no doubt but that Mr. Tilden still retains a strong hold upon the respect and sympathies of our people, but still the vote of the members of the House of Representatives is not a more faithful indication of the actual political sentiment of Mississippians than was the vote of the same assembly on the railroad supervision bill an index of the spirit of progress that animates the hearts of those who are struggling to build up the State.—Aberdeen Examiner.

The Condition of Gen. Grant.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Gen. Grant, who still has to use crutches, although his leg has recovered from the effects of his fall on the ice—is much depressed in spirits. The bad weather affects him unfavorably, and he is suffering from rheumatism. Unless the weather becomes better he will go to Norfolk, Va., toward the end of the week.

NOTES.

The Harry and barge, Capt. J. M. Sargent, leaves without fail this evening at 5 o'clock for Rolling Fork.

The officers of arriving steamers report the weather on the river yesterday the severest experienced for years.

The mail steamer Capt. Miller arrived at 11:30 this morning. Her rudder has been repaired and she is all right now.

The Chas. D. Shaw is due in to-night from Natchez, for which she will leave again promptly at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The steamer Deer Creek with barge in tow arrived from Tchula Lake last night with 4541 sacks of cotton seed for the Refuge oil mills.

The Lake in front of the city is full of drift, timber and debris of every description, driven there by the storm and high winds of yesterday.

The steamer John F. Halpin, Capt. J. A. Quackenboss master, will leave for all landings in Davis Bend at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Natchez left for New Orleans at 10 o'clock last night with 957 bales cotton, 2,400 sacks seed, a good lot of way freight, and a large list of passengers.

The big Ed. Richardson will be up tomorrow evening from New Orleans, and will leave here on Friday the 22nd at 5 p.m., on her grand "Mardi Gras" excursion trip.

The Sallie Carney, Capt. Mike McGuire, returned from Sunflower river at 9 o'clock last night where she had gone with two empty barges after a large lot of staves.

The W. P. Thompson, Capt. M. D. Nelon master, is receiving to-day and will leave promptly this evening at 4 o'clock for all points as high as Grand Lake, (Ark).

The E. C. Carroll departed promptly at 6 o'clock last evening with a big trip, and tear on tools, overalls and other clothing, $5; total, $23 50."

The New Orleans Picayune of Saturday says: The fast and pretty Corona was brought to the landing yesterday, and will take the John W. Cannon's place in the Bayou Sara trade, leaving to-day at 5 p.m. The Corona has been recently most thoroughly overhauled, repaired and re-painted, at a cost of about $10,000, and is now in as fine a condition as when first built. The John W. Cannon will be repaired and re-painted, and after the Carnival, will take the Ed. Richardson's place in the Vicksburg trade.

MONIGNOR CAPEL ON DIVORCE.

A Man Married Two Three Times no Better Than a Mormon.

Monsignor Capel lectured to a much larger audience than usual in Chickering Hall New York recently, on "Divorce." I have watched with considerable interest he said, the way in which the subject has been brought before the public by the press and by lecturers, and I see that the public mind is aroused to considerable interest in the matter. I am grieved to find a new country permitting to be introduced what has elsewhere proven to be so disastrous to society. I will divide my subject into four parts: What the church teaches on the subject; the results of the system upheld by the church; the consequences of divorce in Europe; and the remedies to be applied. The Catholic Church asserts in the most absolute way that marriage is the union of two in one flesh, and man and wife constitute one moral person. By making it a sacrament, she imparts to man and woman the grace necessary to fulfil the duties of their position. The church under no pretence permits of divorce. Under no circumstances can the marriage contract be broken save by death. The church admits of separation in cases of incompatibility of temper or when it may be for the benefit of either party. But neither gains freedom thereby. This is no breach of the vinculum. The case of the Prince of Monaco is that of a man who had never been a marriage. If two people should meet and marry, and subsequently discover they were brother and sister there would be no marriage, because it was made in error. Priests by becoming priests bind themselves to celibacy. mention this because of what has occurred here during the past month. If a priest further becomes a monk he takes an additional obligation not to marry, by a vow not made to the church but to God. He has wedded himself to the church. When Luther took a wife he knew she was not his wife. Any monk who does so knows it. A man who goes through a ceremony of marriage under such circumstances, knows that the woman he takes can never be anything but his mistress. A rich man has married a wife and parts from her and he goes on his travels and after seventeen years or more marries someone else. Should he become a Catholic he would have to separate from the second, for, if he knew the facts, no priest could or would absolve him, nor even on death. If a priest knowingly marries divorced persons to comply with State laws he is ipso facto suspended and can no more officiate, coming under severest condemnation. The church rigidly carries out her theory and maintains that no power of the State, no act of Parliament, nothing on earth can ever can destroy the marriage bond. Eight millions of Americans, hold to this doctrine, and they are the salvation of the country. They represent the family life which is the bond of the State.

The lecturer then sketched the condition of Gaeces and Rome at the foundation of Christianity, and showed that from the first divorce in Rome, B. C. 234, dated the gradual downfall of that empire, divorce being the most frequent evil that had lost its vigor and manliness. It was the Catholic Church that raised up Europe from its degradation and gave woman her true position. Until the middle of the fifteenth century no one questioned her doctrines on marriage. They had preserved the family life and domestic happiness of the Irish, who had been deprived of almost everything else. It was Protestantism that introduced divorce, and wherever it has made most progress there have been the most numerous. On looking over the statistics of the States one is bound to say that divorces are most abundant where Protestantism most prevails. In England the Queen has kept the court pure by refusing a divorce to be presented. But this barrier will soon be broken down, and divorce will be as common as in American society. Monsignor Capel the traced the consequences of divorce, which were giving the rein to lewdness, lowering the moral tone of society. The gravest injury was done to children, especially girls. The remedy for the disease was to teach youth a proper idea of the marriage state. Divorce was often traceable to ill-assorted marriage. Honorable people should never receive or acknowledge divorced persons. The clergy should be brave enough to refuse to marry divorced persons. There was little difference between a Mormon and a man married two or three times.

The Next President.

(Washington Letter.)

"There stands the next President of the United States," remarked a leading Democrat of Ohio, as he pointed to Randall and Morrison, standing together in the rotunda of the Capitol.

"Which of the two?" asked a bystander.

"Why, either Randall or Morrison," replied the prophet. "Either one or the other will be the next Democratic nominee for the Presidency. Mark my word for that; and either one can be elected."

This incident illustrates a feeling that has grown noticeably since the meeting of Congress. The spiteful bearing of Randall under defeat has attracted the favorable notice of the free trade and revenue reform Democrats. The keen and successful tactics of Morrison in the passage of the Carlisle bill excited the admiration of the Democratic protectionists. As a consequence both have grown considerably in party esteem, and are now regarded as the most formidable presidential possibilities.

Address Upon "Manliness," by Rev. Reuen Thomas.

"Manliness" was the subject upon which Rev. Reuen Thomas of Brookline, Mass., delivered a very practical and interesting address at the Christian Union last Thursday evening:

We all have, he said, an indefinite idea of what manliness is. To bring that which is floating and fluid into some more exact condition, so as to be more easily apprehended by the mind, is about all that the limitations of the occasion allow me to attempt. I have not time even to verify the truth of the analysis which I shall make. A word or two on each item in the analysis must suffice. Let us begin by indicating the six essential elements without whose existence there is no true manliness of character.

1. Truthfulness, by which I mean that in us there should be the disposition to speak of facts exactly as they are to us. Truth is the correct apprehension of things. We may not always be correct in our apprehensions, but we can always take good heed to be rigidly faithful in putting things exactly as we see them.

2. Integrity, which, as ordinarily used, means uprightness. According to its derivation it means wholeness, soundness. And so freedom from moral diseasedness. As that where the angels tread.

It will be enough if we confine ourselves to its ordinary meaning of trustworthiness. The man of integrity does what he undertakes to do in the best and purest way he knows how. Integrity includes faithfulness. Without faithfulness there is no integrity The man who can be bribed to do what he knows is wrong towards the trust committed to him is not upright. There is no integrity in him. There is no soundness in him. Thorough integrity would embrace soundness in body and mind both.

3. Goodness. Like all vital words, this is one of those for which one can with difficulty find an exact synonym. There is no manliness without it. It includes—moving from the outside inward —politeness, consideration for others, and that quality which we know as righteheartedness. There is no good man who is not "lord of a great heart." There is much in the world which passes for goodness, but the manly quality is not in it. Lacking this, it becomes what we call "goody-goodyness." A book has been written by Mr. Thomas Hughes on "The Manliness of Christ." Christ's piety was not pietism; not at all like that jealous, distrustful, fault-finding, whimpering, whining thing, which is only as the crab to the good, sweet, luscious Baldwin apple. Any piety which is tart, acidy, setting your teeth on edge, is not manly nor is it womanly, and so spurious. Piety without good-heartedness, great-heartedness, is to say the least grievously defective. Goodness has ever in it the elements of sensitiveness and high-mindedness—without which there is no true manliness.

4. Strength is, of course, an element of manliness. Strength all through. We should aim at having physical strength, mental strength, moral strength. How the Apostles glorify strength. "I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong." "Be strong in the Lord"—and so on.

5. Thoroughness. How much this enters into manly character must appear to every one. There is no more despicable servant than he who half does everything. This kind of man breeds more ill temper than almost any other man we can name.

"In the elder days of art,
Builders wrought with greatest care,
Each minute and unseen part;
For the Gods see everywhere."

6. Self-control. The putting restraint upon self, this is one of the most practically valuable elements in a manly character. The man who has no control over his speech and temper is simply a bully. He is certain to act tyrannically toward those who are dependent upon him. In the days of youth, when habits are forming, if only we could be persuaded that the first, second and third thing in the order of importance is self-control, the whole of life would be brighter, sunnier, happier for the effort we made to bring the lower nature under the power of the higher that which is excluded from manliness:

1. All and everything of meanness. There is nothing so diametrically antagonistic to manliness as meanness.

2. That we call sneakishness, which might very appropriately be called snakeishness. That style of mannikin which goes round whispering inuendoes about others—would him and have nothing to do with him.

3. Affectation and all artifice—these are opposed to manliness. They eat into character as worms into wood until it becomes rotten.

Manliness affects utterance; the style in which a man writes and the tone in which he speaks. If we will only attend to it there are wonderful revelations of character in the tones of the human voice. It pronounces exaggeration to be falsehood, and compels intellect and emotion to step together.

If I were to present this subject in its fullest expression I should have to speak of the Man of men. The deepest convictions of my nature would have to be suppressed if I did not point you to him as the most perfect embodiment of pure manliness this world has ever seen. Put what emphasis you are cabable of on the words "the man" Jesus Christ. You cannot make them too emphatic.

The several points in the essay were illustrated by examples from modern life.

Bismarck's Mistake.

The action of Bismarck in returning to the United States House of Representatives the resolutions of condolence on the death of Lincoln, Garfield and Arthur, has been a piece of unmitigated rudeness. We have heard a great deal of late about the American hog. This seems to be a typical German hog or fool. The resolutions may have been unnecessary, but the people of the United States do need instruction in manners or international proprieties from any foreign power. The action of Prince Bismarck is a direct snub, if not intended as an insult, and we can think of nothing so appropriate at this time, as for our Government to recall the American minister at Berlin and notifying the German Charge d'Affairs at Washington that diplomatic relations between the two governments will be suspended until Germany makes an apology. But as Spain or any little power with a half dozen good war ships could whip the United States for our Government and South American affairs abroad with impunity, it is hardly to be expected that anything will be done in this instance.—Memphis Ledger.

Parting.

Weep not that we must part:
Partings are short; eternity is long;
Life is but one brief stage,
And they that say love ends with life are wrong.
List to thine own heart's cry—
Love cannot die.

What though so far away?
Thy thoughts are still with me, and with thee mine,
And absence has no power
To lessen what by nature is divine.
List to thine own heart's cry—
Love cannot die.

Then grieve no more, my love:
Grieving but shows thy trust in me is small,
Faith is by calmness proved,
For know this truth—thou canst not love at all
Unless thine own heart cry—
Love cannot die.

Room for the Angels.

BY L. H. M. BYERS.

"Far away by the Indus river,
When the mornings are gold and red,
The mourners walk together
And bury their silent dead,
In company and in silence—
But ever a place ahead
Is left unfilled and honored
As that where the angels tread.

'Tis a fancy, old as their river,
That, whenever they bury their dead,
The noise of wings is near them,
And light forms marshal ahead,
So ever before the mourners,
And close to the pall and plume,
'Tis a beautiful heaven custom
To make for the angels room

I've thought if some, not heathen,
Would make, in their worldly care,
Just room in their hearts for angels,
They would sometimes find them there.
If but in some nook or corner,
Filled up with unselfish things,
'Twere a joy to be sometimes hearing
The rustle of angels' wings."

THE wind may blow the floods may pour; but the paragrapher is always above the high water mark. The Courier-Journal's man thus sing above the roar of the tide:

O mother, I've been down to swim,
You oughter seen your daughter!
There ain't no place to hang my clothes,
For the hickory's under the water!

THE proposed bill for redistricting Virginia, will give the Democrats ten members of Congress and the Republicans two.

MR. W. T. DUGAN, agent of the Bunch of Keys Company, was in the city yesterday.

CAPT. BEN. HUGHES, superintendent of the Brierfield plantation at Davis Bend, is in the city.

DR. R. V. POWERS, a leading planter of the Yazoo Valley, arrived on the DeSmet this morning.

MISS MINNIE PLATT returned yesterday from a visit of three months to relatives at Jackson, Tenn.

JUDGE C. C. CORDILL, of Concordia parish, La., was a passenger by the City of Yazoo this morning for home.

MRS. CAGE, of Yazoo City, arrived by the DeSmet this morning, and departed for New Orleans on the City of Yazoo.

OWING to the telegraph lines being down, we are unable to publish the usual report of the condition of the rivers.

ALDERMAN WESLEY CRAYTON and wife departed for New Orleans yesterday evening. They will not return until after Mardi Gras.

MR. J. W. SHORT, Commissioner of the Circuit Court, will sell lots No. 39, 40 and 45, in square 11, of this city, on Friday, Feb. 29.

MISS MAMIE EGGLESTON, of Yazoo City, was a passenger to this city this morning by the DeSmet. She is en route to New Orleans.

CAPT. SEARLES, of the Southrons, went to Jackson last night to secure new arms for his Company. We understand that his mission was successful.

CAPT. J. J. FITZPATRICK and family have removed to New Orleans. Capt. Fitzpatrick was connected with the house of G. W. Hutcheson & Co. in this city.

WE learn that Capt. Pilot Wire Ashby, of the Anchor Line City of Vicksburg, who has been seriously ill at the residence of Mrs. H. B. Bruser, is now convalescent.

A PLEASANT evening is in store for a ll who attend the camp-pulling at the residence of Mrs. Virginia Thomas. The young ladies of Christ church have charge of the affair.

THE pilot of the Belle Memphis, Mr. Langwell, thinks the water from Memphis up will be very high, but does not anticipate a rise of more than two feet in the lower river.

JUDGE W. G. WYLIE, of Lake Providence, who has been attending the River Improvement meeting at Washington, and the River Commission at St. Louis, leaves for home to-day on the W. P. Thompson.

THE Herald has twice stated that the Bunch of Keys Company appears here on Saturday, which is incorrect. The Company appears here on Thursday and Friday nights next week only, to do not to exceed two matinees. Special terms to private parties, but no more matinees.

ANOTHER MURDER.

Mr. Peter Nelson Shot in Cold Blood by a Sunflower County Desperado.

From Capt. Mike McGuire, of the Sallie Carney, which arrived from the Sunflower river last night, we learn that Mr. Peter Nelson, a well-known stave dealer of this city, was shot and instantly killed on board the Headlight, while the boat was lying at the Cobb plantation on the Sunflower river, last Sunday. Capt. McGuire was unable to tell us the name of the murderer,but says that the killing was unprovoked. Mr. Nelson had had a little misunderstanding with another party but had not had a word with his slayer, who was under the influence of liquor. The murderer, who is known as a desperate character in that part of the country, stepped up to Mr. Nelson, and making some remark, fired, the ball penetrating the heart of the deceased and killing him instantly.

The murderer was arrested and taken on the Sunflower to Eureka Landing, and turned over to Sheriff Richardson, of Sunflower county. The remains of of Mr. Nelson were interred at that place.

Mr. Nelson is well known in this city, having did business with Mr. Jacob Shlenker, who, on receipt of the news this morning, immediately telegraphed it to Mr. Nelson's partner, Mr. J. M. White, of New Orleans.

The Headlight, now overdue from the Sunflower river, is expected to arrive here to-day, and will bring further particulars in regard to the tragedy.

The High Water.

Capt. Carroll, pilot of the Belle Memphis, informed a POST reporter this morning that there are no changes in the condition of the levees above since yesterday. It is all conjecture, he says, in regard to what the water will do, and all depends on circumstances. He thinks the water will not become much higher here, but that it is probable that it will be higher above than ever before. The raise here is not the result of the Ohio floods, but is caused by rains in other regions. They made a landing at Longwood levee, and report it in a good condition. The water has risen but 9 inches in the past 48 hours.

THE reason why Dr. Price's Flavoring Extracts, Lemon, Vanilla, etc., are superior to all others is because they are prepared from choice selected fruits and aromatics, without coloring or poisonous oils, that all the flavoring principles are retained unchanged by chemical action, highly concentrated, requiring less to flavor. That they are perfect.

Military Ball.

The Volunteer Southrons have decided to give a grand ball next Tuesday evening. An exhibition drill will also take place, and an interesting time may be expected. Admission will be one dollar per couple, and includes supper, the proceeds to be expended in procuring fatigue uniforms for the Southrons. Tickets may be procured of any member of the Company, and we trust the gallant boys will be well patronized. The committee on arrangements consists of the following members of the Company: Capt. C. J. Searles, Sergeant W. O. Smith, E. Hornthal, C. A. Allen and N. J. Bazsinsky.

Rex.

Those contemplating visiting New Orleans during the Carnival, are reminded that the big Ed. Richardson will be here to-morrow, and leaves on Friday evening at 5 o'clock on her Mardi Gras excursion. See Capt. O'Hara for diagram of staterooms.

"A Bunch of Keys" at Buffalo.

The rush for seats at Wahle's yesterday afternoon and evening was something never seen there before, and seldom at any place of amusement in Buffalo. Sometime before the evening performance began the street was fairly blockaded. As far up as Pearl street a line was formed later, each member of which did his best to elbow his way into the Opera-house. Had all succeeded the crowd would doubtless have been a good natured one; but it is probable that at least five hundred people were turned away. It was front in a style that was not intended in the play—the hopeless outside of the building. "Bunch of Keys" is having an astonishing run, and its patronage yesterday was by no means entirely on account of the holiday. The performance has been well kept up during the week, even improving, if possible, on the fine even style with which it began.—Buffalo Express.

Don't forget that "A Bunch of Keys" will be presented at the Opera-house on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.

Sinking of the Oil Mill boat Exchange.

The Oil Mill boat Exchange, built some years ago by Col. J. J. Powers and now the property of his widow, Mrs. Powers, of St. Louis, was blown loose from its moorings near Delta during the wind storm yesterday to a point on this side of the river below the Refuge Oil Mill, where it sunk. Efforts are being made to save it from going to pieces, of which there is great danger. There is a great deal of valuable machinery in the boat, the value of which, together with the boat, is estimated at $30,000, and supposed to be insured in the agency of Messrs. Carroll and Powell of St. Louis. It is thought that she can be raised with little effort when the wind goes down, and that the damage will be comparatively trifling.

All Night.

I have now a night clerk at my Drug-store, who will be ready and willing to wait on the people at all hours during the night, and hereby save those in want of medicine a long walk up the hill, and also that they can purchase medicine just as cheap, and just as pure and fresh as at any other drug-house in the city.

The L. N. O. & T. Railroad.

The draw-span of the new bridge on the above road over the Yazoo river at Anthony's Ferry was tried yesterday,and found to work beautifully.

On account of the wire being down between this city and Rolling Fork we are unable to learn the result of the trial of the mule Henry Booth. This is the man who was discovered attempting to saw away the bridge at that point, and his trial was to have been held on Monday.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient, to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such fully up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders' or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers executed at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All provisions touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days, in a newspaper published in and city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet for that end and elect a Board of Directors and adopt by-laws, the Company shall be authorized to commence business; and no debts or indebtedness in organization shall expose any stockholder to liability beyond the amount of his subscription.

I find nothing in the foregoing Charter inconsistent with the laws and Constitution of the State.

T. C. CATCHINGS,
Attorney-General.

R. F. BECK, President, THOS. MOUNT, Vice-President.

The New Rules Regarding Safety Valves.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The annual convention of the Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels has adjourned sine die. The Board adopted an important amendment to the rules governing connecting safety valves, as follows:

"Lester safety valves to be attached to steam boilers of steam vessels shall have an area of opening of not less than one square inch for every two square feet of grate-surface in the boiler, and the seats of all such safety valves shall have an angle of inclination to the centre-line of their axis of 45 degrees."

"Spring loaded safety valves shall be constructed in such a manner as to give an increased lift by the operation of steam, after being raised from their seats on a spring."

"Loaded safety valves, constructed in any other manner, so as to give an effective area equal to that of the aforementioned safety valves, may be used in lieu of lever valves on all steamers, and shall be required to have an area of not less than one square inch to 3 square feet of grate-surface of the boilers, and each spring loaded valve shall be supplied with a lever that will raise the valve from its seat not less than that equal to one-eighth of the diameter of the valve opening, and the seats of all such safety valves shall have an angle of inclination to the centre line of their axis of 45 degrees."

The "Bunch of Keys," the reigning success of the present season, is produced at the Opera-house with a great cast, headed by the celebrated vocal artiste, Miss Flora Moore as Dudley McAdow, the character in which she appeared to such great advantage on the first night of her engagement. Miss Moore is a charming vocalist, and her acting is also admirable; puts a world wide range between herself and the average burlesque actress. Her support is excellent, and the entire performance will be given.

INTERESTING REPORT

Of the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department.

Mr. Chas. W. Fisher, ex-Chief of the Fire Department of this city, has prepared a report of the number of alarms, etc., that occurred during his term of office. We give the report below:

VICKSBURG, MISS., Feb. —, 1884.

To the Board of Delegates of the Vicksburg Firemen's Charitable Association:

Gentlemen—In accordance with the rule of your Board (page 16, of By-Laws, Rules and Regulations, under the head of Inspections), I herewith submit my annual report of this Department for the year ending February 13, 1884:

The force of the Department remains the same as last year, namely: One Chief Engineer, two Assistant Engineers, four Foremen, eight Assistant Foremen, three engineers of steam fire engines, three firemen of steam fire engines, and one driver of Hook and Ladder truck.

The following, only, are employed under salary: Three engineers and four drivers.

All the men belonging to the Department, however, have taken a deep interest in their voluntary duties, and have always endeavored to sustain the reputation of the Department.

APPARATUS.

The apparatus consists of three steam fire engines (one LaFrance, one Silsby, and one Ahrens), three horse hose reels, and one hook and ladder truck, 900 feet of hose, 11 horses, four double sets of harness and three single sets, and three telephones for the use of the Department. The apparatus is in good condition, except the hose which is entirely inadequate to the wants of the Department.

HOUSES.

The houses are in comparative good order, and what few repairs are needed can be made at very small expense. The old truck-house has been abandoned, and they have been located in the house with Phœnix No. 2.

HORSES.

There are eleven horses in service. Two have been purchased during the year, and two transferred to the city. The expenses for horse-keeping is borne by each company out of the allowance made by the city, and great pains are taken to see that their condition is creditable to the companies using them.

HOSE.

There is in service 2,490 feet of hose, all rubber. Of this quantity there is in good or serviceable condition 900 feet, and 1,590 feet are unfit for active use. I would recommend the purchase of at least 1,500 feet the coming year.

ACCIDENTS TO MEN.

I have the pleasure of reporting no serious accident to the men while on duty, with the exception of First Assistant Chief Gill, who, in his desire to render as much service as possible, remained too long under a burning shed, and was crippled by the fall of same. He reported for duty a few days later.

INSPECTIONS.

There were four quarterly inspections during the year of the entire department to public, in which the Department was represented by the Chief and his Assistants, and the city by the Fire Committee of the City Council. At the first quarterly inspection I ascertained the quantity and kind of hose serviceable and unserviceable, the kind or make of steamers or trucks, the number of horses and sets of harness, and a general inventory of such other property as is in the possession of each company. This information I received through the written report of the several company Foremen. At the semi-annual inspection I procured from the company Foreman an inventory of the value of all apparatus, horses, hose, reels, carts, etc., belonging to the Department, which showed a total value of property belonging to the city, and in use by the Department, to be $15,972, distributed among the several companies as follows: Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, $900; Constitution No. 1, $4,622; Phœnix No. 2, $4,775; Washington No. 3, $5,675. At the third quarterly inspection the Department was found in excellent working order except the Phœnix horses, which were condemned as unfit for fire service. The "goose-neck" of the Constitution was also reported out of shape and inconvenient to handle. At the annual inspection, which took place February 14, 1884, I caused a new inventory of values to be made and personally inspected, together with my successor, J. C. Gill, and his Second assistant, Wm. Phelan, the various engine-houses and stables, the engines, truck, horses, hose, reels, and other apparatus in use by the Department; and finding same in good order and serviceable condition, and everything proving satisfactory to my successor, he immediately assumed control of the Department.

There follows a detailed inventory of the apparatus in use by the Department at the inspection of February 14th, and which was published in the POST on the following day.]

INSPECTION OF CISTERNS.

During the year there were made ten reports of the condition of the cisterns, in each of which numerous mention was made of needed repairs. It has constantly been my aim to make the service of the Department as efficient as possible; and I not only performed my lawful duty by reporting same to Fire Association, but appealed time and again to the Board of Aldermen to see that repairs were promptly made. I am constrained to say, however, that but little satisfaction was given me from that source, they having an apparent apathy on the part of the "City Fathers" to look to the interests of the inhabitants of the city, especially in the matter of cisterns; of this number, 32 are in good order, and 7 need more or less repairs, to which the attention of the proper authorities has been called.

FIRES AND FIRE ALARMS.

The Department responded to 50 fire alarms. Of this number there were 23 actual fires and 27 chimneys and false alarms.

CISTERNS FILLED.

The Constitution No. 1 filled during the year 9 cisterns, Phœnix Co. No. 2 filled 11 cisterns, and Washington Co. No. 3 filled 12 cisterns. It has been customary with me to call upon the engines in turn, and no credit can attach to the performing the most service in this particular, it being simply its misfortune (?) in having its turn come after a liberal use of water.

EXPENSES OF THE DEPARTMENT.

The total allowance by the city for the running expenses of the Department is: For each steamer $180.45 per month, or $2,237.40 per annum, making for the three steamers yearly $6,712.20; for the Hook and Ladder Company $800 yearly, a total annual allowance of $7,612.20. Out of this amount the entire current expenses must be paid, including engineers and drivers salaries, feed for stock, coal, wood, gas, brooms and other incidentals that always occur. This amount, in my opinion, is entirely too small to adequately furnish the Department with means to purchase such articles as are absolutely necessary for its well-being, and I would most respectfully suggest that the Board petition the Council to increase the appropriation to such figures as in their judgment would meet all necessary wants.

THE FORCE

Of the Department in members in good standing is all follows: Hook and Ladder No. 1, 40; Constitution No. 1, 112; Phœnix No. 2, 90; Washington No. 3, 75. This makes a total of 317 members.

IN CONCLUSION

I beg leave to return my sincere thanks to the Board of Delegates for their kind and courteous assistance throughout my entire administration, as well as to my noble assistants, and my brother members of the Fire Department, who have constantly exerted themselves to surpass each other in deeds of bravery in saving the property under their control. Also to Messrs. Emanuel Gomes, of the Phœnix Co. No. 2, and Richard G. Groome, of the Constitution No. 1, for valuable assistance rendered me during my term of office. Thanking the Department for their obedience to all orders issued by the Chief or his Assistants, and bespeaking for my successor the same obedience and courtesy that has characterized my term, I beg to remain, very respectfully your obedient servant,

CHARLES W. FISHER,
Chief Fire Department.

Colored College at Jackson.

Mr. Wm. Stanton, of this city—a prominent architect and builder—is making plans and specifications for a large (colored) college to be built in Jackson, Miss., by the "Home Baptist Mission" of New York City. The building will be 116 feet long, 44 feet wide, 3 stories high with a basement, and will be built of brick; will be finely finished, and will cost about $25,000. Its location will be about one-half mile south of the Lunatic Asylum.

It will be remembered that in 1874 a committee visited this city with the view of locating such a building here. Jackson, however, seems to have been the place preferred.

The Home Baptist Mission Association is possessed of ample means and facilities to make the college a success in every particular.

Petition to Open up Steele's Bayou and other Tributaries of Lake Washington.

A petition is being circulated in our city and signed by our principal business men and leading citizens, the purpose of which is to have Steele's Bayou and other tributary streams of Lake Washington cleared of obstructions. At this time of the year the roads in that section become impassable, and planters are greatly inconvenienced in moving their crops and reaching market. The country is very rich, and the opening of the streams embraced in the petition will open up a very valuable avenue of trade. The petition will be presented to the present Legislature when a sufficient number of signers have been procured.

More Circus Arrivals.

This morning a number of circus performers arrived in the city to join Howe, Pullman & Co.'s United States Shows, among them a high wire accensionist, Castello brothers, and other arenic stars. And last, but not least, Prof. Moffat's Military Band and Orchestra of fourteen pieces, from St. Louis. The company that is being gathered together here is an excellent one, and will be composed of the best and most expensive talent of the saw-dust ring. On Saturday they exhibit on the lot on Walnut street, near the Verandah Hotel, and a free-list performance will be given.

THE VERY ACME OF PERFECTION.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

THE EVENING POST

Published by
J. P. CARRIGAN & CO.
No. 20 Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FRI., 21, 1884.

The Greenville Review copies an editorial from THE POST, headed "Our Course Again," and credits it to another paper. The Review ought to know that no other paper is not likely to give utterance to such sentiments.

WASHINGTON correspondent of the Natchez Democrat, under date of Feb. 19, says: "Gen. Fitzgerald, of Vicksburg, who was a delegate to the Mississippi river Convention, is still in the city. He is anxious for an appointment in the line of a few days to a judgeship in one of the Territories."

Who are the State Democratic Executive Committee of Mississippi?—Clarion.

This question evinces a lamentable lack of knowledge upon the part of the official organ of the party. What is the opinion at Jackson for if not to hold the office of Public Printer and keep the people informed as to "who are the State Democratic Executive Committee?"

THERE was a baby show at the "Continental Bazaar" in New Orleans a few days since. Ninety-nine babies were entered for the show, and the managers wisely concluded to have ladies for judges. The prizes for weights were as follows:

F. C. Phillips, aged 7 months, heaviest child between 6 months and 1 year, weighed 18 pounds, first prize of a handsomely gold watch.

Evelyn Marcy, aged 2 years and 4 months 39 pounds, second prize of a silver set of wraps.

Miss Ezell, 1 year and 3 months, 34 pounds, third prize of a silver cup.

True as Gospel.

Chief Justice Davis, of New York, said in a recent speech to his fellow sufferers, the tax-payers of that plundered burg: "There will be no honesty of administration until men take hold and regulate the city's affairs as they do their private business." The Current, a Chicago magazine, says "this is a foundation idea for successful reformatory movement. Taxpaying American business men have a curious way of delegating their own rights of determination and regulation in city affairs to the custody and use of men whom they would by no means employ in any fiduciary capacity, in their own private business. There is every reason why public business should be conducted with as much honesty, care, scrutiny and economy as private business." We commend these utterances to the citizens of Vicksburg.

We assert without fear of contradiction that nearly all of the people as well as the press of Mississippi are opposed to a railroad commission. If the politician would close his mouth on the subject the opposition would not be mentioned. Once in a month, except to be ridiculed. —New Mississippian.

Nevertheless, Governor Lowry and the Mississippi Legislature seem to be heartily in favor of railroad supervision. "The time for supervision has arrived," says Dear Bob." The Legislature had already given evidence that it thought so, too. A nice little supervision bill will no doubt soon be passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor, and all hands connected with the business can go before the "dear people" and point with satisfaction to what "we" supervisionists have done. Speaker Inge will be at the head of the supervision procession.

Just Like Him.

When Mr. Barksdale took the floor there was a significant silence in the hall as there was considerable doubt in the minds of some as to what his position would be. As he spoke only five minutes the House was not much better informed when he concluded than it was when he arose. He was willing to honor the certificate of Governor of his State, and would therefore vote to seat Manning prima facie, but he wanted the case brought up on its merits as soon as possible and suggested an amendment to that effect. The significances of the speech was the suggested amendment.—Washington Cor. Natchez Democrat.

It takes a very smart man to make a speech calculated to please both sides, but Barksdale made a speech at Hazlehurst the day before the election which some of his listeners construed to be warlike and to favor violence, while others considered it eminently conservative and loyal.

A bill introduced by Mr. Brien, of Lowndes, in the House on Wednesday, provides for the formation into four Judicial Districts, to be known as follows: The First Division, to include the First, Second and Third present Judicial Districts; the Second Division to include the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Districts, to include the Seventh, Eighth Districts; the River Division to include the Ninth and Tenth Districts. The Governor is authorized to appoint four Judges, one for each division, and to designate the terms of court to be held in each county. The salary of each Judge is fixed at $3,000 per annum.

"The Legislature Should Protest."

The Legislature should, by joint resolution, protest against the outrage now being perpetrated by the Hoar Committee. The plan of investigating alleged disturbances and killings in Copiah county, Mississippi, in another State, is only exceeded in brazen and wanton effrontery and injustice, by the miserable pretext urged in extenuation of such Federal interference and inter-meddling with the affairs and concerns of sovereign States.—Aberdeen Examiner.

Would it not be better for the Mississippi Legislature to protest against and emphatically condemn the Copiah outrages. The State will be held responsible to a certain extent, for these political outrages occurring within its borders, especially if the constituted authorities manifest no dispositive to punish them. So far the Mississippi Legislature has taken no cognizance of the matter, and if, at this late hour, it should evince a tardy desire to take any action in the matter, the best thing it could do would be to assist the Senatorial Committee in bringing to light the facts connected with the outrages, and placing the blame where it properly belongs, no matter what individuals suffer. So far as an expression of public sentiment is concerned, the people of Hazlehurst have justified and applauded the Matthews assasination by electing the perpetrator of the dastardly deed to be town Marshal. We do not believe this sentiment animates the majority of the people of Hazlehurst or of Copiah county, nevertheless it is the ruling sentiment, the one that finds public expression, and does incalculable injury to the good name of our State. It should be the duty of the Legislature to show that the better sentiments of the Copiah people have been repressed, and it should take upon itself the responsibility of protecting its citizens in their personal and political rights, so there could be no excuse for a Congressional investigation.

But we fear the Mississippi Legislature will not do it.

THE Legislature proposes to legislate against the Police Gazette. The evil influence of that paper is hardly calculable, but there has never appeared in its columns anything that it was not indebted for to the associated press dispatches. The columns of the Sunday editions of any of the great dailies comprise five times as much crimes and casualties as any single edition of this bird of peculiarly evil omen. Murders, rapes, arsons and horrors should be eliminated from the press dispatches. Bennett set the fashion and sold his paper and now it is a regular feature common to all the newspapers. As the Gazette does not publish anything appertaining to the sporting fraternity, spite of their pretended following one would think that it would be allowed to live in peace.

If we have entirely out of condition, owing to ill-health, to address the Mississippi Legislature upon the life and character of S. S. Prentiss. Mr. Prentiss has been dead a great many years, but his history is probably better known to the people of Mississippi than that of any of his great contemporaries. The newspapers are continually printing reminiscences of the great orator and lawyer, and Judge Shields of Natchez, has written a very complete and interesting history of the "life and times" of the man the Mississippi Legislature wanted Mr. Davis to speak about. It will be a good idea for the members of the Legislature to read this book, but they can do this at any time.

It is right to revere the memory and pay tribute to the virtues of the dead, but it is also right to properly appreciate the living present and not to live in the past. "Let the dead past bury its dead," might be a good motto for the Mississippi Legislature.

In the present stirring times there are a number of public questions which demand and should receive the attention of our people, and especially of those who deem themselves representative men. The tariff question is now, or soon will be, the leading issue in American politics. Senator George has made a few free trade speeches in the State; Senator Lamar made a free trade speech in the United States Senate during the last session; and the Jackson Clarion has advocated free trade, and, as usual, a number of the country newspapers in the State have followed its example.

Very little has been said in this State in favor of the great principle of "protecting home industries;" the people, we believe, are willing to hear this question discussed.

We suggest that the Legislature invite Senator Frye, of Maine, one of the leading lights of "protection," (and who is now at New Orleans with the sub-committee investigating the Copiah outrages,) to deliver an address to them upon the "tariff question" before he returns to Washington.

Would it not be a good idea to invite the entire sub-committee to visit Jackson when they conclude their labors at New Orleans, and demonstrate to these honorable United States Senators that the representatives of the people of Mississippi do not sanction the foolish and bloody deeds of the Copiah Democracy.

A "Sop to Cerebus."

The balance of the message being in the nature an apology for the veto—a kind of "sop to Cerebus"—it is of course not expected that it should meet with any serious response, except perhaps to say that had the wound been never inflicted, the bleeding balm had never been needed.—Correspondent Clarion.

Chalmers Certain to Get His Seat.

The decision of the House yesterday in the contested election case of Chalmers vs. Manning, will be fatal to the claim of Mr. Manning, when the case is brought before the House on its merits. That Chalmers will be seated is now a foregone conclusion.—Washington cor. Natchez Democrat.

The Manning-Chalmers matter has gone to the Elections Committee to the "dear people" as we are told. There are no "merits" attaching to Manning's claim to a seat, and the only hope of others is found in the fact that the Democratic majority in the House, spite of their pretended following one who inculcated love to all, care nothing for their fellowman, though when he is dead they may shed a cheap tear at his grave. Oh, that the living could have the kindness that is lavished on the dead!

"Nonsense!" says Pride, "I am the architect of my own fortunes, and if a man is one will of it is his own fault."

Let Pride look well into his own life and then assert, if he dare, that he does not owe his success to favorable conditions that were not present in the lot of others. Let him remember moments of sickness, moments when his future depended up the action of others, or upon the turn of events, and then let him call to mind friends whom he has known—some probably stronger, or wiser or more gifted than himself, who yet have failed to live, or fallen short of success.—Philadelphia Record.

The Perpetual Candidate.

Congressman Singleton is now writing his annual letters to his constituents about declaring himself again a candidate. He is not doing it now by telegraph. Recalling it, that telegram was a model of neatness and perspicuity:—"I am a citizen of Scott county and a candidate for Congress." In his letter he is now writing, he declares most positively, and seems to want and expect people to believe it, that if elected again he will never—never be a candidate any more. Now, somebody ought to pile up a stack of bibles as high as a pine tree that would make a ship's mast, and get him to swear to it on the stack of bibles, and then people may believe it—if they can. He has said that before notwithstanding he denies it in his present letters. There is no use in lying about it at all, for if he wants to be re-elected he can be, and again and again. The man has not laid off his clouts that can beat him. And he will be elected the next time, as sure as gun's iron, and just as sure he will again be a candidate, no matter what he says. We are going for him hereafter tooth and nail, and we make but one condition, to-wit: that he really, not pretendingly, move into the district. —Meridian Mercury

LOCAL ITEMS.

"BUNCH OF KEYS" to-night.

MR. T. W. BRISCOE, of Tallulah, is in our city.

MR. W. L. VAUGHN, of Louisville, is in the city.

MR. T. T. MORRISON, of Memphis, is in the city.

THE mail train was two hours late this morning.

MR. C. A. GARDINER, of Jackson, was registered at the Pacific yesterday.

TO-MORROW is Washington's birthday and as it is a national holiday, the public schools will be closed.

MESSRS. JAS. R. YERGER, of Duncans-...y, and J. Bucks Yerger, of Mayers-...ille, are in the city to-day.

THE Vicksburg Building Association held a meeting last night. The associa-...tion is in a very flourishing condition.

THERE will be a candy pulling at the residence of Mr. R. W. Shearer to night for the benefit of Christ Church Sunday School.

THE new telegraph line from Memphis to New Orleans, along the line of the L., N. O. & T. road, will soon be ready for business.

MR. JULIAN BARNETT is now the regular freight agent of the steamers J. M. White, Natchez, and Ed. Richardson, and will give special attention to the ship-...ment of cotton.

MR. PETTON HARRISON, late of the L., N. O. & T. Railroad, has been appointed superintendent of the Street Railroad in this city. The company will lay the track in this summer.

THE Telephone Company contemplate erecting poles in all parts of the city, and removing their wires from the buildings. We are also to be connected with Jackson by telephone.

MR. W. S. MAYES, for a long time ticket clerk at the Pacific Hotel, of this city, has resigned his position and leaves to-night for New Orleans where he will make his future home. Mr. Mayes is a very efficient man and we have no doubt he will meet with the success he deserves, in his new home.

MR. E. H. Lake succeeds Mr. Mayes.

The Southron's Ball.

The ball to be given by the Volunteer Guards at Magnolia Hall on next Tuesday evening promises to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season. At a meeting to make arrangements the boys were at a loss to decide who should furnish the two cases of champagne thought necessary for the occasion. To decide the question the names of the members were placed in a hat, and it was decided that the first two names drawn should be the two persons to furnish the champagne. The contents of the hat were "shaken well before using," and the names drawn out were those of Mr. Julius Wachenheim and Will Gardner. Any contributions in the way of supper will be thankfully received by the company, and any one desiring to contribute will be called upon if they notify any member of the Committee of Arrangements of the fact. In addition to the names published in yesterday's issue the name of Mr. Robt. Anter was also present. We predict that a good time and good things will be had by all present.

Friday Church Social Postponed.

The Friday Church Social at the residence of Mr. Wm. Hennessee has been postponed on account of the illness of Miss Mary Hennessee, who is confined to her bed with a severe attack of pneumonia. Miss Mary is reported as being much better to-day, and hopes are entertained of her speedy recovery.

About two o'clock this morning an alarm of fire was turned in, caused by the burning of the kitchen and stable belonging to the residence of Capt. Jas. M. Searles, on Cherry street. The fire burned so rapidly that the contents of the kitchen and servant's room were destroyed before it could be gotten under control by the fire department, and the fire was communicated to the stable adjoining, which was also consumed.

It is not definitely known how the fire originated, but there are a great many circumstances connected with the burning that would seem to indicate that it is the work of an incendiary. The servant who was sleeping in the burned portion had a very narrow escape from being burned, and Mr. A. L. Searles had his left wrist painfully sprained.

The damage to the property, which belongs to Mrs. Wheeler, of Independence, Mo., one of the Emanuel heirs, is considerably damaged, and was not insured. The furniture, etc., the property of Mr. Searles, was valued at about $300, fully insured.

The stable contained a fine mule, which was burned to death. It was supposed to have been out, or it could have been saved from the flames, and it was not thought of until too late.

The fire seems to have undoubtedly been due to incendiarism, and the guilty person or persons should be brought to justice.

FURTHER PARTICULARS

Of the Killing of Mr. Peter Nelson at Eureka Landing.

From Capts. Smith and Stevens, of the Headlight, which arrived from the Sunflower river to-day, we learn the following further particulars of the tragedy that occurred on that steamer at Eureka Landing on Sunday:

The name of the murderer is Frank Mabrin, who claimed no particular place as his home, but had been at Eureka for some time. He had been drinking with some other parties, who were abusing Mr. Nelson. They finally became so abusive that one of their number struck Nelson, who had been doing nothing, when he returned the blow. Mabrin then deliberately drew his revolver and stepping toward Mr. Nelson fired, the ball entering the breast and producing death within three minutes.

From what can be learned the murder was a most cowardly and unprovoked act, committed in cold blood. The deceased was of Swedish parentage, and was a quiet and peaceable citizen, respected by all who knew him. The murderer is a desperate character, having once killed two men at Floyd, La., where he escaped the hangman's noose on the ground of justifiable homicide.

Capt. Stevens is of the opinion that the assassin has been lynched, as the residents of Eureka were very much excited in regard to the matter when the Headlight left, and were making threats of so doing with little reserve. We have heard nothing further, however, in regard to their meting out summary justice.

McKenna's Appeal.

The bill of exceptions in the case of J. H. McKenna, sentenced to be hung for the killing of Ed. Wilson, is now in the hands of Judge Warren Cowan. As soon as the same is signed, a supersedeas will be issued suspending sentence, and the case will be heard before the Supreme Court in April.

Death of Mrs. Jane Reynolds.

We are pained to chronicle the death, from pneumonian, of Mrs. Jane Reynolds, mother of our townsman Mr. C. C. Reynolds, which occurred early this morning. Mrs. Reynolds had reached an advanced age, and leaves a number of children and grandchildren to mourn her loss. She was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and was noted for a life of devotion to duty. She was a most excellent mother, a faithful friend, and a true Christian.

Many life-long friends now join their tears with those of the bereaved children; but they are not as those without consolation, for she has only laid down the burdens and cares of this life to enter upon the rest and reward vouchsafed to all who have so faithfully and patiently and truly fulfilled the duties of their station as she has always done. Full of years and honors, and with the respect and love of all who knew her, her memory will ever be revered.

The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning from the residence of Mr. C. C. Reynolds, and the funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church at 11:30.

The high water has undermined the track of the switch of the V. & M. R. R. leading to the Elevator, and the Planters' Compress, and for a time the switch will be out of use.

The owners of the famous and justly popular Issaquena have characterized themselves as excellent steamboat managers; they have always shown a proper appreciation of printer's ink, and are noted for liberal and judicious advertising.

The latest phase of the Issaquena's advertising propensity will be the issuance of 30,000 letter-size circulars. On one side is a complete directory of the business houses and firms of Vicksburg—comprising 155 names and houses. On the other side is a circular, giving a history of the Bends trade and a fair statement of the success of the Issaquena, and the reasons which have contributed thereto. A blank is at the bottom of this page, for the signature of the person or firm sending out the circular. One hundred copies of the directory and circular will be furnished to every merchant and business man in the city. The balance of the circulars will be distributed by the Issaquena. In addition to the name and business in the directory, at the head of the circular on each hundred will be printed the special business card of the the firm or house to which they are furnished. The Issaquena bears the entire expense of this spreading a knowledge of the business of Vicksburg, and only asks in return that the merchants and others to whom the circulars are sent, sign them and enclose them to their correspondents in the section of country which is in the habit of giving, or likely to give, any business to a steamer regularly plying in the Vicksburg and Greenville trade. Circulars sent to Jackson, Natchez, Greenville, Monroe, Deer Creek, and Lake Washington will prove beneficial.

The Issaquena will also have the Vicksburg directory printed on the back of her regular letter-heads, and it may be safely estimated that this directory will thus reach a circulation during the season of 100,000 copies.

The moral to this story, if there be a moral, is that the merchants and business men of Vicksburg; the people on the river, and the merchants and business men of Greenville, should properly appreciate and encourage the alert, prompt, faithful and enterprising Issaquena.

Storm News.

Every boat arriving brings more news of the violence of Tuesday's storm. Capt. Marionneaux, of the Isaquena, informs us that Dr. McCullough's plantation, at Cottonwood Point, La., there were seven cabins blown to pieces. A cabin was found in a field of Mr. M. Stocker at Longwood Landing, La., after the storm. From whence it came is not known, but it is no small wind that carries cabins off and drops them down promiscuously in fields where they don't belong. At Shipland Landing numerous trees were blown down. It is reported that Muir's store at Raleigh, La., was entirely demolished. The wharfboat at Lake Providence broke loose all but one head chain, and was blown into the middle of the river secured by but one chain. The warehouse at Skipwith's lower landing was blown down. At many points on the river, trees were blown down and uprooted, and other evidences of the violence of the storm are to be seen. A large number of cattle and other stock were killed by the falling timber at Shipland. The fences on the west side of the river were demolished for miles. So far no loss of lives is reported, but no news has yet been received from points remote from the river.

Rex and the Steamer Ed Richardson.

A number of ladies and gentlemen of this city and vicinity have already secured passage on the steamer Ed. Richardson, leaving here at 5 p.m. for Mardi Gras. The Richardson will remain over in New Orleans until Wednesday, February 27th, the day after the Carnival. Aside from the enjoyment of participating in the Mardi Gras festivities, a trip on the magnificent Richardson and from the Crescent City at this particular time of the year, and with such an elegant and enjoyable party aboard as will leave here on her, will be a most delightful thing of itself. Those taking passage on this steamer will be permitted to return and occupy their staterooms while the boat is at New Orleans—a very big item during Mardi Gras when the hotels and other places of accommodation in New Orleans are crowded and filled to overflowing. It should be remembered also that she is the boat chartered to go down from New Orleans and receive Rex and his suite. This feature of the Carnival is another big inducement to patronize the steamer Ed. Richardson.

Mr. W. C. O'Hara is her agent, and will be pleased to give any information desired in regard to securing staterooms, etc.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, JACKSON, MISS.

THE within and foregoing Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company is hereby approved.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the State of Mississippi to be affixed, this 11th day of February, 1884.

ROBT. LOWRY.

By the Governor.
HENRY C. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount by such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the person dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate business transacted at any place out of the State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing notice of such meeting three successive days in a newspaper published in the city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers to the amount of one hundred shares or more shall appear at such meeting in person or by proxy, they shall proceed to organize the Company by the election of a President, Secretary and Treasurer, and such other officers as may be provided for by the by-laws, and shall adopt by-laws for the government of the Company, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Charter or the laws of the State.

Sec. 8. The Company shall have a lien on the shares of stock of each stockholder for any debt due to the Company by such stockholder, and may sell such shares at public auction to satisfy such lien, after giving thirty days' notice of such sale by publication in a newspaper published in the city of Vicksburg, and may transfer the shares so sold to the purchaser, who shall be entitled to a certificate therefor.

Sec. 9. The Company shall have a common seal, which may be changed at pleasure, and shall have power to make all by-laws and regulations not inconsistent with the laws of the State or of the United States, which may be necessary for the proper management of its affairs.

Sec. 10. The Company shall have power to purchase, hold, and convey real estate for the purposes of its business, and to mortgage the same to secure the payment of its bonds or other obligations.

Sec. 11. The Company shall have power to borrow money for the purposes of its business, and to issue its bonds, notes, or other obligations therefor, and to secure the payment of the same by mortgage or deed of trust upon its property, real or personal, or both, and to sell the same at such rate of discount as may be deemed expedient.

Sec. 12. The Company shall have power to make contracts of insurance, and to issue policies of insurance, and to make reinsurance of risks taken by other companies, and to do all things necessary to the transaction of the business of insurance.

Sec. 13. The Company shall have power to make contracts of guaranty, and to execute bonds, undertakings, and other obligations in the nature of guaranty, and to receive compensation therefor.

Sec. 14. The Company shall have power to act as agent for the sale of bonds, stocks, and other securities, and to receive compensation therefor.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB., 22, 1884.

We have received the first number of Madison Times, published at Tallulah by R. T. Weightman. It is a very neat affair.

Warren county, figuratively speaking, has been heard from. The Vicksburg Herald "now brings up the rear" in Mississippi's railroad supervision legislation. It also thinks "the time hev arrived to regulate railroad management now."

Dr. E. A. Rowan, representative from Copiah county, Governor Lowry, Judge T. J. Wharton, Supreme Court Judge T. E. Cooper, H. C. Fairman, Esq., Maj. E. G. Wall, Commissioner of Immigration, and Gen. Wirt Adams, were summoned this morning to appear in New Orleans before the outrage committee on Monday next.—New Mississippian.

Mr. Manning was so considerate of the feelings of Mr. Chalmers that he did not present his certificate of his election at the opening of Congress and carried it in his pocket for two months. If he had presented it upon the organization of the House he would have been sworn in and taken his seat. But his stock of political virtues having been exhausted he now has to be seated under his certificate. It is right to a seat is now on trial, he places himself in a very ridiculous position.—Avalanche.

We ask our people to read attentively an article in this issue headed "Tariff Agitation." A practical man, who has been through the mill," gives, in plain, honest and truthful words, statements and facts which cannot fail to convince the impartial reader of the benefit of protection." We do not wish to see the farmers and toilers of this country placed in the miserable condition of those in Scotland, and which a "free trade" policy would inevitably bring about.

The Meridianite will send a lobby to Jackson to "leg" for the removal of the Capital to the delectable city of the mighty East. All Confederate soldiers in this part of the country, will remember the story of the poor soldier whose dying request was that he be taken to Meridian. When asked his reason for this singular request, he answered that "he could leave the world with less regret from Meridian than from any other place he knew of, and wanted to be taken there to die."

We are now beginning to be hopeful that the Mississippi Legislature will not pass any Railroad Supervision bill at all during the remainder of the session. We have good reason for this hope. The Vicksburg Herald now favors railroad supervision "by law," and if this fact don't sicken the supervisionists in the Legislature and make them disgusted with the scheme, we will have to give them up as utterly incorrigible.

We are almost tempted to predict the Legislature will not pass a supervision bill at all. But if one does pass, we do predict it will be by a greatly decreased majority from that of the last one. The supervisionists cannot stand the new accession to their ranks.

The Railroad Shops Again.

The Governor has approved an Act "to authorize the city of Vicksburg to contract with the Memphis & Vicksburg Railroad Company, or such other railroad companies as may hereafter become merged into or part of said Company by consolidation or otherwise for location of machine shops of said Company at said city and for other purposes." This is good news. We trust those having the matter in hand will now go forward and complete the work of having the general shops of the road located at Vicksburg. Nothing should be left to doubts or conjectures. There should be no "trusting to luck," but everything necessary to insure the location of the shops here should be done at once. "Make assurance doubly sure," and the sooner the better.

Randall is developing strength as a Democratic Presidential candidate. Let a thinking Democrat carefully scan the list of Democratic aspirants, and consider the merits, strength and capacity of each one, and the conclusion is almost inevitable that Randall of Pennsylvania is the strongest and most desirable man that can be nominated, and probably the one with whom the party can be certainly hopeful of success. The Philadelphia Telegraph thus speaks of his strength in Pennsylvania: The Democrats of the State have a great advantage over their political opponents in the fact that they have a candidate for Governor who is the choice of the party, and who is universally recognized as the strongest man that could be put forward. Every Democrat in the State is for Randall, and will work for his election with a zeal and energy that will be irresistible. Randall's nomination will be the signal for a victory that will astonish the country. Randall will carry the State by a majority that will be overwhelming, and will sweep into the Democratic column enough Congressmen to give the party a majority in the House of Representatives. Randall is the only man who can do this, and he will do it."

"Ho, Every One that Thirsteth."

Section 4. The capital stock of said company [the Vicksburg (Herald) Printing and Publishing Company] shall be fifty-one thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and may be increased by a vote of the holders of a majority of the stock to any amount not exceeding ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS; said stock shall be transferred upon the books of the company under such rules and regulations as the by-laws of said company shall prescribe; and no stockholder shall be liable for any debt of said company beyond the amount of his stock.—Extract from Charter.

Here is a capital opportunity for any and every one who desires stock in a newspaper and printing business. This kind of stock-raising, or raising of stock, will not be subject to some of the deleterious influences that sometimes effect other kinds of stock. For instance in the long hot summers incident to this latitude there is no danger that the Herald stock will be affected by drouth.

It is a corporation, and Gov. Lowry is in favor of the supervision of all corporations, and the Herald now also seems to favor supervision of the railroad corporations.

The prospect for the stock company is altogether lovely; it affords a fine and almost illimitable opportunity for expansion, and a determination to "grow up with the country."

Senator Hoar in Danger.

J. T. Dameron gave the following testimony before the Senatorial sub-committee at New Orleans day before yesterday:

I live in Jackson; came from there here; I know a man who calls himself Ed Wheeler, and lives in Hazlehurst. I saw him on 13th inst. in the cars at Jackson. I heard him say: "Yes, old Hoar is coming down on a committee, and if I get a crack at him I will kill him. I killed Brent Matthews; I told him not to vote; he voted and I killed him; I am the man who did the dirty work; my name is Wheeler; it was my lot." He seemed to be drinking. It was about 4 o'clock.

Address of Hon. Put Darden.

Hon. Put Darden delivered an address in the House of Representatives Friday night. He is a fluent talker, and from his standpoint made a very sensible speech. His main line of argument was in accord with what he expressed last Sunday—while believing speeches throughout the State. He is very much in favor of the repeal of the Lien Law, and said that in this position he was backed by the State Grange, an institution which he was composed of farmers and the class which this law most affected. He favored Railroad Supervision and the establishment by the State of a Female College. Hon. A. & M. College was referred to as being an institution worthy of the support of the State. His address was listened to with marked attention, and when finished, was loudly applauded. —State Ledger.

For Governor.

If we did not live in the backwoods, while others are suggesting, we would name Capt. W. M. Hardy, of Meridian, for our next Governor. If we are not mistaken the time has come when the people should choose some man of sterling worth and unquestioned goods, and superior executive ability, and not all the politicians of the State, Capt. Hardy is the man.—Tuscumbian.

If, as reported, Mr. Mahrt fears all visitors and requires them to approach him on all fours, it only shows that he looks on all parties as his enemies, and that he is not at all fit for the position he occupies. He is a public servant, and should treat all visitors with courtesy, and not with contempt.—Memphis Appeal.

Has to Say for Prosecution.

Yesterday afternoon an intelligent gentleman, whose accent told that he was a native of Scotland (a fact which he is proud of), came to the Journal office and said that he desired to say a word in reply to a letter recently published in the Globe lest a general silence on the part of woolen manufacturers who were dread to the business in Scotland should be interpreted as an assent to his statements. "I am a New England woolen manufacturer, born in Scotland. I agree with the writer, whom I know, in some things that he says, but there are others that I cannot accept, and which I feel that I must protest against. The remark to which I take most exception is that to the effect that if woolen manufacturers in this country can have free raw materials, they can compete with those in Scotland without the advantage of a tariff. Now I have lived and worked in the mills in Scotland longer than has the writer of that letter, and I am bold to say that the climate of New England makes it impossible for a mill employee to live on the wages that he can in Scotland. The weather is much colder in Winter, and the extremes are so much greater that the working people must have better clothing, better houses and more costly food to do the same amount of work. His fuel will cost the resident of New England double what it will in Scotland, chiefly because the Winters are longer and more severe here than they are in Scotland. To secure his comfort here will require more money than in the old country if the cost prices of the food, clothing and fuel are no higher here than there. Then I do not want to see the working people in my mill forced to live as those people that I was brought up with in Scotland. I don't want to see people compelled to send their children into the mill to work as soon as they are old enough to earn twenty-five cents a week. I don't want to see the factory people in New England, families of five or six and even more persons, compelled to live in a single room and pile the potatoes on which they were compelled to subsist for the most part under the bed. I do not believe that God ever intended that industrious people of good habits should be compelled, by reason of scanty wages, to live such lives. I don't believe that just to make a yard of cloth a few cents cheaper that those whose skill makes it should be compelled by inutile lent wages to lead lives of destitution. I know all about it. I came to this country in 1867 with a wife and a family of six children and found employment in a mill as dresser in the Cherry Valley at $5 a week for fourteen hours a day. You had no free trade then and that was as high wages as could be got. Most did not get even that pay. I remember one particular time when I was getting that pay from rose to $13 a barrel. Those days for the poor operative in the woolen mill were no better than slavery, but then the country was blessed with a tariff for revenue only and there was precious little revenue for the factory people, while the mill owners had hard work to keep their heads above the water, and many did not. To-day the cloth-dressers in my mill are paid $12 per week of eleven hours a day. That is what the protective tariff has done for the woolen industry in New England. Nor is that all. By reason of the protective tariff, which has made higher wages for labor in the woolen mill here, wages have been advanced abroad. This is due to the fact that since wages have advanced in the United States in the woolen mill the good workmen came to this country. Consequently, to keep them at home the wages had to be advanced. In many grades the wages are double what they were when I worked in a Scotch mill. I am surprised that the writer of the letter referred to should say that better work was possible in the old country because there are so many mills where only one branch of the work is done. The reason why one man makes yarn in Scotland and another weaves it of him to manufacture into cloth, is not because he can do better work, but because the weaver is unable to spin his own yarn. But that system is not confined to Scotland. In Philadelphia there are weavers who buy their yarn, and spinners who do not weave. It is so because they have not the capital to do both. There is no reason why the skilful overseer cannot do as good work in his department as if the whole mill was engaged in that branch.

I suppose that I differ with many people when I say that I believe that it would have been better policy for the mill owners to have cut down the hours temporarily, rather than to have cut the wages. The trouble is temporary overproduction, and it will not mend the matter to keep the mills running full hours while a reduction of hours would have proved a remedy in a short time."—Boston Journal.

A Legislator who Wanted to Ride on a Free Pass.

On last Friday night while we were engaged in a quiet conversation in the Hall of Representatives with Hon. J. C. Lamkin of Pike, waiting for Worthy Master Darden to begin his big address to our Legislative Solons, a member from North Mississippi who voted for the bill against the railroads issuing free passes to officials, we all sinned, tempted to give his name—called Mr. Lamkin aside and wanted to "borrow" his pass for a trip home. Mr. Lamkin being a legislator who is blissfully ignorant of the working qualities of a free pass, having never owned one, of course he had to deny the "curtesy." We next noticed the North Mississippi member aforesaid in the Hon. E. K. Wells, of Lawrence, sold and bought with whom he was visiting his kin, but again disappointment was depicted on his countenance, and an air of wholesale did-so-civeness to give my informant a chance to "sell" him. Then we saw the Hon. Chas. Scott, the Hon. Geo. Harris, the Hon. Geo. Harris, the Hon. Geo. Harris

LOCAL ITEMS.

Last night of "Bunch of Keys."

DR PETWAY and wife, of Chotard, are in the city.

MR. H. E. TILTON, of Willow Point, La., is in the city.

PREPARATIONS for the Southron's ball are progressing favorably.

MR. AND MRS. COPELAND, of Detroit, were in the city this morning.

MAURICE MEYER leaves by to-morrow evening's train for New York.

COL. J. C. PREWITT, of Yazoo City, arrived in the city last night by the Delta.

COL. GEO. FOSTER, of Goodrich, was in the city to-day, and leaves on the Will S. Hays for home.

LIEUT. VERREY, of the U. S. man-of-war Tennessee, now lying at New Orleans, is making the round trip on the Ed. Richardson.

JOHN BOYLE, who was so seriously injured in the Big Divide railroad accident, is still in the City Hospital, but has almost recovered from the effects of his injuries.

CAPT. JOHN BELL, purchasing agent of the P. Line, and Mr. J. D. Harper, clerk of the steamer DeSmet, leave tonight by rail for New Orleans, to take in the Mardi Gras.

MR. FRANCIS SMITH, of Indianapolis, Indiana, is in the city. Mr. Smith, who is the senior partner of the firm of Francis Smith & Co., of this city, has just returned from a visit to Scotland.

ACCIDENT.—A fire supposed to be serious, occurred near the Elevator on Sunday. A lad named Dohler was stabbed in the left side by a negro. The negro is now in jail and Dohler is out of danger.

ATTENTION of former members is called to the notice of the meeting of the Mozart Club, to be held at their room over Baum's store at 7:30 this evening. The club intends to reorganize, and we may look for some fine music in the near future.

THE fruit stand of Preto Giralamo, opposite O'Shea's saloon, on the levee, was burglarized last night, and a quantity of tobacco, fruit, etc., taken therefrom. This is the third time within a month, which does not speak very well for the vigilance of the policeman on that beat.

MR. CHAS E. ARMSTRONG Auditor of the L., N. O. & T. Railroad, has resigned his position, it having taken effect on the 16th. Mr. Armstrong has filled his position with credit to himself and the satisfaction of the company, and the resignation was entirely voluntary on his part.

MRS. R. H. GARRETT takes her departure by this evening's train for New York, where she goes to attend the grand millinery and mantua making openings. She will bring back with her the latest designs in patterns and models. Ladies will do well to await her return before having their costumes, in order to get the latest fashions.

It is generally conceded by river men that the water will not get much higher in this vicinity. Rowland and Pilot Evans, of the Will S. Hays, report the water about as usual above. Pilot Stone, of the Ed. Richardson, is also of the opinion that it will not get much higher. All the boats that left here report the roads along the river to be in bad condition, believing that there will be no further serious rise.

Mozart Club.

Members of the Mozart Orchestra are requested to attend a meeting at their room to-night at 7½ o'clock. By order

Telegrams have been sent to the Hon. J. Floyd King, Representative in Congress from that district, asking him to take steps to have funds alloted at once for the purpose of strengthening these weak points.

Departures by the Ed. Richardson.

The following persons have secured passage from Vicksburg to New Orleans on the Ed. Richardson which leaves on her Mardi Gras trip at 5 o'clock this evening: Messrs. Solomon, Matthews, Minston, Esterbook, Skinner, Mr. Wright and wife, Mr. Copeland and wife, Mrs. Newberger and child, Mrs. Sepes and two children, Mrs. Mann, Mrs. Morse, Mrs. Crozier, Lieut. Verry and Miss Mayer.

Besides the above a number of passengers from St. Joe, Sedonia, Natchez and other points, have secured staterooms.

A pleasant time is promised to those who have been fortunate enough to secure passage on the big Richardson.

Bigge Levee Near Delta Broke.

Information reached the city this morning that the Bigge levee, one mile below Delta, had broken this morning. This will cause the water to back up and inundate Delta unless the Railroad culverts can be speedily closed. The water passing through this break and coming in contact with the water from the old Diamond Island break, it is thought will reduce the entire parish of Madison. The Bigge levee was built only last year by Hugh Carlisle, the well-known levee contractor.

All Night.

I have now a night clerk at my Drug-store, who will be ready and willing to wait on the people at all hours during the night, and hereby save those in want of medicine a long walk up the hill, and at the same time purchase medicine just as cheap, and can depend upon the result as at any other drug-house in the city.

One Thousand Walnut Logs.

The steamer D. C. Pugsl left this morning for Shell Mound Yazoo river to bring out a raft of 1000 walnut logs, the property of Messrs. Hall, Orr & Co. The logs are of the finest quality, and will be sawed into lumber at the mill of Messrs. Hall, Orr & Co., in this city.

The death of this most estimable lady has caused a deep feeling of sorrow and regret among the relatives and many friends and acquaintances of the family. Her sweetness of disposition and amiability and gentleness won the esteem of all who ever had the pleasure of being acquainted with her, and she was no less kind of heart, and very charitable. She was a model wife, an exceptional daughter, a loving sister and a most affectionate mother. She was the sister of Mr. M. J. Mulvihill. There are two more brothers, Patrick and Edward, who reside in Natchez and who are expected to arrive here in time for the funeral. Their father lives in this city. Elsewhere will be seen a notice of the funeral, which takes place from the residence on South street at half-past 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and from St. Paul's Catholic Church at 11 o'clock.

Thanks.

We are under obligations to the excellent band of Howe, Pullman & Co's circus, under the direction of Prof. S. R. Dolby, for a serenade on yesterday afternoon. When we take in consideration the fact that the musicians only arrived yesterday, and played together for the first time on the street, we consider it but just to pronounce each individual in the band an artist. They make a neat appearance, and are an indication of the enterprise of the well-known circus proprietors, Howe, Pullman & Co. Do not forget that they exhibit here Saturday.

At the Signal Office.

In answer to complaints made by the Signal Officers to headquarters, Gen. Hazen, chief of the Signal service, telegraphed that more care would be taken to prevent to delay in sending reports. Reports of any dangerous storms that may be expected will also be sent in time to give warning of their approach.

A Mournful and Unsuccessful Mission.

Col. N. C. Ridenour and Rev. A. J. Barton, of Clarenda, Iowa, were in the city this morning. They left on the W. S. Hays en route home. Col. Ridenour is editor of the Page County Democrat, of the above city, and was a distinguished officer in the Federal army during the late unpleasantness. Their object in visiting this State was to find, if possible, the remains of Col. W. H. Kinsman, commander of the 23d Iowa Volunteer Infantry, at the battle of Big Black. Col. Kinsman was killed in the memorable charge of that regiment at the battle at that place. After three days' search with six laborers they failed to find the remains. Col. Ridenour was the Lieutenant-Colonel of the 23d Iowa, and Rev. Mr. Barton was the Chaplain.

HANES BROS.
New Auction and Commission House.

We take pleasure in calling special attention to the card of Messrs. Thomas J. and John W. Hanes, which appears in to-day's issue of the POST. These gentlemen have bought out the auction and commission business of Messrs. D. R Smart & Co., and propose carrying on the same kind of business under the style of Hanes Brothers. The Hanes brothers, Tom and John, were born and raised right here in Vicksburg. John after growing to manhood moved away and has made his home elsewhere until within the last few years, but Mr. Thomas J. Hanes has been with us all the time and to the citizens of Vicksburg, needs no introduction at our hands as there is no better known man than him in our city or county. All that is necessary to say is that these gentlemen have established themselves in the auction and commission business, and propose to carry it on as it should be done. They propose to give their undivided attention to it. They believe there is money in it, if properly managed and attended to. They are prepared to receive all kinds of goods belonging to their business, and solicit consignments of all kinds of goods, produce, etc. They guarantee quick returns for all goods placed with them for sale, and for being responsible men and worthy of the most implicit confidence in their business dealings we can recommend them as being second to none. Their present place of business is 206 Washington street.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.
Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.
SECTION 1. Be It known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by said name shall have such and perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.
Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.
Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.
Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.
Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.
Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders. And stockholders' or directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers executed at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the meetings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.
Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call a meeting of the subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice of such call for three successive days, in a newspaper published in said city of Vicksburg, and when subscribers for the amount of five thousand dollars or more of the capital stock shall meet for the purpose, the Company shall be organized by-laws, the Company shall be governed, and officers elected.

FROM JACKSON.

Bill for a Constitutional Convention—Enumeration of People of the State.

The Meridian Lobby—Miscellaneous Matters.

Senate.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 23.—A bill to authorize the people to call a Constitutional Convention to revise the present Constitution, was referred.

A bill to enumerate educable children of the Sate, was referred.

House.

A resolution was adopted that after to-day no local bills be introduced.

A bill to enumerate the inhabitants of State, passed.

A bill for the relief of C. E. Bent, of Warren county, passed.

There is some talk that the House will adjourn until Wednesday.

Meridian is here in full force but is a little discouraged regarding the removal of the Capital.

A bill for a white female normal colmal will be introduced in a few days.

New Orleans River Report.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 23.—The weather is clear and cold.

Business is slightly better.

Arrivals: City of Yazoo, from Vicksburg, Henry Frank, from Memphis; John A. Scudder, from St. Louis.

Leaving this evening: City of Yazoo for Vicksburg; Natchez, for Vicksburg; John A. Scudder, for St. Louis.

Arrival of the Bodies of DeLong and His Comrades.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The steamship Crisia arrived from Hamburg with the bodies of Lieutenant De Long and his comrades on board.

Democratic Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Democrats of the House held a caucus immediately after the House adjourned. The Democratic Senators did not accept the invitation to participate, having appointed a committee to confer with a like committee from the House in regard to a preliminary plan of operation. Messrs. Carlisle, Randall, Morrison, Eaton, Reagan, Barbour, Hewitt of New York, Thompson, and Cobb, were accordingly appointed as members of such committee on the part of the House caucus.

The Programme of the Session of the Southern States Immigration Association.

NASHVILLE, Feb. 23.—The President and Secretary of the Southern States Immigration Association to-day issued the programme of the first regular annual meeting of the association in this city, March 11, 12 and 13.

Hon. Allen G. Thurman and Hon. Jas. G. Blaine have been specially invited to address the meeting on the first and second days. Forty speakers from various Southern States have been appointed to deliver addresses on particular subjects bearing on the immigration question. Among the distinguished speakers designated are: Hon. L. Q. C. Lamar, Hon. Geo. H. Vest, ex-Gov. Hubbard, Gov. Thos. J. Jarvis, Gen. Marmaduke, Hon. Jesse, W. C. P. Breckinridge, L. Pope Walker, Senator Harris, John W. Daniels, ex-Gov. John C. Brown, ex-Governor Nichols, Cassius M. Clay, John T. Morgan, Joseph E. Brown, John B. Gordon, Dr. J. L. M. Curry, ex-Gov. Stanard, Prof. Joseph Jones and E. A. Burke.

Arrangements will be made for excursion rates on trains and steamers, and a large attendance is assured from all parts of the country.

Railroad Notes.

The track-layers are working on the 56th mile.

The material for the Bayou Dauchite draw-bridge arrived here last week.

There is but little water in the swamp, and the trains go and come as usual. But if any serious break occurs in the levees the road will be again submerged.

The Webster Tribune learns that the piles for the bridge work on the Minden Tap road have about all been driven, and most of the capping also completed. Every thing will by in readiness for the cross-ties and rails by the time the V. S. & P. reaches Lane's the junction of the tap.—Monroe Bulletin.

Mrs. Capt. Miller.

Mrs. Mary M. Miller received her license Saturday and to-day will go out in command of the Texas and Macon packet Saline. So much has been written and published about this application from a woman for a master's license that there is really nothing left now to say, except that it has been granted, that Mrs. Mary Miller is lawfully a Captain, and that those who know her best are assured that she will discharge the new trusts imposed upon her with fidelity to the public and credit to her sex.—Times-Democrat, 19th.

THE Democrats of the House did the right thing and their duty, when they refused to seat Mr. Manning of Mississippi in the place of Chalmers. Mr. Manning's election was a fraud, and the House could not do otherwise than refuse to recognize it. The Democrats of Mississippi will have to do their duty by the State, and elect a Democrat to the Senate, or the Republicans will do it for them.

Howe, Pullman & Co's Circus.

Don't fail to go and see this most excellent Circus to-night. They are deserving of our patronage. They have been in our city for several weeks, and during the time have been spending their money among us, and patronizing most liberally all our different lines of business. The material and morale of the company are first-class and we take great pleasure in recommending the show to all lovers and admirers of a number one circus.

Mr. French, the manager, by his gentlemanly and courteous manners and clever mode of doing business, has made a very favorable impression upon all who have had the pleasure of meeting him, and any circus he may hereafter be connected with can always count upon a good reception in the city of Vicksburg.

Gov. Lowry to-day commissioned F. C. Morehead, of Vicksburg, as Colonel of Militia, with the duties of a staff officer to the Governor. This was a deserved compliment to an active, earnest and patriotic citizen of Mississippian.

Yes, but so untimely. It looks like war. And it will start a new howl with the Brookhaven Leader and the VICKSBURG POST, and Billy Mahone and John Sherman. And it will upset the equilibrium of trade, and cause a corner on gun powder. Sakes alive!—Port Gibson Reveille.

THE New York Star tells this romance: "At the battle of Manassas the uniform of the First Louisiana Regiment of Confederate infantry was blue. Another Confederate regiment, mistaking them for the enemy began firing upon them. An order was immediately given for the Louisianans to shuck their coats and put them on inside out, and the comical spectacle of 800 men with their coats all turned wrong put an end, for the time being, to the pomp of war. This was the first 'great reverse' that befell the Louisiana troops in the war."

ACCORDING to to Medical Record, insurance tables show that a man who abstains from alcohol has, at 20 years of age, a chance of living 44.2 years; at 30, 35.6 years; at 40, 28.8 years. An intemperate man's chance at 20 is 15.6; 30, 13.7; and at 40 11.6 years.

THE beauties of a paper currency with an inadequate basis of coin are illustrated by the following announcement in a recent number of the Buenos Ayres Herald: "Price for this edition, $6 gold a year, $160 currency, foreign postage extra."

Gov. LOWRY has commissioned Frank C. Morehead a Colonel on his staff. We shall now expect to see Col. Frank dressed in full military suit and moving around in regular martial style.—Vicksburg Herald.

He expects to take the Mississippi militia to the centennial. Next.—Port Gibson Reveille.

A NEW ORLEANS dispatch says that there is a remarkable lack of enthusiasm in the Democratic campaign in Louisiana. At the organization of the State Committee, but 20 of the 58 parishes in the State were represented. The candidacy of McEnery for the Governorship is becoming more and more distasteful to the people. A large number of the leading Democratic papers of the State refuse to put the ticket at the top of their columns. An independent movement is rapidly forming, and the best opinion is now that the Democratic ring ticket can be whipped out by a judicious combination of conservative candidates and Republican votes.

WHO was it that instigated the sending of an investigating committee into the sovereign State of Mississippi, to investigate a matter which is already in the court of Copiah, for investigation? It is time the people were making the inquiry.—Port Gibson Reveille.

TILDEN'S CHOICE.—Says the New York world: "We violate no confidence when we say that Samuel J. Tilden regards Mr. Payne, of Ohio, to-day as the most available candidate for the presidency yet named on the democratic side. Mr. Payne may or may not be nominated, but this is the plain truth."

When the World Will End.

When lawyers fail to take a fee
And juries never disagree;
When politicians are contents,
And landlords don't collect their rent;
When parties smash all the machines,
And Boston folks give up their beans;
When naughty children all die young
And girls are seen without a tongue;
When ladies don't take time to shop,
And officeholders never flop;
When preachers cut their sermons short,
And all folks to the church resort;
When back subscribers all have paid,
And editors have fortunes made;
Such happiness will sure portend
This world must soon come to an end.

A Valentine.

Besides the road the bitter-sweet,
Arrayed in flaming red,
Lights up the path for Autumn's feet
When Summer days are dead.
And friends, like seasons, part and meet;
Or life would lose its bitter-sweet.

What though the rose bloom soft and white—
'Tis ne'er without a thorn,
And oftentimes the darkest night
Follows the fairest morn.
And men and women still must greet
The joy and pain of bitter-sweet.

Could all my wishes granted be
In one best wish complete,
The bitter all would come to me
And you should have the sweet;
And all that's true and pure combine
To please my Lady Valentine.
—Ernest McGoffey.

Ohio Candidates.

There is a growing impression that Ohio men will not figure largely in the coming Presidential race. A prominent Cincinnati politician here on a business trip, who has been for some time past in New England, says he thinks all the Ohio candidates out of the race and out of the question. "Hoadly, Payne and Foster." he said, "are all dead so far as the Presidential question is concerned, and by their own hands at that. Hoadly and Payne are in the same boat in regard to the question of bribery and corruption in politics, and I imagine the same may be said of Foster. Hoadly's record before and after the election killed him for the nomination. Payne stands no possible show, I think, since his out and out purchase of the Legislature, and Mr. Foster has not only ruined his own chances, but very seriously injured those of his party. However, if the Democratic Legislature continues its present course the Republicans will be very likely to carry Ohio next year, but Ohio will have no Presidential candidate this time unless the choice should happen to fall upon General Sherman, which is not at all probable."—Cor. Jones—Yes.
Smith—Well, just as he got inside, some wags put out their heads in the door and yelled "Tariff," and poor Brown got crushed in the stampede.—Philadelphia Call.

The Evening Post.

PUBLISHED BY
T. O. CARMAN & CO.
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 23, 1884.

A fearful explosion of fire-damp occurred in the Connellsville coal mines, near Uniontown, Pa., on the 19th inst. Nineteen miners were killed outright, and a number severely injured.

A bronze statue of Gen. R. E. Lee was unveiled at New Orleans yesterday. The total cost of the statue and monument was $36,500, nearly all of which was contributed in New Orleans.

Mr. William S. Hamilton and Miss Julia Sullivan were united in marriage at Jackson last Thursday evening. Mr. Hamilton is the son of Senator Jones S. Hamilton, and Miss Sullivan is a niece of Messrs. E., S, and A. Virden.

Branch No. 38, Catholic Knights of America, of this city, yesterday in response to the appeal of Wm. E. Russell, supreme president of the the order in America, forwarded per Southern Express Co., the sum of fifty-one dollars for the relief of the flood sufferers in the Ohio Valley.—Natchez Democrat.

Branch 72 of Jackson contributed twenty-five dollars for the same purpose.

We print to-day Hon. E. Barksdale's speech in the National House of Representatives, last week, on the Chalmers-Manning case. Mr. Barksdale's speech is brief, but it is to the point. In referring to the discussion some days since, we stated that Mr. Barksdale made a sensible proposition. If his amendment had been adopted it would have settled the main question on its merits at an early day and would have spared our State officials the severe reflection implied in the decision of the House on the prima facie case.

The Port Gibson Reveille is offended at The Vicksburg Poet, and says that paper has a very unfair way of discussing questions with the Press. That it rarely re-prints the article to which it replies, etc. This is a bad habit, we admit, but it occurs to us the Reveille falls into the same line of conduct, in the above. To be explicit, the Gazette two or three weeks ago commented upon the fact that one of the public institutions of the State expended the money appropriated for its maintenance during the years 1882 and 1883 in buying such luxuries as the rich much less the poor can ill afford. The Reveille fails to copy the article in question, but comments on it in a sarcastic way, leaving the public to imagine that we would have the deaf and dumb subsist on a diet of parched corn and dried apples.—Raymond Gazette.

The Courier-Journal, reviewing the report of the Kentucky Railroad Commission, says the railroad managers have reached a better understanding of the fact that the prosperity of their corporations and the growth of their properties are indissolubly linked with the growth and prosperity of the community from which they must derive all their business. "As business increases, rates are reduced and profits maintained. Last year the six trunk lines running into New York charged on an average, six mills per ton per mile for transportation of freight, and yet the Legislature which granted charters to the several roads of which these are composed thought they were far-sighted and safe in protecting the interests of the people in fixing, as they did in nearly every instance, 8 cents per ton per mile as the maximum charge. Could one desire a clearer demonstration of the futility of legislation and the all but omnipotent power of competition?' Does it not appear from this that "the time has arrived," especially in Mississippi, to let the railroads alone in order that we may have more of them and get the great benefits offered by their competition

The National Democratic Convention.

The Democratic National Committee have selected Chicago, July 8th, as the place and date for holding the National Democratic Convention.

We think the Committee has made a mistake in selecting the time—three or four weeks after the Republican Convention. If the Democratic party expects to gain the confidence of the country and to be successful, it must have the time to go ahead, select its candidates, and make its platform, without "waiting to see what the Republicans are going to do."

We can tell the Democrats who will win the next National election, but perhaps they will not follow our advice. The way to do it is to hold the Convention first; nominate the candidates on Friday, and on Saturday or Monday the platform. Then the Democratic party will have the start of the Republicans, and will be in the field with its candidates and platform before the Republicans have time to get ready

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in property is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE Circus to-night.

MR. R. T. CAMP, of New York, is in the city.

MR. E. C. PERRET, of St. Louis is in the city.

THE Ahrens engine did some fine work at the fire last night.

MR. J. H. GORDON, Judge Baldwin and Maj. Maginnis, of Port Gibson, are in the city.

DR. BALFOUR on Tuesday amputated the leg of a colored boy at the thigh, at the City Hospital.

COL. W. A. PERCY, of Greenville, was in the city this morning and left for home on the J. M. White.

If you have any extra mince pie, or boiled hams, don't be afraid to notify the committee.

THE southern portion of the mill-shed of the Planter's Compress Co. blew off during the wind storm yesterday. The damage is estimated at $200.

THE L., N. O. & T. R. R. bridge over Little Deer Creek at Rolling Fork, is to be changed, so as to admit of boats passing beneath it.

TICKETS for the Southron's ball on next Tuesday night are selling rapidly. We are under obligations to the Company for an invitation.

DR. ROGERS, of Memphis, was married on last Wednesday to Miss Katie H. Chalmers, daughter of Gen. Jas. R. Chalmers, of Sardis.

MR. J. M. MYERS, of the firm of Myers & Rowland, prominent paint and varnish dealers of Louisville, is selling goods to our merchants to-day.

THE remains of Mr. Owen Royce were accompanied to this place by Mr. MAX Kilian, his father, Messrs. E. Meyer, P. E. Miller and James Heath.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL returned from St. Louis this morning, where he had been attending a meeting of the Mississippi River Commission in that city.

THE funeral of the late Mr. Owen Royce will take place from Mr. M. L. Lloyd's residence, on Crawford street, between Walnut and Monroe, to-morrow afternoon at half-past two o'clock.

THE Mozart Club Orchestra, Prof. F. Talon, director, met last night and made arrangements to meet for rehearsal next Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at their room over Baum's store.

THE friends of Mr. T. J. Brennan are congratulating him this morning upon the accession to his household by a family. It is the biggest kind of a girl, and being the first, Tom is very happy and proud, as it is expected he should be.

THE remains of the late Owen Royce were brought down from Mayersville on the W. P. Thompson, and were taken to the residence of Mrs. Strother, on Crawford street. The funeral takes place at 3:30 to-morrow afternoon.

THE following were the arrivals from Natchez this morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Marg E. Hennessee: W. Mulvihill and E. P. Malvihill, sons of the deceased lady, J. P. Kersh, Mrs. W. Greary, and Mrs. C. Calnan; the last-named lady is ninety years of age.

ALDERMAN LOYD distinguished himself this morning by capturing a colored boy caught stealing a sack of meal. He waited for a policeman at the corner of South and Washington with the prisoner for some minutes, and was the object of no small admiring crowd. The policeman coming to the rescue, Mr. Loyd marched the culprit to police headquarters himself.

WARRANT has been sworn out against Charles Gibson, of the second ward, charging him with assaulting Officer Jones, of his police, and three of Davenport, Justice of the Peace, have very properly set it down for to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock. A common assault and battery charge is all that can be preferred against Gibson at present, but it is thought that there is more than that behind the matter, and that the officer will be prepared to show that Gibson resisted arrest with violence.

AT Carlisle it is 51 feet and 10 inches, falling.

At Cairo it is 51 feet and 10 inches, falling.

ANOTHER FIRE.

The Burning Results in Some of S. P. Metzger's Property Being Destroyed.

At ten minutes before one o'clock this morning smoke was discovered issuing from the second story windows, over S. P. Metzger's wholesale dry goods house, on Washington street. Alarms were turned in to the various engine houses, the Department responded promptly, and after about two hours and a half of hard work got the fire under control, although at 8 o'clock this morning the ruins were still smoking and trying to burn.

The origin of the fire is unknow, but from the fact that it started in the rear, and seemed to burn from the second story down the theory may be advanced that it was caused by a defective flue. The smoke was so dense at the time as to make it almost impossible to breathe within two squares of the burning building, but the firemen stood nobly at their work. At 3 o'clock the four available cisterns were empted, though the fire was not subdued, and water had to be pumped from the pond on Clay street, near the Presbyterian church.

The damage to the building, which is the property of Mr. Alex Kuhn, is estimated by that gentleman at $9,000. It was insured for $4,800 and the fixtures for $1,200, in the agency of Mr. Julius M. Klein. The stock of drygoods was valued as about $50,000. A portion of this was saved though damaged by water, and the loss on the stock cannot yet be estimated with any precision. It was insured for $17,500 in Mr. Klein's agency, and for $7,000 in Mr. Chamberlin's agency, making a total insurance on stock of $25,000, and on stock and building of $31,000. The stock of Mr. Bloomenstein, confectioner, next door to Metzger's, which was damaged to the amount of $340, was insured in Mr. Klein's agency, and was promptly assessed and settled this morning. About sixty barrels of sugar, and a quantity of pork and lard belonging to the grocery firm of Susman & Metzger, stored in the celler of the burned building, was more or less damaged by water. This was uninsured.

The walls of the building are standing, and the lower floor is all right, but otherwise it is a total ruin.

At the time the wind was blowing very strong and there was every indication that we were to experience a terrible conflagration, and the escape from one was certainly very narrow.

Increasing the Signal Service.

The following bill is to be introduced in Congress; and should it pass, it will be money well-expended, and it is certainly a small sum asked:

A bill to increase the efficiency of the River Observation of the Signal Service:

Whereas, immense losses occur annually along our rivers by floods; and whereas, such losses can be provided against to a great extent by timely information concerning the condition of the tributaries of our great rivers.

Therefore, be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the sum of twelve thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated, out of any moneys not otherwise appropriated in the Treasury of the United States, for the purpose of maintaining under the direction of the Chief Signal Officer of the Army such additional stations as may be necessary in order to secure reports and disseminate the same from, and in the vicinity of, the tributaries of our navigable rivers.

Sec. 2. Resolved, That to enable the Chief Signal Officer to carry out the provisions of the first section of this act, the Secretary of War is hereby authorized to detail for duty with the Signal Service an officer, with the rank of Lieutenant, from the line of the Army, in addition to the number already authorized by law.

The Water.

The river is falling at Cincinnati, and is below the danger line.

At Louisville it marks 34 feet and is falling.

At Cairo it is 51 feet and 10 inches, falling.

The second and last performance of "A Basket of Keys" was given at the Opera-house last night, in such a manner that the audience were, if possible, more appreciative and enthusiastic than on the previous night. The music was encored and the acting was loudly applauded. Miss Flora Moore sang "When the Moon It climbs," and "Frite's Lullaby" "a la" Joe Emmet, in a charming manner, and the other songs were the same as the previous night.

It is not improbable that the Mozart Club will give a concert before long.

No other companies are booked for the Opera-house. The rumor that the Ida Rentz Minstrels would appear soon is unfounded.

Howe, Pullman & Company gave an exhibition on the lot near the Verandah House this afternoon that was highly pleasing and well worth the price of admission. The free wire ascension by Signor Volanta was a daring act. Signor Volanta is a fine contortionist. Misses. Shields and Monroe, Madame Macart, Fred and Frank Macart, the Castello's, Willie Howard, Prof. Scott, the Maorie flying trapeze artist, the band and all other performers acquitted themselves quite well. Entire change of progamme to-night, and last appearance here. Doors open at 7:30.

Levees and High Water.

From the officers of the White, which boat passed up this morning, we learn that there has been no serious damage to levees below reported. The rough river caused by storms and winds has caused considerable washing on the levees at various points but not sufficient to cause alarm. The latest information from the Biggs or Read places as reported in Mrs Poer yesterday, is that the opening is widening rapidly. No efforts are being made to close it as there is no hope of closing it successfully even if the attempts were made. The pilots of the Thompson, that arrived this morning, report the force at work on the Illawara levee, reported in this paper yesterday as in danger, is working night and day and with chances greatly in their favor of preventing a disastrous break there. In regard to the Longwood levee in Mississippi, where the heavy winds of Tuesday and yesterday, had done some damage, a heavy force is at work there repairing the damage, and nothing is being left undone to secure the levee against the flood. Pilots and other steamboatmen say that the levees can stand at least one more foot of water.

Through Sleepers for Mardi Gras by the V. & M. R. R.

Attention is called to the Mardi Gras card of the V. & M. R. R.

On to-morrow evening at 6 o'clock a special train, with elegant Pullman sleepers, will leave here for New Orleans running through without change, via the New Orleans and Northeastern railroad, arriving in New Orleans Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The train will cross Lake Pontchartrain in daylight, Monday morning, and over the finest bridge in the world. The fare to go and return is only $8.65, with the privilege of remaining over until after the 4th of March, the New Orleans firemen's annual gala day, and in every respect equal to the Mardi Gras festivities. There will be sleepers attached to all the trains returning. For sleeping car berths see the ticket agent at the LaMadrid House.

WHILE other articles of their kind are largely adulterated, Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powders hold their unshaken position in the estimation of thousands as the purest, best, most reliable and cheapest. In all particulars that constitute perfect results, they cannot be approached by the various known Baking Powders in the market.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB., 25, 1884.

WORTHY if the Clarion now wants badges to be elected by the people.

THE New Orleans States appears in a new dress and gives other evidence of improvement and prosperity. We congratulate the States upon its progress.

SINCE the Vicksburg Herald has come out in favor of the Legislature supervising railroads, there is a cheerful prospect that no bill will be passed at this session.

THE Vicksburg Herald predicts that supervision will be made an issue in State politics, and a Governor opposed to it elected by 25,000 majority.—Yazoo Herald.

That was about a week ago, or just before Gov. Lowry sent in the message in which he avowed himself a railroad supervisionist. The Vicksburg Herald NOW favors regulating the railroads "by law."

THERE is a good prospect of no quorum in the Legislature to-day. A numbers of members can't stand the temptations of Mardi Gras, and it was the opinion at Jackson yesterday that a sufficient number to break a quorum would visit New Orleans. When the Legislature resumes business we will have a little more good advice for it.

THE Clarion has concluded that its charge that the Judges of Mississippi are in league with the railroad companies, and prejudiced the verdicts of their courts in favor of the railroads was entirely too sweeping, and that it is not justified by anything that the author or that we [the editor] know personally, or that we have heard even intimated, as to the personal and official integrity of any Judge who has been on the bench in this State during the administrations of Govs. Stone and Lowry." The Clarion now declares the Judges of the State to be the very personification of justice and equity. However it is proper to say that the article was written by the Clarion's "other" editor, while the chief was away. The King of France marched up the hill, etc.

The incident has compelled the Clarion to do twice in a very short time something it is not in the habit of doing of late—take a decided stand, and that's something. It also proves that the Clarion can "stand around" about as fast as the next one when it tries.

Modest Meridian.

The Meridianites want the capital of the State moved to that city. They have sent a committee to Jackson to lobby in the interest of a bill for that purpose. The Committee say they are afraid the old capitol building will fall down, and yet from the way they hang around its halls and corridors there cannot be any immediate danger; at least they don't seem to be afraid of being crushed even if the building should fall.

The Meridianites have hard heads, and should like the gates of Gaza, and if the capitol building should fall upon the Committee perhaps it would not hurt them much.

The Meridian folks all want railroad supervision. They have railroad facilities, but as Meridian is surrounded by the poorest country in the universe there is nothing to build up a local trade, and therefore they think that regulating the railroads by law will make a second New York out of Meridian.

The Meridian folks went a good newspaper—and God knows they need one—but the only chance to get one seems to be through the efforts of a joint stock company which shall embrace the whole community.

The Meridianites wanted a branch of one of the State institutions located there. The last Legislature made a liberal appropriation for a building, but through the influence of the greedy Meridianites the spirit of the law was violated and a building was erected, or begun, to cost twice the sum appropriated and intended by the Legislature. And now the modest Meridianites want another appropriation to complete the building. In this case, we will renew our suggestion that the Meridian folks be allowed to complete the unfinished asylum building. This will relieve them of some of their surplus revenue.

Addressed by Meridian folks for the removal of the capital to that city, the REST WARE IN-DEED. It would be a great luxury these days to be caught not to have the capital. Meridian folks have $20,000 to build themselves a city hall.

Keeping up Strife.

The object of the Senatorial Committee now investigating the riots at Danville, Va., and in Copiah county, Miss., is evidently to stir up again the race issue in the South. It has been the object of good citizens throughout the South, to reconcile all differences among Southern citizens in regard to race, and notwithstanding the occasional outbreaks that have occurred, there is no doubt that they have made great progress in that direction. The political compromises and fusions that have been agreed upon in many States have done much to mitigate the bitter feelings that for a time existed between the races, and if the matter were left to the management of those of both races who appreciate the necessity of cordial and friendly relations between them, there would soon be no antagonism between the white and colored people of the South. This fusion or compromise, which at first was repugnant to the white people of the country, has begun to commend itself to the conservative and thinking element all through the South.

But a settlement of these antagonisms is the very last thing the republican leaders of the North wish to see brought about. These fusion movements have alarmed them, and they have determined to check their progress in order that they may still retain the undivided vote of the colored people of the South. They have determined to keep up the strife regardless of the interests of the States in which there is a large colored vote, that the republican party may still retain its hold upon a people whom in their hearts the leaders of the party despise. They care nothing for the negro, they care nothing for the States of the South, they care only for the supremacy of their party in the national government. For this reason these Committees have been sent to the two States of Virginia and Mississippi, to stir up again the partially forgotten animosities.—Natchez Democrat.

Such effusions as the above are common in the Mississippi press, and as a general thing occasion no surprise at their primitive and shallow sentiments; but they do sound strange and unnatural coming from our esteemed and usually thoughtful and careful and erudite contemporary, the Democrat. It is by a singular process of reasoning that the assassination of Matthews and the famous interdict against the Matthews family—the first by a tool and the other by a mass meeting of the Democrats of Copiah county—are found to emanate from the desire of the Northern Republicans to perpetuate the bitter feeling between the races in the South. The Democrats of Copiah county are alone responsible for the this last brutal blow to the amicable relations between the two races, and whatever influence the murder of Matthews may exert towards widening the breach between the whites and blacks of that county and the State at large we may thank only the Democrats who perpetrated the outrage and those who condone and defend it. Sherman's investigation is simply the result of the deed, and has no earthly connection with its origin.

The politicians of the North no longer seek or desire the colored vote of the South. The Sherman investigation is not to that end. The campaign material the Senate Committee will construct from the Matthews affair will not be used to consolidate the negro vote of the South, but will be most effectually utilized to mass the white vote of the North for a Republican candidate for President. A solid North against a solid South, is the aim of the Copiah investigation. The Copiah Democrats furnished the opportunity to spring that issue, and the Democratic party of the country must suffer the consequences. The Republicans propose to carry that brutal story to the intelligent, liberal people of the North, and there is no doubt that it will be a most efficient plea.

The negro vote remained a potent factor in Republican politics only so long as it could be made to serve an immediate purpose. When the South was full of carpet-baggers and scalawags, the negro vote was sought by them as a means of remaining in power and robbing the people; but now that they have gone and the Republicans are in the South only in small numbers, no account is made of the negro vote between men equally divided between the two parties. The negro vote is now only a means to an end, and that end is the success of the Republican party in the North. The negro vote is now only a means to an end, and that end is the success of the Republican party in the North. The negro vote is now only a means to an end, and that end is the success of the Republican party in the North.

LETTER FROM JACKSON.

The Railroad Supervision Question—Prospect of Early Adjournment—Local Bill Day—Etc.

[Special Correspondence Vicksburg Post.]

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 23, 1884.

The outsider has but little idea what the members of the Legislature think of railroad supervision. Before the Governor's veto but little was said on the subject, and less thought, judging from the hasty action of both houses; but since there has been a very decided modification both in action and in the discussion of the subject. To-day your correspondent had a talk with several members, and among them a Senator who is a member of the select committee on railroads. He is a supervisionist, but not an extremist.

"What has become of the Senate railroad bill, anyway?"

"It is still in the hands of the committee. We were in session Saturday night until 12 o'clock trying to fix it up, but in truth the committee does not know exactly how to fix up a bill that will meet the approval of the Governor and the House in all its features. The House is hard to please, or the Senate is hard to understand, for what suits one on this subject does not suit the other. The Senate, in the first place, did not like the bill sent from the House, but passed it, knowing if it were returned with amendments the House would kick and the bill would fall through. We believed it had defects, and passed it hastily, like the House, thinking it would do."

"Yes," spoke another Senator who had overheard the conversation, "were the vote to be taken again I for one would vote against it for the reason that it was a bit of hasty legislation on a very important subject; and many others would do the same. I don't think you will catch the Senate napping again soon."

"Are there any other points on which the two houses do not agree?"

"Yes. At our meeting last night several of the committee men were in favor of giving the Governor the power of appointing the Commissioners, to be confirmed by the Senate," provided the bill passed. But here is where the House would have kicked again, because it is in favor of electing the Commissioners by the Legislature. It would not have submitted to the mode the committee and the Governor believe to be best and fairest, and so as a compromise we have decided to yield to the House again. The fact is, the Senate must yield everything to the House, or the supervision bill will be a failure."

"So far as you know, what is the general opinion in the Legislature concerning the bill?"

"I hardly know; but as an individual I will say that there is going to be a great deal of compromising before the bill is passed."

"In that case it will be a weak one," suggested a reporter.

"Yes, but it will answer the purpose. This will about be it in a nutshell: The Commissioners and railroad officials will meet and compromise the passenger and freight rates in a way to suit all hands—just like, to illustrate, a committee of merchants of a place were to call on the railroad officials and effect special rates from and to their town. In a year or two the thing will blow over, and railroad supervision will be a thing of the past.

It will be three or four days before the bill will be ready for consideration.

Saturday the House passed a resolution to the effect that no more local bills be introduced this session. This would seem to indicate that the Legislature is getting ready to go home, and no doubt will adjourn soon. The members look wearied, and many have expressed themselves in favor of an early adjournment. A prominent member of the Senate said to the writer: "Were it not for this supervision bill we we would adjourn in a few days."

Speaking of local bills reminds me of a conversation between two little boys I overheard the other day:

"Johnnie, this is local bill day in the House."

"Jimmie, what is local bill day?"

"Why, I thought everybody knew that. It is to prohibit the sale or giving away of vinegar or substitutes liquors within five miles of Alcorn and Panola counties;" and he cried out to a passer-by, "Hinese's your daily Clarion!"

Meridian has been over here in full force to see about removing the capital to that city. The House Committee on that subject, it is said, has been drowned, will report favorably for the removal of the capital, and the Meridianites are highly elated over the fact. Still it will amount to nothing: the capital will remain here.

GRANT'S FARMER STEAM ENGINE.

During the remarkable absence, last week, of the proprietor and managing editor of this journal, an article appeared discussing the question of Railroad Supervision, in which the following language occurred:

If you sue, as is the case generally, the Judges will not allow the verdict of a jury to stand if the amount of damages is large. They usurp the righ. of the jury and decide law and fact, and generally in favor of the railway. Let those facts be deeded and instances will be brought forward to establish on position.

One of our contemporaries called upon the Clarion to cite us single instance, establishing the above, and it was given, and so plainly—without calling names—that we supposed it would be understood that no judge now on the bench was intended. On a more careful examination of the language of the article, and after conference with the author, who was temporarily in charge of the paper, we are free to admit that the statement is too sweeping, and that it is not justified by anything that the author or that we know personally, or that we have heard even intimated, as to the personal and official integrity of any judge who has been on the bench in this State during the administrations of Governors Stone and Lowry. Indeed the single instance the Clarion only one that was in the author's mind, and that was such a flagrant abuse of judicial position, that the term "judges" was inadvertently used.

We intend this as a full and complete acknowledgement of an unfortunate slip in discussing a question of great public interest, and as a vindication of the Judiciary of Mississippi, with all whom it is our pleasure to sustain pleasant personal relations, and of whose qualifications and integrity, it may in great truth be said, they are "sans peur et sans reproche."—Clarion.

HAM CARTER, as usual, is after an office. He is a candidate for Senator for the county of Warren.—Yazoo Herald.

And as usual, of late years, he has been defeated.—Vicksburg Post.

Of course. Don't everybody know that his defeatment in the Congressional District was to help another "feller." It must be rather expensive to run two candidates at the same time in the same Congressional District, in these times when it takes money to make the mare go. Did Ham and his immediate friends get a reasonable share of Congressman Springer's contribution?—Holly Springs Register.

IN a recent lecture before the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, Dr. J. M. Andrews vigorously attacked the "superstition," as he termed it, that plants are not healthy in sleeping or sick rooms. The deleterious matter they give out is inappreciable, while their value in a sick room is great. They fulfill two functions—that of the generation of ozone and the exhalation of vapor, by which the atmosphere of the room is kept in a healthful condition of humidity.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of "JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. The Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for such property, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed on between the stockholders and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders, and stockholders' or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held and all corporate acts and powers exercised at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the manner of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any office of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books for subscription to the capital stock of said Company, and to call meetings of subscribers for organization, by publishing a notice thereof for three successive weeks in some newspaper published in the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi.

WANTED.

WANTED—A situation on a farm by a reliable manager. Address J., this office. feb20

WANTED—By a cash purchaser, a good location, also lot in the city. Address "PURCHASER," this office. f15-1w

THE SATISFACTION
Of eating under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs his heirs of one of the principal legacies they know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads when it is carried to the tomb. If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a good investment by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. The best opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Howe, Pullman & Co.'s Show.

The performances given by the above circus company on Saturday gave the best of satisfaction to the large crowds that flocked to see it. All the performers acquitted themselves well, and every act was liberally applauded. They perform to-day at Yazoo City, and after a week up the Yazoo will proceed up the Mississippi, showing three days at Memphis, where they will be in about three weeks. Those who were fortunate enough to visit them here will be glad to welcome them back at any future time, and whenever they may appear here again they can depend upon receiving a full canvas.

THE LEVEES AND WATER.

A Caving at Goodrich—Appropriation for Tarpley's Neck Above Greenville.

A letter received in this city yesterday from Col. Geo. Foster, of Villa Vista, contains the following paragraph in regard to the levee near there:

"We are still holding the Wilton to Raleigh levee, built by the Government, but we had a fearful storm yesterday (Saturday) and it caved badly. The water washed over the crown of the levee and considerable wave wash was occasioned. There was almost a crevasse at Airlie, but it was protected by the prompt action of Col. Rhodes."

Capt. Marshall this evening sends to that point 20,000 feet of lumber and 1,000 empty sack, to be used in strengthening the levee.

At the recent meeting of the River Commission held in St. Louis, $6,000 was alloted for the purpose of preventing the cut off at Tarpley's Neck, Carter's Point, 5 miles above Greenville on the east side of the river.

The United States Engineer of that district, on receipt of the information of the allotment, ordered the work done immediately. It was prevented, however, by the objection of the landowners and the rise in the river which occurred and overflowed the neck before legal proceedings were resorted to to secure the right of way. The engineers think this will result in a bar forming in front of Greenville, and cause the landing to be about three miles from the city's front. At this point a carp of 1,100 feet has occurred.

A levee on the bayou LaFourche opposite Thibodeaux, La., broke Saturday, but the planters went to work at once and expected to have it closed by yesterday morning.

From the officers of the steamer Lessee we learn that a heavy hail storm passed over Hays' Landing, fifty miles up the river, at 4 o'clock Friday morning. The storm lasted half an hour, and the ground was white with hail stones, some of which measured at least an inch in diameter.

CAPT. E. C. CARROLL has been asked and agreed to accept the Presidency of the National Bank to be established here on the next sixty days. It is not known what salary he will accept. The stock ($100,000) has all been taken, and the money is now lying on the table awaiting the signatures of the directors.—Vicksburg special.

CAPT. W. L. MARSHALL, of P. Thompson will be in charge of the Illinois Central Cotton Seed Oil Mill, which is to be built at Vicksburg. Capt. Marshall will go to Illinois at once to purchase machinery and material for the levee. The mill will be in operation promptly at 5 o'clock, and will go as high as 25 bales per day. Capt. Marshall will be in Vicksburg in a few days.

THE steamer City of Osceola arrived in the city yesterday morning with 1,000 barrels of cotton seed. She will leave for Osceola this evening at 5 o'clock. Capt. Marshall will be in charge of the mill.

DURING the fire of last Friday morning, the Washington steamer, although interrupted several times by bursting hose, emptied three cisterns. She used one and a half inch nozzle.

MR. JOE L. ADLER, of August, Bernheim & Bauer, of this city, will be among the departures by this evening's train for New Orleans to attend the "Mardi Gras" festivities. We wish him a pleasant time.

AT a meeting of the Juvenile Social Club, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing term: Joe Bien, President; Louis Ruhman, vice-President; I. Bloom, Secretary, and Louis Emmich, guard.

MR. E. A. DENNETT, of the New Orleans & Texas Telegraph Company, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Dennett is engaged in stringing the lines from Greenville to Overby Station, and they will soon be working.

MR. F. L. GUSSIO is now assistant secretary of the Vicksburg Building Association and Authorized by Mr. J. F. Balgin, the Secretary of the Association, to collect and receipt for all bills due the Association.

WE learn from Capt. Michael Murphy, the contractor, that Col. M. W. Higgins left for New Orleans yesterday evening on a bridal tour. Quite a large number of his friends accompanied him, among whom were thirteen ladies.

MISS W. A. MAYHO, daughter of Captain George Haverfield, arrived by the morning's train from Fayetteville, (Tenn). Mrs. Baird is on a visit to her sister, who is the Superintendent of the National Cemetery at this place.

SILAS LANE, the negro who was to have been hanged at Rolling Fork, in Sharkey county, convicted of rape, and who was twice respited by Gov. Lowry, has had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary.

MR. CLEM DAVIS, late of the Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle, has accepted a position on the reportorial staff of our contemporary, the Herald, on this corner. We welcome Mr. Davis as resident of Vicksburg, and congratulate the Herald on its new acquisition.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB., 26, 1884.

RANDALL for President, and a West Point improvement man for Vice President, will be a winning ticket for the Democratic party.

THERE was a good working quorum in both branches of the Legislature yesterday, notwithstanding the temptation, to which a large number yielded, to take in Mardi Gras.—Clarion, 26th.

JUDGE T. J. WHARTON, of Jackson, testified before the Senate Committee at New Orleans, that he experienced more trouble regarding grand juries in Copiah county than in any county in his judicial district.

MR. D. SHELTON, an able lawyer of Jackson, in a communication to the Clarion advances and sustains the proposition of Judge Jackson, in according to the Constitution of the State, the "permanency" seat of Government or capital of Mississippi.

AT the recent meeting of the National Democratic Committee, Sam. Randall made a strong argument for Chicago, (the city selected for the meeting of the National Convention.) A dispatch says it is generally acknowledged that free trade got a black eye.

IT will be a strange thing—and entirely wrong—if the Mississippi Legislature shall attempt to regulate and control the railroads in the State, which belong to individuals, and neglect to regulate and control the convicts that belong to the State, and whom it is the duty of the Legislature to supervise and regulate and control and properly care for. There is a direct responsibility resting upon the Legislature in the latter case; and a strained desire to assume responsibility in the former.

"THE evidence in the Copiah county outrage shows a state of things highly disgraceful to Mississippi. It seems to have been recognized as such by Senator Lamar and other leading men of the State, but they were powerless against the barbarity they condemned. There are portions of the South which are so far behind the times that they do not seem to belong to this age. Any community in which a man cannot live in safety and peace because of his politics is not fit for self-government."—Boston Herald (Dem).

WE clip the following from the Picayune in regard to a new charter for Yazoo City:

The town is soon to pass under a new charter. It has passed both houses of the Legislature, and the signature of the Chief Executive only remains to make it a law. It contains, I am told, several radical amendments or changes upon the old, and public sentiment antagonizes as to the policy of adopting the changes referred to. Under the new charter additional power is centered in the board not heretofore possessed, and several of the city officials heretofore elective by the people are to be elected by the Council. Not having examined the new law, I am unprepared to pass any criticisms, even if such were in place here.

THE Outrage Mill is still grinding at New Orleans. Gov. Lowry, Dr. Rowan and others were summoned to appear before the Committee on yesterday. It is doubted if Lowry was really afraid to go to Hazlehurst to investigate the riot? When Sherman and his crowd of eminent statesmen went to New Orleans to break up the infamous returning board and steal the Presidency, none of them were killed. It is a wonder, that at a time of such great political excitement and when a whole nation's liberties were in jeopardy, that some of them were not taken off.—Clarion.

DOES the Clarion mean to suggest in the above that some of the Senate Investigating Committee should now be "taken off." Wheeler has already threatened to kill "old Hoar" if he gets a good chance; and a few more suggestively suggestive articles by the Clarion might result in the highly sensational episode of a United States Senator being assassinated by a Copiah county (Mississippi) Democrat.

AS JUDGE PAYNE represents the Jeffersonian Democracy, which always stoutly defends American industry, and Carlisle the free trade theories, a combination of the two in the ticket will unite the entire party in its unwavering support.—Picayune.

IT is strange to find such an unreasonable suggestion or proposition from a gentleman of Maynard's conceded ability. A protective tariff man and a free trader would be antagonistic elements necessarily in politics, and a free trader would be satisfied and afford illimitable opportunity for Republicans for vigorous assault.

"A press divided against itself cannot stand," and neither can a Democratic party. A divided party is a party without principle.

There seems to be a coldness on the part of the Legislature to make the appropriation necessary to complete the Insane Asylum at Jackson. Why is this? Is it because the Governor is a Republican? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party and who has been elected by the Democratic party? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party and who has been elected by the Democratic party and who has been inaugurated by the Democratic party to be used and spend, and while spending their own powers, there is no doubt they have greatly benefited the State.

If the Legislature shirks its bounden duty in regard to the convicts of the State it will be an acknowledgment that the problem is too great for it to solve, too weighty for it to handle. But it cannot escape the responsibility nevertheless.

If the Legislature attempts to solve the greater and much more complicated question of railroad supervision—a supervision for which there is no pressing need, and, in the opinion of many, no need at all—its members may make some political capital for themselves, which will be more than counterbalanced if they neglect the pressing and imperative duty to properly regulate the convict system of the State.

The Presidential Campaign.

The selection of Chicago as the place of meeting of both the great National Conventions this year is not only fit, but is also remarkable as an illustration of the growing power of the West and waning influence of the East. No Convention has been held in the East since 1872. In 1876 the Democrats met at St. Louis and the Republicans at Cincinnati. In 1880 the former convened at Cincinnati and the latter at Chicago. A single experience of the greatly increased hotel accommodations of Chicago retained the Republicans there, and the Democrats are going there also.

It is not alone in the location of the conventions that the westward drift is noticeable. The Republicans have taken their Presidential candidates from the West with absolute uniformity for seven quadrennianums, and have elected five out of the seven, and counted in a sixth. Two of their Vice-Presidents came from the West—Colfax and Andy Johnson. They are likely to take their next candidate from the West—John Logan. The East is divided between Arthur and Edmunds, and there is no spirit in either faction of the party. The only man who can awaken any real enthusiasm in the East is Blaine, and he is passee—fading under a constantly and solidly growing Western pressure for Logan.

Among the Democrats the same westward trend is evident in even a more marked degree. The claims of various Eastern men have been quietly canvassed without any appreciable boom resulting, while in the West there is a steady growth of popularity following the names of Judge Payne, of Ohio, and Speaker Carlisle, of Kentucky. The ticket for Carlisle for the second place amounts to an enthusiasm, and is heard among the people as far north as Manitoba. The ranks of the populace are in his favor. Disappointment is felt because Carlisle did not elect him to the United States Senate. It will be remembered that Carlisle had been elected to the Senate, but had not taken his seat when chosen President. Judge Payne is now elected Senator in Ohio, and if Carlisle had been chosen in Kentucky the coincidence would have exactly pleased the popular fancy. As Judge Payne represents the Jeffersonian Democracy, which always defends American industry, and Carlisle, the free trade theories, a combination of the two in the ticket will unite the entire party in its unwavering support.

Some of the beauties of "our best society" have just been sacrificing themselves on the altar of life-art. They have subdued their sensitiveness sufficiently to pose on a public stage, not because they wish to be admired—O, no—but in order that the Bartholdi Pedestal might profit through the payment of $3 by each spectator. On three afternoons they put themselves on exhibition in tableaux, and thus brought in more than $8,000. It was the niece of the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of this Diocese, the Rev. Dr. Potter, who won the first prize. This very victorious beauty was Mrs. Clarence Cary, nee Potter, a blonde of the delicate, ethereal type. She was used to illustrate, in four tableaux, Keats' "Eve of St. Agnes." I can't suppose that she was at all surprised by the rapturous applause which followed, at each fall of the curtain between views, the breathless and silent admiration with which she had been regarded. When a woman permits herself to be announced on the programme as a realization of that Maidine whom Keats referred to Keits' fancy, "seemed a splendid angel newly dressed, save wings, for heaven," she must be tolerably confident of the potency of her beauty. Her poses were carefully calculated to present her into the best aspects, her white satin gown and yellow hair were slightly apparation-like when the "wintry moon threw (by means of a calcium) warm rays on her fair breast." And even the jealous Mrs. Langtry, who went to see this show, pronounced her altogether lovely.—Times-Democrat New York Correspondence.

Preparatory Training School at West Point.

Representative Belford will introduce in the House a bill authorizing the Secretary of War to establish at West Point a preparatory school for training candidates for admission into the military academy. It provides for the appointment of candidates in the same manner that cadets are now appointed, and for the erection of a suitable building in the vicinity of West Point for a preparatory school, at a cost not exceeding $200,000. The candidates are to be examined by proper boards in the districts where they reside, and they are not to be subjected to further preliminary examination by the officers of the Military Academy.

The candidates admitted shall have the same privileges as are allowed cadets, and the Secretary of War is authorized to detail instructors for the institution.

BOSTON Post: "Benjamin Franklin was a 'free thinker,' and his name has been called to the attention of Dr. Newman, who denies that an 'infidel' ever made a great discovery. What's more, we believe the man who invented curve pitching was an infidel."

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION.

Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them and their successors by a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by such name that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers; likewise the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein; to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, tramways, or other means of transportation necessary or convenient to the conduct of its business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the powers thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote at stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes, and other securities, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed upon between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any assessment, or for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec. 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The office of said Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders; and stockholders or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held at all corporate sets and powers executed at any place out of the State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purpose. All regulations touching the mettings of stockholders and Directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company for the organization meeting of the shareholders for the election of directors, a notice of such call for three successive days in a newspaper published in said city, and signed by three thousand dollars of more of said stock shall be sufficient to authorize the organization meeting, and at such meeting a majority of the stock shall be sufficient to elect the Board of Directors, and the Board of Directors shall have power to make all by-laws not inconsistent with the laws of the State or this charter.

Sec. 8. This charter shall take effect from and after its passage.

Approved February 23, 1884.

Convict Supervision and Railroad Supervision.

The New York Legislature has abolished contract labor in the prisons of that State. There are many evils connected with the system of contract labor in prisons, and the objections to this system have caused its abolition in New York.

But the contract system, in prisons, is a heaven for the convicts compared to the abominable lease and sub-leasing system of convicts outside the prisons as practiced in the States of Mississippi, Louisiana, and Arkansas. Before it adjourns, the Legislature of Mississippi should do something to prevent a repetition of the horrors of the past in the treatment of sub-leased convicts.

The lease system is utterly wrong, and should be done away with entirely. Some say it is a difficult problem for the State to take hold of and manage its own convicts so as to make them self-sustaining and not to interfere with the honest industries of its citizens. Suppose it is a problem; it is one which the Legislature should take up and solve. There are no constitutional doubts as to the right of the State to "supervise" and manage its convicts; on the contrary, it is the DUTY of the State to keep them under its control and to properly care for them. The State is not now, and has not for several years, been performing its duty to this class of its unfortunate citizens. The proper care of the convicts is a big question, it is true; it involves the correct enforcement of the laws, and directly and indirectly affects the people of the State—it affects their morals, their conduct, their responsibility to humanity and to God.

Now why should not the Legislature act upon this matter, which calls for and needs immediate action? Why not drop the railroad supervision question short of a constitutional amendment, and devote the next few days to the convict question, which belongs to them, and which it is their duty to take up?

There seems to be a coldness on the part of the Legislature to make the appropriation necessary to complete the Insane Asylum at Jackson. Why is this? Is it because the Governor is a Republican? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party and who has been elected by the Democratic party? Is it because the Governor is a Democrat who is a candidate for re-election and who has been nominated by the Democratic party and who has been elected by the Democratic party and who has been inaugurated by the Democratic party to be used and spend, and while spending their own powers, there is no doubt they have greatly benefited the State.

If the Legislature shirks its bounden duty in regard to the convicts of the State it will be an acknowledgment that the problem is too great for it to solve, too weighty for it to handle. But it cannot escape the responsibility nevertheless.

If the Legislature attempts to solve the greater and much more complicated question of railroad supervision—a supervision for which there is no pressing need, and, in the opinion of many, no need at all—its members may make some political capital for themselves, which will be more than counterbalanced if they neglect the pressing and imperative duty to properly regulate the convict system of the State.

The Presidential Campaign.

The selection of Chicago as the place of meeting of both the great National Conventions this year is not only fit, but is also remarkable as an illustration of the growing power of the West and waning influence of the East. No Convention has been held in the East since 1872. In 1876 the Democrats met at St. Louis and the Republicans at Cincinnati. In 1880 the former convened at Cincinnati and the latter at Chicago. A single experience of the greatly increased hotel accommodations of Chicago retained the Republicans there, and the Democrats are going there also.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness, and gives a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speet's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

THE remains of Mr. T. C. Torry, who died at Johnsonville, Sunflower county, some two years ago, are expected to arrive on the steamer Headlight, due this evening, and will interred in the City Cemetery here. Mrs. Torry is a sister of Attorney-General Cummings.

WE have received a postal card from Rev. Father Jones, who is now stationed at White Earth, Minnesota. He would be remembered to his friends and wants Tim Poer. This reminds us that many former Vicksburgers, now living elsewhere, always write to friends and relatives here to be sure to send them THE POST, because it contains so much local news, and they seem greatly disappointed when they miss a single issue.

We had a pleasant call this morning from Mr. B. F. Jones, of Beauregard, Miss., agent for the celebrated Master & Simmons fire and burglar-proof safes. Mr. Jones showed us the newest and improved burglar-proof lock now used on these safes, and explained its merits. It is certainly a fine piece of mechanism. Mr. Jones has a number of photographic views of styles and sizes of safes, which he exhibits to parties wishing information as to the capacity, size, etc., of safes. Parties desiring investigation of safes will find Mr. Jones at the Hotel Richardson.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

J. I. MEADE, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Copiah county, Miss., informs us that he does not intend to be a candidate for the Legislature, but will be found in the ranks of the Democracy, working for the success of the ticket. He is a gentleman of the highest character, and would be a valuable member of the House of Representatives. He is also known as an able lawyer, and would be a member of the Legislature from Washington county. Mr. Smith concluded his purchases to-day and leaves on the Issequena, on Thursday. Most of his purchases, however, will go forward on the steamer Tributary to-morrow or Thursday.

Volunteer Southrons' Grand Military Ball.

The last and grandest ball of the season comes off to-night. While New Orleans will be jammed and crammed to-night, with its multitude of visitors precluding even the possibility of any real pleasure or enjoyment, the Volunteer Southrons and their guests will have one of the most enjoyable and really delightful entertainments, the most fastidious and exquisite in taste could possibly wish for. The belles and beaux who are absent in New Orleans will never know the pleasure and enjoyment they have missed.

The night in Vicksburg will be as it were, a repetition of that occasion which Byron has immortalized:

There was a sound of revelry by night,
And Belgium's capital had gathered then,
Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
The lamps shone o'er fair women and the brave men.
A thousand hearts beat happily and when
Music arose with its voluptuous swell
Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spoke again,
And all went merry as a marriage bell.

Catholic Morning Star.

MRS. E. F. Owens is now agent at this place for the above well-known and popular journal. The late Mr. E. F. Owens had been agent for it a great number of years. This is the paper that was once presided over by the celebrated Father Ryan, and who we believe is still a contributor to its able columns.

Railroad Racket.

The new bridge over the Yazoo river on the L., N. O. & T. R. R., is almost completed and the Company expect to run a train over it on Monday next.

As soon as this is completed regular trains will run between Nittayuma in Sharkey county, and Fayette junction south of Port Gibson.

The road from the National Cemetery to the city has been repaired and trains are now running over it.

Large Shipments of Oil.

The steamer City of Cairo, leaving here to-day for St. Louis, took 500 barrels of oil from the Refuge Oil Mills. These mills have 1,500 barrels more awaiting the steamers Chas. Morgan, Golden Rule and the Thursday Anchor Line boat (that is 500 barrels for each.) There are also about 400 barrels of oil here from Port Gibson awaiting a Cincinnati boat, and the Warren Oil Mills have about 500 barrels more awaiting shipment by river to Cincinnati.

Services During Lent at St. Paul's Church.

Ash Wednesday Feb. 27th, blessing of the ashes, at a quarter before 8 o'clock in the morning.

On Wednesday evenings during Lent at 7:30 o'clock p.m., sermon and Benediction.

On Thursday afternoons at 3 o'clock, Stations of the Cross, for school children.

On Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock, Stations of the Cross and Benediction.

On Sundays, Vespers, sermon and Benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

The Ball To-night.

Are you going to the ball this evening? Well, you'd better. It is going to be THE event of the season. Nothing has been neglected that will add to your pleasure or satisfy your appetite. You can secure tickets of any member of the Volunteer Southrons, and we hope to see their treasury filled to overflowing with the ducats from their admiring friends.

SALMI MORSE, the author of the "False Step" which was interdicted by the New York authorities, committed suicide by drowning himself in the Hudson river. When found the body was warm, showing that he had been in the water but a very short time, possibly not more than an hour. In his left hand was found a religious tract entitled "God Loves You." It is clearly a case of deliberate suicide.

Capt. W. L. Marshall, United States Engineer in charge of this district, left last night on the steamer W. P. Thompson for Wilson's Point. We learn that work will be resumed on Lake Providence reach within fifteen to twenty days, or as soon as the pile-drivers, barges, etc., are put in order at that point. A force of from 300 to 400 men will be employed. The recent allotment of $400,000 out of the National appropriation of $1,000,000, gives ample funds with which to resume work.

The steamer W. P. Thompson carried up last night a large lot of lumber, 1000 sacks, and other material for the Illawara Levee to be used there to prevent, if possible, the threatened crevasse. Maj. Waddill telegraphed Sunday night to Senator Gibson of Louisiana at Washington, to see the Chief Engineer and have him to instruct Capt. Marshall to have the necessary work done on the threatened Levees to protect them against the present danger. Capt. Marshall received a telegram yesterday from Gen. Park, acting Chief of Engineer at Washington, instructing him to expend, if necessary, $7,000, the balance now in his (Capt. Marshall's, hands unexpended on account of Levees.

Assistant Engineer H. St. L. Coppee, by direction of the Engineer in charge of this District, went over and made an inspection of the break in the Biggs or Reid Levee, 2½ miles below Delta. That officer reports as follows: The Levee was no doubt cut Thursday night about midnight and by Friday morning had reached a width of 100 feet wide. On yesterday (Monday) evening it was between 1000 and 1100 feet wide, an average of 10 feet depth of water going through it at the rate of about 6 miles an hour.

Engineer Coppee took over a force of about 80 men and a large lot of empty sacks with which he will endeavor to prevent a further widening of the break and save as much of the levee as possible. Being new work, the levee washes away very rapidly. This levee was built by the United States Government and was a very costly piece of work.

The water is rapidly filling up the lowlands and is fast approaching Delta. It is now up to the Court-house and it is thought it will certainly inundate Delta. The levees at Illawara and Longwood are still intact.

The work at Wilson's Point was much retarded last year by the difficulty of geting out willows with which to make the mattresses, and to obviate this difficulty, we are informed by Capt. W. L. Marshall that a narrow guage railroad will be built, which will run out or back to the willow swamps and will be probably 5 miles in length. By means of this railroad the work of getting at the willows will be greatly facilitated and much time saved. Heretofore these willows were procured only near the river banks and by means of flats, a very slow and tedious method. The road in question will be at or very near Wilson's Point, and will have a regular narrow guage steam locomotive and flat cars upon it.

Supposed Drowning of Mr. Granbury Pinkston.

Mr. Granbury Pinkston, who was formerly employed as a carriage painter in the establishment of Mr. J. G. Tichenor, at the corner of Walnut and South streets, and who resided about a mile west of the city on the V. & M. railroad, left here to visit his farm seven miles up the river on last Thursday evening. He was in a skiff, and besides other articles had a shot gun with him.

On last Saturday morning the skiff was discovered in the back water, but Mr. Pinkston was missing, as was also his shotgun. His body has not yet been seen, and there is every indication that he has been drowned although there is no conclusive evidence of the fact.

Mr. Pinkston was about 56 years of age, and leaves a wife and six children. He was a highly respected citizen, and many friends will mourn his untimely death.

A EUROPEAN journal relates that a few months since workmen employed upon some connections on the bank of the river Dnieper, in Central Russia, employed the electric light to enable them to prosecute their labors at night. The brilliant rays of light attracted so many million of nocturnal moths, beetles and other insects, that from time to time it was necessary to stop work, and set all hands to sweeping the insects off the wires of victims that frequently completely obscured the light. This suggested the idea of employing the electric light to destroy noxious insects on a large scale, and experiments in that direction are to be tried next Spring. Not only is it hoped to foil the light proved fatally attractive to the insects, but it is also hoped to destroy the eggs of the insects by the heat of the light. The experiments will be made in the forests of Russia, where the ravages of insects are frequently very destructive.

[Special to THE EVENING POST.]

FROM JACKSON.

The Governor Recommends a New Judicial District.

Vicksburg Charter—Railroad Bill—Prospect of Early Adjournment.

Senate.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 27.—A message from the Governor recommends the creation of a new Judicial District out of Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, Marion, Perry, Greene, and Lawrence counties.

The Committee recommends the passage of an Act amendatory of the charter of Vicksburg.

The Railroad bill will come up to-morrow.

House.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole to consider sundry bills, none of which are of any importance.

Generally a majority of the members seem in favor of adjourning March 7th, and have set that day.

MARKET REPORTS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 27.—Spots dull; nothing doing; Uplands 5¼d; Orleans 6d.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27, noon.—Spots quiet. Middling, 10¼.

Heavy rains falling.

Congressman Springer's Presidential Term Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Representative Springer has introduced, for reference, in the House the proposed constitutional amendment making the Presidential term six years and rendering the President inelegible to re-election for the next succeeding term.

It provides for a direct vote for President in each State and abolishes the Electoral College.

Each State shall have a number of votes equal to the number of its Representatives and Senators in Congress to be given to each candidate in proportion to the total vote cast for each.

The term of Representative in Congress is fixed at three years, and Congress shall meet each year on the first Wednesday in January, the first session to convene in January succeeding the November election.

The Sugar Interest and the Tariff.

[Special to the Picayune.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Members of the Louisiana delegation are awaiting with anxiety the arrival of the representatives of the sugar interest, who are to appear before the Ways and Means Committee. It is not likely that this hearing will occur before this week. It is thought very strange that so little effort should have been made to protect so great an interest. No man can say that a proper effort and appeal would not have induced a revision of the Morrison bill and a recognition of the sugar duty as a revenue article and not to be disturbed.

There is indeed a hope of beating the Morrison tariff bill, but no certainty of doing so. Prominent members who in private say they don't think the tariff question should be agitated, now also inform me that they will vote with the majority of the party if that majority is for the bill.

If the bill passes the House, the Senate is quite likely to amend it so as to throw the cutting down on the sugar interest, and such a bill may pass both branches and become a law. If the first step in the game be lost, all the rest may be lost, and the safe plan is to beat it in committee if possible. A good fight before the committee is a preliminary to a good fight before the House.

Vicksburgers in New Orleans

A reporter on the Sunday States chronicled the following in that paper of yesterday, as it was told to him by a prominent man at the City Hotel, in New Orleans:

Near yonder, seated together in earnest conversation, are two Mississippi gentlemen, W. K. Ingersoll, Esq., of Vicksburg, and W. S. Hamilton, son of Col. Jones S. Hamilton, of Jackson. Mr. Ingersoll is a lawyer by profession, but for the past two years has given considerable of his time and attention to his large planting interests. He owns a large tract of rich alluvial land in the bends above Vicksburg. Just now he is very much worried over the prospect of the overflow, which he thinks inevitable in his section of country. He is extremely earnest in his effort to explain to his friends how he will be overflowed this year and the ruinous consequences attending such a misfortune. But Mr. Hamilton was married only yesterday, and while he is courteous enough to lend a willing ear to Mr. I., his mind is a long distance off from the subject of overflows and legal technicalities. Mr. H. married Miss Julia Sullivan, a most beautiful and accomplished lady of Jackson, and the party are here on their bridal tour.

Another genial, social old soul is Commodore S. H. Parisot, who was around among his friends at the St. Charles last evening. "The Little Giant of the Yazoo" has been the Commodore's pseudonym for years; but at present, in addition to his Yazoo line of boats, he is running through boats to New Orleans. Besides, he is a planter on a large scale, and although all his land is more or less threatened with inundation just now, the "old man" is resigned, and at all times carries a heart for any fate, and a broad, great smile for those who are ill-natured enough to hate.

Webster's Unabridged Dictionary

Attention is called to the advertisement of this great work in this issue. There is no question, that Webster's is the best dictionary of the English language in the world; and the latest unabridged edition also contains an immense amount of other valuable information. A great man being asked by a youngster what were the best books to purchase for his library, answered: "The Bible, Shakespeare, and Webster's Dictionary." This dictionary is indispensable in printing offices and schools, but every family should also have a copy in the house. It is a great educator and worth ten times the moderate price charged for it.

The Biggs Levee.

The Biggs Levee, below, is now almost known to have been cut by some person or persons. If discovered the guilty party will find the climate of Louisiana too warm to be congenial. Assistant United States Engineer Coppee with a force of workmen is now engaged in repairing the cut. It will take two or three days to repair it sufficiently to prevent further wash.

Misplaced Switch.

An engine on the N. J. & C. Railroad was thrown from the track in the suburbs of Jackson at 6 o'clock this morning, and up-turned. The engineer was not injured but the fireman, a colored man, was seriously, and perhaps fatally hurt. The cause of the accident was a misplaced switch.

Hebrew Ladies Attention.

A special meeting of all Hebrew Ladies (married and unmarried) is called for to-morrow morning (Thursday) 10 o'clock at the Temple. Business of importance requires full and prompt attendance. H. M. BIEN.

The Railroad Shops.

AN ACT to authorize the city of Vicksburg, in this State to contract with the Memphis & Vicksburg Railroad Company, or such other railroad company as the Memphis & Vicksburg Railroad Company may hereafter become merged into or a part of, by consolidation or otherwise, for the location of the machine shops of said company at said city, and for other purposes.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi, That the city of Vicksburg, through its Board of Mayor and Aldermen, and the Memphis and Vicksburg Railroad Company, or such other railroad company as said Memphis and Vicksburg Railroad Company may hereafter become merged into or a part of by consolidation or otherwise, be and are hereby respectively authorized and empowered to enter into such contract or contracts with each other relative to the location and maintaining at said city of the railroad shops of said railroad company as they may mutually agree upon, together with such limitations, conditions, privileges, immunities, exemption from city taxation, settlement of all claims, disputes and demands of the one against the other, relinquishment of all bonds, subscriptions, stock certificates of either party now held or claimed by the other, rights of way through the streets of said city, closing of and discontinuing streets now open and dedicated to the public, and such other things as may be decided and mutually agreed on between said city of Vicksburg and said railroad company, and such contract or contracts, when reduced to writing and signed by the parties duly authorized thereto by the contracting parties, shall be in all respects valid and binding, and may be enforced by either party in any court having jurisdiction thereof.

Section 2. Be it further enacted, That said city may contract with said railroad company for an issue and delivery to said company of said city's bonds for such amount as may be agreed upon, and bearing such rate of interest and for such time to run as the parties may agree upon, and the election to authorize the issuance of said bonds may be held under the direction of the Board of Levee Commissioners, as provided for in an act entitled "An act to authorize the Board of Levee Commissioners of the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta to issue bonds for the purpose of building levees, and for other purposes," approved February 20th, 1884.

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Prof Phillips' Lecture at St. Michael's Hall Last Evening.

Last evening Prof. J. W. Phillips delivered the third of his course of lectures at St. Michael's Hall, which is connected with the church of the name of Annunciation Square. This learned gentleman stated last evening that he had been a minister in the Protestant Church for twenty-three years, and had left it for the Catholic Church, which he believed was the first and would be the last Church on this earth, because it was the only Church established by Christ.

In his lecture he stated that the Catholics believe that the Church and its priests are the means appointed by God for salvation,—not that they save men, for only the blood of Christ can do that. He also stated that the assertion made by Protestants that popery is a heresy, rests on neither Biblical nor historical bases, and is contrary to common sense. He asserted that Christ was a Catholic, as were Paul, Peter and all the apostles. Prof. Phillips quoted the Bible with great readiness and correctness, and seemed quite at home in ecclesiastical and profane history. His last lecture will be delivered at the same place on Thursday next, at 7:30 p.m.—N. O. Times-Democrat, 25th.

Drunkenness in Maine and Kansas.

Testimony from Maine and Kansas alike agree that drunkenness is prevalent in both Commonwealths, and that the sole result of legislation intended to end the sale of liquor has been to drive those engaged in it to carry on business in the dark. Prohibition, to be successful, must take away the demand for liquor, and this it cannot and does not do. Unless public sentiment is nearly unanimous on the point, prohibitory laws are impossible of enforcement, and where public sentiment is unanimously against liquor drinking, prohibitory legislation is not needed.—Newbury Register.

HON. A. B. HURT, of Winona, Miss., has been appointed a member of the General Committee of the International Forestry Exhibition at Edinburgh Scotland. While of course it will be impossible for Mr. Hurt to attend this great Exhibition, it is a high complement to be tendered the appointment, and we heartily congratulate our progressive and talented fellow-citizen upon this recognition of his worth and attainments. —Aberdeen Examiner.

JOURNALISM, under the beneficent rule of Austria, is not as simple an undertaking as in America. A Prague editor may not sleep till his morning edition is entirely delivered. Recently the first edition of a paper published in Prague was seized because seditious. The editor produced a second: this likewise was forbidden, and was followed quickly by a third containing an apology to subscribers for the trifling delay in delivery, and explaining the cause.

SOME of our State exchanges are inclined to grumble with our Legislature for not doing more work and pushing on the business already commenced. If they do so more than the remainder of the session than already accomplished they will deserve the unanimous praise of all their constituents for the good they have done—they have labored day and night to accomplish—nothing.—Houston Free South.

THE Mississippian indulges in the rare taste of placing a coffin auspiciously in its columns, with the inscription, Hic Jacet, Prohibition, Supervision, in large type. This is not very soothing to the advocates of the two leading, and popular measures of this session of the Legislature. Coffin hand bills were first used to damage Gen. Jackson, and they made him President, by disgusting even his enemies.—Port Gibson Reveille.

THE luckiest man on board the ill-fated City of Columbus was one rescued by the tug Speedwell. He had a baggage check in his pocket, and when the tug picked up a floating trunk he coolly produced his check and claimed his baggage. As there was a corresponding check on the trunk his claim was indisputable.

THE EVENING POST

PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CASHMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 27, 1884.

The bill of the Meridianites for the removal of the State capital, provides that the Governor's mansion and grounds, and the Capitol building and grounds at Jackson shall be sold and the proceeds applied to the erection of a Capitol building at Meridian. The Meridianites propose to be exceedingly "liberal" to themselves, with other people's money.

"Fair ways that are dark—
And tricks that are vain"
The Meridianites "are peculiar."

WHAT the Copiah investigation signifies, so far as it has gone, is what the Memphis has always maintained, and does still maintain, that the two races cannot live and exist harmoniously upon the same political plane.—Meridian Mercury.

And yet the Mercury and its fellow-citizens engaged in the scheme to remove the capital to that city, manage to "live and exist harmoniously upon the same political plane" with three negro citizens of that city whom they have sent to Jackson to assist the first delegation in lobbying the measure through the Legislature.

The great English statesman, John Bright, has written a letter on the question of our tariff to a friend in this country, in which he declares that our protective system has destroyed our mercantile marine.—Exchange.

Mr. Bright is a great man, but he probably knows more about English affairs than he does of affairs in this country. The tariff has built up the country, no matter what its effect upon our mercantile marine. We are inclined to think the big war of 20 years ago, which was precipitated by free trade Democrats and fomented by England, had more to with destroying our mercantile marine than the operations of the protective tariff.

It is reported that Senator Lamar advised the people of Copiah to denounce the murder of Matthews. The fact that they commended instead of denouncing this crime shows that there are but two ways to redeem Copiah, to-wit: 1. Precipitate a large body of civilized immigrants into the county. Or, 2. Induce a large emigration from the county. Congressional investigation offers no remedy.—Avalanche.

Now will the Port Gibson Reveille find fault with Senator Lamar for giving the Copiah people the same advice as up Wheeler to this paper, to terrify it for giving the Copiah people good advice.

Railroad Supervision.

Senator Reynolds several days since introduced a proposed amendment to the Constitution, as follows:

"Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Mississippi two-thirds of each House agreeing thereto, That it be and is hereby proposed to the electors of this State to vote at the next general election upon the approval or rejection of the following amendment as an additional section to article 12 of the constitution of the State of Mississippi, to-wit:

"The Legislature shall have power to appoint commissioners to supervise railroad corporations and to fix and regulate their rates, and to authorize them to make such rules and regulations as said commissioners may deem necessary.

"The Legislature shall by appropriate legislation give full amendment into effect the first session of the Legislature after the adoption of this amendment by a vote of the people."

Commenting on the above the Vicksburg Herald of this morning, February 27, 1884, says:

"We hope the Legislature will submit this proposition to the people at the polls, confident as we are that they will trample it under their feet. The gourd seed statesmen, and the narrow guage demagogues will have an opportunity to bowl once more, and then we shall have a long spell of most eloquent silence."

We are particular in giving the date of this last utterance of the Herald on the subject of railroad supervision. Five days ago, February 22, 1884, the Herald was with the "gourd-seed statesmen and narrow-gauge demagogues;" then it "howled" for the Legislative supervision of railroads in the following plain, unmistakable and emphatic words:

"What is NEEDED is to correct abuses in railroad management by laws that can be enforced by any citizen before any court. There should be no discrimination in freight and passage, and there should be a STRICT LAW against it."

Ingo and Williamson (and Governor Lowry) say about the same thing. They want to correct abuses in railroad management by law, and want a "strict law" against discrimination. There is no difference in principle between the supervisionists in the Legislature and the supervisionist of the Herald; the only difference is one of detail.

The Herald, however, seems to forget that the Legislature is the only law-making power we have in Mississippi. It wants railroad abuses corrected by law, and wants a "strict law" against railroad discriminations; and yet when the Legislature tried to pass laws to accomplish these very purposes, the Herald violently denounced and abused the Legislature.

The Herald affords the most marked illustration of "blowing hot and cold," or attempting to ride two horses going in opposite directions, that we have ever seen.

If the Meridian people should remove their Capital records and archives the Governor will be without a single document to be in the street. They would be Hospital Matters.

An examination of the register of New Orleans Charity Hospital for the year 1883, discloses the fact that 237 patients were admitted from the State of Mississippi. The proportion of this number who were actual citizens of this State we have no means of knowing. But that great charity of New Orleans should either be relieved of such a burden, or should be assisted, if it is continued. A State Hospital would be the best relief that could be afforded.—Clarion.

A State hospital would not only "be the best relief," but it is the sort of relief that should be afforded. It is a matter of duty no less than State pride, for Mississippi to provide for the care and treatment of its indigent sick. We are prone to believe our Legislature was favorably inclined to accept the very liberal donation of building and grounds offered by this city, and to provide for a State hospital here, but the jealousy and envy of our sister city of Natchez has probably prevented the establishment of a State hospital at all. We would not have been surprised if "want-all" Meridian had manifested this disposition, but we expected better things from Natchez.

The above figures from the Clarion show the necessity for a State hospital, and we trust the Legislature will yet take action looking to its establishment.

What is the use of promoting the encouragement of immigration if we can not or do not provide for the wants and necessities of the people we already have? Never fear that immigration will not come fast enough when we can offer sufficient inducements to people to come here. When there is an opportunity for people to better their condition, to become prosperous, to receive protection to life and liberty, and care is extended to the afflicted and unfortunate in Mississippi, then we cannot keep immigrants out of the State; they will come fast enough.

Then why not relieve New Orleans of the burden of providing for the indigent sick of Mississippi? Instead of making an appropriation for the "worked up" scheme of the Cotton Exposition at New Orleans, ostensibly for the purpose of encouraging immigration to Mississippi, it will be far better to divert the "show" appropriation to the establishment of a State Hospital.

Supervision.

Supervision without supervisors is what we favor. Take the recusant corporations to the courts. In that arena all wrongs are remedied, all rights are substantiated. Supervisors are costly ornaments, and like the Cabbage College, at Starkville, and Col. Chief-of-Staff Morehead's Dunnybrook Fair Centennial, at New Orleans, they are useless ornaments—or as the court would say, "vain things."—Port Gibson Reveille.

How to Run Newspapers.

A newspaper is a business enterprise and is dependent for success upon its business management just as every other business is. Its success depends upon the support of the public, which it can only secure by giving to the public what it demands. In the first place it must be the news of the day, and in the second place reliable and unprejudiced comments on matters in which the whole public is interested. When a paper becomes personal, or when it becomes the organ of any personal clique or ring, when it becomes subservient to any individual or ring, it loses its interest for the general reader and confidence in it is destroyed.

A newspaper is the property of its proprietors just as much as is the grocery or dry goods store of any individual merchant, and their work for the public is controlled in a great measure by what is conducive to their own interest. It is as great a mistake to believe that the public have any peculiar property in a newspaper as it is to claim for it property in a mercantile or any other kind of a business establishment. If the owner of a printing office has not the ability or the capital to make his business a success he need not depend upon the public to help him out of his difficulties. "Community" newspapers, therefore, will rarely if ever be successful.

Joint stock companies may own successful papers, but it will only be when they select able and competent persons to whom the control and management of their papers are entrusted. Financial skill must be connected with editorial ability. Indeed the former is more essential than the latter, for money can always secure brain, but brain is often sadly deficient in money. Our Meridian friends, if they wish to make a first-class daily paper, after getting their capital paid in must keep the sixty-one stockholders severely out of the paper and entrust it to one good head, whose principal object will not be to please them all.—Natchez Democrat.

It is well enough for the Clarion to deny the responsibility of the State for the action of the few individuals in Copiah county, which with all allowances made for the exaggerated testimony of some of the witnesses is, as that paper says, "bad enough." But the people of other States will hold the State responsible for the bad acts of these men, as they will hold it responsible for the barbarity of some of the keepers of the penitentiary and county convicts. The State will have to bear the blame because the laws of the State have not punished the crimes committed by its citizens. Proper investigation by the constituted authorities of the State would obviate any excuse for investigation by hostile outsiders.—Natchez Democrat.

A SECOND motion to sell was had concerning the old Capitol building, and after a good deal of lively pulling and hauling on the part of the friends of both sides, the motion was carried by a vote of 61 to 58. The building will be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, and the proceeds will be applied to the erection of a new Capitol building at Meridian.—Meridian Mercury.

Watterson, of Louisville Courier-Journal, wants "protection" for the New York Associated Press monopoly and the big newspapers that are connected with it. He has prepared a bill to be introduced in Congress, copyrighting the newspapers that take the New York Association's dispatches. Mr. Watterson howls against "protection" for the labor and industries of this country from the competition of the pauper labor of foreign monarchies and despotisms, but he wants "protection" for the New York Associated Press monopoly. He wants the products of this monopoly protected even after they have been sold or retailed to the public, and that is a greater extreme of "protection" than has ever been asked for by the most ardent protectionist in the country. Mr. Watterson is the same wild and fanatical enthusiast that proposed to take 100,000 Kentuckians to Washington to install fraudulent S. J. Tilden.

THE little VICKSBURG POST doesn't seem to take much stock in Col. F. C. Morehead. Well, we don't suppose the Colonel will cry.—Port Gibson News.

It is hardly necessary to state the above is from a patent-outside papers, a paper that is even smaller than the patent-medicine Tupelo Journal. The News is so insignificant that the Board of Supervisors of Claiborne county would not give it the county printing on the lowest bid. We commended the Supervisors for their sensible action for the reason that the News is a patent-outside paper. This made the News angry, and now it "hurrahs" for its prototype, the patent-medicine Tupelo Journal.

The Legislature would do a good thing to pass a law that no publication shall be considered legal that is printed in a patent outside or inside paper. This is the law in some States. These patent-side papers are "frauds" to the extent that they pretend to print a paper in the towns from which they are dated, whereas the biggest half of them is printed in St. Louis or Chicago. Chicago and St. Louis should not be encouraged by allowing Missisippi legal advertisements to appear in these frauds.

Costly Ornaments.

Supervision without supervisors is what we favor. Take the recusant corporations to the courts. In that arena all wrongs are remedied, all rights are substantiated. Supervisors are costly ornaments, and like the Cabbage College, at Starkville, and Col. Chief-of-Staff Morehead's Dunnybrook Fair Centennial, at New Orleans, they are useless ornaments—or as the court would say, "vain things."—Port Gibson Reveille.

Charter of Incorporation of John F. Halpin Company.

SECTION 1. Be it known, That Wilhelmina M. Halpin, John Meier and John J. Ryan, and such others as may become associated with them, are hereby constituted a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of JOHN F. HALPIN COMPANY, and by and under that name shall have perpetual existence as such body corporate from and after the approval of this Charter.

Sec. 2. Said corporation is created for the purpose of carrying on the business of Cotton Factors, Wholesale and Retail Grocers and Liquor Dealers, and the planting of cotton and other agricultural products in connection therewith, in the State of Mississippi; and shall have power to acquire, own, sell or lease real and personal property, or any interest therein to any amount; to carry on any mercantile, banking or other business in connection therewith; To acquire, construct, own, use and dispose of any boats, vessels, transways, or other means of transportation for merchandise and their work for the public business; to lend and borrow money, and make and take all kinds of securities therefor; and generally to do all things necessary or convenient to be done for the carrying on of its business, which a natural person might do, not repugnant to the laws of the State where such business is carried on.

Sec. 3. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 38 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and the Act extending the provisions thereof, approved March 7, 1882, to be granted to corporations organized under the provisions of said Chapter, are hereby granted to and shall be enjoyed by this corporation.

Sec. 4. The capital stock of said corporation shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, and may be increased to any amount in such manner as may be provided by the by-laws of the Company. The stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be evidenced by certificates, transferable in such manner as may be prescribed by the by-laws. Each share of stock shall be entitled to one vote in stockholders' meetings.

Sec. 5. Said Company shall have power to issue its fully paid up stock, and its bonds, notes and other obligations, in payment for property purchased, services rendered, or other valuable consideration, as may be agreed upon between said Company and the persons dealing with it; and no holder of such paid up stock shall be liable to any further assessment for any of the debts of the Company; nor shall any stockholder be liable for the debts of the Company beyond the amount of the unpaid portion of his stock.

Sec 6. The business of the Company shall be managed by a Board of Directors, the number of whom and the manner of electing them shall be prescribed by the by-laws. The domicil of the Company shall be the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, but may be changed at any time by vote of the stockholders and stockholders or Directors' meetings may be lawfully held at all corporate acts and powers executed at any place out of this State which may be designated by the by-laws for such purposes. All resolutions touching the meetings of stockholders and directors, and the election of officers shall be fixed by the by-laws.

Sec. 7. Any three of the persons mentioned shall be authorized to open books of subscription to the capital stock of said Company for the purpose of receiving subscriptions for stock, by publishing a notice of such time and place for opening such books of subscription in the Vicksburg Herald, a newspaper published in the city of Vicksburg, Mississippi, for ten days, and by posting a like notice at the Court House door of Warren county, Mississippi, for ten days, and at such time and place, or any time thereafter, any person may subscribe for such stock, and the Board of Directors may receive subscriptions for such stock, and may require payment thereof in such manner as they may deem proper.

Sec. 8. This Charter shall take effect from and after its passage.

St. Louis—City of Helena, 11 a.m.
Greenville—Issaquena, 5 p.m.

NOTES.

The Naomi and barges are due from Yazoo river with 3500 sacks seed.

The Jay Gould and barges passed up yesterday morning at 10 o'clock for St. Louis.

The John F. Halpin leaves promptly at 9 o'clock a.m., for Davis Bend, and way landings.

The Capt. Miller is overdue this evening. She will no doubt be in to-day again to-day.

The Joe Williams with a tow of empty coal data passed up this morning for Vicksburg at 6 o'clock.

The Chas. D. Shaw will be found at the landing in this morning, and leaves promptly at 8 o'clock for Natchez.

The steamer Hard Cash got away on her regular yesterday evening with a very large freight and a fine list of passengers. The DeSmet departed promptly on time yesterday for Belzoni. She will be promptly Friday evening at 5 o'clock.

The Helena gets 80 bales of cotton for shipping from the steamer Headlight and 500 barrels of oil from the Refugo for St. Louis.

Capt. Ed. G. Crump, the popular cashier of the Wharfboat, went out to-day in the office of the City of Yazoo for New Orleans. He will return from that city to-day.

The John A. Scudder passed up yesterday morning at 12 o'clock for St. Louis.

The Annie P. Silver passed down from St. Louis to New Orleans at 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

The big P line steamer City of Yazoo left at noon to-day for New Orleans, with 1,500 bales cotton, 1,200 sacks of seed, 500 sacks of meal, 1,060 sacks oil cake, 1,000 barrels oil, 6970 oak staves.

The popular and ever reliable Inebriating finished putting up her repairs yesterday and will leave for Yazoo at 5 o'clock to-morrow evening for Belzoni and all land landings.

The Mississippi senator, Frank Jones, Hendrickson and Barteroux

The tributary and barges arrived from Washington at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and left for Warren Mills at 9 o'clock. The tributary will leave for Washington at 4 o'clock this evening.

A GEORGIA woman has sued for a divorce from her husband because he objected to her the combination to his safe.

A WOMAN at Canton, Texas, who was married a few days ago, presented her husband with a pair of twins on the day of the wedding.

The W. T. Thompson arrived early this morning from Sunflower with a large number of people. She has been up there with a large lot of lumber and other material for the Illawara Levee. She is receiving to-day and will leave at 4 o'clock this evening for all upper down landings as high as Grand Lake.

The Ike Bonham arrived from Little Deer Creek at 12 o'clock last night, having two barges in tow. On boat and barges were 123 bales of cotton for New Orleans, 35 bales for Willis Moore & Co., 5 bales for P. H. Gilbert, 5 bales for Sussman & Metzger, 900 sacks of seed for Warren Mills and 3,626 sacks of seed for New Orleans. She returns to Little Deer Creek to-morrow, leaving at 4 p.m.

The steamers arriving here with cotton and freight are having great difficulty in finding places to discharge their cargoes. The Headlight discharged at the Planters Cotton Press, and the Ike Bonham and barges at Fox's foundry. These boats have to pay landing charges all the same. It is a great wonder the steamboatmen don't combine against the outrage.

The Anchor Line steamer City of Helena arrived at four p.m. yesterday, with a big trip—3,800 packages, and a large list of passengers. She reshipped 80 bales of cotton on the Natchez for New Orleans. The Helena will be the regular U. S. Mail packet leaving here at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning for St. Louis, making close connection at Arkansas City, Memphis and Cairo, with railroads for all points. Capt. J. M. McCord master, and Rolla Porter clerk.

The Headlight arrived this morning from Birch's plant on Sunflower river 276 miles from here. She left here last Friday evening at 7 o'clock, and consequently reached the mouth of the Yazoo at 7 o'clock, after encountering the distance and the trip she came in with, the trip is a remarkable one. She had 243 bales of cotton for New Orleans, 80 bales for Memphis and 56 bales for Vicksburg, 358 sacks of seed cotton and 508 sacks of seed for the Warren Mills. She also had a big number of passengers. She is receiving and will leave promptly at 4 o'clock this evening for Sunflower river. Capt. J. W. Smith master, George H. Smith and John Smith clerk.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette suggests that one cause of the remarkable floods of the last two years is the introduction of cheap tile, which has enabled farmers to drain their lands much more thoroughly than has ever been done before. As a consequence the lowlands, which formerly absorbed great quantities of water, are now quickly drained, and the creeks are swollen into rivers and the rivers into devastating floods. Another correspondent suggests as a remedy for this condition of things the construction of ponds.

"Cooked his Goose."

Our notion is, that railroad supervision had its origin in a Democratic convention which inserted it in its platform. It had the sanction of some of the wisest and best men in the State, Barksdale, Walthall, Lamar and others, and if finally that plank has to go dead from Lowry's veto, he has effectually "cooked his goose."—Meridian Mercury.

We do not apprehend any danger from overflow so far as the levees in our neighborhood are concerned. What we have to fear, in our opinion, is the rising of the levees in the upper counties. The river here is rising very slowly and we can stand a good deal of water in our front yet. We hope for the best.—Mayersville Spectator.

A FARMER, who has carefully examined every protective law enacted since 1861, and the price of foreign goods in our market, finds that they did not sell for any more after the duty was raised than before, that is to say, goods that are largely made in this country. For instance, a yard of woolen cloth that cost the farmer $1.25 per yard under free trade in 1860, cost him 84 cents under the protective tariff of 1881 on wool and woolen goods. In fact the British manufacturer paid these duties not the American farmer.

The law passed sixteen years ago for the gradual manumission of slaves in Cuba has been well administered. About 255,000 slaves have already been set free, and it is expected that ere the lapse of another year slavery will cease to exist on that island.

We are told that the Wilson Railroad folks have placed their crossing in the track of the N. J. & C. railroad, and will immediately erect a depot on the other line, going in the direction of Baton Rouge.—Natchez Democrat.

The Democratic papers refusing to put any plank or platform in their case, you are decided. Regardless of opposition of the Republicans, there is a very strong element of the Democracy that proposes to return to the pristine ways of the earlier and more honorable days of the Republic. There was no yea and nay vote, but it is believed that Cox, Randall, and men of that stripe voted against the recognition of the disgraceful certificate. Gov. Lowry may shield himself behind a technicality, but it will always be a matter of record that he, as Governor of the State, gave a certificate of election to Congress, to a person he knew of his own official knowledge, not to have been elected. Now that a Democratic Convention has refused recognition where the technical or prima facia right was far more strong, let the whole matter be buried. The contest on the merits will come up at an early day, and it is a question of the highest privilege, and the same vote that refused to seat a man, even with credentials, will seat a man who was elected, even in the absence of the documents completed by our constitution and laws.—Greenville Review.

Indian Profanity.

To the Editor of the Boston Journal:

The following appears among your Current Notes to-day:

"When an Indian wants to swear,' said a lecturer recently, 'he must learn the English language to do so, as there is nothing in his own language he can use in taking the name of the Great Spirit in vain.'"

The lecturer was not exactly correct. Although the Indians did not know how to swear when the white men came they soon learned to swear, and had sufficient words in their language for the purpose. Eliot, in the Indian Bible, uses the Indian word Osh (My Father) for Creator, etc., and the early missionaries, when addressing the Indians used Gosh (your Father). The Indians soon saw that was the necessary word for profanity and adopted it. Gosh is in use to some extent now, and perhaps some pious people who say "gosh" are not aware that it is downright swearing in the Indian language. KEENETONESS.

The Democrat Committee.

The action and tone of the Democratic National Committee on the 22d was eminently conservative. Their proceedings were on a wholly different line from the madcaps and extremists in the House of Representatives, who are doing their level best to render impossible the election of a Democratic President. The attempt was made by a Western member to have the Committee usurp the prerogative of the National Convention and to lay down a platform for the party. This ingenious statesman wanted to run the Watterson tariff into the call for the Convention. Mr. Barbour, of Virginia, the leader of the Virginia Democracy, protested against it, and the Committee sat down on the Nebraska statesman by an overwhelming vote.—Picayune special.

Call for the National Democratic Convention.

The National Democratic Committee, having met in the city of Washington on the 22d day of February, 1884, has appointed Tuesday the 8th day of July next, at noon, as the time, and the city of Chicago as the place, for holding the National Democratic Convention. Each State is entitled to a representation therein equal to double the number of its Senators and Representatives in the Congress of the United States. The Democrats of each organized Territory and the District of Columbia are invited to send two delegates, subject to the decision of the Convention as to their admission. All Democratic conservative citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in the effort for pure, economical and constitutional Government, are cordially invited to join in sending delegates to the Convention.

Gamblers War.

The testimony of a number of persons who were eye witnesses of the recent affray between the gamblers at Hot Springs shows that the first shot was fired from the back of Frank Flynn and that the Flynns started out for a shooting match with the Dorans. A correspondent of the Arkansas Democrat says: "Whatever is the result of the trial, the whole thing is exceedingly unfortunate for this community. It is a gambler's war, and has its foundation in this illegal criminal calling. The people are exasperated and express a determination to suppress gambling houses here. But will they do it? We fear not, thus leaving these fruitful fountains of strife and bloodshed open to deluge the community in subsequent riots and lawlessness."

IT WAS with exceeding regret that we heard yesterday of the death in Vicksburg of Mrs. Mary Hennessee. The deceased spent the most of her childhood in this city, and was just budding into useful womanhood when her parents removed to Vicksburg, where she married. She was the sister of Messrs. P. W. and Ed. Mulvihill, of Natchez, and was well known and much beloved by most of the young folks of this city. With a warm, generous heart, her hand was ever open to the calls of charity, but her native womanly modesty concealed her good deeds, and it was only those nearest to her who knew more of Christian virtues. Our regret at her untimely death is deep and genuine, for not only is a good woman gone, but a friend has been cut down by the ruthless hand of death.—Natchez Democrat.

A PUBLIC meeting was held at the City Hall yesterday, to consider the proposed removal of the Penn Plaza to Meridian. Hon. D. N. Barrows presided, Messrs. O. Virden acting as Secretary. Messrs. S. Green, T. Rayner, W. Wilson and E. Jayne acted as Vice Presidents. Col. appointed a committee to wait on the Governor to the Legislature, and request the same to be postponed for one week. The committee will leave this evening.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree pays the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness. It enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg is likely to occur than that now presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

LOCAL ITEMS.

THE Board of Mayor and Aldermen meet Monday night.

MR. B. GOODMAN, of Rolling Fork, is in the city to-day.

MR. WM. GIBBONS, a prominent planter of Deer Creek, is in the city.

MR. I. HARDY, General Agent of the V. & M. R. R., left last night for St. Louis.

MR. CURTIS SMITH, formerly of the Vicksburg Bank, was in the city yesterday.

DR. F. T. GAYDEN and Mr. George N. Langford, of Brandon, are in the city to-day.

THE steamer Headlight will leave at 12 o'clock to-morrow, Thursday, for Sunflower river.

MRS. MURRAY F. SMITH and family departed for New Orleans by the City of Yazoo to-day.

SUPERINTENDENT JACKSON, of the Vicksburg Telephone Exchange, is busy erecting poles on Cherry street.

FRANK MABRIN, who shot Peter Nelson at Eureka some days since, is now confined in the jail at Greenville.

A YOUNG man of good social standing was arrested last night on Washington street for carrying concealed weapons.

MR. MATTHEW AIKEN and Misses N. B. & L. A. Aiken, of Canton, were registered at the Pacific House yesterday.

ASSISTANT ENGINEER H. ST. L. COPPEE got 1,000 sacks from Mr. Phil. Hickey to be used on the Biggs break near Delta.

THE switch on the V. & M. R. R., between the Elevator and the Planter's Compress, is being repaired with a steam pile-driver.

THE artesian well being sunk by the Flowerree Ice Company on the levee, has reached a depth of nearly 550 feet, and they are still boring.

THE Amaranth Social Club intend giving a grand masque ball before long. If they do, everybody can look for a good time, as their balls are always successful.

JUDGE MONTGOMERY, of Lake Providence, arrived by train from New Orleans this morning and leaves for home this evening by the steamer W. P. Thompson.

THE Issaquena will have her smokestacks and beecching up in time to leave at her regular hour to-morrow evening, in spite of reports circulated to the contrary.

GEN. SOL. COHEN, of the firm of Fader Frank & Co. of Memphis, arrived from the Sunflower county on the steamer Headlight this morning and leaves for home by rail to-night.

JUDGE C. C. CORDILL of Concordia Parish, La., was in the city this morning and left for home on the City of Yazoo to-day. He reports levee matters in a favorable condition below here.

AS SOON as the chances are all taken, a fine gold watch will be raffled off at Keefe's drug store, the chances costing only $1. Do not fail to secure one immediately, as this watch is a handsome and reliable time-keeper.

JOHN JOINER, a brakeman on the V. & M. R. R., whose home was at Chunkey, Miss., who was so severely injured a few days ago, had his arm amputated yesterday at Jackson, by Dr. Craft. All efforts to save his life, however, were in vain, and he died in that city at 11 o'clock last night.

JUDGE W. G. WYLY, of Lake Providence, was a passenger to this city by the steamer Thompson this morning. He reports the line of Goodrich's levees intact so far, and from the substantial work being done upon them it begins to look as if they would be able to hold against the pressure of water. The lumber and material taken up there will enable the parties at work to rowel about ten miles of the levees. This, it is thought, will be sufficient to secure the safety of the levees in that section.

JOHN GRAHAM, a boy living on Washington street, was arrested last night on Washington street for carrying concealed weapons.

MR. MATTHEW AIKEN and Misses N. B. & L. A. Aiken, of Canton, were registered at the Pacific House yesterday.

ASSISTANT ENGINEER H. ST. L. COPPEE got 1,000 sacks from Mr. Phil. Hickey to be used on the Biggs break near Delta.

Two Children Crushed by Street Cars in New Orleans.

The carelessness of the New Orleans Street Railway drivers is always very noticeable, and it is to be wondered at that some fatal accident does not happen thereby every day. On Sunday two little innocent children were run over and fatally crushed by the street cars. One of them, Henry Bock, not two years old, was injured at 4:45 Sunday evening, and died about an hour later. The other accident occured at another place, and James Clifford Irby, age six years was the victim. He died within a few minuts after being injured. The driver of the car which ran over the latter named, was arrested. The little fellow was from Helena, Ark., and in company with his aunt was in the city to see the Mardi Gras carnival. Something should be done that would make the drivers more careful. In no other city are they so careless and regardless of life or lives as in New Orleans.

The Ball Last Night.

A light-hearted and merry crowd gathered at Magnolia Hall last night for the purpose of participating in the festivities of the Volunteer Southrons' ball and supper. At an early hour the young folks were whirling in the dizzy mazes of the dance, and after a waltz the floor was cleared and Capt. Searles gave the command, "Fall in." A splendid body of men formed in the hall and gave an exhibition drill in the manual of arms that the oldest veterans in the regular army would have been proud of. With clock-work regularity the commands of their gallant and efficient Captain were executed, and when the command "Break ranks" was given the spectators burst forth in a storm of applause.

Then there was more dancing, and at about eleven o'clock supper was announced, and it would have satisfied the most fastidious eye or appetite. Dancing was continued, and all present enjoyed themselves immensely. A number of the members of the Vicksburg Rifles were present in their uniforms, and with the blue of the Southrons, the gray of the Rifles and the beautiful costumes of the handsome ladies, the Hall, the walls of which were elegantly decorated with flags, presented a charming picture to the eye. The Southrons Ball of last night will long be remembered as a prominent and pleasant event by Vicksburg society.

All Night.

I have now a night clerk at my Drug-store, who will be ready and willing to wait on the people at all hours during the night, and hereby save those in want of medicine a long walk up the hill, and where they can purchase medicine just as cheap, and just as pure and fresh as at any other house in the city

THE EVENING POST

PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CASHMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 26, 1881.

THE river at Shreveport is higher than at any time for the last 35 years.

HON. CHAS. CUMMIN, Mayor of Brookhaven, Miss., died in that city last Monday.

SIMON MARX, one of the oldest merchants of Monroe, has made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors.

MR. PAYNE, the Senator-elect from Ohio, says he is not a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

MR. J. P. BILLUPS has been expelled from his membership in the New York Cotton Exchange. Mr. Billups was from Columbus, in this State.

THE National Democratic Committee held its recent session with closed doors. The Republican National Committee held its session with open doors. Why this difference?

RANDALL and "protection for home industries;" a Western man and "river improvement," is the ticket for the Democrats to nominate for President and Vice-President—that is, if they wish to succeed.

THE New York Morning Journal has reached a circulation of 100,000. It is what the patent-inside Tupelo Journal and Port Gibson News would call a "rip-ip" paper. It seems to be immensely popular nevertheless.

IT is said that McDonald and Bayard have formed an offensive and defensive alliance for the Democratic Presidential nomination. There is too much free-trade flavor about each of them to suit the present temper of the people of this great country.

THE Alabamians are agitating the removal of the State capital from Montgomery to Birmingham. Meridian might now set up a claim for this capital also—it is close enough to Alabama. There is nothing like enterprise—at other people's expense.

THE Hot Springs Citizens Committee are driving the gamblers out of that community. A successful effort is now being made to stop the nefarious business in the great city of New York. In Vicksburg the gamblers are probably "holding their own" pretty well.

THE State of New Jersey has followed the example of New York and abolished the contract system in its State prison. The Legislature of Mississippi must do something at this session in regard to the contract or lease system that prevails in this State, and which results in such inhumanity and outrage that it is a shame and disgrace to the boasted civilization of the nineteenth century.

LEGISLATORS are getting impatient. The main business can be disposed of in five or six days, and we see no obstacle in the way of an early adjournment—that is, of course, after the 4th of March, at furthest—except the bills of locals in which members say are on the calendar. Local legislation is increasing every year and we have long been of opinion that more general and less local legislation would curtail the expenses of the legislative department.—Clarion.

IT is not the Clarion getting "mighty bold?" The above is the severest criticism we remember it ever to have made upon a Democratic Legislature.

THE expenditures of the State government for the past two years exceeded the receipts nearly $400,000.—Chickasaw Messenger.

The only encouraging thing about it is that it will necessitate some retrenchment by the Legislature, and that our lawmakers will not have the hardihood to make an appropriation for the humbug scheme for the New Orleans Cotton Exposition. The Exposition in itself may be all right and a good thing—for New Orleans—but the plan to get Mississippi to make a $50,000 appropriation for it is a bad scheme that has been "worked up," and the Legislature should promptly squelch it.

OverSow—A Warning.

MR. J. B. MILES, of Helena, Ark., who is considered authority in matters pertaining to the Mississippi river, sends us the following important communication in regard to the stage of water. He predicts a greater overflow in the Yazoo basin than last year, and planters in that section will do well to make preparations accordingly:

HELENA, ARK., Feb. 25, 1881.

The river has come to a stand at 35 feet, about the same day it last year. The rise in the liberty of one foot per week has been maintained with remarkable regularity. The Levees in the Yazoo basin are not in as good condition as last year, and the water will be higher on various portions of the levees. Many of the Meridian folks are reasonable in the removal except that "they want it." The Post is poorly informed, evidently; but if the capital is to be moved and Meridian is willing to bear the expense of putting up a new State-house, it will strike the people that is a reason not to be despised. We assure THE POST that Meridian will do all she engages to do.

As for the Insane Asylum, Meridian's pledge was faithfully kept, and any embarrassment about that structure, if any there be, is no more chargeable to the people of Meridian than to those of Vicksburg.—Meridian Observer.

If the Observer will read the Meridianites' bill introduced into the Legislature, for the removal of the capital, it will find the bill provides that not only the capitol building, but the Governor's mansion as well, at Jackson shall be sold, and the proceeds applied to the erection of a capitol building at Meridian. From this bill, it appears the Meridianites are not even willing to bear the expense of erecting a capitol building.

In regard to the Insane Asylum matter, we give the following extract from the report of the special Committee of the present Legislature to visit and inspect the structure at Meridian:

"One of the Building Committee informed your Committee that in making the present contract, they knowingly violated the law under which they were appointed, and kept the fact from the knowledge of the Governor and Treasurer, believing, as he said, if these officials had known that the work was being done under a contract made in violation of law, the Governor would not have approved the bills submitted to him, and the Treasurer would not have paid them."

The report further shows that an additional appropriation of $51,500 will be required to complete the buildings. Now will the Observer inform us who compose the Building Committee, and if it was not the Meridian influence that caused these functionaries to "knowingly and willfully violate the law?

The sad experience of the State with this public building at Meridian is sufficient cause to view with distrust any propositions for other public expenditures in that city.

Railroad Supervision.

"The condition of settlers at a distance from the railroads is really deplorable," writes a new settler in Manitoba. Some of the citizens of Mississippi are yet at a distance from railroads. Our Legislature should do nothing to discourage the building of railroads, but the regulation of the railroads by law, as advocated by the Vicksburg Herald, will certainly do this. The condition of our citizens who have railroad facilities is far more desirable in every respect than that of those who are at a distance from the railroads.

Let the members of the Legislature think over these facts. Further, let them bear in mind that the Vicksburg Herald is in favor of regulating the railroads by law, and in favor of a strict law against discrimination, and we think they cannot find it in their hearts and consciences to pass a law interfering with the railroads at all.

A few more railroads in this State, and competition will remedy everything now complained of.

MRS. GARFIELD has deemed it the fitting thing to write a letter to Mr. Horr, of Michigan, thanking him for his speech against the bill for the relief of Gen. Fitz John Porter. Horr's speech was like the man, coarse, violent, vulgar and brutal, and Crete" would have been engaged in much better business than writing this letter if she had been darning the stockings of Grandmother Garfield. It will do the widow of Garfield no harm to understand that her letters on any subject are not of surpassing, overwhelming interest to the people of the United States. She can maintain unbroken silence without the slightest fear of another "great rebellion."—Vicksburg Herald.

The above attack on the respected widow of the lamented Garfield is characteristic of the source from which it emanates. Mr. Horr is one of the ablest members of the House, and he made a most eloquent speech against the passage of the bill for the relief of Gen. Porter. Mrs. Garfield thanked him because he defended the conduct and character of her husband in his connection with the Porter case. The attributes applied by the Herald to Mr. Horr will be accorded, by all intelligent and impartial people, to the Herald's attack upon Mrs. Garfield.

John B. Lynch.

John B. Lynch was made Vice-President of the Mississippi River Convention for the State of Mississippi. This was very complimentary, to John, but Mississippi has nothing to boast of on account of it.

We clip the above from the Yazoo Sentinel only to say that in our opinion Mississippi has something to boast of in the appointment of Mr. Lynch. He was a slave in Mississippi, born in Adams county, we believe, and, after getting his freedom he remained at his old home, among his old people, who are held him in the highest esteem. We have no use for him politically, but he is the most talented negro in the republic, and a gentleman in every sense of the word. He is the Frederick Douglass of the Mississippi River Convention he was a leading man, and was interested in with great attention.—Port Gibson Herald.

The Reveille says the Democratic Executive Committee of Carroll county has called a convention to meet on the 19th inst. to nominate candidates for county offices.

The Vicksburg Post says Mr. Meridian folks can see no reason for the removal except that "they want it." THE POST is poorly informed, evidently; but if the capital is to be moved and Meridian is willing to bear the expense of putting up a new State-house, it will strike the people that is a reason not to be despised. We assure THE POST that Meridian will do all she engages to do.

MR. HENRY B. PAYNE, of Ohio, is over 70 years of age, and has consequently lived a good while; but he has done nothing that we know of that better entitles him to the favorable consideration of the country than his declaration that he is not and will not be a candidate for President. Let him stick to that.—Philadelphia Record (Dem.)

The Penitentiary.

The Legislative committee appointed to investigate the Penitentiary have made a report. It is published in the Jackson papers, and reveals a very bad state of affairs, fully establishing the charges upon which the Legislature acted in appointing the Committee, and proving the necessity for prompt and efficient steps in the direction of reform. Abuses of almost every description are shown to exist, the convicts are proven to be badly, inhumanly treated, and the system of managing the penitentiary, which has been in force in this State for years, is made out to be the worst that could possibly have been devised.

Reports, made by officers of the penitentiary, heretofore published, establish the fact that the death rate among the convicts of Mississippi is very much higher than that among the convicts of any other State in the Union. The mortality among this unfortunate class in this State is simply fearful to contemplate. The lessee system is the cause, is generally admitted. This report of the Legislative Committee, in fact, charges as much, when it compares the condition of the convicts inside the wall of the penitentiary, with that of convicts outside. What is required, therefore, is that the lessee system be done away with altogether, and that the State take charge of its convicts. The Legislative Committee have come to this conclusion as will be seen from the recommendation they make in the extract from their report which we give below:

"They recommend a law, be passed requiring the State to purchase lands in at least two other places in the State for the erection of prisons and farms in different portions of the State and the working of the convicts on the State plantations under the eye and supervision of bonded State officers, and that the money now on hand belonging to the Penitentiary fund, and the amount required to be paid in and now due be used to that end. They advise that certain penalties prescribed for minor offenses be so fixed that while they will still remain effective and certain our Penitentiary may not be filled with crimes minor in their nature."

The suggestion in reference to penalties prescribed for minor offenses is a good one, and if acted on will bring good results. If a law were passed requiring counties to retain persons convicted of minor offences for work on public roads, the penitentiary would not be crowded as it is now, and the main argument in justification of the lessee system would be removed. In fact if such a law were adopted there would probably soon be no need for the State's purchasing lands or erecting prisons, as recommended by the committee, as the penitentiary building at Jackson would be found sufficient to accomodate those convicted of the higher grades of crimes.

Two steps, at all events, should be taken by the Legislature, and they are pointed out by this report. The lessee system, barbarous to the last degree, should be done away with, the State should take exclusive charge of its convicts, and a law in reference to minor offenses like that we have indicated, should be adopted. A satisfactory solution of this penitentiary question, which as it now stands is a blot on the State, would follow.—Columbus Index.

Our Disgraceful Convict System.

The convict system of the State is a disgrace to the age, and the convict system of the counties and municipal incorporations is but little better. The convict system of the State is slavery with the power to kill the slave, and the convict system of the counties is but little short of that. Of the horrors of the State convict system we need only to refer to the Governor's message and to the newspapers records of crimes in convict camps. The Governor's message sets forth that 15 per cent. of the convicts, not in the penitentiary but hired out, die annually.

Of the cruelty of the county convict system, each county affords ample proof. A man put in jail until a $50 fine is paid and hired out to the dealers in convicts, is a slave for not less than five years. His earnings—deducting board, sick days, rainy days, Sundays, medicines, etc.,—will net not over $5 per month, and at the end of the journey he is lamed or maimed and ready for the grave.

A prisoner's fine of $10 in one of the little incorporated towns is good for six months or longer, his servitude being very much at the option of the fuse-and-feathers-fellow that totes the bludgeon of authority.

Years ago we denounced the system, and we warned the Democratic party that the the time would come when an indignant people would rise up and drive from power a party that would tolerate such a system.

Besides its corporeal cruelty, it is a mockery of the law. A Judge solemnly sentences a prisoner to the penitentiary knowing that the sentence is a lie—not his fault, or his lie, but the fault and the falsehood authorized by the statute. The prisoner sent to the penitentiary reaches Jobes's camp or some other death-den. He never sees the penitentiary, nor is he intended he should see it.—Port Gibson Reveille.

"Why have you discontinued the publication of your paper?" was asked of the editor of the Weekly Mouth-Piece. "Well, you see, several weeks ago I was taken sick and was confined to mine an hour with great attention.—Port Gibson Herald.

THE SATISFACTION

Of sitting under one's own vine and fig tree is one of the largest dividend of any investment. It is the best kind of life insurance. It is the best medicine in sickness, it enables a man to die easier, and robs death of one of the principal terrors to know that the loved ones we must leave behind us have a roof of their own over their heads which cannot be taken from them.

If you cannot buy a house and lot, you can at least make a commencement by investing $25 in a lot in Speed's Addition, and pay the balance in $5 monthly installments. No better opportunity to buy a home or to make a safe investment in Vicksburg property. Only less than one presented by the unprecedented terms upon which these lots are sold. sep1

A New Manufacturing Enterprise.

We take pleasure in calling attention to the Charter of the "Riverview Company," which will be found in this issue, because we know such enterprises are sadly needed, and are certain to prove beneficial, in this section.

Thousands of dollars—nay hundreds of thousands—are annually sent to the North and West for the purchase of just such articles as the "Riverview" company proposes to manufacture and sell to better advantage right here at home.

The field to be entered upon by this manufacturing company is an entirely new one, and we cannot see how it will fail to prove profitable to its enterprising projectors. A vast quantity of products that have been comparatively worthless will be utilized and made profitable to producers.

The charter members of the company are well-known citizens, whose names and character are a guarantee of success.

We trust the new company will meet with all the encouragement and success which should be accorded to home enterprises and home industries.

A Cincinnati Paper's Tribute to a Vicksburger's Generosity.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette of Feb. 24th, speaks of Capt. E. C. Carroll, of our city as follows:

Capt. E. C. Carroll, Superintendent of Yazoo River Packet Company, (Parisot Line,) of Vicksburg, is one of nature's noblemen, and always comes to the fore in times of distress, knowing no North, no South, no East, no West, in his acts of charity. Last year he sent Royse & Mosset $50 for the sufferers by the flood, and this year $25, which amount was given to the needy of Newport, and distributed by their relief committee, our city having collected sufficient among our own citizens to relieve the wants of the needy.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Important Meeting at Capt. Chamberlin's Office this Morning.

The City School Board met at Capt. Chamberlin's office at 11 o'clock this morning for the purpose of reorganizing under the new school law recently passed by the present Legislature. Present—Trescott, Chamberlin, Richardson, Mount, Hanes and Short. Capt. W. M. Chamberlin was elected President of the Board and Mr. H. J. Trowbridge Clerk. The resignation of Trustee A. A. Trescott was read, and on motion, laid on the table.

The resignation of Mr. Frank Sterling as janitor of the Main Street School was read and accepted, and Mr. Eatman was appointed to fill the vacancy at a salary of $30 per month.

The various committees remain as heretofore.

The former teachers remain with unchanged salaries.

The resignation of Miss Laura Hanes was read and received.

A number of accounts were presented and allowed.

Miss Bessie Rundle and Miss Jennie Ware were elected to fill the vacancies in the Main Street School.

The clerk of the Board, Mr. H. J. Trowbridge, read a statement from his books, and it was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Board then adjourned.

Memphis Wants the Railroad Shops

Gov. Lowry has approved an Act "to authorize the city of Vicksburg to contract with the Memphis and Vicksburg Railroad Company, or such other railroad companies as may hereafter become merged into or part of said company by consolidation or otherwise for location of machine shops of said company at said city and for other purposes." And what is Memphis doing to secure these shops? It seems as if we approve the Act also, and prefer that our sister city should get the lead in this matter.—Memphis Ledger.

TO THE DEATH.

A Fight Between Harry Johnson and Police officer Harry Stith Results Fatally to Both.

Circumstances of the Killing—Scenes at the Scene of the Tragedy—The Coroner's Verdict.

Another terrible tragedy, such as have too often stained the history of Vicksburg, was enacted at about 5 o'clock last evening, on China street, but a few rods from Washington, and resulted in the almost instant death of one of the participants and the death of the other in a few minutes.

Harry Stith, colored, of the city police force, was one of the unfortunate men, and Harry Johnson, a steamboat engineer, was the other. The officer had arrested Johnson for committing a nuisance on the levee but a few minutes previous to the terrible tragedy, in which they were doomed so soon to act such prominent parts. Johnson had been drinking, but was not very drunk, and Mary McColeman, in whose house he had been stopping, had offered to go his bond. Stith had informed her that he had no authority to take bond, but she could bail Johnson out after he was taken to the work-house. The officer then started for the work-house with his prisoner, and no one noticed them until attention was attracted by the reports from the discharge of the policeman's revolver.

One of the first persons to arrive upon the scene was Mr. McQuade, night clerk at the LaMadrid Hotel. He took Stith's revolver out of his hand after he had fired the second or third shot. No one saw the beginning of the difficulty. Evidence is very plain, however, that Johnson cut Stith before any firing was done, as he (Johnson) fell immediately after the shooting, and therefore could not have done the cutting after the shooting. Johnson used a bowie knife, cutting a terrible gash in the officer in the region of the groin, severing the femoral artery. Johnson was killed by a ball which penetrated his body about four inches below the heart. He fell and expired without speaking.

Medical aid arrived on the scene in a few moments after the fight, and every attempt was made to save the officer. His wound was dressed and he was placed in an ambulance that had been hastily improvised out of an express wagon, preparatory to removing him to his home, but he expired before arriving there, and within a few minutes after leaving the scene of the tragedy.

Harry Stith had been on the police force for about eight years. He leaves behind the record of an efficient officer, and he fell at the post of duty. He leaves a wife and family.

Harry J. Johnson had been employed as an engineer on several of the local packets, and was last engaged, we believe, on the Headlight. He was about forty years old, and was a native of Cincinnati, where he has some relatives. He had been in numerous other cutting scrapes, among which our readers will remember the one in which he cut Henry Couch, down on the levee.

Johnson was evidently in some other trouble, as he had been heard to say on the morning of the day of his death that "he was tired of life." Although his landlady, Mary McColeman had offered to go on his bond when he was arrested, she had been to the police headquarters earlier in the day to have him arrested, saying that he had stolen $10 from her.

The scene of the tragedy, a few moments after the killing occurred, beggars description. The unfortunate victims of the fray, one of them lying pale and stiff in death, the other expiring in a pool of blood, presented a ghastly sight. The wails and sobs of the wife of the dying policeman were heart-rending, and added to the terror of the situation, and in a few minutes a crowd had gathered so densely as to make it very difficult to get near the bodies.

AT THE INQUEST,

Held by Coronor Rainwater over the remains of the dead men, a number of witnesses were examined. The only one who had observed the difficulty was Nathan Smith, colored, a cook employed at the La Madrid House, and his testimony was substantially as follows:

"Saw Stith and prisoner coming up China street; first noticed them at the corner of Mulberry. Appeared to be going peaceably, although Johnson was staggering as if drunk. Had seen Stith go up with other prisoners during the day, and remarked to some one else in the kitchen, 'Stith's got a white man this time, drunk and disorderly,' watched them go on up the street. When they reached the rear of Baer's store building, Johnson drew the knife on the sly and stabbed Stith, who then fired; did not seem to strike Johnson. Stith then jumped into the street, staggering as if badly injured. Johnson ran at the knife as if to throw it, when Stith fired again, and Johnson fell. Stith fell down to where Stith lay. Was probably fifteen minutes before a doctor got there. Johnson died before a doctor came. Heard no words between them."

Dennis Ryan, F. W. Little and Henry C. Barrett, the latter colored, in their testimony, did not differ materially from Smith.

The witnesses were then discharged, and the jury, consisting of J. Martin, J. Pfeffer, Ben Holland, Jerry McKenna, G. B. Genasci and G. R. Moguin, brought in a verdict the substance of which as follows:

That Harry J. Johnson came to his death by a pistol shot from a pistol in the hands of Harry Stith.

That Harry Stith came to his death by a knife wound inflicted by a knife in the hands of Harry J. Johnson.

The verdict also at first stated that Stith had fired in self-defanse, but the Coroner refused to approve that part of it, and it was stricken out.

The weapon used by Stith is an old-fashioned five-shot Colt revolver, with an ivory handle, and is the property of Officer Carrington. The bowieknife used by Johnson appears to be nearly new, and was carried in a brass sheath. When examined by a Post reporter at Justice Loewenberg's office this morning, it was still stained with the blood of its victim.

This is another warning of the danger of carrying concealed weapons. A more rigid enforcement of the law in regard to this matter would greatly lessen the frequency of such and affairs, and have a great influence in the molding of Vicksburg's reputation as a law-abiding city.

A Brilliant Alliance.

Hon. T. C. Catchings, and M. Dabney, have formed a law partnership, the style of the firm being Catchings & Dabney, Vicksburg, Miss. This is one of the most brilliant alliances in the State, and the Hill City will be proud of the accession to its legal ranks of the gifted lawyer and polished gentleman, M. Dabney, Esq. As a lawyer, Mr. Catchings has no superior in the State.—New Mississipian.

FROM JACKSON.

The Railroad Bill Undergoing Discussion in the Senate.

Joint Resolutions Rejected—The Levee Board Law Approved.

An Adjournment Resolution.

Senate.

JACKSON, MISS., Feb. 29.—The railroad bill is up, and being hotly discussed. The impression prevails that a vote will not be taken on its final passage to-day.

House.

A Joint Resolution for submitting to the people a Constitutional Amendment providing for the regulation of charges of common carriers, was rejected on its first reading.

A joint resolution in relation to taxation of property, was rejected.

A joint resolution in relation to special taxation, was also rejected.

The Governor has approved the Act creating a Board of Levee Commissioners.

A resolution to adjourn March 8th, lies over.

MARKET REPORTS.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 20.—Spots dull; nothing doing; Uplands 5¼d; Orleans 6d.

NEW YORK, Feb. 29, noon.—Spots quiet. Middling, 10¼.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 29, noon.—Cotton quiet. Middling, 10¼.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 29.—Markets dull; Meal, $2.85; Clear ribs, 9.40; Pork, $18; Lard, 9.20.

Condition of the Rivers.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Feb. 28.—The rivers have fallen seven inches at Cairo, three inches at St. Louis, two inches at Shreveport, five inches at Fort Smith, about three feet at Cincinnati and Louisville, and one foot at Nashville. The river is stationary at Memphis.

The Lower Mississippi will continue to rise, and all other rivers will fall.

Railroad Accident.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 29.—The mail train leaving New Orleans yesterday evening on the Illinois Central road, was wrecked north of Jackson, Miss. It is not known yet if any one but the engineer was injured.

New Orleans River Report.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Feb. 29.—The weather is clear and cold.

Business is dull.

Leaving this evening: C. P. Chouteau for Memphis; Helena for Memphis; Henry Frank for Memphis; City of Yazoo for Vicksburg; Henry Lourey for St. Louis.

Memphis River Report.

MEMPHIS, TENN., Feb. 29.—The river is stationary.

The Arkansas City, passed down at noon.

Interstate Commerce.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Committee on Commerce have agreed on the outlines of a bill to regulate interstate commerce, which will probably be soon reported. The bill prohibits discriminations in freights, and also prohibits pooling, as tending to destroy a competition in the interest of the public. The features of the Reagan bill, providing that no greater charge shall be made for a shorter than for a longer distance is stricken out. The feature of qui tam action is left out, much to Judge Reagan's dissatisfaction. Remedies are furnished to aggrieved parties, both in the Federal and State courts, although there was much doubt expressed whether Congress could create a penalty to be recovered in a State court.

A commission is created by the bill who may hear and examine complaints, report them to the railroads for correction, and if remedies are not provided by them may bring suit in their behalf. The Commission may also issue subpœnas and papers.

They are also required to procure and furnish data showing the operation of the railroad system of the United States. There is a bare possibility the Committee may recede, but this is their present position.

Presidential Favorites.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—A Republican newspaper has been canvassing some 409 counties in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois in regard to the Republican choice for President and Vice-President. The total result shows Blaine is first choice for President in 161 counties, Logan in 95, Sherman in 56, Gen. Harrison and President Arthur in 29, John Sherman and Postmaster-General Gresham in Harrison in 7, Lincoln in 5, Foster and Chittenden in 3, Washburne, Hale, Miller and Evarts each in 1. It is observed that these reports can be manufactured to suit the men and views of any one.

Sherman.

The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette says Sherman is the man of destiny. Sherman and the editor of that paper seem to think alike on the Presidential question, and we agree with them in determining which is the best man for the Republican party to nominate.

NO DYNAMITE FOR HIM.

An Irish Member of Parliament on a Brooklyn Stage.

He Tells the Influential Irish-Americans of that City What Can be Done for their Native Land.

A smooth-faced young man with clear, flashing eyes, high forehead, aquiline nose, and intellectual cast of countenance, stood upon the stage of Haverly's Theater in Brooklyn, last evening, pleading for "the cause of old Ireland." The speaker was John G. Redmond, Member of Parliament from New Ross, Ireland, and an Irish patriot who suffered imprisonment for speaking his opinion too freely.

Mr. Redmond and his brother W. K., Member of Parliament from the city of Wexford, were present as guests of the Brooklyn branches of the Irish National League. Upon the stage were members of the Philo-Celtic Society, and representatives of various Irish societies. Scattered through the audience, which numbered about 2,000 persons, were prominent Irish Nationalists, among the number the Hon. John Delmar, Judge Andrew Walsh, Judge John Courtney, ex-Warden Slevin, Assessor Martin Breen, Major Thomas Clark, Capt. Edward Bagnal, Thomas Cusain, Philip Clune, of the Hibernian Brotherhood, Thomas Dennehey, and Ex-Charities Commissioner Cunningham.

The Philo-Celtic Society sang "O'Donnell Aboo" in Irish to the accompaniment of a harp and violins. The song sounded quite as well as it would have in Italian. When the rapturous applause which greeted the singing was over Mr. John Rooney introduced Mr. Redmond. The speaker of the evening wore a swallow-tail coat, dark clothes, black tie, and spoke with the accent of a man who had been born on American soil.

There were several dynamiters in the audience, and Mr. Redmond did not speak to their satisfaction. In the course of his remarks the speaker said that he and his brother were the two youngest supporters of Parnell in Parliament, and that they had been absent from Parliament two years pleading the claims of their countrymen before the English speaking world.

"Bloodshed and robbery have been the lot of Ireland," said Mr. Redmond, in a ringing voice. "The land is in the hands of 12,000 men backed by bayonets. But our proud boast is that Ireland is not conquered, the silence of death has not yet fallen upon her." (Wild applause).

Referring to expressions of discontent made concerning Parnell's failure to adopt a more aggressive policy, Mr. Redmond said: "Mr. Parnell and every man who fights under his banner are quite prepared to take up as aggressive a policy as circumstances will allow, or the people are prepared for. [Applause.] Under Parnell his followers are afraid of nothing, and if we do not step down from the platform, sword in hand, to do battle on the green hillsides of Ireland, as our forefathers did in the years gone by, it is because such measures would prove ineffective at the present time. If liberty is to be won, Ireland's blood, her energy and treasure should be guarded, and none of it frittered away in impracticable methods. I do not hold with Irishmen who talk in a loud mouthed manner about having revenge on the bloody Saxons. No man hates England more than I do. (Applause). Some have more cause to, although I have been in English jails, with English chains upon my hands. When the time comes I may not be in the last ranks of those who seek revenge. But we are powerless now; we are chained, and lie bleeding upon the ground. In Ireland there are thousands who would be only too glad to bayonet us to death. It is ridiculous to talk of revenge now; an attempt to seek it would make us the laughing stock of the world. Our duty is first to place Ireland upon her feet, and every shilling and penny and energy that can be directed to that end should not be held back. Under the leadership of Parnell we shall gain what we are now struggling for."—N. Y. Journal.

A Compliment.

THE VICKSBURG Post seems to think the Captain murder case will figure largely in the coming election in the South.—Memphis Avalanche. It does not think any other question will enter into the election. Why should it? The Democratic party is the party of the South, and the only party which can be entrusted with the management of the affairs of the South. Democratic success is assured, and the only question to be settled is who shall be the Democratic candidates.—Memphis Appeal.

A Sad Case.

A State Female College.

We heartily endorse the views expressed by Messrs. Annie C. Peyton, of Hazlehurst, in a communication published in the Clarion of the 9th inst., in advocacy of a State Female College. We have ever since the war been a stalwart advocate of the policy of extending equal facilities to the races who dwell side by side in Mississippi, in all matters pertaining to educational advancement, and demanded for them both free schools—separate of course—from the first Legislature that assembled at Jackson after the surrender, and now that our girls appeal to the law-makers for such higher educational provision as has long been accorded to the boys, we hope the Legislature will grant it. We cannot see why the boys of Mississippi should be given free collegiate advantages at public expense, while the girls who aspire to mount above the rudiments are forced to pay their own way up the higher rounds.

To be sure the doors of the State University and Agricultural College have by section of the Trustees been thrown open to girls, but then many parents are averse to the system of "co-education of the sexes," and in addition to this objection it must be apparent to all that the courses of study and school regimen best suited to the young men who attend the University is not exactly adapted to the other sex, and, in the language of Mrs. Peyton, "it does not furnish training in practical pursuits whereby women may earn a livelihood."

It is not necessary in the practical inauguration of the scheme that the State shall incur large outlay for the erection number of excellent college buildings are available that could be leased for a term of four or five years at moderate rental—if we are not mistaken such a building can be obtained upon reasonable terms in our neighboring city, Columbus, and if the State entered upon the experiment in this way, merely providing for the rent of the building, the employment of the teachers, furnishing the school rooms etc., the scheme would be afforded a fair trial until the next meeting of the Legislature.

If we had such an institution, the several counties would of course be entitled to representation in its advantages in proportion to population, scholarships could be granted as prizes to the girls in the common schools, or given as prizes in competitive examinations.

The experiment ought to be tried. Give the girls a fair chance in the struggle for education's highest honors.—Aberdeen Examiner.

THE brutal negro Rugg has become a popular hero. Hundreds flock to see him and hang upon his words. Silly women send him flowers, and some are even so foolish as to send him needle and broidering smoking-caps and slippers for his use. No censure can be too severe to apply to such maudlin and criminal sentimentality. A better encouragement to violence and crime on the part of cranks or rascals now at large could not be devised. If decent public sentiment cannot restrain these fools, Rugg should be placed in close confinement. —N. Y. Star.

DAKOTA wants to come into the Union as a State this session of Congress. There will be two more Senators to take the place of Mahone and Riddleberger if it is admitted, and the Republicans are pressing hard for it.

CHARTER OF INCORPORATION OF THE
Riverview Manufacturing, Preserving and Canning Company.

Section 1. Let it be known, That John Bogle, Joseph Billits, and such other persons as may hereafter become associated with them, and their successors and assigns be and they are hereby created a body politic and corporate, under the name and style of "The Riverview Manufacturing, Preserving and Canning Company," and by that name shall have perpetual succession, may sue and be sued, in all Courts of law and equity, may create and fix the compensation of officers and agents, and may change the same and make such rules, by laws and regulations for the management of their business and property, as they may choose, not inconsistent with the laws of this State.

Sec. 2. All the rights, powers, and privileges allowed by Chapter 28 of the Revised Code of Mississippi, and all laws amendatory thereof, are hereby granted to, and conferred upon this corporation.

Sec. 3. The capital stock of this company shall be fifty thousand dollars, divided into shares of fifty dollars each, and when the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars shall have been subscribed, they may organize and commence business; and no stockholder shall be liable for any more debt of the corporation beyond the amount of the stock he shall subscribe.

Sec. 4. This company shall have power to manufacture Cider, Vinegar, Pickles, and all other things of a kindred character, and preserve fruits, tomatoes and vegetables of every kind and description and such other things as may be requisite and necessary for the proper marketing of such goods, and shall have the right to own real and personal property, to buy and sell and convey the same, and shall have power to issue bills of exchange, bonds, and any other evidences of debt, and to secure the same by mortgage or deed of trust upon its real and personal property, and generally shall have such powers as are necessary and incidental to the business of the company, and successful management of the same.

Sec. 5. Each share of fifty dollars shall be entitled to one vote, and the business of said stock Board of Directors to consist of not less than three nor more than five members, who shall be elected annually by the stockholders, and shall hold their offices for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified. Said Board of Directors shall elect one of their number President, and shall appoint a Secretary and Treasurer, who may be one person, and may be a member of the Board of Directors.

Sec. 6. This charter shall take effect from and after its passage.

PASSED FEBRUARY 26TH, 1884.

The foregoing is a true copy of the original Charter of the Riverview Manufacturing, Preserving and Canning Company, as filed in the office of the Secretary of State.

S. & C. HERRICK, Secretary of State.

THE EVENING POST
PUBLISHED BY
J. G. CARMAN & CO.,
Washington St., Vicksburg, Miss.

The Evening Post.

VICKSBURG, MISS., FEB. 29, 1884.

W. E. B. WHEELER, who killed Print Matthews, has resigned his position as Colonel of Hazlehurst.—Brandon Republican.

COL. DUDLEY, Commissioner of Pensions, has authorized his friends to announce him as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Indiana.

HON. WM. HUNT, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States at St. Petersburg, Russia, died in that city last Wednesday, from dropsy superinduced by chronic inflammation of the liver.

THE Brandon Republican is opposed to the removal of the capital to Meridian. It says:

"The people of the State have not asked for a removal of the Capitol—they don't want it removed from the centre to one side of the State, even if the removal would cost them nothing. To move all, or to rebuild all of the State buildings at Meridian would cost the State more than two millions of dollars, and all to come out of our pockets of our impoverished people, who are now groaning beneath a load of mortgages, deeds of trust and other evidences of debt that is crushing the life out of them. Away with such schemes—such nonsense—such stupidity—such spite work."

THE most cheering intelligence received from the Legislature since it assembled in Jackson was that contained in our dispatches of yesterday of the determination of the members to bring the session to an early close. This is certainly the wisest proposition that has emanated from that distinguished body, and it is to be fervently hoped that they will depart from their heretofore unviolated rule and carry the resolution into effect.

At no period since the accession of the Democratic party to the control of the State government have the different interests of Mississippi been in a condition so susceptible to improvement by judicious and wise legislation as at the present time. At no period has the spirit of progressive enterprise been so buoyant and sanguine, and our different institutions better prepared to step forward on a prosperous march of improvement. No Legislature ever convened in Jackson at a more opportune time for the display of statesmanship, or at a period as ripe for measures of universal and permanent benefit. The history of the session will show how the opportunity has been ignored and how the golden moments have been squandered on petty schemes and trifles, mainly in the interest of the future career of beat politicians. If the Legislature has passed a single measure capable of any general benefit to the State, or even one ostensibly for that end, we cannot recall it. We believe it a safe assertion that the least sanguining our city to contract for the Meridian & Vicksburg railroad shops is of greater importance, and capable of results of more general good to the State than any other measure the Legislature has yet produced. Between the "log-rollings" for local schemes, "investigations" that come to nothing, "visiting committees", the general result of whose labors is a dead expense to the State, and large and small talk on various unprofitable subjects, the time has been thrown away.

Nothing short of a miraculous change in the general methods and tendencies of the Assembly will make an adjournment anything but a most desirable act. Let it take place at once.

We suggest that the Legislature invite Senator Frye of Maine, one of the leading lights of protection, [illegible] who is now in New Orleans with the sub-committee investigating the Captain outrages, to deliver an address to them upon the "tariff question" before he returns to Washington.—Vicksburg Post.

We move to lay this suggestion on the table, for the simple reason that we believe the members of our Legislature know the wants and wishes of our people better than the small Frye politician from the puritanic State of Maine."—Brandon Republican.

To the same issue of the Republican we find the following severe criticism upon the Legislature, and we now ask that Republicans if a speech from an able Democrat like Mr. Frye is not sadly needed by the Legislature, according to its own showing. Senator Hoar is also the man to give our legislators a great deal of good advice and valuable information. We suggest that he also be invited to address them:

The Legislature has been in session two months, and talks of adjourning in a few days. The fact is the session bill was passed by the Governor's veto, and not because it was unconstitutional or because we now reproach ourselves for it. About one hundred and fifty members were sent to the Legislature to represent the people of Mississippi. Among them were lawyers, doctors, merchants, farmers, mechanics, and men of every calling in life. Many of them were men of ability, and all of them were honest men. Their constituents sent them to the Capital to represent their interests, and to do their duty to the State. They were not sent there to waste their time in idleness, to play cards, to tell stories, to drink whisky, to lounge around the hotels, to spend their days in the barber shops, or to do anything else that would bring reproach upon the State. They were sent there to do the business of the State, and to do it in a business like way. Many of them have done their duty, but a majority of them have not done it. They have wasted their time, and have done but little business. They have passed but few laws, and those few laws are not of any importance. They have not passed a single law that was demanded by the people. They have not passed a single law that was necessary for the protection of the people. They have not passed a single law that was necessary for the development of the resources of the State. They have not passed a single law that was necessary for the protection of the rights of the people. They have not passed a single law that was necessary for the protection of the rights of the people. They have not passed a single law that was necessary for the protection of the rights of the people
