Treatment of Japanese in California,
No. 240. Mattheburg, Mississippi June 9, 1907.
L. Van Bergen.
Before to the recent Japanese troubles in San Francisco and others, for possible use by the Department, that in the early summer of 1893, upon the conclusion of peace between China and Japan, a procession took place in Kobe, then its members attacked and demolished the American Resident's house. The act was without the slightest provocation. Further states that if desired he can call attention to numerous unprovoked assaults upon American citizens, which are in the Department.
